PRESIDENT URGES WARBURG AS MEMBER OF RESERVE BOARD

He Issues Statement Also Supporting Thomas D. Jones.

Says Big Business Interests Do Not Necessitate Wrongdoing.

Ability and Character Should Be Recognized, He Declares.

Washington, July 8.—Declaring it would be unfair to regard the Democratic party as the enemy of big or little business, President Wilson today gave out a statement in support of Paul Warburg of New York and Thomas D. Jones of Chicago, his nominees for the Federal reserve board.

President Wilson's statement follows:

"It would be particularly unfair to the Democratic party and to the senate itself to regard it as the enemy of business, big or little. I am sure that it does not regard a man as an object of suspicion merely because he has been connected with great business enterprises. It knows that the business of the country has been chiefly promoted in recent years by enterprises organized on a great scale, and that the vast majority of the men connected with what we have come to call big business are honest, incorruptible and patriotic.

Men to Be Honored.

"The country may be certain that it is clear to members of the senate, as it is clear to all thoughtful men, that those who have tried to make big business what it ought to be are the men to be encouraged and honored, whenever they respond without reserve to the call of public service.

"I predict with the greatest confi-

BEATEN FOR TALK OF RETURNING TO WORK

Westinghouse Striker Says His Words Were Jocular.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 8.—Stanley Flalek, formerly employed in one of the Westinghouse factories, last night told some of his friends, jokingly, he afterward declared, that he was going back to work today. Soon after midnight he was rescued by the crew of a street car from three men in Braddock avenue, who had beaten him into insensibility. Two arrests were made and deputy sheriffs and state troopers were looking for the third assailant.

There was no change in the situation in the strike district. Again state troopers and strike pickets worked side by side in the streets, and company officers said they had more men in the shops than at any time since the strike was called. Pickets intercepted a number of men brought from Cleveland and induced them to return, paying their way. The general strike committee prepared another offer of settlement for presentation to E. M. Herr, president of the electric company, when he returned from New York.

First Daylight Disorder.

Intense excitement followed the first daylight disorder of the strike when William Strang, a foreman in the electric works, was stopped by a crowd of men as he approached the shop by an obscure path. His skull was fractured by a brick and he was otherwise injured. State troops were hurried to the place and three arrests were made. Capt. Adams immediately widened his lines and mounted troopers throughout the morning were patrolling every street leading to the different plants.

ANIMAL TRAINER IS KILLED BY LIONS

Capt. Lorenzo Dies of Injuries—Made Brave Fight.

Mount Clemens, Mich., July 8.—Capt. Jacob Lorenzo of Philadelphia, an animal trainer, died here today as the result of an attack made on him Monday by two young lions. Lorenzo only saved himself from instant death by forcing an iron bar down the throat of one of the animals.

The lions were owned by a street carnival company. It is said they had not been fed for several hours and were mad with hunger when they attacked Lorenzo.

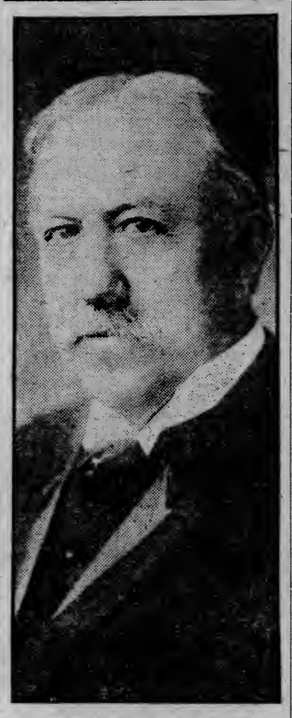

BOOZE MAY SPLIT IOWA BULL MOOSE

Hot Fight Over Prohibition Is Promised in Convention.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 8.—The prohibition question promised to develop a vigorous contest in the Progressive state convention here today, with both the "wet" and "dry" leaders claiming victory before the formal opening of the session. Conferences which lasted late into the night broke up without solution of the problem. Indications, however, were that a resolution indorsing submission of prohibitory amendments to both state and Federal Constitutions would be presented.

It was expected that the real business of the convention, the platform, would not be reached until late this afternoon, early indications being that this document would not be put into final form until the last moment.

DR. DAVID STARR JORDAN.

PEACE RULES IN THE N. E. A.

Dr. D. S. Jordan Is Finally Agreed Upon for President.

Sage, Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations Are Attacked.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—With harmony in the ranks of the National Education association assured as a result of the withdrawal from the presidential race last night of Dr. David B. Johnson of Rock Hill, S. C., and L. R. Alderman of Portland, Or., in favor of Dr. David Starr Jordan, the convention today put aside all political activity and held thirty-two different meetings at which every question pertaining to the present day system of education was taken up.

That Dr. Jordan, whose selection for the presidency was assured by the withdrawal of Dr. Johnson, will be unanimously elected at the annual business session tomorrow, was made certain by the elimination of Mr. Alderman. Supporters of the Oregon man issued a statement late last night, shortly after Dr. Johnson had made known his retirement from the contest, announcing they had, "at the urgent request of Mr. Alderman, withdrawn his name and have united with others in making unanimous the choice of Dr. Jordan."

Several committees submitted reports to their various departments today, and speakers discussed salaries, mental tests for children, school gardens, use of moving pictures in schools,

SLEEP WALKER IS KILLED IN FALL

Retired Marine Corps Officer Tumbles Over Balustrade.

Washington, July 8.—Col. Frank L. Denny, retired, of the marine corps, was almost instantly killed early today when he fell over a balustrade in his home to the floor below. The report to the police said he was walking in his sleep.

Col. Denny's family believe he was seized with an attack of vertigo to which he was subject. His head struck a marble top table on the lower floor of his house, crushing his skull. When a physician arrived he was beyond help. The colonel's daughter, awakened by the crash, found her father dying where he had fallen. The coroner gave a certificate of accidental death.

Was in Marine Corps Row.

Col. Denny was one of the storm centers in a row in the marine corps three years ago, in which it was charged that a number of staff officers in Washington were controlling the corps. Former Secretary Meyer of the navy department, after an investigation, ordered all the officers concerned to distant posts, sending Col. Denny to San Francisco. Early in his administration President Wilson returned all to Washington.

Col. Denny was prominent in the social and club life of the capital.

SEE FATHER KILL MOTHER

Seven Crosby, Minn., Children Witness Act in Early Morning.

Policeman, Answering Her Screams, Lets Man Pass Him in Street.

Crosby, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—While their seven children looked on, Mrs. Vallancourt, a boarding-house keeper, aged 37, wife of Eli Vallancourt, a laborer, was murdered in her home here about 3 o'clock this morning by having her throat cut by her husband, according to the police. The alleged murderer escaped and is now being sought. He is said to have been drinking.

The couple have not been living together lately because of various differences, but the husband returned from Cloquet, where he has been working, the night of July 3. They renewed their bickerings, and their children say Vallancourt repeated old threats to kill the woman. His threats became known to the police, and Night Officer Otto Bjork made it a point last night and early this morning to frequently pass the house.

Officer Heard Screams.

Hearing screams about 3 o'clock this morning, he ran towards the house. He passed a man hurrying from the place, and now believes the man was Vallancourt. The officer rushed inside and found the children screaming about their mother's body. The woman lay on the floor dead, with her throat cut from ear to ear. She had been killed either with a razor or a penknife.

Officer Bjork notified the marshal and other police, and search for Vallancourt was started. An effort has been made to shut off all avenues of escape, and it is believed he will be taken before many hours. The coroner at the inquest will try to find some motive for the crime.

Threatened His Wife.

The children say their father, on returning from Cloquet July 3, resumed his quarreling with their mother, and several times made threats against her life. Yesterday he became unusually abusive. The sheriff of Crow Wing county has been notified and so have officers at Duluth, Superior, Cloquet and other points. It is not believed Vallancourt can escape.

SEEK ABOLITION OF TAX ON MORTGAGES

Real Estate Exchange Officers Will Launch Plan at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 8.—The abolition of taxes on mortgages and the establishment of an interest rate not to exceed 5 per cent, through the co-operation of the several states was one of the projects officers of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges of America expected to launch during their seventh annual convention, which opened here today. Secretary Albert G. Clark of Cleveland, was here to receive President C. L. Simpson of Kansas City and many of the 1,200 delegates who arrived last night and early today.

Approximately 100 cities in the United States and Canada are represented. The convention will adjourn July 11

Stone Asks Renomination.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 8.—Senator W. J. Stone of Missouri, in a signed statement, today asks the Democrats of Missouri to renominate him at the approaching August primary.

TRY TO BURN BURNS HOUSE

Suffragettes Caught Putting Bombs at Doors and Windows.

Mrs. Pankhurst Arrested Again—Wild Scene in Courtroom.

Glasgow, Scotland, July 8.—An attempt to destroy the cottage at Ayr where Robert Burns, the poet, was born Jan. 25, 1759, was made just before daylight today by two members of a militant suffragette "arson squad." The two women were surprised by a night watchman as they were placing large bombs against the doors and windows of the poet's birthplace. The man captured one of the militants. The other escaped.

The women wore stockings over their shoes in order to deaden the nise and hide their footprints.

The arrested woman gave her name as Janet Arthur. She created a scene when arraigned at the police court, fighting the wardens and shouting quotations from Burns' poems. She was remanded.

Mrs. Pankhurst Arrested.

London, July 8.—The brief respite in the militant suffragette agitation ended today when Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst resumed command of the forces of the Woman's Social and Political union at their London quarters. Mrs. Pankhurst, who occupied the offices at noon, was, however, permitted to remain in active command of the militants for only a very brief period. When she emerged from her headquarters to go to lunch the police pounced on her and took her to Holloway jail.

Simultaneously with the reappearance of Mrs. Pankhurst, a violent

HOPE TO AVOID LONG NEW HAVEN ACTION

Administration Not Discouraged By Legislative Adjournment.

Washington, July 8.—Although the department of justice is preparing to go ahead and file its long planned anti-trust suit for the dissolution of the New Haven railroad system, Attorney General McReynolds is still hopeful of a settlement without a prolonged fight in the courts.

As was announced some time ago, President Wilson and the attorney general agreed that the suit should be filed this month unless the Massachusetts legislature and the executive committee of the railroad agreed on certain legislation necessary for disposing of some of the stocks which the government contends are being held in violation of law. The attorney general had agreed to withhold the suit until July 15.

Legislature Adjourned.

The Massachusetts legislature adjourned yesterday without taking the necessary action.

Administration officials pin their faith of a settlement without a long fight on the fact that a new legislature comes into existence on Jan. 1. Under ordinary procedure a suit filed this month would not proceed very far by that time, and could be halted whenever the necessary legislation for a peaceful settlement was enacted. The fact that a bill may be filed this month comes as no surprise to administration officials. That has been their announced plan all along in the present circumstances.

NEW CROP REPORT IS BEST YET

Adds 30,000,000 Bushels to Wheat Output Already Predicted.

Corn Condition Is 1 Per Cent Better Than 10-Year Average.

Washington, July 8.—Thirty million bushels of wheat were added to the prospects of the crop during June by excellent weather conditions, making the forecast of the crop as announced today by the department of agriculture, 936,000,000 bushels, a new record.

The acreage planted to corn this year was only slightly less than that of last year, while the condition of that crop was 1 per cent better than the ten-year July 1 average condition, making the prospects good for a crop estimated by the department at 2,868,000,000 bushels. That would be better than the average for the last five years.

A 200,000,000-pound decrease in the tobacco crop is indicated, a total crop of 733,000,000 pounds being estimated.

Details of the acreage, condition on July 1, indicated acre yield and total production, interpreted from condition reports, of the various crops, follow:

Winter wheat—Area planted, 35,387,000 acres, compared with 31,699,000 acres last year. Condition, 94.1 per cent of a normal, compared with 92.7

ANOTHER DEATH OF PLAGUE IS RECORDED

Health Officials Increase Activity in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., July 8.—Dr. William C. Rucker, assistant surgeon general of the public health service, today opened headquarters here preparatory to conducting a still more active campaign for the eradication of bubonic plague.

An effort was being made today to trace the movements prior to July 2 of John Jackson, a 9-year-old negro boy who died from plague on that day. The purpose was to ascertain if a second focus of infection exists.

Although bacteriologists confirmed the suspicion that Jackson's death was due to plague, health authorities declared today that the situation was not alarming and that they soon expected to thoroughly stamp out the contagion.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER OF MRS. L[illegible] BAILEY

MRS. EDWIN CARMAN,
Wife of Dr. Carman, Whose Office Mrs. Bailey Was Leaving When She Was Shot on the Evening of June 30.

STAMPEDE TO PETRAS TRIAL

Crowd of 1,000 Fights for Space That Holds Only 400.

Women Bring Lunches and Fancy Work to Pass Time.

Geneva, Ill., July 8.—Men and women who came from all over Kane county in automobiles and buggies and wagons, on street cars, trains and on foot, fought to get into the circuit court room today to hear the final arguments in the trial of Anthony Petras for the murder of Theresa Hollander in St. Nicholas cemetery, Aurora.

The courtroom holds only 400 persons, and 1,000 struggled to gain an entrance. Deputy sheriffs and bailiffs had a tremendous task to prevent women from being crushed under foot.

At 5 o'clock this morning persons who had come to see the final act in the courtroom dramas were loitering outside the courthouse. By 7 o'clock, when the doors opened, hundreds who had congregated stampeded into the building and quickly filled the courtroom.

Lunches and Fancy Work.

Women came with lunches and fancy work to while away the time, as they dared not leave their seats, while hundreds waited outside the door for a seat. Court convened at 10 o'clock.

Closing arguments began yesterday. Referring to Petras' contradiction of several important state's witnesses, State's Attorney Tyers said: "All these people were not untruthful and Petras the only honest man."

Petras testified, the prosecutor said, that he went home with the Hollander girl on the night of the murder. Petras helped her off a street car, but rode a block farther himself, and then chased back after her, the state's attorney said. He intended then to establish an alibi for the attack on the girl, Mr. Tyers asserted.

Speaking for the defense, Charles Hazlehurst asserted that when the police were unable to learn who the murderer was they decided to build a case against Petras.

MASTER PLUMBERS' OFFICER ARRAIGNED.

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 8.—Louis Sonntag, secretary of the Wisconsin Association of Master Plumbers and indicted by a Federal grand jury in Iowa on charges of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, was arraigned before United States Court Commissioner Roy L. Morse here today and bound over for trial in the Federal court at Des Moines under bonds of $3,000.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Debate was resumed on the sundry civil appropriation bill.

The Alaskan railroad license law was repealed and a new income tax was enacted for those lines.

An appropriation of $500,000 for expenses of a Federal exhibit at the San Francisco exposition was passed.

Acting Chairman Hitchcock of the banking committee issued a statement explaining why the committee wanted to question Paul M. Warburg, nominee for the Federal reserve board.

HOUSE.

Bills under the calendar Wednesday rule were considered.

The senate resolution empowering the president to invite foreign delegates to the home education congress in Philadelphia in September was adopted.

Representative Cantor of New York proposed a constitutional amendment to permit the president to veto any portion of an appropriation bill.

DECLARES HE WAS PASSING CARMAN HOME

Heard Shot and Saw Woman Run From Office Window.

Mrs. Carman's Installing of Phone Device Is Recounted.

Philadelphian's Story of Threat Not Wholly Believed.

Freeport, N. Y., July 8.—Mrs. Edwin Carman was arrested this afternoon in connection with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey.

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Bailey, mysteriously murdered on the night of Tuesday, June 30, in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, a practicing physician of this village, was closed shortly before noon today. No verdict was announced, but one was expected later in the day.

The district attorney informed the coroner after the inquest that he believed a woman should immediately be arrested and held for the murder. The coroner answered that he would review the testimony taken at today's inquest, and might order an arrest before night.

Saw Woman at Window.

Ellewood Bardes, a new witness, testified just before the hearing closed that he had seen a woman he was unable to identify, running away from the doctor's office shortly after the shot which killed Mrs. Bailey was fired. She wore a dark skirt and white shirtwaist.

Witnesses testifying at previous sessions of the inquest swore that Mrs. Carman was thus garbed on the night of the murder. She has maintained, however, that she was dressed in a kimona and in her bedroom. In this contention Mrs. Carman was borne out on the stand today by her young daughter, Elizabeth.

The grand jury will begin its investigation of Mrs. Bailey's murder on

ADMITS MURDERING FOUR-YEAR-OLD GIRL

Chicago Man Confesses on Finding Actions Were Seen.

Chicago, July 8.—Boswell C. F. Smith, a pickle salesman, confessed today to the murder of 4-year-old Hazel Weinstein last night. The child died after being lured into an alley and assaulted.

Smith, unaware that some of his actions in the alley back of the shop kept by the girl's parents had been observed, carried the body into the store, explaining that he had found it.

"See, this was in her mouth," he said, exhibiting a gag on which the child had choked to death.

At this point the witnesses appeared and Smith was arrested.

THIRD TRIAL DENIED TO HAROLD HENWOOD

Denver Slayer Must Be Executed in Week of Oct. 25.

Denver, July 8.—Harold F. Henwood, under sentence of death for the killing of George E. Copeland, was denied a third trial today by the state supreme court. Copeland was fatally wounded the night of May 24, 1911, when Henwood shot Sylvester L. Von Phul, a St. Louis aeronaut, in the barroom of a local hotel.

The death sentence imposed by the lower court is affirmed and it is ordered to be carried out the week beginning Oct. 25, 1914.

The shooting created a sensation in Denver. Henwood and Von Phul had quarreled over letters written to Von Phul by Mrs. Isabelle Patterson Springer, then the wife of John W. Springer, a wealthy stockman and banker. Less than two weeks after the shooting Springer was given a divorce.

At the first trial Henwood was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. The supreme court granted a new trial which resulted in a first degree verdict.

LEEGSON MURDER TRIAL IS CALLED

Chicago, July 8.—Trial of Isaac Bond, a negro accused of the murder of Miss Ida G. Leegson, an art student whose body was found on the prairie outside the city last October, was scheduled for today in the criminal court. Miss Leegson was lured to a lonely spot by an advertisement. She was strangled by a slender silk cord.

MARINE NEWS

MORE VESSELS IN DEMAND SOON

Indications Point to Improved Shipping Conditions From This Port.

Yesterday was the busiest day of the season thus far in marine circles, for during the calendar day, almost eighty vessels passed in or out of the piers. While this may be a spurt in business, which has been quite dull up to date, it is believed that before very long business will pick up and remain at a brisker pace for the rest of the season. One vessel agent said this morning:

"I look for a decided increase in business in a very short time. Conditions have improved wonderfully within the past week. For instance, the demand for iron ore is apparently about to enjoy a decided increase. That will bring more boats into the trade; and with the approach of the new crop, which promises to be an excessive one, there will be a good demand. More boats are going into commission every day, and this will likely continue for some time."

The steamer Frank H. Peavey of the Tomlinson fleet, which has been tied up here for several weeks, left last night for Fort William to take on a cargo of grain. Another vessel of the same fleet, the Hart, is loading at the Consolidated.

SITUATION AT FORT WILLIAM.

Coal Still on Docks; Grain Loading Is Very Slow.

The bi-monthly letter of F. & W. Jones of Fort William, Ont., vessel agents and brokers, states, that almost all of the coal received at the Canadian Head of the Lakes is still on the docks. The situation, however, is not bad as vessels are getting good dispatch.

In regard to grain, the agents state that out of forty-seven boats taking grain cargoes from there in June only two were American bottom. Loading is slow. The stocks of grain at the opening of June totaled 8,501,463 bushels, receipts for the month amounted to 2,997,054 bushels and shipments to 5,484,650, leaving 6,013,867 bushels in the elevators July 1.

CONGESTION AT LOWER PORTS.

Delays Bound to Occur Unless Vessels Come Up Light.

Word has reached Duluth that all Lake Erie harbors are so congested that it will be some time before some of the unloading docks will be ready to work on current receipts. The coal docks will not be able to load out all of the waiting vessels for several days as the coal is not being received any faster than it has been. Unless some of the boats are sent light they will have to wait a week for cargoes.

Thick weather on Lake Superior Sunday and Monday delayed the fleet on the lake from fifteen to twenty-four hours. This will cause boats to arrive late and will increase the congestion at the docks the last of the week.

The extreme shortage of cargoes has caused owners whose connections are among the best to order boats into ordinary.

HIGHER THAN IN MAY.

Lake Superior Shows Greater Depth Than in Several Years.

According to the statement just issued by the United States lake survey, Lake Superior, in June, was higher by .16 foot than in May, .13 foot higher than a year ago, .19 foot above the average stage of June of the last ten years, .94 foot below the high stage of June, 1876, and 1.25 feet above the low stage of June, 1879. Average stages of the last ten years indicate that the July level will be .2 foot higher.

Lakes Michigan and Huron were .28 foot higher than May, .60 foot lower than a year ago, .47 foot below the average stage of June of the last ten years, 3 feet below the high stage of June, 1886, and .70 foot above the low stage of June, 1895. Average stages of the last ten years indicate that the July level will be .1 foot higher.

Lake Erie was .13 foot higher than May, .82 foot lower than a year ago, .02 foot above the average stage of June of the last ten years, 1.48 feet below the high stage of June, 1876, and 1.47 feet above the low stage of June, 1895. Average stages of the last ten years indicate that the July level will be .1 foot lower.

Lake Ontario was .04 foot lower than May, 1.11 feet lower than a year ago, .23 foot below the average stage of June of the last ten years, 1.72 feet below the high stage of June, 1870, and 2.02 feet above the low stage of June, 1895. Average stages of the last ten years indicate that the July level will be .1 foot lower.

The reports show the stages of the Great Lakes for June to have been as follows:

Lakes—	Feet above mean sea level.
Superior	602.49
Michigan-Huron	580.60
Erie	573.04
Ontario	246.91

SEEKING SALVAGE ON RECOVERED LOGS.

Ashland, Wis., July 8.—The United States marshal has attached, on behalf of Lake Superior boat company the raft of pulpwood which was lost last week in the big storm while it was being towed from Canada to this city. The raft was found in the lake by fishermen, who notified the Lake Superior Towing company. The company immediately sent out a tug and towed their raft to this city. The raft belonged to the Wisconsin Pulpwood association and was valued at about $40,000. The question has now arisen as to what share of the value of the logs the towing company is entitled to as salvage.

AN ODOROUS RUNAWAY

New Horse Objects to Being Hitched to Garbage Wagon.

Duluth has had many different kinds of runaways but it had its most odorous one yesterday afternoon. The team hauling the city garbage wagon ran away while coming down Fifth avenue west, leaving a trail which a blind deaf-mute would have had no difficulty in following.

One of the city's horses was sick yesterday morning and another was hired to replace it. The new horse chafed under the indignity which had been thrust upon him and finally began bucking so hard that the driver, E. Hahn, lost all control of him. When the team began to dash down the hill Hahn jumped to the road and escaped uninjured. The horses plunged across the sidewalk and over a retaining wall between Fourth and Fifth streets. The wagon was badly wrecked but the horses miraculously were unhurt. They were caught by the driver a few minutes later. When the new horse had succeeded in ridding himself of the garbage wagon which he so heartily detested he behaved very nicely. But no further effort was made to force him in front of another garbage cart.

The contents of the wrecked cart were very much in evidence in more ways than one. The health department officials sent another outfit to remove the noisy stuff scattered along the avenue, but it was impossible to entirely eliminate the disagreeable disturbance.

PLAYS GOLF ON HIS BIRTHDAY AT AGE OF 75

—Copyrighted by Edmondson.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

New York, July 8.—Although John D. Rockefeller is 75 years old today, no celebration is being held at his Pocantico Hills estate, where he is spending the summer. Mr. Rockefeller planned to follow his daily practice of playing his eighteen holes of golf.

There will be no birthday gathering, as Mrs. Rockefeller and her sister are in feeble health, and John D. Jr., is at Seal Harbor, Me.

Many congratulatory messages have already been received which pleased Mr. Rockefeller, although he said he wished the day might pass without publicity.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the Kelley-How-Thomson Co., brother Knights of Pythias, and the many friends, for the floral tributes, assistance and sympathy extended in our late bereavement, the death of H. N. Colvin, husband and father.

BRICK CHOSEN FOR PAVING

Duluth's Old Segregated District Is Becoming Wholesale Center.

Duluth's old segregated district will become a wholesale center.

South First avenue east between the N. P. railroad tracks and Buchanan street and Sutphin street between First avenue east and Lake avenue will be paved with brick on a concrete base with a concrete curb. Buchanan street may be paved at the same time but the work will be done without petition and paid for by the interests owning the property on both sides.

Some opposition to the improvement at this time developed, at the hearing conducted by Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, in the council chambers this morning. It came principally from small property owners who wished to have the work postponed for two or three years. The large property owners unanimously urged that the pavement be laid without delay. They pointed out that the street is in deplorable condition and is retarding the development of that district. John A. Stephenson stated that he had endeavored to induce several jobbing concerns to locate there and that while he had been successful in two instances the had been deterred because of the bad condition of the street.

The contract for the work will be awarded to D. H. Clough & Co., low bidders on all of the eight different specifications upon which figures were asked. The concrete curb will reduce the price about $4,000 but this will be lessened if the curb is protected. The cost of the job will be about $32,000.

CASES DISMISSED.

Pulpwood Dealers and Railroad Settle Differences Between Themselves.

From The Herald's Washington Bureau.

Washington, July 8.—As a result of an agreement between the shippers and the roads, the interstate commerce commission today dismissed the cases of the Curry & White company and Wahlstein & Sons against the Duluth & Iron Range railroad involving rates on pulpwood and pulp from Minnesota points through Duluth and Superior to Wisconsin and Michigan points.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

DEFIANCE HAS TROUBLE.

Tri-City Sloop Leaves Field to Her Two Rivals.

Newport, R. I., July 8.—The tri-city sloop Defiance developed trouble with her peak halyard blocks and was forced to leave today's cup yachts trial to her two rivals. A fine heavy weather test of the yachts was promised when the Resolute and the Vanitie reached the starting line, four miles southeast of Brenton's Reef lightship. A snappy fifteen-mile southwester swept across the course and the sea was covered with whitecaps. The course for today's race was a fifteen-mile thrash to windward and return, the yachts beating toward Block island in the first leg in a southwestern direction.

The yachts went over the line in the following order: Vanitie, 11:45:27; Resolute, 11:45:31.

Shortly after the start Resolute worked out to weather of her rival and took the lead from the Cochran craft.

Reds Get New Fielders.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 8.—President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati National league team, announced today that Infielder Derrick and Outfielder Twombley of the Baltimore International league team had been obtained by Cincinnati. He stated that Twombley would be tried out immediately but that Derrick would probably figure in a trade soon.

England Wins Doubles.

Folkestone, Eng., July 8.—England today won the doubles match against Belgium in the first preliminary round of the competition for the Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis trophy and this with their two successes in the singles matches yesterday, gave them the victory in the round.

INCAPACITATED.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "Well, sir," said the corpulent tramp, "I just stopped to see if you would help an unfortunate mortal along his way."

"I would be most happy to do so," replied the man who opened the door, speaking in courteous tones, "but I have an ingrowing toe nail on the toe of my right foot which makes it extremely sensitive."

Perceiving that he had called at the wrong address, the self-styled unfortunate moved on.

WEATHER—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday, probably showers; warmer.

GETS PATENT ON CONCRETE ROADS

Rights Will Be Bitterly Fought By Manufacturers of Cement.

City Engineer John Wilson has received a copy of a magazine printed for the cement trade containing an article stating that William L. Ficklen of New York has secured a patent from the Federal patent office covering the construction of concrete pavements.

The engineer said that the specifications are so broad that they cover practically every kind of concrete paving. The article in question states that the patent rights will be bitterly fought in the courts by the cement manufacturers and seriously doubts if the patent will be upheld.

A copy of a letter which is being sent by Ficklen's attorneys to cities and companies or individuals who have been constructing concrete roads is printed. The letter states that Ficklen will insist upon his rights, but is willing to make an agreement under which laying concrete roads can be continued. The city engineer did not doubt but what a similar letter would be received by Duluth officials. He said that it is too early to predict what the effect of the patent will be upon local conditions.

RAPS REALISTIC WRITERS.

New York Sun: President Wilson likes novels of an idealistic rather than a realistic trend.

At a reception in Washington a lady mentioned a realist who had just produced a shockingly depressing and unpleasant book.

"How would you define a realist?" some one asked, and the lady said:

"'A realist is a writer who is disgusted with the world.'

"Oh, no, not at all," smiled the president. "A realist is a writer with whom the world is disgusted."

BIG SUM TO CURB STREAM

City and County Will Spend $20,000 on Mission Creek.

Committee Will Determine Nature and Division of Work.

A sum of about $20,000 will be spent jointly by the city and county in quelling the rampages of Mission creek at Fond du Lac, during storms. At a joint meeting of the city commission and the county commissioners held at the courthouse yesterday afternoon this sum was decided on as the necessary outlay.

Mission creek has been the object of contention between the city officials and residents of the suburb for several years. Every time a heavy storm occurs residents along the banks claim to have sustained heavy damages from the floods caused by its overflow. A bridge constructed over the creek a few years ago has proved a dam for the gathering of refuse floated from the hillside and has blocked the progress of the water. This in turn would overflow the adjoining property.

The conference was attended by Mayor Prince, Commissioners Voss, Murchison and Hicken, City Attorney Clapp, the county commissioners and several residents of Fond du Lac. A committee consisting of County Commissioners Charles Kauppi, County Engineer Edward Coe, Commissioner Murchison and City Engineer Wilson was appointed to ascertain just what work must be done and what division of expense should be made.

While the creek runs through the city, it is claimed that the principal fall of water that causes its overflow comes from outside of the city limits and that therefore the county is largely responsible.

GOOSEBERRIES ARE PLENTIFUL

Raspberries and Blueberries Will Also Be Ripe Soon.

Old baskets are being rebuilt, pails burnished and polished, tin cans cleaned and handles put on all in preparation for making the annual raid on the woods for raspberries which will be ready for picking within another two or three weeks.

At present the gooseberry is in the height of its season and the wild strawberry on its last appearance.

Strawberries have not been as plentiful this year as has been reported, according to people who have searched the hillsides. The heavy rains, instead of making them larger and more plentiful appear to have had the effect of stunting their growth or drowning them out. The cold weather during June has also made them late.

This weather has had the contrary effect on the gooseberry and raspberry bushes. The former are now said to be extremely heavy in places and hundreds of housewives are getting large quantities of the fruit for jellies and preserves. The heaviest crop of gooseberries will be found, it is said, along the banks of some of the creeks and in marshes back of the hill.

Indications point to one of the largest crops of raspberries ever gathered around Duluth. The bushes are heavily laden and with a little warm weather during the next two or three weeks thousands of pickers will be able to gather all they can carry home. Blueberries will also be plentiful and be ready to pick shortly after Aug. 1.

THREE BOOKLETS ADVERTISE DULUTH

Commercial Club Sending Out Its Year Book and Weather Man's Pamphlet on Climate.

Information about Duluth is being scattered broadcast today through the agency of the Duluth Commercial club. This information is contained in three booklets published by the club, the list of which consists of "The Year Book," "Articles of Incorporation and By-Laws" of the Duluth Commercial club, and "The Climate of Duluth."

Refutes Erroneous Reports.

The last volume is perhaps of more interest than either of the others, and Assistant Secretary Geo. D. McCarthy has just mailed 50 of these volumes in cloth bindings to various schools, libraries and commercial bodies.

The object of this neat little volume is explained in an introduction by H. W. Richardson, local weather forecaster. Mr. Richardson says that the principal object of the book is to present the facts concerning the climate in the neighborhood of Duluth and to refute the erroneous impressions current in the minds of many, and to indicate in some slight measure the tremendous possibilities in agriculture and other lines of business in this part of the country. The district about the Head of the Lakes is called the "land of opportunity."

Mr. Richardson's admonition is: "Don't dwell on the exceptionally bad features of Duluth weather, but rather emphasize the fact that the average weather the year round is fine."

The year book is a neatly bound pamphlet of eighty pages containing matter of interest to citizens of the city, county and state. In addition to reports of all committees of the Commercial club, it contains an excellent gallery of pictures of the chairmen of leading committees and officers. Complete official reports also are given. It is doubtful if there is any prominent line of commercial activity that is not represented in this comprehensive book of reports.

All three of the books should be saved as reference in the homes or offices of all persons in Duluth, who wish to be well informed on the progress and development of the city and county.

DEPUTIES FAIL TO FIND "WILD" MAN.

Although ten deputies from the sheriff's office searched the woods in the vicinity of South Superior yesterday afternoon no trace of the "wild" man who has been reported seen on several occasions, was found. Sheriff Carlson again this morning sent a detail of men to the neighborhood where he was last seen. Who the man is puzzles the police because there is at present no report of any missing man in the city, and no recent escapes from the Douglas county insane hospital have been reported.

MAKES GOOD INCOME TRAPPING WOLVES.

Catching wolves is the principal occupation of Mr. White and this year he has nearly forty of the pelts to his credit. He brought in the pelts of eight wolves yesterday and received $80 bounty from the county and a similar sum in vouchers from the state.

P. O. CLERKS WILL GIVE BANQUET

Head of Association and Others Will Be Guests of Honor.

In honor of Frank T. Rogers of Chicago, president of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, who will visit here next Wednesday, the members of the Duluth branch will give a banquet in the evening at the Commercial club. William E. McEwen, who assumed the postmastership last week, and Enoch Nelson of Minneapolis, president of the Minnesota branch, will also be honor guests.

Mr. Rogers has never visited Duluth and the announcement that he will spend the day here next Wednesday has caused the local members of the association to prepare the banquet and a special program for his entertainment during his stay in the city. He is expected to arrive in the morning, and following a boulevard drive, will be the guest of the officers at luncheon at the Commercial club.

The banquet will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening and will be attended by about 100 members of the local branch and their wives. Bert Erickson, president of the Duluth branch of the national organization, will preside and addresses will be made by Mr. Rogers, Mr. Nelson and Mr. McEwen. A program of music will also be rendered.

Immediately following the banquet Mr. Rogers and Mr. Nelson will leave for Brainerd, where the annual convention of the state branch will be held on Thursday and Friday.

A. THOMSON ILL IN SOUTH

Father Sends Physician in Special Train and Follows in Another.

Patient Is Not Believed to Be in Any Grave Danger.

A. D. Thomson and Charles F. Haley of the A. D. Thomson company left last night for Raton, N. M., called there by the illness of Adam Thomson, only son of A. D. Thomson. The young man was reported as being very dangerously ill, and word came from Chicago this morning that Mr. Thomson had hired a special train to "make a race with death," the inference being that the young man was dying.

However, it seems that that phase of the story is decidedly exaggerated. Mr. Thomson, Jr., who was here up to two weeks ago, returned to his ranch at Raton at that time, and on Saturday was attacked with intestinal trouble, which, while distressing, is not believed to be serious. However, yesterday, on hearing that the patient was not much improved, and that his temperature was high, Mr. Thomson sent word to a physician in Chicago, in whom he has great faith, to proceed at once by special train to Raton and see that young Thomson received proper attention. Mr. Thomson and Mr. Haley left last evening, and this morning took another special out of Chicago for Raton. The fact that Mr. Thomson employed two special trains caused the Chicago newspapers to assume that his son was dying. His sending of a physician was merely a precautionary measure. It is not believed here that the young man is in any grave danger.

Chicago, July 8.—In an endeavor to reach the bedside of his son at Raton, N. M., A. D. Thomson, a millionaire mining man of Duluth, Minn., left here at 9:15 this morning on a special train of three cars.

Dr. Wilbur Post of this city was telegraphed to proceed to Raton and he accomplished the journey of 1,125 miles in twenty hours, arriving at Raton this afternoon.

Mr. Thomson's special was waiting when he reached here from Duluth and it will attempt to lower the record set by the physician's special.

WIFE ASKS FOR LIMITED DIVORCE

Prominent Duluth Realty Dealer in Suit on Desertion Grounds.

Jay Cooke Howard, real estate dealer residing at 4632 London road, is defendant in a suit for separation instituted today in district court by his wife, Mrs. Constance D. Howard, who charges desertion and cruelty.

The Howards were married Nov. 23, 1904, and are parents of three children, the custody of whom is sought by the mother. In addition to a decree for a limited divorce, Mrs. Howard asks the court to grant her liberal alimony. She represents that he has property worth $30,000 and an annual income of $2,700. In addition, she alleges she deeded property to him worth $30,000.

Mrs. Howard alleges that by reason of his treatment towards her she has been subject to attacks of heart trouble and insomnia.

About a year ago, she claims, he requested her to leave his home. She says that she did so, returning to her parents, who reside at Washington, D. C. On this she bases her charge of desertion.

TWO MEN

WERE ALMOST GIVEN UP AS HOPELESS, AND HAD SUFFERED AGONIES WITH DREADFUL RHEUMATISM, BUT, AS USUAL, "QUAKER" IS THE MEANS OF SAVING THEM.

Two people in one family are praising the remarkable virtues of Quaker Extract and the Oil of Balm. Two members of the same family suffered with the same trouble and both were almost given up as hopeless cases, but Quaker has again come to the front as a grand curative value.

Mr. L. J. Walter and his family live at Royal Oak, Mich., and are well known in that locality. Mr. Walter and his son Ward both suffered with dread rheumatism. Mr. Walter, the senior, first began showing traces of it when he was a chap of only 10 years. Recently he has had it so bad that he was confined to bed, and was almost at the point of death. His son contracted the disease a few months ago, and it has been a very severe attack. But now both are over their troubles in this respect and the great Quaker Extract is again victor. The story is best told in the words of Mrs. Walter, the wife and mother, who said to Gaskins:

"I must tell you what wonderful medicine you have there. It has cured my son of an awful case of inflammatory rheumatism, and my husband is almost well, too. Mr. Walter has had it off and on since he was a little boy, and lately it got so bad that he has been in bed and had to be propped up with pillows, and anything that touched him would cause intense agony. His whole body was swelled and full of pains, and he was so bad that we were about to give up several times recently. And my son had it fearfully bad, too. Just think, we have spent over $300 for medicines for them and they kept getting worse, until we thought surely they both were going to die. I got three bottles of Quaker Extract and some Oil of Balm, and it began taking hold of their cases at once. They used that, then I got some more. Now I can say that my son is cured, and my husband is so greatly improved that he is only going to take the medicine every second day or so for a while so we can know that the impurities are really out of the blood. Oh, we are so very grateful for the grand work this remedy has done, and you can tell anyone that you want to and advertise it anywhere. It has been a means of saving their lives, I know, for they were given up as hopeless."

Gaskins wants it known that Quaker Extract and the Oil of Balm have been curing rheumatism, catarrh, stomach, liver and kidney troubles for over 40 years, and they just go right after the cause, which is the only possible way in which any disease can ever be cured. Health depends solely upon the condition of the blood stream, so take a pure herb remedy that has the proper ingredients for removing the toxins and poisonous secretions from the blood—then you will be well, just as this man and his son found health after all else had failed.

Quaker Extract is six for $5, or three for $2.50—Oil of Balm is 50c a bottle, or six for $2.50. Sent to you who live out of town, if you will just mail a money order for the right amount, made payable to The Orpheum Pharmacy, Duluth, Minn. The health teacher is there from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily.—Advertisement.

VIRGINIANS STILL LOOK FOR ANDERSON

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The search for Carl Anderson, demented typhoid fever patient, who has been roaming the woods in this vicinity since the morning of July 4, continues today.

Searching parties made up of members of the Eveleth and Virginia police departments and of members of the S. H. and E. F. lodge, of which Anderson was a member, are scouring every foot of the country within a radius of five miles, while Deputy Sheriff Adams of Duluth, with the county bloodhound, "Sport," is also heading a party of searchers.

At dusk last night, just as the searchers were about to abandon their work for the day, the bloodhound struck a fresh trail in which he manifested keen interest. It led in the direction of Mud lake and the prints of new shoes were plainly discernible.

Anderson wore a pair of new shoes. Friends of the missing man still hold to the belief that he will be found alive. He was of strong physique and unusual vitality.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual report of Dr. H. E. The report recommends that some arrangement be made for the care of children mentally deficient. The eradication of vermin (lice) was a problem. One hundred pints of vermin destroyer were distributed in the Johnson and primary schools.

In some cases the teachers applied it themselves. The campaign for the correction of this condition will be resumed with vigor following the summer vacation.

NORTH DAKOTA COAL PRODUCTION IN 1913

Washington, July 8.—Although the production of coal in North Dakota in 1913 was only 495,320 short tons, valued at $750,652, some extremely interesting facts regarding the possibilities of the vast deposits which underlie the state are shown in a statement by E. W. Parker just made public by the United States geographical survey. All the present mineral fuel produced in North Dakota is brown coal, or lignite. Considerable areas of subbituminous coal of usable quality and workable thickness are believed to underlie portions of the lignite areas, but no attempt to exploit the subbituminous coals has been made.

Compared with 1911, when the production attained its maximum record of 502,628 tons, the output in 1913 shows a decrease of 4,160 tons. The relatively small differences in production during the last three years indicate an absence of any fluctuating influences and show that active development of lignite properties will wait upon increased population. At present the lignite is used chiefly for domestic purposes, but with proper equipment it can be used with satisfaction as a boiler fuel.

Lignite as Boiler Fuel.

A convincing example of what may be accomplished with lignite for such use is presented by the irrigation plant of the United States Reclamation service at Williston. The lignite used here is taken from the only coal mine owned and operated by the government. The Reclamation service operates the mine and uses the product in the generation of steam for its pumping plant connected with the irrigation project at Williston. The water is raised from the Missouri river and delivered to an extensive system of canals and ditches by which a large section of the Missouri river valley is irrigated. At Kenmare, Scranton, and Dickinson lignite is also successfully used in the burning of brick, for which its smokeless and sootless qualities and relatively low cost make it adaptable.

The mine of the Reclamation service consists of a series of drifts on a 9-foot flat bed. The galleries or underground workings are at an average depth of about 100 feet below the surface.

The average output at present is 100 tons a day, and the coal is transported to the crusher near the power plant on cars hauled by mules and is there broken to nut size. The mine employs from twelve to fifteen miners during the irrigation season of about five months in each year. The average output is six to ten tons of lignite per miner daily and the net average earnings of the miners are from $3.50 to $5 a day of eight hours. The miners are furnished with "permissible" explosives at a slight advance above cost.

Will Help State.

As the gas-producer and internal-combustion engines in large units come into more general use in the West, as they are rapidly doing in the East, the lignites of North Dakota will be recognized as possessing great potentialities in the settlement and economic development of the state. Experiments also show that lignite can be successfully briquetted, after which it stands transportation well and its heat value is increased 50 to 70 per cent.

NO VOTES FOR GEORGIA WOMEN.

Atlanta, Ga., July 8.—Suffrage for women failed of a favorable report in the Georgia house of representatives yesterday by one vote. The house committee on constitutional amendments decided 5 to 4 to report adversely a bill giving women the right to the ballot in state and county elections.

STATE LIKE CORPORATION

Dead Wood and Ornaments Are Drawback and Big Expense.

Chance for the People to Do What One Strong Man Did.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Corporations have their troubles the same as states. Every state in the union finds that it needs to overhaul its machinery, if it doesn't want to let taxes run wild. Nearly every big corporation in the country has found it necessary to re-organize in the last fifteen years, if it didn't want to go broke. (N. B.—Some of them did go broke.)

For instance there is the story of Theodore P. Shonts and the interborough, as told in one of the current magazines. The Interborough bought all the street railroads, elevated roads and subways in New York City. The street railroads had leased themselves to each other until nobody had control of anything. Each had its separate government, its own president, its own treasurer, and a lot of officers that always were prompt in drawing their pay. In some cases their other functions had disappeared.

What One Man Did.

One of the first things Shonts did was to call in a high-priced lawyer, who was drawing a fat retainer from the companies, and told him there was to be a change. The lawyer said he could not consider a reduction. Mr. Shonts promptly informed him there was not going to be any reduction—it would be a total separation. Some of his superfluous presidents were dropped entirely and others were sent to Europe on long vacations to get them out of the way. After a few years he has achieved a single administration for the New York Rapid Transit system.

Minnesota has not nearly as much dead wood as that unfortunate corporation acquired—not nearly so many ornamental officers—nowhere like as many drones. Instead of spending $500,000 a year in its legal department, Minnesota spends about $50,000. The fundamental trouble, however, is the same in Minnesota as in this corporation. Instead of a single administration it has a number of independent governments—sixty or seventy of them—which must be welded into one if there is to be intelligent control of expenditures and results.

Have Close Parallel.

It is interesting to notice now closely the problem which the efficiency commission has tackled in the state is parallel to that of an overgrown corporation floundering around in its own helplessness. In the case of the corporation the problem was solved by hiring a strong man and telling him to go to it. In the case of the state, since the result can be obtained only by co-operation of the people, it is necessary to consult the people at every stage of the proceedings.

Whatever action is finally taken must be their action—accomplished by their representatives—with their approval.

"CROPS NEVER LOOKED BETTER"

More Enthusiastic Reports Received By State Board of Immigration.

More crop reports were received by the state board of immigration this week. They are as follows:

Dodge County — Crops are looking good. In spite of the recent rains, the grains are looking fine and with favorable weather conditions will harvest a bumper crop. Pastures are looking good. There is some alfalfa, in this county, which is looking fine. Corn is a little backward.

PETER J. SCHWARG,
Crop Reporter.

Morrison County—All kinds of crops look good here, in fact the best in many years. The clover stand is nearly perfect. Wheat has started to head and the prospect for this crop is the best for many years back. Rye is about ready to cut and is a big crop. Corn is doing well. Some alfalfa planted here for several years and those who have tried it have had success. Potatoes look exceptionally good.

T. B. LOGAN,
Crop Reporter.

Big Stone County—Small grain looks good. Pastures never looked better and the cattle on grass are looking fine. The meadows are yielding an unusually heavy crop of hay. All grass seed sown this spring, including alfalfa, has had sufficient rain and has gotten a good start. About 1,000 acres of alfalfa was sown in this county and prospects for a great increase in acreage are already apparent.

A. B. LATHROP,
Crop Reporter.

Otter Tail County—The crops in this county are looking better than usual this time of the season. The rain has delayed the cultivating of the corn a little, but it is knee high at present. Potatoes, are looking good. There will be a large increase in acreage. The small grains are looking fine and a good crop is anticipated. About 300 men are growing alfalfa and about 950 acres have been seeded this spring.

F. R. JOHNSON,
Crop Reporter.

Beltrami County—The plentiful rainfall in this territory, in the lighter soil is doing wonders on the crops in general; corn is pushing ahead nicely and assures an excellent yield. Potatoes and other root crops bid fair to over-run last year's crops by 15 per cent. The farmers are ready to cut their timothy and clover crops as well as a small acreage of alfalfa, which some of the progressive farmers are trying out and is proving a great success. Small grains are heading out. Wild hay looks fine.

J. J. OPSAHL,
Crop Reporter.

Martin County — Corn exceptionally well advanced and a good crop is predicted. Oats very good. Hay very heavy but the cutting is delayed a little by the rains. Pastures excellent and stock in fine condition.

ARTHUR M. NELSON,
Crop Reporter.

Kanabec County — Crop conditions in Kanabec county are exceedingly good. Hay crop is the biggest in the history of the county. Small grains are looking exceptionally well. The acreage of corn is larger this year than ever before. Potatoes, root crops, vegetables and small fruit are in splendid condition. Many fields of timothy and clover will cut from three to four tons per acre. Alfalfa is doing exceptionally well. Many sales are made to actual farmers from Iowa, Illinois, Southern Minnesota and North and South Dakota. Hay season is now at hand and every farm is very busy.

CHARLES F. SERLINE,
Crop Reporter.

Hubbard County — Small grains are looking good and promise a bumper crop. The hay crop is best for many years and corn and potatoes are about normal. Alfalfa made a good crop and was cut about June 20. About 300 acres has seed in this county this year. Much new lands are being cleared and broken. First crop of clover is being cut and much seed will be raised this year.

J. H. NIXON,
Crop Reporter.

Chisago County—Crop conditions are at the highest point. All crops are in excellent condition. Corn is a little late, but is coming along fine and no doubt will be 25 per cent better than any previous year. There has been a great deal of alfalfa started this year and is in fine condition. The Agricultural departments of the Rush City high school and the North Branch school, organized alfalfa clubs and over 3,000 lbs. of seed was bought by the farmers. We are looking for a bumper crop.

C. M. JOHNSON,
Crop Reporter.

Rice County — Small grain never looked better. Corn is a little backward, but is coming along fine. Hay is now being cut and is a heavy crop. We also have a few small fields of alfalfa.

L. F. SHANDORF,
Crop Reporter.

Roseau County — Crop conditions in Roseau county are exceptionally promising. Clover, timothy and alfalfa are extensively raised and this summer a heavy yield is assured. Three years ago the raising of alfalfa was begun and it has proven so successful that it is now being extensively grown.

G. H. MATTSON,
Crop Reporter.

Carver County — Small fruit very good. Fruit trees in good condition and promise big crop of apples, plums and all kinds of fruit. Oats, barley, wheat and rye show good stands. Some farmers estimated thirty bushels wheat per acre. Alfalfa—large acreage. Looks good. Sugar beets with few exceptions show better than in past three years. Corn looks good. Hay very good. A good crop is looked forward to.

C. T. FENTON,
Crop Reporter.

NO AGREEMENT ON CHOCTAW CLAIMS.

Washington, July 8.—After a day of lively debate between the Oklahoma and Mississippi delegations, the house rejected a senate amendment to the Indian appropriation bill which would permit the Mississippi Choctaws to present their claims for participation in the tribal funds of the Choctaw Indians of Oklahoma. The question now goes to conference between the two houses.

The Oklahomans charge attorneys were trying to get big fees by drumming up claimants in Mississippi, while the Mississippi representatives alleged Oklahoma had mistreated the aboriginal owners of the West.

Heavy Rain in Germany.

Berlin, July 8.—Heavy rainstorms have caused great damage all over Germany. In Berlin the fire department was called out many times to save persons living in cellars from being drowned by the flood. The rain fell incessantly for twenty-four hours in this city, and portions are under water. In the central districts of Germany several people were killed by lightning.

HAVE LESSONS IN NATURAL HISTORY

Blind Children of New York Study Animals in Museum.

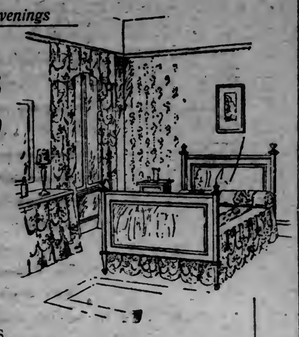

A New York philanthropist who is blind, upon learning how ignorant blind children, especially those of the city, are of animals that are familiar to the average street gamin, established a fund for the purpose of giving a series of lectures at the Museum of Natural History to sightless children and for a guide to take them there.

The blind children feel the mounted animals and are quizzed to be sure they have observed correctly. As the finger tips of blind persons are sensitive all the children need to be told is the color of animals under study. In answer to a question on the hippopotamus one of the children wrote: "This is the homeliest beast you ever saw. Why, he's a block long. He has a big fat head and tiny little ears are on the top of his head. He is so fat that he has a big wrinkle in his neck. His eyes are very small and are on the upper part of his head so that when he wants to see what is going on he sticks his head out of the water just a little bit. His mouth is very big. It is like a half circle. The corners of his mouth turn up and almost meet his eyes and make you think he is laughing."

Recently the children heard a lecture by Admiral Peary on Arctic animals and then examined the skins and stuffed animals that had been described.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "A Butterfly on the Wheel."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

"A Butterfly on the Wheel" with its great divorce trial scene is winning fresh laurels for the Baldwin Players at the Lyceum this week.

New York has not had such a notable artistic success in years and Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and the larger cities literally raved over the wonderful situations in this play of English society. The famous divorce trial scene is vivid and spell-binding in its intensity and affords Miss Lola May a rare chance for the display of her ability and which she takes full advantage of.

Next week that great American success "Ready Money" will be presented by the Baldwin Players.

Pleasing throughout are the present vaudeville bill and photoplays at the Empress. The bill will close with the two performances this evening, the Zeb Zarrow troupe, offering their pantomime, "The Isle of Joy," provide good comedy. The act is one of feats on cycles of every description and fancy dancing by the only female member of the troupe. Lorraine and Cameron offer Scotch songs and dances. The two boys are the best dancers seen here in a long time. Altmann and McFarland put on a blackface skit entitled "Going to the Ball," which is an act of songs and comedy talk. The songs are the big thing in the act. The parodies are very amusing and the costuming neat. Bob Sandberg is an excellent character song signer. "Tennessee," the two-reel feature, is a photoplay of love and exciting doings in the hills of Tennessee, Chapter 24 of "Our Mutual Girl" show a few new views of dainty Norma Philips and her experiences while lost.

"Hurdy Gurdy," a comedy with music, dances and pretty girls, will be the attraction at the Empress theater for the last half of the week. Arthur Clamage, Don Clark and Al Zimmerman will furnish the comedy while Grace Fields, Trixie Ayers, and Frank Carey will render the many songs, and Jess Weiss will put over some more of his fancy dancing. The chorus is well costumed.

DULUTH POLES AT CHICAGO MEET

National Council Would Preserve Polish Language and Literature.

Seeking to preserve their language and literature to the Poles under the rule of Germany and Russia, 500 Poles from all parts of the United States are gathering in Chicago today for the second annual convention of the Polish National Council of America. A large number of Duluthians and range residents are in attendance as local delegates.

The national council has about 3,000,000 members and is affiliated with the council of the mother country. Home rule is the slogan of all members.

The delegates assembled this morning at the headquarters of the Polish Catholic union and this afternoon the business sessions will open at one of the large halls. The convention will continue for two days. Thaddeus Cienski, president of the Polish National council, and Stanislaus Wenckowski, chief of the publicity bureau, made the trip from Poland to attend the sessions. Stanislaus Szwajkart, editor of the Polish Daily News of Chicago, is president of the American council, while S. Osada is secretary.

In explaining the principal object of the meeting, Mr. Cienski said in a letter to all the delegates:

"The conditions of the Polish people under the German and Russian rule are intolerable. Next year there will be a centenary of the congress of Vienna, at which the powers of Europe solemnly guaranteed to Poland her national entity, her language, and religious freedom.

"Today not a vestige has been left of that solemn guarantee. In Germany the government is taking from the Poles by force the land that was theirs for ages past. Polish children are prohibited from even saying their prayers in their mother tongue."

TWO KILLED AND TWO HURT BY AN AUTO

Driver Loses Control While on Pennsylvania Hill.

Williamsport, Pa., July 8.—Two persons were killed and two others seriously injured when a motor car belonging to William Dunsmore of Clymer, Pa., was wrecked yesterday near Blossburg. In descending a hill the driver lost control and the machine, after wabbling from side to side, ran up a bank and turned over twice.

The dead are William Mechzen of Clymer, who was driving the car, and James Cooney, a farmer living near Covington. The injured are Joseph Cooney, son of the dead man, and James McKekenie of Blossburg. The former had his spine injured, while McKekenie has a fractured shoulder, a broken nose and other injuries.

MASSACHUSETTS HAS 956 NEW STATUTES.

Boston, Mass., July 8.—The general assembly was prorogued just before midnight after one of the longest sessions in the history of the state. The session lasted 183 days, a period exceeded by only three other legislatures.

Governor Walsh signed 956 acts and resolves. He was sustained on every one of the fourteen vetoes he sent down. Most of the vetoes were on bills calling for appropriations for state institutions, which would have increased the state tax. The tax was estimated at $8,760,000, the largest in the history of the state.

TAKE CASH REGISTER.

Burglars of Houghton County Saloon Take Money Box, Too.

Houghton, Mich., July 8.—John Philipps, proprietor of a saloon at Renova, in the north end of Houghton county, reported to Sheriff Cruse that during Sunday night burglars had entered his place of business and stolen $70. He said that the thieves did not care to waste the time to extract the $70 from the cash register, and they had taken that along with the cash. Sheriff Cruse has officers out on an investigation of the affair.

FARGO WOMAN IN AUTO WRECK.

Detroit, Minn., July 8.—Mrs. Margaret Deane of Fargo, N. D., aged 30, was seriously injured while traveling by auto from Fargo here. Mrs. Deane was one of a party of five, consisting of three men and two women. While near Lake Park, twelve miles west of Detroit, the auto slid from the embankment and turned turtle, pinning Mrs. Deane beneath the car. The other woman was also injured, but not seriously. The three men escaped. Mrs. Deane is now at the Detroit hospital and possibility of internal injuries makes her condition very serious.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Too Much Silence Is Really Cruel

Silence is golden, 'tis said, and most of us are agreed that it is upon occasions at least. As a steady diet, however, it savors of cruel and barbarous treatment, or so a divorce judge has decided. As much as some of us yearn for surcease from the "jaw" of those we are enforced to listen to, we should enjoy life less if these very people turned mute and kept silence for weeks together.

A wife recently secured a divorce because her husband wouldn't talk. Married more than five years she endured her husband's silence for the greater part of that time. In fancy I can almost hear the groans issuing from the lips of those men and women with life partners who have a strong tendency in the opposite direction. It seems to them that absolute, perfect silence must be not only easy to endure but something of a boon into the bargain.

Husbands or wives plagued by overtalkative mates may think there is nothing harder to endure. It is wearying, even crazing, but not to be compared to the mental torture of having someone supposed to be near and dear, perpetually and designedly silent. Give these folks who think they would like a change from garrulity to silence for a few days and they will gladly return to their original lot and not find it so bad.

In spite of the many and various ways in which we abuse the gift of speech, not the most critical in this respect admire what is termed a silent man or woman. Such folk immediately inspire distrust, and fear almost, because it is not normal for human beings to refuse the tongue free rein. Almost anything may be thought of the individual who won't speak though possessed of the power or who vents a spite in this peculiar manner upon some one person.

Silence of the kind that is enduring is one of the hardest things to bear. I can't imagine one human being devising a more inhuman torture for another than just the determination to remain dumb for an extended period. The affect upon the one toward whom the penalty is directed must be in time of a nature to make reason totter.

POLICE CENSORSHIP OF PUBLIC SPEECH.

When a policeman sets up a censorship of public speaking, he starts something that he will have great difficulty in finishing unless he is a rarely intellectual and tactful copper.

The soap box orator is given to utterances that irritate the patriotic conservative, and the temptation to choke him off with an arrest is strong. Experience has shown, however, that to give in to that temptation is folly.

London found this out long ago. In Hyde Park men may say almost anything they choose to say, and policemen listen stolidly and do nothing. Orators in Hyde Park emit the most bizarre and revolutionary doctrines with complete impunity. So long as their language does not violate ordinary conceptions of decency, their oratory may flow undisturbed. Hyde Park has been found to be a valuable safety valve, and anybody with revolutionary doctrines to expound may expound them there till he is black in the face without interruption from the police. Indeed, the policemen on duty there get so inured to violent speech that they yawn boredly before the most inflamed and inflammatory diatribes.

Street speakers must not check street traffic. They must not make so much noise as to disturb peaceful citizens. They must not use profane or indecent language.

But when police regulations go farther than that, and seek to censor the economic and political doctrines that flow from the soapbox orators, they simply become foolish and futile.

The chief effect of an attempt to check free speech is to make martyrs of the speakers, and that is a fate they covet.

Dayton men are kicking on wearing skirts when bathing. They ought to be satisfied if they're allowed to wear the trousers when they are around home.

SUSPICIOUS AMERICA.

A wise and shrewd observer who recently returned from a long stay abroad tells us that one of the things that struck him most forcibly when he got back was the fact that instead of having teamwork in our public affairs, apparently every man's hand is against every other man, and we spend time wrangling and backbiting and challenging each other's records and motives that could be spent profitably in getting us all ahead.

We guess that's about true.

This is an era of suspicion and dissension and blackguarding. We got into it naturally, of course. We let a shrewd and farseeing few skim the cream off our national riches, and then when the picking ceased to be good and the chance to get in on it went by we got mad about it and began abusing the beneficiaries of our neglect. Most of them deserved it, but they didn't deserve abuse for their fat pickings half so much as we deserved it for letting them into the dairy; especially when one big reason why we let them in was because most of us hoped for a chance to slip in ourselves.

The country is getting a striking illustration of this tendency in the proceedings of the committee that has been investigating President Wilson's nominees for the central reserve board.

Some of the senators are examining Thomas D. Jones of Chicago with high-power microscopes, colored blue with concentrated suspicion, because he is a director in a couple of trusts.

Senator Bristow has had his nose to the ground on the cold scent of a rumor that Charles S. Hamlin, one time away back in the mists of ancient history, was employed by the Boston & Maine railroad.

And because he is a Wall Street banker, members of the committee insisted upon a thirty-third degree grand jury inquisition of Paul M. Warburg—insisted so vigorously that Mr. Warburg has requested the president to withdraw his nomination, and the president has done so.

Warburg is known as one of the most scientific bankers of the country. He had consented, for the sake of what he could do toward creating sound financial conditions in his adopted country, to leave a position worth half a million a year for one worth twelve thousand. His selection as a member of the board did more to give the financial world confidence in its work than anything else that has happened.

And now his services are lost because we have come upon a time when to be rich is to be an object of suspicion, and to be a scientist in finance is to be subject to the presumption of treason.

Has it actually come to the point that we must assume because a man had relations of any kind with a corporation that he is a scoundrel and no patriot?

Surely it isn't that bad!

It is true that the blame is largely due to men associated with corporations who have stifled every instinct of patriotism and fairness and decency to get rich. It is true that in a large degree men skilled in finance are inclined to serve their own class rather than the people as a whole—even at the expense of the people as a whole.

But if to have more than seven dollars, to be a stockholder or director in a large corporation, or to have accepted professional employment from a railroad is to be prima facie evidence of treason, requiring positive evidence to offset it, then this country is in a bad way indeed.

But perhaps the country can in time get used to having congressmen pass laws instead of only passing the buck.

CAREFUL!

Oil has been discovered in the province of Alberta, Canada.

So there is an oil stock boom on.

The history of all stock booms will be repeated here. A few fortunes will be made suddenly—mostly to be dissipated almost as suddenly—and thousands will sink their small savings in wildcat holes in the ground.

If humanity ever learned anything about speculation of this sort, there would be no danger. But apparently humanity never learns this particular lesson. Perhaps those who have been burnt in one stock boom profit by the lesson they have paid heavily to learn. But always there is a new crop of suckers.

The Port Arthur News prints this warning, which is as good for Americans as for Canadians:

> Financial journals that have investigated the oil-producing possibilities in Alberta are outspoken in their warnings to the public against investing real money in ventures that have yet to be proved worth while. Particularly it is urged on behalf of the little fellow, the man on salary, to keep out of oil speculations whose promoters offer to sell stock at a few cents a share.
> In the case of Alberta it is claimed by some writers that even if the bubble turned out to be substantially productive of oil, not one quarter of the companies with stock for sale could expect to yield their stockholders a cent's worth of profit in return for the risks they have taken.

About the only real money made in such excitements as these is made by those who SELL stock, not by those who BUY it.

Oscar Straus is to be dropped from the Bull Moose ticket in New York. Why? Oh, nothing, except that he doesn't agree with the big non-boss.

TRUST LAWS AND LABOR.

In an exceptionally able article in the Sunday New York World, answering former Attorney General Wickersham, Samuel Untermeyer defends the proposal in the Clayton bill to exempt labor unions and agricultural co-operative associations from the anti-trust laws.

Mr. Untermeyer takes the stand that the anti-trust law now applies definitely to labor unions. He holds that if the employes in a given concern get together to demand better wages, and threaten to quit work unless their demands are met, this is a flat violation of the Sherman law; and this no matter how just these demands may be.

Was the Sherman law intended to prohibit the organization of labor to better its condition? Was it intended to prevent agricultural producers from combining to better THEIR condition? Or was it aimed at industrial monopoly?

Was it intended to prevent laborers from combining to secure a living wage, or was it intended to prevent schemers from combining to get rich unfairly at the common cost?

Is there no difference between a combination "in restraint of trade" which aims to secure for its members wages that will enable them to live in decency, to give decent housing to their families, and to bring up their children to be good citizens, and a combination in restraint of trade which aims to secure for its members the plunder of monopoly?

Those who hold that labor unions should not be exempted from the anti-trust law must hold that there is no difference.

Says Mr. Untermeyer: "There is no such relation between competition in industry and in the labor of that industry as justifies the application of the same rules to assure the one as to the other. Laws to regulate combinations of capital must necessarily differ from those that regulate combinations of labor. They require radically different treatment and do not belong to the same class of legislation.

"The law may be vicious as applied to capital and essential to social and industrial progress as applied to labor. The perils that lurk in the one do not exist in the other. Granting that there are dangers in the suppression of competition in both, they are not the same dangers and should not be treated with the same remedies. The use that a man may be permitted to make of his faculties should not be subjected to the same rules and restrictions as those that should govern the use of his property.

"If congress may not unlawfully enact laws for the latter purpose that shall not and from the very nature of the case often cannot apply to the former, it can never effectively legislate on any branch of human endeavor with special reference to the proper treatment of that particular subject. Its action would always be open to the charge that the failure to apply the same rule, however inapt and harmful, to varying economic conditions, constitutes class legislation.

"Such arguments proceed from what I believe to be a mistaken conception of the term. They are, I believe, now generally recognized as the last gasp of the special interests against progressive legislation that is intended to curtail their hitherto unrestrained license to exploit the community."

The labor provisions in the pending bills do not legalize violence or destruction of property. They do seek to prevent the absurdity of the exertion of a law aimed at monopoly to prevent labor from securing its just share of the fruits of its toil.

The Colonel will not even admit there is a creek of doubt about the Colombian treaty, to say nothing of a river.

A Champion of "Blackmail"?

New York World: "Ninety per cent of the American people who are at all conversant with our raw and rancid treatment of Colombia at Panama in the autumn of 1903 feel that our unfortunate differences with that country arising out of the Panama incident ought to be settled in a broad, decent and honorable way. The new treaty, if ratified, will attain that result. If it is not ratified, the incident will be a running sore for decades to come. If the American people will investigate and learn the truth of the question, the treaty will be ratified by sheer force of public opinion."—From an interview with James T. Du Bois in the Times.

The man who expresses this emphatic approval of what Mr. Roosevelt calls "merely the belated payment of blackmail" is not a Wilson Democrat or a Bryan underling. He is a Republican of long experience in the service of the United States who held important offices under Mr. Roosevelt and was Mr. Taft's minister to Colombia.

Mr. Du Bois carried on the negotiations with Colombia that were instituted under the Taft administration, and no man is more competent to discuss the treaty now in the United States senate.

Would Mr. Roosevelt venture to say that James T. Du Bois is a champion of "blackmail"?

A Lay o' the Day.

O, I'm homesick for the old days, the slow days, the days that used to be,
When the stage coach held the highway, and the frigate ruled the sea.
We go scuttling over land,
Skyrocketing through air,
On our spitfire devil-wagons,
Getting—where?

Give us back the long days, the calm days, the days when men could dream,
When the town was still a village, and there wasn't any steam,
Though we carry round on wires
The live Promethean Spark,
We are rather more than ever
In the dark.

Though truly these be live days, and brave days, days when strong men grind
On the flints of circumstance, cutting edges to the mind:
Yet the stroke that whets a hatchet,
Turns a razor edge;
Lest we blunt the finer spirit,
Better hedge.

Better give ourselves an off day, a whole day, a day to size up things,
To weigh the fact that after all the soul was born with wings,
And might, had we the courage left
To break its prison bars,
Outsoar these aeroplanes, and float
Among the stars.

If ever dawns a new day, the true day, the day when we are through
With this ragtime-tango living—O, I know what I shall do;
I'll sit me on the quiet grass
Under a quiet tree—
I'll sit and very like I'll whistle—
Quietly.

—Jefferson B. Fletcher in the Nation.

Preparing the Way.

Lippincott's: Claude had disobeyed his parents, and his mother knew it.

"I am afraid," she said, "that when I tell your father what you have been doing this forenoon he will punish you severely."

"Have you got to tell him, mother?" asked the boy.

"Yes," was the reply; "I shall tell him immediately after dinner.

"Well, mother," said the boy, "give him a real good dinner, won't you? You might do as much as that for me."

A Question of Honor

Editorial in the New York World.

What James T. Du Bois has to say in answer to Mr. Roosevelt's attack upon the Colombian treaty deserves the sober consideration not only of every member of congress but of every American citizen.

Mr. Du Bois is not a partisan pleader. He is a Republican who has held many responsible public offices under various Republican administrations. He was connected with the state department during all the years that Mr. Roosevelt was president and he was selected by Mr. Taft to be the United States minister to Colombia. He holds no office under President Wilson, and his appeal in behalf of the Colombian treaty is an appeal for justice.

There are two points in Mr. Du Bois' answer to Mr. Roosevelt which deserve special attention. In reply to the charge that Colombia sought to blackmail the United States, Mr. Du Bois testifies from his personal experience that "the public men of Colombia compare well with the public men of other countries in intelligence and respectability."

He might have gone further and said that in the confidential correspondence of the state department there is not a line or a word or a syllable to indicate that Colombia was trying to blackmail the United States. There is no suggestion of such a thing in Minister Beaupre's dispatches to Secretary Hay. There is no suggestion of such a thing in Secretary Hay's dispatches to Mr. Beaupre. The records of the state department prove that the people of Colombia were practically unanimous in opposition to the terms of the Hay-Herran treaty, in the belief that it sacrificed their national interests. If the rejection of a treaty on such grounds is "blackmail," then it must have been blackmail when the United States senate rejected the original Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

In aswer to Mr. Roosevelt's assertion that "the people of Panama were a unit in demanding the revolution," Mr. Du Bois says:

> I can say, and prove it, that a handful of men, who were to be the direct beneficiaries of the revolution, conceived it, and not the hundredth part of the inhabitants knew of the revolt until an American officer, in the uniform of the United States army, raised the flag of the new republic.

Here again Mr. Du Bois errs on the side of understatement. He might have said that the Roosevelt administration had previously sent military spies into Panama to estimate the ability of Colombia to suppress an uprising, and that the revolution did not take place until the money which bought it was sent down from Wall street by representatives of the French Canal company. This was not a revolution of the people of Panama. It was a revolution purchased in the open market by the French Panama Canal company, and it was successful only because the United States navy, under orders from Theodore Roosevelt, prevented Colombia from suppressing it.

Mr. Du Bois' answer to Mr. Roosevelt is the answer that the wise and venerable Senator Hoar made to him when he sought to justify his part in the seizure of Panama:

> I hope I may never live to see the day when the interests of my country are placed above its honor.

Mediums of Prosperity

Christian Science Monitor: Few facts in connection with advertising stand out as clearly as the contemporary demand of the advertiser that he get what he pays for. The machinery for probing, auditing and publishing facts about periodical circulations, whether alleged or real, increases each year in complexity of detail and vigor of application. The "say so" period is past. Men who are to use "mediums" want "to be shown." This being the trend, some of its by-products are interesting. For one thing, it has restored the daily newspaper to pre-eminence and recognized worth as a bringer of business to persons, institutions or corporations seeking buyers of their goods, properties or service. Confirmation of this estimate has been made to the national electric light and power convention by a special committee of investigation charged with the duty of bringing in a comparative rating.

Reasons for the supremacy of the daily paper are numerous. Suffice it here and now to mention its high power of iteration, one of the most influential factors in all forms of advocacy, commercial or otherwise. To read any form of persuasive appeal six or seven times a week, instead of once a week or once a month, obviously is to subject oneself oftener to the likelihood of taking particular notice of the plea. Or, to put the matter in quite another way, any person wanting knowledge of what to buy and where to buy it, be the commodity what it may, is more likely to be served with his desired information in time to make it serviceable if he gets his facts day by day rather than week by week or month by month. Here, of course, is where the daily paper serves through its contemporaneousness. Add this to the quality of iteration and it makes a combination difficult to surpass. A medium of publicity that will say oftenest for the advertiser to the reader and buyer what the former wishes the latter to know, and that will soonest bring to the purchaser any up-to-date information he may wish to have, is in particular demand, and statistics of recent years show where the large advertisers' appropriations are going.

Fortunately, this reaction in favor of the daily paper has come at the time when it could make easier a process of reformation of journalistic advertising standards now well on its way through the United States and Canada, a process which will receive its final touches at the coming Toronto convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. The coincidence with rising ethical demands from the public and from advertising specialists has had a wholesome effect on the daily press of the United States during the last few years.

The Deciding Voice.

The Popular Magazine: In a business men's club in a Western town there sprang up two factions, one which criticized the steward because he did not provide the members with good meals, and one which defended him hotly.

The dispute got fiercer and fiercer. Half the club wanted to fire the steward at once. The other half said he was efficient.

Then, without warning, the steward himself decided the momentous question.

One day at lunch time a member of the club asked the waiter:

"Where's the steward?"

"He ain't here," replied the waiter. "He said he was going down the street to get something to eat."

"Bargains."

Dallas News: A woman's idea of a bargain is something marked from 30 down to 20, even if it isn't worth fifteen.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Austin of Tennessee is a professional kidder. While up in New York a while ago he saw a large, gaudily decorated yellow limousine car standing by the curb, with a liveried chauffeur presiding haughtily at the wheel. It was ornamented a good deal like a lunch wagon, such as one sees on street corners, and it was about the size of a lunch wagon. The chauffeur, however, had never thought of this resemblance, and he was greatly astonished when Austin, a total stranger to him, paused in passing the car and inquired:

"Could you let me have a couple of hamburger sandwiches and a cup of coffee?"

One might think, naturally enough, that Representative Walter L. Hensley of Missouri is a peaceable man.

He has been fighting for international peace, and is the author of the resolution for a so-called naval holiday—looking to a lay-off from battleship building for one year—but when Hensley was practicing law out in Missouri he was known as the fighting lawyer of those parts.

Hensley was not going about looking for trouble, but people who went in for trouble and doted on it kept overtaking him and crossing his trail. For four years he was prosecuting attorney in his county, and during much of that time he found it a good idea to carry a neat little revolver in his pocket.

Except for the judge before whom he tried one murder case, Hensley probably would not be with us today.

The defendant in the case was greatly prejudiced against Hensley's side, and made the boast that if he were found guilty he would kill the prosecutor.

Little was thought of this at the time, for murderers were always talking about killing people, and even Hensley himself took it for merely bold badinage. But when the jury came in with their verdict, the judge got an inkling that it was going to be guilty, and he delayed having it announced. Then he tipped off Hensley to look out, and also sent word to the sheriff to keep particularly close watch on the prisoner.

Hensley stood off to one side with his hand on a revolver in his coat pocket. When the foreman of the jury announced "Guilty," the prisoner turned frantically toward his brother, who had a gun ready, but the sheriff pulled a gun himself and stopped their funny business in the nick of time.

Although he is a man who has been in scores of bitter fights and is intense on whatever he is doing, Hensley rarely, if ever, swears. When he is moderately vexed he resorts to the expression "By Grab!" And when he is exasperated beyond all human endurance he bursts forth with a "Dog take it!"

Ambassador J. J. Jusserand of France and a small party of friends, including Ambassador Bakhmeteff of Russia, went to the theater one night a while ago and had themselves comfortably incarcerated in a box.

In a little while members of the audience who chanced to take note of a certain feature of the box party began to look at the box to the neglect of the show. Yet the ambassadorial group were as quiet and orderly and inconspicuous as a box party could well be.

The thing that attracted the attention of discriminating spectators was Mr. Jusserand's unconscious feat of excelling all others at between-act conversation. He is a man of parts and achievements, and never lacks for a word or a phrase. When he talks he does so with enthusiasm and polite gestures. The others in the party seemed to realize their comparative lack of conversational staying qualities and worked in relays. One by one they tried to keep up with Mr. Jusserand, but none was able to cope with him. Each in turn was driven back, slowly but certainly, to a conversational corner. Then another would try to parry the volley of wit and comment. But it was no use. Eventually Mr. Jusserand had them practically all lying limp over the figurative ropes.

For a time his wife tried to carry on a rapid conversation with him, but it was noted that after a time she changed her seat with a look of despair.

As a striking example of saying the wrong thing at the right moment, one may cite the case of the senator's wife who fell into conversation with Mrs. Champ Clark at the White House.

The Clarks, as everybody knows full well, feel that they would today be living in the White House except for one thing, and that one thing is William Jennings Bryan, who prevented the speaker's nomination at Baltimore. Naturally, and obviously, they care little for Mr. Bryan. The senator's wife knew this, but in a moment of absent-mindedness she turned to the speaker's wife and remarked, by way of small talk: "There's Mr. Bryan. I think he's perfectly lovely; don't you?"

It was not a wise selection of conversational topic.

A Common-Sense Calaboose.

The World's Work: Duluth, Minn., at the instance of the Commercial club, has established a work farm as a substitute for a jail for petty offenders who are not habitual criminals. When a drunken lumberjack, or miner, or railroad "section hand" is sentenced to ten or twenty days of confinement, he is sent to this farm of 1,000 acres, a few miles from the city, to do his "hard labor." The "farm" is mostly second-growth timber land. A part of it has been cleared, and here rude temporary buildings have been erected. In the midst of a great pile of logs stands a portable sawmill. The workmen are the petty offenders; the foremen are unarmed guards. The men are at the sort of work they are used to, in the fresh air. They are under restraint; the law has laid its hand on their shoulders and is reminding them that society can enforce its ordinances. But the lesson is taught in a temper of firm admonition, not in a vengeful temper nor by a senseless period of stagnation in an iron cage. It is all the more likely to be effective for that; and it leaves no ugly scars on the spirit of the offenders.

Proof.

Houston Post: "Superstitious after all these years! Don't you remember, on the evening we first met how a black cat ran across our path and you swore some misfortune would happen to you?"

"And it wasn't a year until we were married! What greater proof do you want?"

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Got Your Guard Up?

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Anoka's new park has been named Windego, probably in honor of Editor Granville Pease.

For a Time at Least.

Little Falls Transcript: 'State politics may now well be allowed to rest in the hands of the nominees on the state ticket and the voters themselves. If the busybodies will let them alone they will without doubt handle the matter to the satisfaction of all most concerned in the welfare of the state.

Boost for Prof. Andrist.

Wheaton Footprints: C. M. Andrist, who is the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, has tendered his resignation as professor on the state university faculty to devote his time to the campaign. As he is a good, clean man and an orator of no mean ability Mr. Andrist will be a strong power for good in bringing success to the ticket.

Farley Dare's Impression.

Walker Pilot: A state weight and measure man was in town last week to pry yard measure tacks out of the counters, scowl at the bushel baskets and make junk out of a few more scales. Sometimes a man gets drunk and does almost as much damage in a town as a scale inspector, but not very often. Too bad our old friend, Carrie Nation, isn't with us any more. She would have enjoyed a position with the bureau of weights and measures.

Now, Mr. Pease, Bob's Waiting.

Princeton Union: Old Pease and his Anoka Union supported Eberhart and knocked Lee, lited about Rines and extolled Preus, and was virulent against J. Adam Bede, with the usual result. Lee, Rines and Bede carried Anoka county by a handsome majority—almost two to one. The good people of Anoka know Mr. Pease and fully understand the motive that impels him to support or oppose any candidate for office.

Business Situation.

Virginia Enterprise: President Wilson coined a very apt phrase the other day when he applied the term of "the psychological business depression" to the present industrial stagnation. Likewise, there is but small question he spoke the truth when he said that big business is doing everything possible to delay the administration program of anti-trust legislation. Quite naturally big business would do just that. There is no question of the large influence it can wield and there is no question that it is buying itself. The administration anti-trust program was well undertaken. National legislation of this kind is needed to restore to the people some of their lost confidence in our scheme of government. But the task that confronts the administration is not one lightly to be undertaken. It will win its fight if it is conducted along safe and sane lines and it will find that honest big business is with it and not all big business is dishonest. There is truth in the contention that business has been needlessly harrassed, but there is a considerable tendency to overdraw the extent to which it has been so annoyed, and the fault is not more with present than past administrations.

Who Is to Blame?

Stillwater Prison Mirror: The Duluth Herald printed a news item the other day that should set the world to thinking. It tells of a woman being convicted for stealing, and sentenced for the eighth time to serve a term in the state prison. The woman is 36 years old, and what is commonly known as a confirmed criminal.

Let us see what made her a criminal. Who is responsible for her abnormal nature—if she is abnormal?

When this woman was 10 years old she was arrested for stealing some trinkets from a store. The judge sentenced her then to a reformatory; and she became known to the world as the "child convict." Thrown thus among older criminals, this little 10-year-old girl grew up amid environments that have made bad men and women of many who might otherwise have been saved. In the reformatory she learned new tricks of the trade, she heard only the stories of crime and the boastings of clever thieves; her young mind was trained along a path of darkness; hate for right and society was engendered, instead of love for home and respect for the law. Beautiful thoughts and childish fancies were transformed into hideous desires for revenge and general wrongdoing.

And what has been the result? After being released from the reformatory, the child quite naturally followed the trend of thought instilled into her mind there. She met another former inmate—one of the only playmates she had ever had, and they stole. Again she was sentenced. And so on goes the story. Every time she was released she stole, and within an incredibly short period of liberty, was returned to prison; so that of the thirty-six years which she lived, she has spent twenty-six behind bars of steel.

And again we ask, who is to blame?

Not a Battle Lost.

Boston Globe: Spectacularly and continuously successful has been the career of Pancho Villa since he entered Mexico from El Paso on a borrowed horse with $7.50 and a revolver to start a revolution.

During the past eighteen months he has captured the following cities: Torreon (first time), Juarez, Ojinaga, Chihuahua, Gomez Palacio, Torreon (second time), San Pedro, Saltillo and Zacatecas.

Battles were fought at all those places, excepting Chihuahua, and none was lost.

The characterization of the rebel general as the "Mexican Napoleon" is not wholly inept.

He already has Huerta shaking in his boots between drinks, and the hours of the Victoriano at the capital appear to be numbered.

More Particular.

National Food Magazine: Johnny, out to dinner, thrice refused chicken gravy, of which he was very fond. His hostess, who had added macaroni to the gravy, finally said:

"Why, I thought you liked chicken gravy?"

"I do sometimes," replied Johnny, "but my mamma never puts the windpipes in."

Get It?

Buffalo Express: "One hundred and nine degrees at Radcliffe," was the headline that greeted Mr. Fallguy's eye.

"Great Caesar's ghost," he exclaimed. "How can people live in a town like that?"

Wanamaker and Rockefeller.

St. Louis Republic: John Wanamaker of Philadelphia and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of New York are both capitalists, both employers of labor and both inclined to "look backward," but they do not agree upon the question of the recognition of labor unions.

Rockefeller is by far the younger man, but he has the older viewpoint. Within the last few years the Philadelphia capitalist has caught the newer viewpoint, advocating a day of eight hours or less, two holidays a week, a modified minimum wage and other industrial reforms.

"It is an insane thing not to recognize union labor," the Philadelphian testified before the United States commission on industrial relations.

Mr. Wanamaker does not find the labor unions altogether righteous and perfect. He believes that labor has suffered terribly from poor leadership, a belief with which many laboring men will be glad to agree. He objects to the limitation of the number of those who are permitted to take up trades, and with this labor will not agree.

He infers that organized labor must be given recognition by all employers in the future. Regulation of labor even as capital is regulated is hinted in his testimony. The department of commerce and labor is suggested as the final court for the disposition of all labor disputes. He would have arbitration take the place of wasteful and even bloody industrial war.

John Wanamaker is an old man, but he has been thinking new thoughts. John D. Rockefeller is a young man, but he thinks the thoughts of the past.

A Plea to Pinchot.

Life: Everybody who favors the continuance of the Democrats in office until they have done their job must deprecate the effort of Amos R. E. Pinchot to put George W. Perkins out of the Progressive party.

Pull together, Progressives, pull together! How can you hope to win if you keep heaving one another out of the party? Assail the insidious Root, who burgled the Chicago convention; assault the nefarious Taft, who hit the hand that fed him; climb onto all the old-style Republicans, Paine, Mann, Smoot, Penrose, all of them, but, oh brethren, spare one another! There's hardly enough of you to go 'round as it is—hardly enough for the most necessary exercises—and look at Amos slugging George—the faithful George! What will become of the New Freedom if things go on like that?

Conscientious Scruples.

POLICE CENSORSHIP OF PUBLIC SPEECH.

When a policeman sets up a censorship of public speaking, he starts something that he will have great difficulty in finishing unless he is a rarely intellectual and tactful copper.

The soap box orator is given to utterances that irritate the patriotic conservative, and the temptation to choke him off with an arrest is strong. Experience has shown, however, that to give in to that temptation is folly.

London found this out long ago. In Hyde Park men may say almost anything they choose to say, and policemen listen stolidly and do nothing. Orators in Hyde Park emit the most bizarre and revolutionary doctrines with complete impunity. So long as their language does not violate ordinary conceptions of decency, their oratory may flow undisturbed. Hyde Park has been found to be a valuable safety valve, and anybody with revolutionary doctrines to expound may expound them there till he is black in the face without interruption from the police. Indeed, the policemen on duty there get so inured to violent speech that they yawn boredly before the most inflamed and inflammatory diatribes.

Street speakers must not check street traffic. They must not make so much noise as to disturb peaceful citizens. They must not use profane or indecent language.

But when police regulations go farther than that, and seek to censor the economic and political doctrines that flow from the soapbox orators, they simply become foolish and futile.

The chief effect of an attempt to check free speech is to make martyrs of the speakers, and that is a fate they covet.

Dayton men are kicking on wearing skirts when bathing. They ought to be satisfied if they're allowed to wear the trousers when they are around home.

SUSPICIOUS AMERICA.

A wise and shrewd observer who recently returned from a long stay abroad tells us that one of the things that struck him most forcibly when he got back was the fact that instead of having teamwork in our public affairs, apparently every man's hand is against every other man, and we spend time wrangling and backbiting and challenging each other's records and motives that could be spent profitably in getting us all ahead.

We guess that's about true.

This is an era of suspicion and dissension and blackguarding. We got into it naturally, of course. We let a shrewd and farseeing few skim the cream off our national riches, and then when the picking ceased to be good and the chance to get in on it went by we got mad about it and began abusing the beneficiaries of our neglect. Most of them deserved it, but they didn't deserve abuse for their fat pickings half so much as we deserved it for letting them into the dairy; especially when one big reason why we let them in was because most of us hoped for a chance to slip in ourselves.

The country is getting a striking illustration of this tendency in the proceedings of the committee that has been investigating President Wilson's nominees for the central reserve board.

Some of the senators are examining Thomas D. Jones of Chicago with high-power microscopes, colored blue with concentrated suspicion, because he is a director in a couple of trusts.

Senator Bristow has had his nose to the ground on the cold scent of a rumor that Charles S. Hamlin, one time away back in the mists of ancient history, was employed by the Boston & Maine railroad.

And because he is a Wall Street banker, members of the committee insisted upon a thirty-third degree grand jury inquisition of Paul M. Warburg—insisted so vigorously that Mr. Warburg has requested the president to withdraw his nomination, and the president has done so.

Warburg is known as one of the most scientific bankers of the country. He had consented, for the sake of what he could do toward creating sound financial conditions in his adopted country, to leave a position worth half a million a year for one worth twelve thousand. His selection as a member of the board did more to give the financial world confidence in its work than anything else that has happened.

And now his services are lost because we have come upon a time when to be rich is to be an object of suspicion, and to be a scientist in finance is to be subject to the presumption of treason.

Has it actually come to the point that we must assume because a man had relations of any kind with a corporation that he is a scoundrel and no patriot?

Surely it isn't that bad!

It is true that the blame is largely due to men associated with corporations who have stifled every instinct of patriotism and fairness and decency to get rich. It is true that in a large degree men skilled in finance are inclined to serve their own class rather than the people as a whole—even at the expense of the people as a whole.

But if to have more than seven dollars, to be a stockholder or director in a large corporation, or to have accepted professional employment from a railroad is to be prima facie evidence of treason, requiring positive evidence to offset it, then this country is in a bad way indeed.

But perhaps the country can in time get used to having congressmen pass laws instead of only passing the buck.

CAREFUL!

Oil has been discovered in the province of Alberta, Canada.

So there is an oil stock boom on.

The history of all stock booms will be repeated here. A few fortunes will be made suddenly—mostly to be dissipated almost as suddenly—and thousands will sink their small savings in wildcat holes in the ground.

If humanity ever learned anything about speculation of this sort, there would be no danger. But apparently humanity never learns this particular lesson. Perhaps those who have been burnt in one stock boom profit by the lesson they have paid heavily to learn. But always there is a new crop of suckers.

The Port Arthur News prints this warning, which is as good for Americans as for Canadians:

> Financial journals that have investigated the oil-producing possibilities in Alberta are outspoken in their warnings to the public against investing real money in ventures that have yet to be proved worth while. Particularly it is urged on behalf of the little fellow, the man on salary, to keep out of oil speculations whose promoters offer to sell stock at a few cents a share.
> In the case of Alberta it is claimed by some writers that even if the bubble turned out to be substantially productive of oil, not one quarter of the companies with stock for sale could expect to yield their stockholders a cent's worth of profit in return for the risks they have taken.

About the only real money made in such excitements as these is made by those who SELL stock, not by those who BUY it.

Oscar Straus is to be dropped from the Bull Moose ticket in New York. Why? Oh, nothing, except that he doesn't agree with the big non-boss.

TRUST LAWS AND LABOR.

In an exceptionally able article in the Sunday New York World, answering former Attorney General Wickersham, Samuel Untermeyer defends the proposal in the Clayton bill to exempt labor unions and agricultural co-operative associations from the anti-trust laws.

Mr. Untermeyer takes the stand that the anti-trust law now applies definitely to labor unions. He holds that if the employes in a given concern get together to demand better wages, and threaten to quit work unless their demands are met, this is a flat violation of the Sherman law; and this no matter how just these demands may be.

Was the Sherman law intended to prohibit the organization of labor to better its condition? Was it intended to prevent agricultural producers from combining to better THEIR condition? Or was it aimed at industrial monopoly?

Was it intended to prevent laborers from combining to secure a living wage, or was it intended to prevent schemers from combining to get rich unfairly at the common cost?

Is there no difference between a combination "in restraint of trade" which aims to secure for its members wages that will enable them to live in decency, to give decent housing to their families, and to bring up their children to be good citizens, and a combination in restraint of trade which aims to secure for its members the plunder of monopoly?

Those who hold that labor unions should not be exempted from the anti-trust law must hold that there is no difference.

Says Mr. Untermeyer: "There is no such relation between competition in industry and in the labor of that industry as justifies the application of the same rules to assure the one as to the other. Laws to regulate combinations of capital must necessarily differ from those that regulate combinations of labor. They require radically different treatment and do not belong to the same class of legislation.

"The law may be vicious as applied to capital and essential to social and industrial progress as applied to labor. The perils that lurk in the one do not exist in the other. Granting that there are dangers in the suppression of competition in both, they are not the same dangers and should not be treated with the same remedies. The use that a man may be permitted to make of his faculties should not be subjected to the same rules and restrictions as those that should govern the use of his property.

"If congress may not unlawfully enact laws for the latter purpose that shall not and from the very nature of the case often cannot apply to the former, it can never effectively legislate on any branch of human endeavor with special reference to the proper treatment of that particular subject. Its action would always be open to the charge that the failure to apply the same rule, however inapt and harmful, to varying economic conditions, constitutes class legislation.

"Such arguments proceed from what I believe to be a mistaken conception of the term. They are, I believe, now generally recognized as the last gasp of the special interests against progressive legislation that is intended to curtail their hitherto unrestrained license to exploit the community."

The labor provisions in the pending bills do not legalize violence or destruction of property. They do seek to prevent the absurdity of the exertion of a law aimed at monopoly to prevent labor from securing its just share of the fruits of its toil.

The Colonel will not even admit there is a creek of doubt about the Colombian treaty, to say nothing of a river.

A Champion of "Blackmail"?

New York World: "Ninety per cent of the American people who are at all conversant with our raw and rancid treatment of Colombia at Panama in the autumn of 1903 feel that our unfortunate differences with that country arising out of the Panama incident ought to be settled in a broad, decent and honorable way. The new treaty, if ratified, will attain that result. If it is not ratified, the incident will be a running sore for decades to come. If the American people will investigate and learn the truth of the question, the treaty will be ratified by sheer force of public opinion."—From an interview with James T. Du Bois in the Times.

The man who expresses this emphatic approval of what Mr. Roosevelt calls "merely the belated payment of blackmail" is not a Wilson Democrat or a Bryan underling. He is a Republican of long experience in the service of the United States who held important offices under Mr. Roosevelt and was Mr. Taft's minister to Colombia.

Mr. Du Bois carried on the negotiations with Colombia that were instituted under the Taft administration, and no man is more competent to discuss the treaty now in the United States senate.

Would Mr. Roosevelt venture to say that James T. Du Bois is a champion of "blackmail"?

A Lay o' the Day.

O, I'm homesick for the old days, the days that used to be,
When the stage coach held the highway, and the frigate ruled the sea.
We go scuttling over land,
Skyrocketing through air,
On our spitfire devil-wagons,
Getting—where?

Give us back the long days, the calm days, the days when men could dream,
When the town was still a village, and there wasn't any steam,
Though we carry round on wires
The live Promethean Spark,
We are rather more than ever
In the dark.

Though truly these be live days, and brave days, days when strong men grind
On the flints of circumstance, cutting edges to the mind:
Yet the stroke that whets a hatchet,
Turns a razor edge;
Lest we blunt the finer spirit,
Better hedge.

Better give ourselves an off day, a whole day, a day to size up things,
To weigh the fact that after all the soul was born with wings,
And might, had we the courage left
To break its prison bars,
Outsoar these aeroplanes, and float
Among the stars.

If ever dawns a new day, the true day, the day when we are through
With this ragtime-tango living—O, I know what I shall do;
I'll sit me on the quiet grass
Under a quiet tree—
I'll sit and very like I'll whistle—
Quietly.

—Jefferson B. Fletcher in the Nation.

Preparing the Way.

Lippincott's: Claude had disobeyed his parents, and his mother knew it.

"I am afraid," she said, "that when I tell your father what you have been doing this forenoon he will punish you severely."

"Have you got to tell him, mother?" asked the boy.

"Yes," was the reply; "I shall tell him immediately after dinner.

"Well, mother," said the boy, "give him a real good dinner, won't you? You might do as much as that for me."

A Question of Honor

Editorial in the New York World.

What James T. Du Bois has to say in answer to Mr. Roosevelt's attack upon the Colombian treaty deserves the sober consideration not only of every member of congress but of every American citizen.

Mr. Du Bois is not a partisan pleader. He is a Republican who has held many responsible public offices under various Republican administrations. He was connected with the state department during all the years that Mr. Roosevelt was president and he was selected by Mr. Taft to be the United States minister to Colombia. He holds no office under President Wilson, and his appeal in behalf of the Colombian treaty is an appeal for justice.

There are two points in Mr. Du Bois' answer to Mr. Roosevelt which deserve special attention. In reply to the charge that Colombia sought to blackmail the United States, Mr. Du Bois testifies from his personal experience that "the public men of Colombia compare well with the public men of other countries in intelligence and respectability."

He might have gone further and said that in the confidential correspondence of the state department there is not a line or a word or a syllable to indicate that Colombia was trying to blackmail the United States. There is no suggestion of such a thing in Minister Beaupre's dispatches to Secretary Hay. There is no suggestion of such a thing in Secretary Hay's dispatches to Mr. Beaupre. The records of the state department prove that the people of Colombia were practically unanimous in opposition to the terms of the Hay-Herran treaty, in the belief that it sacrificed their national interests. If the rejection of a treaty on such grounds is "blackmail," then it must have been blackmail when the United States senate rejected the original Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

In aswer to Mr. Roosevelt's assertion that "the people of Panama were a unit in demanding the revolution," Mr. Du Bois says:

> I can say, and prove it, that a handful of men, who were to be the direct beneficiaries of the revolution, conceived it, and not the hundredth part of the inhabitants knew of the revolt until an American officer, in the uniform of the United States army, raised the flag of the new republic.

Here again Mr. Du Bois errs on the side of understatement. He might have said that the Roosevelt administration had previously sent military spies into Panama to estimate the ability of Colombia to suppress an uprising, and that the revolution did not take place until the money which bought it was sent down from Wall street by representatives of the French Canal company. This was not a revolution of the people of Panama. It was a revolution purchased in the open market by the French Panama Canal company, and it was successful only because the United States navy, under orders from Theodore Roosevelt, prevented Colombia from suppressing it.

Mr. Du Bois' answer to Mr. Roosevelt is the answer that the wise and venerable Senator Hoar made to him when he sought to justify his part in the seizure of Panama:

> I hope I may never live to see the day when the interests of my country are placed above its honor.

Mediums of Prosperity

Christian Science Monitor: Few facts in connection with advertising stand out as clearly as the contemporary demand of the advertiser that he get what he pays for. The machinery for probing, auditing and publishing facts about periodical circulations, whether alleged or real, increases each year in complexity of detail and vigor of application. The "say so" period is past. Men who are to use "mediums" want "to be shown." This being the trend, some of its by-products are interesting. For one thing, it has restored the daily newspaper to pre-eminence and recognized worth as a bringer of business to persons, institutions or corporations seeking buyers of their goods, properties or service. Confirmation of this estimate has been made to the national electric light and power convention by a special committee of investigation charged with the duty of bringing in a comparative rating.

Reasons for the supremacy of the daily paper are numerous. Suffice it here and now to mention its high power of iteration, one of the most influential factors in all forms of advocacy, commercial or otherwise. To read any form of persuasive appeal six or seven times a week, instead of once a week or once a month, obviously is to subject oneself oftener to the likelihood of taking particular notice of the plea. Or, to put the matter in quite another way, any person wanting knowledge of what to buy and where to buy it, be the commodity what it may, is more likely to be served with his desired information in time to make it serviceable if he gets his facts day by day rather than week by week or month by month. Here, of course, is where the daily paper serves through its contemporaneousness. Add this to the quality of iteration and it makes a combination difficult to surpass. A medium of publicity that will say oftenest for the advertiser to the reader and buyer what the former wishes the latter to know, and that will soonest bring to the purchaser any up-to-date information he may wish to have, is in particular demand, and statistics of recent years show where the large advertisers' appropriations are going.

Fortunately, this reaction in favor of the daily paper has come at the time when it could make easier a process of reformation of journalistic advertising standards now well on its way through the United States and Canada, a process which will receive its final touches at the coming Toronto convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. The coincidence with rising ethical demands from the public and from advertising specialists has had a wholesome effect on the daily press of the United States during the last few years.

The Deciding Voice.

The Popular Magazine: In a business men's club in a Western town there sprang up two factions, one which criticized the steward because he did not provide the members with good meals, and one which defended him hotly.

The dispute got fiercer and fiercer. Half the club wanted to fire the steward at once. The other half said he was efficient.

Then, without warning, the steward himself decided the momentous question.

One day at lunch time a member of the club asked the waiter:

"Where's the steward?"

"He ain't here," replied the waiter. "He said he was going down the street to get something to eat."

"Bargains."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Austin of Tennessee is a professional kidder. While up in New York a while ago he saw a large, gaudily decorated yellow limousine car standing by the curb, with a liveried chauffeur presiding haughtily at the wheel. It was ornamented a good deal like a lunch wagon, such as one sees on street corners, and it was about the size of a lunch wagon. The chauffeur, however, had never thought of this resemblance, and he was greatly astonished when Austin, a total stranger to him, paused in passing the car and inquired:

"Could you let me have a couple of hamburger sandwiches and a cup of coffee?"

One might think, naturally enough, that Representative Walter L. Hensley of Missouri is a peaceable man.

He has been fighting for international peace, and is the author of the resolution for a so-called naval holiday—looking to a lay-off from battleship building for one year—but when Hensley was practicing law out in Missouri he was known as the fighting lawyer of those parts.

Hensley was not going about looking for trouble, but people who went in for trouble and doted on it kept overtaking him and crossing his trail. For four years he was prosecuting attorney in his county, and during much of that time he found it a good idea to carry a neat little revolver in his pocket.

Except for the judge before whom he tried one murder case, Hensley probably would not be with us today.

The defendant in the case was greatly prejudiced against Hensley's side, and made the boast that if he were found guilty he would kill the prosecutor.

Little was thought of this at the time, for murderers were always talking about killing people, and even Hensley himself took it for merely bold badinage. But when the jury came in with their verdict, the judge got an inkling that it was going to be guilty, and he delayed having it announced. Then he tipped off Hensley to look out, and also sent word to the sheriff to keep particularly close watch on the prisoner.

Hensley stood off to one side with his hand on a revolver in his coat pocket. When the foreman of the jury announced "Guilty," the prisoner turned frantically toward his brother, who had a gun ready, but the sheriff pulled a gun himself and stopped their funny business in the nick of time.

Although he is a man who has been in scores of bitter fights and is intense on whatever he is doing, Hensley rarely, if ever, swears. When he is moderately vexed he resorts to the expression "By Grab!" And when he is exasperated beyond all human endurance he bursts forth with a "Dog take it!"

Ambassador J. J. Jusserand of France and a small party of friends, including Ambassador Bakhmeteff of Russia, went to the theater one night a while ago and had themselves comfortably incarcerated in a box.

In a little while members of the audience who chanced to take note of a certain feature of the box party began to look at the box to the neglect of the show. Yet the ambassadorial group were as quiet and orderly and inconspicuous as a box party could well be.

The thing that attracted the attention of discriminating spectators was Mr. Jusserand's unconscious feat of excelling all others at between-act conversation. He is a man of parts and achievements, and never lacks for a word or a phrase. When he talks he does so with enthusiasm and polite gestures. The others in the party seemed to realize their comparative lack of conversational staying qualities and worked in relays. One by one they tried to keep up with Mr. Jusserand, but none was able to cope with him. Each in turn was driven back, slowly but certainly, to a conversational corner. Then another would try to parry the volley of wit and comment. But it was no use. Eventually Mr. Jusserand had them practically all lying limp over the figurative ropes.

For a time his wife tried to carry on a rapid conversation with him, but it was noted that after a time she changed her seat with a look of despair.

As a striking example of saying the wrong thing at the right moment, one may cite the case of the senator's wife who fell into conversation with Mrs. Champ Clark at the White House.

The Clarks, as everybody knows full well, feel that they would today be living in the White House except for one thing, and that one thing is William Jennings Bryan, who prevented the speaker's nomination at Baltimore. Naturally, and obviously, they care little for Mr. Bryan. The senator's wife knew this, but in a moment of absent-mindedness she turned to the speaker's wife and remarked, by way of small talk: "There's Mr. Bryan. I think he's perfectly lovely; don't you?"

It was not a wise selection of conversational topic.

A Common-Sense Calaboose.

The World's Work: Duluth, Minn., at the instance of the Commercial club, has established a work farm as a substitute for a jail for petty offenders who are not habitual criminals. When a drunken lumberjack, or miner, or railroad "section hand" is sentenced to ten or twenty days of confinement, he is sent to this farm of 1,000 acres, a few miles from the city, to do his "hard labor." The "farm" is mostly second-growth timber land. A part of it has been cleared, and here rude temporary buildings have been erected. In the midst of a great pile of logs stands a portable sawmill. The workmen are the petty offenders; the foremen are unarmed guards. The men are at the sort of work they are used to, in the fresh air. They are under restraint; the law has laid its hand on their shoulders and is reminding them that society can enforce its ordinances. But the lesson is taught in a temper of firm admonition, not in a vengeful temper nor by a senseless period of stagnation in an iron cage. It is all the more likely to be effective for that; and it leaves no ugly scars on the spirit of the offenders.

Proof.

Houston Post: "Superstitious after all these years! Don't you remember, on the evening we first met how a black cat ran across our path and you swore some misfortune would happen to you?"

"And it wasn't a year until we were married! What greater proof do you want?"

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Got Your Guard Up?

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Anoka's new park has been named Windego, probably in honor of Editor Granville Pease.

For a Time at Least.

Little Falls Transcript: State politics may now well be allowed to rest in the hands of the nominees on the state ticket and the voters themselves. If the busybodies will let them alone they will without doubt handle the matter to the satisfaction of all most concerned in the welfare of the state.

Boost for Prof. Andrist.

Wheaton Footprints: C. M. Andrist, who is the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, has tendered his resignation as professor on the state university faculty to devote his time to the campaign. As he is a good, clean man and an orator of no mean ability Mr. Andrist will be a strong power for good in bringing success to the ticket.

Farley Dare's Impression.

Walker Pilot: A state weight and measure man was in town last week to pry yard measure tacks out of the counters, scowl at the bushel baskets and make junk out of a few more scales. Sometimes a man gets drunk and does almost as much damage in a town as a scale inspector, but not very often. Too bad our old friend, Carrie Nation, isn't with us any more. She would have enjoyed a position with the bureau of weights and measures.

Now, Mr. Pease, Bob's Waiting.

Princeton Union: Old Pease and his Anoka Union supported Eberhart and knocked Lee, lied about Rines and extolled Preus, and was virulent against J. Adam Bede, with the usual result. Lee, Rines and Bede carried Anoka county by a handsome majority—almost two to one. The good people of Anoka know Mr. Pease and fully understand the motive that impels him to support or oppose any candidate for office.

Business Situation.

Virginia Enterprise: President Wilson coined a very apt phrase the other day when he applied the term of "the psychological business depression" to the present industrial stagnation. Likewise, there is but small question he spoke the truth when he said that big business is doing everything possible to delay the administration program of anti-trust legislation. Quite naturally big business would do just that. There is no question of the large influence it can wield and there is no question that it is buying itself. The administration anti-trust program was well undertaken. National legislation of this kind is needed to restore to the people some of their lost confidence in our scheme of government. But the task that confronts the administration is not one lightly to be undertaken. It will win its fight if it is conducted along safe and sane lines and it will find that honest big business is with it and not all big business is dishonest. There is truth in the contention that business has been needlessly harrassed, but there is a considerable tendency to overdraw the extent to which it has been so annoyed, and the fault is not more with present than past administrations.

Who Is to Blame?

Stillwater Prison Mirror: The Duluth Herald printed a news item the other day that should set the world to thinking. It tells of a woman being convicted for stealing, and sentenced for the eighth time to serve a term in the state prison. The woman is 36 years old, and what is commonly known as a confirmed criminal.

Let us see what made her a criminal. Who is responsible for her abnormal nature—if she is abnormal?

When this woman was 10 years old she was arrested for stealing some trinkets from a store. The judge sentenced her then to a reformatory; and she became known to the world as the "child convict." Thrown thus among older criminals, this little 10-year-old girl grew up amid environments that have made bad men and women of many who might otherwise have been saved. In the reformatory she learned new tricks of the trade, she heard only the stories of crime and the boastings of clever thieves; her young mind was trained along a path of darkness; hate for right and society was engendered, instead of love for home and respect for the law. Beautiful thoughts and childish fancies were transformed into hideous desires for revenge and general wrongdoing.

And what has been the result? After being released from the reformatory, the child quite naturally followed the trend of thought instilled into her mind there. She met another former inmate—one of the only playmates she had ever had, and they stole. Again she was sentenced. And so on goes the story. Every time she was released she stole, and within an incredibly short period of liberty, was returned to prison; so that of the thirty-six years which she lived, she has spent twenty-six behind bars of steel.

And again we ask, who is to blame?

Not a Battle Lost.

Boston Globe: Spectacularly and continuously successful has been the career of Pancho Villa since he entered Mexico from El Paso on a borrowed horse with $7.50 and a revolver to start a revolution.

During the past eighteen months he has captured the following cities: Torreon (first time), Juarez, Ojinaga, Chihuahua, Gomez Palacio, Torreon (second time), San Pedro, Saltillo and Zacatecas.

Battles were fought at all those places, excepting Chihuahua, and none was lost.

The characterization of the rebel general as the "Mexican Napoleon" is not wholly inept.

He already has Huerta shaking in his boots between drinks, and the hours of the Victoriano at the capital appear to be numbered.

More Particular.

National Food Magazine: Johnny, out to dinner, thrice refused chicken gravy, of which he was very fond. His hostess, who had added macaroni to the gravy, finally said:

"Why, I thought you liked chicken gravy?"

"I do sometimes," replied Johnny, "but my mamma never puts the windpipes in."

Buffalo Express: "One hundred and nine degrees at Radcliffe," was the headline that greeted Mr. Failguy's eye.

"Great Caesar's ghost," he exclaimed. "How can people live in a town like that?"

Wanamaker and Rockefeller.

St. Louis Republic: John Wanamaker of Philadelphia and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of New York are both capitalists, both employers of labor and both inclined to "look backward," but they do not agree upon the question of the recognition of labor unions.

Rockefeller is by far the younger man, but he has the older viewpoint. Within the last few years the Philadelphia capitalist has caught the newer viewpoint, advocating a day of eight hours or less, two holidays a week, a modified minimum wage and other industrial reforms.

"It is an insane thing not to recognize union labor," the Philadelphian testified before the United States commission on industrial relations.

Mr. Wanamaker does not find the labor unions altogether righteous and perfect. He believes that labor has suffered terribly from poor leadership, a belief with which many laboring men will be glad to agree. He objects to the limitation of the number of those who are permitted to take up trades, and with this labor will not agree.

He infers that organized labor must be given recognition by all employers in the future. Regulation of labor even as capital is regulated is hinted in his testimony. The department of commerce and labor is suggested as the final court for the disposition of all labor disputes. He would have arbitration take the place of wasteful and even bloody industrial war.

John Wanamaker is an old man, but he has been thinking new thoughts. John D. Rockefeller is a young man, but he thinks the thoughts of the past.

A Plea to Pinchot.

Life: Everybody who favors the continuance of the Democrats in office until they have done their job must deprecate the effort of Amos R. E. Pinchot to put George W. Perkins out of the Progressive party.

Pull together, Progressives, pull together! How can you hope to win if you keep heaving one another out of the party? Assail the Insidious Root, who burgled the Chicago convention; assault the nefarious Taft, who hit the hand that fed him; climb onto all the old-style Republicans, Paine, Mann, Smoot, Penrose, all of them, but, oh brethren, spare one another! There's hardly enough of you to go 'round as it is—hardly enough for the most necessary exercises—and look at Amos slugging George—the faithful George! What will become of the New Freedom if things go on like that?

Conscientious Scruples.

Kansas City Journal: "Why don't you want to serve?"

"I have conscientious scruples against capital punishment."

"I don't understand such foolishness," snapped the attorney roughly.

"No," responded the other serenely, "I didn't suppose a lawyer would."

Manufactures Imported Gain Only 8.8 Per Cent in Year.

Operation of Trade Under New Tariff Is Shown.

Washington, July 8.—Foreign manufacturers sent into the United States during the first eight months of the new tariff system just 8.8 per cent more of their finished product than they did under the old.

This was pointed to last night by Secretary Redfield as ample demonstration that there was no ground for the fears of American factory owners that they would be driven from business by the Democratic tariff.

Importations of foodstuffs showed a large percentage of increase in the eight months which ended with May, while foodstuffs exports fell off substantially. There was a relatively small reduction in the amount of completed manufactures exported.

"The figures," said Secretary Redfield, "show, as it is normal they should, the results of the world-wide depression in commerce as modified by our own shortage of foodstuffs, arising from the inadequate crops of last year, which condition is rapidly passing away.

Competing Power Sustained.

"They indicate also that our competing power in manufacturing is well sustained, because at a time when our commercial rivals are eager to sell and unwilling to buy, the item of exports of fully finished manufactures is depressed relatively little, and the item of imports of finished manufactures increases relatively little."

The total increase of importations of foodstuffs, the department's figures showed, was $56,750,437, while the total increase in importations for the period was only $55,136,685.

In the line of finished manufactures, Mr. Redfield said, the United States was maintaining its foreign business well.

"The decrease of exports of foodstuffs," the secretary added, "amounts in the eight months to $97,573,558, a fact sufficiently explained by our not having the foodstuffs to sell. The present large promise of fine crops has already begun to alter this situation.

Depression Abroad.

"A further decrease appears in manufactures for further use in manufacturing of $30,668,377, reflecting the depressed condition of industries in foreign countries."

Out of a total decrease in exports for the eight months of $145,703,640, more than $128,000,000 was in foodstuffs and manufactures for further use in manufacturing.

Total imports for the eight months were $1,288,656,041, compared with $1,233,519,365 for the same period last year. Free merchandise for the two periods was respectively $800,214,038 and $683,015,455. Total exports were $1,640,367,305 against $1,786,070,945.

Imports for May, 1914, amounted to $164,209,515 compared with $133,773,713 a year ago.

MAY REVERT TO OLD PLAN

Murchison Wants Property Owners to Pay for Storm Sewers.

Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, submitted a proposal to the city council yesterday afternoon to go back to the old method of assessing the costof storm sewers against the property benefitted.

He brought up the question in connection with a request which had been received from some property owners on Vermilion road for a storm sewer. He explained that he desired to get an expression of opinion from his colleagues and the matter will probably be discussed at an early meeting of the council. The resolution relative to the storm sewer was laid over for one week.

The old charter originally did not provide for the payment of storm sewers by the city, but it was amended to that effect, the amendment being passed at the same time as that which required that the cost or street intersections be paid by general taxation.

The new charter specifies that only street intersections shall be paid from the permanent improvement fund. No mention is made of storm sewers. But since its adoption the city has been proceeding as though it were required.

Commissioner Murchison said that considerable expense is caused the city because of storm sewers and that it might be well to discontinue it, but not without careful consideration and ample notice to the public.

CIRCUS PROMISES ANIMAL ACTORS

Many Stars of Dumb Kingdom on Way With Ringling Bros.

From the time the trained kangaroos, "Big Bob" and "Long Tom," start their three-round boxing bouts their sparring partners, until the clown bear, Tony, cuts his capers in the hippodrome track, there is not an idle moment in that portion of the Ringling Brothers' circus program which has been dedicated to trained animals.

The kangaroos, who wrestle and leap hurdles in addition to giving fistic exhibitions, are exceptional among animal talent, and the clown bear possesses a real sense of humor. But accompanying these performers are scores of others even more marvelous. There are three troupes of wonderful seals who play at basketball, ride horses, give concerts on fourteen different musical instruments and perform feats of juggling which surpass human attainments. There are five herds of trained elephants including the famous nursery troupe of pickaninny pachyderms. These ponderous fellows dance the latest tangos, give an imitation of a minstrel band, operate and talk over telephones, play at cards and billiards and walk ropes. There are a dozen bands of beautiful trained horses and knowing ponies. These are seen in a progression of dances extending from the quadrille to the modern hesitation waltz and the "grape vine." Other troupes reared upon their hind legs, march to the ra-ta-tat-tat of drums like soldiers, jump through great barrels or, standing in them, are whisked out of the rings. Still others of snow-white coats, pose as silent as marble statues in representation of great paintings.

Added to these are trick mules, pigs, goats, cats, geese, and dogs that pose in living pictures or ride horseback. There is a troupe of every wild and domtsic animal known to the trainer's art and each has its clown. Ringling Brothers will exhibit here Thursday, July 23.

$161,000,000 LOAN SUBSCRIBED 40 TIMES.

Paris, July 8.—Although the Bank of France has not made any official announcement, it was reported on the bourse that the public had applied for more than forty times the amount of the issue made yesterday of $161,000,000 of the new government 3½ per cent loan. If this should prove true, the applications have amounted to more than the entire national debt of France.

Hope for the Bald and Near-Bald

SKIN specialists whose hair tonic happens to contain an antiseptic ingredient will hail with vindication the news that the bacillus of dandruff has at last been captured alive in Europe. Alopecia areata, as the doctors call the humiliating affection of the scalp, is caused by a germ. The germ enjoys the title of "the micro-bacillus of Sabouraud," being named after its discoverer. It acts on the hair follicle precisely like the electric needle used in removing superfluous hair; the microbe burrows down the hair-shaft and, painlessly yet with discouraging persistence, kills the root for all time.

Dandruff Contagious.

Corroborating Sabouraud's announcement, Prof. Lassar, another famous dermatologist, demonstrated beyond all cavil the contagiousness of dandruff, the precursor of baldness. Guinea-pigs shampooed with a pomade containing dandruff scales from a human being promptly developed obstinate attacks of dandruff. The dandruff germ naturally gets in his best work under a lid; ladies' millinery won't hold him at all; he has no use for fresh air and sunshine, in fact he closely resembles all other disease germs in his taste and habits.

Let the barber beware. Better, let his patrons stick to the original motto: Caveat emptor. At times, reluctantly, one must visit a tonsorial parlor; but it is no trouble to take along one's individual comb and brush.

Hats a Cause.

Hard hats, besides aiding and abetting the growth of dandruff germs, interfere with the nutrition of the scalp by pressing upon the arteries. Tight collars, shallow breathing, wetting the hair frequently, indoor occupation, derangements of digestive or genital organs and insufficient brushing are contributing factors of premature baldness. These factors reduce the scalp's resistance to the ever-eager micro-bacillus. In another chapter will be considered the care of the scalp.

Questions and Answers.

Mrs. R. L. D. writes: Are side elastics or garter elastics preferable for growing girls? Friends have claimed that side elastics sometimes cause round shoulders.

REPLY.

Side elastics taking support from the waist sometimes do encourage round shoulders and hollow chest. They should take support from suspenders over the shoulders. Garter elastics are bad for every one.

REPLY.

Yes. Typhoid often attacks babies. The prophylactic is administered in doses gauged by body weight, and children have no special trouble from it.

Honest Convict Overcomes Scruples and Leaves Prison.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 8.—"John Doe, No. 10," last week hailed as the most honest convict in the Kansas penitentiary, has escaped. He walked away from the prison pump house, to which post he was attached after his refusal last week to accept a parole intended for another convict.

"John Doe, No. 11" was paroled last week by Governor Hodges for his good work in aiding the construction of the new twine plant at the state prison. It making out the papers, however, a clerk made them read "John Doe, No. 10." The papers came to the latter individual and he could have left the prison. Instead he told the warden he believed the papers were not intended for him.

Because of his honesty the prisoner was given an easy job at the pump house. Yesterday when his guards were not about, "John Doe, No. 10" walked into a thick woods nearby to the liberty he had refused to accept last week.

COMPETITION FOR POTATO GROWERS

Contest Open to All Children Attending School in Midway.

A precedent which will receive hearty encouragement from agricultural enthusiasts of St. Louis county has been set by the school board of the town of Midway. At a recent meeting of the board, plans for a community agricultural fair in the fall were discussed and $20 was appropriated for prizes in a potato growing competition.

The contest will be open to all of the children attending school in the three districts located within the Midway township. Forty-eight children—both boys and girls—have entered the competition and a keen rivalry has grown up among them. The school board and the various teachers of the rural schools in the district are cooperating and are doing everything possible to stimulate an interest in the contest.

The community fair for the Midway district will take place Oct. 1. The details will be worked out later. The general plan of the affair receives the hearty indorsement of A. B. Hostetter, district agricultural agent. "We would like to see other school boards encourage just such things," said Mr. Hostetter. "It is right along the idea of agricultural instruction in the rural schools and in the long run will be productive of great results."

ERRORS IN CHICAGO STATISTICS OF 4TH

Duluth Is Credited With One Death and Five Injuries on Holiday.

Fourth of July casualty figures for the United States prepared in Chicago and published there yesterday in the Chicago Tribune credit one death and five injuries to Duluth as a result of the celebration of Independence day. In reality, there was but one injury here all day Saturday and no deaths.

Jacob Cayo, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund M. Cayo, 527 West Seventh street, was shot in the back with a wad from a blank cartridge fired by Louis Signorelli, 13 years old, 413½ West Sixth street. The boy is now at St. Mary's hospital, where he is this morning reported to be much improved and on the road to recovery. He is being treated by Dr. F. J. Lepak. This accidental shooting was the only one reported for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Saturday.

The reports of the 1914 casualties as published in Chicago give a total of ten deaths and 867 injuries in the entire country. It is expected that these totals will be changed, as several deaths are expected from lockjaw. The final figures for ten years compiled by the American Medical association and published in August of each year are as follows:

	Dead.	Injured.
1912	41	937
1911	57	1,646
1910	131	2,792
1909	215	5,093
1908	163	5,460
1907	164	4,249
1906	168	5,308
1905	182	4,994
1904	183	3,986
1903	466	3,983

WATER ENTERS THE SIMPLON TUNNEL.

Brigue, Switzerland, July 8.—The Simplon tunnel was inundated yesterday by a subterranean stream which burst through the retaining wall and flooded the tunnel to a depth of two feet. A train was derailed in the middle of the tunnel but no one was hurt. The passengers were obliged to walk several miles to Iselle. A large number of American tourists were stalled at Brigue and Domadsola. Many of them telephoned for automobiles and crossed the pass, while others went around by way of the pass of St. Gothard.

Workmen were set to repairing the tracks and pumping the water, and it is hoped traffic can be resumed today.

THEN——and——NOW

Seventy-nine years ago today the Liberty Bell tolled for the last time. On that day it was proclaiming the nation's grief over the death of Chief Justice John Marshall, whose body was being taken from Philadelphia to its final resting place in Virginia. Suddenly, the tone of the bell changed, became muffled as with grief. The bell ringer hurried to the tower of the State House. He found a great crack in the side of the bell. In the circumstances many professed to see a fitting climax to one of the most important epochs in the nation's history. Fifty-nine years before the bell had rung out the glad tidings that the Declaration of Independence had been signed and adopted—this day its tongue forever became silent during the funeral services of Chief Justice Marshall, the last of the signers of the Declaration and the last of George Washington's associates. Once before the bell had cracked. Made in England at the order and expense of the colony of Pennsylvania, it was brought to Philadelphia in 1753, where it was given its first test for tone. The first blow of the clapper made a wide crack in the bell. A Philadelphia firm offered to recast it and rather than wait for its return from England the colonists turned it over to them. The foundrymen thought to increase the sweetness of its tone by increasing the proportion of copper, but they deadened the tone so that it could hardly be heard. Again the bell was recast and it proving successful this time it was hung in the State House steeple where the following eighty-two years its tongue heralded every important national event.

Today Liberty Bell lies in state in the State House in Philadelphia, where its first clarion peal of liberty rang out. It is one of the nation's most revered relics and every year thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the country visit this shrine. Before it was placed in its present glass case one might often see distinguished men, women and patriotic school children put out their hands to touch the sacred relic. It was with a similar feeling that President Taft once visited it, and after gazing at it for some moments earnestly exclaimed: "I would love to just lay my hand upon the bell!" His wish was readily granted, the guide having the case opened for the distinguished visitor. Six times has the venerable bell been carried to distant cities to take part in anniversaries and exhibitions. Ninety thousand school children successfully appealed to the governor of Pennsylvania to have it sent to the St. Louis exposition. During the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill it was escorted through the streets of Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, itself a relic of the Revolutionary times. It was adorned with wreaths, and the spectators, many of them being women, kissed its brazen sides with reverence. It has journeyed into the South three times, to New Orleans, Atlanta, and Charleston. Two months ago it was reported that the crack in the bell is gradually becoming larger, and special precautions have been taken to preserve the bell for the future generations.

West End

ACTIVITY IN THE SCHOOL ELECTION

West Enders Working for Dr. Greeley's and Bond Issue's Success.

Members of the West End Commercial club and other West end civic organizations will conduct an active campaign during the next ten days in behalf of the candidacy of Dr. L. Q. Greeley for membership on the school board and also for the carrying of the $200,000 bond issue. The former it is expected, will be solidly supported by the West end people because they desire a representative on the board from this part of the city, and the bond issue is to be supported because considerable of the amount will be used for the construction of the junior high school on the grounds adjoining the Lincoln school.

Residents of the West end have been asking for the building of the junior high school for several years and if the bond issue carries, the request will be realized next year. The construction of this junior high school will, it is said, relieve the congested condition of the schools of this district, many of them now being taxed to their limit of seating capacity.

The six-room addition to the Merritt school which is also being planned, if the bonds carry, will also help toward relieving the crowded condition of that school. The overcrowding of the Merritt school has been the subject of discussion of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement clubs at many of its meetings.

"We are entitled to the solid support of the city for Dr. Greeley for the school board," said George M. Jensen, secretary of the West End Commercial club last evening. "The people of the city should also solidly support the bond issue, because this is needed to make the improvements in the schools. The western end of the city is making the most rapid strides in growth and it is up to the city to provide proper school facilities for the increase caused by the influx of new residents."

HANDSOME ALTAR PAINTING.

Trinity Lutheran Church Celebrates Hanging of New Production.

"Christ's Rescue of Peter on the Sea of Galilee," an altar painting by Rudolph Ronge of the West end will be hung and exhibited for the first time at Trinity English Lutheran church, Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street, Friday evening. Special services in honor of the hanging of the painting will be held, beginning at 8 o'clock that evening.

The painting will cover the entire background at the rear of the altar.

The program is being arranged by Rev. F. O. Hanson, pastor of the church. A short sermon will be preached and addresses given by other Lutheran pastors of the city. A special musical program has also been planned.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF TRINITY LODGE.

Members of Trinity lodge, U. D., A. F. & A. M., and their families are enjoying the first annual picnic given by the lodge this afternoon at Lincoln park. At 2 o'clock nearly the entire membership had turned out.

A program of sports, games and various kinds of contests will be held during the afternoon. The committee in charge has also planned several other forms of entertainment. A picnic lunch at which the members and their families will all partake has been planned for 5 o'clock.

Fire in Empty House.

Fire was discovered at 2:10 o'clock this morning in an empty house at 1216 West Superior street. The cause of the fire is unknown. It was put out by the department before it had gained much headway. The loss will be about $50.

West End Briefs.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Second Presbyterian church is holding a meeting this afternoon in the church parlors. Those conducting the program are Mrs. J. McInnis and Mrs. M. S Larson.

Mrs. John Wallin and Mrs. William Peterson will be hostesses tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church. The meeting will be held in the church parlors.

Rev. John J. Daniels will speak this evening at the midweek services to be held in the Swedish Mission church. Following the services, a meeting of the Men's Welfare club will be held. At the latter meeting, Rev. Mr. Daniels will give a talk on "Rules of Spelling in the Swedish Language."

Progress lodge, No. 6, Degree of Honor, will initiate a class of candidates at its meeting tomorrow evening at the Columbia hall. A social session will follow the business meeting.

I. O. Lamson of Minneapolis is spending a few days visiting relatives in this end of the city.

BIG MAN COMING FOR NEW "Y" JOB

Portland Employment Authority Will Build Up Department Here.

The Duluth Young Men's Christian association will have one of the best employment bureaus next year of any "Y" in the United States according to plans already under way.

The best indication of this fact is the coming this week of S. W. Harris of Portland, Or., to begin his duties as head of this department. He has already left Portland and is expected at any time in Duluth.

Before Mr. Harris arrives it will be impossible for the local secretaries to make a forecast as to his plans, but it is understood that the employment department will be one of the big features of the work in Duluth next season. Between now and the beginning of the fall season Mr. Harris will do some preliminary work so that everything may start off in full swing early in the fall.

The Portland Y. M. C. A. employment department with which Mr. Harris has been connected for a long time, is conceded by association men to be about the best in the country. So wide a reputation has the work there attained that the Chicago association sent a man there for a year's training so as to put the Chicago department on a higher and more efficient basis of operation.

Mr. Harris is said to be something of a physical wonder as well as an able employment authority. He is six feet and seven inches in height, and while his weight is not known at the local office, it is said to be close to the 250 mark. In other words he is expected to prove a big man for a big job.

ABATEMENT CASE WILL BE HEARD

Action to Prove Clifton Hotel Was House of Ill-Fame.

Before the May term of the district court comes to a close, it is expected that the nuisance abatement action against Mary Lee Flohic, otherwise known as Madame Gain, the Alecsi Real Estate company and August Le Flohic, will be brought to trial. The case was called for trial yesterday but by mutual consent of counsel was continued to the foot of the calendar by Judge Bert Feller.

The case will be tried before the court without a jury. The action is one in which C. H. Troyer, chief of police appears as complainant or relator and with the state of Minnesota as plaintiff in the case. The case was the first one started under the new law, the constitutionality of which has recently been upheld by the supreme court in a case appealed from the Ramsey county courts.

The county attorney's office, which will prosecute the case, will undertake to ascertain the fact that the Clifton hotel, now known as the Elgin, 321 West First street, was operated by Madame Gain as a house of ill-fame last July. The law provides that if the charge is substantiated the furniture and fixtures may be confiscated and the building closed for one year against any use, legal or otherwise.

In a criminal action, Madame Gain was convicted of the offense of conducting the Clifton hotel as a house of ill-fame. She has appealed from an order of Judge Cant denying her a new trial. The appeal is now pending in the supreme court. The Alecsi Real Estate company, a corporation controlled by Madame Gain and August Le Flohic, her brother, has intervened in the action claiming ownership to the building and to the fixtures in the hotel.

INTERURBAN LINES NEEDED

Former Duluthian Advocates Opening Territory Tributary to Duluth.

Suburban trolley lines are the greatest business need of Duluth, according to F. W. Kugler, formerly one of the best known of Superior street merchants, and now in business in Detroit.

Mr. Kugler left Duluth in 1908, and spent four years in the West. Two years ago he went to Detroit, and is now a manufacturers' agent for automobile accessories there.

"The first thing that impresses a Duluthian when he gets away from his own city, is the lack of suburban trolley lines," said Mr. Kugler. "Duluth ought to have a line to Two Harbors, opening up the country along the north shore. It ought to have another line running north, and one running west to Carlton and Cloquet. There should be a central interurban depot, and the cars should come right into the city, using First street. Other cities much smaller than Duluth have financed these roads. The little city of Boise in Idaho, was cut off by the railroads, but it got busy and built a network of trolley lines. Duluth with an infinitely better location hasn't one interurban line.

"This business depression you hear so much about, isn't confined to this country by any means. Canada and Germany and other countries are having it."

Mr. Kugler will return tomorrow to his home.

FRENCH SUBMARINE SUNK BY DESTROYER.

Toulon, France, July 8.—The French submarine Calypso was sunk yesterday by the destroyer Mousqueton during maneuvers. The crew of the Calypso was saved. It is thought it will be impossible to salvage the submarine on account of the great depth at which she is lying.

The Calypso was navigating on the surface at the time of the collision, and most of the men were on deck. The shock was severe and a great hole was torn in the submarine's side. The boat sank in a few minutes.

A heavy sea was running at the time, but the other warships carried out the rescue work with great skill and daring. The Mousqueton was badly damaged and put into port. The admiral in command has ordered a court of inquiry.

Features of the policy are that no union stamp be placed on any goods, that no union card be placed in any place of employment or be recognized in any way, and that the employers exercise absolute freedom in employing and discharging.

IMPROVEMENT IN COPPER MARKET

Its Continuation Will Influence Dividends in Two Duluth Companies.

Gratification is expressed by Duluth mining men over the gradual improvement showing in the copper metal market. Provided this condition is maintained during the next few weeks, divided action in the case of at least two companies controlled by Duluth capital is expected to be influenced.

During the last ten days the quotation in copper metal has been advanced from 13½c to 13⅞@14c a pound, and hopes are expressed that the market will reach 15c before the upward movement is over.

It is said that heavy tonnage of copper has been booked by the large selling companies during the last few days. Considerable export business has been taken for July-August shipment, and with the firmer position of the market, foreign buyers are said to be showing an inclination to place business more freely. The domestic demand is, at the same time, reported to be better than for some time past.

MONEY DEMAND SHOWS INCREASE

Improved general demand for money during the last few days is reported by Duluth bankers. Some of the wholesale and manufacturing establishments are said to be already arranging for their fall discount requirements, which are thought likely to be heavy in view of the present promising crop outlook over the Northwest.

As shown by their last statement of conditions as on June 30, the local financial institutions are in a comfortable position so far as reserve funds go, while at the same time their loaning operations have been extended materially of late. In view of the heavy call for funds to finance the crop movement, expected to materialize within a month, the management of the local banks are showing an inclination to conserve their resources so that any projects looking to anything beyond normal expansion of business on the part of customers are being discouraged.

A similar banking situation is said to maintain over the greater part of the West. Chicago commercial banks, of example, are stiffening their interest rates, the minimum rate of the largest institutions being now ½ per cent higher than it fas a couple of weeks ago. The movement of winter wheat has started in some volume there, and many lines of business are said to be feeling the effect of the more cheerful tone prevailing over the Middle West.

NEWSIES HAVE GAY FROLIC

Herald Carriers Have Joy Ride and Feast at Lester Park.

Dive in "Old Swimmin' Hole" and Hold Hot Foot Races.

Did you think that the newsies were less ambitious, a bit hoarser and somewhat more fagged than usual and that your carrier didn't have his regular sprightly gait last evening?

There was a reason, for they had just returned from the annual carriers' and newsboys' outing of The Herald at Lester park.

"Dat was de swellest time ever," said one youthful urchin on his way home, and his remark reflected views of the others.

On the Job Early.

The boys went to the park early in the morning in special cars which were provided for the West Duluth, West end and the downtown contingents. There was something doing from the minute they started on their way until they returned in time to sell The Herald or deliver the papers over their respective routes. Some went in swimming in Lester river and between the splashings and duckings were mingled the cries of the discomfited who returned to the bank to find that "chaw raw beef" is still in vogue.

One of the most exciting events of the day was the annual ball game between the downtown boys and those from the western end of the city. It was "some game." The contest was scheduled to go but five innings, but seven were necessary to determine the outcome. The downtown nine finally came out on top of the heap with a score of 2 to 1.

Enjoy Open-Air "Feed."

The newsies feasted at a spread, which was laid for them in the park. What they didn't do to the cracker jack, ice cream, lemonade and the other "eats," isn't worth mentioning. The carriers sat down to a lunch which was provided for them in the pavilion, conducted by L. A. Gunderson. The boys unanimously voted that Mr. Gunderson was "all right" and appreciated the courtesies which he extended to make the affair a big success.

Numerous foot races were hotly contested. The results were as follows:

Results of Contests.

100-yard dash for downtown boys—First, Jake Sosnosky; second, Harvey Brownson; third, Harry Litman.

100-yard dash for West end boys—First, Alfred Ityan; second, Russell Jernberg; third, Edward Blomgren.

100-yard dash for West Duluth boys—First, Arthur Anderson; second, Jim Doherty; third, Leonard Hedman.

Three-legged race for West end boys—First, Clarence Carter and Edwin Mork; second, Gilbert Mattson and Eddie Mattson; third, Harold Nelson and Roy Carlson.

Three-legged race for West Duluth boys—First, Lloyd Galbraith and William Gray; second, Herman Berghult and Harold Vangen; third, Fabin Cashin and Frank Doherty.

INSURE PASSENGERS OF STEERAGE CLASS

Compulsory Provision Proposed By Liverpool Men.

Liverpool, July 8.—The chamber of commerce here has started a movement with the object of making the insurance of steerage passengers on ocean liners compulsory. The advocates of this policy contended that there would be no difficulty in slightly increasing the passage rates for emigrants in order to cover the cost of the insurance, and that such a step would obviate the necessity of making appeals to the public for funds in case of disasters.

The members of the chamber heartily approved of the proposal, and decided to urge the board of trade to take the necessary action to put it into force.

HOUSE ASKS ABOUT KANSAS RAILROAD.

Washington, July 8.—Information concerning a $1,600,000 bond issue made by the government for 100 miles of railroad between Atchison and Waterville, Kan., is sought from the secretary of the treasury in a resolution passed by the house. Particularly the house wants to know what part of the interest and principal is unpaid, and what steps have been taken to collect it.

The secretary was directed to furnish the information "if not incompatible with the public interest." Democratic Leader Underwood insisted upon having those words inserted.

"The house has no more right to direct the executive department of the government what to do," he declared, "than the executive department has to direct the legislative department."

NORTH DAKOTAN'S BODY IS FOUND.

Winona, Minn., July 8. — Through a newspaper found in a dead man's pocket near Buffalo, Minn., identification was established here Monday. The body was found in the woods and the paper was one printed in Winona bearing the name John Ries. Inquiry was made through the local sheriff by the official of Wright county and at the newspaper plant the subscription lists showed Ries lives at Casselton, N. D.

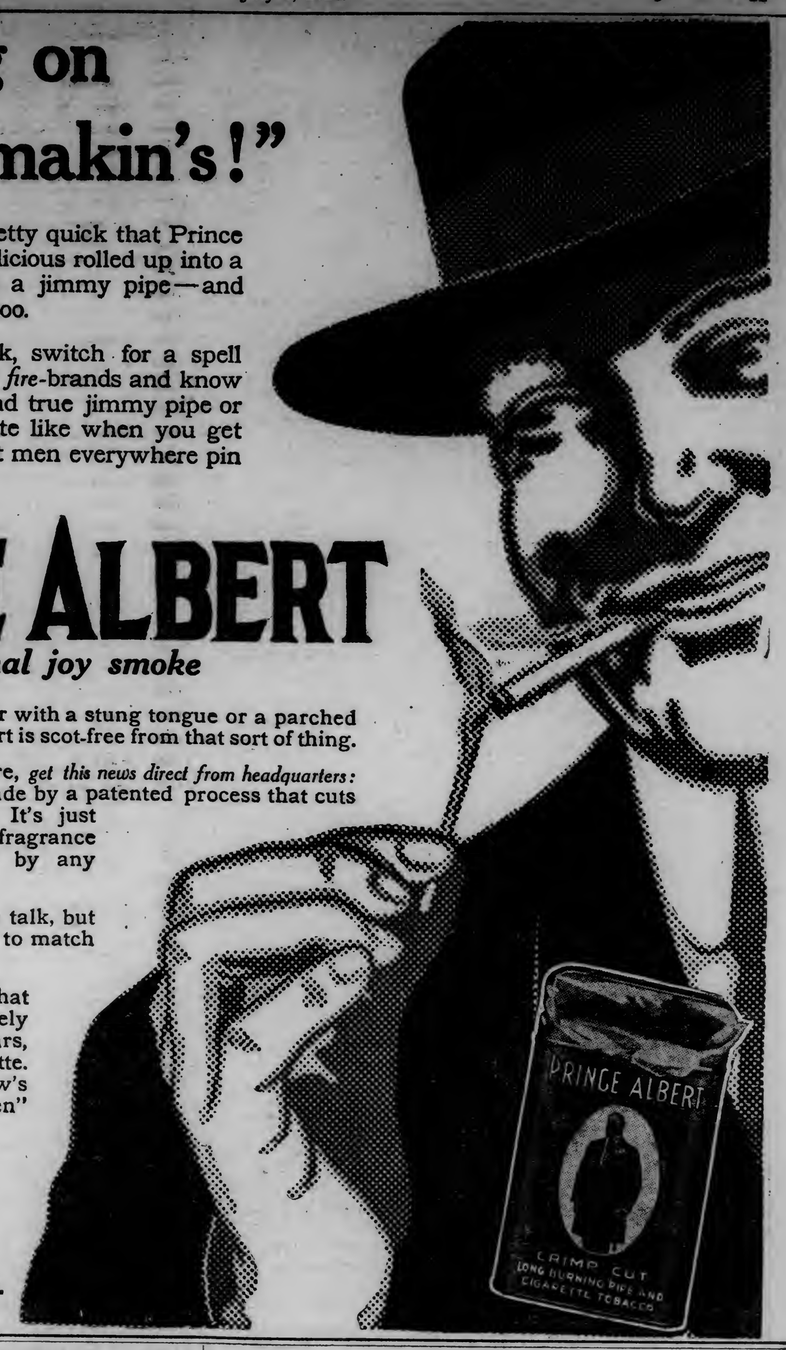

Rebels Capture Town.

Washington, July 8.—Capture of the town La Romana by Dominican revolutionists is reported to the navy department. Rebels on the south of the island have established a rigid censorship over dispatches, and news of their activities is meager. A large force is reported to have surrounded Bani, west of La Romana.

STATE LAWS HINDER BANKS

Must Be Changed to Make Reserve Law Effective.

Private Banking Attacked at Supervisors' Meeting.

Atlantic City, Ga., July 8.—Montana, Utah, Washington and other Western states must make radical changes in their banking laws before the new currency system can become generally effective, according to speakers who addressed the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks at their annual convention here. It was pointed out that the banking laws of several Western commonwealths forbid the investment of the funds of state chartered banks in stocks of any description, and this conflict between Federal and state banking laws will be one of the matters taken up when the banking supervisors meet the members of the Federal reserve board in Washington on Thursday.

Attacked Private Bankers.

A feature of yesterday's session was an attack upon private bankers and the laws which permitted their existence, by Edward H. Doyle, banking commissioner for Michigan, in which he was supported by several others. Mr. Doyle pleaded for direct co-operation between the comptroller of the currency and the state banking departments to protect the public from worthless investments and banks of dubious credit.

"No one will deny that the days of the private banker are numbered," said Mr. Doyle. "Their number is steadily decreasing, and in some states they have been abolished while in others they are supervised to a greater or less extent.

Favors Abolition.

"I am in favor of the supervision of the private banks only when it is as far-reaching as that required of state or national banks. Such supervision would be tantamount to abolishing the business, which I strongly favor, for such banks could organize as state or national institutions.

"The abolishing of private banks will work no hardship to those who are solvent, but it will put the private banker who is on the verge of bankruptcy out of business."

The commissioners were agreed that legislation of the "blue sky" order should be made uniform throughout the country, and that it should be made to apply to "get-rich-quick" concerns and not interfere with legitimate business in high-grade stocks and bonds.

NEWLYWEDS' WELL IS FOUND POISONED.

Rochester, N. Y., July 8.—Investigation of an alleged attempt to poison Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Matrailles at East Bloomfield has been begun by Horace A. Fitch, district attorney. Poison was put into the Matrailles' well, according to Mr. Sanderson, county bacteriologist, who examined water taken from it.

Mr. and Mrs. Matrailles were married six weeks ago. It is intimated that a suitor rejected by Mrs. Matrailles is suspected. At midnight, July 3, Matrailles heard a noise in his yard and saw a man running away. In the morning quantities of poison were discovered about the well.

HARMONIZE MOSAIC AND DIVORCE LAWS.

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—The central conference of American rabbis at its closing session here authorized the appointment of a committee which will endeavor to harmonize the civil laws of the states with the Mosaic law relating to marriage and divorce. The discussion of the subject made it plain that the organization would not countenance violation of the civil law, even where it conflicted with the Mosaic law.

All the present officers were re-elected, as follows:

President, Rabbi Moses J. Gries, Cleveland; vice president, Rabbi William Rosenau, Baltimore; treasurer, Rabbi Leo M. Franklin, Detroit; recording secretary, Rabbi Morris M. Feverlicht, Indianapolis, and corresponding secretary, Rabbi Joseph S. Kornfeld, Columbus, Ohio.

THE CITY OF DULUTH and the State of Minnesota both seek to reduce the number of accidents due to heavy Traffic through ordinances and state laws. We would respectfully ask the co-operation of Duluth drivers of all kinds of vehicles in a "safety first" campaign to help make these laws and ordinances more effective.

Section 3 of the Duluth city traffic ordinance reads as follows:

"Every person using any vehicle on any street in the city of Duluth shall, before turning out to pass any other vehicle, and before turning around, and before turning out of the line of traffic for any purpose, look carefully to the rear of the vehicle which said person is using upon the side toward which he contemplates turning, and if he fails so to look and in so turning out causes a collision with any vehicle coming from the rear he shall be deemed guilty of gross negligence."

The failure of drivers and chauffeurs to look back before turning out of their courses in obedience to the above is the direct cause of a great majority of the collisions between street cars and other vehicles. IN ALL SUCH CASES THE DRIVER OR CHAUFFEUR IS GUILTY OF GROSS NEGLIGENCE.

Remember that "A Street Car Can't Dodge" to avoid running into anything upon or near the track. Our Duluth street cars weigh twenty-five tons—the rails are very often slippery from a variety of causes in summer as well as from frost in winter—if the motorman cannot stop before reaching an obstruction he cannot turn his car out to avoid it, as could be done with any other vehicle, and a collision is the result. This inability to dodge obstructions puts the motormen at a great disadvantage and at the same time gives the drivers of other vehicles the great advantage of knowing the course the car will take.

In the interests of safeguarding life and property, we would like to call the attention of every driver of a vehicle in Duluth to this ordinance.

TROUBLE FOR JOHNNY BULL

British Columbia's Bar to Hindus May Have Sequel.

Effort to Land There Is Said to Be Part of Plot.

Vancouver, B. C., July 8.—British Columbia finished with one vexing problem yesterday and it is possible another one was set for the Indian empire, when about 300 Hindus on board the steamer Komagata Maru abandoned their fight for admission to Canada and agreed to go back home.

Canadian and American immigration officers here are watching for the next move of the Hindus, which, it is reported, will be an effort to land on American soil, probably at Seattle, to test the United States immigration laws before returning to the Orient. They have been here over a month and the Komagata Maru was specially chartered to bring them from India via Japan. Their stay has been marked by plots to assassinate the local immigration officers and by all possible legal proceedings.

Refused Admission.

They were refused permission to land because they did not come directly from India; because they did not have the $200 apiece required by the immigration laws and because they were held to be common laborers liable to become public charges and hence not entitled to admission.

Whether the men on the boat expected to be allowed to land cannot be learned definitely. Their coming is said to have been financed by wealthy Hindus unfavorable to English rule on the theory that if they got in it would open the door for others, and if they were excluded, what they would say on reaching home would not make the path of the government any smoother. One report was that the men on the boat were picked purposely from districts known favorably for their loyalty to the British, in order that disaffection might thus be spread.

Ready to Return.

Guerdit Singh, the leader, instructed his counsel unconditionally to arrange for the return of the Kamagata Maru. The ship's owners ordered her back a week or so ago, but the captain dared not sail, fearing his passengers would be unruly. To Singh's note was appended one dissent:

"I, Docot Ragu Nath Singh, do not agree, as I belong to the non-immigrant class."

scene was created in the central criminal court, where Mrs. H. F. Alice Hall, Miss Grace Roe, Miss Julia Jameson and Miss Ellen Armes were brought up for trial for conspiracy. The charge against them was "conspiring with others maliciously to commit damage and injury and to spoil certain real and personal property of the liege subjects of our lord, the king."

Grenade in Women's Rooms.

The prisoners had been arrested during a raid on a West end flat on May 21. In their rooms were found a new shrapnel grenade of ingenious manufacture, coils of fuse and plans of houses, with instructions how to reach them, and as to the usual movements of the police in the vicinity.

Miss Roe and Mrs. Hall, when brought into court, surrounded by women wardens, refused to plead. They threw papers and pens from the prisoners' inclosure, and shouted a commentary on their treatment in Holloway jail. Two policemen and five women attendants started to carry them out of court to the cells below. When the judge decided to proceed with the trial in the absence of the two women, Mrs. Hall threw herself on the floor and kicked several policemen and it took some minutes to remove her.

The other prisoners pleaded not guilty.

Pethick Lawrences Back.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pethick Lawrence, who for a long time have held aloof from active suffragette movements on account of their disapproval of militancy, have decided to resume their activities by joining the United Suffragists, a strong society occupying an intermediate position between the militants and the Constitutionalists.

Mrs. Lawrence, in making this announcement at a meeting in Kingsway hall last night, announced that the attempts at suppression had driven militancy into underground channels and had crippled the peaceful campaign, hence arose the necessity of creating a determined intermediate party, politically militant.

sex hygiene and numerous other problems.

Would Segregate Deficient Ones.

Segregation of mentally deficient children was recommended in a paper read by Dr. Franklin W. Barrows of Buffalo, N. Y., medical inspector of schools, before the department of special education.

"Children who are teachable—all those above the stage of idiocy—should be gathered into 'special classes' under expert teachers," Dr. Barrows said. "Children not in schools should be inspected regularly by experts. The home life of subnormal and abnormal children often suppresses the little mentality that they possess.

"If properly cared for, there is some salvage in most of these children. The medical inspector should examine these children thoroughly and promote their physical health. We ought to have uniformity in our methods of medical inspection and supervision.

"The school occupies a strategic position, with every facility for the discovery of these unfortunate cases. No other agency can do what the school can do for the prevention of the evil results that flow from unrecognized and untreated mental delinquency."

Movies Big Factor.

That moving pictures are destined to revolutionize the present method of teaching was the contention of speakers at a meeting devoted to the discussion of their use. They said that motion pictures give visuality and quicken the imagination of the child to a far greater degree in a few minutes' time than the text book would in days of study. Subjects covering the curricula from kindergarten to the graduate course already are in use in a few cases, and others are being prepared for use in every branch of science.

Representatives of smaller schools are behind a resolution which is before the committee on resolutions, disapproving of the Sage foundation, the Carnegie foundation, the various Rockefeller boards and similar organizations established for the pensioning of teachers in the big educational institutions.

Oppose Big Foundations.

The resolution is based on the democracy of education and the long effort of the association to guard that democracy. It recites that the foundations injure the small schools, and demands that a committee be appointed by the association to investigate with a view to learning whether the various foundations and boards in reality have stimulated teachers to study and industry, or have decreased their ambitions by providing them with a certainty of livelihood after their teaching days have ended.

Suffragists won a measure of success when the resolutions committee agreed to report to the general session a resolution approving woman suffrage and equal pay for teachers regardless of sex. The committee will make its report probably Thursday.

National business ability tests for students who have taken courses in business colleges and commercial schools, were recommended by Sherwin Cody of Chicago. Before the department of business education he submitted sample questions today, which he says, are to show teachers what real standards of the business office are, as an aid in shaping their courses along more practical lines.

"Aim of Modern School."

Nathan C. Schaeffer, state superintendent of public instruction, Harrisburg, Pa., speaking before the general sessions today, said:

"The aim of the modern school may be summed up in the one word—truth. In the elementary school we must often be satisfied if pupils think and grasp surface relations. The high school should get the pupil to penetrate beneath the surface to the relations which are scientific and fundamental in modern civilization. What this age needs is true men and true women. It is the highest function of the high school to teach truth, because truth informs the mind and forms the character in such a way as to give us leaders, home-makers and good citizens."

Teaching History and Civics.

In presenting the report of the committee on social studies, Thomas Jesse Jones, specialist in the United States bureau of education, Washington, D. C., chairman of the committee, said:

"Teachers of history and civics must, above all, develop a social attitude. They must be far more interested in their pupils than their subject matter. Instead of wasting energy trying to increase the time allotment for their subjects, they should devote themselves to the vital problem of relating history and civics to the real needs of their pupils. Not how much is taught, but how well the teacher understands and makes the pupil understand the significance of the subject in everyday life, is the essential thing.

"Too frequently teachers of history and civics have greater concern for the period of history to be presented or for the stage of government to be studied than for the increase of social knowledge or the development of the social spirit. To the teacher who grasps the social viewpoint, all history, all departments of government, all social endeavor, whether public or private, will furnish incidents, events and experiences to be used in the development of the qualities of good citizenship in the pupils."

Normals and Rural Life.

How the normal schools can best help build up rural life was told by J. W. Brister, president of the West Tennessee state normal school, Memphis, Tenn. He pointed out four methods, as follows:

By contributing to a revision of the course of study for the rural school; by preparing teachers in special lines, as agriculture, home economics, manual arts; by preparing supervisors of rural schools with well defined aims for vitalizing school work and relating it more intimately to community life; and by doing certain extension work for the teacher now in the field, by fostering club work among boys and girls and thus applying principles inculcated in the normal schools and by taking part in all movements for developing educational interests.

Talks of "Fatherless" Children.

The child born out of wedlock is not ordinarily a defective, nor is it necessarily bad, according to Dr. A. P. E. Gronszmann of the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, who spoke before the department or special education at the convention today. A close study of thousands of cases, he said, had disclosed the startling fact that less than 10 per cent of the children born to women leading irregular lives were below normal.

No "Average Child."

Dr. Gronszmann further declared there was no such thing as an average child. "Every child is an exceptional child, a different child," he said. "There is no standard by which to judge them as 'average.'"

Statistics have been compiled by Dr. Groszman showing that the United States spends $1,100,000,000 annually for police, courts of justice, prisons, charities and corrections and similar forms of protection against evils and only $600,000,000 for schools, churches and other constructive agencies.

A plea for special education for pupils who do not progress when placed in rooms with other pupils was made by L. R. Alderman, superintendent of schools of Portland, Or.

Busy on Resolutions.

The committee on resolutions today put forth every effort to complete its report, which will be submitted to the general session tomorrow with a large number of important recommendations. The committee has decided to report a resolution asking the appointment of a committee of the N. E. A. to co-operate with the Federal bureau of education in investigating the needs of the bureau and calling them to the attention of congress. The purpose of the resolution will be to make the Federal bureau a clearing house for data on all phases of education.

A general session of the convention will be held tonight. Principles and aims of education will be the chief topic of discussion.

PRESIDENT URGES WARBURG AS MEMBER OF RESERVE BOARD of the senate will be of a sort to throw suspicion upon such men. Mr. Jones and Mr. Warburg, in manifesting their willingness to make personal sacrifices and put their great experience and ability at the service of the government, without thought of personal advantage, in the organization of a great reform which promises to be so serviceable to the nation, are setting an example of patriotism and of public spirit which the whole country admires.

Business of Statesmanship.

"It is the obvious business of statesmanship at this turning point in our development to recognize ability and character wherever it has been displayed, and unite every force for the upbuilding of legitimate business along the new lines which are now clearly indicated for the future."

The president said today he earnestly hoped Mr. Warburg would reconsider his decision not to accept the nomination, and that he was urging him to do so. He expressed confidence that Mr. Jones would be confirmed.

The senate banking committee had no meeting today, but an opportunity will be afforded tomorrow for a formal motion to withdraw the invitation that Mr. Warburg appear to be questioned. It was held today by members that a majority probably would oppose it. Acting Chairman Hitchcock said no suggestion had reached him from administration officials for withdrawal of the investigation.

The nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago also will be taken up tomorrow. It was not certain today that Mr. Jones would be approved by a majority.

It became known today that several members of the committee are not so much interested in the American connections of Mr. Warburg as with any interest he may have in foreign banking houses and in his foreign investments.

BAILEY INQUEST IS FINISHED

Thursday at Millerd, the county seat, District Attorney Smith announced last night. He added that he would demand that an indictment charging murder be returned against a woman, who, he said, he was positive shot Mrs. Bailey in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman.

Told of Telephone Device.

Gaston Boissonault, manager of the detective division of a company which manufactures telephone devices to record conversations, was the first witness called today at the resumption of the inquest. Mrs. Bailey was shot a week ago Tuesday night while in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman of Freeport.

It was Boissonault's company that installed a telephone device in Dr. Carman's office some time before the murder, at the order of Mrs. Carman. The witness told today of the first call of Mrs. Carman at his office. She first said she was a dressmaker, then admitted her identity, adding that she had many domestic troubles and wanted to hear what went on in her husband's office.

This was on May 19. The witness said arrangements for the rental of the instrument were made that day. On the same day Mrs. Carman made plans to take her husband away for two days while the instrument was being installed.

Saw Nurse Kiss Doctor.

The witness said Mrs. Carman had told him about seeing a nurse kiss Dr. Carman.

"She said she was so mad," he went on, "when she saw that kiss, that she almost broke the window by knocking on it."

Mrs. Carman told him further, he said, that she knew her husband met many women both in his home and outside, and she asked the witness whether he could furnish detectives to follow him. She had said emphatically, however, that she would not get a divorce, on account of her daughter.

The witness said one of his instruments was installed after he received a letter from Mrs. Carman announcing when she should have her husband out of the way. Later Mrs. Carman demanded and received this letter.

They Sometimes Whispered.

Mrs. Carman and her mother called upon him next on May 25, said the witness. Mrs. Carman told him she was "satisfied" and that she had been keeping in a diary a record of everything she had heard over the instrument. She said she had some difficulty in hearing all that went on in the doctor's office, because the doctor and his women patients sometimes whispered. She bought two additional batteries on this occasion.

Boissonault denied that any instruments had recorded Mrs. Carman's conversations with him. He was then excused.

Elizabeth Carman, 12-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carman, testified that directly after the shot was fired, she ran upstairs and saw her mother, her aunt and her grandmother there. Her mother, she said, was in a kimona.

Story of Secret Witness.

The story told by a witness who was examined in secret during the recess between the morning and afternoon sessions of the inquest Monday has been revealed.

A half hour before the morning proceedings opened, a man whose name the officials say will remain a secret until Thursday, walked up to Carl Darenburg, a captain of the local police department, and boldly informed him that he knew who killed Mrs. Bailey. He then told the captain the story he later repeated to the district attorney, his assistants and several private detectives. Briefly it is as follows:

Last Tuesday morning the woman suspect and a man, whose name was given and who it was said is in Kansas City, met in New York. The woman said she would give $50 if the man would bring a revolver and deliver it at a lawn on the side of Dr. Carman's home. The new witness and the man he declared has fled came to Freeport from New York on the same train with the woman. The missing man had the revolver in his pocket.

"The Woman Fired."

"At half past 7 o'clock that night he went to the Carman home and there met the woman, who said she wanted to 'scare' someone inside. After a short talk the woman took the revolver, the man propped up the screen and broke the window and then stood to one side while the woman thrust the weapon through the opening that had been made and fired. Then, according to the story, she handed the revolver back to her accomplice, who leaped over the low fence at the side of the house and escaped, while the woman disappeared in another direction."

According to the story, the man who told it decided to inform the authorities when his companion failed to turn over the money collected for bringing the revolver from New York and carrying it away. It was at first decided to hold the man who told the story as a material witness. After detectives had taken him to several places, in an attempt to verify his assertions, and he had assured the district attorney that he would go away, he was allowed to return to his home.

Known as "Gunman."

"I do not know whether to believe his story or not," said District Attorney Smith. "According to the story he told us, the first name of the man who carried the revolver was George and he is known in New York as a gunman."

The district attorney denied a rumor that he had telegraphed the police of Kansas City to arrest "George." He added that he knew where he could be picked up should he be wanted.

District Attorney Smith, when informed that John Howe of Philadelphia had admitted it was he who called up David Kennedy yesterday and informed him that he was ready to make an affidavit that a woman he knew had vowed she would kill Dr. Carman, said:

"I have heard the story told by Howe and I have heard all about the telephone call. I have also been informed that Mr. Howe said in Philadelphia today that he had been informed that detectives had been unable to find the woman at her home in Freeport. If any detectives were looking for her I know nothing about it. We have run down several stories of this kind and found there was nothing in them."

Philadelphia Man's Story.

Howe's story was that the woman and her husband were his guests in his launch at Long Island.

"We landed at an island," Howe said, "and ran across David Kennedy and Dr. Carman. I knew them both. The moment we spied them the woman in our party screamed and ran back to the boat. Her husband remained. He was surprised by his wife's action.

"I ran to the boat after her. I found her on a seat in hysterics. She was screaming, 'That man ruined my husband and ruined me. I am going to kill him if it takes a lifetime.' She picked up a paper knife shaped like a dagger and started to leave the boat. I caught hold of her and kept her back and asked whom she meant. 'Dr. Carman,' she said."

Howe said the woman refused to explain her actions and demanded that she be taken back home at once. When her husband came aboard the party returned to Freeport.

Remembered It.

"Neither one of them spoke of the incident again," said Howe. "I did not try to find out the reason for it and never gave it another thought until this murder occurred. I thought over it a lot since and decided it was my duty to tell of it, although I hated to do so."

Howe said he telephoned Kennedy of the incident and the latter recalled it and said he would notify the police.

"DRY" DAILY WILL START AT CAPITAL.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 8.—Announcement that a daily newspaper in the interest of national prohibition would be started in Washington was made at a district conference of the Anti-Saloon League of America in session here. The first issue is fixed for December next, and $200,000 is said to be available, while a circulation of 100,000 has been guaranteed.

Delegates from Middle Atlantic and the New England states reported great gains in sentiment against liquor traffic, and plans were outlined to carry the fight to the foreign element of the country through pamphlets issued in twenty languages.

LAY STARK DEATH TO OVERDOSE OF DRUG.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 8.—At an adjourned session of a coroner's inquest here last night, a verdict was returned that Clarence M. Stark, a nurseryman of Louisiana, Mo., came to his death from a self-administered overdose of poison taken to allay nervousness and produce sleep. Mr. Stark was found dead in bed at a local sanitarium on the night of May 30, and after a postmortem the viscera was sent to Chicago laboratory for analysis. The report stated that the examination resulted in the finding of 154.3 grains of chloral hydrate.

Arsenal Strike Ends.

Woolwich, Eng., July 8.—The strike at the government arsenal here, which involved 12,000 men, ended last night. The men will resume work Thursday, the government having promised to investigate their grievances.

WHITE FORTUNE FOR CITY OF CLEVELAND.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 8.—The estate, said to amount to millions, left by Thomas H. White, founder of a sewing machine company, who died June 22, will ultimately be used for Clevelanders in educational and charitable work, scientific research, care of needy sick and aged, and to improve living conditions of the poor, according to announcement by F. H. Goff, president of a trust company which will have charge of the carrying out of the provisions of the will.

The estate is left by the will to the five children of the deceased, and at their death is to be used in philantrophical work. The amount of the estate was not made public.

SOO WILL ISSUE MORE COMMON STOCK.

At a meeting to be held at Minneapolis in September, stockholders of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railway—the Soo road—will vote on a proposed issue of $18,000,000 more of common stock. There is now outstanding common stock to the amount of $25,000,000, and holders of this stock will be permitted to purchase the new issue, if it is sanctioned, as it is believed it will be, at par. That it will be taken no doubt is felt, for Soo stock is now quoted at $123 and is paying dividends of 7 per cent.

Cashier Begins Ten-Year Term.

Trenton, N. J., July 8.—Raymond Smith, convicted cashier of the Roseville Trust company of Newark, yesterday entered the New Jersey state prison to serve ten years for embezzlement of the bank's funds.

Montana City Getting Good.

Great Falls, Mont., July 8.—The city council has passed an ordinance that makes compulsory the closing of all saloons from 1 until 6 a. m. The ordinance has a loophole, for it provides that the council may suspend its operation at such times as it thinks best. Because of conventions, there may be a public thirst to be quenched. The ordinance was supported by the saloon interests as a means of heading off a referendum vote on a midnight closing ordinance advocated by Mayor N. T. Lease.

PROHIBITION IN HISTORY

Under this caption M. H. Walker writes the following in the New York Sun of May 22:

"Thomas Jefferson (see his works by Taylor & Maury, Vol. III, page 505) wrote December 13, 1818, to M. de Neuville, rejoicing as a moralist at the prospect of a reduction of the duties on wine. 'No nation,' he said, 'is drunken where wine is cheap, and none sober where the dearness of wine substitutes ardent spirits as the common beverage.' Alexander Hamilton in his report of January 14, 1790, advocating an increase of specific duties on wines, spirituous liquors, tea and coffee, wrote: 'Should the increase of duties tend to a decrease of consumption of these articles, the effect would be in every way desirable as far as this decrease might be applicable to distilled spirits; it would encourage the substitution of cider and malt liquors, benefit agriculture and open a new and productive source of revenue.'

"Dr. Benjamin Rush, of Philadelphia, the real father of the temperance movement, in his 'Account of the Manners of the German Inhabitants of Pennsylvania' dwelt with particular emphasis upon the probity, frugality, economy, love of liberty and country of these people, and as if to furnish a key to all these traits, he said: 'Very few of them ever use distilled spirits in their families, their common drink being beer, wine and cider.' He made this fact one of the principal arguments in favor of his famous temperance movement. But it did not progress very much, because in those days beer and wine were expensive, and whisky very cheap. Among the mass of Americans the predilection for spirits was made universal by the general practice of rural distilling in all grain producing states, and especially in states in which the trade with the West Indies made molasses a common article of barter.

"In Georgia, as early as 1738, Governor Oglethorpe realized that in order to banish strong drink you must give the people a substitute. To make his 'Act to prevent the importation and use of rum and brandies in the province of Georgia, and any kind of spirits or strong water whatsoever,' effective (see his letter to the trustees dated Frederica, October 7, 1738) he urgently requested that fifty or sixty tuns of beer from the brewery of Hicks at Southwark be sent him. He said 'cheap beer is the only means to keep rum out.'

"If those who advocate national prohibition have their way, all the progress toward temperance in drinking will be checked, and we shall again approach the times of former rural distillation. The brewer, whom Andrew D. White (Autobiography Vol. I, page 519) classes with the wine growers as 'the best temperance worker among us,' will disappear. No one has as yet been able to run a moonshine brewery. But moonshine stills, which even now are being operated at great risks in order to save the revenue tax, will flourish in greater number when the big legal distilleries must close down. For then the incentive to operate the stills will be much greater, as they will be the only agencies to supply the demand for alcoholic drinks. Then will many of the millions deprived of their mild fermented beverage return to the use of distilled spirits. Instead of banishing distilled liquor, national prohibition would give it the monopoly of supplying the demand for alcoholic drink." —Advertisement.

RYE HARVEST TO BEGIN SATURDAY

Cass County Farmers Are to Have Very Fine Yield.

Fargo, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The winter rye harvest will begin in this section Saturday and will be general next week. The crop is exceptionally promising and there is a greatly increased acreage in Cass county over former years. Unless there should be some unexpected calamity within the next week or ten days the yield will be large and the grain of fine quality. Farmers have been coming to Fargo during the last two or three days to secure help to start the harvest and complete haying. The latter is now in full blast everywhere with an exceptional yield. The heavy rainfall caused an unusual growth of all forms of vegetation and there is an excess of hay tonnage this year.

Little Red Rust.

There have been complaints of red rust in the early seeded wheat and oats fields in the valley, but little has been heard from the central and the western sections or from the later seeded fields in this part of the state. The weather conditions now are such that it is not anticipated there will be any serious loss from that cause and no general alarm is felt, although the farmers are keeping a close watch on the situation.

The wet weather prevented early cultivation of the corn and potato crops and work in this line is now being hurried as rapidly as possible. The corn crop in the southern part of the state is well advanced and the prospects very encouraging. The potatoes look fine except in low spots.

One of the results of the fine crop prospects has been the rush of the farmers to secure hail insurance.

FORT WILLIAM THROWS BASEBALL GAME AWAY

Hawkins Holds Duluth to One Real Hit, and Loses, 2 to 1.

Errors Behind the Swell Flinging of Visitor Give Dooks Game.

BY BRUCE.

Fort William should have won yesterday's game by the score of 1 to 0—Duluth won by the unearned count of 2 to 1.

Hawkins, the southpaw mound artist of the visitors, comes near to being the pitching class of this league. Unfortunately for him and fortunately for the other seven teams of the circuit, he is enrolled with a ball team that doesn't know it is alive. A camel, fat and knock-kneed, has far more chance to pass through the eye of one of the smallest needles made than Hawkins has of winning a baseball game with the tramp aggregation he is allied with.

One real hit was secured off the delivery of Hawkins. Jimmy Collins registered the only real blow. Collins is credited with another one and O'Brien also scratched one. And yet the joy club playing behind the swell pitcher, this irresponsible and don't-care-a-d— team, became so excited at the first faint glow of victory that it up and heaved away the game.

The Little Scorelets.

In the second round Mike Kramer singled to right center. Wise doubled to the same spot and the Dutchman rounded up at the third corner of the diamond. Dreis, the collegian, lofted to Bond and Kramer easily beat the throw to the plate.

That was the only run of the visitors, but it should have been as good as a million. But life is uncertain, as the poet sings, and there you are.

In the seventh Collins singled cleanly to short right field. It was a real hit. O'Brien hit a dinky little offering that caught Fortman on his way to cover first on a bunt. He executed an about face and managed to get his meat hand on the ball, but was unable to hold it. Harry Wolfe hit to Breckenridge and he fumbled the ball, but recovered in time to hop over and touch his corner of the diamond before the arrival of Collins. Sweeley was out from Fortman to Kramer. At this point Hargrove hit an easy one to Wise and he promptly proceeded to heave low to Kramer. The ball took a bad hop and went clear to the bleachers and two runs crossed the plate.

In the first of the ninth Breckenridge doubled, but the rest of the nerveless crew could do nothing and the game went unearned to the credit of the Dooks.

Opposed to the salubrious slabbing of the port sider Hawkins was handsome Clarence Grina, the boy athlete of Saxon. It would be unfair to Clarence and misleading to the citizens of Saxon to state that the wheat pitcher did not fling soporific curves—he did; but he didn't pitch the brand of baseball of his rival—and he did not deserve to win the game of yesterday, even if the game he hurled would win most any game of the week. We can't get the swell pitching of Hawkins out of our system—and we can't get his rotten team out, either.

Edmunds Has Inning.

Jerry Edmunds, the well known North Dakota flax expert, ambled and gamboled in center field in the place of Hi Brackett, illness calling the speed boy to Mora, Minn. We can't imagine anything else calling one there.

In the fourth inning three men flew out to Jerry. As he returned to the grandstand he was tendered an ovation. It is proposed to present Jerry with a watch at the close of the season. He doesn't need it now, as all of the city hotels have call boards.

In passing one might mention the peacherino stop performed by Mr. Hargrove. Mr. Roy Thomas hit one down on the extreme outer edge of Mr. Hargrove's territory, bordering on the eminent domain of Charge d'affaires H. Wolfe. Mr. Hargrove hustled over with his glove hand well extended and knocked down the ball, recovering quickly he heaved out the dashing Thomas.

Another little mention in passing. You should sit in close proximity to the visitors' bench if you would like to gather a general idea of what harmony is not. All of the players on that team can't play and the idea is generally piercing their skulls; and yet at the same time they want to put the bee on the other fellow. The chatter sounds like a particularly stormy session of a down and out political party. Mr. Conrad is a great executive—there is not the least doubt of that.

FANS TO CELEBRATE.

Fargoans Will Honor Manager Unglaub on His Birthday.

Fargo, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—July 31 will be Unglaub day for the Fargo baseball fans as it will be the birthday anniversary of the leader of the local baseball aggregation. No one knows how many birthdays he has had and he is as coy about his age as a spinster, but his popularity with the fans is such that it has been decided to make the game on that date with the Duluth team a kind of a testimonial for the manager.

THE NEW CHAMPION OF THE WORLD

FREDDY WELSH.

WELSH THE NEW CHAMP

Given Decision Over Willie Ritchie on Points in London Ring.

Bout Fast and High Class —Americans Believe It Was Good Draw.

London, July 8.—Fred Welsh, lightweight champion of England, last night outboxed Willie Ritchie, American champion, and on the referee's decision won the lightweight championship of the world.

The fight took place at Olympia and the 8,000 spectators witnessed a fast and clever bout. Rapid footwork and a good deal of infighting were pronounced features. The British victory was cheered to the echo, although there was some dissatisfaction among the American spectators at the decision because neither man was bested at the finish. Although Welsh scored the greater number of blows, those of the American appeared to be the more telling.

It was a fine exhibition of boxing throughout. Neither man went to the floor and the struggle during the last six rounds was of a hurricane character. Welsh was the quicker and tapped Ritchie repeatedly on the face, finally drawing blood. The American tried continually for a knockout, but either he was short or Welsh got inside or under the swing.

Ritchie broke down when the decision was given against him and was in tears when he went to his dressing room. He refused to talk then, but later at the hotel where he is stopping, he said:

"I do not intend to make a holler, but I do think the worst I should have got was a draw. Welsh was holding all the time and I was doing the fighting. Therefore I think the decision was not fair to me."

Ritchie hurt his right hand in the bout, but otherwise was not much damaged except for a few bruises on the face.

Fast Contest.

All the old-timers are agreed that the contest was one of the fastest and finest exhibitions of boxing witnessed in London in recent years. Some of them expressed the opinion that Ritchie would have come out on top in a finish fight. The Welshman's foot work and dodging were far quicker than the American's and he preferred much of the time to get to close quarters, where Ritchie could not use his powerful swings. There was altogether too much holding throughout to please the English spectators. During the last four rounds, Ritchie forced the fighting hard for a knockout, while Welsh plainly was playing to win a decision on points.

The success of the affair was likely to kindle great interest in the coming contest between Gunboat Smith and George Carpentier, the French champion. Smith was given a warm reception when introduced last night.

The office of "Father" Boudier, in clerical garb, as announcer, was a novelty, but the expected appearance of battalions of women fizzled to a mere hundred or so. The American contingent included many theatrical people. Among others were the members of the Harvard and Union Boat crews.

Many of the nobility sat close to the ringside and so did several clergymen.

The Fight in Detail.

Round 1.—Welsh won the toss and kept the corner he originally entered. Welsh got in a few blows in the clinch which immediately followed. Ritchie responded with a straight to the jaw. Infighting followed, with Welsh getting the better of the argument. When they squared off, however, Ritchie delivered several body blows.

Round 2.—Ritchie swung hard with his right and missed. He was cautioned by the referee for holding in the clinches. Welsh got in some vicious jabs in the infighting.

Round 3.—Ritchie opened with a left swing, but in a clinch Welsh landed on the body in close quarters. Welsh got in a couple of jabs, Ritchie retaliating with a left to the jaw. Welsh followed with a right to the same spot. The round ended with Welsh landing lightly on the face. Ritchie was again cautioned for holding.

Round 4.—Welsh fought for the body. Then in a clinch he gave Ritchie two or three left hooks on the jaw, followed by a right swing on the same spot. Welsh appeared the fresher of the two, smiling when the gong sounded.

Round 5.—Ritchie got one to the face, Welsh replying with a left to the jaw. Ritchie then sent a straight to the jaw and a heavy body blow. Ritchie forced the fighting, but was repeatedly cautioned for holding.

Round 6.—Ritchie's left eye seemed to be slightly swollen. Welsh's left eye also was damaged. Ritchie played for the bad eye. Welsh dodged a right hand swing aimed at the bad eye. Welsh's footwork was much the quicker, but his blows seemed to have less steam than the American's.

Round 7.—Half of the round had passed before Ritchie began forcing the fighting. He landed two smart blows on the face. Welsh responded, but the American covered up well and the round ended in his favor.

Round 8.—The work of both fighters thus far had been very constant and sharp. Most of the fighting had been body fighting, ending in clinches. Welsh appeared to be beginning to husband his strength in the clinches. He then put on more steam and gave the American one good body blow, and seemed fresher at the end when at the beginning of the round.

Round 9.—Welsh forced the fighting, opening with a left to the face, an operation which he quickly repeated. Ritchie's blows were continually falling short, while Welsh, setting a furious pace, got several blows to the body and got the best of the infighting. Welsh's round.

Round 10.—Welsh forced the fighting, scoring repeatedly on Ritchie's jaw. He then eluded one of Ritchie's famous right arm blows. Welsh had the better of the fight thus far.

Round 11.—Welsh, who came up smartly, landed a sharp left on the face. Ritchie again failed to reach the spot effectively with his busy right. The fighting was hard and fast, Ritchie regaining some of his ginger.

Round 12.—Welsh scored a left hook on Ritchie's neck. Ritchie repeatedly led out hard left handers, but Welsh was always too quick for them. The Welshman scored three or four punches in this round, but they seemed to make no impression on the American, who showed great stamina.

Round 13.—Ritchie smartened up and landed two straight rights on the face and a sharp uppercut. The American forced the fighting all through the round. Welsh slowing up considerably. It was a good round, all in favor of Ritchie.

Round 14.—The American got in a short, hot left on the body. Later he repeated with the right. The fighting was fast and fierce to the end of the round. This, like the preceeding, was Ritchie's round.

Round 15.—The first half of the round was a hugging match with both men working hard in the clinches, Welsh trying to wear his opponent down. There were a couple of rallies but no damage was done. The round was even.

Round 16.—There was more infighting, each receiving a good tap on the face. The Welshman ducked a terrific right hander. The fight continued with a fine exhibition of boxing by Welsh, who played entirely for the face while the American tried for a body knockout.

Round 17.—The men again went into a clinch at the sound of the gong. Upon breaking, Ritchie landed a hard left-hand swing on the face and followed it with a series of sharp body blows. Ritchie pushed the fighting and appeared stronger. Welsh covered well and was too quick for his opponent.

Round 18.—Ritchie bled from the lip. This was a very fast round in which strength against quickness continued to be displayed, but the Welshman got a little the best of it.

Round 19.—Welsh was getting all the applause, being the favorite with the crowd, but Ritchie was doing the fighting. Welsh landed a right on the face and got one in return. There was a smart rally in which the honors were even.

Round 20.—They started mixing it hard with both hands for the body. Welsh dodged a fierce left uppercut and gave the American a sharp left on the cheek. The fight ended with the swiftest kind of work, the Welshman pressing the American around the ring in the last few seconds. He was carried out of the arena amid great cheering after being declared the winner on points.

DOUBLE-HEADER ON FOR THURSDAY

Grand Forks and the Dooks Will Play Two Games.

There will be a double-header with the Grand Forks team tomorrow. The White Sox are two games shy with the Flickertails and one of the contests will be played off tomorrow.

Just at the present time Wheeler is having some trouble with his pitchers. The Flickertails had a terrible time with the Fargo aggregation. O'Brien hopes to climb at the expense of the visitors from the dreary and wind-sweep landscape of North Dakota.

Wheeler has a corking hitting team. At the present writing he is after pitchers. One may join the team within the next few days. With the acquisition of a first-class mound worker the Flickertails would be in excellent shape to resume the lead that the Wheelerites held for so long at the start of the race.

NEW LEADER FOR TWINS

Charley Hemphill, Former Big Leaguer, May Manage Fort William.

There may be a change in the management of the Fort William team and the change may occur while the Canadians are at the Head of the Lakes, according to the rumor let loose at the local baseball office today.

Charles Hemphill, formerly centerfielder of the New York Americans and a veteran of eighteen years' diamond service, who is now with the St. Paul team of the American association, may come here and take over the reigns of management.

Negotiations are on today between majority Stock Owner Conrad of the Fort William team and Owner George E. Lennon of the St. Paul team. It is understood here that in the event of Hemphill securing the salary he thinks he is worth that the deal will be speedily closed up and the new manager installed.

Whether Arthur Lizette will be kept as a member of the team or whether he will consent to remain as a member of the Twins, is a matter that is unknown.

With practically every team in the league in the race as yet and Fort William one of the best drawing towns in the Burmeister circuit, desperate remedies are to be employed, it is understood, in the attempted rejuvenation of the team at the Canadian Head of the Lakes.

It is believed by Conrad that not only will the playing of Hemphill add strength to the Twins, as Hemphill is still a mighty executioner with the war club, but that he will be able to get the work out of the team and will also be able to negotiate for some more players.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

ica's cup class yachts Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance were to compete today in the first of the Newport series of races. The opening race, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed because of a storm.

There is much secrecy regarding time allowances and ratings of the American cup yachts, now they are approaching their true racing form, in order that this information may not enable the British challenger to make changes in rigging and obtain an advantage on change of rating.

CHANGE MINDS AGAIN.

Germans Will Compete in America for Davis Tennis Cup.

Berlin, Germany, July 8.—The German Lawn Tennis league again has decided to take part in the competitions for the Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis trophy and will send a team to the United States to meet the Australians.

Early in the year, Germany sent in a challenge for the cup, but a few weeks later notified the United States National Lawn Tennis association that it would withdraw the challenge. This caused much disappointment and Otto Froitscheim, the German champion, who is in the best of form, is endeavoring to induce Robert Kleinschroth to accompany him to the United States, if Frederick Rahe and Henry Kleinschroth should be prevented from doing so.

Sea Too Heavy for Yachts.

Newport, R. I., July 8.—Thick weather yesterday prevented the cup class yachts Defiance, Resolute and Vanitie from sailing their first trial race, which was to have been held by the Eastern Yacht club. If the weather is more propitious today the yachts will go out, although the sea outside at sunset last night was sufficient to keep all but the staunchest coastwise craft in snug harbors.

Whist Tourney On.

Lake Placid, N. Y., July 8.—In yesterday's session of the preliminary contest for the Hamilton trophy at the American Whist league congress here the Knickbocker Whist club team of New York city was the winner, and the New York Bridge Whist club team, also of New York city, was second. The finals for the trophy will be played between these two teams today and Thursday.

HERE, THERE, EVERYWHERE IN SPORTS

Being a Tabloid Version of the Current Happenings in the Gay and Festive Sport Centers.

BY BRUCE.

It's peculiar in many ways that the challenger for the title should be made the favorite in the betting—and yet in other ways it wasn't.

Across the plains and over the mountains of fight gossip came pouring in the dope—and the dope said that Freddy Welsh was to win. Most of the followers of the game conceded the Welshman an excellent chance to win.

Frankie Whitney predicted a win for Welsh. Out in the sunny confines of Los Angeles Ad Wolgast predicted that the championship would remain on the other side of the pond. From the wind-swept reaches of the Atlantic coast to the sun-kissed shores of the benign Pacific it was in the air that the clever Welsh, in his own land and with an English referee and over the twenty-round route, was extremely liable to win—and he did.

And now looms the question: Just when will anyone be able to get the championship away from the Welshman?

Maybe Packey McFarland could come back and outpoint Freddy for twenty rounds. Packey has accomplished the feat before. Anyone else? We don't think of any boy at the present time.

Freddy made a fool of Joe Rivers and did the same thing with Leach Cross. The ordinary boxer is made to look foolish before the amazing ability of the little Welshman, who is finished in all of the angles of the game.

For instance, Welsh is a master of the long range work and he is even more of a master at infighting, something very extraordinary. He can pin a man in the clinches and hold him helpless. Welsh hits an opponent coming in, hits him in the clinches and then hits him going out.

It's going to be awfully hard to beat him.

It would be the very irony of fate should Packey McFarland be matched with Welsh and then win the world's lightweight championship. There would be wailing and gnashing of teeth in the ranks of the lightweights.

Jack Curley has written this column that Americus is going out after the world's heavyweight wrestling championship next season.

Americus is getting heavier all the time, according to the information slipped to Curley. The large pilot further says that Americus has more science and knows more about the real angles of the game than any of the others.

Backed by the showing of Americus the past season, there is some real basis for the statements of Curley.

Pal Brown may go to the Pacific coast. This winter the range boy is going out after some big game. It is probable that P. Lawrence will rest during the remainder of the summer. He is wanted for a Superior date early in the fall, and after that it may be that Pal will take a crack at the game on the coast or in Louisiana.

Americans with the supremacy of the Stars and Stripes ever before them are anxiously awaiting the sailing of the international yachting races.

England came out of an athletic coma and thrashed us at golf and polo and then took the relay race at the Philadelphia games.

Paragraphers were in the habit of having fun at the expense of the Briton. We had come to look upon the athletic effort of our cousins with more or less amusement. Suddenly the lion stalked from the jungle and struck in the darkness of unexpectancy.

We still hold the Davis cup and we are still the masters of all we survey in the domain of track and field sports. Perhaps the reverses received at the hands of the British, unexpected and therefore the more disconcerting, will serve to prime us for the events marked ahead on the schedule of international events.

Pray let us fervent Americans who are the eager onlookers, hope so.

Let us add that the victory of last evening, added to what has already passed into possession of the British, gives them the right to be chesty.

We, for one, hate to meet several Britishers of local habitat—they will have so excellent an opportunity to come back.

COURTS TOO SOFT.

Central Lawn Tennis Tournament Delayed at Westchester.

New York, July 8.—The courts were so soft from the rain that only three of the lawn tennis pairs cared to test their skill in the central tournament at the Country club at Westchester yesterday. Under these unfavorable conditions, R. Norris Williams and R. Lindley Murray, the Harvard-Leland Stanford pair beat Raymond D. Little and G. R. Winn, 6-7; 6-1; 6-4.

The singles will start today. William M. Johnson of California is drawn and is to compete Thursday.

VESSEL MASTERS TO WATCH FOR BALLOONS.

St. Louis, Mo., July 8.—Robert E. Nolker, president of the St. Louis Aero club, has requested the owners of steamship lines operating on the Great Lakes to instruct their ship captains to keep a sharp lookout for the balloons that will start from here in the national elimination races next Saturday. Mr. Nolker has received assurance that such instructions would be given.

Several of the aeronauts will carry with them life preservers for use in case they should fall into one of the lakes. Two of the balloons will carry water anchors. The withdrawal of Roy F. Donaldson of Springfield, Ill., from the race is definitely announced. This leaves nine entrants.

MAY RAISE FUND FOR HATCHERY

Commission to Decide Upon Necessary Action Thursday Night.

The question as to whether the Northeastern Minnesota Fish and Game Protective association shall raise funds to increase the state appropriation to buy a fish hatchery site at the mouth of French river, thirteen miles east of the center of Duluth, will be discussed at a meeting to be held tomorrow night at the Commercial club rooms.

Information to the effect that the French river location has been selected by the state game and fish commission has been received here, and also that the owner is willing to sell. It is said that the cost of this site would be about double the $1,000 appropriated. It will be decided at the forthcoming meeting whether or not the commission will assume the additional expense.

Those favoring this plan say that if the commission assumes this expense that it will make an excellent argument before the next legislature for another appropriation.

FIFTEEN MEN ARE MADE ELIGIBLE

Pass City's Civil Service Test for Police and Fire Departments.

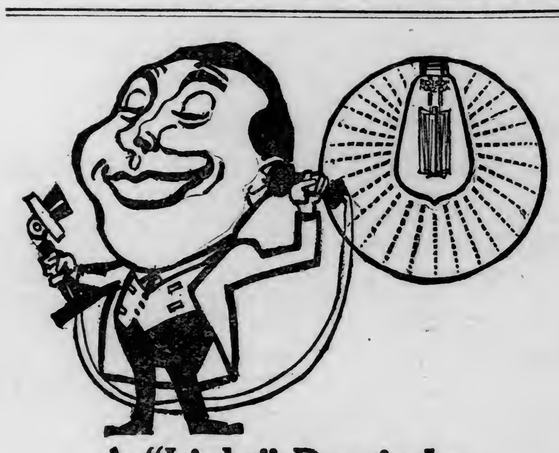

Fifteen aspirants for positions on the police and fire departments passed their examinations and were placed on the eligible list after the meeting held by the city civil service commission yesterday afternoon to pass upon their papers. Two of the papers were unidentified and an effort to learn the names of the writers will be made by Secretary Ruben Johnson.

Those successful in the police examination were: Bert Duff, I. Seglum, Emil Olund, William Barry, W. E. McKenna, Stably Kravenczyk, Alfred Fenton, W. J. Ketcheson, J. W. Magner and B. J. Olson.

Those passing the test for firemen were Earl Vincent, C. E. Brown and S. R. Brandt.

HUSTIS RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF ROAD.

The constantly increasing use of POLARINE by thousands of motorists is indisputable evidence of its lubricating efficiency.

It affords perfect lubrication to all makes and types of motor cars, motor trucks, motorcyles and motor boats.

POLARINE maintains the correct lubricating body at any motor speed or temperature.

FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

POLARINE remains liquid at zero. POLARINE differs from all other makes of motor oils, in that it furnishes perfect lubrication to friction surfaces at extremes of temperature.

The essential characteristics obviate the necessity of changing oil for summer and winter lubrication—also the necessity of mixing kerosene, graphite and other injurious products with unsuitable and poor cold-test oil for the purpose of making it feed in winter weather.

HOLD UP GIRL IN DAYLIGHT

Highwaymen Get 50 Cents for Gun Play on Lonely Road.

Police Have Good Description—Miss Ida Johnson the Victim.

Two nervy highwaymen staged a daylight holdup about three-quarters of a mile north of Lester park shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday evening, robbing Miss Ida Johnson, 23 years old, of 50 cents, all the money she had in her purse.

Miss Johnson, who is an employe on the Brighton farm, one and one-half miles north of Lester park, was on her way to a grocery store a short distance from the park, when she was held up and robbed by the two men. She was alone on the road, which is frequented but little at that time of the day, when two men sprang out from behind a tree, one thrusting a revolver in her face.

The robber, who held the gun in his hand, said:

"Let us have your money."

Too frightened to resist or even shout for assistance, she offered her pocketbook, which was returned to her after the men had taken the money out of it. The men then disappeared.

Miss Johnson ran all the way to her home and the police were immediately notified of the holdup. Capt. Fiskett and Detectives Toewe and Irvine went to the scene of the robbery, but could find no trace of the highwaymen, and late last night the two detectives and Jailer Wanvick went out on a second hunt. No trace of the two men had been found up to noon today.

The police have a fairly good description of the men, given them by Miss Johnson. She says they are both between 22 and 25 years of age, about 5 feet 6 inches tall and of light complexion. They appeared to be brothers, she told the police. One wore a dark blue suit and a blue cap and the other a brown suit and a soft hat.

AMERICANS GO TO HAGUE CONFERENCE.

New York, July 8.—The American delegation to the international conference on education to be held at The Hague this summer, sailed last night on the Mauretania for Liverpool. The members, Dr. John H. Finley, state commissioner of education; Rev. H. B. Bartlett, and Richard Cleveland, son of Former President Cleveland, were chosen by this government in response to the call for the conference issued by the Netherlands.

STIRRUP CLUB'S ANNUAL PICNIC

Members Will Enjoy Their Usual Outing at Lake Nebagamon.

There will be a cold water, municipal ownership, Scotch picnic at Lake Nebagamon, Saturday, July 11, held under the auspices of the Stirrup club.

Sandwiches, being looked upon as a public utility, will be owned and operated by the club for the benefit of all. The same will be true of the lemonade barrel, and other features of the commissary department.

Owing to the presence, or expected presence, of B. N. Wheeler, Frank Crassweiler, I. K. Lewis, Elmer Blu and others, it will be strictly a cold water picnic, with possibly some grape juice tucked away in the lunch baskets.

The Scotch part of the picnic will be confined to the nationality of several members of the club, and does not refer to the liquid refreshment that will be taken along.

There will be a baseball game between the married men and the bachelors, and Judge Fesler will be taken along to provide divorces or wedding ceremonies, if either should be needed to fill out the ball teams. Commissioner Hicken and Chief Troyer have been invited, and A. G. McKnight will act as piper and execute a Highland fling, if nobody sees him. The members will leave at 7:55 a. m. on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic.

About 350 Members Make Merry With Songs and Bagpipes.

The air in Duluth last night was full of the strains of "Blue Bonnets Over the Border," "Annie Laurie" and other Scotch favorites. It was not the clans again refighting Bannockburn this time, but just a peaceful gathering of the local Scots out for their annual excursion on Lake Superior.

Clan Stewart, O. S. C., No. 50, and their friends, the whole party numbering 350, with the bagpipe band marching ahead, proceeded down Superior street and Lake avenue and boarded the steamer Columbia. The Scottish music and the marching clan aroused considerable excitement along the line of march.

The air on the lake was slightly chilly, but the ride was delightful, despite this fact. Members of the bagpipe band follow: Pipe major, Robert Mobray; pipers, Norman McClean, Will Shannon, Kenn MacGregor; drummers, F. McGinnis, W. Smith and J. McKay.

DIPHTHERIA IS PREVALENT

Health Department Warns Duluthians Against Sore Throats.

Diphtheria has been quite prevalent in the city during the last month, according to the June bulletin of the health department.

The department officials advise that every sore throat be examined by a competent physician as a mild case may be the means of spreading the disease to other members of the household or people with whom the patient comes in contact. Nineteen positive cultures were received during the month. Most of them were mild, but not all, as evidenced by the fact that one death was reported. The same month a year ago but five cases were on record.

Scarlet fever has been on the decrease. Forty-three cases were reported, a decrease of nineteen cases over June. A number of new cases of tuberculosis were reported and several patients admitted to various sanitariums.

The stork had a good lead over the grim reaper, 141 births being reported as compared with 92 deaths. Of the latter 21 were under 1 year of age.

The bulletin devotes considerable space to the importance of properly caring for babies and training children. It pointed out that while the death rate has been materially reduced through infant welfare work, there is still much room for improvement. The death rate in Duluth last year was .95 per 1,000, considerably higher than some other cities less favorably situated than Duluth. Mothers are urged to use the milk stations which have been established and to attend the clinics. Even though the babies are well the bulletin says that they should learn how to keep them so.

NOTED SURGEONS TO TALK TO DOCTORS.

CITY PLANT FOR HEATING

Virginia Council Has Two Propositions Under Consideration.

Unemployed Ask City Council to Furnish Them With Work.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night heard and referred to the council as a committee of the whole the report of the water and light commission covering the installation of a proposed municipal heating plant, received a communication from the unemployed workers of the city represented by a Socialist organization asking that public improvements proceed, that an eight-hour day be granted all city employes at a minimum wage of $2.50, which was also referred to the council as a committee of the whole, sidestepped by delaying the report of the committee appointed to investigate the proposition of installing a municipal meat market and instructed the city attorney to give his opinion at the next regular meeting as to whether the council or the police and fire commission had the right to regulate street concessions on holiday occasions like the Fourth of July, besides disposing of a considerable volume of unimportant routine.

Heating Plant's Possibilities.

The report of the water and light commission covering the heating plant indicated that it would be good business inasmuch as heat could be supplied to consumers in practically all of the business district at prices cheaper than if the premises were heated as in the majority of cases at present by furnace. Two systems were considered, an exhaust steam system with exhaust steam supplied from the Virginia & Rainy Lake mill, at a cost of about $163,000, and the other a direct steam heating system supplied from a new boiler plant at the city power house at a cost of about $93,000. The system as proposed would cover all property abutting on Chestnut street between Virginia avenue and the D. M. & N. railroad, and also the property on the south side of Walnut street and on the north side of Maple street, between the same limits.

A survey of the district proposed to be heated shows that approximately 90,000 square feet of radiation would be required.

Protest of Unemployed.

The petition of the unemployed workers claimed to represent the sentiment of 400 Virginia residents in asking that the council carry out a public improvement campaign that would afford employment to many men now idle. It was signed by George C. Miller, R. A McDonald and W. E. Clark.

Water mains were authorized extended in block 4, Rooney's addition, block 3, Pillsbury addition and block 11, Fairview addition, despite the fact that the patronage at present guaranteed is not up to requirements. The council adopted a resolution waiving the usual guarantee, as in that section of the city difficulty is experienced in getting water from wells and the improvement is necessary to its development.

Meat Inspector Fred Engle reported condemning beef steak and pork chops at two downtown restaurants and the condemnation of fifty pounds of meat at three different markets.

Clash of Authority.

A clash of authority between members of the council and members of the police and fire commission over the concessions for street stands on the Fourth of July was indicated in a letter from the Fourth of July committee. It had resulted in the closing down of a merry-go-round on the Fourth of July night and occasioned the committee some inconvenience, while members of the commission and the council narrowly escaped a personal altercation over the matter. The police commission held its right to police the city, covered the streets and carried its point. The city attorney will investigate the rights of the various bodies and report at the next meeting of the council.

Tritchler Wants Meat Market.

William Tritchler was loath to see the municipal meat market go by default. Mayor Boylan explained to him that the entertainment of the Range Municipal league last week and the Fourth of July holiday had prevented the council committee from investigating the matter. Tritchler declared he was still securing signers to his petition asking that one be established and would push the matter.

New Hospital Site.

Thomas Gill was appointed by the city to appraise the value of outlots A and B, Anderson's Third addition, which have practically been decided upon as the site for the new city detention hospital. They are located opposite South Side park on the Eveleth road. The owner will appoint an appraiser and the two a third to name a figure at which the property can be purchased by the city. The site was viewed by a majority of the council members yesterday afternoon.

Routine Proceedings.

Frank G. Harris was granted a permit to operate a merry-go-round on vacant lots near the Lyric building during the week of the Elks' carnival.

The request of the Elks for the use of the market site to stage the carnival was referred to the committee on city property.

R. A. McLean was granted a motion picture and vaudeville license for the Royal theater.

The street commissioner's payroll for the last two weeks in June, $3,936.09 was allowed.

Isaac A. Slayton was granted the privilege of conducting a notion stand at the corner of Cleveland avenue and Chestnut street.

The payment of $580 to the state inebriate hospital at Willmar, 2 per cent of the liquor license receipts for six months, was authorized.

The report of the poundmaster showing that sixteen dogs had been destroyed and $30 in licenses collected during June was accepted.

The reading of a proposed ordinance covering the cutting of holes in pavement during building operations was deferred for a week.

A transfer of liquor license from Ole C. Nelson to Warner Carlson at 405 Chestnut street was granted and liquor license renewal was granted to Adolph Olson.

EVELETH'S HEALTH CONSIDERED GOOD

Only One Case of Contagious Disease Reported Last Month.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The June report of Health Commissioner Dr. N. C. Bulkley to the city council last night shows this is as healthy as any city in the state. Only one case of contagious disease was reported, a mild form of measles. No homes are under quarantine. Twenty-two births and six deaths were recorded for the month. Drastic clean-up measures are thought to be responsible for the city's health.

John Kennedy, formerly superintendent of the electric plant at Virginia, and Thomas Lynch of this city, made application for a gas franchise. The ordinance was given its first reading and referred to the city attorney and the council as a whole.

A list of houses without sewer connections was presented to the council and a motion passed that the property owners be forced to make the connections.

To Call Bond Election.

The proposed purchase of the electric light plant owned by the Home Electric & Heating company was left for an adjourned meeting which will be held July 10. At that time a bond election will probably be called to obtain funds for the purchase of the plant

Eveleth has just completed its first six months under the commission form of government and last night Mayor J. Gleason congratulated the commissioners on the success of the government and on their regularity in attending meetings and promptness and zeal in attending to the business of their departments.

HIBBING PLANNING ON HEATING PLANT

Bids on Proposed Improvement to Be Received July 28.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Declaring that the present system of galvanized pipe connections is unsatisfactory and not according to the best methods, the water and light board last evening passed a resolution requiring extra heavy lead pipe to be used in all connections between the cast iron main and the curbcock and the curbcock and the wall of the house.

A receiving vault similar to the one in the Virginia cemetery is to be constructed in Greenwood cemetery in this village, and the village engineer has been instructed to prepare the necessary plans and specifications. The walls will be two feet thick and there will be suitable floors and rooms in the structure.

Heating Plant Bids.

Bids for the installation of a municipal heating plant to cover the same ground served by the old system, which is now in pieces, will be received by the water and light board July 28. Plans and specifications have been prepared by Earl D. Jackson, consulting engineer, covering both the log and cement systems, and the work will be of the very latest in municipal plants. The cost of the improvement is estimated at between $10,000 and $13,000.

Bids for 8,000 feet of six-inch cast iron pipe and 1,000 feet of extra heavy lead pipe for connections will be received by the water and light board at an early meeting for use in Alice. When the work there is completed the lines will be laid to the curb line for all lots so that connections can be made without digging up the streets again. A carefully prepared map of the district will also show where all the connections are located.

BOYS SHOW SKILL.

Hibbing Youngsters Quite Proficient in Manual Training.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Since assuming his duties as manual training instructor at the Lincoln high school, S. R. Elliott has made it a point to teach his part of the manual training work in such a way that the pupil can intelligently apply the knowledge gained practically.

Mr. Elliott is a believer in the "start them while young" practice, and gave an illustration of the advantages of that practice, using as an example a 13-year-old boy of Jewish parentage. This lad has made a library table, finished it and fumed the wood, and the job is a credit to any 16-year-old boy.

At the close of the last school term a surprisingly fine exhibit of work of the pupils from the fifth to the tenth grades was shown.

BUHL WILL LET LARGE CONTRACT.

Buhl, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the village council will be held this evening. Bids on the water plant extension work amounting to about $70,000 will be awarded. The work to be done includes the placing of new pumps, boilers, reservoir and steel tank in the municipal power plant at that place.

Says Chisholm Booms.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though the mines are not doing much development work at Chisholm, the outlook is most encouraging and building operations are most active, according to Frank G. Harris of that village, while here. "The mines are all shipping," said Mr. Harris, "though little new work is being done just now. There is a general air of hustling about the village, however, that is most encouraging, and many workmen are building their own homes this year—a most encouraging sign."

Power Away) Meeting Short.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only a short session of the village council was held last evening owing to the absence of Mayor Power. An adjourned meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon when a mass of routine business will be disposed of.

CHISHOLM WAGES ARE ON OLD SCALE

Water and Light Board Restores Wages Effective July 1.

Chisholm, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water and light board yesterday afternoon established the wages in force prior to the cut May 1 and the men working in the water department beginning July 1 will draw the same wages as laborers in other departments of the village.

A water main extension was ordered laid in the Park addition on petition of Christ Jorgenson and ten others.

The commission ordered a pipe laid from the Western addition, the present terminus of the water mains to the cemetery sexton's house. Mr. Rice, the sexton, told the commission that considerable money had been spent in trying to reach a supply of water by digging a well and that no satisfactory result has been obtained.

Village Property Insured.

Insurance to the amount of $25,000 or $30,000 will be written on newly constructed public buildings—the park service building, the library, the detention hospital and cemetery building, and distributed among the local agencies.

The clerk was instructed to issue a call for bids for opening Aug. 4, the next regular meeting of the commission, for the furnishing of material and for the construction of a 1,000,000 gallon filter unit of the mechanical gravity type. Repairs to the present filter were ordered made.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY WOOL SELLS WELL

Duluth Concern Pays 20 Cents a Pound for Fleecy Product.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wool grown in St. Louis county, as does almost everything else grown here, brings fancy prices, as shown by M. W. Hostetler, whose farm is north of Hibbing, and Brian O'Rourke, with a farm south of here. On a shipment of some 1,500 pounds of wool sheared from 227 sheep these men received the top-notch price of 20 cents per pound from the Patrick Milling company of Duluth.

The highest price within the knowledge of these men ever paid for wool was 22 cents, paid for a shipment of 110,000 pounds to a Montana rancher.

This shipment of wool is thought to be the first ever sold from this part of the county.

MUNICIPAL PLANT IS MONEY MAKER

Virginia Water and Light System Does Well During First Six Months.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report of the water and light commission covering the operation for the first six months under municipal ownership submitted last night to the city council shows a net profit of $41,194.62.

The plant was purchased by the city after a fight that involved every phase of municipal politics, resulted in several injunction suits and extended over the greater part of two years.

The statement indicates a total gross income of $95,003.14, general and operating expenses of $33,769.84, depreciation of $8,641.90 and interest on bonds to April 1, of $1,791.67. Improvements made for the six months' period including water and light extensions, new equipment and additions to the water mains totaled $21,658.07.

Rates Reduced.

In that time also reductions have been made in the rates for lighting service which cut off revenue of $10,000 and the rates for water service which showed a decrease of a like amount in revenue. The six months period just ended is the most profitable of the year as during winter months and autumn the expense for operating the lighting plant is considerably increased.

WOMAN ENTERTAINED.

Mountain Iron Hostess to Miss Baldwin of Library Board.

Mountain Iron, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Clara Baldwin of the state library board was entertained during her visit here by the women members of the local library board. Mrs. Burley, Mrs. Hocking and Miss Esther Peltier. They showed the visiting official the site for the proposed library and went over other matters bearing upon this subject.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapple of the Brunt location spent the Fourth with friends and relatives at Nashwauk.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ormond, Miss Murray and Mr. O'Donnell spent Saturday and Sunday at Pelican lake.

John Roskilly of Virginia conducted services in the Methodist church Sunday evening. The regular pastor, Rev. William Hainsworth, is taking a vacation in Western Canada.

Miss Freida Hansen of Duluth, teacher here during the past year, visited friends here over Sunday.

Miss Grace Hedmark, a former resident, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hanson.

The ball games played here Saturday and Sunday between the home team and the Chisholm Olivers both went to the visitors.

The recently appointed library board at its first meeting elected Charles Walker, chairman; J. F. Muench, treasurer, and W. T. Caddy, secretary. It is intended to erect the library building this year.

C. E. Hendrick, general superintendent for the M. A. Hanna company, and C. E. Moore, general superintendent for the Pitt Iron Mining company, both of Virginia, visited their properties in this district on Monday.

VIRGINIA NOTES.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. D. Orr and G. R. Clark of Duluth, representing the E. I. Dupont de Nemoures Powder company, are in the city.

Robert Garvey left Monday for Chicago, Mrs. Garvey accompanying her husband as far as Duluth. Mr. Garvey has not been feeling the best for two or three weeks, and acting upon the advice of his local physician, decided he will consult with Dr. Murphy of Chicago.

FEW VOLUNTEERS AT DENTISTS' MEETING

Free Treatment Offer Fails to Induce Patients to Come.

Rochester, N. Y., July 8.—Today's session of the eighteenth annual convention of the National Dental association was divided into sectional meetings and free clinics. An Exposition park dentists stood behind long rows of dental chairs ready to demonstrate on volunteers the newest methods of operative dentistry. The work was free, but there was a dearth of patients.

That decayed teeth may be the cause of inflammatory rheumatism and heart, kidney and other diseases, is a conclusion of the Scientific Foundation and Research commission, presented in its report to the association. Investigation with rabbits has shown that when injections of the virus of a tooth abscess are made, there die within a few days, or upon being killed show heart muscles badly deteriorated, serious kidney troubles, joint diseases and arteries broken down.

The commission intends to make experiments with rabbits which are normal, to discover whether the same lesions exist as are found in those upon which virus has been used. If they do not exist in something like the same proportion, it will be assumed that the poison that killed the rabbits must, in the human system, tear down the heart, kidneys and tissues.

The house of delegates confirmed the decision of two years ago that the 1915 meeting of the N. D. A. be held in SanFrancisco, Aug. 20 to Sept. 9.

LOUISVILLE CITY OFFICIAL ARRESTED

Comptroller Wilhite Is Accused of Embezzling $14,500.

Louisville, Ky., July 8.—Samuel M. Wilhite, city controller and prominent in Louisville club and social circles, was arrested late yesterday charged with embezzlement of city funds, following a report by expert accountants that they had discovered a shortage of approximately $14,500 in the controller's office. He was later released on $10,000 bonds.

Wilhite is alleged to have confessed that since 1911 he has been taking contractors' bonds deposited in the city treasury as surety, and securing loans on them for his personal use. Bonds to the amount of $14,500 are reported missing from the treasurer's office. Wilhite used the loans, according to his alleged admission, in an effort to recoup financial losses in a lumber deal.

Mr. Wilhite has been city controller since 1901. He was elected president of the National Association of Comptrollers and Accounting Officers at its recent convention in Milwaukee.

An hour prior to Wilhite's arrest, his daughter was married to a prominent society man of this city, who upon hearing of Wilhite's troubles, insisted that the wedding, announced for next fall, should take place immediately.

NERVOUS CHILDREN

There is much criticism of modern educational methods that require too much work of school children, allowing them too little time for play and preventing sufficient out-of-door exercise. When the study of music or any other accomplishment, with the necessary practice, is added, the strain is increased.

Under these conditions the blood becomes impoverished and fails to nourish the nerves. The child becomes restless, and twitching of the muscles follows. Sometimes the child stumbles in walking and drops what it tries to hold. Pallor, listlessness, inattention, restlessness and irritability are symptoms that early show that the blood and nerves are failing to meet the demands made upon them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a safe tonic for children, will build up the blood, strengthen the nerves and help to meet the demands of the growing child. Sufficient out-of-door exercise, nourishing food and ten hours sleep each day, with these tonic pills, will correct even long standing cases of St. Vitus' dance and will calm the nerves of the most irritable child.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A booklet "Diseases of the Nervous System" will be sent free to any parent on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

WHEAT AND CORN OUTLOOK IS GREAT

Secretary of "Y" Passes Vacation in Northwest's Farm Belt.

Southern Minnesota's wheat crop and Iowa's corn crop this year are expected to make a great showing when the yields are recorded this fall according to F. A. Hathaway, business secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, who returned today after a month's vacation in Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Mr. Hathaway is enthusiastic regarding the crop and business outlook for the coming fall and says the crops assure great prosperity. Iowa, he says, has a wonderful corn outlook, and wheat, corn, potatoes and other crops in Southern Minnesota are expected to set new records. The plentiful rain supply has also brought fine results in Minnesota and Wisconsin where dairying is fast becoming a leading occupation. The pastures have been kept fresh, herds are not only looking sleek and fat, but the milk and cream supply has been the best in years.

Mr. Hathaway did considerable traveling during his vacation, and also passed a week at Lake Geneva, Wis.

ANTI-IMPERIALIST APPROVAL NOTED.

Boston, July 8.—Irving Winslow, secretary of the Anti-Imperialist league, gave out a letter which he has received from Francis Burton Harrison, governor general of the Philippines, thanking him for the league's approval of the present current of events in the islands. Mr. Harrison's letter, dated May 9, says in part:

"The presence of the two races here in the islands renders the conduct of an administration in the Philippines subject to unusual difficulties, and there is need for all of us here to exercise great calmness and prudence in the handling of the many questions that are presented to us.

"We have all done our very best to carry out the announced policy of President Wilson in the Philippine islands, and your words of appreciation are a very great satisfaction indeed to me."

BOASTED OF CONQUESTS

Wife Says Husband Told Her of His Women Companions.

Attorneys Agree to Shield Co-Respondent in Blackwood Case.

A mere suspicion that her husband was associating with women of loose morals and doubtful reputation would alone have been enough to destroy the peace of mind of Mrs. Ethel Barry Blackwood, wife of Robert D. Blackwood, proprietor of a downtown cigar store. And when—as she claims—he boasted in her presence that he was "keeping" other women, her unhappiness became complete and her married life a torture and a burden, according to the story she told today in Judge Cant's division of the district court where the Blackwood divorce case is on trial.

A woman, whose name attorneys in the case have agreed shall not be disclosed to the court or public, according to Mrs. Blackwood, was largely responsible for the breach of the marital relations between her husband and herself. The woman was referred to by Mrs. Blackwood during her testimony as being of the "rankest reputation" and as a woman of the underworld. She testified that she had often seen her husband in company with this woman and others of doubtful reputation and that he did not attempt to conceal the fact from her.

The Blackwoods were married fifteen years ago. She is 33 years old and he is three years her senior. They are parents of one child, Clarence, aged 9, the custody of whom is in dispute in the case. The divorce action which is now on trial is the second which Mrs. Blackwood has instituted within the last few months. The first one was dismissed after Blackwood had promised his wife that he would keep away from other women, and mend his ways, she says.

"Scene" in Hotel.

In the second action which was started last February on the day following a scene at the St. Louis hotel where Mrs. Blackwood found her husband in company with the "co-respondent" and another woman, Mrs. Blackwood charges her husband with cruelty and infidelity. She also charges that he has called her vile names and has otherwise mistreated and abused her. His treatment, she says, has impaired her health to a considerable extent.

On the witness stand this morning Mrs. Blackwood related in some detail the history of her courtship and marriage. She said that before they were married Blackwood promised her that he would not associate with certain women with whom he had been intimate before he met her, but that after they were married she had knowledge of his association with the women she had blacklisted. They quarreled on many occasions, she stated, and during one of the altercations, she says, he told her that he had been keeping other women since three weeks after their marriage.

The final separation came when Mrs. Blackwood ran across her husband at the St. Louis hotel in company with the woman in the case. The witness stated that she had gone into the St. Louis with her sister-in-law to telephone and that when she stepped into the parlor she found her husband and two women there. A scene followed in which Mrs. Blackwood claims that her husband grabbed her by the throat and was about to hit her with his fist. The "other woman" stepped in and interceded, she says, with the remark at the time:

"Bob, dear! Don't hit her. Remember she is your wife yet."

Blackwood is hotly contesting the divorce and particularly the claim of his wife for allimony and custody of the child. He alleges that the family trouble grew out of the fact that she was extravagant and had no idea of the value of money. He also blames her relatives for much of the unhappiness.

SUFFRAGETTES TRY TO MAKE KING HEAR

Carry Out Noisy Demonstration Along Route of Tour.

Dumbarton, Scotland, July 8.—Militant suffragettes made desperate efforts today to attract the attention of King George and Queen Mary, who are making a tour through Scotland.

At Balloch Bridge, at the foot of Loch Lomond, the women cut down all the decorations, and at Dalmuir, ten miles from Glasgow, they managed to break out a huge banner bearing the words, "Your majesty, stop the forcible feedlng and torturing of women," across the route as the procession arrived. At the same time one woman, armed with a megaphone, howled denunciations of forcible feeding.

Neither the king nor the queen paid the slightest attention, but the crowd who had gathered to see their majesties displayed such a hostile attitude that the militant suffragettes beat a hasty retreat.

WIRE GOVERNOR TO LET BURNQUIST ACT

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—If Governor Eberhart, now in Tennessee delivering chautauqua lectures, gives his permission, Lieut. Governor J. A. A. Burnquist will be acting governor within the next twenty-four hours. A telegram was sent the governor and an answer will decide the question. He has been asked to announce a temporary vacation of his official office.

It is said much official business has piled up in the state capitol.

Governor Eberhart before leaving made arrangements with Mr. Burnquist to serve in his stead, and as a precautionary measure asked Attorney General Smith to give him an opinion as to whether the lieutenant governor could serve or not. Attorney General Smith today ruled that the lieutenant governor could serve, but that Gov. Eberhart would have to declare a temporary vacancy of his office. Mr. Smith's opinion was today telegraphed to Governor Eberhart.

Wanted at Board Meet.

Next Monday the state pardon board will hold its quarterly session. Governor Eberhart is a member of this board and his presence is necessary. Because of his absence nothing has been done regarding the notification of applicants for clemency and in order to carry out the legal requirements, Governor Eberhart has been informed that he must either come home or else delegate his authority to the lieutenant governor. Before leaving he agreed to the latter, but left the question of the lieutenant governor's authority to be determined by the attorney general.

Attorney General Smith holds that if the lieutenant governor is to act, Governor Eberhart must admit that he is unable to give his official duties the attention which the law requires, also that the lieutenant governor, if he assumes the position of acting governor, must take on the full duties of the chief executive.

The telegram to Governor Eberhart was sent to a point in Tennessee and his answer admitting a vacancy in the governor's office was expected this afternoon.

Burnquist was at the state capitol late yesterday and held a long conference with Archie Hayes, chief executive clerk and secretary of the state board of pardons.

Donahue pleaded guilty and also admitted to officials a successful assault on a woman at another local hotel some time ago.

Washington, July 8.—Senator La Follette today introduced a bill providing for the creation of a customs port of entry at Superior. According to the tourists, the trip was a delightful one and no mishaps were encountered. The return trip will be begun within a few days. All of the members of the party expressed themselves as delighted with Duluth and the present brand of weather.

TWO WORKMEN ARE GIVEN COMPENSATION.

Two settlements under the workmen's compensation law were approved by district court judges today.

Ole Melby, 34, Coleraine, will receive $7.80 for twenty weeks for the loss of his third finger in an accident at the Canisteo mine, March 20. Melby was employed at the Oliver Iron Mining company.

Henry Sittar, 26, was killed the same day at the Adriatic mine near Mesaba. His widow and child residing in the old country will receive compensation at the rate of $6.24 weekly during the period of dependancy.

DISSIPATION.

Strand: Lady de Bathe (Mrs. Langtry) once made the piquant remark that she was "a foe to dissipation or anything of that kind, and I would urge every girl to say 'No' to the dissipated man who would marry her. The man a girl is obliged to stand up for before marriage she will have to sit up for afterward."

NO MEXICAN PEACE TALK

Rebels Will Not Meet the Representatives of Huerta.

Agreement Is Made Between Villa and Carranza.

Laredo, Tex., July 8.—The Constitutionalists are unlikely to accept the offer of the Niagara mediators for a conference with representatives of Huerta to arrange a provisional government in Mexico. This announcement, coming from unquestionable sources, reached the border here today.

It was declared by arrivals here today that generals of the Constitutionalist army to whom the question was submitted for advice by Gen. Carranza had, with the exception of the generals of Obregon's division, who have not yet had time to report, strongly opposed any such conference.

Villa Gets Concessions.

El Paso, Tex., July 8.—Reconstruction of the Constitutionalist governmental machinery in Chihuahua will begin immediately as a result of the settlement of the Carranza-Villa dispute. Carranza officials ousted from office in Juarez and other Chihuahua cities by the Villa faction when the division became pronounced, will be reinstated, was the statement made today by Carranza agents here. At least three Carranza officials will resign owing to the demands made by Villa delegates to the conference.

Victory for Obregon.

Nogales, Sonora, Mex., July 8.—In a message to Carranza, dated yesterday at Ahualleo, Jalisco, Gen. Obregon reports an insurgent victory in front of Guadalajara.

"We have destroyed a Federal column that left Guadalajara to meet us. The fight lasted thirty-six hours. At this time the enemy is fleeing in disorder, leaving ten trains of artillery and ammunition. Gen. Dieguez is in the rear of Guadalajara and I believe none of the enemy will escape.

CAN YOU SWIM? YES? THEN COME ON BOATING

But If You Are Reasonably Anxious to Come Back, Don't "Cut Up" on the Water.

Brooklyn Eagle: Boating is a good deal more dangerous than swimming. In the first place, people who can't swim go out in boats and are completely helpless should any accident occur. It is very trying, of course, for those who can't swim to see their friends go out and have jolly times on the lake or river and themselves remain behind on the bank, but that is the only safe way out of the situation.

But, after all, the safest place for those who can't swim is on shore. If they do go out on the water, the flat-bottomed rowboat is the best boat for them, and the canoe the very worst, because there are some canoes that, as the saying goes, "upset if your hair isn't parted in the middle." The round-bottomed rowboat isn't as hard to row as its slower brother, and you may be tempted to use it, but remember that it turns over a great deal more easily.

Danger Even for Swimmers.

We said that the shore was the safest place for those who can't swim. But don't suppose that there is absolutely no danger if you can. As a matter of fact, the victims of a large number of water accidents have been pretty good swimmers. It is one thing to be able to swim, and another thing to be able to last the half or three-quarters of a mile to shore—and perhaps help a friend who isn't as much at home in the water as you.

Always remember, if the boat should for any reason overturn, that it is much easier to swim to the boat than to shore. There isn't anything very heroic about sitting on an overturned boat and waiting for someone to row out and bring you home, but it is much safer than attempting a long swim with no one near in case you tire.

Most boat accidents come from one of two causes. Either someone gets the idea that he wants to "rock the boat," or else two people try to change seats. The first is absolutely inexcusable. Not only should none ever attempt such foolish "stunts," but never go out in a boat with anyone who shows that he likes to "cut up" while on the water.

Sure Cause of Trouble.

Changing seats while in a boat is just as bad as rocking the boat, though it shows nothing but ignorance. Even a flat-bottomed rowboat is more than likely to upset if John, who has the oars, becomes tired and decides to give Billy a chance to row. And, of course, when two canoeists change their seats it is almost certain that the boat will upset, unless the two are especially expert and sure-footed.

If you attempt neither of these two things, however, there is no reason why boating should be attended with unusual danger. Even the canoe is comparatively safe if handled properly, and as it can be sent through the water with much less exertion than a rowboat, and since it can go so many places that a rowboat cannot, it has become the favorite craft of the vacationist. Of course, it doesn't glide along quite as easily as it seems to, and to make much progress you must put your whole shoulder behind the stroke, but in the end it doesn't tire you nearly so much as rowing.

Paddle Wielding an Art.

Then, too, there is a twist to the paddle at the end of the stroke that you must learn, because, since you paddle from only one side, you would keep turning the boat around unless you gave this twist. Those who row will understand this. It is just as though you used only one oar, and you know that this turns the boat. But the twist at the end of the stroke keeps the canoe's nose straight ahead, and you can master the trick with a little practice.

The canoe can go so many places that a rowboat can't because it draws much less water. With it you can follow the course of some winding brook that no other craft could enter. It gives one a delightful sense of exploring thus to make one's way through the water, occasionally having to part before you the branches of a tree that arch across the water, and again shooting out into the sunlight between pleasant fields. Another moment and the brook leads you through the woods again, and you almost imagine that you were the first to find that stream and trace it to its source.

LETTER GAME.

Chicago Record-Herald: This is a very old game, but I have no doubt that it will be new to many, and I am sure those of us who knew it in our youth will be glad to renew the acquaintance. Any number of players may participate.

The one who proposes the game explains that the letter chosen must begin the answer to the question; for instance, suppose the letter "A" is agreed upon and the leader says "mention the name of an American city beginning with "A" (Atlanta;) a foreign city (Amiens;) an American river (Alabama;) a mineral (amethyst;) a vegetable (artichoke;) an animal (ape;) an article to be worn (arctics,) etc.

Questions innumerable may be suggested.

MARKET IS AGAIN EASY

Wheat Turns Weak on Good Crop Reports From Over Northwest.

Flaxseed Sells Higher, With Fair Inquiry From the Crushers' Interests.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 8.—The market was weak up to the close. July wheat closed ⅜c off; September ⅞c off and December ⅝@½c off. July durum closed unchanged and September ¾c off.

Oats closed unchanged at 34½c for the on the track or to arrive. Rye unchanged at 58c for on the track, or 57c for to arrive. Barley closed unchanged at from 40@50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 38⅞c bid and October at 35⅞c bid. Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 79⅜c and calls at 80¾c@80⅞s.

Wheat turned easy in today's market as a result of generally favorable growing conditions in the Northwest. The volume of business was moderate, with traders showing a disposition to await the appearance of the government crop report before extending their lines. It was the general impression that the document should be favorable, but its effect was thought to have been discounted at the present range of prices. News coming to hand from the spring wheat territory was encouraging. Experts agreed in the opinion that the weather is operating against the inception or spread of black rust, and satisfaction is taken in the fact that every day is pushing the grain along towards maturity in the best condition except in a few scattering localities.

Fair Eastern inquiry was reported, and some business was worked. Traders are, however, now compelled to go easy in the way of increasing their committments in old wheat in view of the small supplies remaining in the elevators here and the congested condition of the market.

Reports from the Southwest were to the effect that country acceptances are fair on every upturn in the market, and that export trade is heavy at Kansas City and St. Louis. The movement down there is starting in much earlier than last year, as evidenced in the fact that primary receipts today were nearly 500,000 bu heavier than a year ago. Arrivals at Chicago for example came to 380 cars today, compared with only 87 last year.

Liverpool cables were higher on good Continental inquiry and unfavorable Russian crop news.

July wheat opened ⅛c off at 91¾c, and it firmed up a fraction to the closing hour, after having shown slight weakness. September opened ⅛c up 82⅝c, and sold off ⅜c, and December opened unchanged at 83⅛c, and weakened ⅝c.

Business in durum was confined to the distant future. July opened unchanged at 86⅞c and held there. September opened ⅛c off at 83c and declined ½c.

Flax Slightly Up.

Flaxseed advanced moderately on the execution of some buying orders from crushers and a disposition on the part of holders to sit tight. Closing prices showed advances of ¼@½c.

The foreign markets were about a standoff. Buenos Aires and London closed unchanged, and Antwerp 1¼c off.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.60, and closed ¼c up at $1.60¼ asked. September opened unchanged at $1.62⅛, and closed ⅜c up at $1.62½ bid. October opened unchanged at $1.62¼, and closed ⅜c up at $1.62½ bid, and the November option opened unchanged at $1.62¼, and closed ⅛c up at $1.62⅝ asked.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed at $1.39⅜, and October $1.43½.

Market gossip

There are no boats loading at the elevators today. The F. W. Leart yesterday completed loading 83,000 bu oats; 64,000 bu spring wheat and 103 bu of durum.

Wheat stocks at Minneapolis have decreased 650,000 bu in the last few days.

William Sheppard, a wheat grower of Kenyon, Minn., was a visitor on the board of trade today. He averred that conditions in his district promised a heavy spring wheat crop. Other grains are also well along and looking promising.

The Minneapolis market was steady with a good demand. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 2¼@2⅝c over July; and velvet chaff at 2@2½c over July; flour trade turned very dull. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from 88⅝@91¼c and No. 2 northern at from 86⅝@91¼c.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—The late rally in America yesterday prompted short covering at the opening here and values were ½d to ¾d up, and following the opening, there was a further advance of ¼d with the undertone firm. Firmness of Manitoba offers, fewer first hand offers of American winters and continued unfavorable reports from Russian, helped the advance. At 1:30 p. m., the undertone was firm, ¾d to 1d higher."

It is expected at Liverpool that American shipments will be early and on a liberal scale, but it is thought these will cause no particular depression in values as they will be met with rapid absorption as stocks everywhere light and importing countries anxious. The present statistical situation is regarded strong.

The area planted to wheat in Argentina will be smaller than that of last year in the opinion of Broomhall.

Price current says: "The harvest of winter wheat is near completion. The yields are generally running above condition indications and a crop of 650,000,000 bu on the announced acreage, seems assured. Spring wheat is in a good state, excessive rains having done small damage. The soil is amply fortified with moisture to make the crop. The one danger is an outbreak of black and destructive rust. The past week though conditions were unfavorable for the development of the rust spores, but the market was disturbed by unfounded reports of its prevalence in scattered localities. Until the crop has reached maturity, the plant is in danger from this infection. Hot stagnant weather breeds the rust spores, and the weather from day to day will be the best guide. The oats crop in the northern tier of states and down to the lower tier of counties in Iowa is in good condition with the harvest working northward. Rains fell over a large part of the dry area in the past week and gave corn the needed relief. Northward the corn has been set back by the wet weather and fields have not been well cleaned."

A wire from Urbana, Ill., today said: "Wheat threshing yield is from 20 to 35 bu per acre. Oats will be ready to cut next week. Hot weather ripened them too fast, and there are lots of white heads. Corn is clean and of good color but it needs lots of moisture in the next two weeks or will go back fast."

It is estimated that Kansas will export to Europe 1,000,000 bushels of wheat per day, beginning July 20. Every mill will run to capacity. Farmers, millers, railroad men, bankers and grain dealers all say that, if kept moving, enough cars are in sight to take care of the Kansas wheat crop. They estimate that its total will be around 170,000,000 bushels. Practically all of the state is soaked with a two-inch rainfall.

Experts say that a 170,000,000 corn crop is aassured and with rains throughout July it will be at least 200,000,000 bushels.

W. D. (Bill) Jones, one of the leading traders of the Duluth board of trade, who is to be married tonight, was given a farewell right after the close of the board at 1:15 this afternoon which probably gives him an idea of what a president or some other notable has to contend with when a crowd wants to shake hands. "Bill" has been looked on as a bachelor of the "confirmed" type and his married confrees had given up hope of him. Today a large circle was formed at the close and he had to run the gauntlet. He also had to take off his hat and apologize for waiting so long. At any rate it was a hearty farewell with a plethora of good wishes.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Easier on Allaying of Black Rust Fear.

Chicago, July 8.—Generally clear weather northwest, allaying fear of damage from black rust, tended today to make the wheat market easy. Besides reports indicated that the yields in the winter crop region were exceeding what had been predicted. In addition, cable bids were lower than yesterday. The opening, which varied from ¼c off to a shade advance, was followed by a slight rally and then by a decline all around.

Prospects that the government crop report would prove bearish nullified any change of an important upturn. The close was weak, ⅞@½c under last night.

Corn rose on account of improved cash demand here and in the Southwest. Oklahoma dispatches told of injury due to dry, hot weather. After starting ¼c to ⅝c higher, the market continued to gain.

Reports of Argentine shipments arriving out of condition at New York and Philadelphia counted in favor of the bulls. So also did urgent need of rain in Texas, Southern Illinois and elsewhere. The close, however, was weak, ¼c to ⅝c net higher.

Lightness of offerings had a bullish effect on oats. Price changes, however, were only moderate.

Provisions advanced with hogs. The best demand was for ribs.

Wheat—No. 2 red, 81¾@82½c; No. 2 hard, 81½@83c; No. 2 northern, 88½@90c; No. 2 spring, 87@88c.

WEAKNESS SHOWS IN COPPER STOCKS

Prices Sell Off Slightly, With Liquidation During Session.

After showing strength in the early trading, mining stocks sold off slightly at Boston today, with some selling in a few issues. Gains and losses were about equally divided at the close. Butte & Superior closed 25 cents off $37.25 on the appearance of the June report showing a moderate decrease in net earning for the month. Greene-Cananea closed unchanged at $28.50, after selling 50 cents higher. Alaska Gold closed slightly off at $27.50; Granby 50 cents up at $81; North Butte unchanged at $25; Shattuck 50 cents up at $23.50, and Amalgamated Copper 25 cents off at $70.88.

In the Duluth curb list, Keating sold at $2; Calumet & Corbin at 14 cents; Denn at $9.25 and Calumet & Sonora at 70 cents.

A wire received by Paine, Webber & Co., from Boston, said: "The June output of Butte & Superior was the smallest in tonnage for many months, due largely to labor trouble and it was a short month. The tonnage was good and the concentrates amounted to 8,600 tons, while they have been running close to ten thousand tons for some months past. While short on tonnage the concentrates ran 1.1 per cent higher than before. The output in zinc was about 9,500,000 pounds. Price of spelter was $4.87 per pound or lowest yet received for the output of Butte & Superior plant. Prices are still low, but it is believed they will average higher through July and if there is no interruption of work, July should bring the output back to normal."

A report from Houghton today said: "Quincy No. 2 shaft was restored to hoisting service this week after having been out of commission for nearly three months as a result of an air blast. A large increase in production will follow."

The Copper Producers' association report showed stocks on June 30 of 106,110,663 pounds, an increase of 21,768,022 pounds. Production was 141,345,571 pounds; domestic deliveries, 46,227,363 pounds and exports 73,350,196 pounds. The total consumption was 119,577,549 pounds.

GOULD LINES DRIVEN DOWN

Selling at Recessions Is Feature of Wall Street Day.

New Haven Also Has a Slump, But Gets Support.

New York, July 8.—New Haven shares were the feature of today's early irregular market by reason of the announcement that the government purposes carrying out its dissolution suit against the road. The stock fell a fraction over a point, but did not reach its recent low record. The movement otherwise was a mixture of gains and losses, none in themselves especially important. Gould securities were again subjected to pressure with pronounced weakness in Missouri Pacific 4's, which sold at 47½, a loss of 2½ points, while Denver Improvement 5's lost a point.

The movement became more confused later, high class stocks improving while selling of the Gould group increased. Missouri Pacific fell to 14⅝, a new low and the 4 per cent collateral and 5 per cent convertible bonds lost 4 and 5 points respectively. Unfavorable reports concerning Missouri Pacific were current but failed to attract more than passing attention. New Haven reached its former low price of 68⅜ and Chesapeake also was heavy. American Smelting was the strongest feature, rising over two points, chiefly on short covering. Another gold export of $400,000 to Paris was regarded as a special transaction. Bonds other than those referred to, were irregular.

Further precipitate declines in the Gould securities overshadowed all other features. Missouri Pacific broke to 12⅝, the collateral 4's to 41½ and the convertible 5's to a total of ten points to 44½. The collateral 5's were 85 bid against last actual sale of 90¼.

Denver issues sold off again in sympathy and Kansas & Texas common and preferred also reflected weakness. Incidentally Rock Island collaterals descended to their lowest price and other chief railway issues were heavy.

The monthly copper report showed an increase in supplies of almost 22,000,000 pounds and was unexpectedly poor.

Selling of Gould stocks at severe recessions constituted the feature of today's market. The closing was heavy.

Liquidation of Gould stocks ceased in the last hour and prices steadied under the effect of the crop report, but wavered again towards the end.

TO SELL A USED AUTOMOBILE YOU MUST NECESSARILY REACH THE PEOPLE WHO BUY AUTOS!

98% Per Cent of the Present Car Owners Read The Duluth Herald—Future Car Owners Also Read It.

THAT 98 out of every 100 automobile owners in Duluth and vicinity read The Duluth Herald was shown by a careful comparison between The Duluth Herald's subscription list and the names of car owners to whom licenses have been issued.

It is fair to conclude that an equal proportion of future automobile owners also read this paper.

The Duluth Herald's complete, accurate, well-told news and absorbing features appeal to the alert earning classes whose income is sufficient to enable them to afford automobiles.

Take this into consideration if you wish to sell a used machine. Place a "want" in The Duluth Herald, where it will be seen by the likely buyers.

If you wish to buy a used car and do not find listed in the "want" ads just what you want, insert an ad of your own asking for it; in this way you will reach practically all the present car owners and you will be able to secure just the car you want at a satisfactory price.

LOWEST RATES

The Duluth Herald's charges for classified advertising are less per thousand circulation than those of any other newspaper in Minnesota.

"NOTHING IS WRONG WITH BUSINESS," SAYS FORD TO PRESIDENT

Detroit Manufacturer Has Hour's Talk at the White House.

Calls Cheerfulness and Work Cure for Calamity Talk.

Trust Law Program Is Strengthened, Say Officials.

Washington, July 9.—Optimistic views of business conditions were presented to President Wilson today by Henry Ford, a Detroit manufacturer, during an hour's conference at the White House. Mr. Ford told the president he saw no evidences of any sort of business depression, psychological or otherwise, and said that in his opinion business was getting better all the time.

"There is absolutely nothing wrong with business," Mr. Ford told the president. "The only trouble is that some people seem pessimistic. If everyone would only cheer up and attend to their business this calamity talk would stop immediately."

Discussed Trust Bills.

The president and Mr. Ford discussed the trust bills in a general way, as well as the business situation.

Officials close to the president said he was greatly encouraged by his talk with Mr. Ford and that he had been further strengthened in his determination to push the trust program during the present session of congress.

Mr. Ford refused to discuss his call, saying the talk of business depression was unworthy of denial.

DENY MORGAN WAS NEW HAVEN CHIEF

Washington, July 9.—Attorneys for Charles F. Brooker and William S. Skinner, directors of the New Haven railroad, filed briefs today with the interstate commerce commission, supplementing testimony given at the investigation of the road's financial affairs. The two directors reiterated that President Mellen's policy of expansion was well known to all the stockholders; they denied that the late J. Pierpont Morgan dominated the board and declared that the dividends always were paid from net earnings.

AVIATOR GOES UP OVER 21,000 FEET

Johannisthal, Germany, July 9.—A world's altitude record for an aeroplane carrying only the aviator was made here today by the German airman, Otto Linnekogel, who attained a height of 6,600 meters, or approximately 21,654 feet in his monoplane.

The previous record was held by E. Legagneux, a Frenchman, who on Dec. 28 last year flew to a height of 6,120 meters.

N. E. A. Resolutions Committee Reports Favoring Suffrage.

Election and School Problems Taken Up—Bible Study Urged.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. David Starr Jordan was unanimously elected president of the National Education association.

The committee report approving woman suffrage and equal pay for teachers regardless of sex was adopted.

Oakland, Cal., was chosen as the meeting place next year.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the purpose of receiving the reports of the various committees and electing a president to succeed Joseph Swain of Swarthmore, Pa., the National Education association held its annual business meeting today. Harmony was the watchword of the meeting, and the unanimous election of Dr. David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford university was not unexpected.

The resolutions committee embodied in its report a resolution which came from the salary committee yesterday, indorsing woman suffrage. The resolution does not specifically mention man or woman suffrage, but states that the educators of the country believe "political equality" for both sexes necessary for the best interests of the nation.

While the business meeting was in session, various problems pertaining to the welfare of the nation's children were being discussed by delegates in different departments, and plans outlined for the solution of questions vital to the educational world.

IS DEAD AFTER MANY WEEKS OF SICKNESS

FRED A. BUSSE,
Former Mayor of Chicago.

WARBURG HAS RECONSIDERED

Accepts Nomination With Provision He Need Not Be Quizzed.

His Confirmation and That of Jones Are Looked For.

Washington, July 9.—Paul Warburg, the New York banker, has reconsidered his request that President Wilson withdraw his nomination as a member of the Federal reserve board, on the condition that he will not consent to appear before the senate banking committee to be cross-examined.

After receipt of a telegram from Mr. Warburg today, it was said by officials close to the president that an active fight would be made for the confirmation. It was declared that should the banking committee fail to report the nomination favorably, the president expects the senate as a whole to act.

Mr. Warburg's telegram to the president was not given out, but after its receipt officials at the White House said the name would not be withdrawn. That followed a visit by Senators Thomas and Shafroth to the White House. They are understood to have told the president that only a very few Democrats would oppose Mr. Warburg's confirmation.

As to Mr. Jones.

The situation as to the nomination of Thomas L. Jones, of Chicago, remained unchanged, and it was said at the White House that the president would continue to press for his confirmation.

A letter from the Chicago delegation of business men received yesterday by the president, indorsing Mr. Wilson's statement in support of Mr. Warburg and Mr. Jones, was made public at the White House.

"No more hopeful, helpful, finer words ever have come from the White House and we believe they will meet with the nation's hearty approval," said the letter.

Committee May Insist.

No official word went from the White House to the committee, but some senators were indicating that the committee would stand by its request.

It was said two Democrats on the committee planned to compile all the correspondence in the case and send it to the White House.

The Warburg nomination was discussed only informally today by the committee. It took up in detail the nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago.

RECORD CROP MAY NOT CUT PRICES

Much Wheat Is Being Fed to Stock Instead of Corn.

Washington, July 9.—Despite a wheat crop estimated this year at 930,000,000 bushels, the largest on record, no hope is held out by the department of agriculture for greatly reduced prices. Such a large crop would augur very low prices, according to a statement today, were it not that the world crops of wheat and competing grains do not promise more than the average of recent years. Besides, more than the usual diversion of wheat from its use as food to the use of feed for stock may be the excuse of the present relatively short supply of corn in sections where there is a promise of abundant wheat.

With corn selling in Kansas for about 7 cents more per bushel than wheat, it is not surprising, officials say, that much wheat should be consumed as feed by animals. Kansas' corn crop last year was only 23,000,000 bushels compared with the usual production of 150,000,000 bushels. This year's estimates are for a crop of 150,000,000 bushels of wheat.

MAY LACK EVIDENCE TO INDICT DOCTOR'S WIFE FOR MURDER

Officials Admit There Is Weakness in Case.

Mrs. Carman Collapses Again in Jail at Mineola.

Mineola, L. I., July 9.—It is not at all certain that there will be enough evidence for a grand jury indictment against Mrs. Florence Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey and yesterday committed to the county jail awaiting an examination on the charge. This opinion was expressed by Assistant District Attorney Weeks today.

Mrs. Carman's case was expected to come up before the grand jury late today, but according to Mr. Weeks there was little likelihood of an indictment. The number of witnesses to be examined would preclude this possibility today.

May Be Discharged.

"It is not unlikely," said the assistant district attorney, "that when Mrs. Carman appears before Coroner Norton, who will then be acting in the capacity of justice of the peace, she will be discharged."

At that time Mrs. Carman's attorney will have a right to cross-examine the witnesses who testify against the prisoner.

Dr. Carman who has come to Mineola for the day, found his wife in better spirits when he visited her in jail. She seemed to have recovered her composure and to be less nervous.

Had to Give Sedatives.

After her husband left Mrs. Carman broke down in her cell and her condition became so acute that the prison authorities called in the staff physician. She was taken to the warden's office where she became quieter after sedatives had been given her. She refused, however, to go to bed.

George Levy, counsel for Mrs. Carman, today obtained a seven-page affidavit from Miss Flora Raynor, who was with Elwood Bardes, an insurance agent, on the night of the murder. It was Bardes' testimony that he had seen a woman running away from the window of Dr. Carman's office after the shot was fired that was the direct cause of Mrs. Carman's arrest. Miss Raynor's affidavit contradicts important parts of Bardes' story.

Modifies Testimony.

The attorney also announced he had obtained an affidavit from George Golder, one of the witnesses at the inquest, modifying some of the testimony he gave before the coroner. Golder had testified that he saw Mrs. Carman sitting on the porch before the

EX-MAYOR OF CHICAGO DEAD

Fred A. Busse Succumbs After Many Weeks of Illness.

Was Prominent in Politics for Score of Years.

Chicago, July 9.—Fred A. Busse, former mayor of Chicago and for years a well known Republican politician, died today at his home. He had been sick for many weeks and was taken to his home from Mercy hospital yesterday.

Fred A. Busse was a prominent figure in Republican politics in Chicago and Illinois for nearly a score of years. In conjunction with James Pease he controlled the Republican organization of the North Side wards. He was born in Chicago, March 3, 1866, of German parentage. He was a good mixer in politics and was popular among the political workers of the wards he controlled. In his boyhood he attended the Chicago public schools and later drove a wagon for his father, who was in the hardware business. He organized a teaming company, was in the street cleaning business and later in the coal business.

Was Early in Politics.

He dabbled in politics from the time he was able to vote. In 1894 he was elected a representative to the general assembly of Illinois and served three terms. In 1898 he was sent to the state senate and became a leader in the Republican state machine. He was elected treasurer of Illinois in 1902 and in 1905 was appointed postmaster of Chicago by President Roosevelt.

Two years later he was elected mayor of the city, being the first official to serve the newly authorized 4-year term.

WASHINGTON MAY SOON MAKE NEW MOVE REGARDING POLICY IN RELATIONS WITH MEXICO

Official Word as to Peace Conference Proposal Is Awaited.

Zapata's Brother Carries Proposal of Union to Carranza.

Huerta Government Circulates Report That Villa Is Dead.

Washington, July 9.—That the Washington government would give within a few days some manifestation of the policy it intends to pursue to meet any new development in the Mexican situation, was the belief expressed today in many quarters.

President Wilson and his advisers still awaited official information of the Constitutionalists' attitude toward a proposed peace conference with Huerta's envoys. They declined to comment on border reports, partially confirmed in Washington, to the effect that the revolutionary leaders would not agree to a parley.

Probably the definite expression of its plans for the future will not be made by the American government until the proposition of the conference is settled and specific information on the extent of the Villa-Carranza agreement is received.

Some Pressing Features.

The status of mediation proceedings and disposition of the American troops at Vera Cruz are two of the pressing features hanging on the ultimate attitude of the Constitutionalists toward the proposed peace meeting.

Anxiety over the situation at Vera Cruz, where mutineers in Huerta's army threatened to attack the American outposts, was relieved by reports that the malcontents numbered less than fifty and that some of them had been executed and the remainder scattered.

Kahn Resolution Killed.

Acting in accord with state department recommendations that it was unwise to agitate the Mexican question in congress at this time, the house foreign affairs committee today voted to report unfavorably the Kahn resolution calling for information of alleged official assurances that Constitutionalists might import arms from the United States by way of Cuba without interference.

Reports Villa Dead.

Mexico City, July 9.—One of the reports made public by the gobernacion department yesterday was to the effect that Gen. Villa had been assassinated at Torreon by a woman.

The Mexican finance minister, Adolfo De La Llama, left today for Europe. He is undertaking a financial mission for the government.

Would Join Carranza.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 9. — Representing his brother, Emiliano Zapata, Gen. Efeminio Zapata, passed through here today on the way to Saltillo, Mex., where he will offer to Gen. Carranza, first chief of the Constitutionalists, the support of the Zapatistas in return for a guarantee that all the haciendas now in the hands of the Zapatistas will be distributed solely among them. The general left Emiliano Zapata two weeks ago, he said, by way of Acapulco and Bizanco. Emiliano Zapata, with 20,000 followers, was then within fifteen miles of Mexico City, but lacked artillery and ammunition sufficient for a successful assault on Huerta in his capital.

The proposition Gen. Zapata said he would present to Carranza contains a provision that Carranza supply the Zapatistas with artillery and more men.

PRISONER OR PANTS? OR THE COP'S CHOICE

London, July 9.—A South London policeman arrested two suffragettes who were acting suspiciously near a church and marched them toward the police station, holding one by each hand.

He was getting along all right despite the struggles of the two militants when a third woman approached from behind and cut the constable's suspenders. Either his trousers or his prisoners had to go—and the two women escaped.

FIFTEEN HURT IN SMASHUP

Dan Patch Line Car Is Demolished Near Faribault.

Two of the Victims May Die of Their Injuries.

Faribault, Minn., July 9.—Officials of the Dan Patch Electric lines today began an investigation into the cause of yesterday's collision between a freight train and an interurban passenger car on their road near here, in which fifteen persons were badly injured.

Most of the injured are in a local hospital and the condition of those most seriously hurt remained unchanged early today. At least two, the motorman and conductor of the interurban car, were not expected to recover.

The engine of the freight train plowed into a heavily loaded interurban car, tearing seats from their fastenings, splitting the floor nearly in two and piling passengers in a struggling, screaming heap at the rear end. Women and men in the forward end of the interurban car were jammed and cut with broken glass and wooden splinters. One woman had both eyes put out by glass. Others had faces, shoulders and arms severely lacerated. Some of the injured were precipitated out of the windows of the car on

DISORDER IS DECREASING

Steady Decline in Number of Arrests Made By Police.

Will Permit Four Traffic Officers and a Policewoman.

Lawlessness and disorder in Duluth are on the wane, judging from the police records.

During the month of May, 1913, the police made 555 arrests, of which 28 were women, while in May of this year 411 arrests were made with a total of 9 women. The police made 440 arrests in June of last year and but 364 arrests the last month. There were 21 women arrested in June, 1913, and only 9 this year.

These figures were obtained yesterday by Fred Johnson, assistant secretary to Chief Troyer, and are sufficient proof, the police say, of the reduction in crime and lawlessness in Duluth. Commissioner Hicken and Chief Troyer both commented on these figures this morning and declared they were well pleased with the showing.

In discussing the figures, Commissioner Hicken said this morning that in view of the fact that so few women have been arrested and that there is very little disorder, he plans to provide next year for the placing of four traffic policemen at Lake, Second, Third and Fifth avenues west and also to hire a policewoman to watch the dance halls, moving picture theaters and parks, where young girls are accustomed to go. It is the aim, he said, to devote more time to the young girl, who is apt to go wrong, rather than lawless women, of whom there are so few in Duluth at the present time.

"DEAN OF THE JUNGLE" IS GIVEN A CHANCE

John Hubbart, 73 years old, "dean of the jungle," will be given a chance to make his word good with the police.

He was arrested again last night on a charge of vagrancy and when brought into court this morning, he declared he was willing to work, but was unable to find a job. Judge Cutting took him at his word and placed the prisoner in charge of Probation Officer Hicks, who will find Hubbart a job.

It is probable that Hubbart will be placed in some camp near Duluth, Mr. Hicks said.

Banner Potato Hill.

Albert Lea, Minn., July 9.—R. C. Jenson of this county dug a hill of his Early Ohio potatoes and found seventy-three perfect tubers. Twenty-three of them were larger than hen's eggs, while the remaining fifty ranged from the size of large walnuts to robin's eggs.

POSTAL DEPOSITS ARE INCREASING

During the month of June, $14,404 was deposited at the postal savings bank, while ninety-one new accounts were opened, according to the report just prepared yesterday by J. S. Browning, clerk in charge.

On July 1 there was $176,048 on deposit, while a year ago on the same day there was $157,386 to the credit of the depositors. During the last twelve months 961 new accounts were opened, 4,487 deposits were made, while there were 2,926 withdrawals, according to the report prepared by Mr. Browning.

TAKE CENSUS OF CHILDREN

School Board Enumerators Have Begun Their Annual Count.

City Has Been Divided Into Four Districts for Work.

The school census enumerators, who began their work Monday, already have their task well in hand and are making rapid progress. How long it will take the enumerators to complete the work cannot yet be determined.

The enumerators who have been appointed are Harold G. House, G. A. Wyly, Miss May Dorlan and Miss Gertrude Ellison. The city has been divided into districts and these have been assigned so as to bring the best results from all points of view.

The district including the Lester Park, Emerson, Adams, Monroe, Fairmont, New Duluth, Gary, Fond du Lac, Smithville, Lowell and Nettleton school districts has been assigned to Mr. Wyly. The district including the Irving, Washburn, Cobb, Endion, Webster, Jackson and Bay View districts has been assigned to Mr. House. The district comprising the Lakeside, Jefferson, Franklin, Washington and Park Point schools has been assigned to Miss Ellison. Miss Dorlan has the district comprising the Madison, Bryant, Salter and Lincoln schools.

The distribution as to numbers, as contained in last year's enumeration, gives Mr. Wyly 3,000 or more; Mr. House, 3,600; Miss Borlan, a trifle more than 3,000 and Miss Ellison a little more than 3,000.

The enumerators have been asked by the board to encourage voluntary workers for the gathering of such additional statistics asked for by the social survey, committee which urged the board to contribute for the survey. All matters of an educational nature on file in the office of the superintendent and clerk will be freely offered to the voluntary committee for such information as may be deemed necessary. The reports of the medical inspector, the truant officer and other matter that will give complete information of the work carried on in the public schools during the last year may be found at the offices of the superintendent and the board of education.

BULLETS SPATTER AROUND REFUGEES

Rescue By U. S. Forces at Puerto Plata Is Described

Washington, July 9.—How forty-two Americans and Porto Ricans, refugees in the beseiged city of Puerto Plata, were taken out and safely landed on the revenue cutter Algonquin on June 26 under a heavy fire from the Dominican Federal troops and the Legalists, was related in detail in reports received today at revenue cutter headquarters.

When the Algonquin reached Puerto Plata, June 25, a Dominican gunboat was blockading Puerto Plata, held by the Legalists, and troops of President Bordas were beseiging the city on land.

The revenue cutter officers conferred with the commanding officer of the South Carolina, anchored outside the reef. He agreed to take the refugees from the pier and land them on the Algonquin. There was a sharp exchange of fire between the Legalists and the Bordas troops and bullets struck the water all about the rescue vessels. No one in the boats was struck.

There were nine Americans and thirty-three Porto Ricans in the party, all of whom were taken back to San Juan, Porto Rico. Thirteen were women, ten were men and nineteen children. Frank K. Wilson, an American citizen, was among them.

OUTSIDE MILITIA BARRED BY BLEASE

Atlanta, Ga., July 9.—Differences between Governor Cole Blease of South Carolina and the war department at Washington have resulted in the governor's determination to refuse North Carolina and Georgia state troops permission to pass through South Carolina on their way to the proposed joint militia encampment at Augusta, Ga., next month.

Adjt.-Gen. Nash of the Georgia National guard has made public a letter from Adjt.-Gen. Moore of the South Carolina National guard which said Governor Blease would not allow troops from other states to enter South Carolina until issues between the governor and Secretary of War Garrison have been settled.

The war department recently withdrew an invitation to the South Carolina militia to participate in the encampment because the troops did not meet requirements of the Dick militia law in the matter of equipment and number of enlisted.

SAYS WILLIAMS WAS PEEVED AT SLIGHT

London, July 9.—The Corfu correspondent for the Daily Express claims to be able to give some of the secret history of the affair in which George Fred Williams, the former American minister to Greece, figured so conspicuously.

He says that seven weeks ago a member of the United States house of representatives, after a tour of Epirus, arrived in Greece. He declared he had witnessed massacres of Albanians by Greek soldiers. He cabled to President Wilson and to Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, urging them to intervene. President Wilson instructed Minister Williams to proceed to Epirus to investigate the situation.

Before starting on this mission, Mr. Williams informed his diplomatic colleagues that the results of his investigation would be at their service. Later he telegraphed to the international commission that he had visited Albania, but the commission, ignorant of the fact that he had been under instructions from the president, refused to receive him. Mr. Williams, furious at his slight, then wrote his report in which he severely criticized the commission.

SIX ACRES FOR HOME FOR CHICAGO BOYS

Chicago, July 9.—Six acres of land lying on the northwest side were deeded to the newsboys and bootblacks of Chicago today to be used as a site for a $30,000 home for boys. The land was donated by Francis A. Hardy, who is chairman of the board in charge of the endowment fund by which the home is to be supported.

LINER'S MACHINERY HAS BROKEN DOWN.

Queenstown, July 9.—The Allan line steamer Sicilian's machinery broke down when she was two days out from Havre, whence she sailed on July 3 for Montreal, and she has been forced to put back to this port. She has 250 passengers on board who are to be transferred to another Allan liner on the arrival of the Sicilian here.

The Sicilian left London July 2 and called only at Havre on her voyage to Canada.

MINERS MAY NOT RATIFY SCALE.

Columbus, Ohio, July 9.—Many miners' delegates who arrived here today to attend the state convention of miners this afternoon came instructed to vote against the scale commitee's recommendation for the establishment of a state rate of 47 and 67.62 cents a ton, respectively, for machine and pick-mined coal. Doubt was expressed by several miners' officials that the scale would be ratified.

MUSSULMAN VICTORY REPORT CONFIRMED.

Athens, Greece, July 9.—Confirmation of the capture of the important town of Koritso, in Southern Albania, by Albanian Mussulman insurgents was received here today. The fighting lasted three days, after which the Albanian government troops took to flight and the Dutch officers in command proceeded to Avlona. It was at first reported that the entire garrison, including some foreign officers, had been captured by the insurgents.

EMPRESS OF IRELAND FINDINGS FINISHED

Quebec, July 9.—The finding of the Empress of Ireland wreck commission has been decided upon by Lord Mersey and his co-commissioners, and was typed today in preparation for its delivery Saturday. The document is upward of 11,000 words in length.

The report not only deals with the evidence regarding the collision and loss of life, but includes a number of recommendations regarding appliances to prevent any future disasters of a similar nature.

Though the commissioners have the power, they will take no action in regard to the punishment of those blamed for the wreck, it is understood, but will leave that for the authorities.

PORTER FIGHTS TRAIN ROBBER

Waterloo, Iowa, July 9.—An attempt was made by a lone bandit to hold up Illinois Central passenger train No. 11, one mile east of Epworth, Iowa, last night. The bandit ordered the porter, Henry Bruce, to search the passengers while he stood guard with a drawn revolver.

The porter replied by grabbing the bandit's gun, both of them rolling to the floor of the car. The gun was discharged several times, but no one was injured. Passengers heard the struggle and gave the signal to stop the train, whereupon the bandit freed himself and jumped off, escaping into the nearby woods.

It is believed the bandit boarded the train in Dubuque. An automobile was seen standing at the outskirts of Epworth and is believed to have been occupied by an accomplice. It was driven rapidly away when the train stopped at Epworth.

BILBO'S CASE IS WITH THE JURORS

Jackson, Miss., July 9.—Charges against Theodore Bilbo, lieutenant governor of Mississippi, that he accepted a bribe in connection with the formation of a new county by the 1912 legislature, are being considered by a jury. The trial began two weeks ago.

Bilbo and G. A. Hobbs, a state senator, on the stand yesterday denied testimony of Ira Sample, a Chicago attorney, that they had offered to have suits brought by the state against the Edward Hines Lumber company, an Illinois corporation, dismissed for $50,000.

STRIKEBREAKERS IN WESTINGHOUSE MILL

Pittsburg, Pa., July 9.—Several thousand strikers hurried to the Westinghouse factories in East Pittsburg early today when it was reported that three cars loaded with workmen from Detroit and Philadelphia were coming. The train had arrived earlier, however, and later these men were joined by others said to have been employed in Pittsburg. One man was arrested by the troopers for using abusive language, and W. R. Foley, a member of the strike committee, was placed under bonds to keep the peace.

Members of the strike committee said they hoped to have another conference with President E. M. Herr during the day. An order was issued by officers of the Allegheny Congenial Industrial union to prevent all members from entering saloons.

HAS EIGHTY INCHES OF SKIN GRAFTED ON

Pittsburg, Pa., July 9.—Seventeen months from the time he was admitted to a hospital here, Everly Jacobs of Charleroi Pa., was today discharged with eighty square inches of new skin. Jacobs, while employed in a mill, was frightfully burned and his father and nine young friends gave the cuticle which saved his life. Surgeons regard the case as one of the most remarkable in skin grafting.

ELEVEN TO ONE FOR PETRAS' ACQUITTAL

Geneva, Ill., July 9.—At 10 o'clock this morning the murder jury into whose hands the fate of Anton Petras was given yesterday afternoon had not returned a verdict, although they were to have reported at 9:30 o'clock.

One juror, Homer Eddy, an elderly retired farmer of Geneva, was reported the only one of the twelve men who held Petras the man who clubbed Theresa Hollander to death in St. Nicholas cemetery, Aurora, last winter.

The most vociferous argument, it was said, failed to budge him. The arguments of the jury were so loud last night they could be heard on the ground, four stories below.

At 1 o'clock, after the jurors had been out twenty-one hours, they sent out for fresh linen and asked for postal cards. Apparently they believed they were in for a long siege.

CAUSE ONLY INCONVENIENCE

Making Superior a Port of Entry Would Benefit Nobody.

Duluth Grain Dealers Would Be Put to Extra Trouble.

A Washington dispatch, published in The Herald last evening, announced that Senator La Follette has introduced a bill providing for the creation of a customs port of entry at Superior, Wis. The bill provides that Duluth will remain the headquarters of the Duluth and Superior district, by which name the district is known, but that Superior will be a separate port of entry, the same, for instance, as Ashland, Ranier and other ports in the district.

As conditions stand now, the Duluth and Superior district has a dual headquarters. In other words official entries that must be registered at the Head of the Lakes may be entered at either Duluth or Superior, according to the desires of the entrant, or to his convenience. Should the bill presented by Senator La Follette become a law, this condition would not prevail; but the entrant would have to register his entry on whichever side of the bay the business was done on.

This would have its greatest effect and inconvenience in the matter of grain men. Duluth board of trade men who now own or have dealings with the elevators on the other side of the bay make their entries here as a rule because that is a business convenience. But under the proposed law such entries would have to be made in Superior, causing considerable inconvenience.

In this connection those who have looked into the matter realize that it would act not only as an inconvenience, but would be entirely out of keeping with business tactics. The grain deals are all made in Duluth and because of the board of trade and the center of the grain business being here, the offices of grain dealers and of the elevator companies having houses on the Superior side of the bay are all maintained on this side and none on the other side.

The only gain, according to L. M. Willcuts, former collector of the port, that Superior would enjoy would be the collection of more taxes on the entries and as that would go to the Federal government and not to the municipality or company there would be no material advantage. Another gain, Mr. Willcuts points out, would be that Superior would gain in her showing of tonnage figures for the season's business.

"The present and the proposed arrangements," said Mr. Willcuts, "both have their advantages and disadvantages; but to my notion the chief thing to be considered is the convenience of the business men involved, and not that of giving a port a little more to boast of. And the proposed arrangement would cause great inconvenience without any good being accomplished."

Only three places in the United States have such a dual arrangement as exists here now. The other two are at St. Paul and Minneapolis and at Newport News and Norfolk.

Harris Bennett, the present collector of the port, did not care to express an opinion on the bill, as he has held office but a short time and he referred the questioner to Mr. Willcuts, as the latter was better informed on the details of the present arrangement.

CROSBY MURDERER ATTEMPTS LIFE BEFORE BEING TAKEN

BUILDING WHERE MRS. VALLANCOURT WAS MURDERED.
X Indicates Room Where Killing Occurred.

Crosby, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eli Vallancourt, who is alleged to have cut his wife's throat at their home here early yesterday, causing her instant death, was captured late last night in the woods on the north edge of town. He was found by Nelson Beaulleu, brother-in-law of the dead woman, lying in a pool of his own blood, having apparently tried to end his life by cutting his throat. Sheriff Reid and the big posse who had been scouring the woods for the accused, rushed him to a hospital where he was placed under guard and given treatment by surgeons who say he will live.

Threats of Lynching.

So high was the feeling against Vallancourt and so many were the threats made that Sheriff Reid is having him guarded at the hospital for fear public feeling may get the better of good judgment and the law may be deprived of a victim. As soon as Vallancourt's condition will permit he will be given a hearing on the charge of first degree murder.

Vallancourt had attempted to slash his jugular vein and when found was in an unconscious condition not reviving until given treatment at the hospital.

MRS. CHARLES R. HAINES HEARS THE FINAL SUMMONS

Mrs. Amanda Haines, wife of Charles R. Haines, died this morning at St. Mary's hospital, after a long illness.

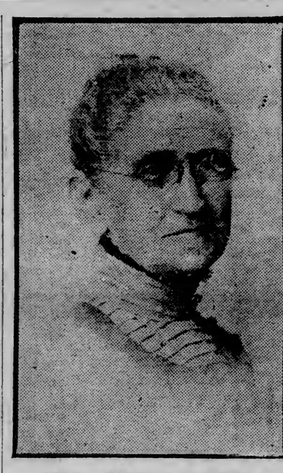

Mrs. Haines has been in ill health for some time. An operation was attempted, but it was found to be hopeless, and her death has been momentarily expected for several days.

She is survived by her husband and two children, Edward of Duluth, and Miss Helen Haines, an artist of Chicago.

The funeral will be held from the residence, 501 East Third street, Friday at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Haines was one of the pioneers of Duluth. She came to this city in 1870. She was at that time Miss Amanda Randall of Philadelphia, and during the first year of her residence in Duluth she made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Mendenhall, old friends of her family. Here she met Mr. Haines, and she and Mr. Haines have resided in Duluth ever since their marriage on Aug. 3, 1873.

Among the older residents of Duluth Mrs. Haines had a very wide circle of firm friends, who will receive the news of her death with deep sorrow.

MRS. AMANDA HAINES.

9-YEAR-OLD CHILD RESCUED FROM A MONSTER

The Escape of a Horrible Death Narrowly Averted—The Child Could Not Have Endured the Awful Strain Much Longer.

At No. 120 South Linden street, Richmond, Va., resides Mrs. Florence S. Duggan and her two little sons, 11 and 9 years, respectively. Little 9-year-old Lonnie has been almost a constant sufferer of one malady or another for the past six years; has had three attacks of fever—in fact, he had a cough at times seemed as though he had consumption. He has had the best of attention from a loving mother's hand, and the best of treatment, but the child could never fully regain perfect health. At times he had a ravenous appetite; then again the sight of food would nauseate him, stomach would bloat, lumps would form, heart would jump and flutter, pains in back of head, sometimes over eyes; dizziness, weak, run-down, tired, languid feeling. His mother said: "I have to be very careful of him; it seems as though I have to give this child some kind of medicine all the time. He has had a bronchial trouble ever since he was born. I was afraid he inherited the tubercular disease that his father succumbed to; but after reading in the papers about the worms that affect children and adults and how the wonderful Quaker Herb Extract that the Quaker Health Teacher was introducing at the Tragle Drug Store, would expel all worms from child or adult without sickness, dieting or any ill effects, I decided to try them, and a thousand times pleased I am, for after giving it only six days, little Lonnie expelled a monster life-sapping tapeworm forty-one feet in length, head and all complete, and I feel that this has been the cause of most all his trouble. And to think how easy the Quaker Herb Extract did the work!" Gaskins says this is only one of many monster parasites expelled in Richmond, for hundreds of children and adults are sufferers from worms of some kind and don't know it. Many supposed cases of stomach trouble is worms. There is one reason Quaker Herb Extract has made the wonderful reputation in curing different forms of stomach trouble—it expels them. This monster along with several other specimens of worms, can be seen free to all at The Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior street, Duluth, Minn. The Health Teacher is there, and will cheerfully answer all questions pertaining to Quaker Remedies. He also claims they cure Rheumatism, Catarrh, Kidney, Liver, Bladder or Blood Trouble, Indigestion and Constipation Call today; it costs nothing to talk If you can't call, order by mail. "MIDE WIWIN" IS THE CHOICE

It Means "Grand Medicine Society;" Pronounced "Me-Day-We-Win."

"Mide Winini" and "Mide Wikwe" Will Stage "Duluth Mide Festival."

Mide Wiwin, pronounced Me-Day-We-Win and meaning Grand Medicine society in the Chippewa tongue, was last evening selected by the board of governors as the name for the annual festivals to be held in Duluth, beginning in July of next year. The first festival will be held on July 20, 21 and 22, 1915.

In addition to the selection of Mide Wiwin, the board of governors will urge the Duluth Commercial club to adopt "We Win" as the new slogan for Duluth.

The name was suggested by T. W. Hugo, a member of the board of governors, who acted as chairman at the meeting held at the Commercial club last evening. Eight of the ten members were present, the other two being out of the city, and action on the selection of a president, three vice presidents and a secretary was postponed for this reason. Another meeting will be held within the next two weeks.

Mr. Hugo, who is one of the pioneers at the Head of the Lakes and one of the best informed students of Indians and their life, gave an explanation of the new name in an address to the members. The members were unanimous in agreeing with him, and following his talk, the name was adopted and the general committee, which has been in charge of the work for the last few months, will in the future be called the Duluth Mide Wiwin, while the series of annual entertainments known as the Duluth Mide festivals.

Origin of Name.

Mr. Hugo's address on the origin of Mide Wiwin and its significance as the name for the festivals to be held here each summer follows in full:

"What goes under the head of medicine among the Chippewa Indians embraces their religious forms and ceremonies, the initiatory ceremonies of the several degrees of their pagan rites, the ceremonies used in the case of illness and disability as well as the material they use, the drums and musical instruments and the songs and music and dances indulged in; it is the esoteric portion of the non-Christian Indian's life.

"A society is formed to perpetuate and practice these rites and ceremonies into which the Indian is admitted by the several degrees above mentioned by the aid of the appropriate medicine ceremonies. This society is called the 'mide wiwin,' pronounced as if spelled ME DAY WE WIN and translated means 'Grand Medicine Society.' 'Mide' meaning 'Grand Medicine.' The aim of this society and its teachings is to secure health and long life to its adherents and it seems to me that we cannot get a name which will more explicitly express the object of this association of ours and is clearly within the constitution of the United States in its pursuit of happiness.

"In my opinion we would be making a great mistake if we did not lay particular stress on the native Indians as a prominent feature of our program, closely interwoven as they are with every step of our progress until after the treaty of La Pointe, and here is one of their peculiar institutions which we can borrow, because we are not interfering in any way with anything the Christianized Indian cares about; we can use the name which is short, has an appropriate meaning, will attract attention by its oddity, is euphonious, many catch words can be rung in on it, for instance choose as a motto for the association, and for Duluth, 'We Win' having the English meaning, as the Chicago 'I Will,' though more forceful. For those who think the word midsummer should appear in the name it would be easy to transform the word Mide, Me Day, into the French Midi, and from there into the middle of anything; for those who insist on some reference to the tonic effects of our climate what other words will express that idea better than 'Grand Medicine.'

"I have an idea that the membership committee can make a fine play on this name by assuming that ours is some connection with the old Indian secret society and as anybody will join anything in the shape of a secret society they can gain supporters and incidentally dollars by securing members of our 'Mide Wiwin.'

"There is only one objection I can accept at all as being of any force, and I do not believe that cuts much figure, if we begin right in the promulgation; that is, the fear that the word 'mide' will be pronounced as it is written, and that neither newspapers nor people in the printing business will keep type with the necessary signs used in orthoepy, but this is no great obstacle, just do with this word as the dictionaries do, respell the word phonetically and it will soon become familiar enough, and after a time will travel on its own familiarity; it is not as difficult a word as the 'Gras' in Mardi Gras, and few people pronounce that wrong.

Equal Rights.

"This society also lends itself to the latest thing in equal rights. Both men and women may and do become active members, the men being 'mide winini,' the women 'mide wikwe.' All these advantages would accrue to us in our labors if we identify ourselves closely with our Indians and their traditions, and in doing so we are keeping strictly in touch with the main historical feature of any appropriate pageant which may be adopted.

"I therefore suggest that we adopt as the name of this association 'The Duluth Mide Wiwin,' and that any pageant or festival be called 'The Duluth Mide Festival.' At a former meeting of the association, when it was sought to decide on a name, and every one was voted down, some insisted on having the city located definitely by its name, and these names with Duluth prefixed satisfy that requirement. Others insisted on the word festival, while others opposed because it might be thought that festival was something related to religious practices. Even if it was, I cannot see the force of the objection, but to see how far the objectors were right, I looked up the dictionaries and find in the American Encyclopoedic Dictionary the following, which in my opinion strengthens this choice of a name, because it includes all the requirements of a festival: 'If the term be used generally, it may be held to include feasts and fasts, and reasoning from out of them the tendency and working of festivals in general. They were designed at first to be purely religious, but purchases were necessary, and thus commercial elements find their way into the gathering; finally the young people and not a few adults look for pleasure, and the occasion becomes a holiday, a commercial, and ultimately a pleasure fair. Definitions are given as "Pertaining to or becoming a feast or time of rejoicing," and again, "A time of feasting or rejoicing; a festive celebration or anniversary, civil or religious."'

Will Incorporate.

The Duluth Mide Wiwin is to be incorporated by the board of governors under the state laws and the organization in charge of the festival to be held on July 20, 21 and 22, 1915, will bear that name, as will all others in years to come. The Duluth Mide Festival and the new slogan will be used by the committee in all its advertisements, while the two names will be sent to all the railroads and steamship lines in the country, so that the 1915 Mide Wiwin will be included in the advertisements.

It was decided at the meeting last evening to copyright all banners, badges, flags, buttons and other Mide Wiwin souvenirs, so that the committee may be able to control the sale of these and thus aid the members in their efforts to curtail the heavy expenses that are expected.

Suggestion boxes are to be placed at the Commercial club booth at Fifth avenue west and at the car starter's booth at Third avenue, where all Duluthians are urged to place any suggestions or advice on the 1915 Mide Wiwin. Plans for floats, parades, entertainments and drawings for banners, flags and buttons will be welcomed by the board of governors.

Mr. Hugo acted as chairman of the board of governors at the meeting last evening, while A. C. Pearson was named as temporary secretary, until a final selection is made at the next meeting.

BENEFACTION FOR SAILORS

St. Luke's Hospital Gets $2,000 in Cash to Care for Disabled.

Dr. Ryan Will Invest Money —Plans Addition and Nurses' Home.

A benefaction for disabled sailors at the Head of the Lakes amounting to $2,000 has just been received by Dr. A. W. Ryan, president of St. Luke's hospital, from the estate of Mrs. Kate R. Wood of Los Angeles. Mrs. Wood was the wife of Capt. Alex. Wood, who was a master on the Great Lakes, and who made his home in Duluth.

The benefaction, which was made about four months ago together with numerous others for other institutions, has been held up for some time, and it was only this week that Dr. Ryan received the money. The money has been placed in a local bank and the interest will be used when possible for disabled sailors. In speaking of the matter this morning Dr. Ryan said:

Old Residents Here.

"Mrs. Kate R. Wood of Los Angeles, formerly of Duluth, left a benefaction for St. Luke's hospital some time ago. Mrs. Wood was the wife of former Capt. Alex. Wood and they lived near Eighteenth avenue east and Superior street. They were well known by the older inhabitants of the city.

"Some years since Mrs. Wood removed to Los Angeles and died there about a year ago, leaving a considerable estate, much of which was given to philanthropies of various sorts reaching from Los Angeles to New York. The fund given to St. Luke's was doubtless given in commemoration of Capt. Wood's services on the lakes. Gordon Wood of this city is a son of Capt. and Mrs. Wood.

"The money will be invested and used when possible for the benefit of disabled sailors at this port."

Improvements For St. Luke's.

In speaking of matters in general pertaining to St. Luke's, Dr. Ryan said that through the generous patronage of the benefit recently given for St. Luke's, $600 was netted and will go toward decreasing the bonded indebtedness of the hospital.

He says that the hospital has been overcrowded for the last year and that the time is fast approaching when another pavilion, larger than the present, will have to be erected. He also hopes to have built at the same time a nurses' home which may be large enough to accommodate seventy-five nurses.

ELKS HEARTILY GREET OLD MEMBER

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Louden of Portland, Or., are guests of their daughter, Mrs. David C. Black, 1817 East First street, and are being heartily greeted by old friends, for they were, up to thirteen years ago, residents of Duluth for many years. Mr. Louden was engaged here in the lumber business and was one of the best known men in the city. He served in the city council at the time that he late John Sutphin was mayor of the city, and is one of the few survivors of the active business men of that day.

Last night Mr. Louden attended the regular meeting of the Duluth lodge of Elks, of which he was a charter member. Even though he has lived away from Duluth well into a second decade he has never transferred his membership and said last night that he never will.

An interesting coincidence of the meeting last night was the presence of John L. Fuller and Alex Fraser, two other charter members of the lodge, and both of whom became Elks on the same night as Mr. Louden first donned the antlers. The result of Mr. Louden's presence was a reception in which all joined. Mr. Louden was the guest of honor and was given a reception that he will probably always remember.

LARK O' THE LAKE COMMITTEE TO MEET.

A meeting of the "Lark o' the Lake" committee will be held Monday evening at the rooms of the Commercial club, and it is announced that important action will be taken in regard to the proprosed celebrations. The "Lark o' the Lake" celebrations this year will be in modified form as compared with last year, but with more concentration and restriction it is believed that they will be much better and more attractive.

They will be given on Friday or Monday nights instead of on Saturdays; and ample money is being pledged for their promotion. Retail merchants of the city have already subscribed about $2,000 for it.

THINK BOMBS WERE MADE FOR POINCARE

Paris, July 9.—Bombs found in the possession of two Russians, who were arrested at Beaumont-Sir-Oise on Monday were intended for President Poincare, in the opinion of the police, who attach great importance to the affair.

Four persons whose names were on a list found on the Russians have been arrested, among them Prince Alexander Abachidze, a member of a wealthy aristocratic Russian family. Most of the other names on the list were those of dangerous anarchists whom the police have had under observation for some time.

An analysis of the bombs shows that they were of an exceptionally deadly character. They were made by an expert in chemistry and mechanics.

Seeks Divorce In West.

Portland, Ore., July 9.—Alfred E. Clark, formerly of Mankato, Minn., and prominent here in politics and the legal profession, has filed suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Marcella Clark, also once of Mankato. He charges cruelty and makes the assertion that his wife circulated stories that he was a drunkard, when, as a fact, he declares, he seldom drinks intoxicating beverages. Mrs. Clark was recently arrested on an insanity charge and her hearing set for July 10. The Clarks moved to Portland from Mankato six years ago.

PAVING WORK HALF DONE

Brick Will Be Laid on Lower Half by Friday Night.

The Improvement on Other Streets Also Making Good Progress.

More than half of the work connected with the paving of West Superior street between Fifteenth and Thirtieth avenues has been done. The entire lower half of the street will have its layer of brick by tomorrow evening.

The preparation for laying the brick on the upper side of the street is progressing rapidly. Within another week all of the material that is to be removed will have been taken away. The concrete foundation has been laid on that side of the street between Twenty-first and Twenty-fifth avenues and this morning the crew with the mixer started on the strip east of Twenty-first avenue.

Street improvements in the West end on other streets are also being pushed. A paving is being laid on Twenty-ninth avenue from the alley between Superior and First streets and Third street. Nearly half of this work is completed. The street is being paved with concrete surface and will have a concrete curbing.

The filling in of the ravine on Vernon street is also rapidly being completed. The grading of the street, preparatory to the laying of the paving is to start soon. This street will be paved from its intersection with First street to Pacific avenue, a distance of about three blocks above Third street.

Third street, west of Twenty-eighth avenue, has been improved during the past month. Crushed rock and considerable of the material removed from Superior street has been used. This has been rolled and furnishes a fair surface for the thoroughfare.

CELEBRATE OPENING OF NEW WHITE WAY

West End Commercial Club Will Plan Elaborate Program.

The initial step in planning a celebration in honor of the first lighting of the "white way" now being installed on Superior street between Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues west, will be taken at the meeting of the West End Commercial club on Thursday evening of next week. The proposed celebration is being given indorsement every day by the progressive merchants of the West end since the mention of it a few days ago in The Herald.

All business men of the section, whether members of the club or not, will be requested to attend the meeting in order that thorough co-operation may be had in planning the event.

It is expected that the paving of the street will be entirely completed and the system installed and ready for lighting about Aug. 15. As this date falls on Saturday, it is probable that the following Monday evening will be chosen as thedate for the celebration.

According to many of the business men who have spoken of the proposed celebration they favor something similar to the "Lark o' the Lake" night held in the West end last year. Each merchant will also be asked to decorate his place of business in honor of the occasion.

MASONS GIVE PICNIC.

Trinity Lodge Affair Draws a Large Attendance.

Nearly the entire membership of Trinity lodge, U. D., A. F. & A. M., as well as a large number of members of other Masonic lodges, attended the first annual picnic given by the Trinity lodge yesterday afternoon and evening at Fairmont park. A program of sports, games and other features was given in which many of those present took part.

At the close of the sporting program a picnic lunch was served at which the members' families were present. Dancing was also enjoyed by the members.

Baptist Service.

"The Greatest Need, Difficulty and Encouragement" will be the subject of a sermon to be delivered this evening by Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. The meeting is the regular mid-week service of the congregation.

West End Briefs.

Beta council, No. 2, Modern Samaritans, has planned to hold a joint picnic with Alpha council, No. 1, at Lester park on July 16. Committees are making arrangements for the affair.

Members of St. Luke's guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church will picnic this afternoon and evening at Lincoln park. A supper for the church members will be served at the park between 6 and 8 o'clock.

The monthly meeting of the vestry of the St. Peter's Episcopal church will be held this evening at Lincoln park following the supper served by the ladies.

The Tabernacle Society of the St. Clement's Catholic church entertained last evening at a lawn social at the home of Mrs. Catherine Devaney, 2725 West Second street. A musical program was given.

The Men's club of the Swedish Mission church held its meeting last evening. Rev. J. J. Daniels gave an address on "Rules For Spelling in the Swedish Language."

WOULD HAVE SEXES EQUAL

teachers, advocated education as a means of eliminating "an enormous national financial loss" due to ill health.

"The average working man's family has an economic loss of between 5 and 15 per cent of the annual income, due to ill health," Dr. Rapeer said. "The loss is very largely preventable.

"The principal method of eliminating this waste is through education. As a preparation for industrial efficiency no phase of general or of direct vocational training ranks higher in importance than health education.

"Yet, we have given little or no attention to this matter. Educators clamor for forges, work benches and other costly equipment, but fail to furnish this most vital vocational preparation."

Blames Timorous Mothers.

Timorous mothers who are afraid to allow their children to go out of their sight, and are continually suggesting things to frighten the children into obeying, are responsible for the great number of adult neurotics in this country, Dr. T. A. Williams of Washington, D. C., told a meeting of the department of special education last night.

P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, speaking before the department of music, said that if he were to make up a curriculum for a public school, he "would put in a little physical culture, a little reading and writing, a little arithmetic, and a big dab of music." He recommended music in the curriculum from kindergarten to the university, and said "we make more practical use of music than we do of the majority of studies."

Sex Instruction Opposed.

"Sex instruction placed on the same basis as spelling and arithmetic, will become so common that it will lose its sacredness," asserted Dr. Charles H. Keene of Minneapolis, supervisor of hygiene and physical training.

Loud applause greeted the remark, and then more applause came when he shouted:

"We should have but the strongest condemnation for the wealthy club-going woman who has not the time to teach her child the fundamental truths of life but who would throw the responsibility upon a teacher or a football coach."

Speaker after speaker expressed similar views, and then it became very apparent that the added duty of teaching sex hygiene would not be placed upon the American teacher if it could be prevented by the National Education association.

Training of Boys.

Training of boys, with contrasts between farm and city, was discussed by Rufus Stanley, director of the Omega club of Elmira, N. Y. Among other things he said:

"A new world has been discovered—the world of boys, and within the next decade boys will be considered first in the conservation of human resources.

"An ounce of education is worth a pound of reformation, and our schools have the privilege of doing the educating. Hands, head and heart, these three, (but the greatest of these is heart) will be educated by doing living lessons.

"Experience is power. Our prisons and reformatories are full of city boys with useless experience. Our cities are full of country boys—doctors, lawyers, merchants, priests and teachers with useful experience.

"There's a reason. Country boys are educated, developed, in a natural environment by family responsibility, intimate neighbors, with schools, useful work and natural play to a normal view point of life. City boys are trained, taught, in an unnatural environment like, caged animals, without the normal influences of family, neighbors, school, work or play to an abnormal view point of life.

In the Summer.

"Country boys are producers; city boys are consumers. Insult is added to injury by turning city boys loose in the summer time for ten weeks with nothing to do but break city ordinances.

"The summer vacation originated in the country from necessity; the boys were needed on the farm, but the summer vacation in the city is a misfit, with the result that the city boy raises Cain while the country boy raises corn.

"Half the money used in maintaining our reformatories would educate twice the number of city boys into useful lives if spent in summer vacations, giving them a chance to work and play on vacant lots and nearby farms, which some day will be more important factors in our school system than well-equipped buildings."

Composition Work.

The separation of literature and composition work was urged by Edwin L. Miller, principal of the Northwestern high school, Detroit, Mich. He argued, among other things, that important economy of time can be secured because greater speed will be attained in a class where only literature or only composition is taught, and that if the teaching of the classics is separated from the teaching of composition, students will learn how to write modern English, not "Snowbound" or "Sartor Resartus" English, and a better opportunity will be afforded to train up boys and girls so that they can appreciate at their true value the newspapers and magazines of the present day, and, in exceptional cases, earn their living by writing.

Normal School Failings.

"Notable Shortcomings of State Normal Schools" was the subject of Alfred C. Thompson, principal of the state normal and training school at Brockport, N. Y., who said:

"The requirements for admission to all normal schools should be at least graduation from a four-year high school course or the equivalent.

"In every normal school arrangements should be made so that every head of a department at least should have a sabbatical year on full pay to be devoted to study and travel.

"Normal schools should specialize, instead of trying to cover the whole field of teaching with each student.

"Provision should be made in every normal school for a 'follow-up' teacher or officer whose duty it would be to go out into the field and help the graduates of his school and also to bring back to his school definite suggestions gathered from actual contact with outside schoolroom conditions, for its future growth and improvement.

"There are three essential elements in the teacher-making process: scholarship, theory and practice. Certainly none of these can be omitted."

Remodeling High Schools.

A redistribution of the subjects in the high school course was urged by Vincil C. Coulter, head of the department of English, State Normal school, Warrensburg, Mo.

The aim of the suggested regrouping he said, is to save time by the elimination of present duplications, and to gain efficiency through concentration. The groups suggested are: (a) technical, (b) historical, (c) esthetic, (d) economic and (e) special in writing, art, music, and platform work.

Bible Study For Pupils.

The North Dakota plan of accrediting Bible study was described by Vernon P. Squires of the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks.

"Experiment after experiment in our colleges has shown that our young people are so inadequately equipped with information in regard to the Scriptures as to be unable to explain at least three out of five of the common Biblical allusions with which literature is strewn. For this condition many facts are responsible, chief among which are the too general failure of the Sunday schools to hold boys and girls during the adolescent period, and the scrappy, superficial nature of the lessons for those who do attend.

"The best plan yet suggested to meet the situation and to give our young people an adequate acquaintance with Biblical geography, history and literature seems to be that adopted about two years ago in the state of North Dakota. Here the state board of education has authorized a syllabus of Bible study, corresponding to the other syllabi for high school studies issued by the board, and outlining study in the geography of Bible lands, in fifty great Old Testament narratives, in Hebrew history, in the life of Christ, and the work of the early church. It also includes memory passages and literary studies.

Regular Examinations.

"An examination of this subject is offered semi-annually at the time of the regular state examinations, and to those who "pass" half a credit out of the sixteen usually required for high school graduation is allowed.

"The study is, of course, wholly optional. Moreover, it is not expected to be taught in the high school itself or during school hours. It is rather to be pursued privately, at home or in connection with the Sunday schools or young people's societies. The freedom of the study disarms criticism. No text-book is prescribed save the Bible, any version of which may be used. All that the state insists on is an accurate knowledge of the facts, literary and historical. Roman Catholics, using, of course, the Douay text, have thus vied with Protestants in carrying on the work. In fact, the largest set of papers sent in to the state examiner in June 1913, came from a class of Catholic young people taught by an able Catholic teacher.

"It is not expected that many would attempt this examination in June, 1913, as the course is designed for two years of work with one recitation a week, and at that time the plan had been in operation for less than one year. However, one hundred and twelve papers were sent in to the state board from thirty-two schools. Of these ninety-eight from twenty-nine schools were found worthy of credit. The results of the examination in June, 1914, are not yet reported."

Essentials in English Work.

Some "Essentials of English Work in the Schools" were suggested by Charles W. Evans, supervisor of English, East Orange, N. J., as follows:

"A speedy and general agreement in regard to grammatical and rhectorical nomenclature. There are enough possibilities of confusion without the continuance of a condition for which no possible reason can be assigned.

"A substantial agreement as to what specific results might be expected at different stages of the work. Not a certain amount of prescribed reading and a fixed number of papers within a given time—we have had too much of that—but that within a given time the pupil should have acquired certain habits in the understanding and use of English that would constitute a fixed part of his equipment.

"That appreciation from an artistic standpoint be substituted in large measure for critical analysis of form. A child should be taught to regard an English classic as a work of art to be admired rather than as a dead body to be dissected.

"If you, as a teacher of English, have not faith in your own appreciation of that which constitutes your work, I beg of you to try something else. You must see beyond the mere machinery of expression to that which reflects and interprets the deeper meanings of life. And the measure in which you interpret these meanings to those with whom and for whom you labor, shall be the measure of your success."

either side of the freight engine pilot and boiler, which came to a stop almost in the middle of the car.

Happened on a Curve.

The accident occurred on a curve. The engineer and fireman of the freight train, both jumped and escaped injury when they saw that the collision could not be prevented. The motorman of the Dan Patch line car did not see the oncoming freight until it swung around the curve directly upon him. He scarcely had time to turn off power and apply the air brakes when the pilot of the locomotive hit his car. Newcomb, the motorman, was caught and injured internally. His conductor, A. Boardman, suffered a double fracture of one leg and internal injuries.

Guy Miller of Faribault and Charles Eberhardt, a St. Paul contractor, were seated in the front seats and were among those seriously injured. Eberhardt sustained a concussion of the brain. Mrs. Emma Hoffner of Northfield, Minn., had one ear cut off by flying glass and also suffered other injuries.

Among Seriously Hurt.

Among those others seriously injured were:

Mr. Beser of Plainview, Minn.; Frederick Albers, Wheatland, Minn.; F. Conig, Sioux Falls, S. D., and Mr. Lotts, Manterville, Minn.

According to trainmen, the Dan Patch line car left Faribault, northbound, on schedule time and was due to meet the freight at a side track some distance beyond the city. Whether through a mistake regarding orders or "running against orders," as asserted by local men familiar with the line, the freight train did not await the interurban car at the sidetrack, but passed it and headed down for this city. The freight train was made up of steam locomotive and regulation steam road cars.

The line on which the accident occurred formerly was operated by the Chicago Great Western, but was taken over by the Dan Patch line July 1 last.

Hay Fever and Asthma

The Season Is Here to Spoil the Pleasure and Comfort of Thousands.

Among the disorders which have baffled medical science since time immemorial none has been so puzzling or devoid of sympathy as hay fever, or its forerunner, rose cold, and its complication, bronchial asthma. Prompt relief from this spasmodic bronchial affection can promptly be had by burning and inhaling the fumes of Warner's Safe Asthma Remedy. Its effect in stubborn cases where other means have failed is conclusively proved by the following: "You sent me a sample of Warner's Safe Asthma Remedy which helped me. I bought a box of it and it cured me, much to my astonishment, as I had tried many things without any success. It is now several weeks and have had no return of the trouble and do not expect any."—S. MAY LACK EVIDENCE TO INDICT DOCTOR'S WIFE FOR MURDER murder. In his affidavit, according to the attorney, Golder declares he is not sure his identification was correct.

Star Witness in Cell.

The immediate cause of Mrs. Carman's arrest was the testimony given by Ellwood T. Bardes, an insurance agent, whom the authorities designated as the single reliable eye witness of the crime. Bardes is under lock and key also. He is detained as a material witness, for his story is of so great importance that the authorities said they feared an attempt might be made to get him out of the jurisdiction of the New York courts.

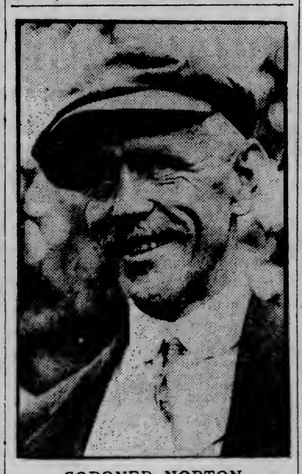

At 7:30 on the night of the murder Bardes said he determined to pay a professional visit to Dr. Carman and allow him to dress a minor injury. He left his home and walked to the physician's house. Arriving, he decided he could dress the injury himself and thereby save a doctor's fee. So he walked past the house and then turned around to begin his journey home.

At that instant he heard an explosion. He thought it was caused by an automobile tire, but when he looked for the machine he could not find it. He turned his eyes toward the lawn at the side of Dr. Carman's home. A woman, tall, well built, hatless, wearing a light shirtwaist and a dark skirt, was moving away from one of the windows at the side of the physician's office, toward the rear of the house.

"She was not running and not casually strolling around the lawn; she was walking in a hurry," the witness swore.

Told Woman of It.

Bardes' story might have remained untold, had he not mentioned it, first to a woman, who promptly telephoned the district attorney, and then to a Catholic priest he visited for advice. The priest urged Bardes to make his story known. Before an opportunity presented itself, he was taken in custody on orders of the district attorney.

Coroner Norton, after spending an hour studying the testimony of Bardes and other witnesses, wrote out his charge and then ordered Mrs. Carman's arrest. George Levy, Mrs. Carman's counsel, telephoned Dr. Carman of this action. Word was sent to Mrs. Carman that she was about to be arrested, and a few minutes later county officials entered the physician's office. Mrs. Carman pale but retaining her self-control, accompanied by her husband, her attorney and others, came in a minute later. Coroner Norton, for years an intimate friend of the family, with tears in his eyes read his charge and the warrant of arrest he had signed. Mrs. Carman stood erect, facing him. Between them, on the floor, was a dark stain, marking the spot where Mrs. Bailey died.

"Not Guilty."

"Are you guilty of this charge or not guilty?" asked an assistant district attorney.

"Not guilty," answered Mrs. Carman. "I'm sorry I had to ——" began the coroner.

As he said "to" the door leading from the office opened and Elizabeth Carman entered.

"Mr. Pettit," she said to the sheriff, "when is my mamma coming home?"

The sheriff placed his hand on the child's head and answered, "tomorrow."

"Come over here and sit on my knee," said Mrs. Carman's attorney. "We'll take care of your mother all right."

Mrs. Carman was then allowed to go to the second floor of her home to say good bye to her mother, Mrs. Platt Conklin, who has been ill in bed.

With her husband and the sheriff, Mrs. Carman was driven to the jail in an automobile. Although a cell had been prepared for her, she was taken to the warden's quarters on the top floor, where she was placed in the care of the matron, who gave up her own room to the prisoner. Dr. Carman and his wife's attorney remained with her until late.

Passed Madeline Bailey.

While the automobile carrying Mrs. Carman was running through Hempstead, it passed a frail little girl in black. She was Madeline Bailey, 17 years old, daughter of the murdered woman. She was not aware that a woman held as her mother's slayer was passing, nor did other members of the Bailey family know that Mrs. Carman, on her way to jail, passed within a few blocks of their home.

When Mrs. Duryea, the dead woman's mother, was told of the arrest, she said:

"If Mrs. Carman is guilty, God help her. If she is innocent, God help her. This murder has broken up a very happy home."

BULL MOOSE SECOND PARTY IN COLORADO.

Denver, Colo., July 9.—Overruling a recent decision of the election commissioners of Denver county, Judge Allen in the district court decided that the Progressve party, and not the Republican party, was second in size on the face of the returns in the last election, and entitled to share with the Democrats the appointment of judges of election in November.

The decision was rendered on a mandamus proceeding brought by Archibald A. Lee, Progressive county chairman, against Ellis Meredith Clement, president of the Denver county election commission.

PIG IRON RATES UNREASONABLE.

Washington, July 9.—Rates on pig iron from Virginia furnaces to destinations in the New England and Middle Atlantic states were held unreasonable today by the interstate commerce commission. It was ordered that the rate per ton should not exceed $2.25 to Baltimore, $2.75 to Philadelphia, $3 to New York and $3.25 to Boston.

Appeal to Warburg.

New York, July 9.—As representatives of the merchants' association, President William A. Marble, William C. Breed, chairman of the members' council, and S. C. Mead, secretary, asked Paul M. Warburg to reconsider his determination not to permit his name to be considered as a member of the Federal reserve board.

I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked like a charm in my case and has regulated me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."—Miss ESTELLA MAGUIRE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. Therefore, such letters from girls who have suffered and were restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be a lesson to others. The same remedy is within reach of all.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

PAVING WORK HALF DONE

Brick Will Be Laid on Lower Half by Friday Night.

The Improvement on Other Streets Also Making Good Progress.

More than half of the work connected with the paving of West Superior street between Fifteenth and Thirtieth avenues has been done. The entire lower half of the street will have its layer of brick by tomorrow evening.

The preparation for laying the brick on the upper side of the street is progressing rapidly. Within another week all of the material that is to be removed will have been taken away. The concrete foundation has been laid on that side of the street between Twenty-first and Twenty-fifth avenues and this morning the crew with the mixer started on the strip east of Twenty-first avenue.

Street improvements in the West end on other streets are also being pushed. A paving is being laid on Twenty-ninth avenue from the alley between Superior and First streets and Third street. Nearly half of this work is completed. The street is being paved with concrete surface and will have a concrete curbing.

The filling in of the ravine on Vernon street is also rapidly being completed. Grading of the street, preparatory to the laying of the paving is to start soon. This street will be paved from its intersection with First street to Lacific avenue, a distance of about three blocks above Third street.

Third street, west of Twenty-eighth avenue, has been improved during the past month. Crushed rock and considerable of the material removed from Superior street has been used. This has been rolled and furnishes a fair surface for the thoroughfare.

CELEBRATE OPENING OF NEW WHITE WAY

West End Commercial Club Will Plan Elaborate Program.

The initial step in planning a celebration in honor of the first lighting of the "white way" now being installed on Superior street between Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues west, will be taken at the meeting of the West End Commercial club on Thursday evening of next week. The proposed celebration is being given indorsement every day by the progressive merchants of the West end since the mention of it a few days ago in The Herald.

All business men of the section, whether members of the club or not, will be requested to attend the meeting in order that thorough co-operation may be had in planning the event.

It is expected that the paving of the street will be entirely completed and the system installed and ready for lighting about Aug. 15. As this date falls on Saturday, it is probable that the following Monday evening will be chosen as the date for the celebration.

According to many of the business men who have spoken of the proposed celebration they favor something similar to the "Lark o' the Lake" night held in the West end last year. Each merchant will also be asked to decorate his place of business in honor of the occasion.

MASONS GIVE PICNIC.

Trinity Lodge Affair Draws a Large Attendance.

Nearly the entire membership of Trinity lodge, U. D., A. F. & A. M., as well as a large number of members of other Masonic lodges, attended the first annual picnic given by the Trinity lodge yesterday afternoon and evening at Fairmont park. A program of sports, games and other features was given in which many of those present took part.

At the close of the sporting program a picnic lunch was served at which the members' families were present. Dancing was also enjoyed by the members.

Baptist Service.

"The Greatest Need, Difficulty and Encouragement" will be the subject of a sermon to be delivered this evening by Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. The meeting is the regular mid-week service of the congregation.

West End Briefs.

Beta council, No. 2, Modern Samaritans, has planned to hold a joint picnic with Alpha council, No. 1, at Lester park on July 16. Committees are making arrangements for the affair.

Members of St. Luke's guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church will picnic this afternoon and evening at Lincoln park. A supper for the church members will be served at the park between 6 and 8 o'clock.

The monthly meeting of the vestry of the St. Peter's Episcopal church will be held this evening at Lincoln park following the supper served by the ladies.

The Tabernacle Society of the St. Clement's Catholic church entertained last evening at a lawn social at the home of Mrs. Catherine Devaney, 2725 West Second street. A musical program was given.

The Men's club of the Swedish Mission church held its meeting last evening. Rev. J. J. Daniels gave an address on "Rules For Spelling in the Swedish Language."

teachers, advocated education as a means of eliminating "an enormous national financial loss" due to ill health.

"The average working man's family has an economic loss of between 5 and 15 per cent of the annual income, due to ill health," Dr. Rapeer said. "The loss is very largely preventable.

"The principal method of elliminating this waste is through education. As a preparation for industrial efficiency no phase of general or of direct vocational training ranks higher in importance than health education.

"Yet, we have given little or no attention to this matter. Educators clamor for forges, work benches and other costly equipment, but fail to furnish this most vital vocational preparation."

Blames Timorous Mothers.

Timorous mothers who are afraid to allow their children to go out of their sight, and are continually suggesting things to frighten the children into obeying, are responsible for the great number of adult neurotics in this country, Dr. T. A. Williams of Washington, D. C., told a meeting of the department of special education last night.

P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, speaking before the department of music, said that if he were to make up a curriculum for a public school, he "would put in a little physical culture, a little reading and writing, a little arithmetic, and a big dab of music." He recommended music in the curriculum from kindergarten to the university, and said "we make more practical use of music than we do of the majority of studies."

Sex Instruction Opposed.

"Sex instruction placed on the same basis as spelling and arithmetic, will become so common that it will lose its sacredness," asserted Dr. Charles H. Keene of Minneapolis, supervisor of hygiene and physical training.

Loud applause greeted the remark, and then more applause came when he shouted:

"We should have but the strongest condemnation for the wealthy club-going woman who has not the time to teach her child the fundamental truths of life but who would throw the responsibility upon a teacher or a football coach."

Speaker after speaker expressed similar views, and then it became very apparent that the added duty of teaching sex hygiene would not be placed upon the American teacher if it could be prevented by the National Education association.

Training of Boys.

Training of boys, with contrasts between farm and city, was discussed by Rufus Stanley, director of the Omega club of Elmira, N. Y. Among other things he said:

"A new world has been discovered—the world of boys, and within the next decade boys will be considered first in the conservation of human resources.

"An ounce of education is worth a pound of reformation, and our schools have the privilege of doing the educating. Hands, head and heart, these three, (but the greatest of these is heart) will be educated by doing living lessons.

"Experience is power. Our prisons and reformatories are full of city boys with useless experience. Our cities are full of country boys—doctors, lawyers, merchants, priests and teachers with useful experience.

"There's a reason. Country boys are educated, developed, in a natural environment by family responsibility, intimate neighbors, vital schools, useful work and natural play to a normal view point of life. City boys are trained, taught, in an unnatural environment like, caged animals, without the normal influences of family, neighbors, school, work or play to an abnormal view point of life.

In the Summer.

"Country boys are producers; city boys are consumers. Insult is added to injury by turning city boys loose in the summer time for ten weeks with nothing to do but break city ordinances.

"The summer vacation originated in the country from necessity; the boys were needed on the farm, but the summer vacation in the city is a misfit, with the result that the city boy raises Cain while the country boy raises corn.

"Half the money used in maintaining our reformatories would educate twice the number of city boys into useful lives if spent in summer vacations, giving them a chance to work and play on vacant lots and nearby farms, which some day will be more important factors in our school system than well-equipped buildings."

Composition Work.

The separation of literature and composition work was urged by Edwin L. Miller, principal of the Northwestern high school, Detroit, Mich. He argued, among other things, that important economy of time can be secured because greater speed will be attained in a class where only literature or only composition is taught, and that if the teaching of the classics is separated from the teaching of composition, students will learn how to write modern English, not "Snowbound" or "Sartor Resartus" English, and a better opportunity will be afforded to train up boys and girls so that they can appreciate at their true value the newspapers and magazines of the present day, and, in exceptional cases, earn their living by writing.

Normal School Failings.

"Notable Shortcomings of State Normal Schools" was the subject of Alfred C. Thompson, principal of the state normal and training school at Brockport, N. Y., who said:

"The requirements for admission to all normal schools should be at least graduation from a four-year high school course or the equivalent.

"In every normal school arrangements should be made so that every head of a department at least should have a sabbatical year on full pay to be devoted to study and travel.

"Normal schools should specialize, instead of trying to cover the whole field of teaching with each student.

"Provision should be made in every normal school for a "follow-up" teacher or officer whose duty it would be to go out into the field and help the graduates of his school and also to bring back to his school definite suggestions gathered from actual contact with outside schoolroom conditions, for its future growth and improvement.

"There are three essential elements in the teacher-making process: scholarship, theory and practice. Certainly none of these can be omitted."

Remodeling High Schools.

A redistribution of the subjects in the high school course was urged by Vincil C. Coulter, head of the department of English, State Normal school, Warrensburg, Mo.

The aim of the suggested regrouping he said, is to save time by the elimination of present duplications, and to gain efficiency through concentration. The groups suggested are : (a) technical, (b) historical, (c) esthetic, (d) economic, and (e) special in writing, art, music, and platform work.

Bible Study For Pupils.

The North Dakota plan of accrediting Bible study was described by Vernon P. Squires of the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks.

"Experiment after experiment in our colleges has shown that our young people are so inadequately equipped with information in regard to the Scriptures as to be unable to explain at least three out of five of the common Biblical allusions with which literature is strewn. For this condition many facts are responsible, chief among which are the too general failure of the Sunday schools to hold boys and girls during the adolescent period, and the scrappy, superficial nature of the lessons for those who do attend.

"The best plan yet suggested to meet the situation and to give our young people an adequate acquaintance with Biblical geography, history and literature seems to be that adopted about two years ago in the state of North Dakota. Here the state board of education has authorized a syllabus of Bible study, corresponding to the other syllabi for high school studies issued by the board, and outlining study in the geography of Bible lands, in fifty great Old Testament narratives, in Hebrew history, in the life of Christ, and the work of the early church. It also includes memory passages and literary studies.

Regular Examinations.

"An examination of this subject is offered semi-annually at the time of the regular state examinations, and to those who "pass" half a credit out of the sixteen usually required for high school graduation is allowed.

"The study is, of course, wholly optional. Moreover, it is not expected to be taught in the high school itself or during school hours. It is rather to be pursued privately, at home or in connection with the Sunday schools or young people's societies. The freedom of the study disarms criticism. No text-book is prescribed save the Bible, any version of which may be used. All that the state insists on is an accurate knowledge of the facts, literary and historical, Roman Catholics, using, of course, the Douay text, have thus vied with Protestants in carrying on the work. In fact, the largest set of papers sent in to the state examiner in June 1913, came from a class of Catholic young people taught by an able Catholic teacher.

"It is not expected that many would attempt this examination in June, 1913, as the course is designed for two years of work with one recitation a week, and at that time the plan had been in operation for less than one year. However, one hundred and twelve papers were sent in to the state board from thirty-two schools. Of these ninety-eight from twenty-nine schools were found worthy of credit. The results of the examination in June, 1914, are not yet reported."

Essentials in English Work.

Some "Essentials of English Work in the Schools" were suggested by Charles W. Evans, supervisor of English, East Orange, N. J., as follows:

"A speedy and general agreement in regard to grammatical and rhectorical nomenclature. There are enough possibilities of confusion without the continuance of a condition for which no possible reason can be assigned.

"A substantial agreement as to what specific results might be expected at different stages of the work. Not a certain amount of prescribed reading and a fixed number of papers within a given time—we have had too much of that—but that within a given time the pupil should have acquired certain habits in the understanding and use of English that would constitute a fixed part of his equipment.

"That appreciation from an artistic standpoint be substituted in large measure for critical analysis of form. A child should be taught to regard an English classic as a work of art to be admired rather than as a dead body to be dissected.

"If you, as a teacher of English, have not faith in your own appreciation of that which constitutes your work, I beg of you to try something else. You must see beyond the mere machinery of expression to that which reflects and interprets the deeper meanings of life. And the measure in which you interpret these meanings to those with whom and for whom you labor, shall be the measure of your success."

Practical Prescription Against Stomach Acidity

Nine-tenths of all cases of stomach trouble nowadays are caused by too much acid. In the beginning the stomach itself is not diseased but if this acid condition is allowed to continue, the acid is very likely to eat into the stomach walls and produce stomach ulcers which may render a radical surgical operation necessary even to prolong life. Therefore, an "acid stomach" is really a dangerous condition and should be treated seriously. It is utterly useless to take pepsin and ordinary stomach tablets. The excess acid or stomach hyperacidity must be neutralized by the administration of an efficient antacid. For this purpose the best remedy is bisurated magnesia taken in teaspoonful doses in a fourth of a glass of water after each meal. Larger quantities may be used if necessary as it is absolutely harmless. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia as other forms of magnesia make effective mouth washes but they have not the same action on the stomach as the bisurated. —Advertisement.

Hay Fever and Asthma

The Season Is Here to Spoil the Pleasure and Comfort of Thousands.

Among the disorders which have baffled medical science since time immemorial none has been so puzzling or devoid of sympathy as hay fever, or its forerunner, rose cold, and its complication, bronchial asthma. Prompt relief from this spasmodic bronchial affection can promptly be had by burning and inhaling the fumes of Warner's Safe Asthma Remedy. Its effect in stubborn cases where other means have failed is conclusively proved by the following: "You sent me a sample of Warner's Safe Asthma Remedy which helped me. I bought a box of it and it cured me, much to my astonishment, as I had tried many things without any success. It is now several weeks and have had no return of the trouble and do not expect any."—S. M. Davis, 1332 S. Flower St., Los Angeles, Cal.

either side of the freight engine pilot and boiler, which came to a stop almost in the middle of the car.

Happened on a Curve.

The accident occurred on a curve. The engineer and fireman of the freight train both jumped and escaped injury when they saw that the collision could not be prevented. The motorman of the Dan Patch line car did not see the oncoming freight until it swung around the curve directly upon him. He scarcely had time to turn off power and apply the air brakes when the pilot of the locomotive hit his car. Newcomb, the motorman, was caught and injured internally. His conductor, A. Boardman, suffered a double fracture of one leg and internal injuries.

Guy Miller of Faribault and Charles Eberhardt, a St. Paul contractor, were seated in the front seats and were among those seriously injured. Eberhardt sustained a concussion of the brain. Mrs. Emma Hoffner of Northfield, Minn., had one ear cut off by flying glass and also suffered other injuries.

Among Seriously Hurt.

Among those others seriously injured were:

Mr. Beser of Plainview, Minn.; Frederick Albers, Wheatland, Minn.; F. Conig, Sioux Falls, S. D., and Mr. Lotts, Manterville, Minn.

According to trainmen, the Dan Patch line car left Faribault, northbound, on schedule time and was due to meet the freight at a side track some distance beyond the city. Whether through a mistake regarding orders or "running against orders," as asserted by local men familiar with the line, the freight train did not await the interurban car at the sidetrack, but passed it and headed down for this city. The freight train was made up of steam locomotive and regulation steam road cars.

The line on which the accident occurred formerly was operated by the Chicago Great Western, but was taken over by the Dan Patch line July 1 last.

murder. In his affidavit, according to the attorney, Golder declares he is not sure his identification was correct.

Star Witness in Cell.

The immediate cause of Mrs. Carman's arrest was the testimony given by Ellwood T. Bardes, an insurance agent, whom the authorities designated as the single reliable eye witness of the crime. Bardes is under lock and key also. He is detained as a material witness, for his story is of so great importance that the authorities said they feared an attempt might be made to get him out of the jurisdiction of the New York courts.

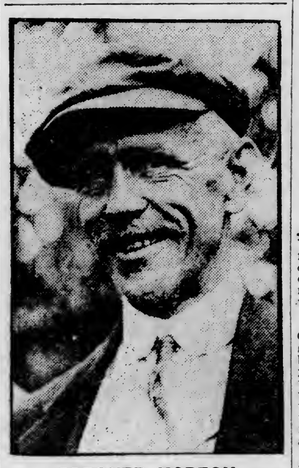

At 7:30 on the night of the murder Bardes said he determined to pay a professional visit to Dr. Carman and allow him to dress a minor injury. He left his home and walked to the physician's house. Arriving, he decided he could dress the injury himself and thereby save a doctor's fee. So he walked past the house and then turned around to begin his journey home.

At that instant he heard an explosion. He thought it was caused by an automobile tire, but when he looked for the machine he could not find it. He turned his eyes toward the lawn at the side of Dr. Carman's home. A woman, tall, well built, hatless, wearing a light shirtwaist and a dark skirt, was moving away from one of the windows at the side of the physician's office, toward the rear of the house.

"She was not running and not casually strolling around the lawn; she was walking in a hurry," the witness swore.

Told Woman of It.

Bardes' story might have remained untold, had he not mentioned it, first to a woman, who promptly telephoned the district attorney, and then to a Catholic priest he visited for advice. The priest urged Bardes to make his story known. Before an opportunity presented itself, he was taken in custody on orders of the district attorney.

Coroner Norton, after spending an hour studying the testimony of Bardes and other witnesses, wrote out his charge and then ordered Mrs. Carman's arrest. George Levy, Mrs. Carman's counsel, telephoned Dr. Carman of this action. Word was sent to Mrs. Carman that she was about to be arrested, and a few minutes later county officials entered the physician's office. Mrs. Carman pale but retaining her self-control, accompanied by her husband, her attorney and others, came in a minute later. Coroner Norton, for years an intimate friend of the family, with tears in his eyes read his charge and the warrant of arrest he had signed. Mrs. Carman stood erect, facing him. Between them, on the floor, was a dark stain, marking the spot where Mrs. Bailey died.

"Not Guilty."

"Are you guilty of this charge or not guilty?" asked an assistant district attorney.

"Not guilty," answered Mrs. Carman. "I'm sorry I had to ——" began the coroner.

As he said "to" the door leading from the office opened and Elizabeth Carman entered.

"Mr. Pettit," she said to the sheriff, "when is my mamma coming home?"

The sheriff placed his hand on the child's head and answered, "tomorrow."

"Come over here and sit on my knee," said Mrs. Carman's attorney. "We'll take care of your mother all right."

Mrs. Carman was then allowed to go to the second floor of her home to say good bye to her mother, Mrs. Platt Conklin, who has been ill in bed.

With her husband and the sheriff, Mrs. Carman was driven to the jail in an automobile. Although a cell had been prepared for her, she was taken to the warden's quarters on the top floor, where she was placed in the care of the matron, who gave up her own room to the prisoner. Dr. Carman and his wife's attorney remained with her until late.

Passed Madeline Bailey.

While the automobile carrying Mrs. Carman was running through Hempstead, it passed a frail little girl in black. She was Madine Bailey, 17 years old, daughter of the murdered woman. She was not aware that a woman held as her mother's slayer was passing, nor did other members of the Bailey family know that Mrs. Carman, on her way to jail, passed within a few blocks of their home.

When Mrs. Duryea, the dead woman's mother, was told of the arrest, she said:

"If Mrs. Carman is guilty, God help her. If she is innocent, God help her. This murder has broken up a very happy home."

BULL MOOSE SECOND PARTY IN COLORADO.

Denver, Colo., July 9.—Overruling a recent decision of the election commissioners of Denver county, Judge Allen in the district court decided that the Progressve party, and not the Republican party, was second in size on the face of the returns in the last election, and entitled to share with the Democrats the appointment of judges of election in November.

The decision was rendered on a mandamus proceeding brought by Archibald A. Lee, Progressive county chairman, against Ellis Meredith Clement, president of the Denver county election commission.

STAMP OUT BEER SALES

West Duluth Police Trying to End Drinking Among Youths.

The West Duluth police have two men under arrest for alleged selling of liquor to minors. The arrests followed a determined attempt to stamp out liquor selling or furnishing to gangs of boys in this end of the city.

Last evening Mike Vukovich was arrested on a warrant charging him with having been implicated in the sale of a case of beer on July 4 to John Burr, 17 years old. He is said to have been with Bob Klashja, who was arrested on Tuesday on the same charge.

The arrest of Vukovich came about as the result of the hearing held for Klashja yesterday afternoon. Four boys testified that these two men had been together when the sale was made and that they were believed to be partners. This testimony caused the postponement of the trial until after the arrest of Vukovich. The two men will be given a hearing this afternoon before Judge Lanners.

PLAN SUBWAY FOR PEDESTRIANS

The Canadian Northern railway has informed the city officials that a subway for pedestrians will be built on the east side of Sixtieth avenue west.

This will eliminate the danger of crossing the tracks at grade. Particular complaint was made because of the large number of school children who cross the tracks at that point. The railroad states that the contract for the work will be let in a few days.

BOYS' PLAY CAUSES TWO FIRE RUNS.

Boys playing with matches caused the West Duluth fire department to have two runs yesterday afternoon. The fire started in the building at 10 South Sixty-third avenue west. The first call was at 4 o'clock and the second about two hours later. It is believed that embers still smouldering from the first fire caused the second run. The building is owned by Mrs. Helen A. Abbott.

WILL INSPECT THE WORK FARM.

Several business and professional men of West Duluth are contemplating taking a trip to the work farm on Tuesday for the purpose of inspecting it. The date is the regular meeting of the work farm board.

The West Duluth men will leave this end of the city about 11 o'clock in automobiles, arriving at the place at noon. Thomas Olafson, a member of the board, will head the delegation.

Changes His Plea.

Thomas Maloney, who was arrested Monday night and who on Tuesday morning pleaded guilty to an assault charge changed his mind about being guilty when he appeared for sentence yesterday afternoon. Through an attorney he asked to have the plea changed to not guilty and requested a jury trial. The trial was set for July 23. Maloney was arrested on complaint of George W. Albertson, a gateman at the Minnesota steel plant, who alleges that on July 2 Maloney had assaulted him.

SUBURB TO BE TERMINAL

Railway Improvements Costing Half Million Are Under Way.

A net-work of sidetracks costing close to a half million dollars and connecting every line entering the western end of the city is being planned for West Duluth. A large amount of this work is already well under way but future improvements already planned will make the suburb the most important terminal point in the Northwest, according to a well-founded rumor.

The improvements are being principally made by the Northern Pacific railroad. These include, up to the present time, the building of extensive yards in the vicinity of the water front and a net-work of rails that tap every coal and lumber dock in this end of the city.

West of Sixty-third avenue the railroad is said to have similar plans for yardage in view. Engineers of the road have been busy laying out prospective yards extending almost to Smithville. This place will, it is said, become the Lake Superior terminal yards for the road in the place of the one planned at Carlton.

An important connecting link between the Northern Pacific and the Canadian Northern railroad will be made, it is said, west of Seventy-first avenue west. This connection will make it possible to immediately transfer freight cars from one line to the other. Similar connections will be made with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern through the Lake Superior Transfer railway, recently built from Adolph to the steel plant. Connections and switching facilities with the Soo line have already been made near the bay front.

One of the improvements planned that will be of material interest, will be the construction of a roundhouse. The location for this has not been decided on, but it is estimated that it will be located at a place somewhere between Sixty-fourth and Seventieth avenues. This roundhouse will also be provided with repair shops and equipped to handle about eighteen engines.

WOULD HAVE RESORTS HERE

M. J. Filiatrault Returns From Twin Cities With Suggestions.

Following a visit to Lake Calhoun, Lake Harriet and other pleasnre resorses of the Twin Cities, M. J. Filiatrault returned this morning from Minneapolis, filled with enthusiasm for similar pleasure resorts for the people of Duluth. Mr. Filiatrault said that Fairmont park was the logical place for such a pleasure place, and that the city and the park board should not lose any time in making that an up-to-date recreation spot.

Mr. Filiatrault attended the meeting of the state board of examiners for embalmers and funeral directors. A number of students of the Minnesota university were examined by the board he said. The board held its session yesterday forenoon.

"Duluth should not lose any time in making Fairmont park an ideal resort and pleasure ground for the people of this city," said Mr. Filiatrault. "The park is the ideal location. Here can be provided public baths, a lagoon for safe canoeing, automobile driveways, playground for children, and in fact everything that makes a pleasure resort popular with the people.

M. J. FILIATRAULT.

"Money spent for such a purpose is well spent. The working people need just such a place to spend the evening or Saturday afternoons and Sundays. Free band concerts should be provided and free bathing privileges given. The small bayou at the mouth of Kingsbury creek makes this spot an ideal one for the location of the baths. Here it is shallow, the water warm, and at a small expense the place could be made the best of its kind in the entire country.

"Thousands of Minneapolis people daily spend the afternoons and evenings at the lakes. The people of Duluth would only be too glad to do the same thing here if given the opportunity and the place to spend their idle hours."

HARD JOB TO GET A JURY

Only Eight Jurors Secured in Half Day in Shooting Case.

Slow progress is being made in the selection of a jury to determine whether or not Albert Anderson, 50, farmer and former treasurer of the township of Normanna, committed an offense against the peace and dignity of the state of Minnesota when he shot and wounded Edward Arntsen, a neighbor, Sept. 1, last year.

The case was brought on for trial by County Attorney Warren E. Greene in Judge Fesler's division of the district court this morning and when the noon adjournment of court was taken, only eight jurors had been impaneled. It is expected that the other four jurors will be selected at the afternoon session and that the state will get its case well under way before the afternoon adjournment.

Indicted for Assault.

Anderson was indicted by the November 1913 grand jury on a charge of assault in the second degree. Anderson was arrested on Sept. 1 after he had shot and wounded Arntsen, his neighbor. At the time of his arrest, which was shortly after the shooting, he admitted having shot Arntsen through the knee, but claimed that he fired in self-defense.

Anderson, it is understood, will claim that Arntsen was about to attack him with one of his own axes and that to save his own life he was compelled to shoot. The shooting occurred on the Anderson farm, eighteen miles out of Duluth. Arntsen, who is chairman of the town board of Normanna township, had called on Anderson, who was at that time town treasurer, on business. During their talk the men engaged in an argument which lead to personal threats and terminated when Anderson fired his revolver. The wound was not serious.

Defendant in Civil Action.

Anderson, at that time, had just been made defendant in a civil action brought by the town to recover $2,000 which, it was claimed, Anderson was short at the time he turned the funds over to his successor. He had previously resigned as treasurer.

After he was indicted, Anderson failed to appear in court to answer to the charge against him. On Dec. 6 last, Judge Ensign, on the motion of County Attorney Greene, declared his bond of $1,000 forfeited. Gust A. Rydberg and E. R. Rothe were the sureties on the bond.

After "jumping" his bail last November, Anderson returned to Duluth and was located by the sheriff's office in April on his farm in the town of Normanna. Since April, Anderson has been confined in the county jail.

DROPS DEAD AS TIRE EXPLODES.

Winthrop, Minn., July 9.—Charles O. Nord, a well-known farmer, died under strange circumstances. He and his brother, sister and two children were returning from Cokato in an automobile. In shifting gears to low speed a loud explosion occurred. Nord exclaimed, "There goes a tire," and fell dead while still at the wheel.

MAY LOSE HIS LICENSE

Whether or not T. Pinsonnault will secure a renewal of his saloon license at 1920 West Superior street, which expires shortly, is very doubtful.

Pinsonnault filed an application for the renewal of his permit with City Clerk Charles S. Palmer this morning.

Last winter Pinsonnault's bartender paid a fine for selling liquor to an habitual drunkard. The first charge was selling to a blacklisted person but the notice was defective and the charge was changed. Under the Hicken code no license can be granted for a saloon in any building where a conviction of violating the liquor laws has been had within a year. In other words, the building is penalized for a year as far as its use for a saloon is concerned.

It is possible that Pinsonault may obtain a saloon license in another location, but it is improbable that his application for a renewal of the license at his present location will be granted.

Karl Lehto this morning filed an application for the reenwal of his license at 224 South First avenue east. It was originally announced that this license would not be renewed because the place was not being properly conducted. But since Lehto took it over, Safety Commissioner Hicken says, it has been run in an orderly manner. He has had the place carefully investigated and will likely recommend that the license be renewed.

To Free Your Skin of Hair or Fuzz

(Boudoir Secrets)

No toilet table is complete without a small package of delatone, for with it hair or fuzz can be quickly banished from the skin. To remove hairs you merely mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the objectionable hairs. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when it will be found free from hair or blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.—Advertisement.

SWIMMING BARGAIN SALE

Desmond Park Management Takes Steps to Popularize Pool.

The Desmond park management proposes to make a big inducement for the boys of Duluth to take to the water for the remainder of this season. For one week season tickets to the Desmond park swimming pool will be sold at $1 each. That price makes it cheaper to go swimming than to play in the street.

"We have no 'white goods' to put on sale, like the big merchants up town," said Manager Desmond this morning, "but we do have a big pool of fresh, filtered, sanitary water and we want that pool filled with swimmers every day in the week.

"Nothing adds so much to a boy's vacation pleasure as plenty of swimming. No exercise is more beneficial or healthful. The boy who masters the art of swimming increases lung capacity, develops muscles, disciplines mind and nerves and develops self-reliance. In wrecks on the water, the trained swimmer has an untold advantage over those who cannot swim.

"There's no actual profit to Desmond park in this cheap ticket plan," concluded Mr. Desmond, "but it will help popularize the park, benefit the boys and give a modest revenue for further improvement of the grandest swimming pool in the entire Northwest. Actual profits are not expected."

PAUL GOLIK IS ARRESTED

Found Wandering About the Courthouse Carrying a Loaded Revolver.

Paul Golik, cripple, whose experience with attorneys and personal injury litigation brought him into the limelight about a year ago, when the district court conducted an investigation of Attorney Joseph De La Motte's relations with him and ordered De La Motte to make a partial restitution of money collected for Golik in a personal injury case, was arrested this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff McDonald on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was taken to police headquarters.

For several weeks, Golik has been loitering around the courthouse and his actions have been viewed with considerable suspicion. Since his misfortune he has been despondent and today investigation proved that he had been carrying around a loaded revolver. The charge against Golik may be changed to that of insanity and the man may be brought before the probate court for an examination. L. A. Marvin is his guardian.

Golik will be remembered as the man who won $1,100 in a personal injury suit but who never received a penny of the sum until after an investigation of his relations with De La Motte, his attorney. Out of $1,100, Golik received $210.31 under an order of the court. Golik refused to take the money and a guardian was appointed to receive the money. The matter has been on Golik's mind constantly and it is believed that his mind has been unbalanced.

SAVE MONEY ON BRIDGES

City Would Replace Old Structures and Reduce Repair Cost.

The city council will probably have a conference within a short time to consider plans for improving the local bridge situation. Many of the bridges in the city are old and dilapidated and large sums have to be spent upon them annually for repairs.

Some of the commissioners say that it would be good policy to replace them with permanent structures of with concrete culverts and fills. This would do away with the yearly repair bill, which runs into a considerable figure. One commissioner said this morning that as sufficient funds could not be secured through the tax levy, he would favor securing permission from the legislature to issue $150,000 to $200,000 of bonds with which to do the work. He explained that such procedure would be good business as the money now being spent on repairs would much more than pay the interest. He added that it will only be a matter of a short time before the bridges will have to be replaced and that the city would be ahead by taking care of them now rather than wait until forced. He also said that the danger of accidents is constantly increasing and that the city does not know when a big damage claim will be filed against it.

PASSES BILL FOR BRIDGE

U. S. Senate Allows Fond du Lac Structure—Up to the House.

A special dispatch to The Herald from Washington, D. C., today states that the senate this morning passed a bill authorizing St. Louis county to construct a bridge across the St. Louis river at Fond du Lac.

Duluthians who are supporting the project welcomed the news. The bill is now in the hands of the lower house, where it is being vigorously opposed by Superior interests championed by Congressman Lenroot.

The proposed wagon and foot bridge, which has already been ordered built by the county board, will give Duluth and St. Louis county a direct highway into Carlton county and through to the Twin Cities.

The objection to the bridge comes from Superior real estate men who have acreage and lots to sell on the Wisconsin side of the river, opposite New Duluth. They claim that there is already a bridge across the river at New Duluth but that no approaches have been constructed. Congressman Lenroot of Superior has introduced a bill in the house to compel the construction of these approaches.

Woman's Realm

Duluth will have an election conducted in large part by women, and perhaps decided by their vote.

Duluth men are loath to serve as election judges and clerks at the approaching school election to be held on Saturday July 18, and the result is that about 80 per cent of the judges and clerks will be women. The women are not averse to earning the sum paid for such service, and many of them are applying for the positions because of their interest in suffrage, and their desire to have some practical experience in the conduct of an election. It is planned to have at least one man on each election board, if possible, but it is not unlikely that in some precincts all of the judges and clerks will be women.

C. A. Bronson, secretary of the school board, is preparing the list.

"I think we can show the men that we can conduct an election as well as they can," said one suffragist this morning. "If we are capable of counting the votes and conducting the election, we surely should be able to vote intelligently. I believe the school board will get more efficient service from the women judges and clerks than they would from men, for in a school election at least the women are vitally interested. We hope to see a very heavy women's vote cast, and I believe we will, for the women are discussing the qualifications of the many candidates much more than the men are. The women are looking up the records of the men in every way possible, and I believe the women are not only going to conduct this election, but are going to decide it."

HIGH KICKING.

But a View of It Is Not a Boat Club "Privilege."

Clad in bloomers and gymnasium slippers, twenty or thirty Duluth young women who are members of the boat club, will study gymnastic doncing under the direction of Mrs. Helen Shores Savage.

They have organized a class, in which there are several young matrons of the city, and will have instruction twice a week. The classes will be shielded from the view of the curious, and the high kicking will be done in private, a view of the exercises not being considered among the "privileges" of the boat club members.

The first class will be held Friday morning.

TALKS ON SUFFRAGE.

Duchess of Marlborough Explains British Reforms to Women.

Newport, R. I., July 9.—Votes for women were urged by the duchess of Marlborough in an address before the Political Equality association yesterday. The meeting was held at Marble house, the Newport residence of the duchess' mother, Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, president of the association, and was attended by many women prominent in the movement for suffrage extension.

The greatest part of the duchess' address was devoted to a description of two British reforms in which she is interested—the homes for prisoners' wives and children and the hostels for women.

The duchess said the hostels were designed to furnish moral and sanitary homes for women and girls who otherwise would be exposed to moral dangers as well as disease and infection in the unhygienic and dirty surroundings of the common lodging house Many of the hostels are now nearly self-supporting.

"It is in order to obtain such reforms as these that women are asking for the vote," said she in conclusion. "I wish you a speedy and successful ending of the great work of women's enfranchisement which you have undertaken."

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "A Butterfly on the Wheel."
EMPRESS—"Hurdy Gurdy."

Amusement Notes.

In the notable list of successes by the Baldwin Players at the Lyceum theater this summer none has found more unqualified favor than "A Butterfly on the Wheel," which is being presented this week. Miss Lola May as Peggy Admaston, the butterfly wife of an English statesman, does some of the finest work in which Duluth audiences have seen her. The breaking of the butterfly in the tragic court scene is without an equal in dramatic appeal, and the acting of Romaine Callender is one of the fine bits that linger in memory. The working of an English court of justice is portrayed faithfully, and the staging of the play has been worked out with an attention to the minutest detail, the whole combining to make the presentation notable, even in the long list of finely presented plays which have been given by the Baldwin Players this summer. "A Butterfly on the Wheel" will be the offering all week at the Lyceum, with Saturday matinee.

"Hurdy Gurdy," a musical farce with Arthur Clamage, Don Clark, Grace Fields and the many other favorites, will open its last engagement at the Empress theater with the matinee this afternoon. Bright comedy, clever situations, vaudeville features, dancing and many songs go to make "Hurdy Gurdy" the best thing that Arthur Clamage and his large company have presented in Duluth. Arthur Clamage again appears as the stout, fat and eccentric German comedian, while Al Zimmerman plays foil to the German, and Don Clark complicates things with his schemes.

Grace Fields has several solo numbers, while Trixie Ayers puts over some popular rag songs. Jess Weiss again appears with a series of new dancing steps. The members of the chorus are handsomely bedecked in new attire of startling colors and fashionable make.

"Hurdy Gurdy" will be seen at the Empress for four days.

As a special added attraction for Friday evening, the management offers a tango contest between the pretty chorus girls and partners selected for them from the audience.

WOMEN PLAY BALL.

Proceeds of Game Given to Charity.

New Rockford, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Catholic and Congregational women played ball here for charity, the proceeds being used for the mission work of the two churches.

The score has not been definitely determined, one scorekeeper making it 15 to 14 in favor of the Congregationalists, while another had it 15 to 14 in favor of the Catholics.

Methodists and Episcopalians were scorekeepers, while Lutherans and Presbyterians were umpires.

"CANNOT SELL THE BOSTON & MAINE."

New York July 9.—Although menaced with the institution of a government anti-trust suit for the dissolution of the New Haven railroad system the directors of that road, in a statement to the stockholders passed unanimously yesterday, declare that the New Haven cannot carry out its March agreement with the department of justice, providing for the appointment of liquidators for the Boston & Maine, because of the conditions attaching to the sale ordered by the Massachusetts legislature on Tuesday.

Copies of the statement were sent to Governor Walsh, to the president of the senate and speaker of the lower house and the chairman of the public service commission of Massachusetts.

Resolutions expressing regret to the attorney general of the United States that the conditions imposed by the Massachusetts legislature were "so different from anything that was contemplated" at the time the agreement between the railroad and the government was formed, were passed by the directors.

STARVING PAIR STEAL.

Iverson, 20 years of age, giving his residence as Grand Forks and a companion have confessed they burglarized the home of an Atchison physician, making way with several hundred dollars worth of valuables, most of which was recovered.

Iverson said he and a pal went to Kansas to work in the harvest fields, but that they had been unable to get work, and, being broke, resorted to burglary.

LIGHTHOUSE FOR ASHLAND PIER

Superintendent of Construction on Ground to Take Charge.

Ashland, Wis., July 9.—Superintendent of Construction Robert Hurst of Detroit, Mich., has arrived in the city to take charge of the lighthouse building operations on the western end of the Ashland breakwater. He comes here from Stannard rock, where he has just completed the erection of a new fog station. He began work at Stannard rock early last fall.

The Stannard rock lighthouse is built on a reef which does not come to the surface of the lake, the foundation of the lighthouse being laid on rock twelve feet under water. Only a few men could be employed at one time, and when rough weather occurred, it stopped all work. There is not a foot of ground at Stannard rock above the surface of the water.

Mr. Hurst is general superintendent of construction for the lighthouse service. The Ashland lighthouse will be a 65-foot concrete structure. Supt. Hurst will employ about twenty men until the work is finished, which will be late in the fall, depending on the weather. He will begin active operations when the lighthouse tender Amaranth arrives. It is overdue now, having been expected July 5. It will remain here during the summer, carrying supplies. The lighthouse service will either buy a residence or build one opposite the breakwater for the station of the keepers.

PROTRACTED FIGHT FINALLY ADJUSTED

International Falls, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is general gratification here over the adjustment of the differences between E. W. Backus, who owns and represents vast interests here, and the city, which have tended to keep the town back. In a few days when the papers have been drawn up, suits will be dismissed and long drawn out litigation ended. Concessions were made both by the Backus interests which control the big paper mill, dam and other things here and the city. The assessment of the Backus interests was about $800,000 and after conferences the differences between the city and the Backus interests as to proper valuation were settled Mr. Backus liberally making concessions.

Terms of Agreement.

The council and representatives of Mr. Backus reached an agreement upon the following terms:

The Baker acre injunction is to be made permanent.

The white way electric light injunction case is withdrawn and likewise all others.

The dock matter is to be left as it is until next year.

Mr. Backus agrees to pay his taxes without litigation.

The water pumping rate is reduced from 7 to 5 cents per thousand gallons.

The electric light rate is reduced 10 per cent.

City Attorney McPartlin's bill against the city for $400 for special services will be paid, Mr. Backus assuming $300 of it, the services rendered being in connection with the Backus injunction matters.

THANKS FOR SALE OF WARSHIPS TO GREECE.

Washington, July 9.—President Wilson today received a telegram from the Pan-Hellenic Union of America, thanking him for the sale of the battleships Idaho and Mississippi to Greece.

"We consider the transaction a great act of humanity in preventing the outbreak of a new war in the near east," wrote the president of the union.

MANY UNION MEN IN STOCKTON, CAL., QUIT.

Stockton, Cal., July 9.—Union men walked out in a lumber yard, of two planing mills, a barber shop and several other places of employment here yesterday as the result of the establishment of the open shop principle at a meeting of the merchants, manufacturers and employers' association. Although the open shop rule went into effect, there was no demonstration on the part of the union men, and some labor leaders advised the men not to quit until some more vital union principle than the display of union cards or signs had been violated.

Driven Crazy By Worry.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—His destitute wife and six children ranging in age from 5 to 14 years, were at the local depot to bid good-bye to John Fritz, aged 51, committed to the state asylum for the insane. Fritz's condition was brought about by worry over financial affairs having been physically unfit for work for the last year.

Be Amiable on Your Vacation.

In another week the vacation period will be in full swing and travel in certain directions will be increased twenty times over. Traveling accommodations of all kinds will be taxed beyond their capacity.

One of the first requisites of a good traveler, and this includes the vacationist on a two weeks' jaunt to the seashore or mountains, is an agreeable traveling manner. One isn't bound to become the intimate of anyone, but it is just as easy to keep one's self without giving offense as in any other way. Don't, therefore, be frigidly insolently polite, when someone not quite to your liking slips into the vacant seat beside you on boat or train.

Neither show annoyance in any other way. An exclusive mien is well enough when you are occupying a section or have your private car attached, but it does not suit the passenger coach. You in common with all the other occupants of the car are dependent to a certain degree upon the ccurtesy of each individual. Contribute your share.

The question of luggage is a serious one. The suit case is indispensible to the summer tourist and vacation seeker. However, when it comes to making a freight car of yourself, there is an inconvenience to others that must be remarked. When the necessaries of a vacation cannot be carried in one suit case, use a trunk. Let the baggage agents who are paid for this sort of thing attend to it. If you do not mind making a pack-horse of yourself, consider the annoyance to others of having to step over mounds of baggage.

There is another "don't" which applies to women, particularly. Do not array yourself for your journey as though you were going to a garden party or some other social function. Simple clothes that will not show soil and dust and creases are best. A display of jewels is another unpardonable thing. Besides it is dangerous.

Take a little pliability and a little extra amiability along with you on your vacation journey. They will have an almost magical effect in smoothing out difficulties that confront the traveler when space is limited and the demand for it is without end.

A GOLDEN FLOOD.

Crop reports continue to light tall beacons of promise around the horizon.

A golden flood of riches from the fields is about to bear down and overwhelm the calamity-howler and the propagandist of pessimism for political purposes.

Never before in the history of this rich and prosperous land was there such a crop report as that which the government makes as of July 1.

The wheat crop that on June 1 was estimated at the record-breaking figure of nine hundred million bushels is now estimated at nine hundred and thirty million bushels. A little squeezing here and there might bring it up to a round and mouth-filling billion bushels.

The corn crop, with a slightly reduced acreage, looks like nearly three billion bushels—2,868,000,000 bushels, to be exact. Its condition is better than the average for the last ten years, and the indicated yield is better than the average for the last five years.

Other crops generally look good, and on the whole the prospects for the production of a dozen billions of new wealth from the soil this year could not be better.

These piping times of Democratic rule and fat fields and thriving farms are sad days for the political pessimist.

When you come to think of it, Mrs. Pankhurst has just as much a habit of getting out of jail as getting in.

THE PANAMA REVOLUTION.

Col. Roosevelt's explosion of rage over the proposed Colombian treaty raises issues of history and veracity that make timely the telling of the story of the Panama "revolution," which is the basis of Colombia's claim for redress against this country.

The New York World in its Sunday issue tells the history of the "Republic of Panama." Nobody can read that history and not believe that Colombia deserves not only payment but verbal amends. Nobody can read that history and keep his faith in the Colonel's accuracy of recollection and of judgment—to put it mildly.

Much condensed, the story of the Panama revolution as told by the New York World is given below. The World asserts that it has complete documentary proof of every detail. If there is doubt about it, congress should institute an investigation that will drag forth every detail of the seizure of the Isthmus. The story follows:

In August, 1903, the Colombian senate unanimously rejected the Hay-Herran treaty by which it was proposed to give this country rights in the canal zone, then a part of Colombia. The main ground was that it constituted an alienation of national territory in a form prohibited by the Colombian Constitution. In view of the Colonel's charge that Colombia was seeking to "hold up" this country for more money, it is noteworthy that not a single amendment offered in the Colombian senate related in any way to compensation.

October 19, 1903, the state department was advised of Colombia's intention to continue negotiations with this country.

But on that very day President Roosevelt ordered the navy department to hold warships within striking distance of the Isthmus on both coasts. He had had spies through the country, and there is evidence even in his own account of the affair that he had full knowledge of the projected revolution that took place sixteen days later.

The revolution that created the Panama Republic was engineered largely by officers of the Panama company, and conducted by Colombian troops who were afterward paid with American gold. These troops were told that the United States was participating in the revolution, and when they doubted they were shown American warships, just arrived pursuant to Roosevelt's order. Loyal Colombian officers who sought to oppose the revolution were told the same story and shown the same exhibits, and were thus convinced of the futility of resistance.

The revolt took place at Panama. Colombian troops were at Colon, and they sought to use the railroad to get to Panama. Under Roosevelt's orders, they were refused passage. When they threatened to fight, the Nashville sailed in to the docks and trained its guns upon them. The Colombians had to look in impotent rage upon the American warships that typified the power that confronted them.

When the revolution had thus been completed under the guns of American warships, and under the direction of forces close to the American government through William Nelson Cromwell and Bunau-Varilla, the flag of the new republic was hoisted by Major William Murray Black of the United States army. The Republic of Panama was immediately recognized by the United States, and the deal for the canal zone went ahead speedily, only it was conducted with the new republic instead of with Colombia.

In his message to congress December 7, 1903, President Roosevelt said: "The people of Panama rose literally as one man."

The brilliant Senator Carmack said then that "that one man was Roosevelt."

Again, in his recent attack upon the Wilson administration and the Colombian treaty, Col. Roosevelt said: "The people of Panama were a unit in demanding the revolution."

James T. Du Bois, former American minister to Colombia, a Republican, a high-grade citizen, and friendly to Roosevelt, in his crushing answer to the ex-president said:

"I say, and I can prove it, that a handful of men who were to be the direct beneficiaries of the revolution conceived it, and NOT THE HUNDREDTH PART OF THE INHABITANTS OF THE ISTHMUS KNEW OF THE REVOLT UNTIL AN AMERICAN OFFICER IN THE UNIFORM OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY RAISED THE FLAG OF THE NEW REPUBLIC."

There is absolutely no doubt of the fact that the orders from Washington to the warships were to prevent the movement of troops on the Isthmus. It is true that these orders applied to the troops of "both parties;" but it is also true that there were no Panama troops except those bribed with American gold, that the only troops trying to move were the Colombian troops at Colon that were trying to get to Panama to crush the revolution, and that these troops were stopped from moving by American forces.

There is no direct evidence that Roosevelt himself concocted and directed the revolution—none, that is, except his own word. In a speech to the students of the University of California at Berkeley, March 23, 1911, Col. Roosevelt said:

"I am interested in the Panama canal because I started it. If I had followed traditional conservative methods I should have submitted a dignified state paper of probably two hundred pages to the congress, and the debate would have been going on yet. BUT I TOOK THE CANAL ZONE, and let congress debate, and while the debate goes on the canal does also."

No wonder the government of the United States has refused to submit to arbitration its dispute with Colombia. Arbitration would involve a disclosure of the precise processes that brought about the Panama revolution!

The wonder is that the Colonel has the effrontery to call attention anew to this ugly chapter in American history by challenging the honorable and decent conduct of the administration in seeking to redress the wrong that a bullying tyranny did to Colombia.

There are people who may be surprised that congress is surprised at being called on to pass laws.

CO-OPERATION IN THE NEW FREEDOM.

Following out his wise program of counseling with representatives of "big business," President Wilson talked long yesterday with ten representatives of the Chicago association of commerce, absorbed their ideas of business regulation, and immediately sent for the author of the trade commission bill to discuss amendments to the pending measure.

It is good that the president of the United States can talk over public business with business men.

He will learn and they will learn, and both parties to the discussion and the country as a whole will be the better for it.

But it is still better that "big business" has come to the point where instead of blindly fighting every step forward, it can clear its vision and discuss with calm public spirit the right road for progress to travel and how best to get ahead.

And better still than that is the thought that we have a president in whose loyalty to the public welfare we have so much confidence that we can see him talk things over with "big business" and still rest assured that all is well with the Republic. The saddest thing in American life has been the condition that has lately prevailed, under which no man in public life dared be seen on the same side of the street with any man who did a business of more than seven hundred dollars a year.

That was because in the past big business has sought public men chiefly for immunities and privileges at public cost.

The ideal condition would be where public officials and men of big business and the men who toil could discuss public affairs openly and in harmony, bent only on the best good for the most people. That ideal condition is nearer at hand than many imagine.

What the president is aiming at in his talks with big business is what we all desire—legislation that shall achieve the utmost possible good with the least possible disturbance and harm.

It is a good and encouraging sign of the times.

And then there are the kind of people who insist on writing Vienna "W-i-e-n."

A BIG DULUTH PROJECT UNDER WAY.

The date is July 20, 21 and 22, 1915.

Its name is the "Duluth Mide (Me-day) Festival."

It will be conducted by the city of Duluth and all its people, under the direction of the "Duluth Mide Wi-win" (Me-day We-win).

This is the formal organization of the Duluth midsummer festival and pageant, as it was arranged last evening by the board of governors at its first meeting.

The date comes in the period of greatest certainty of good weather, which runs from about the twentieth of July to the tenth of August.

The name breathes the spirit of the old-time history and environment of this region, the reproduction of which will necessarily be a large factor in the show. The name of the organization means, literally, "Big Medicine society."

Maybe the name will not please everybody, but one thing the committee that has been arranging the preliminaries discovered was that there is no name that will please everybody. This name will please most, and anyway it is adopted, and will stand.

The midsummer festival plan has a splendid start. It got, first, an amazingly large and representative general committee, which has picked a splendid board of managers. The plan has awakened widespread interest, and it comes into being at a time when Duluth has acquired the habit of doing things and of FINISHING WHAT IT STARTS.

There is a tremendous amount of work to be done between now and July 20, 1915, when the show opens; and there will be a chance for everybody to help. There is none too much time to do it all in, and there cannot be too many to help.

Duluth has started a midsummer show that will attract thousands here to appreciate this city as a business place, as an industrial center, and as the capital and clearing house of the greatest summer pleasuring ground on earth.

Duluth wants to do it up in style, and DULUTH WILL.

To the man who enjoys peace and quiet, the idea that Prince William may even try to stick to the Albanian job is a source of amazement.

A Good Manners Week.

Ohio State Journal: "What Cleveland needs is a better manners week," says the Cleveland Leader. That is true for other places, too. We need weeks for the virtues of all kinds. We need a swat the lie week, a simple life week, a good language week, a non-profanity week, a help your neighbor week, a quiet loving week, a closed muffler week, a non-soliciting week, a cherry pie week, a clean movie week, a 5 o'clock getting up week, a picnic week, a going a-fishing week—in fact, we need weeks of all kinds to refresh the soul and stimulate the intellect. A commission might be appointed to divide up the whole year into weeks devoted to our happiest aspirations. Why not? What's the sense of groveling along in loafing and trading and working? What's the sense in making things worse than they are? Why shouldn't we live up instead of down?

The Truth About Panama

Editorial in the New York World:

The World today prints a detailed history of the Panama "revolution"—from the time that Mr. Roosevelt first sent his military spies into the Isthmus to the time that an officer of the United States army raised the flag of a fake republic over pilfered territory.

This history is compiled from legal evidence, and the World challenges Mr. Roosevelt to answer it.

In a recent public statement, James T. Du Bois, former American minister to Colombia, said in reply to Mr. Roosevelt's assertion that "the people of Panama were a unit in demanding the revolution":

"I say, and can prove it, that a handful of men, who were to be the direct beneficiaries of the revolution, conceived it, and not the hundredth part of the inhabitants of the Isthmus knew of the revolt until an American officer, in the uniform of the United States army, raised the flag of the new republic."

Every word and every syllable of Mr. Du Bois' indictment is true. What took place in Panama was no more a revolution than a train robbery is a revolution. It was a sordid, cash register commercial conspiracy, backed by the Roosevelt administration. The revolution was bought and paid for. Treason was purchased in the open market, and the forces of the United States government were employed to enable the buyers and the bought to get away with the loot.

There is no other such shameful chapter in the history of the United States, and whoever reads the ghastly narrative of this so-called revolution will understand why it is impossible to arbitrate the differences between the United States and Colombia. The United States could not go into court with such a case. It could not permit this scandalous record to be submitted to the scrutiny of any legal tribunal. There could be only one verdict, and that verdict would stand forever against the American government in the courts of international justice.

There is only one way to deal with Colombia's grievances and the bitter Latin-American hostility toward the United States which were bred out of the action of the Roosevelt administration at Panama. That is to settle the case out of court by the regular processes of diplomatic negotiation, as Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan have undertaken to do. This is the policy that Senator Root inaugurated when he was Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of state. It is the policy that Mr. Taft, and Mr. Knox followed. If this is "blackmail," as Mr. Roosevelt alleges, then he and Mr. Root, as well as Mr. Taft and Mr. Knox, were offering to pay blackmail to Colombia. The crime of blackmail hinges on the nature of the transaction, not on the amount of money to be paid.

When Mr. Roosevelt afterward sought to settle the claims of Colombia against the United States he himself knew that the record of what took place at Panama could not stand the test of judicial publicity and judicial scrutiny. Although he has boasted that he "took" Panama, he has exerted every effort to suppress the true story of the Panama "revolution." Not only that, but he has deliberately falsified the record, and when he undertakes to brand President Wilson and Secretary Bryan as the accessories to blackmail and national dishonor, he must face the facts. Whatever measure of dishonor attaches to the Colombian treaty attaches to the man whose lawless ambition made the government of the United States a working partner of the corrupt Panama canal lobby in its desperate battle for $40,000,000 of American money.

Each Day Its Garden Joys

Walter A. Dyer in the Craftsman: Our back yard is small; the garden is Lilliputian. And yet within its modest boundaries I can always find more joyful surprises in my short perambulation than a day in the whirling city can offer me. Never a morning, between frost and frost, that does not present some new attraction unsuspected or only hoped for the day before. The buds have broken on the grapevine; or a yellow crocus is in bloom; or the tender green of the lettuce shows in a delicate line on the brown soil; or our first rose has appeared; or there are tiny pods on the pea vine; or the corn is in tassel; or a tomato glows rich red; or—but the list is endless.

It is worth while to plant and tend and garner. I cannot understand the man or woman with a back yard who is blind to these morning surprises, and deaf to the call of his bit of the soil. I cannot understand the heart that will deliberately close its doors to these free and God given joys.

I am one of those who can go to work afoot, and after breakfast I can prolong my morning chapel, in a manner, by glimpses into other yards along the pleasant way to the shop. I like to fancy that Dr. Ludlow is rejoicing over the full blown beauty of his symmetrical cherry tree, or that Mrs. Saunders has gazed with astonished delight that morning upon her first pink peonies. I wave a mental salutation as I pass, and feel that we understand each other.

And then in June there is the square white house with the supergorgeous array of blue cornflowers and pink roses behind it. I mean to get acquainted and enter that backyard some day. I feel that it would be worth while. I know that it would put our humble rosebed to shame, though I am still haunted by the conviction that our Killarneys are just a shade the finest roses ever grown in the open.

God bless you, brother back yardsmen. May your lettuce never fail to head nor your hollyhocks to bloom. And at your morning worship know that I am with you in spirit, and that our common text is "Consider the lilies."

An Interview.

Life: Mr. B. Fiscal Pillowpheet, the well-known Grabber, returned yesterday on the Maldemerica from an extended visit to Europe, where he went to increase his collection of art, of which he is an ardent devotee. In response to the eager inquiries of the reporters as to what he was thinking about, Mr. Pillowpheet said:

"I cannot too strongly denounce the growing tendency of the public to look with suspicion upon the Grabbers of the country. There was a time when an energetic and industrious Grabber was considered a credit and an honor to a community, but of late years it is getting so there is no incentive for a man to take everything in sight. I have talked with leading Grabbers from every part of the country and they all feel the same about it as I do. It is absolutely foolish to hope for a revival of unparalleled grabbing, such as we had a few years ago, until we put an end to this constant investigating and regulating, so that a man's methods, motives and machinations will not always be under surveillance."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A surprising large number of the persons who write letters to United States senators make the mistake of assuming that a senator has almost no power of observation at all. They think they can fool a senator as easily as one can fool a 3-year-old child about Santa Claus. And more often than not the correspondents who make this error are business men—men who would never be fooled by the same palpable little game they try to work on their representatives in congress. They might as well say to a United States senator:

"I wouldn't fall for this myself, but you, being a stupid mutt, probably will."

I am referring to the practice of bombarding senators and representatives with letters and telegrams all worded exactly alike but signed with different names.

The letters or telegrams are sent for the purpose of influencing the senator in his legislative course. He is supposed to be convinced when he gets fifty telegrams from different persons asking him to do or not to do a certain thing, that there is a general demand in his district for the action he is asked to take.

Suppose, though, that you were to receive some fine day a large stack of telegrams, let us say of twenty-five words each, every one exactly like every other one, except the name of the sender. Would you take the similarity for mere coincidence, or would you decide that one person or one group was responsible for the whole shower of messages?

One could not find a high school girl who would be fooled by so crude an enterprise, and yet shrewd business men undertake to work it on a United States senator.

For example, the Hobson resolution for national prohibition has brought more messages to members of both branches of congress than anything that has been up for many a month. One afternoon I happened to be in the office of a United States senator as he was glancing over a stack of telegrams, each one urging him to oppose the resolution.

"These are all alike," he remarked. "Now, instead of going to the telegraph office and sending fifty different copies of the same message, why couldn't they have sent just one message with fifty different signatures. It would have been cheaper and would have had the additional advantage of being honest. As it is, they have tried to fool me and in such a childish way that they have insulted my intelligence."

The senator began to thumb over the messages. "Here's one from a concern that makes furniture," he said. "Part of their business is, I believe, barroom furniture. If we had national prohibition they would of course lose a number of customers. This message is signed by a firm that makes faucets and other supplies used in saloons. They, too, have a selfish interest in not wanting prohibition. The others, I see, are about the same. Now, I don't know whether I should favor national prohibition or not. But whatever one may think about it, the whole proposition is a moral issue, not to be determined on a basis of whether some man back home will sell fewer bar fixtures."

This conversation opened up the whole subject of circular letters sent to senators about one thing and another.

"How much influence, if any, do a hundred letters have," I inquired, "when all have the same wording and all seem to have been done on the same mimeograph or the same typewriter?"

"Well," replied the senator, "I can hardly say that they have no influence, but they have less than one good letter that is written in good faith by a disinterested party. Take the matter of postoffice appointments. We'll receive here perhaps 1,000 letters all alike, with different signatures. I'm supposed to believe that 1,000 different men have sat down and composed that letter because of their belief in the fitness of the candidate who in reality had the copies distributed for signature. An ordinary petition with the same number of signatures attached would have carried vastly more weight because it would have been honest—would have been just what it pretended to be."

I got still more interested in the proposition of duplicate letters to senators and made the rounds then of about a dozen senators' offices, asking either the senators or their secretaries how much good such letters did the senders or the candidate they are supposed to boost. Some said they did more harm than good, because they are both an annoyance and a fake. The consensus of opinion, however, was simply this: A thousand duplicate letters use up a great many more stamps than one good argumentative letter from a person free from selfish motives, and do little if any more good.

So those who are in the habit of writing letters to their representatives in congress can take the result of this little investigation for just what they think it is worth.

Reincarnation.

It cannot be that He who made
This wondrous world of our delight,
Designed that all its charms should fade
And pass forever from our sight;
That all shall wither and decay,
And know on earth no life but this,
With only one finite survey
Of all its beauty and its bliss.

It cannot be that all these years
Of toil and care and grief we live
Shall find no recompense but tears,
No sweet return that earth can give;
That all that leads us to aspire,
And struggle onward to achieve,
And every unattained desire
Were given only to deceive.

It cannot be that, after all
The mighty conquests of the mind,
Our thoughts shall pass beyond recall
And leave no record here behind;
That all our dreams of love and fame,
And hopes that time has swept away—
All that enthralled this mortal frame—
Shall not return some other day.

It cannot be that all the ties
Of kindred souls and loving hearts
Are broken when this body dies,
And the immortal mind departs;
That no serener light shall break
At last upon our mortal eyes,
To guide us as our footsteps make
The pilgrimage to Paradise.

To Them That Are Whole.

Mark ii, 17: When Jesus heard it He saith unto them, They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Enforced Truce.

St. Cloud Times: The Duluth Herald proposes a political truce until Sept. 1. It calls attention to the fact that the election is nearly five months off and that this is too long a campaign for the candidates and also too long a campaign for the public. The fact is, however, that there will doubtless be a truce whether the candidates make one or not, as far as the dear public is concerned. It took a mighty effort to interest them in the primaries and even at that it doesn't look from the returns that are at hand that half of the voters in the state availed themselves of the privilege to express their choice as to who should be candidates for the political favors at the election in November.

As It Appears to Moody.

Virgina Enterprise: The Duluth Herald has come out for Hammond for governor. If the News-Tribune will now kindly oppose him things in this section may be declared to be assuming a fairly roseate hue for the congressman from St. James.

All Have Some Rights.

Browns Valley Tribune: The Duluth Herald suggests that since every county has a public prosecutor, it would be no more than fair and right that every county also have a public defender. It too frequently happens that a county attorney, for the sake of his own political reputation, pushes cases and railroads innocent men to the penitentiary. Every man, under the law, should be deemed innocent until he is proven guilty, but in most cases the man who is charged with a crime is considered guilty before he is tried, and the prosecuting attorney considers it his business to convict. Of course this is not true in all cases. It really should be as much the duty of a county attorney to protect the innocent as to prosecute the guilty.

Day Likes Truce Idea.

Fairmont Sentinel: The Duluth Herald makes a sensible suggestion when it argues for a political truce until Sept. 1. Election day is more than four months distant, and that is too long a time for political discussion. Let us have peace during the heated months of July and August at least. A continuous campaign would be a heavy drain on the physical and financial condition of the candidates and the voters would be wearied to exasperation long before election day arrives.

Favors "B'jou Nichi."

Stillwater Gazette: Duluth is to hold a festival this summer if they have any summer and a name is being looked for by the committee in charge. A correspondent of The Herald makes the suggestion that "B'jou Nichi" would be the proper title to attach to the proposed festival. Many of the old-timers will recognize this as a Chippewa phrase, a greeting used not only by members of that tribe but by many of the whites, for years. B'jou, or Bujou, is a corruption of the French "bon jour," and Nichi meaning friend or comrade. There are thousands of residents of the Northwest who will favor "B'jou Nichi."

Are There Any Negatives?

Bemidji Sentinel: To The Duluth Herald's suggestion for a political truce until Sept. 1 we vote "aye."

You're Right, P. P.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: The Fairmont Sentinel quotes The Duluth Herald as saying that, since every county has a public prosecutor, it would be no more than right that every county also have a public "offender." Doubt if The Herald said it. We have too many public offenders now—and a lot of them are drawing their sustenance from the purse of the taxpayers.

How Not to be Fat

In the July Woman's Home Companion a woman contributor, who declines to sign her name, writes a practical little article entitled "How Not to Be Fat." She says that she began by noticing that stout people sleep too much. She gradually worked her alarm clock back from 7:30 to 6 o'clock in the morning and put in the extra time exercising and bathing. Then she took up the habit of walking after breakfast. In ten weeks' time she found that she was losing flesh slowly—less than half a pound a week. Then she took up the problems of diet and exercise. Of these she writes in part as follows:

"The problem of diet was to me a difficult one—I was so fond of good things to eat, and I had seen dieting continue into nervous dyspepsia. I began by cutting down the liquids before and after, but only one cup of tea or coffee.

"It was now four months since I had gone into training, and all at once I began to realize that I was not eating as much as formerly. My appetite was keen, but it took less to satisfy it. I kept to a mixed diet, but I limited myself to one starchy food and one sweet at a meal.

"Eating, sleeping, bathing, working, playing—the last two remained to be dealt with. I would see what could be done in these lines. Work: There seemed no change practicable, except that I might work harder, and I did. But I am satisfied that the extra work had no bearing on my loss of weight, for I was never as tired at night as I used to be when I slept until 7:30 and then rode downtown.

"As for my playtime, I joined a tennis club; and of all reducing exercises I can cheerfully recommend tennis as the quickest and most inevitable. The only trouble is, it might kill a really fat person; by the time I could play tennis, however, I was not so very fat! The fourth, fifth and sixth months, I lost eight pounds!"

In one year she lost twenty-five pounds and in the next five months took off three pounds more, bringing her down to normal weight or in fact two pounds less than what is called for by her height.

A Class Reunion Here.

Hartford Courant: The man who won the long-distance cup at the Yale 1904 class reunion this year, which a number of Hartford alumni attended, traveled all the way from Java, where he represented the Standard Oil company. In thanking his classmates for the cup, he referred to another long-distance cup which a 1904 man won at a class reunion a few years ago by traveling "from heaven to earth," and he said that the changes in temperature through which he had passed led him to think that he had equaled this previous record, only that he had come from the other direction.

"What was that heaven to earth record?" said one of the fellows who had not been back to a reunion for many years.

"Don't you know that?" said the others. "That was when W—— broke off his honeymoon trip in order to come back to the reunion."

Bought Their Experience.

Editor and Publisher: The Asbury Park Times, a daily newspaper established last fall by a group of business men of that city, including the head of its largest department store, is to quit the field. According to the statement issued by the board of directors the indebtedness above the assets is not large, but the board declares that because of the impossibility of longer financing the enterprise they advise the winding up of its affairs.

The stockholders are probably now convinced that while it is easy to start a daily newspaper, it is difficult to make it a success without plenty of capital, in a field that offers favorable opportunity.

When the promoters of the Times were discussing the feasibility of starting the paper they called into conference several experienced New York newspaper men who unanimously advised them against the project unless they were prepared to put up at least $100,000 in cash at the start, and be ready to put up $50,000 more if it should be needed. They said that few daily papers pay expenses the first year, even in a favorable field. In Asbury Park the daily would have to meet the competition of an old and well-established newspaper, and, therefore, time would be required to put it on its feet.

This advice was not taken. The merchants who organized the company believed they knew more about the matter than the newspaper men and went ahead with the propect. After having put much less than $50,000 into the Times they now admit that the paper is a failure and that they can no longer supply funds for carrying it on.

The backers of the Asbury Park Times are wiser than they were, and doubtless when, in the future, someone comes along seeking for contributions for the starting of another daily they will keep a firm grip on their bank rolls. Their experience has been the same as that of many others who have been anxious to pose as newspaper publishers.

How Villa Took Juarez.

George Marvin in The World's Work: A proof of "Pancho" Villa's ability as a strategist was afforded in the second taking of Juarez. Villa, who was with his main command, south of the city of Chihuahua and attacking that place, leaving part of his force there, by a wide detour interrupted the railroad line north of Chihuahua and captured a Federal troop train on its way south from Juarez. Seizing the telegraph station, he had his own operator telegraph back the news of an accident and asked for instructions. The Federal commander at once ordered the train to return to Juarez for repairs, and Villa, "obeying" these orders, filled the train full of his own men and, rolling unopposed into the station that night, took the city by surprise.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CANDIDATES AND THE TAX PROBLEM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I want to address the candidates for the state legislature, through your columns, on tax matters.

Taxes are collected to defray government expenses. The amount contributed by each taxpayer should be in proportion to the benefit received by him, no more, no less. The effect of taxation should be well considered. I mean the effect on business as well as on the individual.

Tax in business is an expense. Farming is a business. Tax on farms is an expense to the farmers. Lessen the farmer's tax, you increase his profit. If you lessen his expense or increase his profit he will stay in the business longer than if you do the contrary. His boys, too, will stay on the farm longer. Also more city people will take to farming.

When working people leave the city a scarcity of labor is produced which means more pay to those who remain, greater pay means greater buying power and that means greater selling power, greater jobbing business, more manufacturing, more labor given, more materials used.

Making the working class more able to buy, increases all kinds of business.

How is prosperity to be made? By taxing only land, not any improvement or buildings thereon—no tax on manufactured articles, none on buildings, machinery, money, as tax makes merchandise and constructed articles dearer, harder to get, harder to sell.

Franchises and special privileges given by the people should be taxed because the people yield up rights, use, etc., and they should have a tax in exchange. That is only fair.

Buildings and improvements are usually worth far more, cost more, than the land itself. Why punish a man for improving his place at his own expense? When he improves his place he increases the value of his neighbor's place. A man may convert a swamp into a valuable farm. Why fine him with a tax for doing it?

Our present taxing laws are decidedly bad.

The voters have a right to know what candidates will do if elected. Let them tell. All aspirants for legislative honors are invited to express themselves on tax matters and others.

Respectfully, NICK NAME.

HAS NO CASE AGAINST CITY

Injured Woman Did Not Notify Municipality Within Proper Time.

Trial of the $15,000 personal injury suit brought by Ella Frismuth against the city of Duluth had been in progress two hours yesterday afternoon before certain testimony developed that the plaintiff had no cause of action against the municipality. After considerable other testimony had been given, evidence was adduced showing that the plaintiff had not presented her claim to the city within the time prescribed by the law. Her attorneys dismissed the action and the jury was discharged.

The plaintiff alleged that she was run down by a motorcycle driven by Officer Peter Barber of the police department, while she was walking across Superior street at First avenue east on Nov. 14, 1913. She claims to have received permanent injuries. Abbott, McPherran, Lewis & Gilbert appeared for the plaintiff and the city was represented by Harvey Clapp and William Harrison.

STEEL MOVES FASTER.

Pennsy Road Calls for 100,000 Tons of Rails.

Buying of iron and steel products is showing further gains during the last couple of days, according to advices from the Chicago and Pittsburg districts.

An interesting feature in trade circles was the calling for bids by the Pennsylvania railroad for 100,000 tons of rails, and the coming in the market for cars by three other transportation companies. On account of the urgent crop moving demands coming in from the Southwest, it is expected that contingent orders aggregating 10,000 cars from Southwestern roads will be released almost immediately. This is taken in conjunction with inquiries coming to hand from other quarters, and is expected to lead to an increased scale of operations at the leading mills in the near future.

Among the new railroad projects in hand is the electrification by the St. Paul road of its terminals at Great Falls, Mont., involving a heavy capital expenditure. It is thought the work will be completed by Jan. 1 next. Plans and specifications for the locomotives and equipment to be used in the electrification of the main line are now in the hands of manufacturers. The electric energy for the project is to be furnished by the Montana Power company. The use of a considerable tonnage of copper wire will be entailed.

Senate Votes Salem Fund.

Washington, July 9.—Senator Hollis' amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, providing $200,000 for the relief of the sufferers of the Salem fire, was adopted by the senate without a dissenting vote.

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, winds or dirt. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The wornout skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The younger, healthier under-skin forming the new complexion, is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercolized wax to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimpled, freckled or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off mornings.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry, etc. An excellent wrinkle-remover, because it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. This gives immediate results. —Advertisement.

THE REVOLT IN LOUISIANA

By SAVOYARD.

Washington, July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Politically Louisiana threatens to desert the Democratic party—that is, the Louisiana that grows sugar and rice. Cotton Louisiana is as Democratic as Mississippi or Arkansas. This new movement asserts that it is on the road to the Bull Moose camp, which, so far as Louisiana is concerned, is a way station on the journey to the Republican party. Did the Louisiana fledglings ever hear of a man named Mahone, who went on an expedition for spoils? The adventure proved awfully disastrous.

Here is the situation: Theodore Roosevelt is a candidate for president and he believes he can disrupt the South that seceded in 1861. His gratuitous and insolent insult to Jefferson Davis, for a favor that gentleman did him, was resented by the Southern people, and in a fulsome eulogy of Mr. Davis on one of his presidential tours, Col. Roosevelt sought to make amends, for he labored under the delusion that he would break the solid South before he left the White House.

In the spring of 1912 Roosevelt believed that the nomination of Champ Clark by the Democrats was inevitable. Had he dreamed that Woodrow Wilson was the man there would have been no Bull Moose party. But when Wilson was nominated Roosevelt had gone too far to withdraw and all his energies were devoted to polling a bigger vote than Taft, which he did. That was pretty good evidence that the Republican party could not get along without Teddy.

And that is his sole aim in 1914. He will play the same game, and if the Democrats shall carry the country, as is more than likely, we will see a movement to Rooseveltize the G. O. P. and make it as much his personal goods and chattels as the Bull Moose party now is. That is his game. Whether it shall prove successful time alone will tell. His assault on Penrose, there is little doubt, will prove successful, for that gentleman in the primary polled every Republican vote he had, and it is unthinkable that he can get in November more than 50,000 depraved Democrats who should be in the Republican party in name as they are in fact. For fifty years all the Republican bosses of Pennsylvania have had in their pay thousands of scamps in the Democratic uniform.

Unless Penrose can muster at least 200,000 voters who did not cast their ballots for him in the primary he will be beaten and either Mitchell Palmer or Gifford Pinchot will get his seat in the senate. If the conditions were as they existed in the old days of Quay, there would be no contest. The count in Philadelphia would settle it if the ballot boxes were big enough to hold the fraudulent votes. But things have changed. It is far more difficult to steal an election nowadays—even in Philadelphia.

But to get back to Louisiana. All roads that lead out of the Democratic party lead into the Republican party. Why take two bites at a cherry? Why make a pretense of the Bull Moose, when everybody knows that the Republican party will absorb the Bull Moose party by 1916? If at that time it shall be manifest that Wilson's policies are failures, then nothing but his death can prevent the nomination and election of Roosevelt and he will become our first third-term president.

On the other hand, if the country shall be prosperous in 1916, nothing but his death can prevent the renomination and re-election of Woodrow Wilson as his own successor.

What sort of a party will it be that opposes the Democracy in 1916? There will be the set led by Bill Chandler, demanding the enforcement of the fifteenth amendment and the placing of Louisiana under negro rule. These new-made Bull Moosers of Louisiana will have to be brothers with these if they keep in the road they are going. Then there will be the standpatters, who will demand the re-enactment of the Payne tariff—Foraker is of that ilk. The progressive Republicans like La Follette, Cummins, Bristow and Borah are for protection all right, but not too much of it. Pinchot, Murdock, Garfield and their crowd are even more moderate in their tariff views than La Follette and his people.

Association with all these chaps is a great big price to pay for a restoration of the sugar duties of the Payne bill, even if the Republican party would grant them, and it would not. There will never be another tariff enacted by an American congress writ by special interests.

It is not at all likely that this Bull Moose movement in Louisiana will amount to much. The revolt of Mahone against the Democratic party in 1881 was serious and might have resulted in great disaster to the Democratic party had there not arisen the quarrel between Garfield and Conkling. Ben Hill went to the president and demanded Mahone's head as the price of Democratic support of the nomination of Robertson as collector of the port of New York, and he got the little man's head, and if there is any ambidextrous Democrat in Louisiana tired of his political head he can rid himself of it by joining in this absurd Bull Moose business.

Before he does it let him read Ben Hill's speech on Mahone in the senate soon after the inauguration of Garfield. It beats the first William Pitt on Hume Campbell.

EXEMPTS THE LABOR UNIONS

Senate Passes Sundry Civil Bill Carrying $111,000,000.

Limits Use of Funds for Prosecution of Trusts.

Washington, July 9.—All efforts in the senate yesterday to alter or eliminate the labor exemption clause of the sundry civil bill section providing funds for the enforcement of the antitrust law were voted down. Two roll calls put the senate on record in favor of the exemption clause, which caused the veto of the last sundry civil bill by President Taft and which President Wilson, in a memorandum made when he signed the same measure, characterized as "unjustifiable in character and principle."

The clause provides that no part of the fund shall be spent in the prosecution "of any organization or individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the conditions of labor or for any act done in furtherance thereof, not in itself unlawful." Co-operative farmers' organizations are also exempted.

Attacked by Sterling.

Senator Sterling of South Dakota proposed to strike out the exemption, characterizing it as "vicious class legislation."

Senator Hughes of New Jersey defended the provision, declaring that the anti-trust laws were directed against great trusts and industrial combinations, and that the fund in question should not be diverted to the prosecution of labor organizations.

The Sterling amendment was laid on the table by a vote of 41 to 27, only one Democrat, Senator Pomerene, voting for it. Republicans who voted to sustain the exemption were: Senators Grady, Clapp, Cummins, Jones, Kenyon and Norris. Senator Poindexter also voted for the exemption.

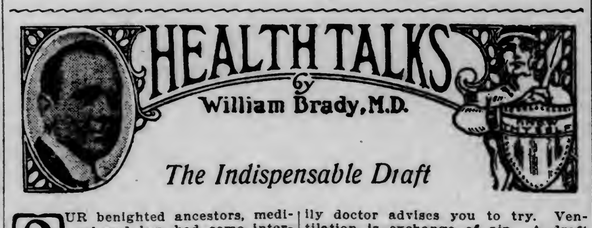

An amendment by Senator Sutherland of Utah to insert in the provisions the words "by lawful means," was voted down, 38 to 22.

Later the bill itself, carrying $111,000,000 was passed without further serious opposition.

The Indispensable Draft

OUR benighted ancestors, medical and lay, had some interesting ideas about fresh air. They hardly deemed it a suitable medium of respiration unless it was carefully warmed and medicated first. At night they considered it safest to exclude fresh air altogether from sleeping rooms, it being suspected there were miasms or humours or hobgoblins afloat in the atmosphere after sundown.

Even our grandparents can remember when the fear of night air was so common that anybody who went abroad after the chickens were at roost was assumed to be going after the doctor.

Drafts and Good Health.

"Secure good ventilation, but avoid drafts"—has been advised and attempted so many years that at first blush it might almost seem within the realm of possibility. For instance, you may open the window of the bedroom a few inches even at night now, but in order to avoid a draft you are supposed to make use of that curious contrivance called a windowboard. The board fills the space under the lower sash and thus directs the incoming air current upward to the ceiling, whence the dread draft is supposed to distribute itself equally through the room without seriously injuring you.

Well, the window-board worked wonders in its day, at that. It enabled timid souls to get a breath of clean night air who otherwise would have suffocated by inches. The modern fresh air propagandum rendered the window-board obsolete.

Ventilation Implies Drafts.

As a matter of act, ventilation implies a draft, and you can't secure the one without enjoying all the advantages of the other, even if the family doctor advises you to try. Ventilation is exchange of air. A draft is a current of air.

But the great difficulty has been to distinguish between actual physical discomfort and mental uneasiness. The catching cold delusion is to blame for this. There are still plenty of misguided souls who imagine a draft can make them ill even when the draft is comfortable. And there are others who say, sensibly though ungrammatically: "Drafts be blowed! I want fresh air!"

Questions and Answers.

E. H. asks: Can you give me any advice regarding my case? I have suffered with itching piles for several years, and I have tried a dozen remedies without relief. I am 43 years old, a traveling salesman, and in other ways perfectly healthy so far as I know. My liver is occasionally troublesome.

REPLY.

Within the past few weeks we have seen several very different conditions which the patients—and their mail-order medical advisers—had called "itching piles." One was really internal piles. Another was eczema. Another was a fistula. Another was fissure. And the last one proved to be ringworm—a parasitic infection of the skin. No one remedy or line of treatment could have relieved more than one of these cases; that must be obvious to anybody. Therefore we can not advise you, except to say that you should stop "trying" things and go to your physician and be examined.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

Written for The Herald By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JULY 12.

Mark x: 32-45: Greatness Through Service.

CONNECTION.

They are on that same journey to the sacred city of which we had a glimpse in the lesson about Zaccheus, but we went back to gather up some other lessons. It was to attend the passover festival. Let us try to imagine the different feelings in Himself and the disciples, the differences due in part to the different purposes they had in view in the visit and their different connections with the events to come out of the visit.

THE LESSON.

I.

Facing the Tragedy. 32-34.

"And they were on the way, going up to Jerusalem; and Jesus was going before them, and they were amazed; and they that followed were afraid. And He took again the twelve, and began to tell them the things that were to happen unto Him, saying, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests and the scribes; and they shall condemn Him to death, and shall deliver Him unto the Gentiles: and they shall mock Him, and shall spit upon Him, and shall scourge Him, and shall kill Him, and after three days He shall rise again."

1. HE.—He knew it was coming, knew why, knew all about it. He went to it. Why? Because it was His duty to do what He had undertaken and that meant the cross. It was as much an organic part of His career as was His birth and His ministry, and it was the crown of it all. He went on definitely, courageously, right into the jaws of a death to which no other death could be compared. He was conscious of it every minute. He showed it, too—in His wrapt and tragic air, in His added tenderness toward them, in His teachings.

2. THEY.—They felt it, too, but in a different way. The disciples felt it, for they knew the officials at Jerusalem had tried to assassinate Him and were now organized for it in a crude way. The populace knew something was impending. For the officials had been working with them to turn them against Him. In them there was amazement, which means surprise, wonder that He should go right on into it; in them there was fear, too. All of this they felt without any word from Him.

3. CONFESSION. — He told them what was coming, the treachery, the degradation of it, the horrors of it, the sufferings of it, the glory of it. Read each word in the count again. Six months ago He had told them, but this is more in detail. Treachery by His own people, degradation in being put into the hands of the Gentiles; abuse of a shocking kind in being spit on, mocked, scourged. They didn't get the idea. Why?

II.

A Wrong Ambition. 35-41.

"And there come near unto Him James and John, the sons of Zebedee, saying unto Him, teacher, we would that Thou shouldest do for us whatever we shall ask of Thee. And He said unto them, what would ye that I should do for you? And they said unto Him, grant unto us that we may sit, one on Thy right hand, and one on Thy left hand, in Thy glory. But Jesus said unto them, ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink the cup that I drink? or to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with? And they said unto him, we are able. And Jesus said unto them, the cup that I drink ye shall drink: and with the baptism that I am baptized withal shall ye be baptized; but to sit on My right hand or on My left hand is not Mine to give; but it is for them for whom it hath been prepared. And when the ten heard it, they began to be moved with indignation concerning James and John."

1. PRE-EMINENCE — The passion for pre-eminence possessed them all. It had from the start. It was not subdued by the spirit of Christ which was the opposite of that; nor by the danger they were partly aware of; nor by the tragical words of Christ about His coming experience; nor by the friendships they had formed among themselves. They didn't believe He meant literally what He said, though they had every confidence in Him. That confidence was shown in their very bickerings for first place. It showed they considered Him able to meet and master the situation that confronted Him. Why didn't they believe it? Because they had been brought up with the idea of a material kingdom and couldn't get it out of their minds except by spiritual surgery.

For some time their minds were full of ambition for place in the kingdom. The two brothers, James and John, were specially ambitious and they were stimulated by their talented mother, Salome, to ask for the two places supposed to be the most honorable, at the right and left of the king. The others were indignant at the two for combining to secure the good places. They didn't forget the righteous character of the kingdom of the Messiah but they considered it a political reign as well.

2. FITNESS.—He said those places were not His to give, nor are they God's to give. They belong to those who make themselves worthy of them, just as the trophy and the cup are not given in advance to any contestant, but to the one that shows his claim to them in the contest. It is Jesus who sets the task and gives the reward but even He cannot bestow them till they are won. The fitness is gained by self-surrender to God's will and suffering what is in the way. The word cup is a symbol of suffering and baptism is a symbol of complete commitment to the purpose. Service and suffering are essential to promotion. He asked them if they were able to meet those conditions and their ready, almost boyish claim that they were is an indication of how superficial, self-satisfied and yet trusting they were. They thought they could pass through if He were guiding and girding them, yet they knew nothing of what was involved in the cup and the baptism.

III.

A Right Ambition. 42-45.

"And Jesus called them to Him, and saith unto them, Ye know that they who are committed to rule over the Gentiles lord it over them; and their great ones exercise authority over them. But it is not so among you; but whosoever would become great among you, shall be your minister; and whosoever would be first among you shall be servant of all. For the Son of man also came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many."

1. SERVICE.—He doesn't destroy their ambition, but would purify it and then gratify it. The first thing He does is to tell what they can be ambitious for—for serving. That will make them great as it has made millions great since then—these very two men who were thus rebuked, Paul Luther, Wesley, Grenfell, Cary, Judson, Moffatt, Livingstone and the others. If it is subordinated to the higher ambition to serve, one might desire to become great. That is the opposite of the world's way of greatness which is to rule rather than serve, to master rather than minister.

2. EXAMPLE.—That was His. He was the greatest—Son of Man; the greatest servant—not only gave out but gave up His life as a ransom. That does not release them from serving and suffering and becoming great. His greatness was won through serving and suffering. The three things—serving, suffering and becoming great, are related vitally; they go together. As a ransom He buys us back not into exemption but to the opportunity for service and suffering, ransoms us from unfitness to fitness for service.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

There can be no success without suffering. The two go together. If you succeed without suffering it is because someone else has done the suffering; if you suffer without succeeding it is that someone else may succeed.—Edward Judson.

What is the bondage from which Jesus proposed to "ransom" multitudes? In the light of His whole teaching evidently it is the bondage which human selfishness inflicts upon them, the handicap which their own selfishness puts upon them and with which the selfishness of other men oppresses them. Selfishness contracts the opportunity of men for getting all good things; Jesus proposes by removing this selfishness from the hearts of men to enlarge their chance at all good things.—Bosworth.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. How much of unselfishness is in your ambitions?
2. What is your chief ambition?
3. In what respects is the greatness won by serving the greater greatness?
4. How can you apply Paul's injunction "in honor preferring one another?"

HAS GIVEN $125,000 TO NEGRO Y. M. C. A.

Chicago, July 9.—In accordance with his offer of $25,000 for a Young Men's Christian association building for colored men to any city in America which would raise $75,000 additional, Julius Rosenwald, today, sent his check for that amount to Kansas City. Since the offer was made two years ago Mr. Rosenwald has given similar amounts to Washington, Philadelphia, Indianapolis and Chicago. He says five other cities have subscribed the $75,000 and will receive his check as soon as minor requirements are met. They are Atlanta, Cincinnati, Baltimore, New York and Los Angeles.

MUST END STRIKE OR JOIN THE ARMY

Cananea Strikers Are Given Ultimatum By Rebel Colonel.

Nogales, Ariz., July 9.—Twenty-five hundred striking Mexican miners at Cananea have been given by Col. Elias Calles, commander of the Constitutionalist garrisons in Sonora, the alternative of going to work, leaving the camp or joining the army. This was the news brought here by John Bowman, United States consul at Nogales, Sonora, on his return from Cananea.

The Cananea Consolidated Copper company's employes struck last week for higher pay, recognition of the miners' union and other concessions, but the company refused their demands.

CROP NEWS HELPS TRADE

Western Merchants Already Placing Fall Orders in Good Volume.

Duluth Wholesale Houses Are Preparing for Active Selling Campaign.

Duluth wholesalers and manufacturers are growing optimistic over the steadily brightening outlook for fall trade as a result of the brilliant crop promise over the Northwest. Bookings in all lines of business are said to be showing gains, and increased volume of trade over last year is the rule with all the establishments. Disposition is being shown by retailers in some lines to anticipate future requirements, especially in goods in which price advances are regarded as probable in the near future.

Collections are said to be satisfactory for the season and the expectations now are that with the realization of an abundant harvest this season, old scores that had accumulated in previous years will be cleaned up.

Sugar Prices Firm.

Wholesale grocery establishments at the Head of the Lakes advise a substantial expansion in their volume of business over the West during the last few days. Retailers are said to be ordering staples more freely, and taken on the whole the prospects for fall trade are regarded as satisfactory all around.

There have been few changes in price lists during the last week, according to the Twohy-Elmon Mercantile company of Superior. Sugars are firm, with a further advance regarded as likely in the near future. Consumption continues to increase due to preserving requirements and generally heavier consumption. It is said in trade circles that the sugar market is now in much better shape than last year. Refiners' meltings are estimated to have shown an increase of 100,000 tons over last year.

Coffees are firm at going quotations. There has again been a slight advance in quotations at Brazilian ports as a result of heavier European demand, and that condition is reflected in jobbnig circles in this country.

While there have been no changes in quotations in dried and canned vegetables, an easier market is predicted in some lines owing to promised heavy supplies at canning points. The new season's apricots are expected to be offered in a few days now. In the fish line, sardines are off 15 cents a case.

Dry Goods Trade Expands.

In the event of nothing cropping up to detract from the present brilliant crop prospects, business of record proportions in dry goods is expected by F. A. Patdick & Co. in the fall. A favorable feature that retailers' stocks are generally speaking exceptionally light, so the assumption is that the placing of heavy orders will become necessary later on to cope with the retail trade that is likely to develop at interior points once the harvest is garnered.

Merchants are advised to be coming into the market more freely for lines for fall delivery, and increasing readiness is being shown to accept immediate delivery of goods ordered tentatively some time back.

Hardware Prices Steady.

Sales managers for the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, and of the Kelley-How-Thomson company aver that general business has never been better for the season than it is at present. They say that hardware dealers generally have arrived at the conclusion that prices in iron and steel products are scraping along the bottom, and they are showing a disposition to stock up as far as possible.

Figures in screws have been advanced 30 per cent this week. Shipments of harvesting tools and machinery from here over the West continue a feature.

Leather Line Active.

Current business in harness and leather findings is said by the Schulze Brothers company to be the best in its experience. Re-orders are being received in summer goods, showing that dealers were generally conservative in placing their original business. Early shipments of horse blankets and similar goods will be made next month. In the meantime, the company's factory is operating to capacity in all departments.

Similar activity in leathers and shoe dealers' supplies was commented upon today by the Northwestern Leather company. The market in all grades of leathers continues stiff, due to tanners experiencing difficulty in securing sufficient hides to cover their requirements.

Shoe Orders Coming In.

Travelers of the Northern Shoe company are now out upon their sorting up trips in fall goods, and are said to be booking satisfactory orders from all sections of the Northwest. Mail orders in summer lines are featuring at present. The company's factory has resumed operations after a few days' shut-down for stocktaking and repairs.

IOWA BULL MOOSE PARTY GOES "DRY"

Prohibition Plank is Adopted at State Conference.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 9.—The Progressive party in Iowa is "dry."

After a fight which raged for hours in the resolutions committee and later in the convention proper, the delegates went on record by a vote of 358 to 283 in favor of the following plank:

"We believe that the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor for a beverage is a social and economic evil, both state and national. Therefore, believing in the rule of the people, we favor the submission of an amendment to both our state and national constitutions prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage."

Scored Republicans.

The Republican party "is now burdened with bosses who are nothing for public honesty or the rights of the people and use the party to satiate their own inordinate greed." This was the declaration of J. M. Dower, temporary chairman of the convention, during the course of a speech in which he criticized the administration for its legislation and domestic policies and attacked the Republicans. At the same time he lauded Theodore Roosevelt, declaring the delegates were met "to give expression to our abiding faith in his peerless leadership."

Chairman Dower condemned what he called the methods of the courts of the country, and especially the "Republican method of interpreting and ruling on the Constitution."

MAY CHANGE TRUST BILL

Administration Gets Pointers From Chicago Business Men.

President Hears Nothing to Change Opinion on Conditions.

Washington, July 9.—Supporting the administration anti-trust program in some particulars and opposing it in others, a delegation of business men representing the Chicago Association of Commerce conferred more than an hour yesterday with President Wilson. All details of the pending anti-trust bills were gone over. Afterward the following statement was issued at the White House:

"The president today expressed his pleasure at having been consulted by the group of gentlemen who represented the Chicago Association of Commerce, and said that he felt that the conference has been mutually instructive and helpful."

Ten men gave their ideas of proper trade commission and railroad securities bills, and as a result the bills passed by the house and pending in the senate may be modified. As a direct result of the discussion the president telegraphed to Representative Covington of Maryland, who framed the house trade commission bill, asking him to return to Washington to confer with the Chicago delegation. Mr. Covington has been appointed chief justice of the district supreme court and was at his Maryland home.

Favor Broad Powers.

The Chicago delegation advocated a trade commission with broad powers of investigating and ability to order the discontinuance of practices contrary to law. They objected to making all corporations return annual reports to the commission, and thought too many definitions of illegal practices were unnecessary.

The president listened carefully for more than an hour to what his callers had to say, and interposed some ideas of his own on the subject. The question of business prosperity was mentioned in a general way, and afterward officials close to the president said he had learned nothing to change his previously expressed opinion that conditions are growing better.

President Wilson was particularly pleased to hear that the delegation did not object to the proposed commission bill, passing on questions of unfair competition and practices.

BABY'S HEAD IN WATERY PIMPLES

Top Almost Solid Eruption. Pimples in Patches. Would Inflame and Fester. Hair Fell Out in Bunches. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Head Well.

R. R. No. 1, Kyles, Ohio.—"My baby's head when about a year old began to break out with small watery pimples causing her head to itch. She would scratch her head till the blood came causing the top of her head to be in almost a solid eruption. The pimples at first were nearly as large as a pea and in patches which would inflame and fester and when they would come open would leave a kind of wet scales there for a few days. Then when it dried up it would leave scales on her head that caused her hair to fall out just in great bunches.

"Her head was this way for nearly a month and I had washed her head with different kinds of soap and used different salves but to no success. One day I happened to see Cuticura Soap and also Cuticura Ointment advertised in a paper and I ordered a sample of each. They seemed to help her head so much that I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in two weeks' time her head was sound and well. Her hair had stopped falling out and was also free from dandruff." (Signed) Mrs. J. L. West, Feb. 20, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

Although Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent free upon request. Address post-card: "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

SEASON FOR PICNICS HERE

Stirrup Club and Palestine Lodge Will Have Outing Saturday.

Grocers and Aad Temple Will Get Together Later in Season.

The picnic season of 1914 is in full blast. In fact it has been on for some time, and from now until the middle of October the lunch basket carrier will be a common sight.

Several big picnics are scheduled for this month and next.

Of course there are Sunday school picnics and "sich" almost every day of each week. They concern only those interested in the particular Sunday school that is giving the affair, but they are by no means tame. On the contrary they are among the liveliest given.

Two Big Outings.

There will be two picnics of importance next Saturday at which some of the most prominent men of the city will indulge themselves to the extent of taking a swift kick at D. Care. These will be given by the Stirrup club and by Palestine lodge, A. F. & A. M. The former will take place at Lake Nebagamon and although the committee in charge has not yet given out the program, and likely will not until the affair is over, it is confidentially whispered that it will be "some" program. For the nonce, the members of the club will try to forget and refrain from discussing every ism on which they have been stubbing their toes for the last year and nothing but the gay life will be tolerated, minus the joy water or anything of that nature. The gathering will be well policed with Commissioner Hicken and Police Chief Troyer in command. The married members will play baseball against the bachelors—or try to, and other things will happen.

On that day Palestine members and their families will go to Fond du Lac for their outing; and the feature of the day will be a ball game between married and single Masons. The annual Palestine picnic is one to which every one is anxious to be invited. Another Masonic picnic that excited interest was that of Trinity lodge, U. D. of the West End, which took place yesterday at Lincoln park. Ionic lodge will give its picnic on July 22, but as yet has not mapped out a program. This picnic will take place at Cloquet.

Grocers Picnic in August.

One of the biggest picnics of the year will be that of the grocers, which is slated for Aug. 13 at Lincoln park. It has been for years understood that the grocers' picnic invariably brought rain, and on years when a drought existed, inducements have been offered the grocers to hold their picnic at the time when rain was most needed. However, last year they had an ideal day and they believe that they have discouraged the jinx that was on their trail; so they are hoping for good weather on the coming date. The grocers will also have a big moonlight excursion around the horn on the evening of July 21.

Another picnic, which never fails to draw largely and attract a great deal of attention is the Odd Fellows' picnic. This will take place this year at Fond du Lac on Aug. 6, and a committee is now making plans for it.

Where the annual picnic of Aad temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will be held this year is as yet undecided, and so is the day. However, it will be some time next month and Potentate Richardson would like to hear expressions of opinion as to where the affair should be held. This is one of the red letter days in Shrinedom, and the picnics are all well attended.

Cafe Parlor Car Service on Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway Day Trains.

Owing to the steadily increasing volume of travel between Duluth, Virginia, Fort Frances and other local points on the line, the D. W. & P. railway have inaugurated cafe parlor car service on train No. 2 leaving Duluth at 10 a. m. daily, except Sunday; also on train No. 4 arriving in Duluth at 2:35 p. m. daily, except Sunday.

BAND CONCERT AT FAIRMONT PARK

Next Free Program Will Be Given in West Duluth.

The city's fourth free band concert will be held next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Fairmont park, West Duluth. The program will be played by the Third Regiment band under the direction of Charles Helmer. Judging from the large crowds which have attended the previous open-air entertainments, next Sunday's concert will be attended by a large number of citizens. Thus far no special features have been arranged as part of the program.

ASK LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

Two Widows Petition Probate Court to Handle Husbands' Estates.

Anna M. Irwin yesterday petitioned the probate court for letters of administration on the estate of her husband, Thomas H. Irwin, who died at his home at Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 6, and who owned real estate in St. Louis and Itasca counties worth $10,000. Besides the widow, the only heirs are two children.

Andrew J. Nordquist, who died at Winton, Minn., June 27, left an estate of personal property worth $4,627, according to the petition for letters of administration filed in probate court yesterday by his widow, Amanda Nordquist. The widow and one daughter are heirs.

PROPOSES TO PAY COSTA RICA, TOO.

Washington, July 9.—Opposition by Costa Rica to the proposed Nicaraguan treaty has been met by Secretary Bryan with an offer to pay the former country a fair sum for any rights it may have in an inter-oceanic canal route by way of Lake Nicaragua.

The Costa Rican opposition is based upon a claim to jurisdiction over a small portion of the proposed route, and as the treaty provides for an allowance of $3,000,000 to Nicaragua, the state department, without according full recognition of any claim, has decided that Costa Rica should be placed on the same basis as Nicaragua.

URGES WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Executive of State Health Board Asks Counties to Appropriate Money.

Shows That Where Sanitariums Are Provided Disease Is Curtailed.

Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary and executive officer of the Minnesota state board of health, is sending an appeal to all the county commissioners in the state to make an appropriation at their semi-annual meetings next Monday to aid in the campaign being waged against tuberculosis.

He points out that the legislature paved the way and that counties should take advantage of the sanitarium law, chapter 500, laws of 1913. He states that the average tuberculosis death rate in Minnesota has not been decreasing but that it has shown a big decline in states which are properly equipped to combat the disease. He asserts that tuberculosis is a problem of public health and is not of private charity.

The letter being sent out by Dr. Bracken states in part:

"The tuberculosis death rate in Minnesota per 10,000 of population in 1903 was 10.7 and in 1912 it was the same, showing that the average death rate from tuberculosis is not declining.

"The legislature saw the need for the state to take action in the anti-tuberculosis fight and did their part by making a liberal appropriation to aid counties in the construction and maintenance of sanitariums for consumptives. It is now up to the county commissioners to take advantage of the sanitarium law, chapter 500, laws of 1913, and secure the aid offered by the state. The fight against tuberculosis is no longer in the experimental stage. We now know that when certain things are done, good results invariably follow. The establishment of sanatoria near the homes of consumptives, where they may have the best opportunity for recovery and, more important, where they may be cared for so that the spread of the disease to others is prevented, is the most important thing to be done.

"It is significant that the countries and cities abroad, which have provided hospitals and sanitariums for a large share of their consumptives, are the ones in which the death rate from tuberculosis has been cut down. The reduction in the death rate from tuberculosis is always greatest where the largest proportion of the consumptive population is carded for in sanitariums. In Massachusetts, for example, (a state fairly well equipped to care for its consumptives), the death rate from tuberculosis has been reduced over 40 per cent since 1895."

CHILDS ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Chicago, July 9.—Robert W. Childs, assistant district attorney, has been appointed assistant attorney general, notice of the promotion having been received here from Mr. McReynolds. Mr. Childs aided the government in the prosecution of the late John R. Walsh, banker, who was convicted. He also prosecuted John F. Jelke, oleomargarine manufacturer, and several aides, who were found guilty of defrauding the government of taxes.

Mr. Childs will leave soon to take charge of several important government cases in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

REAL ESTATE MEN TALK LAND VALUES.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 9.—Delegates to the seventh annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges today heard a number of interesting papers and discussions dealing with land values and transfers. Plans for the day included a continuous business session until noon and a meeting after luncheon of the secretaries' conference, with Phillip D. Wilson of Los Angeles as chairman.

WHY SHE DIDN'T BUY

Did you buy that beautiful dress we saw in the store show window the other day? No, I didn't. That is strange, I thought you were fairly fascinated by it. I thought so to; but when I went into the store to look at it the air was so close and stuffy and the clerks so listless that I seemed to forget all about the dress. Now I have gotten entirely out of the notion of it. Before I went in I felt hopeful and buoyant, but once in that tainted atmosphere where everything seemed dead, I became so depressed that my only thought was to get out as quickly as I could.

WIRELESS FAILS; AEROPLANE WORKS.

Washington, July 9.—Dispatch carrying by aeroplane for the first time in the history of navy aeronautics, is reported from the battleship Mississippi. When the Mississippi was twenty-five miles off the Virginia capes, heading for Hampton Roads, several days ago, Lieut. Bellinger and Ensign Stolz went into the air with their machine, rose to a height of 4,000 feet and descended upon the telegraph office at Fortress Monroe with an important message for the navy department, which badly working wireless had failed to transmit.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SHOULD FILE ALL CLAIMS

Chairman of Gopher Rail Commission Advises Shippers to Do So.

Demand for Refunds Should Be With Railroads Before July 21.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—Judge Ira B. Mills, chairman of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, advises all shippers and others having claims for refunds against railroads as a result of the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota rate case, to file them either with the carriers or the commission before July 21.

While there is nothing to indicate that claims filed after July 21 might be invalid, Judge Mills believes that the question might be raised that one year was sufficient time in which to allow claimants to present their evidence, and in which event the Federal courts might hold that those filed after the expiration of that period had been unreasonably delayed.

May Start Blanket Suit.

After the expiration of the one-year period, Attorney General Smith probably will begin a blanket suit against the roads on behalf of claimants whose claims have been disputed or held up. In order that the state may be a direct party to this action, the attorney general has ordered that refund claims by various state departments be not submitted for payment, but be included in the general suit.

The railroads already have voluntarily paid about $2,000,000 in refunds, and $100,000 of this has been through the office of the commission. It is estimated that at least $500,000 more will be paid before the matter is concluded.

WOMAN INJURED; BABY ESCAPES

Runaway Team Dashes North Dakota Mother Against Plow.

Rugby, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Ezra Daigle of this city was thrown from her carriage onto the wheel of a sulky plow, into which her team of runaway horses had dashed, and badly lacerated.

Her 1-year-old baby, who was thrown out of the carriage shortly before striking the plow, escaped with a few bruises. The neckyoke broke, frightening the horses and causing the runaway. The woman held pluckily to the reins till the horses headed for the plow at the side of the highway, when she lost control.

FATTENING STOCK PROVES PROFITABLE

North Dakotans Find Conditioning Animals For Market Pays.

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many North Dakotans are planning to purchase trainloads of steers and sheep in Montana and feed and finish them for the market this fall. Some notable successes were made last fall and these have resulted in inspiring the others to make the attempt. For a number of years sheep had been brought in and fed on the stubble but it was only the last year or two that corn was grown in sufficient quantities to influence farmers to make the attempt at finishing the range cattle for market as has been done in other corn states for many years. This year the stubble will be especially fine and there is an abundance of all forms of forage crops.

Shipped in Transit.

The cattle and the sheep are shipped into North Dakota in transit under an agreement with the railroads and the cattle are dropped off here on a guarantee of at least a similar amount of outgoing freight. The increased weight is carried on a pro rata basis, and the arrangement works most satisfactorily for both the farmers and the railroads.

In some localities where the farmers are not able to purchase an entire train three or four or more go in together and each secures so many cars. The bankers usually are glad to assist by furnishing money at a low rate of interest. The cattle finished in this way in North Dakota last year topped the South St. Paul market.

ADDITIONAL TAX.

North Dakotans Must Settle for Moneys Due Estates.

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The counties of the state must reimburse the heirs of estates, settled within the last six years, for fees taken out by the judges handling the probate business. The supreme court some months ago declared that law unconstitutional and now that the counties are making up their levies they are preparing to impose an additional tax to provide for the repayment of the moneys the taxpayers have been using. Under the operation of the law the fees would be turned into the county general found by the probate court. In this manner the taxpayers get the benefit through a reduced levy. They will now be taxed an additional sum to create the fund to settle which they have escaped in former years.

MAY INCREASE SCOPE.

Non-Partisan Feature of North Dakota Primary May Be Enlarged.

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The non-partisan features of the primary election law were given a trial this year for the first time, and many people appear to have misunderstood the workings of the measure. There were a lot of voters who took it for granted the candidate receiving the highest number of votes would be the nominee, when, as a matter of fact the purpose of the non-partisan primary was merely to reduce the number of candidates to two. Where only two candidates were in the race each was nominated and will appear on the official ballot this fall.

Some people regard the non-partisan features, which at present apply only to the judiciary and to the school superintendents, state and county, as the opening wedge for a general non-partisan primary that will select two candidates for each state office regardless of politics and permit the voters in the fall to select the one of the two they most desire.

Political Prophets Expect to See Aged Senator Run Again.

The letters writen to Senator Stephenson from here, as to the possibility of his candidacy, have received but scant notice, and no definite announcement has been made that he does not intend to enter the race. His friends say he is in better health than when he entered the campaign six years ago. He has just passed his 85th birthday, and if re-elected his next term would expire in 1921, when he is 91 years old.

The present Republican candidates are Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris, La Crosse; Governor F. E. McGovern, Milwaukee; Assemblyman C. E. Estabrook, Milwaukee; Levi H. Bancroft, former speaker of the assembly, and attorney general, Richland Center; State Senator Timothy Burke, Green Bay, and Charles D. Smith, Fond du Lac.

"NATIONAL HERO SERIES" NO. 5

Leif Ericsson—The Discoverer of America

THE FIRST WHITE MEN to tread American soil were Leif Ericsson and his sea-dashed Viking crew. This was nearly a thousand years ago, when the Scandinavian peoples ruled the seas and held the secrets of navigation. The history of the fair-haired, liberty-loving sons and daughters of Sweden, Norway and Denmark is rich in song and story. We have millions of these splendid folk in our own land, and wherever the standard of Liberty and Human Progress has been raised they are found in the front rank, bravely fighting for the Right. Better citizens or greater lovers of Personal Liberty are unknown. For centuries our full-blooded Scandinavian brothers have been moderate users of Barley-Malt brews. Who can truthfully say it has injured them in any way? It is the ancient heritage of these peoples to revolt at Prohibitory Laws, and their vote is registered almost to a man against such legislation. For 57 years Scandinavians have been drinkers of the honestly-brewed beers of Anheuser-Busch. They have helped to make their great brand BUDWEISER exceed the sales of any other beer by millions of bottles. Seven thousand, five hundred men, all in all, are daily required to keep pace with the natural public demand for Budweiser. ANHEUSER-BUSCH · ST. LOUIS, U.S.A.

HENRY CLAY BLANCKE SLIPS OVER ANOTHER WIN

Our Poet Pitcher Beats the Flickers by a 4 to 1 Score.

Muggs McGraw Performs Daylight Robbery on Brackett.

BY BRUCE.

Henry Clay Blancke was in a genial mood yesterday and slippery-elmed his way to a 4-to-1 win over the invading Flickertails. Recently Mr. Blancke has been reading Ibsen's "Ghosts," and to calm his nerves and assist in concentration upon the gloomy tale, has chewed large slivers of slippery elm. Not only has this custom improved the classical mind of our leading twirler, but it has also assisted greatly in the control and general behavior of his spit ball.

Opposed to the mound selection of our side for the afternoon was George Moorehouse Morse. For some reason or other the Morse code was not working well yesterday. Our side collected and filed for future reference eleven blows off the offerings of G. M. M., and in the disastrous fifth round the entire cast faced the foreign heaver before the side was retired.

One of the features of the afternoon was the enactment of the mob scene in the right field bleachers. The "iddying" of the gang was inspiring—better and far more realistic than any of the clamors and yodels of any J. Caesar supers it has ever been our mispleasure to hear.

Umpire Timothy Flood, the well known Swedish indicator handler, made two decisions in close proximity that displeased the fastidious sense of righteousness of the occupants of the bleacher on the right side of the grand stand. At the end of the round, as the indicator holder stepped forward to announce the playing of a double-header on the following afternoon, he was "iddied" into silence. Sometime one wonders if Dante was an umpire in the mediaeval league.

How They Counted.

The activity in the region of the plate was confined to three luscious rounds. In the fifth we tangled the Morse code up, got it cross-circuited and then cut off the current. Before things were straightened out three runs were across the plate.

Brackett opened the round by beating out an infield hit. On the merry hit-and-run Croake singled into right, Brackett hastening on to third and Bud going to second on the throw to head Hi off. Bond doubled to the base of the left field fence, and both of the boys rounded up at the rusty old water faucet. Water always goes in a pinch. Jimmy Collins was safe when Wheeler tried to get Bond off second on the hit to him. O'Brien beat out an infield hit and the paths were crowded. Wolfe was hit by a pitched ball and Bond were forced home. Sweeley hit a liner to Morse and Collins was caught at third. Edmunds, batting in the place of Hargrove, walked, and Blancke forced O'Brien at third.

McGraw walked to inaugurate the foreign policy of the visitors in the sixth. Forster was retired, O'Brien to Croake, advancing the former Sox. A passed ball sent Muggsy to third, and he scored when Flaherty, the German right fielder, singled to left field.

In our sixth Brackett singled over second base. He is a careless devil and doesn't seem to care where he hits. Croake grounded out. Brackett went to second on a passed ball and stole third. Bond singled to left and Hi scored. Collins forced Bond at second, and a second later was caught by the husky Monsieur Peters in his laudable but ill-cautioned effort to pilfer second base. Stealing off Mr. Peters is as difficult as collecting new and crisp twenty-dollar bills from the Philadelphia mint.

In our next time at bat we threatened to add to our score, when a double play croaked our chances.

O'Brien surprised those who know him best by singling to left field. 'Twas a noble deed well and nobly done. Wolfe sacrificed his gallant commander. Sweeley singled and a run was imminent. Edmunds hit to short and O'Brien was run down on the third base line and Sweeley was caught on a general milk way route between second and third. It is estimated that the ball traveled 27.08 miles before the two plays were completed.

The Fuzzy McGraw.

In the eighth, Hi Brackett, the Mora, Minn. oracle, hit one to left center that looked perfectly good. Mister McGraw dashed speedily and very near the ground and laid low extending hands on the ball, or under the ball. It was a low down and more or less scurvy trick, but baseball is filled with such nefarious and pernicious performances.

Upon ladies day the gentler sex are invited to come out and gaze upon the handsome and upright physique of Mr. Peters. Efforts have been made to induce Mr. Edward Wheeler to don one of his swell suits of citizens' clothes and walk across the diamond. Mr. Wheeler has lavender socks also. However Mr. Wheeler is needed in the game and it is probable that the ladies will have to forego the pleasure of seeing Mr. Wheeler dolled up. He is the Beau Brummel of the Northern league, just as he was the loud sartorial shriek in the Three-I, the American association and the National league. Mr. Wheeler wears his clothes as if they were made for him, which is rarely uncommon. Local tailors take warning.

KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

CAN THE KING RETURN?

ED WALSH.

Has Ed Walsh performed the incredible—the comeback? It will require more time to answer the question. The greatest of all pitchers came back in impressive fashion the other day against Cleveland. If the gigantic moundsman was the Walsh of old the White Sox would come near winning the pennant. It is almost too miraculous to hope for. They seldom come back.

VANITIE SHOWS IMPROVED FORM

Most Interesting Race Yet of Two Candidates for Cup Defense.

New York, July 9.—After leading throughout the contest the cup class yacht Vanitie lost the first of the actual trial races for the defense of the America's cup, sailed off here yesterday, the Resolute winning on her time allowance by 1 minute and 19 seconds.

Three miles from the finish of the thirty-mile windward and leeward course the Vanitie had the race apparently well in hand, but the Resolute, bringing up a freshing breeze, cut the lead of the Cochran yacht to 30 seconds at the line.

The Defiance broke down yesterday morning when she was scarcely outside the harbor. She probably will race today.

The race was sailed in a fresh to moderate breeze with a lump of a sea, conditions in which the committee on selection of a defender have long desired to see the yachts compete. Members of the committee followed the yachts and were non-committal, but the general opinion in yachting circles last night seemed to be that the Vanitie won the day's honors, that she is a much improved yacht and the trial races are likely to develop the best yachting of the season up to the cup race in September.

Certainly the yachts have yet to sail a more interesting and exciting race. Only three seconds separated them at the start, in which the Vanitie captured the better position; they sailed twenty miles against the wind on nearly even terms; they were only forty-five seconds apart at the windward mark, and in the run before the wind fortune poised first on one boat and then on the other, while the skipper had to play his craftiest game of yachting finesse in order to hold his place.

The yachts will go out again today for the first race under the direction of the New York Yacht club, yesterday's contest being held by the Eastern Yacht club in connection with its annual regatta. In that contest the Shimna captured the Puritan cup, the principal trophy.

Lighter winds and some sea are predicted for the second trial race today.

TAKING A SHOT AT THE OLD DOPE

Being a Short Review of Sport Happenings of the Day Here and Elsewhere.

BY BRUCE.

Today the followers of boxing have had an opportunity to review the more lengthy cable accounts of the Welsh-Ritchie contest. It must be stated that the later cables show even more fully than the flash accounts of the battle that Welsh won fully on the merits of the case.

According to one of the experts—an American—at the ringside, Ritchie landed three effective blows during the battle. One in the third round made Welsh hang on and stall the round out. The other two blows jarred the Welshman.

Opposed to the three effective blows landed by the man who lost his title, were the some twenty odd terrific swings that missed the superlatively clever and shifty Welsh. Neither boxer was marked, Welsh was not tired at the finish and Ritchie was coming stronger all the time. But, friends, what is the use of strength if you can't land?

Welsh, the later and more lengthy cables report, is today the cleverest boxer in all the big world—and it is filled with 'em.

Freddy Welsh is the cleverest in all the world and he made a show of the world's champion—but he can't hit hard enough to dent a particularly ripe cheese—and cheeses of inanimate and animate variety are particularly soft when ripe.

They say that Welsh showed as good as ever in the fight at Olympia. This means that there is no lightweight in the ring today who can beat him in 20 rounds—they will have to extend the distance to the marathon route.

Before the fight had passed the tenth round the English and Welshmen were offering one pound to two pennies on Welsh. The Welsh are noted for their thrift; this incident of the fight will indicate the drift of the battle.

At the close of the fight the wife of Welsh was literally tossed into the ring. Englishmen in the most immaculate evening dress leaped the ropes and rushed to kiss the new champion.

In all this wild tumult, as is ever

THE BUILDERS HUNT IS ENDED

MEN are learning the truth about chewing tobacco.

"Right-Cut" is the Real Tobacco Chew. A clean, small chew satisfies you.

Leaves a clean after-taste in the mouth—not the thick, foggy taste that the ordinary chew forces on a man. That's one of the reasons why men are so eager to tell their friends about "Right-Cut."

Made of rich, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

If your dealer does not sell it, send us 10c. in stamps for a pouch of "Right-Cut" Chewing Tobacco.

WEYMAN-BRUTON COMPANY

the case, the vanquished was completely forgotten—and some people often speculate upon the whys and wherefores of champions fighting desperately to defend their titles.

This is a great and peculiar and often a sad world.

Personality counts a lot in this world. Ed Walsh, for instance, will always be a hero with the crowds at the Chicago American park. They cheer Walsh when he loses. Reading the account of one of the experts of the fight conditions in England, we were somewhat startled by the statement that Bombardier Wells was vastly more popular than Freddy Welsh in the British empire.

Think of it. Wells, the most knocked-out pugilist in the history of the game—and Welsh possibly the most brilliant boxer—and Wells the popular hero.

It was the aged woman who once remarked that it was utterly impossible to account for tastes.

Why should Wells worry when he is knocked out? Like Antaeus of old, Bomb gets stronger every time he hits the earth—at least stronger with the followers of boxing on the other side of the pond.

We can think of no higher example of irony than to have the Cubs win the pennant this year and to have the populace yell their heads off—and then with a sickening thud discover that all the time Charley Murphy was the power lurking behind the throne, and that he had retained his stock and was the real watchdog of the treasury.

This would be the perfect and complete example of irony, hideous in its very subtlety.

Trophy Holders in Lead.

Lake Placid, N. Y., July 9.—The American Whist league's Minneapolis trophy, representing the pair championship of the United States and Canada was won yesterday by W. B. Gower and R. L. Parsons, the team of the Knickerbocker Whist club of New York city. J. C. Beardsley and W. A. Burns, the Cleveland, Ohio, team were second, two-tenths of a match behind the Knickerbocker team, which won this trophy for several seasons.

GOLFERS TO ENTERTAIN

Northland Club Will Show State Title Contenders a Good Time.

Marcus B. Cullum, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Northland club that will have charge of the out-of-town golfers who are to take part in the approaching state tournament, is making elaborate plans for the care of the visiting delegation.

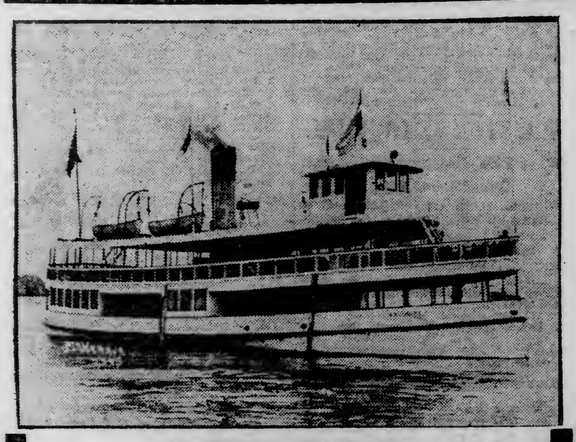

A large subscription fund is being raised among the members of the club for the entertainment of the golfers who will come here from St. Paul, Minneapolis, White Bear, Lake Minnetonka, Winona, Faribault and other cities and towns of the state.

About the only definite decision arrived at yet in the plans is the giving of a big dinner to the visiting players. This dinner will be given at the Northland Country club house. It is expected that there will be more than 100 out-of-town golf players here to contest for the state title.

While Mr. Cullum is busily engaged in the working out of plans for the entertainment of the visitors with the rest of the committee, some of the players of the Northland are preparing for the entertainment of the visitors on the links.

It is stated that R. S. Patrick is in the best physical condition of years. Playing over the Northland course he has the best chance in years to win the state title. Admitting that Harry Legg is the class of the state—admitting that he holds the edge on Patrick—there, nevertheless, is the chance that Patrick, playing under more favorable conditions than in previous years, may take the state title from the Minneapolis crack, truly one of the golf sharks of the Middle West.

Interest in the state tournament is gradually growing. It promises to eclipse in general class all of the previous tourneys and it goes without saying that the Northland club is going to outdo itself in making of the big meet a thorough and most complete success.

RUBE WADDELL'S CATCHER IS DEAD

Ossie Schreckengost, Battery Mate of Eccentric Hurler, Passes.

Philadelphia, July 9.—Ossie Schreckengost, who won fame as the battery partner of Rube Waddell when the latter was the the star pitcher of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, died in a hospital here today from a complication of diseases. He was about 40 years old. He was released by the Philadelphia club five years ago and quit the game shortly afterward. Schreckengost outlived his famous partner only a few months, Waddell dying in Texas last March.

In his career, Schreckengost played on teams at Williamsport, Pa., Fall River, Mass., Augusta, Me., Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Youngstown, Ohio, Cleveland, St. Louis, Buffalo and Boston. After leaving the Athletics in 1909, he played for a short time with the Chicago Americans.

LESS PRAIRIE CHICKS.

North Dakota Bird Hunting Not Promising as Last Year.

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is claimed prairie chicken shooting will not be as good in North Dakota this year as last. There were more old birds left over last fall and this spring than for years, but the unusual precipitation has not been favorable for hatching. In some sections the birds were hatched before the rains came and the bird "crop" is excellent, but in other localities the birds had made their nests in sloughs and coulees and the early rains wet the eggs before they were hatched and drove the old birds from their nests.

The shooters are already beginning to plan their hunting trips for the higher lands and the hilly sections until the season demonstrates the actual conditions. The hunters in the Red River valley will probably have less sport than those farther inland.

The native duck "crop" will be unusually large as hundreds of sloughs are filled with water this year that have been dry for many seasons.

SOME RAPID TRADING.

Cincinnati Reds Send New Men From Baltimore to White Sox.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 9.—Claude Derrick, the infielder purchased from Baltimore, was yesterday traded to the Chicago club in exchange for First Baseman Fred Mollwitz and Outfielder Cy Williams. It was for this purpose that Derrick was purchased for a big sum, the trade having been consummated before Derrick's purchase.

Derrick will be here today together with Twombley, the new outfielder who will play left field for the Reds in today's game. Derrick will be sent immediately to Chicago.

England's Main Hope Gone.

London, July 9.—H. Roper Barrett, the main hope of Great Britain's team for the Dwight F. His decision was brought about by the pressure of private business.

PATCHWORK PAVING IS OBJECTED TO Commercial Club Favors Brick or Sandstone for West Michigan.

The street improvement committee of the Commercial club favors paving West Michigan street, Piedmont avenue and Superior street, between Twelfth and Fifteenth avenues west with brick or sandstone, preferably the latter, because of the grade on Piedmont avenue.

The committee points out that both have been proven and that the use of concrete would make a patchwork job of the improvement. Sandstone is now laid between Eighth and Twelfth avenues and brick is being put down between Fifteenth and Thirtieth avenues.

At its meeting last month the Rotary club passed a resolution favoring concrete on the three blocks in question. Commissioner Murchison agrees with the Commercial club committee that sandstone or brick should be used when the three blocks between Twelfth and Fifteenth avenues are paved.

DECREASE IN "LIFE-SAVING STATIONS"

City Council Has Reduced Saloon List—Some Quit Voluntarily.

The law enforcement policy of the city council which is being carried out under Commissioner Hicken as head of the public safety division is resulting in a steady reduction of the number of saloons in the city.

Where the city had 184 saloons it now has about 164. Five thirst parlors have closed their doors in the last month. The last to go out of business was Bennie Vail, 1½ East Superior street.

Some of them have quit business because they were losing money and others because their licenses were revoked or renewals were refused because of law violations.

HOME RULL BILL IN COMMITTEE STAGE.

It Is Here

The HUDSON Six-40 for 1915

Another Year of Refinement—31 New Features

A New Price—$1,550

The Extra Tonneau Seats Disappear When Not Wanted

The "Coming Car" Has Come

The HUDSON Six-40 of last season revealed to you the typical modern car. It was a forecast of the coming ideal car.

It was built by the men who for many years had led in motor car designing. Howard E. Coffin and his 47 engineers had devoted three years to the model.

It revealed a new type Six, made light and economical. It introduced, in lines, finish and equipment, a new ideal of a distinguished car.

It fixed a new price on a quality car—$1,750 last year. That was lower than any comparable car—either a Four or a Six—had been quoted.

It established a new price standard in the high-grade field. And it brought smooth-running sixes within reach of legions of men who, up to that time, had been forced to buy Fours.

3,000 Were Disappointed

Men flocked by the thousands to this light, handsome Six. As the cars went out, the demand became overwhelming. Orders were placed for 3,000 cars beyond the factory output. At the end of the season, men were bidding for cars. And premiums as high as $200 were paid to get them.

That was because a Six—a quality Six—for the first time was selling below Fours of its class. Countless men who envied Sixes waited that condition.

Then we had saved 1,000 pounds in weight under the former average on this size car. Right materials and better designing did all this with no sacrifice of strength.

That lightness, with our new-type motor, reduced operative cost about 30 per cent as compared with former cars of this power and capacity. For the first time, a Six consumed less fuel than a Four.

We combined these attractions in the handsomest car of the year. We brought out many new ideas in equipment. So the HUDSON Six-40, in every way, typified the ideals of the times. The majority of motorists recognized there the coming type of car.

Some 1915 Features

An artistic streamline body.
Invisible hinges.
Improved "One-Man" top with quick-adjusting curtains.
Gasoline tank in dash.
Extra tires ahead of front door.
Disappearing extra tonneau seats.
Finest body finish.
A roomier, wider car.
Dimming searchlights.
Simplified Delco starting, lighting and ignition system with wiring in metal conduits.
Lights and ignition lock.
Even better carburetion.
Automatic spark advance.
Speedometer drive from transmission shaft.
Tubular propeller shaft.
Trunk rack on back.
90 pounds less weight—now 2,890 pounds.
$1550, fully equipped.

Now 31 Refinements

Now our famous corps of engineers has spent another year on this model. They have made it lighter still. The new-model weight is 2,890 pounds. They have worked out 31 important refinements—beauties, conveniences, comforts.

They have taken part by part and studied ways to improve it. Our 48 designers did this all last year.

Now the HUDSON Six-40 for 1915 fulfills all our dreams for the HUDSON. It will be accepted, we believe, as the gem-car of today.

A Trebled Output This Year Saves $200 Per Car

Now comes our best announcement. The welcome extended this HUDSON Six-40 has compelled us to treble our output. The car is so standardized that building three times as many will save us $200 per car.

As always, we offer that saving to you. This new model will sell at $1,550, f. o. b. Detroit. It will seem impossible when you see this car. Think that three years ago not a Six was sold under $3,000. And the Sixes of those days were not equal to this.

This price is beyond competition. There will be other cars of this type because motorists demand them. But the call is for HUDSONS, and our mammoth output means a price which no quality car can meet.

COME NOW

Come see this new model and all its new features. It will show you all the latest developments. Note in how many ways these HUDSON engineers have bettered the best they knew.

HUDSON Six-54

We built this same model for men who desire a big, impressive car. The HUDSON Six-54—the larger model—has a 135-inch wheelbase and more power. The price is $2,350 f. o. b. Detroit.

VOLLEY FROM U. S. GUNBOAT

The Dominican Rebels Are Quickly Reminded to Shoot Carefully.

Conditions in the Island May Require Intervention.

Washington, July 9.—Reckless firing by Dominican rebels sent several shots against the hull of the American gunboat Machias in Puerto Plata harbor late last night and drew upon themselves a warning volley from the Machias' three-pounders and automatic rifles. The shooting from shore stopped at once.

With four separate revolutions raging simultaneously and the American minister to the country returning home after several months of fruitless efforts to restore peace, the little republic of San Domingo is causing grave anxiety to the Washington government which is morally bound to maintain order there under the semi-protectorate created by treaty.

Interference Needed.

Officials are becoming convinced that only through powerful outside influence, and that of the United States, can these chaotic conditions be terminated and a stable government set up. The revolutionists appear to be unable to overcome the Bordas government, supported by the monthly proportion of customs receipts handed over by American collectors, but Bordas has not been able to diminish the number of his enemies after a six months' campaign.

Mr. Vick, the American collector, has resigned and now Minister Sullivan is returning to the United States, leaving Secretary White in charge of the American legation and without any definite assurance that he ever will resume his official duties.

Reluctant to Act.

The state department still is reluctant to intervene forcibly in San Domingo at this time, and it is expected an effort will be made to send some strong man to the republic who may secure the confidence of all elements and bring them together.

Meanwhile the navy is maintaining a considerable fleet in Dominican waters, including the South Carolina and Machias at Puerto Plata, the Marietta at Sanchez and the Vestine at Azua. Other vessels are on the Hietien end of the island.

JONES IS NOW THE OFFICIAL ASPIRANT

Entry of Judgment Made in State Senatorial Contest Case.

Formal entry of judgment in the Jones-Randall senatorial primary election contest case was made in district court yesterday. Under an order of District Judge Fesler, the county auditor is required to substitute the name of Richard Jones for John R. Randall as a candidate for the office of state senator in the Fifty-eighth legislative district at the November election.

The official canvass of the votes at the primaries gave Randall three more votes than Jones and placed him second in the race. A recount after contest proceedings had been started, however, advanced Jones to second place and gave him a lead of twelve votes over Randall. State Senator T. M. Pugh and Jones will be the candidates in the fall race.

Have A Case Sent Home

IT'S a mighty fine thing to have a case of beer in your cellar. It provides for an ever-ready beverage for meals, lunches, etc. or for mere refreshment of the most healthful kind.

Fitger's Beer

is particularly well adapted for the home on account of its purity and extra healthfulness. If you could spare the time to be shown through the brewery and bottling house you would understand why it is so good. Physicians recommend it as a tonic and builder of good, rich blood. For convalescents and nursing mothers it is the ideal liquid food.

ON THE IRON RANGES

AWARDED $1 FOR INJURIES

Hibbing Man Sued Great Northern Railroad for $10,550.

Abel Laitenen of Hibbing, who sued the Great Northern Railway company for $10,550 damages for personal injuries sustained in a collision between his automobile and one of the defendant company's trains Sept. 28 last, was this morning awarded a verdict for $1 by a jury which reported this morning to Judge Dancer after an all-night session.

The case was tried twice this term of court, the first jury having disagreed after having been out for several hours. The verdict at the second trial, which was reached at 8:30 o'clock this morning, was a unanimous one. The first trial occurred two weeks ago in Judge Ensign's courtroom.

Laitinen, the plaintiff, claimed that while driving an automobile on the public highway between Hibbing and Alice, he was run down by a Great Northern train. The machine was wrecked and the impact of the collision threw him out. He testified that he received injuries which permanently disabled him from following his vocation as a musician. The injuries resulted in a partial paralysis of the left side of his face.

Victor L. Power, mayor of Hibbing, appeared in court as attorney for Laitenen and the railway company was represented by Donald S. Holmes of Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes. It is understood that the plaintiff will seek a new trial.

Cherries are in Season

The cherry is one of the few fruits that are improved by cooking, and of all the desserts that can be made with them, none is more delicious than this pudding. If made with K C Baking Powder, the pastry will be light and porous especially if you have a slow oven at the start to give it time to rise. Try this recipe at once and you will want it again and again as long as the cherries last.

K C Cherry Pudding

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

2 cups sifted pastry flour; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ½teaspoonful salt; ¼ cup butter; 2 eggs; ½ cup milk (scant); cherries; salt or 1 tablespoonful butter.

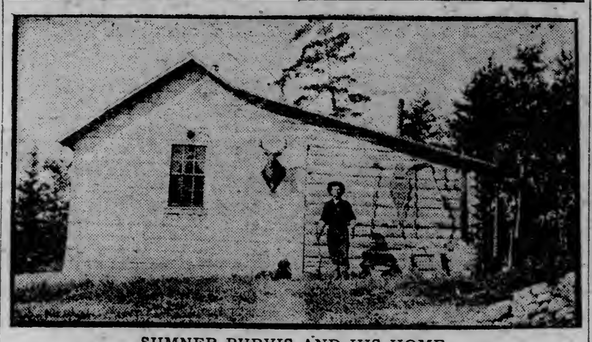

46

Sift together, three times, the flour, baking powder and salt, and work in the butter. Beat the eggs, add the milk, and stir into the dry ingredients. Butter an agate or china baking dish, half fill it with choice cherries, sprinkle with a little salt or add bits of butter; turn the soft dough over the cherries and bake about thirty minutes, or steam one hour. Turn from the dish to have the cherries uppermost. Serve with hard sauce or with a cup of stoned cherries, cooked tender in a cup each of sugar and water.

This recipe is from "The Cook's Book." It contains 90 tested recipes by Mrs. Hill among which are Strawberry and Raspberry Short Cakes and other desserts that will help you to make the most of fresh fruits while they are in season. "The Cook's Book" will be sent for one certificate from a 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder. Address Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

It is possible that some action may be taken at the meeting of the council this afternoon.

"The price was entirely too high and I cannot see by what method of reasoning the jury reached their verdict," declared one citizen. "The state is not so poor as to demand such a price and the village should not pay it."

BUHL FIREMEN ARE GETTING INTO SHAPE

ORE SHIPMENTS ARE WAY BELOW NORMAL

Virginia, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Less ore is moving off the Mesaba range and fewer mines are shipping than at any time within the last decade for the month of July.

Local mining men place the total tonnage that will probably be shipped for the year from the Lake Superior district at not more than 30,000,000, as compared with approximately 48,000,000 last season. The heaviest of the open pit shippers on the Mesaba are probably the Alpena in the Virginia and the Leonard in the Chisholm district. The former is operated on a short term lease by the Oliver Iron Mining company, while the latter is a Great Northern property.

Virginia Shippers.

Mines shipping in the Virginia district are the Alpena, the Lincoln and the Commodore. Not a pound of ore is being mined at the Great Northern pit. The Sliver is not being worked, the Hudson mine of the Republic Iron & Steel company will probably ship its minimum of 100,000 tons and is now being mined. The Corsica and Elba are idle. The Biwabik mine will ship its minimum of about 125,000 tons. In normal seasons it ships from 400,000 to 500,000 tons. The Malta is not shipping or the Genoa. Shipments from the Fayal are light as compared with former seasons. Some ore will be shipped from the Brunt. The Wacoutah will ship about 25,000 tons. The Helmer mine at Kinney is idle while some ore is being shipped from the Kinney. Development work is in progress at the Sullivan, Minnewas, Wanless A and B, Prindle and Richlieu properties of the Oliver Mining company.

MAY FURNISH KITTZVILLE LIGHT.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the village council of Kittzville can show that the franchise granted to the Chisholm Electric company for light and power has not been complied with by the corporation and if their request is properly presented, the water and light board of this village will furnish light and power to Kittzville.

A committee from the Kittzville council is now investigating and it is expected that their petition will be in at one of the early meetings of the local board.

ACCUSES SALOONKEEPER

Hibbing Man Alleged to Have Assignment for Wages.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council when it meets this afternoon will try to unravel the difficulty between Joseph Collyard, a local saloon keeper, and Roche Dinufris, an employe of the village, who alleges that the saloon man forged his name to an assignment of wages. The matter looked so bad that Village Attorney Scott swore out a warrant for Collyard's arrest. The accused claims Dinufris assigned the wages to him and the other denies it, so the council will probably try and adjust the matter.

BUILDING WHITE WAY.

Work on Virginia's Extensive Improvement Has Commenced.

Virginia, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contractor John S. Swanson is now building the white way for the South side and Olcott park, the material having arrived early in the week.

The fifty-four standards were purchased by the park board. It is expected the installation work will be completed in a month. Evening band concerts will be given on the completion of the system.

On July 14 the city council will let the contract for $125,000 worth of pavement on the North side. Several bids have already been received by City Clerk A. E. Bickford. Bitulithic, creosote blocks, granite blocks and asphalt are among the materials being considered.

HOPE TO FIND DEMENTED MAN.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Sheriff Witte of Virginia while here yesterday said that his assistants are evidently close to Carl Anderson, the Virginia man, evidently demented, who is wandering at large in a half naked state. Boy or Girl? Great Question!

This brings to many minds an old and tried family remedy—an external application known as "Mother's Friend." During the period of expectancy it is applied to the abdominal muscles and is designed to soothe the intricate network of nerves involved. In this manner it has such a splendid influence as to justify its use in all cases of coming mother-hood. It has been generally recommended for years and years and those who have used it speak in highest praise of the immense relief it affords. Particularly do these knowing mothers speak of the absence of morning sickness, absence of strain on the ligaments and freedom from those many other distresses usually looked forward to with such concern.

There is no question but what "Mother's Friend" has a marked tendency to relieve the mind and this of itself in addition to the physical relief has given it a very wide popularity among women.

You can obtain "Mother's Friend" at almost any drug store. It has helped a host of mothers to a complete recovery.

It is prepared only by Bradfield Regulator Co., 301 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

DE LESSEPS CLAIMS HONOR FOR FATHER

Issues Statement Regarding the Panama Canal.

Paris, July 9.—Count Charles de Lesseps, the son of Ferdinand de Lesseps, who began the work of building the Panama canal in 1881, issues the following statement in a Paris morning paper:

"I view the approaching inauguration of the Panama canal with a feeling of genuine sorrow, and what I say ought to appeal to Americans, who worked wonders. The French could have finished the work; there were no obstacles which they could not have overcome, and nothing to justify the catastrophe which overwhelmed us.

"Three men made the canal and merit universal gratitude—my father, Engineer Philippe Bunau-Varilla and Col. Goethals."

Count De Lesseps tells of the terrible ordeal through which he passed when he went to the prison and found his father dying, broken and distressed by the thought that the family honor had been tarnished. He was able then to tell him that in spite of appearances his honor was saved, though all was lost but that.

DENY REPORTS OF CUB-RED DEAL.

Chicago, July 9.—Official denial that any trade between the Cincinnati and Chicago Nationals had been made recently or was contemplated was made at the Cub office today. A story that Fred Mollwitz, infielder, and Cy Williams, outfielder, would be traded to Cincinnati for Shortstop Claude Derrick was attributed by the Cubs to the fact that they had negotiated with Baltimore for Derrick, but had refused to pay the $15,000 asked for him.

ATTACKS NATIONAL BALL AGREEMENT.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 9.—The motion to vacate the injunction obtained against Hal Chase by the Chicago American league baseball club restraining him from playing with the Buffalo Federals, was argued before Supreme Court Justice Herbert P. Bissell today.

Keene H. Addington of Chicago, personal counsel for Chase, attacked the so-called "national agreement," claiming that under it organized ball is a combination contrary to common and statute law and a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law in that it constitutes a traffic in players.

Attorney Addington read various clauses in the national agreement in support of his argument and pointed out the different conditions which he claimed operated against the players. When court adjourned for the noon recess his argument was unfinished.

WRONG BREAKFAST.

Change Gave Rugged Health.

Many persons think that for strength, they must begin the day with a breakfast of meat and other heavy foods. This is a mistake as anyone can easily discover for himself.

A W. Va. carpenter's experience may benefit others. He writes:

"I used to be a very heavy breakfast eater but finally indigestion caused me such distress, I became afraid to eat anything.

"My wife suggested a trial of Grape-Nuts and as I had to eat something or starve, I concluded to take her advice. She fixed me up a dish and I remarked at the time that the quality was all right, but the quantity was too small—I wanted a saucerful.

"But she said a small amount of Grape-Nuts went a long way and that I must eat it according to directions. So I started in with Grape-Nuts and cream, 2 soft boiled eggs and some crisp toast for breakfast.

"I cut out meats and a lot of other stuff I had been used to eating all my life and was gratified to see that I was getting better right along. I concluded I had struck the right thing and stuck to it. I had not only been eating improper food, but too much.

"I was working at the carpenter's trade at that time and thought that unless I had a hearty breakfast with plenty of meat, I would play out before dinner. But after a few days of my "new breakfast" I found I could do more work, felt better in every way, and now I am not bothered with indigestion."

FIFTEEN INJURED WHEN CAR DROPS FROM BRIDGE

ton avenue, slight bruises.

OLIVER RISTEAU, 1707 Susquehanna avenue, injuries slight.

HERMAN JOHNSON, 2617 Twenty-fourth street, knee wrenched.

WILLIAM HUMLEY, 1611 North Sebehit street, conductor on the car, scratched and bruised, and cut with glass.

HECTOR GARDNER, 1905 Washington avenue, back and ankle wrenched.

With the exception of the last named all were taken to the St. Mary's hospital where they were given treatment and their wounds dressed. Some of these were able to leave the hospital at noon and others left shortly after arriving. Only a few remain now at the institution. Gardner was taken to his home.

Bounced Off Track.

The accident happened while the car was city bound. It had passed the highest point on the bridge and was coming down the slope on the east side. A bump in the track at this point caused the car to teeter and jump the track. It made a bee line for the side of the bridge and crashed through the frail railing. The car landed a short distance east of the net work of the railroad tracks of the Great Northern railway.

Many people on the street at the time witnessed the accident and immediately rushed to the scene. A hurry call was sent to the police and hospitals and several physicians were rushed to the scene. Some of the men were in a semi-conscious condition and for a while it was believed that some fatalities had occurred.

Motorman Not Hurt.

A few of the men in the car were able to extract themselves without aid while others were pulled out with difficulty. M. F. Bostead, the motorman, was the only person on the car who was not injured.

The passengers on the car were all workingmen on their way to their places of employment. All of them were sitting inside of the car. The teetering of the car was not considered anything out of the way. It is claimed that the rails on the bridge have become warped and that when the car struck one of these places it was thrown off. The car was traveling at a moderate rate of speed with the brakes partly applied when it left the tracks. Its momentum was too great to enable the motorman to stop it before it had struck the railing.

It is claimed that the bridge is strong enough to hold the heavy double truck cars, and they have not been put on this line.

PAINS AROUND THE HEART

When the action of the stomach is weakened by debility or defective nerve force the food is retained until it ferments. Gas forms and presses on the other organs, particularly the heart, the pains in that region often causing a fear of heart trouble. Organic heart disease rarely causes pain around the heart and when this symptom is noted you should try toning up your digestion before giving way to needless alarm.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic that directly affects the organs of digestion. They supply to the stomach the rich, red blood without which normal digestion is impossible. They waken into activity and gastric glands and strengthen the muscles of the stomach and give the nerve force necessary to proper digestion and assimilation. With thin blood and weak nerves it is impossible to avoid stomach trouble. Build up the blood and strengthen the nerves and note the increased appetite, the comfortable feeling after eating and the improvement in health and vigor.

Two books "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale in every drug store.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

A New Discovery

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body, like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come forty tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive and Boyce Drug store and all other druggists in Duluth and vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

WHEAT TAKES GOOD UPTURN

Market Turns Strong on Rust Rumors After Weak Opening.

Flax Closes Slightly Up on Light Offerings and Steady Inquiry.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 9.—The market was strong at the close. July wheat closed 3⅜c off; September unchanged to ⅛c up and December unchanged. July durum closed ¼c off and September ¼c up.

Oats closed ¼c up at 34½c. Rye closed unchanged at 58c for on track or 57c for to arrive. Barley closed 2c off at from 38c to 50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 39¼c bid, and October at 36¼c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 79⅝c and calls at 81⅜c.

The wheat market was a nervous proposition today. After opening weak on a flood of selling, brought about through the bearish government crop report, and declining ¾@1c, a recovery was made around the noon hour to about yesterday's closing figures. The upturn was induced by the receipt of black rust reports from a few sections of South Dakota. While no material damage can as yet be found, the mere presence of the disease will, it is thought, tend to a nervous market condition during the next couple of weeks. Failing a development of this nature, traders are inclined to look for still lower prices in view of the enormous grain tonnage that promises to be marketed.

Said Julius H. Barnes in that connection this morning: "If the figures of the government crop report are borne out, I hardly think that the present level of prices will hold. Over 900,000,000 bu is a lot of wheat to be disposed of."

Armour and other large operators were reported to be heavy sellers of wheat at Chicago today, and the weakness was further helped along by reports of liberal country acceptances of new wheat. Eastern demand was quiet with export offers out of line even at the declines. Liverpool was weak, closing materially lower. The bearish tendency in the market over there was promoted by American advices, poor consumptive demand, and free first hand offers.

The situation in old wheat continued exceptionally strong, due to the heavy milling demand, and the light supplies remaining in the elevators. On that account the trade appeared to be willing to pay the 10c difference that maintained in the July over the September option.

July wheat opened ¼c off at 91¼c, sold off to 90¼c, and then recovered to within a shade of yesterday's closing figure at the noon hour. September opened ½c off at 81⅛c, weakened ¼c more, and then firmed up to 81½@¾c bid. The December option opened ½c off at 82c weakened ¼c more, and recovered ⅜@½c. July durum opened ¼c off at 86⅝c and weakened ⅛c more. September opened ⅝c off at 81¾c and later advanced ¾c.

Flax Is Firmly Held.

Trading in flaxseed was light throughout the session. There was a steady inquiry from crushers, but holders were firm in view of the large decrease in acreage shown in the government crop report. Quotations gained fractionally, final prices being ⅜@⅝c up.

Antwerp and London closed unchanged. It was a holiday at Buenos Aires.

July flax opened ¼c up at $1.60½, and closed ¾c up at $1.60⅞ bid. September opened unchanged at $1.62½ and closed ⅝c up at $1.63⅛ asked. October opened unchanged at $1.62½, and closed ⅝c up at $1.63⅛ bid, and November opened unchanged at $1.62⅝ and closed ½c up at $1.63⅛ bid.

At Winnipeg July flax closed at $1.39⅜ and October at $1.43¾ asked.

The cash market was firm at Minneapolis with good demand. One northern blue stem sold at from 2½ to 4c over July and velvet chaff at 2@2½c over July. Flour trade was dull. Cash on northern wheat sold there at from 80¼@90¾c and No. 2 northern at from 86¼@88¾c.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"Wheat—The American government report stimulated fresh selling at the opening and values were ⅝d lower with support lacking. The spot market was weak. The American movement of new wheat was liberal and private reports received here told of little, if any, damage to spring wheat that further helped the decline. At 1:30 p. m. the undertone was comparatively steady, ⅝d lower."

John Inglis wired from Fargo—"Continued favorable weather has improved crop prospects down the valley. Much of the wheat that looked stunted is showing better growth. Its color is also improving."

The St. Louis Leader says: "In my judgment it will be impossible to make a big corn crop outside of the northern corn belt. It looks as if the southwest would make a fair crop, but Eastern Missouri, Southern Illinois, Southern Indiana, Southern Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and the Southeast will have a failure. Corn is beginning to tassel around here and unless we get good soaking rains within ten days, the crop in this territory will be a complete failure."

Duluth car inspection: Wheat—No. 1 hard, 3; No. 1 northern, 22; No. 2 northern, 4; No. 3, 2; no grade, 1; durum, 7; winter, 1; mixed, 5; total wheat, 45, last year, 68; flax, 7, last year, 34; oats, 2, last year, 22; rye, 3, last year, 3; barley, 7, last year, 36; total of all grains, 64, last year, 154; on track, 105.

William W. Bradbury, manager of the Dalrymple Grain company in the board of trade building, who was quite severely stung by a hornet while fishing last Sunday at Yellow lake, is much better and was able to attend to his trading in the pit today. The sting threatened to have serious results for a time.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Rush of Selling Weakens Wheat—Due to Crop Report.

Chicago, July 9.—Wheat weakened today under a general rush of selling due to the large crop indicated by the government report. Fine weather Northwest counted also against the bulls, and so too did lower cables. Country acceptances on over-night bids were reported liberal. The market opened ⅜@¾c down and showed additional losses before there was any reaction.

South Dakota advices of serious injury from black rust led afterward to a relatively firm feeling. Extremely high temperatures were reported in that state. The market closed steady, the same as last night to ⅛@¼c lower.

Bullish construction of the government report as to corn gave that cereal a decided lift. Crop damage complaints from the Southwest helped the advance. Profit-taking by longs, however, wiped out all the gain in the July option. The opening was ⅝c to 1@1⅛c higher, but deferred months as well as July underwent a setback later, though not so complete as for the current delivery.

A fresh upturn ensued owing to reports that Illinois corn was firing. The close was strong, ⅝@2¼c net higher.

Oats rallied on account of corn strength. At first prices reflected the bearish aspect of the government's report.

Higher quotations for hogs carried provisions up-grade. The market was also affected by the bulge in corn.

Wheat—No. 2 red, 81½@83c; No. 2 hard, 81¾@82¾c; No. 2 northern, 88½@89½c; No. 2 spring, 87@88c. Corn—No. 2 yellow, 70¼@70½c; No. 3 yellow, 69@69¾c. Oats—No. 3 white, 37½@38c; standard, 38¼@38½c. Rye—No. 2, nominal; No. 3, 56½c. Barley—48@58c. Timothy—$4.25@5.50; clover, $10.00@13.50; pork, $22.50; lard, $10.10; ribs, $11.87@12.12.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 9.—Wheat was somewhat active during the first hour's trading today, but later the market became dull. Receipts were 77 cars as compared with 92 a year ago.

STOCKS HAVE WEAK CLOSE

Final Dealings Yield to Gould and Other Influences.

New Haven Gets to New Low Record During Day.

New York, July 9.—Early dealings in the stock market today were notable for the number of low prices recorded. New Haven fell to 62¾ and the Gould securities again declined substantially on moderate offerings. Missouri Pacific and Denver preferred lost two or more points, with a further drop in Missouri Pacific collaterals, Missouri Pacific consolidated 6's and Denver common. Rock Island collaterals also joined the list of issues to register lowest quotations and Chesapeake & Ohio repeated its lowest selling price. In the active list Coppers, New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio displayed pressure, while Reading, the Harrimans and United States Steel were up nominal fractions.

Gould issues rallied feebly from their fall of the first hour, but not before New Haven and Chesapeake & Ohio had gone lower. Selling of Chesapeake was induced by the latest order of the interstate commerce commission affecting high iron rates in the road's territory. Leaders, with few exceptions, sold under yesterday, but recovered before noon on increased apprehension of the crop outlook and indications that the Federal reserve situation is likely to be satisfactorily adjusted. Washington's latest attitude towards business also was taken into general account.

Bonds were easy.

The market made further improvement in the early afternoon but dealings became progressively smaller. Strength was shown by various specialties, including American Foundries, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse and Western Union.

For the greater part of today's session standard stocks ignored the weakness of the Goulds and a few others by their display of independent strength. In the final dealings, however, renewed weakness in lower priced issues unsettled the entire list. The closing was heavy.

Business was more active in the final hour, the improvements shown in the early afternoon were soon lost, most gains being wiped out. Recurrent weakness in Chesapeake & Ohio sent that stock lower than before.

BULLISH TONE IN THE COPPERS

Motor Car Fever Is at Its Height!

HAVE YOU A USED CAR FOR SALE?

Fine weather for motoring—the roads are in splendid condition — the motor car fever has developed to its height in nearly every prospective automobile owner.

More used cars were bought in Duluth last year than in any previous year. Many used automobiles have already been bought this season and many others will find new owners in the near future. Have you a used car for sale? If so, let the popular automobile column in "The Duluth Herald want ads" find you a buyer. Absolute proof of the popularity of The Duluth Herald with automobile buyers was secured when a comparison was made between the names of automobile owners to whom licenses have been issued and the names of the subscribers of The Duluth Herald. This comparison revealed the fact that ninety-eight out of every one hundred of the present automobile owners in this community read The Duluth Herald. What better proof could one ask that the future car owners also read The Duluth Herald. Sell your car to one of the 98% this summer.

FEDERALS GIVE UP GUAYMAS; REBELS TAKE GUADALAJARA; ATTACK ON MEXICO IS NEAR

VILLA MAY BE LEFT IN REAR OF ASSAULT

Carranza's Final Word on Peace Proposal Not Received.

Gen. Villa Is Opposed to Treating With Huerta.

Obregon Goes to Attack Junction on Road to Capital.

Saltillo, Mexico, July 9.—(Via Laredo, Texas, July 10.)—Guaymas, one of the most important seaports on the Mexican west coast, was evacuated by Federals late today, according to advices to Gen. Carranza.

At Constitutionalist headquarters it is said that Gen. Jesus Carranza, with 18,000 men, probably will attack San Luis Potosi within twenty-four hours. The capture of Guadalajara and San Luis Potosi would open an easy road to Queratro, and the Constitutionalists are confident that the capture of Mexico City is in sight.

Guadalajara Captured.

Washington, July 10.—With mediation proceedings at a standstill, interest in the Mexican situation today was focused on developments in the Constitutionalists' military campaign that reached a climax in the capture of Guadalajara, the second largest city in the republic. While dispatches from Gen. Obregon, who led the latest revolutionary triumph, asserted that few of his men had been killed or wounded, official Constitutionalist reports from El Paso stated information received there asserted losses had been "numerous" on both sides.

From Guadalajara, Obregon intends to hurl his troops toward Mexico City. Doubt was expressed whether the army would be given any rest before the beginning of the crucial assault

DENTISTRY MINUS PAIN SEEMS NEAR

Demonstrations Are Given at the National Convention.

Rochester, N. Y., July 10.—Extraction and treatment of teeth without pain is the goal sought by American dentists, and almost attained. This was demonstrated at free clinics being held in connection with the eighteenth annual convention here of the American Dental association, experts using a mixture of gas which absolutely deadens pain, while leaving the patient wholly conscious.

Meetings of the board of trustees and house of delegates this morning, a meeting of the National Mouth Hygiene association this afternoon, and a general session of all bodies tonight, comprised the day's program. The National Mouth Hygiene association would, it was expected, elect Dr. Harvey W. Willey of pure food fame to the presidency. Dr. John S. Marshall, formerly chief of the United States dental corps, and E. H. Lewinski-Godwin, executive secretary of the Central Council of Public Health, New York, will address the association.

Thomas B. Hartsell of Minneapolis was elected a member of the board of trustees of the association at the meeting of the house of delegates yesterday. Don M. Gallie of Chicago was elected president.

MILITARY WELCOME IS GIVEN TO CARSON

Ulster Men Plan Big Celebration to Be Held July 12.

Belfast, Ireland, July 10.—Full military honors were accorded by the Ulster volunteers today to Sir Edward Carson, the Irish Unionist leader, when he arrived with the marquis of Londonderry, Viscount Castlereagh, Walter H. Long and Ronald McNeill and other Unionist members of parliament to attend the meeting of the Ulster provisional government.

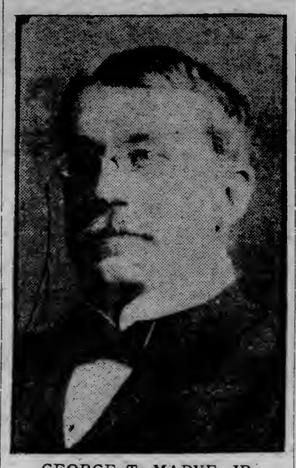

A guard of honor composed of 400 armed volunteers and 50 armed motorcycle dispatch riders escorted the leaders to the residence of Capt. James Craig, the military leader, where they will remain for a week.

Big Day July 12.

The intentions of the provisional government have not been disclosed, but one object of the meeting is the arrangement of an impressive celebration of the twelfth of July, or "Orangeman's day," "in order to show the government and the people of Great Britain that nothing but the absolute exclusion of Ulster from the operations of the Irish home rule bill will satisfy us."

Maj. Gen. Sir Cecil MacReady, who is in command of the military in the Belfast district, has been in conference with Premier Asquith regarding the situation, and the police have been instructed to act with great care so as to give no excuse for an outbreak.

IS DULY ACCREDITED TO THE CZAR'S COURT

GEORGE T. MARYE, JR.

Washington, July 10.—George T. Marye, Jr., of San Francisco, became ambassador to Russia today when, following confirmation by the senate, his credentials went before Secretary Bryan for countersigning. His plans for departure for St. Petersburg are not yet complete.

MUST PAY FOR LAND TWICE

Nichols Chisholm Lumber Company Loses in Supreme Court.

State Tribunal Makes Important Decision in Indian Case.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A case of more than ordinary interest to lumber concerns throughout the state, and especially to purchasers of Indian allotments, was decided today when the supreme court directed a reversal in the case of A. O. Vachon as administrator against the Nichols Chisholm Lumber company. Vachon was appellant. The findings are a reversal of the Becker county district court.

As a result of the court's overturning of the Becker county court, the Nichols Chisholm Lumber company will be compelled to pay twice for land purchased from an Indian located on the White Earth Indian reservation. While the case only concerns the Nichols Chisholm company, purchasers of Indian allotments all over the state are involved.

Contracted With Mixed Blood.

In 1907 the lumber company entered into a contract with Nay-Tau-Waush, a mixed blood Chippewa, for the trans-

ANOTHER DIES FROM THE BUBONIC PLAGUE

New Orleans Negro Boy Is the Third to Succumb.

New Orleans, La., July 10.—Another death from the bubonic plague was announced today by the public health service officers, making a total of four cases and three deaths since the outbreak of the disease here June 27.

Today's victim was Leon de Jean, a negro boy, who was found ill at his home on July 5 and removed to an isolated hospital for observation.

EDWARDS MUST PAY ADA M. COX $17,425

Supreme Court Upholds Verdict in Heart Balm Case.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Rufus Edwards, wealthy St. Paul lumberman, must pay Ada M. Cox $17,425 breach of promise damages, according to a decision of the state supreme court today affirming the judgment of the lower court.

The suit was twice tried. In the first case, which was begun Oct. 10, 1910, Miss Cox was awarded a judgment of $15,208 by a jury. The trial judge deemed this excessive and said unless the plaintiff would accept a verdict of $12,500, a new trial would be ordered. Miss Cox accepted this judgment and Edwards appealed. His appeal was sustained in the supreme court and the case sent back for a new trial.

On the second trial of the case a jury awarded even larger damages to Miss Cox. Mr. Edwards now is married.

The supreme court did not review the case at length because of the nature of much of the testimony, but the opinion said there was no doubt there had been a violated marriage agreement.

EDDY HANGS PETRAS JURY

Aged Farmer Votes All Alone to Convict Defendant.

Illinois Court Discharges the Twelve After Forty Hours.

Geneva, Ill., July 10.—The jury in the case of Anthony Petras, accused of the murder of Theresa Hollander last winter, disagreed and was discharged at 9:30 this morning by Judge Irwin.

Theresa Hollander was dragged into a graveyard on the outskirts of Aurora and clubbed to death on the night of Feb. 16. Her body was discovered an hour later, lying in the snow, with her arms broken and her skull fractured. Robbery was not the motive, as all her belongings were intact.

Buried Near Death Scene.

The girl's body was buried but fifteen feet from where she was slain and almost directly under the front windows of her parents' home, which faces the cemetery. At the trial Mrs. Hollander said it was her habit to watch for her daughter out of this window.

The state tried to prove that a knife found near the body belonged to Petras. Miss Hollander and Petras had

HOT CAMPAIGN IN MANITOBA IS OVER

Feeling in Election Is High —Liquor Issue Raised.

Winnipeg, Man., July 10.—General elections for the legislature of Manitoba were held today, and one of the bitterest political fights in the history of the province came to a close. The government of Sir Rodmond Roblin has been in power for fifteen years, and opposition to it was determined and strong, having what is known as "progressive" forces united to overthrow the Roblin cabinet on a platform of prohibition, initiative and referendum and compulsory education.

Supporting the government were powerful liquor interests. Polls opened at 9 o'clock, and at that time booths in the city had hundreds of voters marshaled on the outside. Voting was slow, as the opposition insisted upon swearing many of those whose names were on the list, and feeling ran high. Polls will close at 5 o'clock. The weather is cool and bright.

SEES ENMITY TO SCHOOLS

Los Angeles Man Talks at N. E. A. Meeting in St. Paul.

Many Problems Discussed on Last Day of Convention.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Unless certain adjustments soon are made in the educational system, the public schools of America will lose their hold in our civilization and continue to exist only as a decaying institution."

This was the declaration of J. H. Francis, superintendent of schools of Los Angeles, Cal., in an address before the annual convention of the National Education association, which will close a week's session tonight.

"Every child has a right to freedom in the pursuit of his normal development, free from mental, religious, political or financial exploitation on the part of those stronger than himself," Mr. Francis continued.

Organized Opposition.

"Quiet opposition of powerful organizations toward any change leading to greater independence of thought or freedom is one of the menacing difficulties facing those who would institute a system of schools to meet the needs of the child."

Other officers elected besides President David Starr Jordan are: Vice president, Grace C. Strahan, New York;

MINNESOTA LEADS IN RAPID GROWTH

Gets More Cars of Immigrants Than Any Two Other States.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota left all other states far behind during the month of June in the matter of receiving immigrants, according to figures given out today by Fred D. Sherman, state immigration commissioner. During the month of June Minnesota received more than twice as many emigrant cars as any other state, and more than a third of the total number of cars handled by the Minnesota Transfer railway. Out of a total of 144 cars handled by the transfer company, 51 cars were left in Minnesota. Montana came next with 21 cars, Canada 19, Wisconsin and North Dakota each 15, Iowa, South Dakota and Washington each 3, and the balance 2 and 1.

Survey Provision Offered for River and Harbor Bill.

Representative Miller Confident Proposal Will Be Carried.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, July 10.—Initial legislation looking to the construction of a breakwater for the protection of the Duluth entrance to the Duluth-Superior harbor will be carried in the river and harbor appropriation bill now under consideration in the senate.

Representative Miller today had a conference with Senator Knute Nelson, who agreed to have an amendment inserted in the bill providing for a survey "with a view to the construction of a breakwater for the protection of the Duluth entrance to the Duluth-Superior harbor."

Under this authority the local army engineer will make an examination during the coming summer, and his report on the proposed breakwater will be submitted to congress next winter, with a view to further legislation in the river and harbor bill to be passed in the next session.

Is Confident of Action.

"The construction of a breakwater for the protection of the Duluth entrance to the harbor has been under discussion for several years," said Mr. Miller today. "Some of the lake vessel interests have opposed the project on the ground that it would increase the difficulty of getting into the harbor during stormy weather. I had a conference with representatives of these interests while I was in Duluth, and finally brought them around to the point where they have agreed to support the proposed legislation.

"I believe the army engineers both in Duluth and in Washington will report favorably on the proposed breakwater, and that authority for its construction, with an appropriation for beginning the work, will be carried in next year's river and harbor appropriation bill."

GRAND JURY PROBE OF BANK IS BEGUN

State Begins Investigation of Lorimer's Financial Affairs.

Chicago, July 10.—The first special grand jury to investigate the closing of the La Salle Street Trust & Savings bank and the other Lorimer-Munday concerns involved in the bank's trouble was called today by Maclay Hoyne, state's attorney. The Federal grand jury to investigate the bank was ordered impanelled July 13.

Daniel V. Harkin, state bank examiner; Hiram Kadish, expert accountant; several officers of the bank and Mrs. Mary Quinlan Kuhns-Brady, married in Michigan to James J. Brady, state auditor, are among witnesses summoned to appear before the state grand jury.

CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT UPHELD BY RULING OF THE SUPREME COURT

Found Not to Be a Violation of the Constitution.

Judge Dancer's Decision on Demurrer Sustained By Higher Court.

Eveleth Election Contest Will Now Be Tried on Merits.

The Minnesota supreme court, in a decision handed down at St. Paul today, upheld the constitutionality of the corrupt practices act, which was attacked in the Eveleth mayoralty election contest in which Jacob S. Saari is attempting to unseat John J. Gleason.

The decision upholding the constitutionality of the law, which provides that any candidate employing certain corrupt means to obtain an office may be unseated if the proof of such corruption be shown, was handed down in connection with an order affirming the position which Judge Dancer of the district court took when he overruled a demurrer which had been interposed by Gleason's attorneys to the contest proceedings. The contest will now go to trial on its merits.

Gleason was declared duly elected as mayor of the city of Eveleth last November by a plurality of ten votes. Saari, former incumbent and a candidate for re-election, appealed from the returns made by the board of canvassers and among other things, alleged that Gleason and his supporters had violated certain sections of the corrupt practices act.

Saari declared that the alleged violation consisted of distributing liquor, cigars and other things of value to voters, furnishing conveyances to haul voters to and from the polls; falsifying expense accounts and causing outsiders to cast their votes at the election. Oscar J. Larson and Neil E. Beaton were engaged as attorneys to bring the contest against Gleason.

Judge S. F. White, attorney for Gleason, demurred to the appeal contest proceedings on the ground that the appeal from the decision of the election judges granting that the facts alleged were true, did not state a sufficient cause of action. He asserted that the corrupt practices act was unconstitutional since it undertook to provide qualifications for office holders when other qualifications were already fixed by the state constitution.

It is expected that the case will be brought to trial sometime this month at Virginia. Sometime ago, Saari filed an affidavit of prejudice against District Judge Martin Hughes and Judge Cant ordered the case transferred to Duluth for hearing on the demurrer. One of the Duluth judges, it is expected, will go to Virginia to preside at the trial of the case.

PREPARING CASE AGAINST DR. EDWIN CARMAN'S WIFE

LEWIS J. SMITH.

Mineola, N. Y., June 10.—Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, locked up in the Nassau county jail here charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, seemed to have recovered today from her nervous collapse of yesterday. She sat quietly in her cell reading. She received a letter today from her 12-year-old daughter, Elizabeth. The letter read:

"Dear Mama: We all think of you always. I don't quite know why you can't come home. If I don't see you very soon I'll write and ask Mr. Pettit (the sheriff) why you do not come home.

"Your loving daughter,
"ELIZABETH."

Both District Attorney L. J. Smith and George Levy, counsel for Mrs. Carman, were preparing evidence today to be presented in Freeport, Monday, when Mrs. Carman will be arraigned.

ROB TRAIN; KIDNAP MAN

Two Masked Men Pull Off Stunt on "Katy Flyer."

Loot the Express Safe of Silver and Jewelry.

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—Two masked bandits who held up the westbound "Katy flyer" on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad near Matson, Mo., sixty miles northwest of St. Louis, last night, captured a track walker who surprised them as they were robbing the train, and took him away with them to prevent his spying on their departure. This was learned from members of the train crew this morning.

The story of the robbery was told by A. L. Mudd, conductor of the train, and by John Snadley, engineer.

The train, which left St. Louis at 8:32 last night for Texas, stopped at Maison, Mo., on the north bank of the Missouri river, at 10:15. There the two bandits are supposed to have boarded the train.

Heard Noise Behind Him.

After the train had gone a short distance from Matson the engineer heard a noise behind him, and turning, saw the robbers pointing revolvers at him. They ordered him to stop the train,

WESTINGHOUSE MEN VOTE TO GO BACK

Will Accept Offers Made By Employers Several Weeks Ago.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—Troopers of the state constabulary continued to guard the streets of East Pittsburg today, in spite of the vote of the Westinghouse strikers last night to return to work next Monday. Strike pickets were all withdrawn and many workmen took advantage of their absence to enter the shops at once, but the majority determined to follow the program laid down by the mass meeting. The commissary maintained by the strikers will be kept open until after the first pay day.

Capt. Adams decided, after he had gone over the situation carefully, that the constabulary was no longer needed and gave orders for the men to break camp. They expected to march out this afternoon, going overland to Greenburg, their headquarters.

Almost Unanimous.

It was voted almost unanimously to return to the plants Monday and accept the offers of better working conditions made several weeks ago by the heads of the industries—the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, the Westinghouse Machine company and the Pittsburg Meter company. The vote affects 10,000 men and women. The workers will march to the plants in a body and will ask to be taken back. It is expected the request will be granted.

Ending as suddenly as it began, June 5, the strike was noted for the absence of disorder and lawlessness.

The end of the strike does not mean the end of the Allegheny Industrial union, the strikers' orgaization, it was declared by strike leaders. The union will take measures to care for those who may not be taken back.

No settlement agreement with the company heads was reached, the strikers voting to return to work and trust to the offers made by the Westinghouse officials for amelioration of the causes which led to the walkout.

Farmer, Children and Maid Die—Farmhand Escapes.

Brantford, Ont., July 10.—In a boating accident last night, Thomas Garnett, a wealthy farmer, his two children and a maid, lost their lives on the Grand river. The other occupant of the boat, a farm hand, swam to the river bank and gave the alarm, but the boat and its occupants had disappeared before aid arrived. The two children drowned were 10 and 8 years old.

The farmhand was unable to give any details of the accident except to say the boat overturned and threw them in the water.

CLAPP JOINS IN CRITICISM

Wilson Trust Program Is Scored By the Senator.

Townsend of Michigan Starts Ball of Oratory Rolling.

Washington, July 10.—President Wilson and his trust program were roundly criticized in the senate yesterday by Senator Townsend of Michigan. He attacked the general conditions in the senate surrounding the trust bills, and Senator Clapp declared that a "power outside the senate" was responsible for the senate being unable to attend to business.

Mr. Townsend said the people wanted the senate to quit and go home, "business is sick and all the psychological healers cannot cure it," he said, and especially will it not recover so long as it is subject to the shuttlecock of legislation.

"Much of the legislation already written into law and in the process of enactment is an impeachment of the intelligence and independence of congress, for it never would have been enacted if the national legislature had followed the dictates of its own judgment as to what was best and necessary for the good of the people."

Senator Clapp declared that trust legislation was in no way the outcome of the collective judgment and integrity of congress, but was "handed to this body, a cut and dried proposition, for approval."

"This theory that a single man," he said, "or two or three men at his elbow, can shape and give to congress a cut and dried proposition which they call a trust program, is foreign to our institutions.

"The fault lies not so much in the Democratic side of this chamber. The fault is in a faction which has imposed upon this body a prearranged, pre-announced program."

BILBO ACQUITTED OF BRIBE CHARGES

Mississippi Lieutenant Governor Declared Not Guilty.

Jackson, Miss., July 10.—A verdict of not guilty was returned late yesterday by the jury in the case of Theodore Bilbo, lieutenant governor of Mississippi, charged with soliciting and accepting a bribe. The jury had been out since late Wednesday night.

Bilbo and State Senator G. A. Hobbs were indicted jointly in connection with the proposed formation of a new county by the 1912 legislature. Steven Castleman testified that he agreed to pay $2,000 to Bilbo and Hobbs for supporting the new county bill, and that he had given Hobbs $200 of the money. Hobbs was tried some time ago and acquitted.

The trial of Bilbo was featured by the testimony of Ira Sample, a Chicago attorney, that he had been told by both Bilbo and Hobbs that for the payment of large sums he could obtain dismissal of suits brought by the state of Mississippi against the Edward Hines Lumber company, an Illinois corporation.

Bilbo is a candidate for governor of Mississippi.

STEEL PLANT SUBURBS

URGE PLAYGROUND AND SCHOOL PARK

Suburban Clubs Will Ask City to Provide Place for Play.

A playground and park, adjoining the proposed New Duluth-Gary school to be erected this fall about midway between the two suburbs, will be asked for. New Duluth and Gary residents will ask the city to purchase property required for this playground in order that this place may be used by the children attending the institution.

The new school will be ready for use about Jan. 1, according to members of the board. The plans for it will be submitted at the meeting of the board on Aug. 7, and the contract for its construction will be let as soon as possible after that date. A twelve-room building is being planned.

It is estimated that more than 400 children are at present living in the suburb and that before the opening of school this number will have greatly increased because of families constantly moving to the suburb.

The plea for the playground will be made on the grounds that at present there is no place for children to play except on private property. It is asserted that the city can purchase a half block, adjoining that recently purchased by the school board, for this purpose. The matter will be taken up by the New Duluth Commercial club and the Gary Improvement club.

SUBURB FAMILIES WILL CAMP OUT.

A number of West Duluth families are contemplating camping during the next two months in tents near the steel plant. Some of these camps will be pitched near Morgan park while others will be on the point near the Spirit Lake branch of the Duluth Boat club. Among those who will leave for camp next week are: Dr. and Mrs. O. S. Olson and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Murray. Dr. Olson is the surgeon in charge of the steel plant infirmary.

Bachelors to Dance.

The Bachelors' club of New Duluth will entertain tomorrow evening at another of its series of monthly dancing parties. It will be held at the Maccabee hall. The committee in charge consists of: Ed Coll, Harry Olson, John Graff and H. Brent. Special "bus" service has been arranged for the club's guests from West Duluth.

Expects Easy Game.

The New Duluth baseball team will play the Big Duluths Sunday afternoon at the New Duluth grounds. This will be the second game this season played between these two organizations. Frank Wachal, manager of the New Duluth team, said last evening that his team had been considerably strengthened and that he expected an easy victory.

SAW FIGHTING AT VERA CRUZ

Wireless Electrician From U. S. S. Louisiana Will Re-Enlist Here.

J. E. Reid, wireless electrician on the U. S. S. Louisiana during the recent attack at Vera Cruz, is in the city for a short visit with his sister, Mrs. W. H. Gardner, 519 East Fourth street. He is the first participant in the battle to come on a visit to Duluth.

Reid operated a wireless instrument during the active battle and he saw considerable fighting along the shore, although he himself was not in the thick of the shooting. He finished his first enlistment and was honorably discharged on May 25.

Following his visit here Reid plans to re-enlist at the local navy recruiting station and continue in his service for Uncle Sam. He expects to receive a wireless station in the Panama canal zone.

Blind Man Must Remain Here and Sell Pencils.

On the grounds that he was likely to become a public charge and be sent back to this city, John Struckett, 30, was refused a request for a ticket to Hibbing when he made application to A. P. Struckett is blind and it is probable that he will be provided with a license, which will permit him to make a house to house canvass in his business of selling pencils.

MUST MEND WAYS TOWARD CHILDREN

Aitkin County Farmer Is Warned Concerning Treatment of Daughters.

If John Walters of Bain, Aitkin county, again puts his two daughters, aged 12 and 10, respectively, to work in the fields and requires them to perform the drudgery of hired men, he will not be let off as easily as he was five weeks ago, according to R. D. McKercher, humane agent.

About five weeks ago, the children were brought to Duluth by Mr. McKercher after he had investigated a report that they had been forced by their father to work as laborers in the field. They were placed in the Children's home, where they were given the best of care and treatment. Their attending physician, Dr. A. G. Schulze, found them underfed and overworked. The children have improved remarkably since being brought here and are today returning to their home with their mother.

The humane agent has warned the father that he will be prosecuted if such treatment of his children continues.

THANKS BRAZIL FOR EFFORTS FOR PEACE

Message From Bryan Is Given Out at Rio Janeiro.

Rio Janeiro, Brazil, July 10.—Foreign Minister Lauro Muller has made public a message from Secretary Bryan expressing to the government of Brazil appreciation of the friendly service rendered by its representative, who aided in conducting with "gratifying success" the Mexican mediation conferences at Niagara Falls. The message said:

"The president of the United States desires me to express to the president of Brazil the deep appreciation of this government of the friendly services rendered by the government of Brazil to the government and people of the United States in offering its good offices to accommodate the differences which have, unhappily, arisen between the government of the United States and the de facto authorities of Mexico City; admiration for the ability, the patience and the gratifying success with which the distinguished representative of the government of Brazil in association with the other mediators conducted the conference at Niagara Falls; and its great satisfaction that so much has already been accomplished by the mediation in the interest of the peace of America."

Similar Messages.

Washington, July 10.—Messages similar to the one made public at Rio Janeiro were sent by Secretary Bryan to Argentina and Chile, whose diplomatic representatives here, Dr. Naon and Mr. Suarez, with Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil, have conducted the mediation proceedings.

DUFFERIN TERRACE, QUEBEC, IS BURNED.

Quebec, July 10.—Fire yesterday destroyed Dufferin terrace, Quebec's famous thoroughfare overlooking the St. Lawrence river. The flames were communicated by the wind to a row of cottages on the cliff above the terrace, doing considerable damage to the wooden structures at either end of the row, but leaving the ones between untouched. No estimate of the damage was announced.

MEAT PRICES WILL RISE, SAY PACKERS

Scarcity of Cattle and Dry Weather Are Alleged.

Chicago, July 10.—Meat prices will rise above the record figures of recent years, despite the huge grain crop, according to packing house reports, which assert that the present scarcity of cattle and the effect of dry weather on grazing lands will more than offset the enormous grain yield.

A price of 16 cents to the butcher was predicted as an early possibility, and it was pointed out by one of the packing house men that cattle are now higher than for some time. Scarcity of grass-fed cattle was referred to as a factor in the predicted advance.

CLAPP JOINS IN CRITICISM

Wilson Trust Program Is Scored By the Senator.

Townsend of Michigan Starts Ball of Oratory Rolling.

Washington, July 10.—President Wilson and his trust program were roundly criticized in the senate yesterday by Senator Townsend of Michigan. He attacked the general conditions in the senate surrounding the trust bills, and Senator Clapp declared that a "power outside the senate" was responsible for the senate being unable to attend to business.

Mr. Townsend said the people wanted the senate to quit and go home, "business is sick and all the psychological healers cannot cure it," he said, and especially will it not recover so long as it is subject to the shuttlecock of legislation.

"Much of the legislation already written into law and in the process of enactment is an impeachment of the intelligence and independence of congress, for it never would have been enacted if the national legislature had followed the dictates of its own judgment as to what was best and necessary for the good of the people."

Senator Clapp declared that trust legislation was in no way the outcome of the collective judgment and integrity of congress, but was "handed to this body, a cut and dried proposition, for approval."

"This theory that a single man," he said, "or two or three men at his elbow, can shape and give to congress a cut and dried proposition which they call a trust program, is foreign to our institutions.

"The fault lies not so much in the Democratic side of this chamber. The fault is in a faction which has imposed upon this body a prearranged, preannounced program."

BILBO ACQUITTED OF BRIBE CHARGES

Mississippi Lieutenant Governor Declared Not Guilty.

Jackson, Miss., July 10.—A verdict of not guilty was returned late yesterday by the jury in the case of Theodore Bilbo, lieutenant governor of Mississippi, charged with soliciting and accepting a bribe. The jury had been out since late Wednesday night.

Bilbo and State Senator G. A. Hobbs were indicted jointly in connection with the proposed formation of a new county by the 1912 legislature. Steven Castleman testified that he agreed to pay $2,000 to Bilbo and Hobbs for supporting the new county bill, and that he had given Hobbs $200 of the money. Hobbs was tried some time ago and acquitted.

The trial of Bilbo was featured by the testimony of Ira Sample, a Chicago attorney, that he had been told by both Bilbo and Hobbs that for the payment of large sums he could obtain dismissal of suits brought by the state of Mississippi against the Edward Hines Lumber company, an Illinois corporation.

Bilbo is a candidate for governor of Mississippi.

STEEL PLANT SUBURBS

URGE PLAYGROUND AND SCHOOL PARK

Suburban Clubs Will Ask City to Provide Place for Play.

A playground and park, adjoining the proposed New Duluth-Gary school to be erected this fall about midway between the two suburbs, will be asked for. New Duluth and Gary residents will ask the city to purchase property required for this playground in order that this place may be used by the children attending the institution.

The new school will be ready for use about Jan. 1, according to members of the board. The plans for it will be submitted at the meeting of the board on Aug. 7, and the contract for its construction will be let as soon as possible after that date. A twelve-room building is being planned.

It is estimated that more than 400 children are at present living in the suburb and that before the opening of school this number will have greatly increased because of families constantly moving to the suburb.

The plea for the playground will be made on the grounds that at present there is no place for children to play except on private property. It is asserted that the city can purchase a half block, adjoining that recently purchased by the school board, for this purpose. The matter will be taken up by the New Duluth Commercial club and the Gary Improvement club.

SUBURB FAMILIES WILL CAMP OUT.

A number of West Duluth families are contemplating camping during the next two months in tents near the steel plant. Some of these camps will be pitched near Morgan park while others will be on the point near the Spirit Lake branch of the Duluth Boat club. Among those who will leave for camp next week are: Dr. and Mrs. O. S. Olson and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Murray. Dr. Olson is the surgeon in charge of the steel plant infirmary.

Bachelors to Dance.

The Bachelors' club of New Duluth will entertain tomorrow evening at another of its series of monthly dancing parties. It will be held at the Maccabee hall. The committee in charge consists of: Ed Cioll, Harry Olson, John Graff and H. Brent. Special "bus" service has been arranged for the club's guests from West Duluth.

Expects Easy Game.

The New Duluth baseball team will play the Big Duluths Sunday afternoon at the New Duluth grounds. This will be the second game this season played between these two organizations. Frank Wachal, manager of the New Duluth team, said last evening that his team had been considerably strengthened and that he expected an easy victory.

CHINDA WATCHING IMMIGRATION BILLS.

Washington, July 10.—Conferences are in progress between Secretary Bryan and Viscount Chinda, the Japanese ambassador here, regarding proposed new immigration legislation on which Representative Raker of California is working, to meet objections that the Raker and other pending bills discriminate against the Japanese.

The Raker bill would exclude all Asiatic laborers and an effort is being made to meet the department of labor's suggestion that it be amended so as to exempt laborers whose immigration into the United States "is regulated by existing agreements as to passports."

Chairman Burnett is opposed to any exclusion legislation.

The Japanese embassy has been watching the proposed legislation jealously, and last February Ambassador Chinda lodged a sweeping protest with the state department against no less than nine separate bills which either directly or indirectly provided for the exclusion of the Japanese from entry into the United States.

Harper's Magazine: A bachelor of considerable wealth was much sought after by many of the most charming young women of the town.

Minnie Rivers, a very pretty maiden, was sure she had brought him almost to the point of prosopal.

"The happiest moment of my life," answered the bachelor, with a reminiscent smile, "was when the jeweler took back an engagement ring and gave me some cuff links in exchange."

WILL DEFY POLICE OF NEW YORK CITY

Organizations Will Parade in Metropolis Saturday.

New York, July 10.—Branches of the so-called revolutionary movement among anarchists, Industrial Workers of the World, anti-militarists, free speech advocates and others, held secret meetings yesterday to decide whether, in defiance of police orders, a memorial procession shall be held Saturday, prior to the proposed Union Square services at which the agitators plan to mourn for Arthur Caron, Charles Berg and Carl Hansen, three victims of last week's dynamite explosion in a Harlem tenement house.

At the close of the meetings it was announced by Alexander Berkam, an anarchist, that a majority of those who attended the meeting favored the proposed procession.

The marchers will wear red carnations and black sleeve bands with red stripes. Berkman said Emma Goldman, anarchist, had telegraphed him from the West saying she would be present.

LICENSE WILL NOT BE CANCELED

Safety Commissioner W. A. Hicken will recommend that Henry Casmir be allowed to run his saloon at 505 West Michigan until the expiration of his license next spring.

Casmir's bartender was recently convicted of having sold liquor to a minor, following which he was cited to appear before the council to show cause why his license should not be revoked. The hearing has been continued several times and when it comes up next Monday the safety commissioner will move that the resolution be tabled.

Commissioner Hicken states that clemency is being extended because of extenuating circumstances but he does not state what the extenuating circumstances are. After the license expires the building will be penalized for a year as required by the Hicken liquor code.

BACKS STAND OF WARBURG

President Approves His Refusal to Stand Examination.

Jones' Nomination to Reserve Board Opposed By Committee.

Washington, July 10.—President Wilson will make no nomination for Federal reserve board in place of Paul Warburg of New York until the senate takes definite action on his name. Mr. Wilson expects thus to place the responsibility on the senate for leaving the board incomplete.

That is the president's position in his fight with the senate over Mr. Warburg's nomination, as expressed today by officials in his confidence. That there was no chance of his changing his mind was stated definitely.

Mr. Warburg has finally decided that he will not appear personally before the banking committee to be cross-examined and the president is backing him in that stand. In answer to queries today whether Mr. Wilson was making efforts to get Mr. Warburg to appear before the committee, officials at the White House said that any such attempt would be useless.

The nomination of Thomas D. Jones, which the banking committee has voted to report adversely, is in a different position. A fight for his confirmation may be conducted, with a minority report. Senators Lee of Maryland, Pomerene, Hollis and Shafroth, all Democrats, voted for a favorable report, and Senators Reed and Hitchcock, Democrats, voted against one.

Cabled Vote for Jones.

It became known today that Chairman Owen of the banking committee, now in Europe, had cabled to have his vote cast in favor of Mr. Jones. That, however, would not have turned the ballot in his favor.

Opponents of Mr. Jones did not relax their opposition. It was said that Acting Chairman Hitchcock, who voted against Jones in the committee, will ask the senate, when he makes his adverse report, to make public Mr. Jones' testimony, which related to Mr. Jones' connection with the so-called Harvester and Zinc trusts. Senator Hitchcock's report probably will be made Monday.

No further action will be taken by the committee on the Warburg appointment unless the New York banker changes his mind and decides to accept the committee's invitation to appear before it and submit to questioning. The next move, according to members of the committee, must be from Mr. Warburg.

Senators' Dignity Hurt.

The committee's action on these two nominations was taken in the face of a determined effort on the part of President Wilson to secure an approval of them. It was pointed out that, in insisting on confirmation of Warburg, the president was running into the question of senate prerogatives, and might find many votes against him which would otherwise be on his side. The senate has grumbled for years about the division of its prerogatives by presidents, and in this case many senators feel they have found an issue on which they can stand together.

Senator Lewis of Illinois is conducting the fight for the confirmation of Jones. It was understood that he counts upon a majority of two to put the nomination through, but it is conceded by half a dozen senators there might be delay in confirmation for many weeks, if not defeated entirely. A real campaign to put the Jones nomination might cause the senate to abandon its work on anti-trust legislation, and keep it in executive session most of the time.

He was 5 years old when last he saw his father. His father, F. M. Swelgart, has lived here for some time, but the son did not know just where he was. The meeting was accidental.

PILOT BOAT SUNK IN NEW YORK HARBOR.

New York, July 10.—The steam pilot boat New Jersey, carrying a crew of seventeen and a complement of fifteen pilots, was rammed in the fog early today by a fruit steamer in the outer harbor and sunk. Three steamers stood by and took off the pilot boat's crew and the pilots before she went down.

The steamer which hit the pilot boat was the United Fruit liner Manchioneal, outward bound. She aided in the rescue work.

Red Lake Drainage.

Bemidji, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Drainage of land on the Red Lake Indian reservation will cost $369,680, or an average of $1.66 for each of the 236 acres affected, according to a report on the drainage survey of the diminished Red Lake reservation, made to the house of representatives. Such an improvement will be made by carrying water to Red Lake, but such an action would not endanger the surrounding land from overflow, according to the report of the commission making the investigation.

If there is one person who is still holding off from a start on Quaker Herb Extract just because they think it will not benefit their case, that person should not procrastinate, for the health teacher will not remain here permanently. He is already being besieged with offers and invitations from many towns in this and other states, and may not be here many more weeks. Then, when it is too late, you will regret your negligence in not having talked to him when you had an opportunity. If you have stomach, liver or kidney troubles, catarrh, rheumatism or any kind of worms, just find out what kind of work "Quaker" is doing by writing to Edward E. SUICIDE OVER LOVE AFFAIR

Sailor Freed Dies From a Dose of Cyanide of Potassium.

Body Is Not Discovered Until Twenty-Four Hours Later.

Despondent because he believed a disease he had contracted and which was the cause of the breaking up of a recent love affair, was incurable, Harrison J. Freed, 25 years old, committed suicide early last Wednesday evening in his room at 528 West Second street, by taking a dose of cyanide of potassium. The body was not discovered until 8 o'clock last evening.

Freed had worked on the freight steamer Booth up to June 30, a card among his belongings showing that he received an honorable discharge on that day. He obtained a room from Mrs. Minnie Hargraves and had lived there up to the time he took his own life.

Mrs. Hargraves went to Freed's room at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and receiving no response to her knocks, decided that Freed must be ill. She knocked again at noon and a last time at 5 o'clock in the evening. At 8 o'clock her son, Herbert, 19 years old, went into the room and discovered the body of Freed lying on his bed. Young Hargraves notified Patrolman Montgomery and the officer, in turn, told Coroner McComb, who ordered the body removed to the Crawford undertaking rooms.

Poison Is Found.

It was thought at first that Freed had died of heart disease, but an examination of the room at the boarding house disclosed a large quantity of potassium cyanide underneath a dresser. Deputy Coroner McAuliffe was then notified by Coroner McComb to hold an autopsy and the examination this morning revealed that Freed had died from a dose of poison taken early Wednesday evening. He had lain in his bed for twenty-four hours before found, Deputy McAuliffe believes. Dr. McAuliffe was assisted at the autopsy by Dr. C. E. Prudden.

An examination of the young man's effects this morning disclosed a number of letters addressed to him from a young girl in Cincinnati and several, which had been sent to a young woman in Duluth, but which were returned to him, unopened.

It is believed that when Freed received these unopened letters, he decided to resign his position on the steamer Booth and hunt for the girl, who was living in Duluth last April, and that when he failed to locate her, he decided to take his life. His last letters to the girl show that he was despondent and worried about his illness.

One of the letters found in Freed's suitcase is from a brother, Vincent, at Lederach, Pa., and William Crawford, undertaker, this morning wired there in hope of finding the young man's parents or relatives. From other letters found, it is believed, that Freed came from Norristown, Pa. These include a number of letters of recommendation from business men in Norristown.

Freed sailed on the lakes all spring and up to June 30, having obtained a position in Buffalo. He used the name of Charles Anderson in obtaining the position on the freighter, as his discharge card shows. He was an Odd Fellow and the local lodge will have charge of the funeral arrangements.

The proposed new bridge is to form part of the Minnesota state highway between Duluth and the Twin Cities.

Budapest Wine Dealer Finds Discrimination Improved Here; Europe Doesn't Understand Prohibition.

According to C. Gustav Gero of Budapest, Hungary, who is in the city today, the people of the United States are each year becoming more careful of what they drink in the way of intoxicants. Mr. Gero is a big wine dealer of Hungary.

"In our country we take a very different view of the prohibition question than the people of the United States," said Mr. Gero today. "For instance when I returned from my first trip from the United States and told some of my friends that there were cities in the United States where it was impossible to obtain a drink, they laughed at me. Then they accused me of learning to be a huge liar while traveling among you Americans.

"In our country we take a more liberal view of the liquor question. We can't understand for the life of us a restaurant without the attendant wine. Prohibition does not enter as one of the national questions of my native land, nor does it in the other countries of Europe."

"One thing, however, is certain, and that is that the people of the United States generally are in a sense becoming more careful of what they drink. Really, when it comes to the real analysis of the liquor question, it seems to me that it is because of the fact that the people of Europe are more concerned regarding their health and the liquor they drink, that the matter of prohibition has not become one of the national questions."

CLOQUET BONIFACE FRACTURES LEG.

Cloquet, Minn., July 10.—L. S. Patterson, proprietor of the St. Louis hotel, fell from a second story balcony at the hotel Tuesday evening and was badly injured. Some flags had been nailed to the lower part of the balcony for the Fourth and Tuesday morning Mr. Patterson in taking them down lost his balance and plunged down head foremost. The floor of the balcony projects out a few inches and as he fell he grabbed this, causing his body to swing downward, but he could not hold and he fell about twelve or fourteen feet, striking on the cement sidewalk. His left leg was broken near the hip and he was badly lacerated about the hands and sustained numerous bruises. The fracture is a bad one.

SWIMMING POOL PROVING POPULAR

The management of Desmond park has made a hit by offering tickets to the swimming pool for the remainder of the season at the nominal price of $1 each. The boys are forming clubs, and the "old swimmin' hole" at Fifteenth street and Minnesota avenue will be well patronized for the remainder of the summer.

There's no real profit to the park at this price, it is claimed, and the proceeds will be used to improve the swimming pool. But the swimming pool is there for use and the Desmond park management proposes to have it filled daily with swimmers and bathers.

Desmond park in reality is a big out-of-doors gymnasium. The dressing rooms, clubrooms and playgrounds have no rivals in the city. Skilled instructors look after the safety of the boys and teach them the art of swimming. Special care is taken to have the moral influences good.

The weather man appears to have chained up the hoodoo on the weather and ideal swimming temperature seems likely during the rest of the season.

HAS TUBERCULOSIS.

Self-Confessed Murderer's Condition May Defer Houghton Trial.

Houghton, Mich., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because John Huhta, self-confessed murderer, is believed to be suffering from tuberculosis, it is improbable that the trial of Huhta, Nick Verbanac, Jalmer Hallonen and Joseph Juutinen on the charge of murdering Henry and Arthur Jane and Thomas Dally at Painesdale during the strike trouble last December will come up during the September term of the Houghton county circuit court. Huhta, by order of Judge P. H. O'Brien, has been given partial liberty about the Houghton jail, because of his physical condition. His long confinement has told on him because of his excesses during his brief but meteoric career as a financial officer of the South Range union of the Western Federation of Miners, where he spent money lavishly.

MURDERER IS FREED FOR SAVING A LIFE

Missouri Governor Pardons William Schulte for His Heroism.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 10.—William Schulte, serving a ten-year term in the state penitentiary for murder, was pardoned by Governor Major today as a reward for his heroism in saving the life of a baby last spring.

Schulte was working on the prison farm when he saw the house of Eugene Johnson burning. He ran to the house, and fighting his way through the flames, rescued a baby and brought out the mother. The mother was so badly burned that she died. Schulte was badly burned.

He was sentenced from St. Louis in 1910.

"PIPE ARTIST" LOSES PLACE AT THE FRONT

Secretary Garrison Enforces Rule as to Correspondents.

Washington, July 10.—Secretary Garrison has enforced for the first time the new army regulations governing war correspondents in the case of Fred Boalt, an American writer with Funston's brigade at Vera Cruz. He was charged with sending out sensational and untrue dispatches. Secretary Garrison has revoked his credentials as a correspondent with the field army, and ordered his deportation to the United States.

As the dispatches in question also involved the navy, Secretary Garrison has stayed the execution of his order while Secretary Daniels has opportunity for investigation.

REEKE GIVES BOND IN PLUMBERS' CASE.

Green Bay, Wis., July 10.—George F. Reeke, who as president of Wisconsin Master Plumbers' association was indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of violating the Sherman act, voluntarily appeared before United States Court Commissioner Strehlow in this city, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and furnished bond of $2,000 to insure his appearance before United States court at Des Moines.

DR. WINTERS AND OTHERS GO FREE

Lack of Evidence to Convict of Conspiracy Is Admitted.

Newcastle, Ind., July 10.—The case against Dr. W. A. Winters and his wife, Mrs. Byrd Winters, who were charged with conspiracy in connection with the disappearance of the doctor's 9-year-old daughter, Catherine, was dismissed in the circuit court here today by the prosecuting attorney, on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence against the defendants. William R. Cooper, also charged with the conspiracy, also was set free.

Affidavits were filed against the three defendants May 30, 1914, by Robert A. Abel, an Indianapolis detective. Catherine Winters disappeared March 20, 1913.

BUILDING TRADES STRIKE IS CALLED

Pittsburg Labor Trouble May Spread to Other Cities.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—John P. Jackson, commissioner of the state department of labor and industry, today endeavored to bring peace to warring factions in the building trades. Eight hundred men employed on the construction of a department store building struck yesterday, and a strike of carpenters on other structures was threatened because of differences between local unions of the Hoisting Engineers and Bricklayers. The Building Trades council and the Builders' exchange also were involved. There were fears that unless the dispute was settled promptly it might extend to other cities.

REAL ESTATE MEN DANCE FOR TROPHY.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—City planning, municipal ordinances, taxation, farm education, sub-division development and real estate salesmanship were among the subjects to be discussed today by the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges. Fred G. Smith of Minneapolis was among the speakers.

Entertainment of delegates was to conclude with a dance at which silver cups, donated by Samuel S. Thorpe of Minneapolis, were to be awarded the most graceful dancers.

RELIEVED OF HIS DUTIES

A. M. Chisholm Files Final Account in the Sellwood Case.

Inventory Shows Property Believed to Be Worth Nearly $4,000,000.

The affairs of the estate of the late Capt. Joseph Sellwood, Duluth millionaire banker and mining man, whose death occurred in this city on Feb. 24 last, are no longer in the hands of A. M. Chisholm, special administrator, who was appointed by the probate court on April 9, when two contests were brought against the Sellwood will by Mrs. Martha Sellwood, widow, and Mrs. Ophelia Leithhead, daughter. Since both contests have been amicably settled out of court, the special administrator has been busy getting the affairs of the estate in shape to turn over to the executors named in the will.

In probate court yesterday afternoon, Mr. Chisholm filed an inventory of the estate and his final account as special administrator. Both were allowed by the court and as soon as proper receipts are executed by his successors in charge of the estate, Richard M. Sellwood, Mrs. La Rue S. Mershon and Ronald J. McLeod, who were named in the will as executors, an order will be made by the probate court formally discharging Mr. Chisholm as special administrator. He has petitioned the court for an order releasing him from further responsibility and for an order fixing the amount of compensation to be paid him and his attorney, John G. Williams, for their services.

The inventory of the estate as filed by the special administrator yesterday afternoon throws but little light on the question of what the real value of the estate is. Various stocks are listed, for instance, but only their par values are given. It is believed, however, that when everything is taken into account, the inventory will show up property worth close to the $4,000,000 mark.

Since the special administrator has been in charge of the estate, he states in his petition for the allowance of his final account, he has collected sums of money aggregating $279,991.05 and that he has necessarily paid out and expended in administering and caring for the estate, the sum of $8,845.70. An itemized statement of the money collected by the special administrator shows among other things, the following collections:

From R. M. Sellwood, trustee, check, April 13, 1914.....$81,196.78
From City National bank, April 1, 1914..... 62,334.20
From Pearson Mining company, note and interest..... 30,620.00
From village of Buhl, bonds and interest 10,300.00

Expenses to Date.

The expenditures by the special administrator were for payments of stocks which fell due at that time and for taxes and other accounts. The report also shows that Matteson & McGregor, expert accountants of this city, were paid $1,500 for their services in accounting in connection with the preparation of the inventory of the estate and in other particulars.

The inventory of the estate is a long one and consists principally of mining and other stocks and bills receivable in additions to bonds, notes, mortgages and personal effects. The real estate in this county belonging to the state is listed but no valuations are placed. The real estate consists of nine lots or fractional lots in Endion division of Duluth, three fractional lots in Portland division, twelve lots in Glen Avon, Fourth division, four lots in Upper Duluth, and nine lots in Lower Duluth division.

In addition to the stocks, mortgages, bonds, etc., which are listed, are the furniture and household goods, the Sellwood home, also the wearing apparel and ornaments, together with two automobiles, two carriages, one sleigh and two horses.

List of Notes.

CLOQUET SHOCKED.

Eli Vallancourt's Killing His Wife Causes Big Surprise.

Cloquet, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The story in Wednesday's Duluth Herald of Eli Vallancourt murdering his wife by cutting her throat at Crosby created no little excitement here, as they formerly lived here.

An inquest was held over the body of Mrs. Vallancourt yesterday, the coroner rendering a verdict of murder. The body was brought here yesterday evening on the 6:30 train and buried in the local cemetery.

This family was among the oldest residents of Cloquet and well known here. Vallancourt has lived here for about thirty years and it was here he married his wife, Miss Virginia Dube, more than twenty years ago. They have seven children, Rose, Daisy, Eliza, Sophia, Mabel, Philip and Paul. Mrs. Vallancourt was 37 years of age.

The husband was an industrious man, but often drank to excess and family rows were frequent.

NEW COMPACT WITH BRITAIN

Ambassador Page Makes Known Plan at London Meeting.

Provides for Commission to Pass on All Disputes.

London, July 10.—The American ambassador, Walter H. Page, speaking at the peace centenary meeting in the Metropolitan circle last night, made reference to a new treaty between the United Stafes and Great Britain.

After referring to the cordial relations prevailing between the United States and Great Britain, and complimenting Viscount Bryce on the part he played in clearing up all differences between the two countries, the ambassador said it was the policy of the American people to have an alliance with none; where there was perfect friendship, alliances were not needed.

The old arbitration treaty between the countries, however, had been renewed for another period, and he was free to announce that a new treaty was being concluded whereby a commission was to be set up, to which either government could refer any questions arising between them. Both governments, he added, promised not to begin hostilities until this commission had investigated and submitted its report. The treaty, the ambassador declare, was virtually completed.

The announcement evoked great outbursts of cheering.

On Latest Model.

Washington, July 10.—That new peace treaties with Great Britain and France soon would be signed by the United States recently was announced by Secretary of State Bryan. The pacts are modeled after those recently signed by the secretary with representatives of sixteen other nations.

West End

RAINS CAUSE BIG EXPENSE

Fill Over Miller's Creek Badly Damaged From Washout.

Heavy rains this spring and failure of the city and county to provide drains to carry off the water from roads leading to the fill over Miller's creek on Fourteenth street will cost the taxpayers considerable money, according to residents on the hillside. It is claimed that a large amount of the dirt used for filling over the culvert has been washed away, and unless some action is taken by the authorities soon, that the place will be useless for a crossing.

The fill was made three years ago, following the construction of a culvert over the creek. The roadway thus provided connects the east and west end of the Boulevard, Piedmont and Twenty-fourth avenues with the Hermantown and Hutchinson roads.

It is claimed that if the roadway is allowed to go without attention, within a short time it will be useless as a highway and will become dangerous for traffic. Several narrow escapes from going over the embankment are said to have occurred.

It is proposed to bring the matter before the West End Hillside Improvement club at its meeting this evening, at which a formal request to the city and county officials will be made to have the place refilled with dirt.

The washout of this fill is said to have occurred because of failure on the part of the county and city officials to provide drains for carrying off the water from the four roads leading to it. All four of the roads slope down toward the fill, and during the heavy rains torrents of water run over the place. The fill has been considerably weakened because of this, it is said.

WANT SANITARY COMFORT STATION

West End Citizens Say Lincoln Park Is Without Conveniences.

People of the West end propose to ask the city to build a sanitary comfort station for Lincoln park. Several members of different societies which recently have used the park for picnic purposes have spoken disgustedly of the present small building used and say that the place is not only exceedingly filthy but insanitary.

The place is also said to be too small for the purpose. It is proposed to ask that the new place be built along sanitary lines and provided with sewer connections.

"There are thousands of people who enjoy outings in the park and the city should provide some sanitary comfort station for them," said a leading official of one of the larger Swedish lodges this morning. "It is a shame that people have to use the small shack now located in the park. This place has no sewer connections and the odors arising from the place are sickening."

Communications from several of the lodges will be sent to the city commissioners asking for this improvement in the immediate future.

WILL UNVEIL PAINTING.

Special Program Arranged for Trinity Lutheran Church.

Services for the unveiling of a handsome altar painting will be held this evening at the Trinity English Lutheran church, Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street. The painting is a reproduction of the Bible story of Christ's rescue of Peter on the Sea of Galilee. The painting is by Rudolph Ronge.

Rev. F. O. Hanson, pastor of the church, will be assisted in the services by Rev. W. T. Bacher of the St. John's English Lutheran church; Rev. John A. Krantz, pastor of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church, and other Lutheran pastors of the city. A program of music has also been arranged.

Bible Class Picnic.

The Adult Bible class of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, will hold its annual outing and picnic Sunday at Fond du Lac. The members of the class will meet at the church at 8:30 o'clock and take the steamer from the Twenty-first avenue dock at 9 o'clock. A program of games and other features is being planned for the day.

Nicholson-Sahlin.

Miss Olga Nicholson and John Arthur Sahlin were married at 8 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's father, Charles H. Nicholson, 632 North Twenty-third avenue west. Rev. F. O. Hanson, pastor of the Trinity English Lutheran church, read the service. Mr. and Mrs. Sahlin will make their home with the bride's father.

West End Briefs.

Members of St. Peter's Episcopal church enjoyed a picnic yesterday afternoon and evening at Lincoln park. The affair was held under the auspices of the St. Luke's guild. Members of the guild served supper at the park.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Harmann, 113 North Twenty-eighth avenue west, have returned from a short visit to relatives at Aitkin, Minn.

Albert T. Balke of Minneapolis is spending a few days visiting relatives in this end of the city.

Miss Inga Erickson of Dassel is a guest this week of West end relatives.

Herbert T. Baker of La Crosse, Wis., is spending a few days visiting former acquaintances in this end of the city.

Woods Are Full of Poison Ivy

First Get Your Blood Right—Then You're Safe

All country people, and city folks before taking to the woods should fortify their blood with S. S. S.

This famous blood purifier not only drives all poisons out of the system but puts the blood in a condition to resist the effects of poison ivy and other terrors that constantly beset us. You never can tell what a slight abrasion of the skin may lead to. A small scratch by barb wire or thorn will often open the way to serious trouble. Then there is the danger of impure water, of clogged bowels, of mineral poisons already in the system, of public towels and numerous other traps to set the blood on fire. Let S. S. S. purify your blood and if poisons have invaded the system begin S. S. S. at once and drive them out.

Get a bottle today of any druggist but don't accept anything claimed to be "just as good."

Beware of substitution. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 107 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for an illustrated book "What the Mirror Tells." It fully explains about skin diseases and is finely illustrated.

MINOR CROPS ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

Government Reports Them Above Composite Ten-Year Average.

Washington, July 10.—Crops of the United States on July 1 were in about 1.4 per cent better condition than their composite ten-year average on that date.

"Last year," says a department of agriculture bulletin, "the July 1 condition of all crops was 1.7 per cent below the ten-year average, but prospects declined as the season advanced, the November or final reports last year being 6.7 per cent below the ten-year average. Consequently present conditions are about 8.7 per cent better than the out-turn of crops last year."

DELAY FOR MRS. GRAN.

Attorneys Given Until Aug. 10 to Perfect Appeal.

Attorneys for Mrs. Olga Gran, who was divorced from her husband about four months ago on the grounds of adultery, will have more time in which to perfect an appeal to the supreme court. Judge Cant of the district court yesterday afternoon signed an order extending the time until Aug. 10. The motion for a second stay of proceedings was presented on affidavits showing that the reporter who took the testimony has not yet completed the transcript.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

SIXTY cities in Pennsylvania are combining to form an association to advance their rights against the electric light companies. It is proposed that the associated cities in an association can exchange data, and employ experts and legal service in a manner to insure the ablest presentation of every case which may be brought before the public service commission. The light companies are organized in an association called "The National Electric Light Association" for the defense of every one of its 15,000 members. The plan is to establish fair rates for both public and private electric lights.

Minnesota has a state municipal league, organized last year, but it has as yet taken no part in any campaign such as that proposed in Pennsylvania. Duluth is now engaged in a single-handed contest to acquire the plant of the Duluth-Edison Electric company. The physical valuation has been completed and shows the actual value of the plant to be $907,940.54 and the cost to reproduce to be $1,215,703.69. The report of the "going value" or "good will" worth of the business will be given in a second report which is expected shortly from W. B. Rittenhouse, who had charge of the appraisal, and C. L. Pillsbury, consulting expert. If the city cannot reach an agreement with the company it is proposed to start condemnation proceedings to secure the property.

DECIDE ON $8.50 AS MINIMUM WAGE FOR GIRL WORKERS

Scale Is Hotly Debated for Two Hours By Commission.

Discussion Is Spirited But Characterized By Spirit of Fairness.

Compromise Effected Between the $8 and $9 Advocates.

After a spirited debate for more than two hours this forenoon between the members of the local subcommittee of the minimum wage commission, a peaceful compromise was effected, fixing the recommended minimum wage for experienced girl workers in mercantile establishments and factories at $8.50 a week. Learners will receive $5 and apprentices $6 a week in mercantile establishments. This scale was adopted by a vote of 16 to 2.

Despite the long argument both sides were well pleased with the results and the spirit of fairness prevailed throughout the meeting. Many of the merchants said they would like to make the wage scale higher, and conceded that this might be done later, if the conditions under the new system warranted a raise. Social workers at the meeting, headed by W. E. McEwen, fought for a $9 a week minimum wage for regular workers and maintained that as the lowest possible cost of living for a girl as reported by the commission was $8.60 a week, no lower wage was reasonable.

Owing to the fact that there is an investigation of conditions in the factories in the Twin Cities now on, it was decided to defer action on wages for learners and apprentices in factories until after a report was obtained from there.

Two Hours of Debate.

The final vote, however, was not taken until after more than two hours of debate. At the opening of the meeting a merchant made a motion to fix the minimum wage for regular workers at $8 a week. An amendment was then made to fix the wage at $9, and still another amendment was made to fix it at $8.50. A vote on the second amendment proved a tie, and the commission then decided to take an informal ballot, each member stating the price he desired as the minimum wage. On this ballot, eight stood for $8; four for $9; and six for $8.50. The second ballot stood two for $9; nine for $8.50; seven for $8. The third ballot was a victory for the compromise advocates, being 16 to 2 for the $8.50 wage.

The wage for learners and apprentices was fixed at $5 for the former and $6 for the latter on the first ballot, the vote being 16 to 2.

The hottest argument of the session took place during an earnest speech of more than an hour by William E. McEwen, who stood uncompromisingly for a $9 minimum He argued that even $9 was not a sufficient minimum wage but that he would accept that as the lowest figure because it was slightly above the actual cost of a girl's living, which was fixed by the committee at $8.60. He said that there was more than the bare necessities of life to be considered—that a girl's health was impaired by constant work during the tender period of her life and that not only her health but that of the future generations might be impaired. The matter of sickness, disability and many other elements should be taken into consideration in deciding upon what a girl's expenses were.

The question as to what should become of inefficient workers, who could not earn a minimum scale of wages was discussed at length. The chief argument of the advocates of the $8 wage was that many girls who cannot earn $8 a week need work and should be kept at a smaller wage.

Miss Margaret Culkin answered this argument by saying that many workers earn more than their stipulated salaries and also that a higher wage would improve the efficiency of others.

Apprentice Defined.

The report of the apprenticeship committee defining a learner and apprentice and also conditions of work for persons in these classes was made. The report in part follows:

"W. E. McEwen, chairman of the apprenticeship committee, state minimum wage advisory board:

"Your special committee, appointed to determine the difference between learners and apprentices beg to report as follows:

"In our opinion the necessity of this classification is essential and after giving the whole subject consideration we have come to the following conclusions:

"First. That learners should embody all boys and girls who at the time of employment are under 18 years of age and who are inexperienced but who can be employed to serve as messengers, bundle wrappers, cashiers in merchandise departments and other work of this character, but having nothing to do with selling merchandise.

"Second. The apprentices should be any boy or girl over 18 years of age who are inexperienced but who desire to become proficient in any line of activity in the store.

"Third. The maximum time for each classification should be one year, provided the services of the worker have proven satisfactory during the period.

"Fourth. All regular employers of female labor or minors should be required to give a certificate of apprenticeship for time served to all apprentices.

In General.

"We want it clearly understood that because there is a maximum period for the learner and for the apprentice, it does not signify that in all cases any employe should remain for the maximum period in each classification. In other words, the boy or girl may be employed as a learner and in three months demonstrate his or her ability to such an extent that he or she would be entitled to become an apprentice, and after becoming an apprentice, in a like manner may demonstrate such ability as to be entitled to the minimum wage.

"Further, because a girl or boy is under 18, it does not, in the opinion of your committee, signify that he or she should necessarily be employed as a learner. The ability may be such as to entitle the applicant to be classed as an apprentice or even merit the minimum wage or better.

"Relative to an apprentice, in our opinion, any boy or girl who has served an apprenticeship in any department is entitled to the minimum wage, no matter to what department the worker may be transferred. This is the only fair way of looking at an apprenticeship period in any store having more than one department, and it should be so considered that a worker with one year's experience in any department should have become so well grounded in the principles of store work, salesmanship, stock keeping, etc., that in being transferred to any other department the only thing to be learned will be the stock of the department to which the worker goes, and this should be a matter of detail only. In our opinion not more than $3 1-3 per cent of the sales force should be apprentices except that during the month of December a larger number may be employed.

"We believe that a proper and just ratio should be inaugurated between the learner, the apprentice and the one entitled to the minimum wage. To arrive at a fair and just figure for each classification will mean mutual benefit to the employe and employer.

"The above recommendations are respectfully submitted by your committee. Yours very truly,

"MRS. T. J. DAVIS,
"MISS PARSONS,
"BENTLEY P. NEFF, Committee."

Moheno Says There Is Plot to Disrupt Mexico.

"Can Prove" Roosevelt Is in It, and Suspects Wilson.

Vera Cruz, July 10.—Querido Moheno, former Mexican minister of commerce and labor, before departing today on board the Espagne for Cuba and the United States, virulently criticized the policy of the United States towards Mexico. As he sat in the forward salon of the French liner, Mr. Moheno looked through a porthole toward the American flag flying in Vera Cruz and shook his fist in rage.

He insisted that he was in a position to produce proofs that there existed a "secret platform" of the Progressive party in the United States, of which Col. Theodore Roosevelt was cognizant and in which he concurred, looking to the disruption of Mexico and the acquisition ultimately by the United States of all the territory between the Rio Grande and Panama.

Can Show Documents.

He said that Francisco Escudero, who was minister of foreign relations in Venustiano Carranza's cabinet, has letters which to him are conclusive evidence of his allegations, and declared he hoped to be able to produce these letters at the proper time.

"And not only were the leaders of the Progressive party pledged to this policy," he said, "but politicians of both the Republican and Democratic parties, had promised their secret support. That President Wilson himself had subscribed to this iniquitous conspiracy is evidenced by his attitude toward Mexico. Not a single American in all the hundred million population of the United States can give a satisfactory answer as to why those troops are there on shore in Vera Cruz."

AUTHORIZE CARSON TO CALL TO ARMS

Ulster Men Are Declared to Be Ready for Crisis.

Belfast, July 10.—The "provisional government" formed by the Ulster Unionists, at its first meeting today, gave Sir Edward Carson a free hand to take whatever action he may think necessary in calling the Ulster volunteers to arms. The men were declared ready for mobilization at a moment's notice.

Sir Edward Carson, in a speech, declared that the time had come for the loyalists of Ulster to translate their words into action. He said something must be done to compel the British government to make up its mind. Ulster, he concluded, was anxious for peace, but was not going to accept peace with surrender.

Called From Egypt.

London, July 10.—A special dispatch from Cairo, Egypt, says the Anglo-Egyptian members of the Ulster volunteers have received cablegrams calling them back to Ulster.

CLAIMS USURY IN MORTGAGE DEAL

Homesteader Wants the Title to His Property Cleared.

Judge Dancer of the district court has taken under advisement his decision in a case which was brought to trial before him without a jury yesterday in which Victor Rantala is seeking to have a foreclosure of a mortgage on his homestead set aside and another mortgage on the property canceled on the grounds of usury.

Rantala claims that Mrs. F. A. Haish, of whom he borrowed $300 on Oct. 2, 1911, practiced usury and that the transaction, therefore, is void. He testified that when the loan was negotiated, he executed two mortgages, one for $300 and one for $30 on his homestead in section 22, 50-20. In addition to this, he said, he was obliged to pay Mrs. Haish a cash bonus of $19.50.

The $30 mortgage drawing 10 per cent interest was foreclosed some time ago and the homestead sold. The $300 mortgage bearing 7 per cent interest is now held by J. B. More, who alleges that he was an innocent purchaser. More and A. D. Haish, husband of Mrs. F. A. Haish, are joined as defendants in the action.

Rantala contends that the execution of the additional $30 mortgage and the payment of a cash bonus of $19.50 constituted usury.

ICELESS REFRIGERATOR.

Washington Star: An iceless refrigerator is made of a drygoods box three feet long, twenty inches wide and fifteen inches deep. The boards should be removed from the sides and bottom and replaced by strips arranged four or five inches apart. Now set the box on end and fit in two strips nailed to the sides of the box, so that they may be removed easily to clean and air them. Now make a slat door for the box and secure it by hinges and a hasp.

Cover the door and all sides of the box with burlap, neatly tacked on. Now set the box on four bricks in the shade by the back door and directly in front of the open cellar window. On top of the closed box place a flat three-quart can containing two strips of flannel six inches wide and long enough to lay across the pan and extend several inches down over the burlap on all four sides. When the pan is filled with cold water the wicks take it up, and it drops down over the burlap and the breeze through the cellar window keeps it cool. As long as you keep the pan filled with water the butter, milk and other food inside the box keep almost as cool as they would in a refrigerator indoors with ice in it.

A penny's worth of paint will save a dollar's worth of damage.

DEMOCRATS NOT TO BLAME

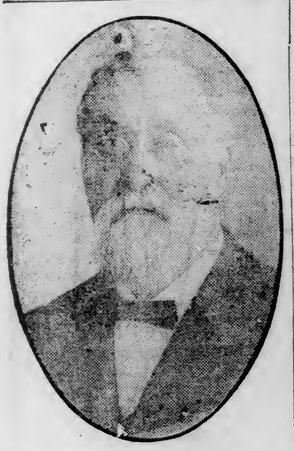

Depression Same in Canada as on Coast, Says Robert Lauden.

Former Duluthian Says Prohibition Makes Gains in the West.

The Wilson administration should not in any way be blamed for the temporary lull in business which is more or less noticeable, according to Robert Lauden of Portland, Or., former Duluth resident, who arrived in the city recently to pass a part of the summer at the home of his son-in-law, D. R. Black, 1817 East First street.

Blame the Democrats.

"The Democrats," said Mr. Lauden yesterday, "are being blamed by some for the fact that things are quiet out in Oregon. It is true that the timber business is a little quiet. More lumber has been shipped this year than for the same period last season, but prices are not what they ought to be. But take Canada, for instance, and you will find the same conditions prevailing there. I don't suppose that the Democrats can be blamed for that."

Mr. Lauden left Duluth thirteen years ago to reside in Portland. During his eighteen years' residence in Duluth, he was engaged most of the time in the timber business and also was quite actively engaged in local politics during the administration of Mayor Sutphin. Mr. Lauden served as alderman from the Fourth ward. Since his departure from Duluth thirteen years ago he has returned to visit the city on only one occasion, that being seven years ago.

Portland Climate Good.

Although Portland has its wet season, Mr. Lauden declares that it is a great climate. Since his last visit here, he said, a number of changes and improvements have been made.

The lumber industry, said Mr. Lauden, is the greatest of all industries in Oregon. Large shipments of forest products, he stated, are made in the Pacific trade and it is not uncommon to see an ocean steamer carrying out a cargo of 5,000,000 feet of lumber.

Mr. Lauden declared that the temperance movement was making great strides in the West and that this fall the "wet" and "dry" question would be an issue in four states, Oregon, Washington, California and Idaho.

Idaho May Go "Dry."

"I would not be surprised to see Idaho go 'dry,'" he said, "and it would not be at all unlikely if the same were true of Oregon. The 'wets,' I believe, will carry Washington and California. In California the grape growers have to be taken into consideration and in Washington and Oregon, the growing of hops has developed into quite an industry which will mean considerable opposition to the prohibition movement."

Discussing the political stuation in Oregon, Mr. Lauden declared that although Oregon was a Republican state, it had two Democratic senators in congress and has had a Democratic governor for the past twelve years.

ROB TRAIN; KIDNAP MAN

and told the fireman to run back and uncouple the train between the last express car and the first passenger car.

The fireman did as he was told, and the bandits forced the engineer to run the engine and express cars to a point near Klondyke, on the river bank. They entered the American Express car and forced the messenger, J. G. Nicholson, to stand with his face to the wall while they blew open the safe.

While this work was going on, a track walker, said to be William Christopher, appeared. The robbers took him prisoner.

The bandits made no effort to molest the passengers, whom they warned to keep their heads inside the windows.

Only Robbed Safe.

The express messenger refused to discuss the robbery, saying that the rules of the company enforced silence on him. So far as known nothing was taken except the contents of the express safe. Conductor Mudd said he saw several pieces of jewelry on the floor of the express car after the robbery.

The bandits are believed to have crossed the Missouri river near the scene of the robbery and to have started south.

Nahum T. Brown, general agent here for the American Express company, said there was no shipment of money in the express safe but that there were a few packages of jewelry, the value of which he would not estimate.

Fifty Pounds of Silver.

The first news of the robbery was given by the flagman of the "flyer." Despite warnings of the robbers, he got off the rear passenger coach and ran back to Matson, where he notified the station agent that the train had been held up.

Emil Ahmann, a constable at Augusta, Mo., west of Matson, was one of the first officers to arrive on the scene of the robbery. He said he was told by the train crew that the bandits carried off a sack of silver weighing fifty pounds and a pouch of railroad mail.

SEES ENMITY TO SCHOOLS

Secretary Springer's term did not expire this year.

Religious Education.

Henry F. Cope of Chicago, speaking before the Religious Education association, of which he is general secretary, said the "present agitation for the teaching of religion in the public schools is based on three misapprehensions," as follows:

"First, that the state may properly teach religion; second, that religion can be taught as mathematics and many other subjects can, and third, that teaching religion would solve all these problems of youthful delinquency and the general public apathy to ecclesiastic affairs.

"No one seriously questions the right of the child to his religious heritage, or doubts but that for the sake of our civilization every child ought to catch those spiritual ideals which have moved the race forward," continued Mr. Cope. "The knowledge of religion and the emotional reaction to it are youth's right and the world's need.

Public Recognition.

"In recent times the attempts to meet that instruction in religion has taken on a large degree of educational seriousness. The churches are facing in that direction. It is the duty of the state to recognize every serious endeavor to meet educational needs. Whenever the work of the Sunday schools or similar agencies rise to the level of the work of the public schools, that common level of educational efficiency ought to have public recognition."

Shorter courses and longer hours were among the changes advocated by the commission on the reorganization of methods in the teaching of manual training in secondary schools, in its annual report submitted today.

Many of the delegates departed for their homes today.

Science Work Wrong.

"General Science" courses are not making good, according to a paper by Fred D. Barber, professor of physical science, State Normal university, Normal, Ill., who said:

"The progress of science during the nineteenth century marks it off from all preceding centuries of the world's history. Yet it is an astounding fact that the percentage of students studying science in our public schools is rapidly falling off and has been on the decline for twenty years. The science courses in our high schools are shaped and determined by college entrance requirements. We have lost sight of the need of the masses.

"The high school student has a right to demand that he be shown the worthwhileness of the task set before him. High school courses in science must be reorganized. They must be rebuilt, beginning at the bottom. They must be planned to meet the needs of the many, not the few.

"High school science must become instruction in the interpretation of science as it enters into the life activities of the common people. It must cease dealing exclusively with abstractions and generalizations; it must become a concrete and at the same time scientific study of man's environment."

Adjusting the High School.

The adjustment of the high school curriculum to modern needs was urged by Charles Hughes Johnston, professor of secondary education, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

"Theoretically the modern high school should administer as many curriculums as there are individual needs and social requirements," he said. "This is manifestly impractical. With the elective system the high school has done its best so to adjust its instructional offerings, but the elective system has to a certain extent failed. Some naive people tell us to go back to the single, prescribed curriculum. I believe that this is merely shutting our eyes to the real issue. My own prophesy is that the modern high school is going to decide, in each case, on the merits of the demands, upon a few curriculums and then differentiate these sharply, and within curriculums allow much less leeway than an open elective system contemplates. The lines of differentiation will, I think, be something like this: One general finishing curriculum for those who want some culture and can postpone specialization; one college preparatory curriculum, subject to modifications for different types of higher institutions; one domestic curriculum for girls; one or possibly two commercial curriculums; one agricultural curriculum; one teacher training curriculum for the intending rural school teacher, and an industrial curriculum (or more than one in the large cities)."

Teaching Sex Hygiene.

"Shall Sex Hygiene Be Taught in the Public Schools?" was the subject of an address by Charles H. Keene, M. D., supervisor of hygiene and physical training, Minneapolis, Minn. He said: "The main argument for teaching sex hygiene in the public schools has been that the home does not give this instruction, that it must be taught somewhere; therefore, it should be taught in the school. More and more is the home giving up its responsibilites to public organizations. The school has been compelled to receive a large share of these offcasts. Practically no home exists where the parents do not have time for moral and religious teaching. Certain agencies tend to take from the home its privileges. The playhouse, the pulpit, the public platform as symbolized by certain would-be reformers, and even the school authorities are attempting to assume the office and duties of the parent.

"In response to questionaires sent to clergymen in the Twin Cities, all reply that sex hygiene should be taught in the home, practically all of them maintain that it should not be taught in the public schools except for the reason that the home has failed.

Main Obstacle.

"The main obstacle to teaching sex hygiene in the schools is that we have no teachers fitted for the work. The teachers have not had sufficient training in anatomy, physiology and biology. Our normal schools are not giving this instruction to their pupils. Most of our teachers lack the experience that fits one to give this kind of instruction.

"Correct the tendency of the home to neglect its duties and privileges, not by preaching that the public school should take over more of the parents' burdens, but by insisting that the parents should fulfill the duty they owe to their offspring and to the community.

"Sex hygiene should be taught, but it should be taught to parents, that they may be made to feel first, that it is their duty to do this work, not the duty of the school; second, that they may feel they have the necessary kind and amount of information to teach it properly.

"Thus may the home get back some of the ground it has lost in the proper education of its youth."

Physical Directors.

Mary E. Samson, physical director in the state normal school at Winona, Minn., talked on "The Physical Director in Relation to the School." She said:

"According to the modern idea in education, the child as a whole goes to school. The school then has the responsibility not alone for the intellectual training, but for physical, moral and social development as well. The chil must be trained not merely as an individual, but as a member of society. In no other department of school work is so great an opportunity offered for this normal and social training as in the activities of physical education. Especially in athletics, the director comes into very close contact with the personality of the student. This places upon him a double responsibility; first, to the student, in making his training count for genuine development, and, second, to the school, in giving the students' view-point back to the institution. That is, the school, within itself forms a social unit.

"The social life that spontaneously develops there, if rightly directed, has great educational value. The physical director comes into such close touch with the informal side of this life, that if he has a broad view of the moral and social significance of the work that he is doing, he may accomplish much in bringing to a focus the entire work of the school. This may be called, perhaps, a "by-product" of physical education, but we may well learn from modern industry that "by-products" are among the most profitable aspects of business."

Resolutions Adopted.

The resolutions adopted by the association indorse pensions for teachers, increased salaries, vacations to permit teachers to travel, simplified spelling, international peace, physical inspection of children, co-operation between parents and teachers in teaching sex hygiene, and uniform wording of national songs. President Wilson's attitude in the Mexican situation also was indorsed.

Characterizing the Carnegie and Rockefeller foundations as agencies menacing true academic freedom and tending to defeat the primary purposes of democracy in the schools, the normal school department unanimously adopted a resolution censuring these funds. The resolution says:

"We view with alarm the activity of Carnegie and Rockefeller foundations, agencies not in any way responsible to the people, in their efforts to control the policies of our state educational institutions; to fashion after their conception and to standardize our courses of study, and to surround the institutions with conditions which menace true academic freedom and defeat the primary purpose of democracy as heretofore preserved inviolable in our common schools, normal schools and universities."

been sweethearts up to a year before the crime was committed. It was brought out at the trial that the girl's parents caused a break between the two. Shortly after that Petras married Miss Meta Mathews. She sat with Petras throughout his trial and encouraged him.

The trial began June 23. The courtroom daily was overcrowded.

One For Conviction.

The jury which tried Petras told Judge Irwin they could not agree and were discharged. Eleven jurors wanted to acquit the defendant, but one declared he never could be convinced that it was not Petras who dragged the girl into the lonely graveyard and clubbed her to death.

The jury was out over forty hours. The one juror who held out is said to be Homer Eddy, a farmer and the oldest man on the jury. He has ten children, two of them girls of the age of the Hollander girl.

Petras' attorneys made no secret of their disappointment. "The belief of the eleven jurors is the belief of the people of this county at large," Attorney Harvey Gunsul said.

Immediately after the jury was discharged Attorney Gunsul sought a writ of habeas corpus to have his client released. A motion will follow asking Judge Irwin to fix bail. "We can get the bail in fifteen minutes," Attorney Gunsul said, "whatever it is."

Sighed at Result.

Petras gave one sigh when the jury announced that it could not agree but that was all. The remarkable fortitude he has exhibited ever since he was arrested and all through the trial was still his. His young wife, however, broke into tears and flung herself upon his shoulder. He turned to her and sought to comfort her.

A packed courtroom which had gathered to hear the verdict of the jury filed slowly out after the jury had been discharged and the motions of counsel made, although some lingered to gaze upon the defendant and his wife and her parents.

Juror Eddy Explains.

Juror Eddy said he held out to convict Petras because Petras' own testimony convinced him he was guilty. Mrs. Petras shook Eddy by the hand as she wept, saying:

"I hope you will never have the heartaches you caused me."

"I did what was right," he answered.

The first ballot stood 8 to 4 for acquittal Juror Eddy said, the next 9 to 3, the next 10 to 2 and the next 11 to 1. Here the balloting hung for over forty hours while the eleven jurors tried to swing him over. He was subjected to a gruelling last night which younger and more vigorous jurors expected to break him down. It was their intention to go at him all night in argumentative relays, believing that he could not go through the night sleepless and still hold his ground.

Late at night, however, sounds of strife died out in the jury room, and it was reported a verdict of acquittal had been reached.

fer of his allotment from the United States. The contract was made before he received a patent to the land, and under the terms he was to receive $5,490 for his holdings. The land was heavily timbered.

Nay-Tau-Waush died in 1908, and a month following the government issued a trust patent in his name. Under the terms Uncle Sam was to hold the fee title for twenty-five years, and at the expiration of that period turn over to the Indian or his heirs all earnings from the property. When it was learned that Nay-Tau-Waush had died, another patent, claiming to convey a fee title, was issued to his heirs. This was in 1909.

The sole claimed heir of the dead Indian was his daughter, and she under this latest patent, conveyed his interest to the lumber company for the price named.

Paid Dead Man's Daughter.

A year later Vachon, the plaintiff, was appointed administrator and he immediately began an action to recover the contract price. The answer of the lumber company was that the dead Indian had never given absolute title and that it had paid his daughter, who had the fee title. Incidenally the well-known Clapp amendment to the Indian allotment law was involved, and in its findings today the court holds that this amendment removed all restrictions upon the conveyance of land allotted under the act of 1887 to mixed bloods.

The supreme court findings as made today are of general interest because of the fact that many Indians in the White Earth reservation have got rid of their allotments for a small consideration to various parties. The sale was either made by the owner himself or his heirs and the probating of the estate of the dead Indians has brought to light much in the line of confusion.

If the opinion of the supreme court as handed down today is not set aside by a higher authority, many of the purchasers of Indian allotments may be compelled to pay double, as in the case of the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company.

of the revolution. Needed ammunition immediately would be supplied, it was said. Railroad facilities for the movement from Guadalajara to Mexico City, a distance of about 300 miles, were adequate, Constitutionalist agents in Washington declared, although resistance by Federals at some points on the route was anticipated.

How Will Villa Figure?

How Villa, the revolutionary general who achieved brilliant success in the northern military campaign, would figure in the movement against Mexico City, was a matter of much speculation here today. His troops which had aided in the capture of Zacatecas still were proceeding northward into Chihuahua. If Obregon moves upon Huerta's capital immediately, it appeared doubtful whether the northern forces would figure in the preliminary fighting. There was a possibility, however, that they might go south later, particularly in view of assertions that differences between Villa and Carranza had been composed.

Definite news from Carranza still was awaited as to the attitude of the Constitutionalists toward the proposal that they meet representatives of Huerta in an informal conference to discuss the establishment of a provisional government.

Oppose Conferences.

Most of Carranza's military leaders, including Villa, were said to have counselled against any parley. It was suggested, however, that they did not entirely understand the situation, and that their attitudes might be changed if the precise nature of the proposed meetings were more fully explained. It was possible that a member of the Constitutionalist junta in Washington might be sent to Carranza's headquarters to outline reasons for a meeting. However, if Obregon continued his successful campaign into Huerta's capital, it was argued by some authorities in touch with the junta that "no conference would be necessary."

Attack Irapuapo Next.

Douglas, Ariz., July 10.—Gen. Alvaro Obregon, commander of the Constitutionalist forces who Wednesday captured the important city of Guadalajara, Mex., and took prisoners more than 5,000 Federals after three days' battle, prepared today to reorganize his forces with a view to marching on Iraquapo, the junction on the Mexican Central railroad connecting Mexico City with northern and western Mexico.

Gen. Obregon last night telegraphed F. S. Ellas, border representative of the Constitutionalists here, that he routed the Federal army of 12,000 men defending Guadalajara under Gen. Miel. Federal governor of the state of Jalisco, in a fierce battle extending over a zone of sixty-five miles.

Gen. Obregon said the Federal loss was very heavy, but that his own casualties were small. The Federals who escaped are being pursued by the Constitutionalists, and Gen. Obregon was of the opinion that he would obtain several thousand recruits for his army in the captured city.

He said his own forces numbered 10,000 men.

Say Villa Will Go South.

El Paso, Tex., July 10.—The speedy return of Gen. Villa's army southward from Chihuahua City to resume the campaign against Mexico City was predicted here today, following the receipt of advices from Torreon that the internal peace conference was ended and a report of its transactions soon would be given to the press.

With Guadalajara in Constitutionalist hands and San Luis Potosi besieged by the revolutionists, there remain only two or three points of defense for the Federals between the national capital and the southern edge of the territory controlled by the revolutionists. On the east Gen. Pablo Gonzales, with an army of 20,000 men, hold Dominion from the border to San Luis Potosi, twenty-four hours by rail from Mexico City.

In the center Gen. Villa's division occupies the country from Juarez to Aguas Calientes, eighteen hours' travel from the capital city of Mexico.

To the west, Gen. Obregon has stretched his lines as far as Guadalajara, within six hours' ride by railway to the central goal.

Sixty Thousand Men.

Once San Luis Potosi is captured, the three military divisions of the rebel forces will converge on Mexico City, according to assertions made in El Paso today by both Carranza and Villa followers. When this combination is affected, 60,000 men will be available for the movement against the ultimate goal. It was predicted here that this concentration will take place at Celaya, state of Guanajuato, an eight hours' ride from Mexico City. This point is a junction of National Railways from Guadalajara, Aguas Calleutes and San Luis Potosi.

Gen. Obregon has advised Gen. Carranza that his troops in taking Guadalajara captured fifteen troop trains and eight cannon. Obregon stated also that seven machine guns, plenty of rifles and rifle ammunition and two carloads of cannon ammunition were abandoned by the enemy.

One Can Have A Good Time At Table without the usual cup of coffee, and feel a whole lot better between meals, too—free from that old "off color feeling"—biliousness, indigestion, nervousness and heart flutter.

The secret is

POSTUM

—instead of coffee.

Try the change for a couple of weeks and observe two noticeable things:

You won't miss the old beverage, for Postum tastes much like rare old Java.

Further, there's the brisk, alert feeling—free from the logyness of a lazy liver and disturbed digestion.

Thousands of people have made the change and know

"There's a Reason"

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum— must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage instantly. Add cream and sugar to taste. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Grocers everywhere sell POSTUM.

DEMOCRATS NOT TO BLAME

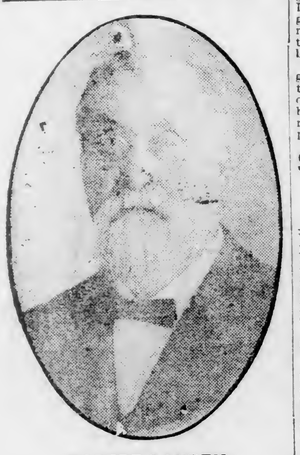

Depression Same in Canada as on Coast, Says Robert Lauden.

Former Duluthian Says Prohibition Makes Gains in the West.

The Wilson administration should not in any way be blamed for the temporary lull in business which is more or less noticeable, according to Robert Lauden of Portland, Or., former Duluth resident, who arrived in the city recently to pass a part of the summer at the home of his son-in-law, D. R. Black, 1817 East First street.

Blame the Democrats.

"The Democrats," said Mr. Lauden yesterday, "are being blamed by some for the fact that things are quiet out in Oregon. It is true that the timber business is a little quiet. More lumber has been shipped this year than for the same period last season, but prices are not what they ought to be. But take Canada, for instance, and you will find the same conditions prevailing there. I don't suppose that the Democrats can be blamed for that."

Mr. Lauden left Duluth thirteen years ago to reside in Portland. During his eighteen years' residence in Duluth, he was engaged most of the time in the timber business and also was quite actively engaged in local politics during the administration of Mayor Sutphin. Mr. Lauden served as alderman from the Fourth ward. Since his departure from Duluth thirteen years ago he has returned to visit the city on only one occasion, that being seven years ago.

Portland Climate Good.

Although Portland has its wet season, Mr. Lauden declares that it is a great climate. Since his last visit here, he said, a number of changes and improvements have been made.

The lumber industry, said Mr. Lauden, is the greatest of all industries in Oregon. Large shipments of forest products, he stated, are made in the Pacific trade and it is not uncommon to see an ocean steamer carrying out a cargo of 5,000,000 feet of lumber.

Mr. Lauden declared that the temperance movement was making great strides in the West and that this fall the "wet" and "dry" question would be an issue in four states, Oregon, Washington, California and Idaho.

Idaho May Go "Dry."

"I would not be surprised to see Idaho go dry," he said, "and it would not be at all unlikely if the same were true of Oregon. The 'wets,' I believe, will carry Washington and California. In California the grape growers have to be taken into consideration and in Washington and Oregon, the growing of hops has developed into quite an industry which will mean considerable opposition to the prohibition movement."

Discussing the political stuation in Oregon, Mr. Lauden declared that although Oregon was a Republican state, it had two Democratic senators in congress and has had a Democratic governor for the past twelve years.

ROB TRAIN; KIDNAP MAN

and told the fireman to run back and uncouple the train between the last express car and the first passenger car.

The fireman did as he was told, and the bandits forced the engineer to run the engine and express cars to a point near Klondyke, on the river bank. They entered the American Express car and forced the messenger, J. G. Nicholson, to stand with his face to the wall while they blew open the safe.

While this work was going on, a track walker, said to be William Christopher, appeared. The robbers took him prisoner.

The bandits made no effort to molest the passengers, whom they warned to keep their heads inside the windows.

Only Robbed Safe.

The express messenger refused to discuss the robbery, saying that the rules of the company enforced silence on him. So far as known nothing was taken except the contents of the express safe. Conductor Mudd said he saw several pieces of jewelry on the floor of the express car after the robbery.

The bandits are believed to have crossed the Missouri river near the scene of the robbery and to have started south.

Nahum T. Brown, general agent here for the American Express company, said there was no shipment of money in the express safe but that there were a few packages of jewelry, the value of which he would not estimate.

Fifty Pounds of Silver.

The first news of the robbery was given by the flagman of the "flyer." Despite warnings of the robbers, he got off the rear passenger coach and ran back to Matson, where he notified the station agent that the train had been held up.

Emil Ahmann, a constable at Augusta, Mo., west of Matson, was one of the first officers to arrive on the scene of the robbery. He said he was told by the train crew that the bandits carried off a sack of silver weighing fifty pounds and a pouch of railroad mail.

SEES ENMITY TO SCHOOLS

Secretary Springer's term did not expire this year.

Religious Education.

Henry F. Cope of Chicago, speaking before the Religious Education association, of which he is general secretary, said the "present agitation for the teaching of religion in the public schools is based on three misapprehensions," as follows:

"First, that the state may properly teach religion; second, that religion can be taught as mathematics and many other subjects can, and third, that teaching religion would solve all these problems of youthful delinquency and the general public apathy to ecclesiastic affairs.

"No one seriously questions the right of the child to his religious heritage, or doubts but that for the sake of our civilization every child ought to catch those spiritual ideals which have moved the race forward," continued Mr. Cope. "The knowledge of religion and the emotional reaction to it are youth's right and the world's need.

Public Recognition.

"In recent times the attempts to meet that instruction in religion has taken on a large degree of educational seriousness. The churches are facing in that direction. It is the duty of the state to recognize every serious endeavor to meet educational needs. Whenever the words of the Sunday schools or similar agencies rise to the level of the work of the public schools, that common level of educational efficiency ought to have public recognition."

Shorter courses and longer hours were among the changes advocated by the commission on the reorganization of methods in the teaching of manual training in secondary schools, in its annual report submitted today.

Many of the delegates departed for their homes today.

Science Work Wrong.

"General Science" courses are not making good, according to a paper by Fred D. Barber, professor of physical science, State Normal university, Normal, Ill., who said:

"The progress of science during the nineteenth century marks it off from all preceding centuries of the world's history. Yet it is an astounding fact that the percentage of students studying science in our public schools is rapidly falling off and has been on the decline for twenty years. The science courses in our high schools are shaped and determined by college entrance requirements. We have lost sight of the need of the masses.

"The high school student has a right to demand that he be shown the worthwhileness of the task set before him. High school courses in science must be reorganized. They must be rebuilt, beginning at the bottom. They must be planned to meet the needs of the many, not the few.

"High school science must become instruction in the interpretation of science as it enters into the life activities of the common people. It must cease dealing exclusively with abstractions and generalizations; it must become a concrete and at the same time scientific study of man's environment."

Adjusting the High School.

The adjustment of the high school curriculum to modern needs was urged by Charles Hughes Johnston, professor of secondary education, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

"Theoretically the modern high school should administer as many curriculums as there are individual needs and social requirements," he said. "This is manifestly impractical. With the elective system the high school has done its best so to adjust its instructional offerings, but the elective system has to a certain extent failed. Some naive people tell us to go back to the single, prescribed curriculum. I believe that this is merely shutting our eyes to the real issue. My own prophesy is that the modern high school is going to decide, in each case, on the merits of the demands, upon a few curriculums and then differentiate these sharply, and within curriculums allove much less leeway than an open elective system contemplates. The lines of differentiation will, I think, be something like this: One general finishing curriculum for those who want some culture and can postpone specialization; one college preparatory curriculum, subject to modifications for different types of higher institutions; one domestic curriculum for girls; one or possibly two commercial curriculums; one agricultural curriculum; one teacher training curriculum for the intending rural school teacher, and an industrial curriculum (or more than one in the large cities)."

Teaching Sex Hygiene.

"Shall Sex Hygiene Be Taught in the Public Schools?" was the subject of an address by Charles H. Keene, M. D., supervisor of hygiene and physical training, Minneapolis, Minn. He said: "The main argument for teaching sex hygiene in the public schools has been that the home does not give this instruction, that it must be taught somewhere; therefore, it should be taught in the school. More and more is the home giving up its responsibilities to public organizations. The school has been compelled to receive a large share of these offcasts. Practically no home exists where the parents do not have time for moral and religious teaching. Certain agencies tend to take from the home its privileges. The sale was either made by the owner himself or his heirs and the probating of the estate of the dead Indians has brought to light much in the line of confusion.

If the opinion of the supreme court as handed down today is not set aside by a higher authority, many of the purchasers of Indian allotments may be compelled to pay double, as in the case of the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company.

of the revolution. Needed ammunition immediately would be supplied, it was said. Railroad facilities for the movement from Guadalajara to Mexico City, a distance of about 300 miles, were adequate, Constitutionalist agents in Washington declared, although resistance by Federals at some points on the route was anticipated.

How Will Villa Figure?

How Villa, the revolutionary general who achieved brilliant success in the northern military campaign, would figure in the movement against Mexico City, was a matter of much speculation here today. His troops which had aided in the capture of Zacatecas still were proceeding northward into Chihuahua. If Obregon moves upon Huerta's capital immediately, it appeared doubtful whether the northern forces would figure in the preliminary fighting. There was a possibility, however, that they might go south later, particularly in view of assertions that differences between Villa and Carranza had been composed.

Definite news from Carranza still was awaited as to the attitude of the Constitutionalists toward the proposal that they meet representatives of Huerta in an informal conference to discuss the establishment of a provisional government.

Oppose Conferences.

Most of Carranza's military leaders, including Villa, were said to have counselled against any parley. It was suggested, however, that they did not entirely understand the situation, and that their attitudes might be changed if the precise nature of the proposed meetings were more fully explained. It was possible that a member of the Constitutionalist junta in Washington might be sent to Carranza's headquarters to outline reasons for a meeting. However, if Obregon continued his successful campaign into Huerta's capital, it was argued by some authorities in touch with the junta that "no conference would be necessary."

Attack Irapuapo Next.

Douglas, Ariz., July 10.—Gen. Alvaro Obregon, commander of the Constitutionalist forces who Wednesday captured the important city of Guadalajara, Mex., and took prisoners more than 5,000 Federals after three days' battle, prepared today to reorganize his forces with a view to marching on Iraquapo, the junction on the Mexican Central railroad connecting Mexico City with northern and western Mexico.

Gen. Obregon last night telegraphed F. S. Elias, border representative of the Constitutionalists here, that he routed the Federal army of 12,000 men defending Guadalajara under Gen. Miel, Federal governor of the state of Jalisco, in a fierce battle extending over a zone of sixty-five miles.

Gen. Obregon said the Federal loss was very heavy, but that his own casualties were small. The Federals who escaped are being pursued by the Constitutionalists, and Gen. Obregon was of the opinion that he would obtain several thousand recruits for his army in the captured city.

He said his own forces numbered 10,000 men.

Say Villa Will Go South.

El Paso, Tex., July 10.—The speedy return of Gen. Villa's army southward from Chihuahua City to resume the campaign against Mexico City was predicted here today, following the receipt of advices from Torreon that the internal peace conference was ended and a report of its transactions soon would be given to the press.

With Guadalajara in Constitutionalist hands and San Luis Potosi besieged by the revolutionists, there remain only two or three points of defense for the Federals between the national capital and the southern edge of the territory controlled by the revolutionists. On the east Gen. Pablo Gonzales, with an army of 20,000 men, hold Dominion from the border to San Luis Potosi, twenty-four hours by rail from Mexico City.

In the center Gen. Villa's division occupies the country from Juarez to Aguas Calientes, eighteen hours' travel from the capital city of Mexico.

To the west, Gen. Obregon has stretched his lines as far as Guadalajara, within six hours' ride by railway to the central goal.

Sixty Thousand Men.

Once San Luis Potosi is captured, the three military divisions of the rebel forces will converge on Mexico City, according to assertions made in El Paso today by both Carranza and Villa followers. When this combination is affected, 60,000 men will be available for the movement against the ultimate goal. It was predicted here that this concentration will take place at Celaya, state of Guanajuato, an eight hours' ride from Mexico City. This point is a junction of National Railways from Guadalajara, Aguas Calientes and San Luis Potosi.

Gen. Obregon has advised Gen. Carranza that his troops in taking Guadalajara captured fifteen troop trains and eight cannon. Obregon stated also that seven machine guns, plenty of rifles and rifle ammunition and two carloads of cannon ammunition were abandoned by the enemy.

NEW CHAPTER IN LIFE TRAGEDY OF PAUL GOLIK

Is Committed to Asylum Following Arrest at Courthouse.

Brooding Over His Troubles Has Robbed Him of His Reason.

When the authorities yesterday afternoon picked up a crippled and demented man who had been loitering about the courthouse square armed with a loaded revolver, another chapter was opened in the life story of Paul Golik.

Golik—it will be remembered—was the unfortunate cripple, who won $1,100 in a personal injury action against his employers but who never saw a penny of the money until after the district court had investigated alleged unscrupulous methods employed by his attorney, J. De La Motte, and ordered De La Motte to make a partial restitution.

Golik was injured while employed by the Ericson & Long company on July 29, 1909. Golik secured the services of De La Motte to bring a personal injury action against the company. Suit was brought, a verdict of $1,100 obtained, but Golik got nothing. De La Motte, his attorney, took half of the recovery, and the other half was spent in expense of litigation.

The matter came to the attention of the district court judges and an investigation was ordered, which resulted in an order made by Former Judge Dibell compelling De La Motte to make a restitution of about $210 of the money. Some other money was also returned to him by others connected with the case, making the fund at disposal after court investigation, about $300. De La Motte, his attorney, was afterwards disbarred for one year by the supreme court.

Refused Money.

Golik refused to take the $300, claiming at the time that the amount was inadequate and that the wrong done him had not been righted. He refused to sign a receipt for the money or touch a penny of the funds. He appealed to the Associated Charities and was placed by them in the Bethel.

That was nearly eighteen months ago. Today finds him a demented character, a fit subject for a lunatic asylum. Since his accident five years ago he has had considerable trouble with his crippled leg and has brooded considerably.

His friends and those interested in his welfare have attempted time and again to try to get him to make the best of it and take the money which the court had ordered turned over to him. He absolutely refused to touch the money or any part of it. To do so, he believed, would bar him from ever getting anything more. His knowledge of legal matters is very limited, but he knows the import of a signature to a paper of settlement.

As to his future, Golik has maintained a stoical indifference. Shortly after the court investigation of his affair with De La Motte, an attempt was made to have him return to the old country, but he refused.

"If I Beg, I Beg Here."

"No, if I beg, I beg in the country what owes me," was his answer.

He turned down a chance to go back to his family and his native land because he imagined that he would become a pauper there.

The money which was due Golik was turned over to Courtenay Dinwiddie, former secretary of the Associated Charities, who was appointed as the first guardian for the injured foreigner. When Mr. Dinwiddie left the city, he turned the funds over to L. A. Marvin, who was appointed as guardian to succeed Mr. Dinwiddie.

Golik, during the last few weeks, has been annoying the district judges with daily interviews. Recently orders were given to keep him out of the courthouse. This enraged him, it is believed, to such an extent that his mind became demented on the subject. When Deputy Sheriffs McDonald and Bourdash picked him up yesterday afternoon, they found him armed with a new 32-caliber revolver loaded in every chamber and with an extra supply of ammunition in a tobacco sack. He was sitting on one of the benches of the courthouse square.

Golik was arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, but the charge was later changed to that of insanity. He was brought before Judge S. W. Gilpin and a board of physicians who found him suffering from a mental disease. Judge Gilpin committed him to the state hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls. Golik refused to answer any questions put to him and to allow the physicians to take his temperature.

Golik is 40 years old and has a wife and one child living in the village of Dolini, Koskenj, Croatia. He has been in this country about seven years.

NEW CAMPAIGN FUND BILL PASSES HOUSE

Limits State Expenditures to Same State's Contributions.

Washington, July 10.—A campaign publicity bill, amending and codifying the present law regulating campaign contributions and expenses, but making few changes of importance, was passed by the house yesterday by a vote of 133 to 19. Now the bill goes to the senate, where it may be changed materially if it is accepted at all.

The chief new feature of the measure is a provision to limit the money a political committee may use for campaign purposes in any state to an amount not exceeding the aggregate contributed to the committee by the actual residents of the state. Expenditures for campaign literature and speakers, however, would be exempted from this limitation.

Candidates for the senate and house, within from ten to fifteen days of primaries or elections, would be required to file itemized reports of all things of value received for their campaign.

FIND $5,000 HIDDEN IN "PAUPER'S" CABIN

Sisters Also Are Heirs to Farm Worth $12,000.

Newton, Kan., July 10.—Charles Perrine, 73 years old, died in a hospital here a few days ago, apparently in poverty, but his two sisters, Mrs. Georgia Ann Miller of Girard, Ill., and Mrs. Emily Waggonner of Valley, Wash., have discovered more than $5,000 in money in a dozen hiding places about the cabin in which he lived for forty-three years. They also find themselves heirs to Perrine's farm, valued at $12,000.

Perrine became ill while visiting in Newton. He was sent to a hospital out of charity, by an acquaintance. His sisters were notified and came to his bedside.

After his death $1,800 was found in the clothing he wore to the hospital. The women decided on a search of his home. In old clothing, hanging on the walls in a wallet made of boot tops, hidden under a pile of tin cans, under a pile of old bottles and in other places, gold, silver and currency were found.

None of Perrine's neighbors knew of his hoard of money.

TRUST PROGRAM TO COME UP MONDAY.

Washington, July 10.—Consideration of the trade commission bill, initial measure of the administration anti-trust program, was abruptly halted yesterday and the senate adjourned until Monday to allow the perfection of the remainder of the trust legislation in committee. Majority Leader Kern announced that the entire program of the administration would be laid before the senate Monday.

COMPROMISE VERDICT.

Saari Brothers Must Pay John Swanson $371 for Timber.

John and Jacob Saari, doing business under the firm name of Saari Bros., will be obliged to pay John Swanson $371.74 for timber which they removed from his premises in section 32, 56-16 during the logging season of 1911-1912, if a verdict returned by a jury in Judge Ensign's division of the district court yesterday afternoon stands. Swanson sued for $818.16.

Saari Bros. had been engaged in logging on a 40-acre tract adjoining the Swanson place and admitted in court that they had crossed the boundary line and taken some of Swanson's timber, but denied that its value exceeded $8.10. A tender of $25, treble damages allowed by law, was made, but was refused by Swanson.

Price Current Pleased Over Duluth Grain Men's Entertainment.

The recent entertainment of the grain growers and shippers of the Northwest by the Duluth Board of Trade made a very distinct hit with the editor of Price-Current-Grain Reporter, one of the leading grain papers of the country, and that publication, in its issue of this week, has devoted a great deal of space to the gathering. J. Ralph Pickell, editor of the Reporter, was present during the two days of entertainment and was one of the speakers at the concluding banquet given at the Masonic temple. In this week's issue several pages are devoted to the entertainment given, and to the speeches at the banquet, the article being liberally illustrated. Editorially Mr. Pickell says:

"The remarkable response to the invitation sent out by the Duluth Board of Trade officials to gain shippers and farmers in the Northwest, and the subsequent meeting at Duluth last week, are but exemplication of a truth which should be known to all men, and that is that the average American citizen wants to learn the facts about any particular subject in which he is interested.

"It is undoubtedly true that many who attended this meeting went to Duluth imbued with the idea that they would actually find in one of the large terminal elevators the 'suction draft' which was said to be utilized in unloading grain into the elevators, so that the dust and dirt, as well as some grain, are removed before it is weighed. This is one of the statements which the devotees of the Equity society have continuously reiterated as a veritable truth. And yet, when the farmers got into those monstrous elevators and noted the mechanical system which is used to unload the grain and found out just exactly how it is handled, they were impressed, probably not so much with the xpu the .;--Nre-husheyast .%fcom actual machinery used with the falsity of the statements which have been forced upon them by those who have endeavored to reap a livelihood by the dissemination of false and misleading information and who thrive on dissension.

Wise Step.

"It was a wise step, indeed, when the officials of the Duluth Board of Trade said to is traveling solicitors: 'Stay in the country. These men are our guests and we do not propose that they shall be harassed by business solicitors.' It was a great thing for the Duluth Board of Trade to entertain so many men without even the semblance of a hitch in the proceedings, and it was a magnificent thing for men who had hitherto believed the members of the Duluth Board of Trade to be dishonest to openly acknowledge and publicly declare that they had misunderstood their motives and that they had not known the truth.

"In the midst of all the vituperation and denunciation of the members of the Duluth Board of Trade by the agitators of the Northwest, they have remained calm and have not paid any attention whatsoever to the mud slinging; but when the proper time came, they sent out their invitations to their friends and enemies alike and both responded by the hundred. The Duluth Board of Trade will never regret the small expense of this entertainment. The good which it has done and will continue to do is immeasurable.

"We congratulate the members of the Duluth Board of Trade and the grain dealers, shippers and producers of the Northwest that at last they have clasped hands on the bridge of friendship spanning the chasm of calumny dug deep by the erosion of false statements and misinformation circulated by those who boast that they propose to make money by 'farming the farmers.'"

Drowns in Gull Lake.

Bemidji, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—While bathing in Gull lake, Mrs. Flora M. Cox stepped from a sand bar into a deep hole and was drowned. Two sons of Henry Stechman, nearing the woman's screams, got a boat and rowed toward her. When within a few feet of her one of the oars broke and she went down for the last time a few minutes later. Her home is at Tenstrike.

WILL KEEP INDIANS FROM GETTING DRUNK

Bemidji Has Ordinance Expected to Effectually Stop Practice.

Bemidji, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji city council this week gave life to an ordinance, which according to Alderman Joe Elsiar, will make it impossible for Indians to procure liquor in Bemidji, by having some white man get it for them. Such an action is said to somewhat bear upon the closing of saloons under the treaty of 1855. Even in the face of that treaty, Frank Lane was this week granted a license to run a saloon.

Must Drink on Spot.

Persons buying liquor must drink it in the room in which they buy it and no saloon keeper is allowed to sell more than one fluid ounce of whisky, brandy, gin, rum and similar liquor, in one glass. It is also illegal for any person to ask another person to get booze for them, the fine for this offense being $100.

"I do not know anything about Cato Sells or his proposal to close the saloons of Bemidji. If the city council will deliver me a license to run a saloon in Bemidji, I shall pay the fee for it and there the situation will end," is the way Frank Lane summed up his views in regard to paying $1,000 for a license when Cato Sells threatens to close the saloons of Bemidji. When asked if he expected to get any refund from the city in case the government closed saloons, he said he had not considered that question. His petition for license was allowed and the city clerk was instructed to warn him of the danger of his holding the sack for the $1,000.

SIXTEEN STICKS OF DYNAMITE EXPLODE

Ray Hunter of Crosby Nearly Killed By Premature Explosion.

Crosby, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ray Hunter, son of E. J. Hunter, of Crosby, while getting ready to fire a blast on drill work near Wolfert, seven miles north of here, had seventeen sticks of dynamite explode, breaking a leg and otherwise mangleing him about the body.

He was rushed to the Sewall hospital here, where his injury was attended to and although he is in a serious condition hope of his recovery is held out by the surgeons.

Ray is an old hand at the drilling business and is considerad a very careful man with dynamite and the cause of the premature explosion cannot be determined.

Hassing in Iowa.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH BUSINESS? SHE'S ALL RIGHT!

Henry Ford gave the best answer yet to the question "What's the matter with business?"

Talking to the president yesterday, he said: "There is absolutely nothing wrong with business. The only trouble is that some people seem pessimistic. If everyone would only cheer up and attend to their business this calamity talk would stop immediately."

And that's the truth!

There isn't a country in the world where business, industrial and financial conditions are as sound as they are in this country today.

Moreover, there is a big crop coming that will be sold at high prices, and the country presently will be wading knee deep in a flood of new wealth from the soil.

A few forlorn partisans, bitterly discontented because they are kept out of power; a few embittered beneficiaries of privilege whose fat pickings are threatened by measures aimed at social justice; a few non-producing absorbers of wealth whose worse than useless occupations have been taken away: these form the chorus of calamity-howlers.

The country is rich and getting richer. Business is good and getting better. The tide of prosperity is rising after its sharp ebb in Roosevelt's time. It is rising under new conditions that will insure a wider distribution of prosperity than the country ever has seen before.

What's the matter with business? SHE'S all RIGHT!

This being clearance sale season, it's too bad the state can't offer some slightly worn but good as new boards and things to the first bidder.

BIG CROPS, GOOD PRICES AND THE TARIFF.

As a foundation for prosperity, good crops alone are not enough. They must bring good prices, too.

And that is another good thing about the present crop situation.

The prospects are not only that there will be a splendid crop, but that it will be sold at good prices.

Our crop will be big—but in itself that would tend to cut prices so that maybe a farmer wouldn't get as much money out of a bountiful crop as he might out of a slim one.

However, our big crop will only tend to equalize losses elsewhere in the world. The world's crops are not so large but they can absorb our big yield without putting the price down.

That's not particularly cheerful news for the consumer; but it's very rosy news for the grain-producer and for the whole system of business, finance and industry that is foundationed upon the producer's prosperity.

It is a sort of phenomenon, too.

Ordinarily, the farmer's luck is more like this: when he has much grain to sell, prices are so low it's hardly worth selling; and when prices are so high it pays richly to sell, he has no grain to offer.

This year, though, there will be an eager market at good prices for all the farmer can raise, and he is going to raise a great deal.

Incidentally, dear farmer, there is a political lesson in this.

For a long time you were kept supporting a high tariff system that burdened you on every article you had to buy, because you were told that it had to be that way so you could get the benefit of "protection" on your grain.

Now the same people are trying to get you to vote back the same system of high protection on the same flimsy pretext.

The present condition, and the condition that is indicated for crop-marketing time, ought to teach you the truth; which is that it is the world market, not tariff boundary walls, that fixes the price of your grain.

Every dollar you have paid out in tariff taxes for the sake of getting protection for your own products has been swindled out of you on false pretenses!

You had low prices under protection because the world market was full and wouldn't pay good prices for your grain.

You are going to have high prices under a reduced tariff tax this year, because the world market is eager and will pay you good prices.

Whether this country or that has a duty on wheat or not makes no difference at all to that world market. There it is supply and demand, and tariffs cut no figure.

THE CHIEF AND ONLY FUNCTION OF PROTECTION ON GRAIN HAS BEEN TO DELUDE THE FARMER INTO SUPPORTING A SYSTEM OF TARIFF TAXATION THAT ROBBED HIM AND EVERY OTHER CONSUMER FOR THE ENRICHMENT OF A PRIVILEGED FEW.

Down in Iowa the Bull Moosers are calling Roosevelt "the peerless leader." Will somebody please rise up and interpret the significance of this?

EVERYBODY'LL BE DOING IT.

The St. Paul Dispatch warmly applauds the spirit in which Congressman Hammond gave his indorsement to the work of the Craig efficiency and economy commission in a letter to Mr. Craig published in The Herald the other day. Says the Dispatch:

> The voters of the state will approve the prudent action of Winfield S. Hammond, Democratic nominee for governor, in coming out strongly for the adoption by the legislature of the efficiency and economy program of the commission appointed by Governor Eberhart. It would have been perfectly easy, and in accordance with party politics, for Mr. Hammond to deprecate the whole list of recommendations of the commission, solely on the ground that they were the offspring of a Republican administration. But evidently Mr. Hammond does not pursue that kind of tactics, and his liberality of mind, as thus displayed, cannot but commend him to the people, who are far more interested in seeing the state government put upon a high plane of efficiency than in witnessing the personal triumph of this or that politician.

If we may lift the summer political truce long enough to say so, this incident will be found by the voters of Minnesota to be a foretaste of the broad vision and high public spirit of the man whom they are going to elect in November to be their governor.

The plan of putting state business on a business basis worked out by the commission will prove, we believe, highly popular; and though Mr. Hammond is the first eminent candidate to go on record in favor of it, he will not be the last.

Indeed, the Minneapolis Journal, Mr. Lee's chief newspaper supporter, in scoring the Duluth News Tribune for saying that Lee has opposed the plan, reproduces some rather lukewarm praise for the commission made early in Mr. Lee's campaign and before the commission's work was laid before the state. It is very diluted encouragement for those who, in the interests of lower taxes and better government, want this plan to be adopted; but we have no doubt that Mr. Lee presently will amend his original utterance to make it as cordial and thorough-going as he can. There is no longer danger that he will by so doing lay himself open to the charge of saying something helpful to Mr. Eberhart.

There is a natural curiosity as to the new names to be conferred on the battleships Idaho and Mississippi.

"AND FEW IN A HILL."

President Wilson is trying simply to get the best board he can find to handle the new banking and currency system.

That's why he nominated for places on that board Paul M. Warburg of New York and Thomas D. Jones of Chicago.

The senate committee on banking has placed itself squarely in the way of this attempt to create a board that shall be fully competent and that shall have the confidence of the public. It objects to Jones because he is a director in large corporations, though there isn't even the hint of a charge that he ever did anything unbecoming a citizen and a patriot. It objects to Warburg because he is a Wall Street banker, and because "senatorial prerogatives" are involved in his refusal to submit to a grand jury third degree inquisition. It seems to care nothing for the fact that he is by all odds the most capable man named on the board, and so far as anybody knows the most capable man available.

"Senatorial prerogatives!" Senatorial fiddlesticks!

The whole effect, if not the whole purpose, of this absurd proceeding is to make it impossible to get high grade men for important and exacting public positions, and so to keep the public service on a dead level of cheap mediocrity. Perhaps these senators would feel more comfortable if it were kept there. The contrast with themselves would be less marked.

Peanuts, five cents a bushel!

Cole Blease says no militia from other states must cross South Carolina. They made a big mistake in not having Cole on hand when they were fighting the yellow fever mosquito in New Orleans.

Prosperity Talk vs. Calamity Howling

Editorial in the Baltimore Sun.

Yesterday was Prosperity day in the United States senate. The Democratic senators who have been getting a little restless at the talk of the calamity howlers decided to do some answering back and proceeded to the task very vigorously. They first felicitated themselves upon the splendid showing, from the revenue standpoint, made by the new tariff act, there being a surplus of $33,000,000 in the treasury. Then they began to give details. The big tube plant at McKeesport, Pa., has been put on full time, said one senator. The Singer Sewing Machine company, which heretofore has closed down for a two or three weeks' vacation each summer, on account of press of business would limit the vacation this year to one week. Said Senator Hollis of New Hampshire:

"Not a single cotton, woolen or textile mill has closed down in my state and not a pulp or paper mill. In the part of New Hampshire where I live you cannot hire labor even at an offer of reasonable wages. Labor has never been so well employed in New Hampshire as it is today."

Senator Simmons, answering a report to the contrary, said that not one of the 300 cotton mills in his state of North Carolina had shut down, and he quoted one large mill owner as saying that this was the best year the industry in the South had ever known. He read a communication from a bleaching and finishing concern in New England stating that the agent of an English house which exported white goods to China, the Philippines and South America had said that they could buy a better grade of these products from the New England mills cheaper than from the English exporters. The senator also read a letter from Secretary Redfield quoting a communication received by the latter from Leigh & Butler, importers of textile machinery, who said that the American manufacturers of these products were quoting prices on textile machinery which the English could not reach.

Doubtless each statement made here is precisely true, and many others equally true and equally optimistic could be quoted, and yet we all know that there is a certain amount of business depression and that very few of the business men we meet in the street are going ahead as confidently as they do in normal times. What is the answer?

Many factors enter into that answer. One that is fundamental is that there is a world-wide business depression, caused chiefly by the wars of recent times and the expenditures of the great nations for naval and military purposes. The United States shares in this. Again, the depression here is limited. It hits very hardly the railroads and the businesses dependent thereon, but, as every one knows, their troubles are not due to general conditions, nor to tariff, currency or trust legislation enacted by the present congress. Their troubles are due primarily to the fact that for a decade they have been obliged by the government to pay out constantly increasing sums for wages and other things, while that same government has made them reduce rates simultaneously. Further, the business depression is sectional, in a way. Everything seems lovely in the Middle West, where the crops are the largest in history.

It is thus seen that a great many conflicting forces are moving this way or that to affect the business of the country, and this situation affords an opportunity for the calamity howlers to howl—and their howling itself affects business to some extent. "Investors must remember," said the New York Commercial in its financial columns yesterday, "that one-half of the men who take a keen interest in politics feel that the fate of their party at the coming congressional elections depends chiefly on its ability to make a majority of the voters believe that they are hard up and that the country is growing poorer. A man can make himself believe almost anything if he talks it long enough. This pessimistic talk has taken the courage out of speculators who have money."

It will be very difficult, however, for even those interested in talking pessimistically to make the people believe that there is anything fundamentally or seriously wrong with the business of the country, in the face of the record crops and in face of the fact that bank clearings, usually a most accurate index of the extent of business, are in a most satisfactory condition. Dun's Review, basing its figures on returns from 129 leading centers in the United States, finds that the total clearings for June amounted to $13,869,912,279, an increase of 1.7 per cent compared with the same month of last year and of 2.1 per cent compared with the corresponding month of 1912. With more money changing hands than ever before, only a very grumpy individual indeed can be wholly pessimistic.

Turn About Is Fair Play.

Cleveland Press: "It is an awful thing," says Ban Johnson, "for a player openly to boast that he is in the game for what he can get out of it."

What is awful about it, the open boast?

You wouldn't want players to be hypocrites, would you, Ban?

Of course, it's money that is back of professional baseball; otherwise it would not be professional. And if the magnates are in it for money, why not the players, too?

To be sure, money isn't all, with either magnates or players. Pride is a factor, and love of applause, to say nothing of the great human appeal of the game as sport.

But Ban will have a hard time making fans believe that pride and love of applause and the sporting appeal are to be found only within the ranks of organized baseball.

Money put Ban's organization on the map; and somehow it strikes us that he isn't quite the person to hold up his hands in horror, now that he is getting what he once gave.

The Truth About Panama

Editorial in the New York World.

Every American may find a patriotic suggestion of value to himself in the president's Fourth of July speech. We do not except Col. Roosevelt, who recently said:

> An administration that will conclude such a treaty as this for the payment of blackmail to Colombia has forfeited all right to the respect of the people of the United States.

Whether the president had the author of this shocking sentiment in mind we do not know, but that portion of his remarks which Col. Roosevelt should consider very forcefully embraced these words:

> Honesty is a perfectly simple thing. It is hard for me to believe that when a man is dishonest he does not know it. It is hard for me to believe, under most circumstances, when a man has to choose between two ways, that he does not know which is the right way and which is the wrong way.
> I would be ashamed of this flag if it ever did anything outside of America that we would not permit it to do inside of America.

The World of Sunday showed in great detail what the flag, obeying the orders of President Roosevelt, did at Panama in 1903. It violated our treaty with Colombia. It protected a purchased "revolution" participated in by a handful of conspirators. It cooperated with the corrupt French Panama canal lobby. It paid money to the new "republic" of Panama. It has been used ever since by Col. Roosevelt to hide the truth of the scandal and recently to flaunt the baseless charge of blackmail in the face of Colombia. It has been made to cover our refusal to arbitrate a case so iniquitous on our part that we have never dared submit it to an impartial tribunal.

Today's publication includes documentary proof that the bogus revolution at the isthmus was engineered in this country; that President Roosevelt placed himself and his great office at the disposal of the lobbyists and traitors who planned it; that with his consent they used his authority to intimidate Colombia; that the revolution was so carefully arranged in all its details that the story of it was told in the World more than four months before it took place; that the whole miserable business in New York, Washington and Panama was worked out by means of spies, cipher dispatches and go-betweens, and that finally, when everything was in readiness, a show of force by United States war vessels against Colombia was all that was needed to complete the theft of a state from a weak but friendly neighbor. Everything was done according to the program, secretly here but openly and defiantly in Panama.

President Wilson believes that there is something instinctive in man that gives him knowledge of right and wrong. He holds that in most cases men who choose the wrong do so with deliberation. We think no one can read the World's amazing disclosures in the Panama affair without sharing his opinion in this case. There were right ways and wrong ways of acquiring the isthmus, as plain in 1903 as they are today. Mr. Roosevelt chose the wrong way, and his attempted secrecy then and his bluster now prove it.

For a time he sought to falsify the record that he had made. Then he excused himself on the ground of necessity. Later on, in an excess of egotism, he boasted of his usurpation. At the present moment he is vainly striving to help himself and his associates in dishonor by pleading blackmail on the part of those who were wronged and by assailing a president who is neither afraid nor ashamed to do right.

Fear for Self Is Cause of "Nerves"

Elliott Park Frost in the Atlantic: It is worry, or fear for self, engendered by the tensions of our new-fashioned ways, that makes for that "nervous fatigue which does not crave rest, but distraction." Nerves get tetanized, and will not relax. To enforce the rigid discipline of task and precept no longer brings results. To talk of "zest in work" is but a farcical euphemism to nerves that are overstrung.

Psychology has discovered within the last decade just how dangerous our repressions are. Ideas and emotions represent energy, and unless we expend the energy it becomes dammed back in the nervous system like so much steam under pressure, and sooner or later will explode—or slowly fester like a tumor until the whole body is poisoned. The mind must be kept free from thoughts that clog. And the mental prophylaxis is a constant attitude of nonchalance. By changing our mental attitudes of apprehension to attitudes of nonchalance we accomplish as much as if we were able to increase our actual nervous capability, for we are rid of the greatest obstruction to action. To introduce system in an office is better than adding a clerk. This is good psychology, every word of it.

If I were going to attempt a sermon (and who does not feel himself capable of at least a couple?) my first text should be upon the theme: "Shifting Gears." I should begin with a pertinent illustration. It would be the picture of a motor car and a long hill. You size up the hill from the bottom, and attempt it on the high gear. The grade proves to be steeper than you at first thought. The engine begins to pound. But you have vowed to make the top on the high gear. By simply shifting over, with whatever reluctance, all would be well. Instead of that, you let the engine fret and throb, perhaps stall itself or wreck something, for your pride's sake. This the picture. Then the moral application (which every one has seen coming all along). Now, good friends, isn't this just what we are trying to do? Are we not playing the foolish chauffeur?

Gratitude.

I thank thee, Moon and Star and Sun
For shining on me, now and then,
Just as thou shinest on all men—
With special favor shown to none,
When or where'er thy course is run!

I thank thee, Day, that all thy light
Is mine to share with all mankind!
And grateful, I, 'tis mine to find
My meed of darkness in the night
That follows day's unvaried flight!

I thank thee, Wind, that on thy way
Thou blowest fairly on us all!
Most thankful, I, the tempest's thrall
Is just the same where rich men stray
As where grim poverty holds sway!

Thanks, give I thee, from Nature's hand,
Both good and ill broadcast are thrown,
For where the power of gold is known
Rank favoritism stalks the land—
And I, alas, my wealth command!

Not the Only One.

Judge: "My house is so well organized," said Mrs. de Graw, "that I don't go into my kitchen once in a week."

"That's the pleasant way she puts it," her husband explained. "As a matter of fact, she's afraid of her cook.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Henry Barnhart of Indiana has a friend out in his district who drives a squatty little automobile, which is invariably covered with mud. So far as anybody knows he has never washed the machine in the three years it has been his. No one had the nerve to ask him why he didn't wash it until the matter was brought to the attention of Barnhart, who is an able-bodied person of great frankness and asks about anything that he desires to know. So he walked up and inquired of the man why he doesn't wash his auto.

"Because," replied the man, "the mud covers the paint and keeps it from getting scratched."

Representative Frank T. O'Hair, who will soon be in the midst of trying to beat Joe Cannon again for congress, maintains a large flock of collie dogs at his home. He went one day to buy a single dog, but could not make up his mind which one he liked best out of a group of four, and so he bought the entire quartet. Some of these have raised families and now O'Hair himself hardly knows how many collies he has in his yard. When he left home to come to Washington last winter O'Hair put his horse and cow out on a farm and was about to dispose of his collies similarly, but one of them happened to give him a funny look and it was all off. He was afraid the dogs might not be content away from home. That being the case he hired a man to stick around and feed them and look after them right on their own premises.

The last time he was home O'Hair went strolling about the streets of his town with most of his dogs following.

An old man stopped him to discuss politics and remarked, as they separated:

"Well, Frank, you ought to feel reasonably sure of getting most of the collie vote."

Senator Root has two mild manias. One is to collect rare etchings and the other is to plant trees.

When he is at home on his ancestral estate up in New York Root gets most of his recreation out of going forth in his old clothes, spade in hand and setting out trees. The place is already adorned with all the trees actually needed, but Root buys a great many more of a wide variety each year. He wants them not only for the landscape scheme, but for the sport of inserting them in the warm mother earth.

Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky is a man of philanthropic impulses and when he used to practice law he was constantly being imposed upon by people who took up his time without giving him much reward.

One old chap used to come in about twice a week to have legal chores performed and Johnson never charged him anything. But the old man never failed to make a bluff of putting his hand in his pocket and inquiring: "Well, how much do I owe you, Ben?"—knowing well enough that Ben would say: "Oh, that all right."

Now Johnson didn't mind doing all this work for nothing, but he got tired of having the old chap work that bluff on him. One morning the old fellow reached into his pocket and asked how much he owed for legal services, just as a charity worker entered the office.

"Oh, I guess $25 will be about right," was Ben's startling reply.

The client was game and paid it, whereupon Ben tossed it over to the charity worker, saying to his client:

"If you ever pull that bluff on me again, I'll charge you more'n that."

Representative Michael E. Conry of New York used to be employed in the coal mines of Pennsylvania. One morning as he was going to work he met another Irishman all fixed up in his Sunday clothes.

"What's wrong?" asked Conry.

"Nothin' wrong," answered the other laborer.

"But what's happened?"

"Nothin' happened. A man's got to show some respect to the dead."

"What dead?"

"Oh, that Polander I worked with died yesterday."

"What did he die of?"

"A rock fell and hit him."

"You don't say! How big a rock was it?"

"Oh, three or four-ton, maybe. Them Polanders can't stand much. I purty near got hurt myself yesterday."

"How was that?"

"The rock that killed the Polander hit me first, but luckily it bounced off."

Care and Worry.

You have heard of Care and Worry—
dark visitors they say,
Who stalk about familiar as Hamlet's
ghost at play.
They come and tarry with you, unbidden and unasked,
And flaunt their gaunt arms o'er you
—add weight to every task.
They watch the rays of sunshine, and
guard your open door,
Lest Light and Hope may enter and
sing the songs of yore.
Close friends are Care and Worry,
they laugh and dance with glee,
And pile the faggots higher at each
white lock they see.
They glory in the shadows their black
robes fling about,
And while the cloud is o'er you they
laugh and dance and shout.
They ever walk before you, for should
they fall behind,
Their forms would vanish from you
like mist before the wind.
But over on the other side wait Love
and Hope and Joy,
Mother and wife and sister, and little
Bob, your boy.
The robin sings in the hollow and
the skylark chants his lay,
And flowers blossom about you from the morn till close of day.
Fling back at Care and Worry their
black robes of despair,
And know as the years pass swiftly
God's hand has rested there.
Smooth out the great deep furrows
cut wide on brow and cheek,
For trouble lies in the valley—you are nearing the mountain peak.
—Tit-Bits.

Leaders of Socialism.

Life: Nobody has ever been heard to deny that our leading men lead, but the direction that their leadership takes seems to become more and more difficult to agree upon. The Railway Age Gazette thinks as follows:

> It is a toss-up whether the demagogs or the highbinders of finance are doing the more to bring all the details of business under the regulation of public officials. Eugene V. Debs, Morris Hillquit and Upton Sinclair think that they are the real leaders of the Socialistic movement in this country. They take themselves too seriously. The real leaders of Socialism in this country are such men as * * * are too crooked, cowardly, indolent or incapable to perform the duties of their positions.

Governorship Talk

What the State Press Thinks

Blaming It on the Democrats.

Luverne Herald: While the Republicans of Minnesota will share in the pleasure the Hammond Democrats find in Congressman Hammond finally winning the nomination for governor from Dan Lawler, the sorrow that would have been occasioned had the result been otherwise could have been borne.

For years the Democrats have followed the practice of going into the primary election and voting for the weakest candidate for governor on the Republican ticket, in the hope that he would be nominated and the Democratic nominee thus have a better chance to win. They played the same game this year. The Hammond Democrats were absolutely confident that Mr. Hammond would defeat Mr. Lawler by an overwhelming vote, and that if Mr. Lee were nominated Hammond could easily defeat him. So all but the dyed-in-the-wool Democrats went into the primaries and voted for Mr. Lee.

Mr. Hammond got through by the skin of his teeth, but for a while his defeat seemed certain. It is to be hoped that in this our Democratic friends have had a lesson that will stay with them for a while, and that hereafter they will know enough to shinny on their own side of the party line.

Very Peculiar.

Anoka Union: Peculiar situation. The Republican party of Minnesota is without a candidate for governor.

Will They?

Le Sueur News: William E. Lee is the nominee of the Republicans for governor. The Minneapolis Tribune quoted him as saying that "Only the corruptionists and morally depraved will vote for Eberhart." There was a lot of them in the state, according to the returns. Will they now vote for William E. Lee. That remains to be seen.

A Melon to Cut.

Stillwater Gazette: Lee or Hammond will have the opportunity to appoint successors to J. A. O. Preus, insurance commissioner, who is a candidate for state auditor; W. F. Houck, labor commissioner; Guy A. Eaton, oil inspector; Charles E. Kellar, state fire marshal; Charles E. Vasaly, Democrat, chairman state board of control, and J. G. Armson, Democrat, chairman tax commission; J. G. Winkjer, state dairy and food commissioner, as well as an army of other officials too numerous to mention.

Some Truth in That.

Hibbing Tribune: We congratulate the Democratic party in Minnesota upon the nomination of Congressman Hammond for governor. Fate gave them an awful scare, but finally decided to be better to them than they deserved.

Consequences of His Bolt.

St. Cloud Times: The fact that W. E. Lee was an insurgent and supported the Bull Moose candidate against Taft in the last election, is not going to help him in his fight for the governorship this fall. The conservative element in the Republican party feels that Roosevelt was not entitled to the vote that he got in Minnesota at the last election. They also feel that the Bull Moosers are responsible to a large extent for the country going Democratic in the last election and they have not forgotten about that—especially those who are being dropped from Uncle Sam's payroll.

Chickens May Come Home.

Little Falls Herald: All those "immoral, crooked," etc., folks that Candidate Lee said were supporting Eberhart, still have votes, and we shall hear no more of their lack of virtue from Lee and his newspaper organs.

Battleship Indiana Was Once "Queen of the Sea"

For the last two years the battleships Indiana, Massachusetts and Oregon have been stripped of their crews and more delicate machinery and held in idleness at navy yards. They are obsolete fighting craft; at the best third class. Yet, twenty years ago the Indiana was hailed as "Queen of the Seas," the most powerful warship afloat. Albert Franklin Matthews wrote as follows about it in the Century Magazine in July, 1894:

In the presence of a distinguished company, which included the president of the United States, occurred a few days ago the launching of the Indiana, one of three sister battleships now building in this country, so completejn all their details, and so equipped with powers of almost inconceivable destruction that they are acknowledged by naval experts here and abroad to be superior to any engine of war yet constructed. * * *

To build a battleship is of itself a mighty achievement for any country, but to build one better than any other nation is building, and that in face of the fact that only six years ago we had no plants capable of making shafts, armor or gun forgings, is surely a triumph. * * *

It is worth while to consider what a battleship like the Indiana really is. In the first place the cost approximates $3,500,000. Surely a craft like this is a stupendous bit of machinery. It is a delicate adjustment of curves of solid steel to the changeable resistance of waves of air and water. It is as much superior to the ordinary vessel, and as much more complicated, as an opera is to the ordinary hymn tune. It is simply packed with machinery.

The steel for that Mr. Nixon planned is 190 feet long, 7½ feet deep and eighteen inches thick. At each end a barbette rises to protect the monster 13-inch guns. Built around this fort, and with its smoke stacks, conning tower and military mast rising above it from the inside of the steel fortress, is a sturdy craft which may be entirely shot away at the ends and is 348 feet long, 69 feet broad and 24 feet deep. Its speed is to be sixteen knots an hour and its steam power that of 10,000 horses. It displaces 10,300 tons of water.

Begin Now to Live.

Michael Monahan in "At the Sign of the Van": After a long, stern chase I am convinced that the ingredients of happiness are very few and simple. The trouble with most of us is that we think we want too many things and so miss our true aim in the effort to obtain them. It is better to put beauty in your life than money in your purse. Glit-edged stocks will not compensate you for the poverty of the mind. A city mansion and a country house, the seductions of society and the vain pursuit of the anise seed bag will not make up to you for a dearth of soul life. Cut out the superfluities—and begin to live.

Real Friends.

Detroit Free Press: "Success brings out a man's friends."

"Yes, but if you want to know your real friends count the few who support you when you don't seem to have a chance to win."

A Plow That Rang True.

World's Work: In Buenos Aires a few years ago an American salesman of plows wished to demonstrate to a local customer the superiority of his goods over that of a German competitor. The American consul arranged for the test.

The German plows proved to be almost exact duplicates of the American implement in design and rather better in finish. Wasting no time in explanation, the American salesman called over a powerful peon and ordered him to swing with all his strength with a ten-pound sledge upon the share of one of the American plows.

The husky Basque spat upon his hands, hunched his muscular shoulders, swung the heavy hammer in a wide circle, and brought it down on the spot indicated. A note as clear as that of a bell rang out and the plow went bounding across the floor, but, save for the patch of red paint that fused to and came off on the hammer head, the share was unmarked. When the operation was repeated upon one of the German implements, the first share was completely shattered, the pieces being scattered about the floor like so much broken crockery. Thinking that possibly the faultiness of this share had been an accident of construction, perhaps of over-tempering, the dealer requested the peon to swing upon the second sample. This blow demonstrated that the German implements were not even consistent in their defectiveness, for this share doubled up under the blow and folded lovingly in around the hammer like a flower going to sleep at night.

There were tears in the consul's eyes as he wrung the salesman's hand in congratulation, but all he said was, "And they still accuse us of exporting wooden nutmegs!"

Holding Up a Chinese Mirror.

Life: Wu Ting-fang, who has been Chinese minister to the United States, has written a book in which he says some things which will be received with astonishment.

He says that Americans spend too much of their time in trying to make others good and thus neglect themselves. He says that American children are not respectful to their parents, and declares that he is sometimes tempted to say that Asia will have to civilize the West over again.

That is quite bad enough, but think of this:

> "From personal observation I have formed the opinion that the Chinese are more contented than Americans, and certainly one meets more old people in China than in America."

Wu Ting-fang was in this country for eight years. What other truths might he have discovered if his term had been continued!

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH BUSINESS? SHE'S ALL RIGHT!

Henry Ford gave the best answer yet to the question "What's the matter with business?"

Talking to the president yesterday, he said: "There is absolutely nothing wrong with business. The only trouble is that some people seem pessimistic. If everyone would only cheer up and attend to their business this calamity talk would stop immediately."

And that's the truth!

There isn't a country in the world where business, industrial and financial conditions are as sound as they are in this country today.

Moreover, there is a big crop coming that will be sold at high prices, and the country presently will be wading knee deep in a flood of new wealth from the soil.

A few forlorn partisans, bitterly discontented because they are kept out of power; a few embittered beneficiaries of privilege whose fat pickings are threatened by measures aimed at social justice; a few non-producing absorbers of wealth whose worse than useless occupations have been taken away: these form the chorus of calamity-howlers.

The country is rich and getting richer. Business is good and getting better. The tide of prosperity is rising after its sharp ebb in Roosevelt's time. It is rising under new conditions that will insure a wider distribution of prosperity than the country ever has seen before.

What's the matter with business? SHE'S all RIGHT!

This being clearance sale season, it's too bad the state can't offer some slightly worn but good as new boards and things to the first bidder.

BIG CROPS, GOOD PRICES AND THE TARIFF.

As a foundation for prosperity, good crops alone are not enough. They must bring good prices, too.

And that is another good thing about the present crop situation.

The prospects are not only that there will be a splendid crop, but that it will be sold at good prices.

Our crop will be big—but in itself that would tend to cut prices so that maybe a farmer wouldn't get as much money out of a bountiful crop as he might out of a slim one.

However, our big crop will only tend to equalize losses elsewhere in the world. The world's crops are not so large but they can absorb our big yield without putting the price down.

That's not particularly cheerful news for the consumer; but it's very rosy news for the grain-producer and for the whole system of business, finance and industry that is foundationed upon the producer's prosperity.

It is a sort of phenomenon, too.

Ordinarily, the farmer's luck is more like this: when he has much grain to sell, prices are so low it's hardly worth selling; and when prices are so high it pays richly to sell, he has no grain to offer.

This year, though, there will be an eager market at good prices for all the farmer can raise, and he is going to raise a great deal.

Incidentally, dear farmer, there is a political lesson in this.

For a long time you were kept supporting a high tariff system that burdened you on every article you had to buy, because you were told that it had to be that way so you could get the benefit of "protection" on your grain.

Now the same people are trying to get you to vote back the same system of high protection on the same flimsy pretext.

The present condition, and the condition that is indicated for crop-marketing time, ought to teach you the truth; which is that it is the world market, not tariff boundary walls, that fixes the price of your grain.

Every dollar you have paid out in tariff taxes for the sake of getting protection for your own products has been swindled out of you on false pretenses!

You had low prices under protection because the world market was full and wouldn't pay good prices for your grain.

You are going to have high prices under a reduced tariff tax this year, because the world market is eager and will pay you good prices.

Whether this country or that has a duty on wheat or not makes no difference at all to that world market. There it is supply and demand, and tariffs cut no figure.

THE CHIEF AND ONLY FUNCTION OF PROTECTION ON GRAIN HAS BEEN TO DELUDE THE FARMER INTO SUPPORTING A SYSTEM OF TARIFF TAXATION THAT ROBBED HIM AND EVERY OTHER CONSUMER FOR THE ENRICHMENT OF A PRIVILEGED FEW.

Down in Iowa the Bull Moosers are calling Roosevelt "the peerless leader." Will somebody please rise up and interpret the significance of this?

EVERYBODY'LL BE DOING IT.

The St. Paul Dispatch warmly applauds the spirit in which Congressman Hammond gave his indorsement to the work of the Craig efficiency and economy commission in a letter to Mr. Craig published in The Herald the other day. Says the Dispatch:

> The voters of the state will approve the prudent action of Winfield S. Hammond, Democratic nominee for governor, in coming out strongly for the adoption by the legislature of the efficiency and economy program of the commission appointed by Governor Eberhart. It would have been perfectly easy, and in accordance with party politics, for Mr. Hammond to deprecate the whole list of recommendations of the commission, solely on the ground that they were the offspring of a Republican administration. But evidently Mr. Hammond does not pursue that kind of tactics, and his liberality of mind, as thus displayed, cannot but commend him to the people, who are far more interested in seeing the state government put upon a high plane of efficiency than in witnessing the personal triumph of this or that politician.

If we may lift the summer political truce long enough to say so, this incident will be found by the voters of Minnesota to be a foretaste of the broad vision and high public spirit of the man whom they are going to elect in November to be their governor.

The plan of putting state business on a business basis worked out by the commission will prove, we believe, highly popular; and though Mr. Hammond is the first eminent candidate to go on record in favor of it, he will not be the last.

Indeed, the Minneapolis Journal, Mr. Lee's chief newspaper supporter, in scoring the Duluth News Tribune for saying that Lee has opposed the plan, reproduces some rather lukewarm praise for the commission made early in Mr. Lee's campaign and before the commission's work was laid before the state. It is very diluted encouragement for those who, in the interests of lower taxes and better government, want this plan to be adopted; but we have no doubt that Mr. Lee presently will amend his original utterance to make it as cordial and thorough-going as he can. There is no longer danger that he will by so doing lay himself open to the charge of saying something helpful to Mr. Eberhart.

There is a natural curiosity as to the new names to be conferred on the battleships Idaho and Mississippi.

"AND FEW IN A HILL."

President Wilson is trying simply to get the best board he can find to handle the new banking and currency system.

That's why he nominated for places on that board Paul M. Warburg of New York and Thomas D. Jones of Chicago.

The senate committee on banking has placed itself squarely in the way of this attempt to create a board that shall be fully competent and that shall have the confidence of the public. It objects to Jones because he is a director in large corporations, though there isn't even the hint of a charge that he ever did anything unbecoming a citizen and a patriot. It objects to Warburg because he is a Wall Street banker, and because "senatorial prerogatives" are involved in his refusal to submit to a grand jury third degree inquisition. It seems to care nothing for the fact that he is by all odds the most capable man named on the board, and so far as anybody knows the most capable man available.

"Senatorial prerogatives!" Senatorial fiddlesticks!

The whole effect, if not the whole purpose, of this absurd proceeding is to make it impossible to get high grade men for important and exacting public positions, and so to keep the public service on a dead level of cheap mediocrity. Perhaps these senators would feel more comfortable if it were kept there. The contrast with themselves would be less marked.

Peanuts, five cents a bushel!

Cole Blease says no militia from other states must cross South Carolina. They made a big mistake in not having Cole on hand when they were fighting the yellow fever mosquito in New Orleans.

Prosperity Talk vs. Calamity Howling

Editorial in the Baltimore Sun.

Yesterday was Prosperity day in the United States senate. The Democratic senators who have been getting a little restless at the talk of the calamity howlers decided to do some answering back and proceeded to the task very vigorously. They first felicitated themselves upon the splendid showing, from the revenue standpoint, made by the new tariff act, there being a surplus of $33,000,000 in the treasury. Then they began to give details. The big tube plant at McKeesport, Pa., has been put on full time, said one senator. The Singer Sewing Machine company, which heretofore has closed down for a two or three weeks' vacation each summer, on account of press of business would limit the vacation this year to one week. Said Senator Hollis of New Hampshire:

"Not a single cotton, woolen or textile mill has closed down in my state and not a pulp or paper mill. In the part of New Hampshire where I live you cannot hire labor even at an offer of reasonable wages. Labor has never been so well employed in New Hampshire as it is today."

Senator Simmons, answering a report to the contrary, said that not one of the 300 cotton mills in his state of North Carolina had shut down, and he quoted one large mill owner as saying that this was the best year the industry in the South had ever known. He read a communication from a bleaching and finishing concern in New England stating that the agent of an English house which exported white goods to China, the Philippines and South America had said that they could buy a better grade of these products from the New England mills cheaper than from the English exporters. The senator also read a letter from Secretary Redfield quoting a communication received by the latter from Leigh & Butler, importers of textile machinery, who said that the American manufacturers of these products were quoting prices on textile machinery which the English could not reach.

Doubtless each statement made here is precisely true, and many others equally true and equally optimistic could be quoted, and yet we all know that there is a certain amount of business depression and that very few of the business men we meet in the street are going ahead as confidently as they do in normal times. What is the answer?

Many factors enter into that answer. One that is fundamental is that there is a world-wide business depression, caused chiefly by the wars of recent times and the expenditures of the great nations for naval and military purposes. The United States shares in this. Again, the depression here is limited. It hits very hardly the railroads and the businesses dependent thereon, but, as every one knows, their troubles are not due to general conditions, nor to tariff, currency or trust legislation enacted by the present congress. Their troubles are due primarily to the fact that for a decade they have been obliged by the government to pay out constantly increasing sums for wages and other things, while that same government has made them reduce rates simultaneously. Further, the business depression is sectional, in a way. Everything seems lovely in the Middle West, where the crops are the largest in history.

It is thus seen that a great many conflicting forces are moving this way or that to affect the business of the country, and this situation affords an opportunity for the calamity howlers to howl—and their howling itself affects business to some extent. "Investors must remember," said the New York Commercial in its financial columns yesterday, "that one-half of the men who take a keen interest in politics feel that the fate of their party at the coming congressional elections depends chiefly on its ability to make a majority of the voters believe that they are hard up and that the country is growing poorer. A man can make himself believe almost anything if he talks it long enough. This pessimistic talk has taken the courage out of speculators who have money."

It will be very difficult, however, for even those interested in talking pessimistically to make the people believe that there is anything fundamentally or seriously wrong with the business of the country, in the face of the record crops and in face of the fact that bank clearings, usually a most accurate index of the extent of business, are in a most satisfactory condition. Dun's Review, basing its figures on returns from 129 leading centers in the United States, finds that the total clearings for June amounted to $13,869,912,279, an increase of 1.7 per cent compared with the same month of last year and of 2.1 per cent compared with the corresponding month of 1912. With more money changing hands than ever before, only a very grumpy individual indeed can be wholly pessimistic.

Turn About Is Fair Play.

Cleveland Press: "It is an awful thing," says Ban Johnson, "for a player openly to boast that he is in the game for what he can get out of it."

What is awful about it, the open boast?

You wouldn't want players to be hypocrites, would you, Ban?

Of course, it's money that is back of professional baseball; otherwise it would not be professional. And if the magnates are in it for money, why not the players, too?

To be sure, money isn't all, with either magnates or players. Pride is a factor, and love of applause, to say nothing of the great human appeal of the game as sport.

But Ban will have a hard time making fans believe that pride and love of applause and the sporting appeal are to be found only within the ranks of organized baseball.

Money put Ban's organization on the map; and somehow it strikes us that he isn't quite the person to hold up his hands in horror, now that he is getting what he once gave.

The Truth About Panama

Editorial in the New York World.

Every American may find a patriotic suggestion of value to himself in the president's Fourth of July speech. We do not except Col. Roosevelt, who recently said:

> An administration that will conclude such a treaty as this for the payment of blackmail to Colombia has forfeited all right to the respect of the people of the United States.

Whether the president had the author of this shocking sentiment in mind we do not know, but that portion of his remarks which Col. Roosevelt should consider very carefully embraced these words:

> Honesty is a perfectly simple thing. It is hard for me to believe that when a man is dishonest he does not know it. It is hard for me to believe, under most circumstances, when a man has to choose between two ways, that he does not know which is the right way and which is the wrong way.
> I would be ashamed of this flag if it ever did anything outside of America that we would not permit it to do inside of America.

The World of Sunday showed in great detail what the flag, obeying the orders of President Roosevelt, did at Panama in 1903. It violated our treaty with Colombia. It protected a purchased "revolution" participated in by a handful of conspirators. It cooperated with the corrupt French Panama canal lobby. It paid money to the new "republic" of Panama. It has been used ever since by Col. Roosevelt to hide the truth of the scandal and recently to flaunt the baseless charge of blackmail in the face of Colombia. It has been made to cover our refusal to arbitrate a case so iniquitous on our part that we have never dared submit it to an impartial tribunal.

Today's publication includes documentary proof that the bogus revolution at the isthmus was engineered in this country; that President Roosevelt placed himself and his great office at the disposal of the lobbyists and traitors who planned it; that with his consent they used his authority to intimidate Colombia; that the revolution was so carefully arranged in all its details that the story of it was told in the World more than four months before it took place; that the whole miserable business in New York, Washington and Panama was worked out by means of spies, cipher dispatches and go-betweens, and that finally, when everything was in readiness, a show of force by United States war vessels against Colombia was all that was needed to complete the theft of a state from a weak but friendly neighbor. Everything was done according to the program, secretly here but openly and defiantly in Panama.

President Wilson believes that there is something instinctive in man that gives him knowledge of right and wrong. He holds that in most cases men who choose the wrong do so with deliberation. We think no one can read the World's amazing disclosures in the Panama affair without sharing his opinion in this case. There were right ways and wrong ways of acquiring the isthmus, as plain in 1903 as they are today. Mr. Roosevelt chose the wrong way, and his attempted secrecy then and his bluster now prove it.

For a time he sought to falsify the record that he had made. Then he excused himself on the ground of necessity. Later on, in an excess of egotism, he boasted of his usurpation. At the present moment he is vainly striving to help himself and his associates in dishonor by pleading blackmail on the part of those who were wronged and by assailing a president who is neither afraid nor ashamed to do right.

Fear for Self Is Cause of "Nerves"

Elliott Park Frost in the Atlantic: It is worry, or fear for self, engendered by the tensions of our new-fashioned ways, that makes for that "nervous fatigue which does not crave rest, but distraction." Nerves get tetanized and will not relax. To enforce the rigid discipline of task and precept no longer brings results. To talk of "zest in work" is but a farcical euphemism to nerves that are overstrung.

Psychology has discovered within the last decade just how dangerous our repressions are. Ideas and emotions represent energy, and unless we expend the energy it becomes dammed back in the nervous system like so much steam under pressure, and sooner or later will explode—or slowly fester like a tumor until the whole body is poisoned. The mind must be kept free from thoughts that clog. And the mental prophylaxis is a constant attitude of nonchalance. By changing our mental attitudes of apprehension to attitudes of nonchalance we accomplish as much as if we were able to increase our actual nervous capabilities, for we are rid of the greatest obstruction to action. To introduce system in an office is better than adding a clerk. This is good psychology, every word of it.

If I were going to attempt a sermon (and who does not feel himself capable of at least a couple?) my first text should be upon the theme: "Shifting Gears." I should begin with a pertinent illustration. It would be the picture of a motor car and a long hill. You size up the hill from the bottom, and attempt it on the high gear. The grade proves to be steeper than you at first thought. The engine begins to pound. But you have vowed to make the top on the high gear. By simply shifting over, with whatever reluctance, all would be well. Instead of that, you let the engine fret and throb, perhaps stall itself or wreck something, for your pride's sake. This the picture. Then the moral application (which every one has seen coming all along). Now, good friends, isn't this just what we are trying to do? Are we not playing the foolish chauffeur?

Gratitude.

I thank thee, Moon and Star and Sun,
For shining on me, now and then,
Just as thou shinest on all men—
With special favor shown to none,
When or where'er thy course is run!

I thank thee, Day, that all thy light
Is mine to share with all mankind!
And grateful, I, 'tis mine to find
My meed of darkness in the night
That follows day's unvaried flight!

I thank thee, Wind, that on thy way
Thou blowest fairly on us all!
Most thankful, I, the tempest's thrall
Is just the same where rich men stray
As where grim poverty holds sway!

Thanks give I that, from Nature's hand,
Both good and ill broadcast are thrown,
For where the power of gold is known,
Rank favoritism stalks the land—
And I, alas, no wealth command!

Not the Only One.

Judge: "My house is so well organized," said Mrs. de Graw, "that I don't go into my kitchen once in a week."

"That's the pleasant way she puts it," her husband explained. "As a matter of fact, she's afraid of her cook.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Henry Barnhart of Indiana has a friend out in his district who drives a squatty little automobile, which is invariably covered with mud. So far as anybody knows he has never washed the machine in the three years it has been his. No one had the nerve to ask him why he didn't wash it until the matter was brought to the attention of Barnhart, who is an able-bodied person of great frankness and asks about anything that he desires to know. So he walked up and inquired of the man why he doesn't wash his auto.

"Because," replied the man, "the mud covers the paint and keeps it from getting scratched."

Representative Frank T. O'Hair, who will soon be in the midst of trying to beat Joe Cannon again for congress, maintains a large flock of collie dogs at his home. He went one day to buy a single dog, but could not make up his mind which one he liked best out of a group of four, and so he bought the entire quartet. Some of these have raised families and now O'Hair himself hardly knows how many collies he has in his yard. When he left home to come to Washington last winter O'Hair put his horse and cow out on a farm and was about to dispose of his collies similarly, but one of them happened to give him a funny look and it was all off. He was afraid the dogs might not be content away from home. That being the case he hired a man to stick around and feed them and look after them right on their own premises.

The last time he was home O'Hair went strolling about the streets of his town with most of his dogs following.

An old man stopped him to discuss politics and remarked, as they separated:

"Well, Frank, you ought to feel reasonably sure of getting most of the collie vote."

Senator Root has two mild manias. One is to collect rare etchings and the other is to plant trees.

When he is at home on his ancestral estate up in New York Root gets most of his recreation out of going forth in his old clothes, spade in hand and setting out trees. The place is already adorned with all the trees actually needed, but Root buys a great many more of a wide variety each year. He wants them not only for the landscape scheme, but for the sport of inserting them in the warm mother earth.

Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky is a man of philanthropic impulses and when he used to practice law he was constantly being imposed upon by people who took up his time without giving him much reward.

One old chap used to come in about twice a week to have legal chores performed and Johnson never charged him anything. But the old man never failed to make a bluff of putting his hand in his pocket and inquiring: "Well, how much do I owe you, Ben?"—knowing well enough that Ben would say: "Oh, that all right."

Now Johnson didn't mind doing all this work for nothing, but he got tired of having the old chap work that bluff on him. One morning the old fellow reached into his pocket and asked how much he owed for legal services, just as a charity worker entered the office.

"Oh, I guess $25 will be about right," was Ben's startling reply.

The client was game and paid it, whereupon Ben tossed it over to the charity worker, saying to his client:

"If you ever pull that bluff on me again, I'll charge you more'n that."

Representative Michael E. Conry of New York used to be employed in the coal mines of Pennsylvania. One morning as he was going to work he met another Irishman all fixed up in his Sunday clothes.

"What's wrong?" asked Conry.

"Nothin' wrong," answered the other laborer.

"But what's happened?"

"Nothin' happened. A man's got to show some respect to the dead."

"What dead?"

"Oh, that Polander I worked with died yesterday."

"What did he die of?"

"A rock fell and hit him."

"You don't say! How big a rock was it?"

"Oh, three or four-ton, maybe. Them Polanders can't stand much. I purty near got hurt myself yesterday."

"How was that?"

"The rock that killed the Polander hit me first, but luckily it bounced off."

Care and Worry.

You have heard of Care and Worry—
dark visitors they say,
Who stalk about familiar as Hamlet's
ghost at play.
They come and tarry with you, unbidden and unasked,
And flaunt their gaunt arms o'er you
—add weight to every task.
They watch the rays of sunshine, and
guard your open door,
Lest Light and Hope may enter and
sing the songs of yore.
Close friends are Care and Worry,
they laugh and dance with glee,
And pile the faggots higher at each
white lock they see.
They glory in the shadows their black
robes fling about,
And while the cloud is o'er you they
laugh and dance and shout.
They ever walk before you, for should
they fall behind,
Their forms would vanish from you
like mist before the wind.
But over on the other side wait Love
and Hope and Joy,
Mother and wife and sister, and little
Bob, your boy.
The robin sings in the hollow and
the skylark chants his lay,
And flowers blossom about you from
the morn till close of day.
Fling back at Care and Worry their
black robes of despair,
And know as the years pass swiftly
God's hand has rested there.
Smooth out the great deep furrows
cut wide on brow and cheek,
For trouble lies in the valley—you are nearing the mountain peak.

Leaders of Socialism.

Life: Nobody has ever been heard to deny that our leading men lead, but the direction that their leadership takes seems to become more and more difficult to agree upon. The Railway Age Gazette thinks as follows:

> It is a toss-up whether the demagogs or the highbinders of finance are doing the more to bring all the details of business under the regulation of public officials. Eugene V. Debs, Morris Hillquit and Upton Sinclair think that they are the real leaders of the Socialistic movement in this country. They take themselves too seriously. The real leaders of Socialism in this country are such men as * * * are too crooked, cowardly, indolent or incapable to perform the duties of their positions.

Governorship Talk

What the State Press Thinks

Blaming It on the Democrats.

Luverne Herald: While the Republicans of Minnesota will share in the pleasure the Hammond Democrats find in Congressman Hammond finally winning the nomination for governor from Dan Lawler, the sorrow that would have been occasioned had the result been otherwise could have been borne.

For years the Democrats have followed the practice of going into the primary election and voting for the weakest candidate for governor on the Republican ticket, in the hope that he would be nominated and the Democratic nominee thus have a better chance to win. They played the same game this year. The Hammond Democrats were absolutely confident that Mr. Hammond would defeat Mr. Lawler by an overwhelming vote, and that if Mr. Lee were nominated Hammond could easily defeat him. So all but the dyed-in-the-wool Democrats went into the primaries and voted for Mr. Lee.

Mr. Hammond got through by the skin of his teeth, but for a while his defeat seemed certain. It is to be hoped that in this our Democratic friends have had a lesson that will stay with them for a while, and that hereafter they will know enough to shinny on their own side of the party line.

Very Peculiar.

Anoka Union: Peculiar situation. The Republican party of Minnesota is without a candidate for governor.

Will They?

Le Sueur News: William E. Lee is the nominee of the Republicans for governor. The Minneapolis Tribune quoted him as saying that "Only the corruptionists and morally depraved will vote for Eberhart." There was a lot of them in the state, according to the returns. Will they now vote for William E. Lee. That remains to be seen.

A Melon to Cut.

Stillwater Gazette: Lee or Hammond will have the opportunity to appoint successors to J. A. O. Preus, insurance commissioner, who is a candidate for state auditor; W. F. Houck, labor commissioner; Guy A. Eaton, oil inspector; Charles E. Kellar, state fire marshal; Charles E. Vasaly, Democrat, chairman state board of control, and J. G. Armson, Democrat, chairman tax commission; J. G. Winkjer, state dairy and food commissioner, as well as an army of other officials too numerous to mention.

Some Truth in That.

Hibbing Tribune: We congratulate the Democratic party in Minnesota upon the nomination of Congressman Hammond for governor. Fate gave them an awful scare, but finally decided to be better to them than they deserved.

Consequences of His Bolt.

St. Cloud Times: The fact that W. E. Lee was an insurgent and supported the Bull Moose candidate against Taft in the last election, is not going to help him in his fight for the governorship this fall. The conservative element in the Republican party feels that Roosevelt was not entitled to the vote that he got in Minnesota at the last election. They also feel that the Bull Moosers are responsible to a large extent for the country going Democratic in the last election and they have not forgotten about that—especially those who are being dropped from Uncle Sam's payroll.

Chickens May Come Home.

Little Falls Herald: All those "immoral, crooked," etc., folks that Candidate Lee said were supporting Eberhart, still have votes, and we shall hear no more of their lack of virtue from Lee and his newspaper organs.

Battleship Indiana Was Once "Queen of the Sea"

For the last two years the battleships Indiana, Massachusetts and Oregon have been stripped of their crews and more delicate machinery and held in idleness at navy yards. They are obsolete fighting craft; at the best third class. Yet, twenty years ago the Indiana was hailed as "Queen of the Seas," the most powerful warship afloat. Albert Franklin Matthews wrote as follows about it in the Century Magazine in July, 1894:

In the presence of a distinguished company, which included the president of the United States, occurred a few days ago the launching of the Indiana, one of three sister battleships now building in this country, so completed in all their details, and so equipped with powers of almost inconceivable destruction that they are acknowledged by naval experts here and abroad to be superior to any engine of war yet constructed. * * *

To build a battleship is of itself a mighty achievement for any country, but to build one better than any other nation is building, and that in face of the fact that only six years ago we had no plants capable of making shafts, armor or gun forgings, is surely a triumph. * * *

It is worth while to consider what a battleship like the Indiana really is. In the first place the cost approximates $3,500,000. Surely a craft like this is a stupendous bit of machinery. It is a delicate adjustment of curves of solid steel to the changeable resistance of waves of air and water. It is as much superior to the ordinary vessel, and as much more complicated, as an opera is to the ordinary hymn tune. It is simply packed with machinery.

The steel for that Mr. Nixon planned is 190 feet long, 7½ feet deep and eighteen inches thick. At each end a barbette rises to protect the monster 13-inch guns. Built around this fort, and with its smoke stacks, conning tower and military mast rising above it from the inside of the steel fortress, is a sturdy craft which may be entirely shot away at the ends and is 348 feet long, 69 feet broad and 24 feet deep. Its speed is to be sixteen knots an hour and its steam power that of 10,000 horses. It displaces 10,300 tons of water.

Begin Now to Live.

Michael Monahan in "At the Sign of the Van": After a long, stern chase I am convinced that the ingredients of happiness are very few and simple. The trouble with most of us is that we think we want too many things and so miss our true aim in the effort to obtain them. It is better to put beauty in your life than money in your purse. Gilt-edged stocks will not compensate you for the poverty of the mind. A city mansion and a country house, the seductions of society and the vain pursuit of the anise seed bag will not make up to you for a dearth of soul life. Cut out the superfluities—and begin to live.

Real Friends.

Detroit Free Press: "Success brings out a man's friends."

"Yes, but if you want to know your real friends count the few who support you when you don't seem to have a chance to win."

A Plow That Rang True.

World's Work: In Buenos Aires a few years ago an American salesman of plows wished to demonstrate to a local customer the superiority of his goods over that of a German competitor. The American consul arranged for the test.

The German plows proved to be almost exact duplicates of the American implement in design and rather better in finish. Wasting no time in explanation, the American salesman called over a powerful peon and ordered him to swing with all his strength with a ten-pound sledge upon the share of one of the American plows.

The husky Basque spat upon his hands, hunched his muscular shoulders, swung the heavy hammer in a wide circle, and brought it down on the spot indicated. A note as clear as that of a bell rang out and the plow went bounding across the floor, but, save for the patch of red paint that fused to and came off on the hammer head, the share was unmarked. When the operation was repeated upon one of the German implements, the first share was completely shattered, the pieces being scattered about the floor like so much broken crockery. Thinking that possibly the faultiness of this share had been an accident of construction, perhaps of over-tempering, the dealer requested the peon to swing upon the second sample. This blow demonstrated that the German implements were not even consistent in their defectiveness, for this share doubled up under the blow and folded lovingly in around the hammer like a flower going to sleep at night.

There were tears in the consul's eyes as he wrung the salesman's hand in congratulation, but all he said was, "And they still accuse us of exporting wooden nutmegs!"

Holding Up a Chinese Mirror.

Life: Wu Ting-fang, who has been Chinese minister to the United States, has written a book in which he says some things which will be received with astonishment.

He says that Americans spend too much of their time in trying to make others good and thus neglect themselves. He says that American children are not respectful to their parents, and declares that he is sometimes tempted to say that Asia will have to civilize the West over again.

That is quite bad enough, but think of this:

"From personal observation I have formed the opinion that the Chinese are more contented than Americans, and certainly one meets more old people in China than in America."

Wu Ting-fang was in this country for eight years. What other truths might he have discovered if his term had been continued!

POLICE AS CENSORS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It was very nice of you to give mention to your thoughts in tonight's editorial columns of The Herald with regard to "Police Censorship of Public Speech."

A great many of our "soap box orators" are bright and capable men, and I would like for you to say how many of our common, everyday $75 per month policemen are capable of offering criticism, much less to set up a censorship of a public speaker.

How many of our policemen can talk intelligently, and how many of our policemen can understand and do so intelligently? In haste,

SCENES AT THE PASSING OF A ONCE GREAT NEWSPAPER

Written By Walter Hurt for the New York Telegraph.

RECENTLY I witnessed a supreme tragedy of the Fourth estate. The Inter Ocean, historic among Chicago newspapers, passed to the realm of remembered things.

It was death. In every incident of the dissolution was the poignancy of physical pain.

It was more than the death of an individual. It was the death of an institution. It was the death of human hopes, or human ambitions, of human aspirations. In some cases it was the close of promising careers. Saddest of all, it was the death of dear associations. It was the disintegration of a fabric of friendship interwoven through many changeful years. It was a breaking of bonds, a parting of paths, the scattering of a family to earth's far places. With a few veterans it meant the end of journalistic journeyings, the beginning of strange trails. Whatever of regret evidenced, however, was sentimental rather than economic.

I have been "in at the death" of a number of newpapers—in fact, it seems difficult for any paper to survive my connection with it—but none other has so impressed me with the pathos of its passing. For, be it borne in mind, the Inter Ocean was not of the journalistic ephemera. It was of the pioneer brand. It was a paper with a history—that had made history. Founded in 1871, through forty-three years it had survived the vicissitudes of various changes of management. And it was the sole remaining representative of those old days of dignified journalism whereof it had been an unquestioned exemplar. It was the last land-mark of an eventful epoch in that wonderful West which has seen a magical enterprise build an empire in a wilderness and rear a metropolis above a morass. In these splendid achievements it had been a foremost factor; nor was its power of local limitation, for it wielded a nation-wide influence and spoke with authority to men in high places. Now in this day of its demolition it was a magnificent ruin—like some ancient and storied castle, rich in traditions, making place for a modern villa.

IT WAS OF THE PIONEER BREED.

Certain salient features of the closing scene still stand forth, carved like white cameos, against a mournful memory: A snow-haired publisher, broken but brave, bowed with the burden of finality. Groups of comrades, subdued of speech, giving voice to many things but leaving more unuttered. In shadowed recesses were rifled desks, hovered over by the ghosts of perished hopes, their emptiness invested with the wraiths of dead dreams. Everywhere brooded the despair of departure. Upon each visible object death's somber seal was set. And over it all was spread like an impalpable shroud the texture of a speechless desolation.

Observing the obsequies as a family mourner, this chronicle of necessity is most intimately indited. It was an occasion for an epic pen—to inspire an exequial Iliad—had an alien scribe been present. But none may dip a quill into the deeps of his own heart and write the utmost utterance.

WORKING REMNANT OF THE OLD GUARD.

There was present a working remnant of the old guard, who had not sought service elsewhere in the days of impending doom, impelled by some imperative sentiment to remain for the last sacrament. The night started with brave banter, but as the hours wore on each gallant jest was tinctured with tears. There was here no indifferent work, no neglect of any detail of duty. Each man performed his parting task with conscientious care, as if working for a future instead of a funeral.

They lost their jobs like gentlemen.

When the last page of copy had been sent up, one of the boys suspended across the main entrance to the local room, a huge placard blackly inscribed with the legend "30," inclosed with a mourning border. Upon the editorial bulletin board some sympathetic hand had posted this crude but significant rhyme:

When it's "30" for men and the forms are locked
By the hand of the Foreman grim,
What sort of a story can I concoct
Sufficient to satisfy Him
And square myself for the things
I've knocked—
For the craftsman's crowning sin—
When it's "30" for me and the forms are locked
And the last edition is in.

Mindful of the boys on the desks below, the composing room had set a staff souvenir, and a galley proof was pulled for each member. It carried this head:

THE LAST SHIFT ON THE INTER OCEAN DIED SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 10.

Followed the editorial roster. Beneath this list were the words, "We Died Hard," and lastly, like the closing symbol on a piece of copy, the cabalistic "30." The whole was bordered with inverted rules.

Then from the city news bureau came this parting message:

To the Inter Ocean Staff: Goodby and good luck, old boys. Here's to those of you who stuck to the old ship to the last.

Followed a farewell note from the Associated Press, reading:

To the Veterans of the Inter Ocean: Three cheers for the boys who went down with the ship, all colors flying. The fellows at the A. P. believe you got out a good paper in spite of your handicaps. If we helped any we are glad. No ship ever sank that was not replaced by a better craft. Cheer up! You sailed the sinking ship and you surely can sail a new one.

A. P. NIGHT STAFF.

Finally, as has been said by a better pen than mine, "the last box ever sent through the tube in the Inter Ocean clicked into the receiver." When the man on "dog watch" opened this box he drew forth a single sheet of copy paper which read:

THIRTY.
The A. P.

The tale was told.

It was up in the composing room that the most dramatic scene was staged.

MORE THAN DRAMA, IT WAS TRAGEDY.

It was more than drama—it was tragedy. This truly was the memorial chamber. Many of these old printers were an integral part of the establishment. Some had seen thirty years of continuous service, and had felt a sense of permanency that amounted almost to proprietorship. Here was the adytum of dear associations, where rare recollections clustered like ripened grapes in the sun.

A little German band, known to the craft as the "Hungry Six," which had been engaged for the end, played the dirge of departure. Men were brave enough to weep—for now weeping was not weakness. As "Nearer, My God, to Thee" floated softly forth, there was a suggestion of that transcendant tragedy when the Titanic sank. Only instead of a load of human lives there now went down a cargo of human hopes. When the instruments sobbed out the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" to these veterans of many vanished years, gray heads were bowed as above a bier, and tears again found their channels in age-furrowed cheeks.

At mignight the chapel called its last session. At least one part of the records of that memorable meeting is worthy of preservation—a formal farewell to the foreman. The touching tribute follows:

Midnight, May 10, 1914.

Mr. William E. Brown:

Dear Sir—The Inter Ocean chapel in final meeting assembled.

A chapel, known to generations of printers and linked by ties of friendship and long association, is about to go out of existence.

As its last official act, this body wishes to place on record an appreciation of you as a man and as a foreman.

In this farewell we sorrow and words are inadequate.

Good-bye, Bill.

THE INTER OCEAN CHAPEL.

Cheers mingled with tears when Herman H. Kohlsaat, the publisher, gave his parting address to the chapel. Response was made with resolutions of respect and appreciation drafted at the chapel meeting.

THE FINALE OF SILENCE

And then the finale of silence. No longer the battery of Mergenthalers murmured the news of nations with the many tongues of type. No more the floors vibrated to the throb of the presses like the heart of a world in pulsation. It was the hush of history as its portals closed upon the past.

Then a last survey by all of an unforgettable scene. It was looking upon a giant's expiring gasps—a colossus in the anguished throes of dissolution. It was as a sentiment being death-smitten

"And writhing like a stricken thing."

Its friends may find a degree of consolation in the fact that the Inter Ocean died a natural death. No institution can long survive its function—and for some years the Inter Ocean had, in a public sense, been functionless. It had degenerated to the personal organ of those who controlled it. Few of the principles it advocated were admirable. It was out of tune with the times. It refused to relate itself correctly to the contemporaneous spirit. Standing a reactionary in the focus of radical forces, it proclaimed its challenge to the changing order.

It took issue with the inevitable. Abjuring all adaptability, resisting every reform, static in its policies, immutable in its ideas, clinging tenaciously to the forms of an obsolete social order, it was trampled to extinction beneath the mighty march of evolutionary processes.

As for the boys who halted with the Inter Ocean while progress swept by, they now will gain catch step with the procession and pass on to better things.

GREAT RAT WAR IS OVER

Modern Pied Piper Earned $9.50 for One Hour's Work, and Tenants of Office Building Breathe Freely Again.

The Great Rat War at the Commercial building is over.

The invasion has been repelled. The rats are dead, and life has again resumed the even tenor of its way for the tenants.

Since the livery stable next door was vacated the hordes of rats which made the barn their headquarters have been seeking a new location. Being the nearest place, many of them turned towards the Commercial building.

Poison Is Tried.

Prompt measures were adopted. Poison was scattered about the abandoned stable. But alack and alas, the rats became louder dead than they were alive. They made a noise which smelt from the basement to the roof. They consumed the poison which had been left for them but before it took effect it was necessary for them to drink water. Being of a logical turn of mind the rats naturally went to the water office to get their water. The water office is located in the Commercial building and there they went, as any other intelligent rats would have done. They secured their supply at the elevator in the basement. The lift is hydraulically operated and where the pit overflows the rats got their aqua pura. They also got the action of the poison. They crawled under the floors or into the wall partitions where they gave up the ghost. If rats have souls the souls may have taken flight but their bodies didn't, as was evidenced by the strong manner in which they heralded their presence.

Wednesday evening the owner of the building managed to secure a Pied Piper, of a sort. The rats didn't follow him out to the strains of his pipe but he dragged three dozen of them out in a sack. He worked an hour and during that time here moved thirty-six corpses. For which strenuous labor he was paid $9.50, the agreement being that he would receive 50 cents an hour and 25 cents for each dead one which he took away.

And thus is explained the disagreeable odor which was noticed by those who visited the building early in the week. The war of extermination against the rats will be continued, but it is believed the thirty-six were about all that inhabited the old barn, and that the great rat war is over. At any rate, the air in the Commercial building is sweet and pure again, and no more scampering rodents are heard or seen.

NEVER TAUGHT ANY BUT SUNDAY SCHOOL

A. M. Chisholm Has His Little Joke at Expense of St. Paul Convention Delegates.

A. M. Chisholm of Duluth has been having some fun at the expense of the delegates to the convention of the National Educathional association there.

Here is the way the St. Paul Pioneer Press tells the story:

"How are you, doctor?" a delegate to the N. E. A. said approaching Archie Chisholm of Duluth, a "mining king" of the iron range.

"Very good, thank you," Mr. Chisholm replied. "How are things coming?"

"Very well," the delegate replied. "This is some meeting, isn't it?"

"Yes," Mr. Chisholm added. "I'm enjoying it."

The two chatted for some time on matters of passing interest. Mr. Chisholm is tall, always neatly dressed, pleasant, affable and ready for a joke.

"What do you think of the presidency?" the delegate finally asked. "Who has the best chances?"

"Well, Mr. Chisholm replied, "from what I have been able to pick up I seem to have it all my way. Of course Mr. Johnson and Mr. Jordan are nice men and running strong. They have lots of friends, but both likely will pull out in my favor. They know they can't beat me."

"Who is that man?" the delegate asked when "Dr." Chisholm had moved away. "I know his face, but I can't call his name."

"That's a mining man from Duluth," a newspaper writer replied. "The only place he ever taught was in Sunday school."

GAMBLER COULDN'T PICK BIG CASINO

So Chicago Judge Slapped on Fine After Court Test.

Chicago, July 10.—Judge Sabath shuffled a pack of cards while on the bench at the Chicago avenue police station court. He was experimenting on a "gamblers' test," which worked so successfully that one man was fined $25 and costs and six others were assessed $1 and costs each.

When Walter Sayard, proprietor of a billiard hall at 616 North Clark street, was brought before the judge on the charge of conducting a gambling house he said that he and the other men arrested had been playing a friendly game of "casino."

"Fetch me a pack of cards!" commanded the judge.

When a deck had been produced from the police squadron Judge Sabath singled out one of the defendants, handed him the cards, and said:

"What card is the 'big casino'?"

The prisoner didn't know. Neither could he pick out the "little casino." In fact, he failed to recognize any of the cards according to the rules of the game said to have been played.

When Judge Sabath imposed the fines the court was so quiet one might have heard a poker chip fall.

CHICAGO MEN ARE GIVEN HEARINGS.

Washington, July 10.—The delegation of Chicago business men who conferred with President Wilson on his trust program, talked yesterday on the same subject with Chairman Covington of the house commerce committee, Chairman Newlands of the senate interstate commerce committee, and Chairman Overman of the judiciary committee, proposing what they considered necessary changes in the bills.

Representative Covington told them President Wilson had said to him he wished to meet "big business" half way in consideration of the trust program, and wanted to be fair in every way. Mr. Covington promised to take their suggestions under consideration and lay his opinions before the president, and later before the house commerce committee.

CELEBRATE NEW CURRENCY SYSTEM.

Washington, July 10.—Illinois bankers representing their state association have invited President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo, Comptroller Williams and the entire Federal reserve board to make addresses at a national celebration of the inauguration of the new currency system in Chicago, Sept. 1 to 4.

TWO OUTBREAKS ON BLACKWELL'S ISLAND.

New York, July 10.—Another outbreak among the prisoners in the penitentiary at Blackwell's island occurred yesterday as a sequel to one Wednesday night in which several keepers were set upon and badly hurt.

The new trouble happened in the tailor shop, where a fire was started by the rebels and the power belting that runs the machines was cut. Six ring leaders were put back into their cells.

It was said the prisoners mutinied as a protest against refusal of the authorities to restore Wednesday's culprits to good standing.

Among the vacancies to be filled occasioned by resignations are those of lieutenant governor and attorney general for which offices William M. Bray, Oshkosh, and A. L. Kreutzer, Wausau, respectively, were nominated.

FRUITS ARE NOW CHEAPER

Raspberry Supplies Here Are Expected to Be Best in Years.

Home-Grown Vegetables Become Abundant—Another Jump in Tubers.

Living costs in so far as fruits and vegetables go are again appreciably reduced in the prices prevailing on the Duluth produce market today. If weather conditions are favorable for a time, quotations are likely to be lower than in years in the opinion of dealers on Michigan street. They aver that the area placed under cultivation in vegetables in this district and throughout the state is larger than in any previous season as a result of the development of the market gardening idea.

California fruits are the feature today, according to the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company and the Stacy-Merrill company. Under that category are to be included canteloupes, melons, apricotes, cherries, grapes, peaches, plums and pears. In these prices are generally lower, while the quality is regarded as exceptionally good. There has been a tremendous run in canteloupes of late and that has led to a firming up in their figures.

Raspberries are now becoming abundant and there has been a gratifying drop in their cost. While Washington is still the main source of supply, berries are now beginning to come in some volume from Wisconsin. Supplies from Deerwood and Western Minnesota will come along in about ten days, and large quantities of wild berries from the district are likely to be marketed this season. Red currants in sixteen-quart cases are also to be had. Oranges are again slightly easier and are much cheaper than a year ago. In the opinion of the trade quotations in them are likely to hold at around their present basis.

Plenty Home-Grown Vegetables.

In vegetables, the list of home-grown greenstuffs has been materially extended, and prices are now regarded as very reasonable in most items. Reductions have also been made in Mississippi and Texas tomatoes, and Michigan celery is down to the extent of 65 cents a crate. Home-grown head lettuce has made its appearance on the market and promises to command a large sale. It is to be noted that Duluth-grown lettuce commands a premium at Southern points on account of its special crispness and is finding a market at Chicago, Denver, New Orleans and other cities down that way.

Minnesota potatoes have again advanced and are now quoted at $1.20 a bushel. That is due to the rapid depletion of supplies, which are now estimated to be barely sufficient to carry the trade over till the new vegetable comes in.

Butter Prices Firm.

Butter figures are firm on the same basis as last week, 27@28c a pound. Receipts from creameries throughout this district are being well maintained, but the Eastern inquiry is reported to be greater than the market can supply, which is taken to emphasize the scope for dairying throughout the Northwest. The Bridgeman-Russell company and the Victor Produce company are both making regular shipments by boat to Buffalo, for distribution at New York, Boston and other Eastern cities.

Fresh eggs also remain as they were at 20@21c a dozen. The price tendency in them is firmer, however, and an advance in quotations is expected in the near future.

Cheap Meats Not Yet.

Poultry receipts are still light and dealers are experiencing difficulty in filling orders. No appreciable change is expected in that respect for some weeks yet.

Consumers are being called upon to pay dearly for their meats. Beef is up a cent a pound today, and veal has bulged 2c. This is due to the small receipts of cattle at packing plants. Packers say that with harvesting in full blast in the West and Southwest, arrivals of livestock have fallen to a minimum. They do not look for much improvement till well along in August.

PALESTINE LODGE PICNIC SATURDAY

Tomorrow, the long looked for Palestine lodge picnic will be held at Fond du Lac, and all arrangements have been made for a gala day.

The steamer "Favorite," chartered for the occasion, will leave the city dock, Lake avenue south at 1:15 sharp—returning to town by moonlight.

All resident and sojourning Master Masons and their families are invited to take advantage of this opportunity to spend a day in the open.

A fine list of sports has been arranged with prizes galore. There are events for all ages, bachelors and married men, maids and matrons. The kodak contest is arousing great interest and some fine pictures are looked for. This is open to all.

A rate of 25c has been fixed as the total cost for this picnic and at so low a cost with so fine a list of sports and various other kinds of entertainment, a record breaking crowd is expected.

The lodge will supply coffee.

WOULD PROSECUTE LIPTON COMPANY.

London, July 10.—Criminal prosecution of Sir Thomas Lipton, the chairman, and his co-directors in Lipton, Ltd., was suggested by Sir Arthur Markham, a Liberal member, in a question addressed to the attorney general appearing in the parliamentary papers.

The question, the putting of which was postponed by arrangement, asks whether, in view of Justice Darling's statement that the defendants in the army canteen scandal case were acting upon a system which was encouraged by the directorate of the company, the attorney general "has laid the papers in the case before the public prosecutor with a view to criminal proceedings for fraud and bribery against Sir Thomas Lipton and his co-directors."

The question arose out of the recent conviction of nine army officers and eight civilian employes of Lipton, Ltd., on charges of receiving and giving bribes to influence the allotment of supply contracts for the army canteens.

SLAYER OF FIRST WIFE LOSES SECOND.

Rome, July 10.—The second wife of the distinguished Italian sculptor, Filippo Cifariello, was burned to death ysterday through the explosion of a lamp.

Cifariello, in August, 1905, shot and killed his first wife in a fit of jealousy. He was acquitted after a sensational trial.

Not Like Other Beer

But different—vastly different—in flavor, character and quality.

So different that it stands out distinct from all other beer. Supreme in Purity, Age and Strength. The Pabst process makes it a rich, wholesome beer, with a delicate appetizing flavor found in no other brew.

Because it is so unlike other beer, has first call where the best is served. Because it has not that heavy body and excessive bitter taste that is so unpleasant to many, it is the unvarying choice of millions.

A pleasing, fully aged beer with the delightful tonic tang of the hops and the mellow flavor of the fully matured malt.

Just as delicious and wholesome as it is cool and refreshing on a hot summer day. On every occasion, it whets the appetite and adds zest to the meal.

There is something so distinctive, so satisfying about Pabst Blue Ribbon that anyone who drinks it is never quite satisfied with any other brew.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following decisions were rendered today by the Minnesota supreme court:

St. Louis County.

J. S. Saari, respondent, vs. John J. Gleason, appellant—

1. Chapter 3, laws, 1912, Gen. Stats. 1913, Secs. 567-609, known as the "Corrupt Practices Act," provides two redemies for violation of its terms, one by criminal prosecution and conviction and a supplemental judgment of ouster, and the other by a contest of the election carried on according to the law regulating election contests in general.

2. The legislature has the power under the Constitution of the state to pass an act prohibiting corrupt practices in elections, and prohibiting any candidate employing corrupt means to obtain an office, and providing that the practice of corruption by a candidate in securing an office shall bar him from entering into the possession thereof.

3. Chapter 3, laws of 1912, prohibits practices corrupt and immoral and violative of the purity of elections, and provides that they shall be a ground for contest of the election. These provisions are valid. The act provides that in event any part thereof shall be held invalid, the remainder shall not be invalidated but shall remain in full force and effect. Under such a provision the rule is that, if part of a statute is unconstitutional, the remaining portions must nevertheless be sustained if enough is left to constitute an enforceable law. The provisions of this act which are unquestionably valid constitute an enforceable law, and are not affected by the validity or invalidity of other provisions of the act.

Order affirmed. HALLAM, J.

St. Louis County.

State of Minnesota, respondent, vs John Lee, appellant—

1. The verdict is not against the evidence, nor contrary to law.

2. No abuse of discretion is found in denying a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence where such evidence is uncertain and merely corroborative and cumulative of positive and certain testimony of several witnesses on the same matter.

Richard Jones, appellant, vs. Massolt Bottling company, respondent—

In an action to recover damages for an inqury sustained by a bottler while inspecting a bottle of carbonated water by holding it in front of his eyes and between them and a window it is held:

1. That under the evidence as to the breaking of bottles of carbonated water by internal pressure, it was a question for the jury whether the defendant was negligent in adopting such method of inspection, or in not providing masks or goggles as a means of protection.

2. That whether the plaintiff assumed the risk of such method of inspection, without safeguards furnished him, was for the jury.

Order reversed. DIBELL, C.

Della V. Minnegar, appellant, vs. Minneapolis Fire Department Relief association, respondent—

1. Under Laws 1907, c. 24, as amended by Laws 1913, c. 318, the widow of a fireman, otherwise entitled to a pension, who was his common-law wife, is not entitled thereto, applying and following Gibbs vs. Minneapolis Fire Department Relief association, 145 N. W. 1075.

2. Where prior to the passage of Laws 1913, c. 318, the defendant denied liability to the plaintiff, but upon action brought such liability was found by the court, and judgment directed accordingly, prior to the passage of Laws 1913, c. 318, and was entered afterwards, such judgment will not be enforced in proceedings by contempt where the widow was the pensioner's common-law wife.

3. Chapter 318, Laws 1913, is not unconstitutional as class legislation because based upon an arbitrary distinction between widows of common-law marriages and widows of ceremonial marriages.

State of Minnesota, respondent, vs. Oscar Taubert, appellant—

The ordinance of the city of Minneapolis permbitting tanneries already in existence to continue in operation, but providing that no tannery shall be established thereafter without first obtainling permission therefor from the city council, does not transgress the equality provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution.

A. E. Velle et al., respondents, vs. Archa Richardson, appellant—

1. The complaint states a cause of action for an injunction, its allegations being sufficient to admit proof that the owners of a tract of land, platted into a large number of lots, formed a scheme to sell the lots subject to building restrictions; that, pursuant to such plan, all lots were sold by such owners subject to a covenant restricting the erection of buildings thereon to dwelling houses of a certain character; that the owners deeded to plaintiffs and defendants severally lots in the tract subject to this covenant; that some of plaintiffs have erected dwellings in reliance upon and in conformity to the covenant, and that defendant is erecting a structure in violation thereof.

2. The fact that two lots out of the tract have been sold without the restrictive covenant, and that as to two more the restriction is different, is not conclusive that the owners of the tract did not sell subject to a general plan of restriction which enured to the benefit of every purchaser.

No abuse of discretion is shown in the granting of a temporary injunction herein.

Frank Anderson, respondent, vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant—

Where, in an action to recover damages for rough handling and delay in transit of cars of live stock, one of the material issues was as to what were defendant's regular stock shipping days on which special service was provided, it was reversible error to admit a letter from defendant's claim agent to a third party containing declarations sufficient to turn the scales in plaintiff's favor on such issue, there being nothing to show the agent's authority in the premises.

Order reversed. PHILIP E. BROWN, J.

Charles I. Alexander, respondent, vs. Benjamin F. Ward et al., defendants, Benjamin F. Ward, appellant—

Findings of fact considered and held to sustain the conclusions of law that defendant converted to his own use moneys of plaintiff; that a certain contract between the parties should be canceled, and that plaintiff was not guilty of a breach thereof which entitled defendant to damages.

Judgment affirmed. BUNN, J.

In re estate of Henry F. Brown, deceased, Frank R. Hubachek, appellant, vs. estate of Henry F. Brown, deceased, et al, respondents—

1. A deed executed by the vendor and accepted by the vendee in performance of an executory contract for the sale of land is presumed to express the final agreement of the parties, and conditions precedent to the right of either party to require performance of the contract, which are not reserved in and continued by the terms of the deed, are, in the absence of fraud or mistake, deemed waived.

2. Evidence held not clearly against the findings of the trial court that a deed was executed and accepted in full performance of an executory contract, and that conditions imposed by such contract precedent to the right of the vendor to require performance by the vendee, were waived or abandoned by the mutual consent of the parties.

Ada M. Cox, respondent, vs. William Rufus Edwards, appellant—

In an action to recover for a breach of promise of marriage it is held:

1. That the evidence justifies a finding of the jury that a marriage promise was made.

2. That it justifies a finding that a release of plaintiff's cause of action was procured by fraud.

3. That the damages are not excessive.

Order affirmed. DIBELL, C.

Fletcher W. Penhall, appellant, vs. Minn. State Medical association, respondent—

Defendant's by-laws relating to defense of members against malpractice claims construed and held applicable to claims arising prior to their adoption.

Subject to specified conditions, such by-laws imposed upon the association a legal obligation in the premises.

Plaintiff, having made due application to defendant's secretary for assistance, as prescribed in the by-laws, was not required to apply to its council; nor was it necessary for him to give notice of a second action on the same claim after defendant's refusal to consider his demand with reference to the first, which was dismissed.

Defendant having based its refusal of assistance entirely on grounds not involving the merits of the claim against plaintiff, and the case having been tried and determined solely on such grounds, the question of burden of pleading and proof upon an issue as to whether the character of the claim was such as to entitle plaintiff to assistance from defendant, was not properly open in this court.

Under section one of defendant's by-laws, entitling members to assistance against malpractice claims on prescribed conditions, and section 2 making it the duty of defendant's council to investigate, and, if possible, adjust such claims, "and, if in their judgment an adjustment is impossible, or the claim is unjust, or the damage sought is excessive," to tender aid, etc., the burden of pleading and proving that a demand for aid thereunder involved a claim upon which the member was not entitled to aid was upon the association.

Hames Volpe, respondent, vs. August Cederstrand et al, as August Cedarstrand & Co., appellant—

Defendants, copartners, were engaged under a contract with the owner in excavating a basement for a new building; the soil was composed of sand and the walls of the excavation were not self-supporting; to hold them in position and to enable workmen to remove the earth and material from the proposed basement up to the outer walls thereof, defendants through their foreman in charge of the work constructed a contrivance termed "pile sheeting" along the outer line of the excavation; this would serve the purpose intended and retain the banks in position, but unless securely braced was a source of danger to men working at its base.

Plaintiff was a common laborer and had been in the employ of the defendant three days as a shoveler; on the third day of his service he was taken from a place of safety and ordered by the foreman to work at the base of the pile sheeting structure; the structure was insecurely braced and collapsed, owing to the pressure of the bank upon it, and plaintiff was injured; he had no part in the construction of the pile sheeting, which was installed in the excavating, not as a part of the work, but to facilitate the performance of defendant's contract.

It is held, (1) that the verdict of the jury finding that the structure was improperly and negligently constructed and braced is sustained by the evidence; (2) that such negligence constituted a breach of defendant's obligation to provide plaintiff with a safe place in which to do his work; (3) that the issues of contributory negligence and assumption of risk were properly submitted to the jury.

2. The record contains no reversible error.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

Dakota County.

Richard Hayes et al, appellants, vs. Susan Hayes, respondent—

1. The evidence on the question whether there was a parol gift of land made a question of fact proper for submission to the jury.

2. Whether the gift was accepted and executed by performance of the donee sufficient to take it out of the statute of frauds was, on the evidence, a question for the jury.

3. Adverse possession of the land for the statutory time was not necessary in order to prove an executed parol gift. To take a parol gift of land out of the statute of frauds there must be an acceptance by the donee, and such a performance in the way of making valuable improvements as would make it substantial injustice or fraud to hold the gift void under the statute. But it is not essential that the possession continue for fifteen years, or that its character be such as would give title by adverse possession.

4. The question of an executed parol gift was properly at issue under the pleadings.

5. Declarations of the donor made while he was the holder of the legal title and against his interest, were properly received in evidence.

6. Declarations of the donee made while he was in possession of the property, tending to characterize his possession and to indicate his claim of title, were properly admitted in evidence.

7. There was no error prejudicial to plaintiffs in the instructions to the jury.

Order affirmed. BUNN, J.

Patrick Shanahan, respondent, vs. Rochester German Insurance company, appellant—

1. The evidence sustains the finding that a settlement and compromise was effected of a claim arising from the loss of property covered by an insurance policy.

2. There being no defense pleaded that the settlement was procured through the fraud of plaintiff such settlement is not destroyed by a finding that defendant under a mistake of fact not known entered into it, there being no finding that the truth would not have been ascertained upon a proper inquiry and no proof that plaintiff by any act of his induced defendant to refrain from making such inquiry.

A. O. Vachon, administrator, appellant, vs. Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company, respondent—

In an action by the administrator of a deceased mixed-blood Chippewa Indian allottee, Nay-tah-waush, of the White Earth Indian reservation, to recover, upon a written contract, the amount due on the sale of standing timber by the allottee, who conveyed prior to the issuance of either the trust patent or the fee patent, but after the Clapp amendment, act of June 21, 1906, 34 St. 325, amended by act of March 1, 1907, 34 St. 1015, the patent being issued and recorded after his death, it is held:

1. That by the allotment the mixed-blood Chippewa Indian allottee acquired an estate in its nature conveyable; and that the Clapp amendment, act of June 21, 1906, 34 St. 325, amended by the act of March 1, 1907, 34 St. 1015, removed all restrictions upon the conveyance of the land allotted imposed by the general Indian allotment act of Feb. 8, 1887, 24 St. 388.

2. That upon the issuance of the patent in the name of Nay-tah-waush, after his death, the defendant had the legal title.

3. That upon the record of the patent at the proper place of record, and its receipt and acceptance by the defendant, the cause of action upon the contract was complete in the administrator, though the contract provided for a delivery at a specified place at which it was not delivered.

4. That the administrator can maintain the action for the purchase price though the sole heir of Nay-tah-waush conveyed the premises to the defendant and received the consideration.

R. A. Johnson and John A. Sasses, as co-partners, respondents, vs. the Church of St. Charles, appellant—

In an action to recover the contract price for the installation of a hot water heating plant, it is held:

1. That by the verdict returned for the plaintiffs it is established that the heating plant was so constructed as to fulfill the requirements of the contract as to heating capacity; and that therefore it is immaterial whether the proper measure of damages for non-performance was given.

2. That the court was in error in charging the jury that they could allow only nominal damages because of unworkmanlike construction resulting in the placing of certain pipes in such a position as to make them unsightly.

Judgment affirmed on condition. DIBELL, C.

H. C. Farmer, respondent, vs. Studebaker Corporation of America, appellant—

1. The controversy as to whether plaintiff and defendant entered into a contract whereby plaintiff became agent for the sale of defendant's automobiles within certain designated territory, and, if so, as to whether defendant agreed to pay plaintiff a commission upon all sales to residents within such territory, by whomsoever made, was properly submitted to the jury and the evidence is sufficient to sustain the verdict.

2. Defendant, having conceded at the trial that the sales in controversy were made within the designated territory, cannot urge, on appeal, that such sales were in fact made outside such territory.

3. Excluding a circular, of which plaintiff had no knowledge, and which was offered in evidence by defendant solely for the purpose of explaining the acts of its manager, was not an abuse of discretion.

Order affirmed. TAYLOR, C.

State of Minnesota, plaintiff, vs. Nellie Staples, defendant—

1. A parent who by culpable negligence fails to provide care, nurture, sustenance and medical assistance to a child wholly incapable of supplying its own wants, and so causes its death is, under Gen. Stats. 1913, Sec. 9143, guilty of manslaughter in the second degree. The indictment upon which defendant was convicted sufficiently charges facts constituting this offense.

2. Repugnant allegations in an indo not vitiate the indictment if neither kill is not necessary in an indictment of the repugnant allegations is necessary. An allegation of an intent to gleet with which the defendant is for manslaughter in the second degree, nor is an allegation that the act or neglect with which the defendant is charged was not done without a design to effect death.

3. The allegations in an indictment for manslaughter in the second degree of acts which constitute a more grave degree of homicide, do not vitiate the indictment under our statute, which provedides that the same indictment may charge murder and also the different degrees of manslaughter. It was proper to charge acts and omissions constituting this offense in the conjunctive.

State of Minnesota, respondent, vs. Gust Seeling, et al, defendants; Gust Seeling, appellant—

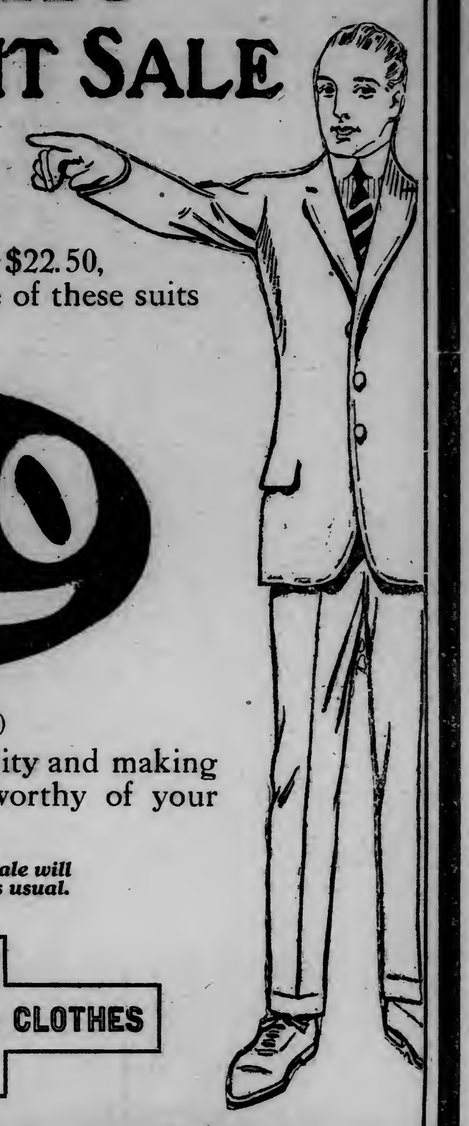

On a prosecution for illegal fishing with a seine in violation of Laws 1905, c. 344, as amended by Laws 1907, c. 469, and Laws 1909, c. 190, the state makes out a prima facie case by proving the acts prohibited thereby, without negativing the exceptions provided by Laws 1909, c. 54, justification under the latter being a matter of defense.

Defendant was not prejudiced by cross-examination tending to negative such defense, though such went beyond the scope of his direct examination; this, moreover, being largely within the discretion of the trial court.

HEALTH TALKS

By William Brady, M.D.

A Poisoned Mouth

BRADBURN describes an interesting case in the British Medical Journal. It is worth reviewing, for it illustrates a commonly overlooked cause of illness—a poisoned mouth.

A healthy man, aged 28, was suddenly seized with a shivering fit, accompanied by general pains, especially in the joints. He was laid up two weeks. He then got out of bed, but was immediately put back again by a recurrence of all the first symptoms, this time with an eruption of blotches on his legs. Besides, there were severe abdominal cramps.

An Inaccurate Diagnosis.

For several weeks the patient was in a serious condition and failed to respond to any treatment. The cause of his illness could not be determined, although very careful tests of the blood and the urine were made. The physicians who saw him thought it might be a case of purpura (scurvy), because of the joint pains and the skin blotches. But he obtained no relief from remedies which ordinarily relieve purpuric symptoms.

Throughout the attack the patient had a low, irregular fever.

Finally a searching examination excluded every probable source of infection excepting the mouth. There were several decayed stumps of teeth with septic, or inflamed, gums.

These were removed. At once the temperature became normal, the symptoms cleared up, and within a short time the patient made a complete recovery.

"Oral sepsis" is the term used by dentists in describing a poisoned mouth. It is an exceedingly common factor of acute and chronic illness. For the very reason that so many people have septic mouths the condition is often overlooked by physicians. You know there is nothing so hard to find as the obvious. As Poe wrote, in The Purloined Letter, "The more I reflected . . . the more satisfied I became that, to conceal this letter, the minister had resorted to the comprehensive and sagacious expedient of not attempting to conceal it at all."

Questions and Answers.

G. B. S. writes: My father, aged 64, was always a hard-working man, until about three years ago, when an attack of pneumonia left him permanently weakened. He has gradually developed a peculiar tremor of his hands, and when he walks his steps are faster and faster, till he has to catch something or fall. His face seems to be immobile, with a strange, staring look in the eyes. He is emotional, breaks down and cries over slight matters. Is this mental failure, or can something be done for him?

REPLY.

Your description harmonizes well with that of a nervous ailment called "paralysis agitans," which may be relieved somewhat by careful medical supervision.

Miss B. A. queries: What is the positive test for tuberculosis of the lungs? I have been in fine health until a few months ago, when I took cold and coughed a little. My throat began to trouble me, and the doctor gave me vaccines. As I got no better I visited a throat specialist. He said it was tuberculosis of the larynx. He referred me to another doctor who examined my chest and referred me to still another who also examined my chest. Then they examined my sputum, but found no tuberculosis germs, yet they insisted I had tuberculosis and sent me to a sanitarium. I stayed only a few days and went to my parents' home in the country, where I have gained steadily, though I still cough some.

REPLY.

There is no one positive test for tuberculosis. The finding of the germs is not essential to a correct diagnosis. The combination of several signs in a particular case is more reliable. Your medical advisers did right. Your present improvement is no doubt attributable to their timely interference in your indoor life and the chances are you still have tuberculosis. Don't put your own opinion against the obviously disinterested opinion of three competent physicians, if you would retain your health.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald.

Woman's Realm

Monday, July 27, has been decided upon as the date for the annual Venetian fete. This is always an interesting event to Duluthians, but this year the arrangements will be more elaborate than usual and there will be several novel attractions. It is too early for the committee to make definite announcements but they have begun active work on the fete.

College day, another important annual event, will be held Saturday, Aug. 8. As usual an invitation will be extended to all the college men and women at the Head of the Lakes. A parade will be formed at the Spalding hotel, and will proceed to the aerial bridge. A picnic will be held at the Oatka branch of the Boat club. There will be college stunts in the afternoon and a bonfire on the beach and a band concert in the evening.

TENNIS DINNER.

Unique Menu for Boat Club Entertainment.

At tables representing tennis courts a tennis dinner was served at the Boat club last evening. Even the menu carried out the idea with its diagram of a court and the flights of the ball that didn't go beyond the lines in a single instance. "Ready? Serve." appeared on the menu. The ball that was labeled "cream of celery" at the outset of the game appeared as "radishes" when it struck the inner court. During its flights from court to court it advanced through the stages of the dinner until it was "fancy ice" at the close. Below the diagram of the court one read, "It's a love game. Let's go dance." The souvenirs were tennis racquets.

The cafe was decorated in the club colors, blue and white, and ferns and carnations were used in profusion.

Mrs. Helen Shores Savage and Jack Hurdon demonstrated some of the popular dancing, after which there was general social dancing.

This dinner dance, under the direction of the tennis division of the club, was the second of a series given by the various divisions. The one two weeks ago was under the management of the sailors.

Among the diners last evening were: G. G. Barnum and party of five; Kirby Jones, and party of eight; T. Mitchell and party of six; A. P. Barnes and party of four; W. W. Nott and party of four; Walker Jamar and party of six; D. H. Radford, four; Mrs. E. J. Bunker, eight; Ray Higgins, four; Dr. M. A. Nicholson, four; Julius H. Barnes, four; R. B. O'Dell, nine; J. J. Courtney, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Chinnick, and W. H. Sanford.

AITKIN WEDDINGS.

Recent Hymenal Affairs in Which Aitkin People Figured.

Aitkin, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Ray Safford of Aitkin and Miss Elsie Ruth Prescott were married July 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Safford on the Hungerford farm, Rev. A. L. Richardson reading the service while the bridal party, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Safford, stood beneath the beautiful pine trees on the shore of Pickerel lake, where the home is situated. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Grist of Kent, Ind., and a niece of Winn Powers, mayor of St. Paul.

The bridegroom is the youngest son of Mrs. Hattie Safford of Aitkin, a graduate of the local high school, and has also been a student in the state university. He is now a traveling salesman.

Mr. and Mrs. Safford left on a wedding trip through the western part of the state.

The out-of-town guests present at the wedding were, Mr. and Mrs. Orren E. Safford, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Funston, Minneapolis, Orson R. Powers, St. Paul, a cousin of the bride.

E. T. Rasmussen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rasmussen of Cedar Lake and Miss Viola G. Mattson, a well-known teacher in the Aitkin county schools, were married June 24, in the Peoples' church, St. Paul.

Frank E. Carmen and Miss Johnston, both of Aitkin county, were married June 29, in Deerwood.

Ed Watson, a former resident of Aitkin, but now of Chisholm, who was married recently to Miss Ellen Hodge of Chisholm, has been here this week with his bride visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Watson at Lone lake.

WELLESLEY BENEFIT.

College Women Will Help Raise $2,000,000 Fund.

Wellesley alumnae living in Duluth are showing their loyalty to their alma mater by arranging a benefit to be given at the Orpheum July 21. They hope in this way to do their part in rebuilding College hall that was destroyed by fire this spring.

John D. Rockefeller has promised $800,000 toward the fund if $2,000,000 are raised by Jan. 1, 1915. Pledges have been made to the amount of $1,000,000 and, the second million has a good start. Vassar, Bryn Mawr, Smith and other women's colleges have rallied to the support of their sister institution and the committee for the benefit to be given here includes almost as many members from other colleges as from Wellesley.

Miss Emily Schupp, or "Lada," as she is known professionally, who is visiting in the city, will give five of her classic dances at the Wellesley entertainment. Miss Schupp has persuaded her manager to make this one concession and ipt her appear here before she goes to Peterboro, N. H., to take part in the MacDowell festival.

Moving pictures will be shown of "Tree day," probably the most distinctive Wellesley custom. Tree day is held for Wellesley students and alumnae only, but two exceptions have been made to the rule when the public was admitted. In 1905 Andrew Carnegie offered a certain sum of money for a library in the college provided the college would raise an equal amount. The money was raised by admitting the public. The second time outsiders were admitted was this spring when moving pictures were taken, the pictures that will be shown at the Orpheum. The Wellesley women in Cincinnati presented tree day on the screen to raise money for rebuilding the magnificent College hall.

At the time of the fire it was purposed to raise a $1,000,000 endowment fund. This plan has been kept in mind, so that the goal is really $3,000,000.

Miss Mildred Washburn of Wellesley will be the general manager of the benefit. She will be assisted by Miss Genevieve Washburn, Wellesley; Miss Anna MacFarlane, Wellesley; Miss Harriet Stryker, and Miss Susan Sarryker, Welleley; Miss Katherine Denfield, Wellesley; Miss Esther Coffin, Wells college; Miss Dorothy Olcott and Miss Elizabeth Olcott, Smith college; Miss Helen Congdon, Vassar, and Miss Margaret Culkin, Vassar.

College girls in caps and gowns will usher.

HOW TO TELL PURE FOOD BY THE LABELS.

As a general axiom, let me state that the purer the food, the less there will be on the label. It is only the adulterated, weakened, cheapened, altered, mixed product, which needs to explain and fill its label with details. If a catsup contains no chemical preservatives, and no dyes, there is nothing for it to say. It is just "catsup," whose definition we always have held to be tomatoes, spice, vinegar, etc. True, a manufacturer sometimes likes to state specifically that it is "made of fresh, ripe tomatoes, and contains no preservatives or artificial color," but that is because there are so many adulterated brands that he wants you to be impressed by the fact of his product's not containing anything injurious. Generally speaking, the soups and fruits and meats and vegetables, and jams and mincemeat that have only their name and place of manufacture, are the ones above suspicion, says Winnifred Harper Cooley, national president of the Associated Clubs of Domestic Science, in the Mother's Magazine. No laws worry their makers; they comply with all laws, and in some cases, were better than the law, until the law caught up with them!

It is the fine print that you must read carefully. Wily and unscrupulous men comply with the law, but know human nature well enough to believe most of us busy and indifferent. They make the print fine, therefore, and count upon the vast buying public's paying no attention to what it says. The words often are printed in nearly the same color of ink as the paper, so that one is apt not to notice them at all.

Until the time when labels are unnecessary, beyond merely stating the name of the food, we can only educate ourselves up to an intelligent understanding of them. It would be stupid to give up all canned and bottled goods. Many are sanitary and excellent, and save time and labor, and fortify us against the invasion of sudden, unexpected company, and serve us in dozens of creditable ways. Just let the label tell; and then heed what it tells you!

BIRDS OF FASHION.

Perhaps the bird best known by name to those interested in the plumage question is the egret or white heron, from which the beautiful plumes, now worth from £8 to £12 an ounce, are taken. Interest in this bird is the greater because it is known that the plume is not part of the bird's regular plumage but is assumed before breeding time and shed by the time the young are reared. In tropical countries, many of the white herons are shot by native hunters as soon as the nupptial plumage is ripe, and in this way the heron colony may suffer seriously, the young being unable to look after themselves.

Third and Fourth Generation of the Steinway Family Active in Steinway & Sons 1914

Theodore Cassebeer, Frederick T. Steinway, Paul H. Schmidt, Charles H. Steinway, Wm. R. Steinway, Theodore E. Steinway, Henry Ziegler.

To the ambition and the love for their profession on the part of these seven members of the younger generation of Steinway & Sons is due the progress of the Steinway Piano.

"HAVING played Steinway pianos, after a long interval, in many concerts, during a season of unusually sudden and unfavorable climatic and atmospheric changes, I feel obliged to declare, and I do it most emphatically, that you have realized an astonishing progress.

"TO THE former qualities, now magnified and intensified, you added an entirely new one, a quality which had been considered unimportant, superfluous, almost incompatible with the character of tone; an easy, light, agreeable action."

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Money As Heart Balm a Poor Compensation.

Today, scarcely anyone stops to ask is it maidenly or womanly or honorable to take one's love letters to court in order to prove that a man has dealt falsely with one.

The main question seems to be, has the man couched his love, admiration and intention to marry in sufficiently ardent and convincing terms to influence a substantial verdict?

It is astonishing with what regularity we have breach of promise cases involving thousands of dollars worth of heart balm, all hinging on the contents of a bundle of letters. It is strange, too, the caliber of the man caught in the meshes of the compromising letter.

In spite of the fact that many a man of standing has been the butt of this sort of thing and the laughing stock of the world, the wheel of love merrily revolves. We go to bed one night little reckoning whose love letters we shall read in the papers on the morrow. Another surprising thing is the sentiment one may read into such a letter providing one has the determination or the imagination.

It is presuming overmuch, perhaps, to say any woman willing to take her broken heart into court is undeserving. But when money is the consideration and the score of settlement, it almost invariably appeals to me that she shouldn't be taken too seriously. Broken hearts can't be mended with money or even appeased. Disappointing and humiliating as it is to anyone to find that another has tired of loving or has been toying with affection, it ought to be counted fortunate to find it out before rather than after marriage.

There is only one safe and sure way to escape being fooled by a man about marriage—and that is, as I have before mentioned,—not to consent to an indefinite engagement. Every woman should know and I believe does know, when a man treats her as he should and when he is sincere in his attentions. When she commences to question his real intentions, once he has declared them to her, she should be the one to put an end to his trifling.

Doubtless some men should be made to pay well for the havoc they have wrought by means of love letters and love protestations. Somehow such cases never reach the courts—except once in a great while.

JAPANESE ACTRESSES AT HOME IN THE FAMOUS ROLES OF IBSEN AND SHAKESPEARE

NAMIKO HATSUSE. RITSUMO MORI. KAKUKO MOURATA.

These are not three little maids from school, but three very serious actresses from the principal theater of Japan. They are Namiko Hatsuse, Ritsumo Mori and Kakuko Mourata of the Teikoku Gekijo or Imperial theater (limited) of Tokio. The manager of the theater, K. Yamamoto, was in the United States not long ago getting ideas for his place of amusement which is quite cosmopolitan in its offerings. Its actors appear in plays of Ibsen and Shakespeare and other noted dramatists of Europe and America in preference to the Japanese play. Of course when they appear in these they call "A Doll's House" a "costume play" because in it they wear European clothing, just as "The Darling of the Gods" was a costume play to our actors. The Imperial theater occupies one of the finest buildings in Tokio, quite unjapanese in its architecture.

FRANCIS STARTS SOMETHING BY HIS TALK TO EDUCATORS

Storm of Protest Greets Bitter Criticism of Schools.

"Most of Our Teachers Are Selfish Egotists," He Says.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bitter denunciation of the present school system, uttered by Dr. J. H. Francis, superintendent of schools of Los Angeles, caused a stir and a storm of unfavorable criticism by a number of delegates at today's session of the National Education association.

"God bless the girl who refuses to study algebra—a study which causes many girls to lose their souls," was one of Dr. Francis' statements.

"The average literature teacher has no soul and little brain," he continued. "It is a wicked waste of a child's life to compel him to study with her.

"Selfish Egotists."

"Most of our teachers are selfish egotists, would-be scholars, hiding behind the word 'conservatism,' afraid of any new method because it would show their ignorance. Progress, too, is blocked by the great civic, religious and political interests.

"I would rather send my child to a teacher with a soul than one with brains whose only object is to have the child reach the answer in the back of the book.

"Nine-tenths of our immorality is due to damage done by teachers to boys and girls before they reach high schools."

A cablegram was received from Dr. David Starr Jordan today announcing his acceptance of the presidency of the association.

George Edward Marshall, Davenport, Iowa, was elected president of the department of secondary education; Miss Emma J. Breck, Oakland, Cal., vice president, and Claude P. Briggs, Rockford, Ill., secretary.

"RESCUER" WAS FAR TOO HASTY

Young Man Assaults Girl's Companion and Finds Mistake Later.

Too hasty and strenuous methods in rescuing a young woman whom he thought was being assaulted at midnight last night, cost Albert Lageman $10 in the West Duluth police court this morning. The young man pleaded guilty to assault, although he told the judge that he had gone to the rescue of a young woman. He believed she was being "pounded up" by her companion, he said.

The affair took place at Sixty-third avenue west and Grand avenue. Three couples were returning from a dance at Fairmont park. Lageman was going home from town with two other companions and said he was attracted by screams of "help" from one of the young women across the street. Then he said one of them fell.

Thinking the woman had been struck by her companion the three rushed across the street to pick her up. He admitted striking her companion without asking questions beforehand. Then Patrolman Root appeared on the scene and Lageman was arrested. The judge admonished Lageman to be more careful in the future and levied the fine.

The young woman is said to have fainted and was about to be picked up by her companion when Lageman arrived.

FIRE HALL WILL BE ALL MOTORIZED

New Building Will Bring Power Hook and Ladder Truck.

When the new fire hall which is to be built at West Duluth is completed, the hook and ladder truck now in service will probably be replaced with a new motor-driven hook and ladder truck.

This will completely motorize the Weste Duluth fire hall, a combination hose, chemical and gasoline pumper having been installed there a short time ago. The new machine will cost about $7,500. The old truck has been in use twenty-four years, and Commissioner Hicken and Fire Chief Randall feel that it would be poor economy to spend much money on it to attach a tractor. The motor truck will not be purchased until after the first of the year.

The deal whereby the city will trade the present fire hall for two lots owned by the Canadian Northern across the street has been concluded. The exchange has been approved by the railroad officials and the deeds to the property have been received by N. J. Upham & Co., who have been acting as the railroad's agents.

It is not definitely known when the construction of the new fire hall will be started. The money is not available at the present time, but can be secured in October, after the levy for 1915 has been made by issuing certificates of indebtedness. If this is done, the new building will likely be ready for occupancy before spring. The West Duluth jail will be located in the rear, and quarters for the branch municipal court will be provided on the floor above the police station.

MRS. BLACKWOOD GIVEN DIVORCE

Is Awarded $200 and $35 Monthly as Her Alimony.

Mrs. Ethel Barry Blackwood was this morning granted a divorce from her husband, Robert D. Blackwood, proprietor of a downtown cigar store, by Judge Cant of the district court, who has been listening to evidence in a contested action which has been on trial for the last two days. The decree was granted on the grounds of cruelty.

The Blackwoods were married fifteen years ago and are parents of one son, Clarence, 8, the custody of whom was given to the mother, with the right of visitation at seasonable periods reserved to the father. With respect to the custody of the child, the court cautioned the father and mother to see to it that they did not attempt to poison the mind of the youngster against the other.

Mrs. Blackwood will receive $200 permanent alimony and a monthly allowance of $35 for the support of herself and the child. The question of alimony was one of the principal issues at stake in the case. Mrs. Blackwood contended that her husband owned property valued at several thousand dollars. Blackwood made disclosures which showed that, cancelling his debts, he was worth about $600. The court gave Mrs. Blackwood one-third.

In announcing his decision, Judge Cant said this morning that the breach in the Blackwood family was an unfortunate one, and that had husband and wife been under different environment it would, perhaps, never have occurred.

REFUSE TO DICTATE LENGTH OF SKIRTS

Cloak and Suit Makers Say It Does No Good Anyway.

New York, July 10.—The American woman refuses to be dictated to in the matter of the length of her coats and suits. This is the opinion expressed today by the executive committee of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective association in declining to promulgate any style lengths for the coming season.

"We believe," says the committee's statement, "that the matter of lengths is year by year becoming of less importance in determining style. Individuality of design and adaptability to the needs of the American woman of all grades of society is the controlling factor.

"The style of today, even if declared by us, would not be the style of tomorrow. We are unanimously of the conclusion that to make a declaration would only be misleading and would give undue importance to the matter of length."

OBITUARY

Brig.-Gen. Garrett J. Lydecker, U. S. A., retired, died at his home in Detroit, Mich., July 9. He was born in New Jersey Nov. 15, 1843.

After the Civil war, Gen. Lydecker was in charge of river and harbor improvements, surveys and the building of various defensive works until 1869, when he became assistant professor of engineering at the United States military academy. Later he was chief of engineers on the staff of the commanding generals of Pacific and Missouri divisions and took part in the Modoc war.

Gen. Lydecker superintended the original survey of St. Clair river, and the building of the St. Clair flats canal. His last active service was as colonel of engineers in Detroit, where he had charge of the improvement of the Detroit river and of the great construction work at the falls of St. Mary's river.

ENGLAND ISSUES WARNING TO CHINA

London, July 10.—A warning that trouble is liable to result from China's refusal to sign the convention in regard to what territory shall compose Outer and Inner Thibet reached by the recent convention at Darjeeling, India, was issued to China today by Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary. Sir Edward was speaking on the subject of the appropriations for the foreign office in the house of commons and said:

"If China does not sign, but resorts to an aggressive policy, the consequences must be disastrous to China. There certainly will be grave trouble on the Indian frontier which will require Great Britain to take up the matter seriously with the government of China."

The Darjeeling conference, at which representatives of Great Britain, Thibet and China have been discussing the subject of Thibetan autonomy, has been in session since last fall and a convention was recently drafted and presented for signature to the three governments.

HOW A DINNER WAS RUINED.

Popular Magazine: Mrs. Anderson, who lived on her beautiful farm thirty miles from the city, decided that she would do a charitable thing by throwing open the place for one day to a lot of poor boys who had never had a chance to romp and play in the country. The party was a grand success, and at dinner time all the urchins gathered about the festive board and ate prodigiously.

One of the best appetites ever exhibited was that of Tommy Jones. Tommy, who was somewhat grimy of face, ate all of everything that was handed to him, and his enjoyment was so great that good old Mrs. Anderson's heart warmed to him.

But something went wrong when the pie—grand, old-fashioned apple pie, cut in tremendous slices—was passed around. Tommy took one mouthful of the pie, felt around on the table, and picked up the plate as if he expected to find something concealed under it. Then, with a look so dismal that it frightened Mrs. Anderson, he asked sadly:

"Who in thunder ever heard of servin' pie widout cheese?"

BARCALO BEDS
DO NOT COME APART OR BREAK DOWN

If you want a bed that will last, that will always be solid and substantial, look to these points:

The corners or couplings — the castings on the posts—are what hold the bed "up," hold it together.

In Barcalo Beds, these castings are of unbreakable malleable iron. So they never break or give way. All connections are so solid that your bed can never come apart, never get shaky or rickety.

And so with all parts. The tubing in the pillars or posts, the crosspieces, the rods and supports, all are strong and substantial. The parts which hold the casters are put in solidly, so they never get loose, never fall out.

In most other beds, the parts where the strain comes soon weaken.

Then, the finish of Barcalo Beds, whether brass or enamel, will not crack or peel. It is most durable because it is heavy-ply.

We have a complete line of Barcalo Beds, both brass and enamel, and in all styles and designs.

BABY FALLS FROM PORCH

Strikes on Cement Walk But Escapes Serious Injury.

Carl, the 6-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Solem, 103 Exeter street, fell a distance of fifteen feet from the back porch of his parents home to a cement sidewalk, at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The child received only minor injuries according to the opinion of physicians who were called, and will fully recover unless internal injuries develop.

The child had been left in a buggy standing on the porch of the home only a few minutes before the accident happened. It had apparently climbed to the edge of the carriage and tipped it against the railing, falling over the porch.

The mother saw the child drop from the lower window and rushed frantically to it, expecting to pick up its mangled body. A call to two physicians was immediately sent out and Drs. A. A. Gireaux and J. A. Braden responded. An examination of the child showed that no bones were broken. It has several bruises about the body and one on the head. Unless the bruise on the head proves serious the child is expected to fully recover.

PACKAGE FREIGHT CARRIERS BUSY

Plenty of Business Both Ways—Much Copper Being Moved East.

While grain-carrying boats are being "skimped" as to cargoes, the package freighters are doing a land office business these days. The grain boats, according to the lingo used in this branch, are "down to bin-bottoms" in practically all grains except flax, and until the new crop begins to come in there will not be a great rush, unless the ore shipments pick up more. That ore shipments are picking up is a fact, but business is none too brisk yet, according to vessel agents.

The package freighters, however, are doing an immense business, both east and west bound. East-bound shipments of copper from the Lake Superior district and from Western mines, shipped through here, are said to be heavy and very decidedly on the increase. This is taken as a first-class indication of an anticipated return to active forging.

SAILORS KICK ON FOOD.

Six Quit La Salle at Hancock, Other Men Being Secured.

Hancock, Mich., July 10.—Six sailors quit the steamer La Salle at Portage Lake Wednesday morning, claiming that the food served was not up to standard. The boat brought coal for the People's Fuel company. Capt. G. A. Montgomery of the steamer at first refused to pay the men their wages declaring the six had shipped from Buffalo for the round trip. The sextet went up town in search of a United States marshal for the purpose of libeling the boat, but as there is no officer of this rank in the Copper country they went to Judge Eichkern's court. Capt. Montgomery afterward visited the court, waived his contention of contracts with the men and gave them their wages. No difficulty was experienced by Capt. Montgomery in procuring a new crew from Hancock to replace the six men, and the boat cleared that afternoon.

START WORK SOON.

Expect Princess Point Job Will Soon Be Begun.

Hancock, Mich., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Princess point cut appropriation, having been passed by congress, probably will be put to use late this summer in making the cut through this dangerous point in the Portage canal waterways and straightening and deepening the river. Maj. E. D. Peek of Duluth, chief engineer in charge of Lake Superior and connecting waters, was here this week and is expected shortly to announce the time for letting the contracts. The main contracts likely will not be started before next spring.

DRYDOCK CONSIDERED.

Idea of Building One in Upper Peninsula Broached.

Houghton, Mich., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A project being considered by Lake Superior district capital is the erection of a large and modern drydock, one of better equipment and greater size than any on the upper lake at present, for the repair of lake carriers and freighters. The central location of Portage lake, in the middle of the Keweenaw peninsula, and excellent transportation facilities are being advocated in the interests of securing the new project for the Copper country.

CONSIDER LIGHTHOUSE.

Government Looking Into Proposal for One on Sawtooth Reef.

Calumet, Mich., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Copper Country Commercial club, which has been advocating the erection of a powerful lighthouse on Sawtooth reef at Eagle River, where the steamer Moreland and a dozen other big lake carriers have been lost in as many years during storm and fog, has been advised by the bureau of lighthouses that the advisability of building a lighthouse there is being investigated. The Lake Carriers' association has given its unqualified approval to the project, it is understood.

THREE STRETCHES OF PAVING SOON

Public Works Commissioner Promises Important Improvement.

West Michigan treet, Piedmont avenue and Superior street between Twelfth and Fifteenth avenues will be paved as soon as the improvement of West Superior street between Fifteenth and Thirtieth avenues is finished, according to Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division.

Commissioner Murchison announces that either sandstone blocks or brick will be laid. He says that he prefers sandstone to brick because of the grade on Piedmont avenue. This would give a sandstone street from Eighth to Fifteenth avenues west with brick from Fifteenth to Thirtieth avenues.

The work was ordered by resolution without petition. A remonstrance was filed against it before the expiration of sixty days, but three names were later withdrawn, leaving the remonstrance insufficient.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—The Baldwin Players in "A Butterfly on the Wheel."
EMPRESS—"Hurdy Gurdy."

Amusement Notes.

The Baldwin Players will present "A Butterfly on the Wheel" tonight, tomorrow matinee and night at the Lyceum which will close a highly successful engagement of this stirring drama of English society. Large and delighted audiences have witnessed this play during the week and the attendance at the remaining performances will undoubtedly be equally large and appreciative.

Commencing next Sunday matinee and continuing all week with matinees Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday, Manager Baldwin will present another big success, James Montgomery's great comedy of love, romance, thrills and laughs, "Ready Money," the big success of New York and London which will, no doubt prove as great success here in the hands of the competent Baldwin Players as it has elsewhere.

William Abrahamson's musical stock company again delighted Empress-goers yesterday, this time opening a four-day engagement in a musical comedy revue entitled "Hurdy Gurdy." Big houses greeted the players and their popularity was enhanced by their excellent performance.

The familiar figure of the rotund Dutch comedian, Arthur Clamage, held the center of the stage as leading funmaker, while Al Zimmerman was always at his side bubbling over with jokes. Miss Grace Fields, the handsome leading woman, and Trixie Ayres, the charming little soubrette, Don Clark and Jess Weiss in song and dance, all were big features in the music and fun-making.

Miss Fields more than pleased in her song number, "Roses and Love," and Trixie Ayres as the mechanical doll was ideally suited to the part.

Tonight at the Empress theater at both performances the management will stage a tango contest between the chorus girls and partners for them selected from the audience. Any young man in the audience at the Empress theater tonight will be invited upon the stage to dance the tango with his pick of the dainty chorus girls of the "Hurdy Gurdy" company. All the girls are good dancers of the tango and every form of this famous dance. The young men need have no fear of not being able to dance correctly as the girls will follow their lead through the most difficult mazes of the tango.

A prize will be given to the best dancing couple and the members of the audience will be the judges. Applause will be the means of judging the winner. Late yesterday a number of telephone calls came in from persons asking if they could enter their names in the contest. Their names were taken and they promised to be on hand.

MANICURIST TAKES POISON ON TRAIN

Minneapolis Girl Says Chicago Man Stole Her Jewelry.

Chicago, July 10.—A young woman who gave her name as Minnie Myron and said she was a manicurist in Minneapolis, was taken from a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train today suffering from poison which she said she took soon after the train left Milwaukee.

She told the police that a Chicago man, whom she named as Wilkin Marks, had robbed her of jewelry, and that she took the poison because she wanted to die. A physician on the train gave first aid, and the sufferer was hurried to the Iroquois Memorial hospital, where strenuous efforts to counteract the poison were made. Her condition is serious.

LAW AN OBSTACLE TO WORK YEAR AHEAD

Murchison Would Have Underground Work Long in Advance of Paving.

Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, had a conference with City Attorney Harvey Clapp and Mayor Prince this morning to consider the feasibility of doing all underground work a year ahead of the paving of streets and avenues.

All were agreed that this would be an excellent plan as it would allow all trenches ample time in which to settle. The difficulty was in the city's authority to order and collect for the work.

The city attorney said that the city has ample power to order sewers and collect for them when the work has been completed but that this could not so easily be done in the case of water and gas main extensions. Many of these extensions are laid where the highway is unimproved and petitions are necessary in order that the guarantees may be collected, Commissioner Murchison explained after the meeting. The water department would not make the extensions unless assured of the guarantee as it would lose too heavily by such procedure.

The works commissioner said that where street improvements are to be made it would be of great assistance if the petitions for necessary water and gas extensions were presented a year in advance. The city would then order the needed sewers and all underground work could be done the year preceding the paving.

WIPING OUT BLIND PIGS

Recent Wholesale Virginia Raids Are Already Having Good Result.

Less Number of Illegal Drinking Places Noted About City.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent campaign begun by the city attorney's office to free the city of the unlicensed drinking place evil, has resulted in instilling a wholesome fear into the blind pig element, according to City Attorney Montague, and Assistant Attorney Merdink, and as a result fewer of the places are running openly than for some time past while a number have suspended business entirely. From the fourteen arrests made there have already resulted five convictions while six cases are still pending. Practically all of those arrested have entered pleas of not guilty, retained attorneys and fought the charges.

Officers Satisfied.

"We are well satisfied with the results attending the prosecutions we have brought," said City Attorney Montague, "and shall continue this campaign as long as it is possible to secure evidence sufficiently strong to warrant convictions. The present campaign has been the most successful undertaking for some time. Reports come to me that conditions are much better than in a long time with regard to the unlicensed drinking places. There may be some running, but we will get them in time."

Assistant City Attorney Merdink, leaves today on his vacation at his old home at Stephen, Minn., where he will join his parents on an automobile trip across the country to Sydney, Mont. Mr. Merdink has handled the prosecution of the pig cases and has been highly successful in securing evidence.

GOING TO COMPETE IN FIRST AID WORK

Mesaba Range to Send Team to Lake Superior Institute.

Gilbert, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A field contest in first aid and rescue work will be held July 18, by several of the companies of the range to pick teams to represent them in the contest to be held during the session of the Lake Superior Mining institute at Ishpeming the last of August. The Republic Iron & Steel company and the Pickands-Mather company, will likely hold thier contests at Gilbert July 18, and the men will probably have a half holiday so all can attend. The interest in this work is increasing all the time and several of the municipalities featured first aid contests at their Fourth of July celebrations.

At the Gilbert celebration three teams competed, the Leonidas, the Genoa and Pettit teams and the last was declared the winner. The judges were Dr. M. L. Strathern, a former Minnesota university football hero, and Dr. O. H. Wolner.

REPORT ANDERSON SEEN

Missing Virginian Alleged to Have Been Near Virginia Mine

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports that Carl Anderson, demented and said to be suffering from typhoid fever, who left his boarding house on the morning of the Fourth of July and has since been the object of a search, in which deputy sheriffs, the police of Eveleth and Virginia and friends have prosecuted fruitlessly, was seen near the Virginia mine yesterday afternoon, caused renewed efforts to be made to locate him this morning.

The country between this city and Eveleth is being carefully gone over today. Two little girls picking berries near the Virginia mine yesterday were frightened away when they came on a half-clad, hatless and coatless man roaming through the woods. He took to cover when he saw the children.

Sport, the county bloodhound, is expected to be returned to the city today and will again be used in the search. The S. H. and E. F. lodge, of which Anderson is a member, has hired a party of searchers to look for him. The police and sheriffs felt quite confident this morning that Anderson would be apprehended today.

MUCH EVELETH WORK.

Considerable Going on There Despite Mining Depression.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although business conditions on the ranges are quiet because of the depression in the ore market, Eveleth, outside of the mining business, is having the busiest season of its history. More work is being done in the way of public improvements and for the improvement of public property than ever before.

One of the principal improvements was the laying of six blocks of pavement on Adams avenue, just completed. Farther north on Adams avenue a concrete slab bridge has been built over a creek which flows out of North Side park. Contracts for the laying of storm sewers in Pierce, Jones and Jackson streets have been let in preparation for paving. Sidewalks are being laid in all parts of the city and the streets are being brought up to grade in preparation for paving next year.

The city library has been completed and its grounds are being parked. The city market place and barns are also completed and the grounds are being seeded, walks laid and fences erected. Much work has been done at the parks. A concrete pool for Central park is among the improvements now under way. Lake park has been cleared and a large sum of money is being expended to make it adaptable for picnic parties.

The city has extended its sewer outlet 2,600 feet and every residence tributary to the mains is to be connected up this season, according to the orders of the health commissioner. The Oliver Iron Mining company is helping the work of sanitation by making sewer connections at all company houses within reach of the mains.

The new city pumping station is nearing completion at St. Mary's lake.

Work on the new $50,000 industrial school building is progressing nicely and the structure is to be completed by Sept. 1.

BLIND PIGS ARE VERY NUMEROUS

Many Houses in Fayal Location Reported in Illegal Traffic.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—That "nearly every house in the Fayal location" is a blind pig was the testimony given by a witness called to give evidence in a disorderly conduct case in municipal court here yesterday. The case grew out of a Fourth of July quarrel. Mrs. Sophia Paoletti caused the arrest of Mrs. Elsie Lamenti. The testimony showed that the defendant had gone to the home of Tony Paoletti on the afternoon of the Fourth to get her husband, Louis Lamenti. Lamenti was unwilling to leave and his wife caused a disturbance.

The wife of the blind-pigger made the complaint but the jury returned a verdict of not guilty and she was assessed the costs of the case. On the stand Lamenti testified that he had purchased wine and beer of Paoletti on the Fourth and at other times during the last four months. "Can liquor be purchased at other places at the Fayal location?" he was asked. The reply was, "Yes, at nearly all of the houses. If you have not got the money they will mark it down until payday."

A carload of dairy cattle has also recently been disposed of to the farmers around Cook where the agricultural development is the most rapid of any section of St. Louis county.

PILLOWS HIS HEAD ON DYNAMITE BOX

Vagrant Arrested at Virginia Sleeping in Car of Explosives.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A car containing several tons of dynamite and other high power explosives was chosen by Joseph Smith, a laborer out of work, and without money, to sleep in last night.

There he was arrested by the police while going through the Canadian Northern yards in search of box car sleepers. Smith had his head pillowed on a box of dynamite, which he had rolled into position. He was not aware what the car contained. He was one of thirteen rounded up by the police for sleeping in box cars and was sentenced to a term in the county jail by Judge Carey, this morning.

SECTION 4 HAS CHOSEN OFFICERS.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Section 4 Mining company operating the Section 4 mine near here held a meeting in Minneapolis and elected officers for the ensuing year. Walter J. Smith of Eveleth was re-elected president; C. C. Hammond of St. Paul succeeded Odin Halden of Duluth as vice president; Forest Wickey of Minneapolis was re-elected secretary and C. H. Smith of Duluth was re-elected treasurer.

Few Assessment Plaints.

Few complaints are coming to the city council committee which is sitting as a board of equalization to review the work of City Assessor Krogdahl. The board is holding afternoon sessions and will not complete its work until about the fifteenth. No session will be held tomorrow afternoon.

OSBORN IS AGAINST LITTLE BROWN MEN

Michigan Gubernatorial Aspirant Does Not Want Japs in State.

Calumet, Mich., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The possibility of cut-over lands in this section of Michigan being colonized with Japanese does not meet with much favor in this section. Neither is there any possibility of the little brown men being ever worked in the mines, despite all rumors to the contrary.

A very strenuous campaign against the Japanese colonization of big tracts of land in Alger county is being initiated right here in the copper district.

Osborn States Position.

This sentiment found voice in an Osborn meeting in Hancock Wednesday when Chase S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie, ex-governor of Michigan and candidate on the Republican ticket for nomination for governor at the primaries, said he wishes to go on record, with the rest of the people of the peninsula, as against Japanese colonization of the district.

Osborn said, in his talks in the copper country this week, that mining conditions in the Michigan copper district are the best to be found anywhere.

SINKING BUHL WELL.

Good Progress Is Being Made Upon the Work.

Buhl, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A regular meeting of the village council was held Wednesday evening. A number of bills were allowed and the request of John Kangas and Axel Kilstrom of Frantz street that they be allowed heat connections with the municipal plant was granted.

No action on the proposed water plant improvements was taken. Iver Olson, who has the contract to dig the new 700-foot municipal well, reported that the work was progressing and that he had three shifts of men working. The well is already sixty feet deep and must be made about twenty feet deeper before a drill can be used, Olson stated. He says sixty days as the shortest time period in which the drilling would be completed.

The village engineer was authorized to put a storm sewer in from the Crombergs-Nicholson store down the main street to the creek.

The report of justice for the month of June was accepted, placed on file. The report showed a sum of $74, taken in for fines. This amount has been placed in the treasury.

FIREWORKS FIZZLE.

Mountain Iron Incensed at Person Who Furnished Display.

Mountain Iron, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fireworks given here on the Fourth were a great disappointment to the committee having the matter in hand, to every citizen of the village, and to hundreds who came here from every part of the range, expecting to see a fine display. Steps have already been taken to secure an adjustment of this matter from the concern putting on the display, and it will be pushed vigorously until an adjustment is made. There was no occasion for such a failure; the funds were ample and it was the sincere purpose of all interested to put on an unequaled display. As a kind of recompense for that disappointment, affecting as it did, a great many people, another display will be given later in the season, and an effort will be made in giving this, to counteract the unfavorable impression which has now been created. Some of the prominent Italians living here have already taken the matter up and it is the intention to get an Italian from the East, have him come here, arrange for and supervise the whole affair.

OLD WEAPON FOUND.

Mark on Notches May Mean Human Lives It Claimed.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A gun which doubtless has an interesting history is being exhibited at the Malloy Hardware store. The weapon is nearly a century old and was found on the American shore of Rainy lake by a hunter who presented it to Frank Malloy.

The fire arm was made by a London gunsmith and bears the date 1833. It was not rifled and the bore is about the same as that of a 16-gauge shot gun of present day standard. The gun does not show the good workmanship of many old weapons and was probably one of the "trade" guns sent out for exchange with the Indians.

On the stock are five carefully carved notches. The first question that comes to a person's mind when inspecting the gun is whether the notches represent a tally of human lives taken by the antique weapon.

BLASTING CAP HURTS TWO TOTS.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 10.—Carl and Slavi, children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rapinatz received serious injuries when a blasting cap they were playing with exploded. The boy touched a match to the explosive in the girl's hand. It went off lacerating four fingers of the little girl and it is thought that the boy, Carl, will lose one eye. Both children were hurried to the hospital and placed under the care of Dr. Shellman.

More Hibbing Teachers.

Hibbing, Minn., July 10.—Some more teachers have been employed as a result of recommendations of the teachers' committee to the school board.

The couple were brought to the village jail where they are held on $500 bail each. They will be given a hearing before Judge Masters of the municipal court today.

TRUCK FARMING NEAR TO EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the purchase of land south of this city by Austrian men, local people see prospects of the development of the country for truck farming. The country has been settled for the most part by Finns, who are known as good land clearers and grain farmers, but poor hands as gardeners.

Two Austrians recently purchased land south of Eveleth and it is expected that others will follow their example. The Austrians are noted for their success as truck farmers and it is hoped that the city will in a few years be supplied with vegetables direct from the farm instead of from the cars.

P. McDONNELL HAS LANDED GOOD JOB.

Keewatin, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bidding against strong competition P. McDonnell, the well-known Duluth contractor, has just captured one of the biggest pieces of work let on the range in some time. The village council Wednesday evening awarded Mr. McDonnell, a contractor for paving improvements in the village at approximately $50,000. Work on the improvement will begin at once.

Old time friendship entered largely into Mr. McDonnell being given the award. He was one of several bidders for the job and his bid was practically in with that of another contracting firm for the Keewatin job. The fight for the award was brisk, but Mr. McDonnell won.

VIRGINIA NOTES.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—Ben Enger, who has had charge of the American Express office here, leaves for Duluth, where he has accepted a position as agent in the Omaha station. J. E. Piper, who has had charge of an express office at Sioux Falls, S. D., will take his place here.

J. Even Carson, linotype operator for the Virginia Enterprise, was painfully injured Thursday in a fall from a bicycle while riding from his home on South Wyoming avenue to the office of the Enterprise.

The remodeling of the Hawkinson block, which is to be occupied by the Home Stores company will be completed in a short time and the store will be occupied by the company before the end of the present month.

COLLYARD WAS NOT ARRESTED.

Hibbing, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Collyard of this village was not arrested, as erroneously stated in the papers, for forgery in connection with the assignment of the wages of Rache Dinufris, a village employe. Though it is claimed a criminal action could have been brought against him on the showing, the authorities have started only a civil case to recover the sum of $52 and some cents which the saloon keeper secured on the paper.

Collyard claims that Dinufris told the bookkeeper that he would make an assignment, but that the employe failed to secure the man's mark. Dinufris admits that he owes Collyard money but claims that he has been paying a portion of the account each month and objects to having all of his wages tied up in one bill as he has rent and other accounts to pay. The matter will come up for a thorough investigation when the trial is had in municipal court.

STEVENSON MINE LAYS OFF MEN.

Keewatin, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Stevenson mine laid off 200 men Tuesday and expect to close down entirely in a short time. This is the only mine in Stevenson. It is rumored that the Mace will also quit operations.

BUHL WILL PUNISH SIDEWALK SPITTERS.

Buhl, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.) — The village council proposes to put a stop to the pernicious practice of spitting on the sidewalks and to that end has under consideration an ordinance providing a penalty for such action. The ordinance also prohibits the placing on any of the public streets, sidewalks or in any public place of the skins of fruits and other refuse and fixes the penalty for the violation of the ordinance.

Buhl to Pay State.

Buhl, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Barrett, state mine inspector, asked the village council's pleasure in regard to the billing in the sum of $1,465, due the state for 9,700 cubic yards of sand for which the council had agreed some time ago to pay 15 cents per cubic foot. After some discussion the council decided to authorize the state to bill on the village for the full amount. The council will then collect a pro rata share of the bill from the township company, which has also used some of the sand. The township company was a party to the agreement made to pay 15 cents per cubic yard for the dirt excavated.

TWO ROADS GAVE OUT $340,000 IN PASSES

Commerce Commission Informs Senate of Some of Its Findings.

Washington, July 10.—Liberal distribution of free railroad passes to Federal and state officials, judges, newspaper men and others by the Louisville & Nashville and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroads is reported to the senate by the interstate commerce commission. More than 34,000 passes, valued at above $340,000, were shown to have been issued last year to individuals ranging from a United States senator, whose pass showed no mileage traveled, to county sheriffs and local politicians.

The commission sharply criticized the "lack of morality revealed by these facts" as a "menace to the institutions of a free people," and announced its intention of issuing an order dealing with the situation.

The commission's report is a preliminary document in response to a resolution of inquiry passed by the senate some time ago at the instance of Senator Lea of Tennessee. The senate asked for data as to passes issued in the years 1911, 1912 and 1913, but the commission suggests that there is no necessity for compiling statistics other than those for 1913.

POISONED BY THE GRIP

The grip is no respecter of persons. No age or station of life is exempt from it. The grip is not a fatal disease but it leaves the victim in such a debilitated condition that one of our foremost medical writers has been led to say, "It is astonishing the number of people who have been crippled in health for years after an attack." It is a common thing to hear people date various ailments from an attack of influenza.

The condition of those who have had the grip is one that calls for a tonic for the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially adapted to meet this need as they purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves and give vigor, strength and health to the debilitated system.

"The grip left me without any vitality whatever," says one who has found relief, "and I lost all appetite and ambition. I was reduced in weight and was frequently confined to bed for two days or more. My friends thought I was going into consumption. I owe my recovery to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and cheerfully recommend them." The details of this case and a chapter on the proper treatment of the grip and its after-effects will be found in the booklet "Building Up the Blood," which will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

STEEL TRADE HAS TURNED CORNER

Indications Are That Business Is Returning to Normal Condition.

Operations on an increased scale at several of the Eastern steel mills were reported yesterday, and the opinion is expressed in some quarters that the trade has at last turned the corner.

With the resumption of work at its bar and hoop mill on Wednesday, all departments of the Republic Iron and Steel company at Youngstown, Pa., are said to be in operation. The Youngstown Sheet Tube company plant is also now operating all departments, and the Carnegie Steel company plant there is working nearly at capacity.

The National Tube company is reported to have just received an order for 15,700 tons of steel pipe for export to Persia, it approximates 160 miles of pipe and is the largest order of that nature booked in several months.

A gradual, though comparatively small increase in the operations of the United States Steel corporation's plants is reported during the past week. The tin plate mills in the East are running on a higher schedule than a week ago, and it is noted that the McKeesport plant of the National Tube company is now working six days a week instead of four.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court today affirmed an order of the St. Louis county district court denying a new trial to John Lee, Chinaman, and proprietor of a hotel at Virginia, who was convicted on June 10, 1913, of assaulting Russell McDonald, one of his guests, with a bread knife. Lee must now pay the penalty prescribed for his crime.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—Crazed by heat, a span of horses driven by John Simpson, dashed into the Red river here, swimming half a mile down the stream, with Simpson hanging to the reins for a portion of the distance in the water.

When the horses hit the edge of the water the wagon struck a stump, the animals being freed from the wagon. He was finally rescued by men in rowboats, and the horses were removed from the river half a mile down the stream.

FAMED TRAIL IS GONE OVER

Party of Crookston People Motor Over Noted Pembina Trail.

Find Much to Encourage Idea of Making It State Highway.

Crookston, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Andrew Grindeland of the district court, Civil Engineer Baugh of Thief River Falls, Charles Loring, N. S. Davies and Alderman W. R. Low of the Pembina Trail committee of the Crookston Automobile club; County Commissioner J. D. McPhee of Polk county, Mayor Tom Morris, Alderman D. W. Hughes and Hugh Rossan of Crookston have just completed an exploratory tour over the Pembina trail from Crookston to Karlstad, which includes nearly 100 miles of the famous highway between St. Paul and Winnipeg, which is proposed to be converted into a state highway, taking out a few of the crooks and building bridges over Snake, Tamarac and Middle rivers.

The party made the trip in two automobiles, fording Middle river and Tamarac river, both of which have hard bottoms and were easily forded without chains.

In recent years the main traveled road has left the old trail at frequent intervals owing to lack of bridges, fencing in of pastures and lack of knowledge on the part of most travelers as to exactly where the old trail went through the wooded portions of the route. The party scouted these sections thoroughly, selecting the shortest trail where the roadway was practically level or could be made so with very little work. By taking short cuts decided upon, the trail road between Crookston and Karlstad would be shortened at least fifteen miles.

Scenery Is Beautiful.

The scenery along the famous old trail is beautiful and Judge Grindeland, Engineer Baugh and the entire party was enthusiastic over the wonderful possibilities of such a trunk highway forming a main artery north and south through that portion of the Minnesota Red River Valley and which would be a connecting link between all the towns on the Great Northern from Crookston to Pembina, the towns on the Warroad line of the Great Northern from Crookston, and on the Soo all towns from Thief River Falls to the Canadian boundary. Red Lake Falls already has a good road to the Trail and Thief River Falls which is about thirteen miles east of the Trail has a splendid gravel road over half the distance and has the foundation complete for the balance of the distance. Warren has a good connecting link and the people of Stephen, Argyle, Hallock, Donaldson and other towns along that line have all made a substantial start toward the completion of connections with the Trail road. Judge Grindeland will soon appoint an engineer to make a complete survey along the route selected yesterday which was carefully marked on a map and it is believed that it will be a very short time before the wonderful natural road way will be designated as a state road and a few improvements begun.

Insures Historic Highway.

This will insure for future generations the most beautiful as well as the most historical natural road way to be found in the northwest. It is dotted with Indian mounds and many other relics of the aborigines and the project has the enthusiastic support of the land owners through whose farms the trail runs and who want it as a permanent highway.

The movement to have the trail converted into a highway was launched at a meeting held in the Crookston Commercial club rooms last winter attended by delegates from nearly every one of the above mentioned towns and thus far no opposition has developed. This without doubt is the biggest and most important good road project of the year in the Minnesota Red River valley.

BOOSTERS SHOW MOVIES ON TRIP.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over 100 Grand Forks business men left this morning on the first of a series of automobile tours. Lakota was the noon control. At Lakota they were generously entertained.

One of the unique features of the tour is the use of moving pictures by the Grand Forks party as a means of boosting their city. The movie films were taken in Grand Forks recently, showing several interesting scenes, and they are being shown in several towns en route.

CROOKSTON GETS READY FOR FAIR

Crookston, Minn., July 10. — (Special to The Herald.)—All is hustle and preparation at the Northwestern Minnesota Fair association grounds here for the opening July 14 of the annual fair which will continue four days. An elaborate program of amusements is being prepared.

The livestock exhibition promises to be an unusually attractive feature. Secretary Berget is receiving applications for entries each day, and the list will be considerably augmented by the time the fair opens. Among the latest entries received are the following: W. O. Bohart, Bozeman, Mont., 20 head of Brown Swiss and 13 Guernseys; G. D. Arnold, Galesville, Wis., 20 Shorthorns; Carlson Bros., Erskine, 15 Shorthorns; M. L. Enright, East Grand Forks, 19 Holsteins; J. T. Tweten, Rolette, North Dakota, 13 Herefords; K. O. Bolstad, Posston, 12 Herefords.

Arrangements have just been made for a special train from East Grand Forks for Friday, July 17. With them will come the band, led by Bandmaster K. L. Rudow, who has an enviable record in the line of music. The people on both sides of the Red river will join in this special and help to make this one of the biggest days during the fair. They will also bring with them some of the famous exhibits that will only grow in that garden spot of the valley. They expect to bring a thousand people to see the fair and all will be heartily welcome.

TO MAKE IT GOOD.

Brainerd City Clerk Recently Robbed to Make Restitution.

Brainerd, Minn., July 10.—V. N. Roderick, city clerk, who was beaten and choked into insensibility while at work in his office on the night of June 29, after which his assailants rifled the vault and took nearly $1,400 in cash, has issued a statement concerning the robbery and promises to make good the loss.

"I was pretty badly battered up by the robbers and am suffering considerable from the effects thereof at this time but am sure that I received no permanent injury," Roderick says.

"I wish to state and want everybody to thoroughly understand that every cent due to the city of Brainerd or any one else that has come into my hands as city clerk or clerk of municipal court will be replaced and made good by me, as I believe that I am responsible for the paying over of this money to the proper party. I now and never have had any desire to shirk the responsibility placed upon me in accepting the office and trust reposed in me by the city council at the time of my election."

RAILROAD LOSES OUT.

Northern Pacific Must Pay for North Dakota Drainage Work.

Wahpeton, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contrary to the usual idea that drainage is beneficial only to the agricultural lands, the supreme court holds the drains are helpful to the railroad companies. Richland county officials ordered in some local drains. In making up the special levies to pay for them they included the railroad right-of-way. The Northern Pacific resisted the assessment. Judge Allen of the district court held the assessment was just. The company appealed to the supreme court which has affirmed Judge Allen's decision and ruled in favor of the county.

The representatives of many other counties had watched the case with a great deal of interest. Some counties made the assessments exclusively on agricultural lands, even though the drains ran under the railroad right-of-ways.

$60,000 HIGH SCHOOL.

Ladysmith and Flambeau Planning on Building Fine Affair.

Ladysmith, Wis., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular annual school meeting the joint district of Flambeau and Ladysmith voted to expend $60,000 for a new high school building and $11,000 for the site. A suitable amount was recently appropriated, but the meeting was declared illegal through injunctional proceedings. Partinison and Dechondorf of La Crosse, Wis., are the architects and plans for the contractors will be ready in a week.

BOLT NOT EXPECTED.

North Dakota Insurgents Will Generally Support G. O. P.

Fargo, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The failure of the executive committee of the Progressive Republican league to indorse the recently nominated Republican ticket is causing considerable comment among the insurgent Republicans of Fargo. The committee met to close up the business of the campaign and it was assumed that the indorsement of the ticket would be made a matter of record.

The locals, aside from a few of the disgruntled ones, express themselves as well satisfied with the ticket, believing it expressed the opinion of the greatest number of Republicans through the recognized channels of the primaries. They insist that all the gossip about a bolt is idle talk, that the rank and the file of the insurgent Republicans will not indorse such a proposition. It is stated that although the members of the committee took no formal action on the indorsement of the ticket, several of them personally expressed their intention to support the nominees at the fall election with the same earnestness they would have done had the results been the other way.

Burdick came out after the announcement of the results and announced his intention to support the ticket from top to bottom.

EXPECT MUCH BUILDING.

North Dakota Crop Prospects to Give Construction Impetus.

Fargo, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be a rush of building in North Dakota from now on as the natural sequence to the magnificent crop prospects. The conditions are now regarded as sufficiently favorable to go ahead with the plans that had been under contemplation for some time. Some of the cautious persons had plans prepared and agreed upon contracts subject to crop conditions July 1. They are now satisfied and have the builders assembling materials and starting the work.

OPERATOR ATTACKED.

Railroad Employe at Cambridge Is Knifed By Unknown Man.

Cambridge, Minn., July 10.—Arthur Berg, night operator in the depot, was attacked by an unknown man early Tuesday morning. Berg was sweeping the floor in the waiting room about 3:30 a. m. when a man suddenly entered the room and struck him with a knife, slashing his clothing but only slightly injuring the young man. The assailant escaped. The attack is supposed to be a result of trouble that started Saturday evening when a stranger threw a stone at Engineer John Hussey while the evening passenger train was standing at this station.

Victor Carlson, the contractor is working the ditching crew in the big swamp east of here.

GRAND FORKS VALUES.

Total Assessed Valuation of City Is Nearly $5,000,000.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The assessed valuation of Grand Forks city properties is $4,751,595, according to the results reached by the city board of equalization.

This is an increase of about $500,000 over the valuation of a year ago, being brought about largely through additional personal property listings. The city did not assess lodges, hospitals and similar institutions, as recommended by the state tax commission. The commission maintains that the exemption of such properties from taxation is unconstitutional.

The city council, however, took the opposite view and refused to levy the assessments in question.

Bismarck, N. D., July 10.—Charges of irregularities in the conduct of his office, made against Police Magistrate Casselman of Bismarck, were dismissed by Acting Governor Kraabel. GRAND FORKS LOSES TWO GAMES TO GALLANT DOOKS

White Sox Win First, 5 to 4, and Second Game, 8 to 0.

Ezells Pitches Great Ball After Allen's Retirement in Initial Game.

BY BRUCE.

Our side won two games from the slightly drooping Flickertails yesterday. The first contest was hard ridden down the stretch, the teams turning the last quarter even and driving to the last 100 yard under whip and spur. Under the wire our mount beat the invader in the last two jumps and nosed out by the score of 5 to 4. The second contest was for seven furlongs and we went out from the barrier and made a runaway race all the way, winning, pulled up by the count of 8 to 0.

Mr. Allen late of Oshkosh started to twirl the first game for our side. Whether it is because he has been living in Oshkosh that he is wild, for that unfortunate fact is quite enough to make anyone wild, we do not know, but the fact remains that while he was on the mound, which was just one-third of one inning, Mr. Allen isued four passes, retired one man and yielded a hit that counted two runs. The other run came in on a passed ball.

With one down and two on the Hassocks long and lean and sinewy Brother Ezells took the pitching rostrum and immediately assumed stern-browed mastery of the situation. The late of Sioux City heaver struck Wheeler out and compelled large Peters to loft gently to Mr. Croake.

Let us state that Mr. Ezells showed worlds of stuff. Among the exhibits he set forth for inspection were smoke, change of pace, a nicely breaking curve and a hop on his fast one. Possibly he has more. Last evening a reception committee waited on Mr. Ezells at his hotel and showed him the boulevard. This evening it is proposed to show him the aerial bridge. He has already seen the Alworth building.

As there are two games to review we must get right down to the grim and unadorned details. Mr. Donley twirled for the opposition and right nobly did he work. We labored right sweetly for the victory.

Walking Habit.

In the first round Mr. Allen walked Muggs McGraw and his kid brother nearly had a spasm on the visitor's bench. Nifnecker was walked and then Dutch Flaherty sacrificed the twain along in the general interests of science. Having permitted Mr. Flaherty to sacrifice Mr. Allen resumed his habit again and walked Altman. McGraw came home on a passed ball and then Sampson singled gingerly to deep right and two runs came across. Then Ezells assumed command and the havoc ceased.

In the third, Bond doubled to deep center with two down and crossed the run register on the gallant O'Brien's single past the third base line. In the sweet fifth Bond whiffed and then Collins doubled deeply to right center, Collins stole third. O'Brien walked and Wolfe beat out an infield single and went to second on the wild peg of Frier, O'Brien going to third. Edmunds walked and then Shorty Sweeley walked and O'Brien was forced over the plate. Ezells whiffed and Sweeley was forced at second by Brackett.

Samson singled in the foreign sixth, Frier laid down a sacrifice and Sampson beat the throw to get him at second, both runners being safe. Wheeler hit one near first and Croake heaved high to Ezells on the offering, Sampson crossed. Peters hit to Collins who beat Wheeler on his throw to second and O'Brien beat the runner to first with his relay of the ball to Croake.

Brackett tripled to properly set the riot scene for the eighth and was counted on the luckily infield single of Bond. Edmunds walked in the peppery ninth and was sacrificed by Sweeley. Ford hitting in the place of Ezells, walked. Brackett grounded out to Sampson and the situation was a critical one. Crooke beat out an infield hit and the winning run in the shape of the scurrying Edmunds crossed the line.

The Second Contest.

George Austin Cunningham was on the mound for us in the second game. George allowed three very widely scattered hits. Two of the three were of the near scratch brand. The other was a clean and healthy swat and was secured by Pitcher Davis. Larson started the mound labor for the visitors. Mr. Larson toiled for four rounds. During the four rounds he sweated and worried, we secured seven runs and nine hits. Mr. Davis took up the pitching refrain in the fifth and we secured but one run and one hit off the curves and shoots offered by the relief squad.

By mutual consent the game lasted but seven innings. Dinners were waiting, and suppers, too, and even the sanquine Mr. Wheeler observed the utter futility of attempting to recover eight runs in the genial mood that Mr. George Austin Cunningham was in. Mr. Wheeler is a philosopher and also has a good appetite, and also requires time in which to dress for dinner. All things considered he gracefully yielded to the request to call the contest at the end of the seventh round. Today is ladies' day and no doubt for his courtesy Mr. Wheeler will be given three rousing cheers.

In the third round Cunningham, Brackett and Croake singled and all crossed the plate when Handsome Harold Bond doubled to left. In the fourth Wolfe singled and Edmunds also singled. Sweeley lofted to Nifnecker and Cunningham flew to Wheeler. Brackett got a life on the error of Eddie Wheeler and Croake doubled and Pond and Collins singled, and when the smoke had cleared away we were credited with four runs.

In the fifth Davis was sent to the mound and held us runless in that round. In the sixth we came back with one more counter. Brackett walked and was sacrificed. Bond lofted to left and Collins doubled cleanly to deep left and counted Brackett.

What little disputes statisticians may have had as to the standing of the team were ended for the time being by the double crested win of yesterday. The call to arms has come, comrades—we are safely anchored in second place. As the call of the unscaled heights sends an athletic thrill into the members of the Young Eagles' Flying club, so should the present lofty percentage position of our team thrill the members of the Young Fans' Rooting club. Cough drops will cure your hoarseness. With Blackie, the forty-seven language newsboy king as the gallant leader of the rooting forces, let there be much noise.

Winona, Minn., July 10.—Winona captured both games of yesterday's double-header from the lowly and tramped upon Fort William outfit. The first game was won by the score of 3 to 0, Bell holding the invaders safe all the way. The second contest was won by the score of 4 to 2. Toraason was found for ten hits, but he kept the blows of the Canadians scattered in better order than the hits of the home team. Sutton's wildness figured in the run getting of the champions. The score:

First game—	R.	H.	E.

VIRGINIA COPS CLOSE GAME FROM PEGGERS.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—Virginia won the second game of the Winnipeg series yesterday by the score of 4 to 2. Tony Faeth had the better of Dusty Rhoads and succeeded in keeping the hits of the visitors scattered. Swalm reached first on an error in the first, was sacrificed to second and counted on an infield error. Virginia tied the count in his half. Campbell reached first on an error and counted on singles by Greisch, Brokaw and Agnew. In the sixth, Greisch hit for the circuit of the bases. Brokaw walked and counted on the long triple of Agnew. Aftermott doubled in the seventh and crossed on the fly of Rhoads. In the home half of the seventh Sundheim doubled, went to third on an infield out and counted on Fremer's sacrifice fly. The score:

	R.	H.	E.

CONNIE MACK'S HOPE

CHIEF BENDER.

It looks as if Connie Mack will have to depend greatly upon his two aging veterans, Bender and Plank, for the winning of the flag in the American league. The young pitchers of the Athletics are unsteady and not dependable. Bender and Plank are far too old to bear the brunt of carrying the Athletics, and yet the very need of yeoman services may again show the skillfulness and adroitness and resourcefulness of this remarkable pair of moundsmen.

Cardinals Beat Giants.

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—Snodgrass' poor return of Beck's short fly after two were out in the thirteenth inning with the bases full yesterday, enabled Magee to cross the plate in safety with the run that enabled St. Louis to beat New York for the second time in as many days. The score was 5 to 4. In the final inning Magee doubled, Dolan sacrificed and was safe on Marquard's error. J. Miller was passed purposely, filling the bases. Riggert fanned and Beck sent a fly to Snodgrass which counted as a sacrifice and ended the game. Purdue made his debut with the local club, and New York made all its tallies off him by bunching hits. He was relieved in the eighth inning. New York had several chances to score in the last inning, but Sallee tightened.

A Win and a Tie.

New York, July 10.—New York won the first game of the double-header with Cleveland yesterday by a score of 7 to 4, while the second game was a 3 to 3 ten-inning tie, which was called on account of darkness. Because of wretched fielding by Cleveland in the second inning, New York scored six runs on one hit. Four errors were bunched in this inning, Graney making a muff of an easy fly, which let in three runs. Manager Birmingham fined Graney $25 for the damaging error. Maisel stole third and home in this inning. In the second game, Turner drove in three runs with a triple in the fifth, and Hartzell tied the score in the following inning when he drove in Sweeney and Keating with a three-base hit. Scores:

AMERICAN ASSN.

Play a Weird Game.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 10.—Umpire Johnstone forfeited yesterday's game to Indianapolis when, after he had put Catcher Tony James out of the game, the St. Paul club had no catcher with whom to continue playing. The forfeiture came in the sixth inning. In the third inning Umpires Johnstone and Irwin reversed a decision in which Otto Merz had been allowed to score and sent him back to third base. He had been allowed to score from first on a stolen base and Shortstop McNally's wild throw, which went into the grandstand. The claim, made by Manager Friel after several balls had been pitched to Outfielder Cole, that Merz was entitled only to two bases, was allowed in spite of Manager Hendrix's protest that the decision could not be changed after balls had been pitched. Manager Hendrix served notice that he would protest the game.

Brief scrimmages about the field shouting protests and entertained the fans who poured from the stands to watch his queer antics. The five innings played were almost a continuous wrangle.

Home runs by Merz and James and the rapidity with which pitchers were wheeled into action, served otherwise to enliven the game. Merz's hit was the longest one ever made inside Washington park, rolling past the flagpole in deep center. James hit his home run into the right field bleachers. Reilly obtained three hits in three times at bat and Kelleher starred with his work on the bases.

Columbus, Ohio, July 10.—Delhi, who went to the Kansas City outfield when Roth was put off the field by Umpire Johnson, made a ninth inning single that let Baskette score the winning run of a brilliant game here yesterday. The score was 3 to 2. Half the Columbus hits were for extra bases. Compton made a home run over the right field fence.

FOUR CITIES IN IT.

Iowa Golf Tournament Breaking Record of Five Years.

Ottumwa, Iowa, July 10.—Four cities will be represented in the semi-finals of the state golf tournament here today. For the past five years Des Moines got the only survivors.

In yesterday's championship flight Arthur Bartlett, Ottumwa, beat R. C. Smith, Ottumwa, 5 and 3; Ralph Rider, Des Moines, beat Alfred Peaslee, Dubuque, 11 and 9; Purdue Sheldon, Keokuk, beat Fred Carr, Des Moines, 4 and 3; J. L. Beaver, Cedar Rapids, beat J. B. Terry, Cedar Rapids, 1 up.

FOG IS LIFTING.

Cup Class Yachts May Not Have to Postpone Race Again.

Newport, R. I., July 10.—A light northerly breeze that had a pinch of east in it drove off early today some of the fog that has enveloped the waters of the Newport yacht racing course since Wednesday and stiffened the hopes of the sailing masters of the Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance that there would not be another postponement today of a race of the America's cup class sloops because of thick weather.

Capt. Howell of the Defiance, which had to retire before the start Wednesday, because of broken peak halyard blocks, said today that the sloop was fit for a race.

SALES, FINES AND "SIGS." IN TENER LEAGUE.

Chicago, July 10.—Heinie Zimmerman, the Chicago National's third baseman, yesterday received notice from President Tener of the National league that he was suspended for three days with loss of pay for arguing too strenuously with Umpire Byron in Wednesday's game. The local club also fined Zimmerman $50 and inflicted a similar penalty on Outfielder Leach for similar offenses.

Waterloo, Iowa, July 10.—Paddy Siglin, Waterloo's second baseman, was sold yesterday by Manager Jay Andrews to the Pittsburg Pirates. Siglin is the leading second baseman in this league and is hitting .320.

New Haven, Conn., July 10.—Peter J. Falsey, who played left field on the Yale varsity nine, yesterday signed a contract to join the Pittsburg National league team. He was graduated in June and will report at once.

WHO OWNS PLAYER DERRICK, ANYWAY?

Chicago, July 10.—"There has never been any agreement by the Chicago Nationals to trade Fred Mollowitz, infielder, and Cy Williams, outfielder, to the Cincinnati club for Shortstop Claude Derrick, who was to be purchased from Baltimore."

President Thomas of the Cubs made this flat denial last night and asserted that President Herrmann of the Reds, in insisting that such an agreement exists, is laboring under a misapprehension.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 10.—"The deal for Mollowitz and Williams in exchange for Derrick was closed and completed. We most certainly will hold Chicago to their end of the deal, notwithstanding reports to the contrary," said President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati league club, when informed that the Chicago National league officials had denied officially that any trade had been made. Manager Herzog of the Cincinnati team said:

"There will be no chance for Chicago to back out of the deal. I arranged this trade myself with Manager O'Day, who agreed to give me Mollowitz and Williams for Derrick, if I could get the latter. I went ahead and purchased Derrick and signed him to a Chicago contract."

ILLINI WINNING.

Middle West Crack Swimmers Showing Coast Some Speed.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—A. C. Raithel, the crack swimmer of the Illinois Athletic club, who beat Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu in the recent championship swimming meet, won the 50-yard dash last night from Babe Small of the Olympic club, in a dual meet. Small is the only other swimmer who has ever beaten Kahanamoku at the distance and he is the holder of the world's record for the distance in open water. The time was 24 3-5 seconds, which is comparatively slow.

Michael McDermott of Illinois won the 100-yard breast stroke in 1 minute 14 3-5 seconds, and Hebner of Illinois won the 100-yard back stroke in 1 minute and 11 seconds, each being a new coast mark.

HATCHING THE DOPE IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Being Gossip, Rumor, Truth and Hearsay Compressed Into the Daily Food for the Devoted and Constant Fan.

BY BRUCE.

Honors come not singly, but in flocks and droves. Yesterday Handsome Harold Bond made four hits in eight times at bat. Two of his hits were two baggers. During the afternoon Mr. Bond drove in five of the thirteen scored runs in the two games and scored one run himself. It was a very large and luscious day for the schoolmaster.

But that is not all. Following the game Mr. Bond pulled a piece of parchment from his clothes and exhibited it to some of his friends. The official and legal looking paper informed Handsome Harold Bond that he has been legally and officially nominated for superintendent of schools of Billings county, Mont.

When he is not playing baseball, Brother Bond is teaching school. Likewise when he is not busily and industriously engaged in the instruction of the young and unformed mind, he is playing vabecab. On top of the busy day the schoolmaster enjoyed with the bludgeon, the little piece of official information from the distant confines of Billings county must have come in the form of a sweet scented billet doux of a formal nature.

When Papa Bond cracked that two-base hit little red-headed Bond rang the bell in the press box. Then the vast assemblage gave forth a large hand. You should come out to the games we are having these afternoons—all of us have a lot of fun.

Joe, the groundkeeper, has trained several kids to retrieve balls, and he is getting so he enjoys the game more.

P. S. Since the attendance has increased the Peerless Laundry Leader is getting so he enjoys the games more.

When Grand Forks leaves town young Muggsy McGraw will also enjoy the games again.

Life is strange and filled with contradictions and clashes. Not so long ago Frank Chance declared that he had never seen so many boneheads and generally useless ball players on one team as he found on the New York Americans. Under the general indictment he included Birdie Cree. Chance sent Cree off to the International league.

Then up and speaks Mr. Cree:

"Never again in my life will I play under Frank Chance. Ship me somewhere east of Suez, but don't let me play under Chance."

Well, now we find Cree back with the New York Americans, and the day before yesterday he celebrated his return to the Yankees by making three hits.

Under the shower we will wager that Husk Chance slapped the diminutive Cree on his shoulders and cried in a loud voice:

"Dat a boy, Birdie; dat a boy—dat a hittin' on the nose."

And in return we are willing to wager that Mister Cree smiled gleefully up and into the open countenance of Mr. Chance. Life is strange—lots of people are starving to death for lack of an idea.

Permit us to state that the race in the Northern league is a hummer. Six teams out of the eight have an almost equal chance for the oriflamme, and here it is nearing the middle of July. Lest you forget, we repeat—Some race!

Fort William is hopelessly out of the race. This goes unless they run remedial means to the rescue of the frowsy and lowly Twins. Conrad won't do; he knows less of baseball than most men do of knitting. He made a drear and dismal failure of the St. Paul team last season and this joyous year he is making a grim and shrieking spectacle of failure out of the Fort William team.

The worst part of the whole matter is that Fort William has shown itself to be a first-class baseball town. The support at the Head of the Canadian Lakes has been amazing in the face of circumstances.

It is not that anyone expected Mr. Conrad to give Fort William a winning team right off the reel; it wasn't anything like that. But why any owner of a team should fall utterly to get a spark of pep into his team in two years, is miles, yea dusty leagues, beyond the understanding of the followers of the game.

Winnipeg, Duluth, Virginia, Fargo, Winona and Grand Forks, taking them in the order of their present standing, have an excellent chance for the flag. At the half-mile mark the six contestants are running under a blanket. Which team will cut out at the head of the stretch and make the running to the wire, under whip and rowel, is the speculation that is keenly lending interest to the race. No one knows.

The Dooks have come up from the dust and crowd of the ruck and are running at the flank of Winnipeg. Any slip upon the part of the Peggers and we will slip into the lead and will make the running. Grand Forks and Winnipeg have carried the field along. Winnipeg came up after the first quarter turn and passed the flying Grand Forks. Duluth passed Fort William, Superior, Winona, Fargo and then gained the saddle girths of Grand Forks. On the back stretch we have passed the North Dakota entry and are flying at the flank of the leader.

It's a great race in the Burmeister Plate event and she should furnish a grand finish.

GRAND FORKS LOSES TWO GAMES TO GALLANT DOOKS

White Sox Win First, 5 to 4, and Second Game, 8 to 0.

Ezells Pitches Great Ball After Allen's Retirement in Initial Game.

BY BRUCE.

Our side won two games from the slightly drooping Flickertails yesterday. The first contest was hard ridden down the stretch, the teams turning the last quarter even and driving to the last 100 yard under whip and spur. Under the wire our mount beat the invader in the last two jumps and nosed out by the score of 5 to 4. The second contest was for seven furlongs and we went out from the barrier and made a runaway race all the way, winning, pulled up by the count of 8 to 0.

Mr. Allen late of Oshkosh started to twirl the first game for our side. Whether it is because he has been living in Oshkosh that he is wild, for that unfortunate fact is quite enough to make anyone wild, we do not know, but the fact remains that while he was on the mound, which was just one-third of one inning, Mr. Allen isued four passes, retired one man and yielded a hit that counted two runs. The other run came in on a passed ball.

With one down and two on the Hassocks long and lean and sinewy Brother Ezells took the pitching rostrum and immediately assumed stern-browed mastery of the situation. The late of Sioux City heaver struck Wheeler out and compelled large Peters to loft gently to Mr. Croake.

Let us state that Mr. Ezells showed worlds of stuff. Among the exhibits he set forth for inspection were smoke, change of pace, a nicely breaking curve and a hop on his fast one. Possibly he has more. Last evening a reception committee waited on Mr. Ezells at his hotel and showed him the boulevard. This evening it is proposed to show him the aerial bridge. He has already seen the Alworth building.

As there are two games to review we must get right down to the grim and unadorned details. Mr. Donley twirled for the opposition and right nobly did he work. We labored right sweetly for the victory.

Walking Habit.

In the first round Mr. Allen walked Muggs McGraw and his kid brother nearly had a spasm on the visitor's bench. Nifnecker was walked and then Dutch Flaherty sacrificed the twain along in the general interests of science. Having permitted Mr. Flaherty to sacrifice Mr. Allen resumed his habit again and walked Altman. McGraw came home on a passed ball and then Sampson singled gingerly to deep right and two runs came across. Then Ezells assumed command and the havoc ceased.

In the third, Bond doubled to deep center with two down and crossed the run register on the gallant O'Brien's single past the third base line. In the sweet fifth Bond whiffed and then Collins doubled deeply to right center. Collins stole third. O'Brien walked and Wolfe beat out an infield single and went to second on the wild peg of Frier, O'Brien going to third. Edmunds walked and then Shorty Sweeley walked and O'Brien was forced over the plate. Ezells whiffed and Sweeley was forced at second by Brackett.

Sampson singled in the foreign sixth, Frier laid down a sacrifice and Sampson beat the throw to get him at second, both runners being safe. Wheeler hit one near first and Croake heaved high to Ezells on the offering, Sampson crossed. Peters hit to Collins who beat Wheeler on his throw to second and O'Brien beat the runner to first with his relay of the ball to Croake.

Brackett tripled to properly set the riot scene for the eighth and was counted on the luckily infield single of Bond. Edmunds walked in the peppery ninth and was sacrificed by Sweeley. Ford hitting in the place of Ezells, walked. Brackett grounded out to Sampson and the situation was a critical one. Crooke beat out an infield hit and the winning run in the shape of the scurrying Edmunds crossed the line.

The Second Contest.

George Austin Cunningham was on the mound for us in the second game. George allowed three very widely scattered hits. Two of the three were of the near scratch brand. The other was a clean and healthy swat and was secured by Pitcher Davis. Larson started the mound labor for the visitors. Mr. Larson tolled for four rounds. During the four rounds he sweated and worried, we secured seven runs and nine hits. Mr. Davis took up the pitching refrain in the fifth and we secured but one run and one hit off the curves and shoots offered by the relief squad.

By mutual consent the game lasted but seven innings. Dinners were waiting, and suppers, too, and even the sanguine Mr. Wheeler observed the utter futility of attempting to recover eight runs in the genial mood that Mr. George Austin Cunningham was in. Mr. Wheeler is a philosopher and also has a good appetite, and also requires time in which to dress for dinner. All things considered he gracefully yielded to the request to call the contest at the end of the seventh round. Today is ladies' day and no doubt for his courtesy Mr. Wheeler will be given three rousing cheers.

In the third round Cunningham, Brackett and Croake singled and all crossed the plate when Handsome Harold Bond doubled to left. In the fourth Wolfe singled and Edmunds also singled. Sweeley lofted to Nifnecker and Cunningham flew to Wheeler. Brackett got a life on the error of Eddie Wheeler and Croake doubled and Pond and Collins singled, and when the smoke had cleared away we were credited with four runs.

In the fifth Davis was sent to the mound and held us runless in that round. In the sixth we came back with one more counter. Brackett walked and was sacrificed. Bond lofted to left and Collins doubled cleanly to deep left and counted Brackett.

What little disputes statisticians may have had as to the standing of the team were ended for the time being by the double crested win of yesterday. The call to arms has come, comrades—we are safely anchored in second place. As the call of the unscaled heights sends an athletic thrill into the members of the Young Eagles' Flying club, so should the present lofty percentage position of our team thrill the members of the Young Fans' Rooting club. Cough drops will cure your hoarseness. With Blackie, the forty-seven language newsboy king as the gallant leader of the rooting forces, let there be much noise.

WINONA TAKES TWO GAMES FROM TWINS.

Winona, Minn., July 10.—Winona captured both games of yesterday's double-header from the lowly and tramped upon Fort William outfit. The first game was won by the score of 3 to 0, Bell holding the invaders safe all the way. The second contest was won by the score of 4 to 2. Toraason was found for ten hits, but he kept the blows of the Canadians scattered in better order than the hits of the home team. Sutton's wildness figured in the run getting of the champions. VIRGINIA COPS CLOSE GAME FROM PEGGERS.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—Virginia won the second game of the Winnipeg series yesterday by the score of 4 to 2. Tony Faeth had the better of Dusty Rhoads and succeeded in keeping the hits of the visitors scattered. Swalm reached first on an error in the first, was sacrificed to second and counted on an infield error. Virginia tied the count in his half. Campbell reached first on an error and counted on singles by Gretsch, Brokaw and Agnew. In the sixth, Gretsch hit for the circuit of the bases. Brokaw walked and counted on the long triple of Agnew. Aftermott doubled in the seventh and crossed on the single of Rhoads. In the home half of the seventh Sundheim doubled, went to third on an infield out and counted on Fremer's sacrifice fly. CONNIE MACK'S HOPE

CHIEF BENDER.

It looks as if Connie Mack will have to depend greatly upon his two aging veterans, Bender and Plank, for the winning of the flag in the American league. The young pitchers of the Athletics are unsteady and not dependable. Bender and Plank are far too old to bear the brunt of carrying the Athletics, and yet the very need of yeoman services may again show the skillfulness and adroitness and resourcefulness of this remarkable pair of moundsmen.

Cardinals Beat Giants.

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—Snodgrass' poor return of Beck's short fly after two were out in the thirteenth inning with the bases full yesterday, enabled Magee to cross the plate in safety with the run that enabled St. Louis to beat New York for the second time in as many days. The score was 5 to 4. In the final inning Magee doubled, Dolan sacrificed and was safe on Marquard's error. J. Miller was passed purposely, filling the bases. Riggert fanned and Beck sent a fly to Snodgrass which counted as a sacrifice and ended the game. Purdue made his debut with the local club, and New York made all its tallies off him by bunching hits. He was relieved in the eighth inning. New York had several chances to score in the last inning, but Sallee tightened.

A Win and a Tie.

New York, July 10.—New York won the first game of the double-header with Cleveland yesterday by a score of 7 to 4, while the second game was a 3 to 3 ten-inning tie, which was called on account of darkness. Because of wretched fielding by Cleveland in the second inning, New York scored six runs on one hit. Four errors were bunched in this inning, Graney making a muff of an easy fly, which let in three runs. Manager Birmingham fined Graney $25 for the damaging error. Maisel stole third and home in this inning. In the second game, Turner drove in three runs with a triple in the fifth, and Hartzell tied the score in the following inning when he drove in Sweeney and Keating with a three-base hit. Scores:

AMERICAN ASSN.

Play a Weird Game.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 10.—Umpire Johnstone forfeited yesterday's game to Indianapolis when, after he had put Catcher Tony James out of the game, the St. Paul club had no catcher with whom to continue playing. The forfeiture came in the sixth inning. In the third inning Umpires Johnstone and Irwin reversed a decision in which Otto Merz had been allowed to score and sent him back to third base. He had been allowed to score from first on a stolen base and Shortstop McNally's wild throw, which went into the grandstand. The claim, made by Manager Friel after several balls had been pitched to Outfielder Cole, that Merz was entitled only to two bases, was allowed in spite of Manager Hendrix's protest that the decision could not be changed after balls had been pitched. Manager Hendrix served notice that he would protest the game.

Friel scampered about the field shouting protests and entertained the fans who poured from the stands to watch his queer antics. The five innings played were almost a continuous wrangle.

Home runs by Merz and James and the rapidity with which pitchers were wheeled into action, served otherwise to enliven the game. Merz's hit was the longest one ever made inside Washington park, rolling past the flagpole in deep center. James hit his home run into the right field bleachers. Reilly obtained three hits in three times at bat and Kelleher starred with his work on the bases.

Columbus, Ohio, July 10.—Delhi, who went to the Kansas City outfield when Roth was put off the field by Umpire Johnson, made a ninth inning single that let Baskette score the winning run of a brilliant game here yesterday. The score was 3 to 2. Half the Columbus hits were for extra bases. Gondon made a home run over the right field fence.

FOG IS LIFTING.

Cup Class Yachts May Not Have to Postpone Race Again.

Newport, R. I., July 10.—A light northerly breeze that had a pinch of east in it drove off early today some of the fog that has enveloped the waters of the Newport yacht racing course since Wednesday and stiffened the hopes of the sailing masters of the Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance that there would not be another postponement today of a race of the America's cup class sloops because of thick weather.

Capt. Howell of the Defiance, which had to retire before the start Wednesday, because of broken peak halyard blocks, said today that the sloop was fit for a race.

HATCHING THE DOPE IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Being Gossip, Rumor, Truth and Hearsay Compressed Into the Daily Food for the Devoted and Constant Fan.

BY BRUCE.

Honors come not singly, but in flocks and droves. Yesterday Handsome Harold Bond made four hits in eight times at bat. Two of his hits were two baggers. During the afternoon Mr. Bond drove in five of the thirteen scored runs in the two games and scored one run himself. It was a very large and luscious day for the schoolmaster.

But that is not all. Following the game Mr. Bond pulled a piece of parchment from his clothes and exhibited it to some of his friends. The official and legal looking paper informed Handsome Harold Bond that he has been legally and officially nominated for superintendent of schools of Billings county, Mont.

When he is not playing baseball, Brother Bond is teaching school. Likewise when he is not busily and industriously engaged in the instruction of the young and unformed mind, he is playing vabecab. On top of the busy day the schoolmaster enjoyed with the bludgeon, the little piece of official information from the distant confines of Billings county must have come in the form of a sweet scented billet doux of a formal nature.

When Papa Bond cracked that two-base hit little red-headed Bond rang the bell in the press box. Then the vast assemblage gave forth a large hand. You should come out to the games we are having these afternoons—all of us have a lot of fun.

Joe, the groundkeeper, has trained several kids to retrieve balls, and he is getting so he enjoys the game more.

P. S. Since the attendance has increased the Peerless Laundry Leader is getting so he enjoys the games more.

When Grand Forks leaves town young Muggsy McGraw will also enjoy the games again.

Life is strange and filled with contradictions and clashes. Not so long ago Frank Chance declared that he had never seen so many boneheads and generally useless ball players on one team as he found on the New York Americans. Under the general indictment he included Birdie Cree. Chance fired Cree off to the International league.

Then up and speaks Mr. Cree:

"Never again in my life will I play under Frank Chance. Ship me somewhere east of Suez, but don't let me play under Chance."

Well, now we find Cree back with the New York Americans, and the day before yesterday he celebrated his return to the Yankees by making three hits.

Under the shower we will wager that Husk Chance slapped the diminutive Cree on his shoulders and cried in a loud voice:

"Dat a boy, Birdie; dat a boy—dat a hittin' on the nose."

And in return we are willing to wager that Mister Cree smiled gleefully up and into the open countenance of Mr. Chance. Life is strange—lots of people are starving to death for lack of an idea.

Permit us to state that the race in the Northern league is a hummer. Six teams out of the eight have an almost equal chance for the oriflamme, and here it is nearing the middle of July. Lest you forget, we repeat—Some race!

Fort William is hopelessly out of the race. This goes unless they run remedial means to the rescue of the frowsy and lowly Twins. Conrad won't do; he knows less of baseball than most men do of knitting. He made a drear and dismal failure of the St. Paul team last season and this joyous year he is making a grim and shrieking spectacle of failure out of the Fort William team.

The worst part of the whole matter is that Fort William has shown itself to be a first-class baseball town. The support at the Head of the Canadian Lakes has been amazing in the face of circumstances.

It is not that anyone expected Mr. Conrad to give Fort William a winning team right off the reel; it wasn't anything like that. But why any owner of a team should fall utterly to get a spark of pep into his team in two years, is miles, yea dusty leagues, beyond the understanding of the followers of the game.

Winnipeg, Duluth, Virginia, Fargo, Winona and Grand Forks, taking them in the order of their present standing, have an excellent chance for the flag. At the half-mile mark the six contestants are running under a blanket. Which team will cut out at the head of the stretch and make the running to the wire, under whip and rowel, is the speculation that is keenly lending interest to the race. No one knows.

The Dooks have come up from the dust and crowd of the ruck and are running at the flank of Winnipeg. Any slip upon the part of the Peggers and we will slip into the lead and will make the running. Grand Forks and Winnipeg have carried the field along. Winnipeg came up after the first quarter turn and passed the flying Grand Forks. Duluth passed Fort William, Superior, Winona, Fargo and then gained the saddle girths of Grand Forks. On the back stretch we have passed the North Dakota entry and are flying at the flank of the leader.

It's a great race in the Burmeister Plate event and she should furnish a grand finish.

SALES, FINES AND "SIGS." IN TENER LEAGUE.

Chicago, July 10.—Heinie Zimmerman, the Chicago National's third baseman, yesterday received notice from President Tener of the National league that he was suspended for three days with loss of pay for arguing too strenuously with Umpire Byron in Wednesday's game. The local club also fined Zimmerman $50 and inflicted a similar penalty on Outfielder Leach for similar offenses.

Waterloo, Iowa, July 10.—Paddy Siglin, Waterloo's second baseman, was sold yesterday by Manager Jay Andrews to the Pittsburg Pirates. Siglin is the leading second baseman in this league and is hitting .320.

New Haven, Conn., July 10.—Peter J. Falsey, who played left field on the Yale varsity nine, yesterday signed a contract to join the Pittsburg National league team. He was graduated in June and will report at once.

WHO OWNS PLAYER DERRICK, ANYWAY?

Chicago, July 10.—"There has never been any agreement by the Chicago Nationals to trade Fred Mollowitz, infielder, and Cy Williams, outfielder, to the Cincinnati club for Shortstop Claude Derrick, who was to be purchased from Baltimore."

President Thomas of the Cubs made this flat denial last night and asserted that President Herrmann of the Reds, in insisting that such an agreement exists, is laboring under a misapprehension.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 10.—"The deal for Mollowitz and Williams in exchange for Derrick was closed and completed. We most certainly will hold Chicago to their end of the deal, notwithstanding reports to the contrary," said President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati league club, when informed that the Chicago National league officials had denied officially that any trade had been made. Manager Herzog of the Cincinnati team said:

"There will be no chance for Chicago to back out of the deal. I arranged this trade myself with Manager O'Day, who agreed to give me Mollowitz and Williams for Derrick, if I could get the latter. I went ahead and purchased Derrick and signed him to a Chicago contract."

ILLINI WINNING.

Middle West Crack Swimmers Showing Coast Some Speed.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—A. C. Raithel, the crack swimmer of the Illinois Athletic club, who beat Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu in the recent championship swimming meet, won the 50-yard dash last night from Babe Small of the Olympic club, in a dual meet. Small is the only other swimmer who has ever beaten Kahanamoku at the distance and he is the holder of the world's record for the distance in open water. The time was 24 3-5 seconds, which is comparatively slow.

Michael McDermott of Illinois won the 100-yard breast stroke in 1 minute 14

HEAR ABOUT ROTARY MEET

Duluth Club Listens to Reports of Its Delegates to Houston.

Organization's Big Increase —Plans Extension to Australia.

The Duluth Rotary club broke its vacation lassitude last night by holding a regular meeting and dinner at the Elks club, which was attended by about sixty members. The delegates to the international convention of Rotary, recently held at Houston, Texas, made reports on the various phases of the convention and they proved most interesting.

There will be another meeting on Aug. 13, and the one following that will be on Sept. 3. The entertainment committee of the club will call a special meeting for entertainment purposes for some evening in the latter part of this month. They promise unique entertainment but refuse to disclose the program.

At last evening's meeting A. C. Kienly, who was a delegate to Houston, said that in attending the round-table sessions of the entertainment divisions of the national convention, he learned many things, and hopes to have the local club profit by the suggestions he absorbed. C. W. Oppel, secretary of the Duluth club, also said that in his attendance in the groups of secretaries and membership officers, he obtained many excellent ideas, which he hopes to put into action here.

G. H. Bate, president of the Duluth club, who was also a delegate, made a most interesting report on the trip and on the convention in general. Mr. Bate said that 104 out of a total of 128 clubs in the international organization were represented, eighty-eight of them from the United States, eight from Canada and eight from Great Britain, and the total attendance was about 3,000.

Mr. Bate spoke also of the increase of Rotary during the past year. It shows forty-five new clubs and a growth of over 5,000 in membership, making a total of 128 clubs and a membership of about 15,000. The increase in the year was about 66 per cent. Plans were made at the Houston convention, Mr. Bate said, to establish clubs in Australia during the ensuing year, and in Germany, France, Russia and Italy within two years. Many resolutions of national business interest were adopted, he said.

Entertainment Fund.

Speaking of the entertainment for delegates, Mr. Bate said that it is seldom that such elaboration and carefulness of detail is shown for entertaining delegates to a convention. All of the Texas Rotary clubs combined, and a sum of about $25,000 was raised and spent for the purpose.

"In addition to that," said Mr. Bate, "the Rotarians in the cities along the way must have spent at least $10,000 entertaining delegates en route to Houston. We were entertained for from three hours to a day and a half in the Twin Cities, Oklahoma City, Kansas City, Wichita and other places."

Mr. Bate said also that the delegates in general were of the very highest grade of business men; and he was pleased to find that clergymen are enthusiasts over Rotary as well. Fifteen ministers, he says, were delegates.

"That lent a touch of dignity to the affair," said Mr. Bate, "but nobody—clerical or lay delegates—was overburdened with dignity."

Mr. Bate spoke of the magnificent gold wheel, with dangling wheels representing each of the 128 Rotary clubs, brought by the California delegation. He says that this emblem cost about $10,000, the whole being in solid California gold, and being paid for by the California Rotarians. The San Antonio delegation had two live panthers in a cage, emblematic of the Panther City, and the drum major of the San Antonio band was 8 feet 4 inches high, said to be the tallest man in captivity.

It has not been decided where the next international convention will be held, but the directors will decide in about sixty days. The candidates are San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Birmingham, Cincinnati and other cities.

BEAVER GETTING THICK.

Animals Increasing Rapidly in Itasca State Park.

Bemidji, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—More than 300 beavers, protected as they are by the state laws of the preserve, as well as the closed season against killing them in any part of Minnesota, are giving promise of populating Itasca park, as well as other parts of Northern Minnesota. With the strict observance of the game laws of this section, it is reasonable to expect that Minnesota may soon be again in a position to furnish as many beaver pelts as during the time that this settled district was the happy hunting ground of the trapper and the pot hunter. Some day, it is prophesied, the game may be so numerous that restricted trapping may be permitted without danger of extermination.

For many years forest service men watched with interest a house in the vicinity of Northome. The house was one of the largest in the history of that section. Later it was necessary for the forest rangers to be gone for several days. When they returned Henry Winslow found that the big house had been dynamited and that every beaver had been killed.

BEMIDJI BUYS A MOTOR TRUCK

City Contracts for a Machine to Cost $5,400.

Bemidji, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council this week bought a Seagrave fire truck for $5,400 after hearing agents for various motor-driven vehicles.

Goodman & Loitved, local cement contractors, were awarded the contract for the construction of the pavement of Nymore road. The cost of this work will be about $3,500, or $1.28 per yard. The road runs for 1,400 feet east of the Crookston Lumber company's mill, through quicksand that has been made practically impossible to pass. Alderman Swart argued for the road and Alderman Dicair stood against it.

Paving Beltrami avenue from Seventh to Eleventh street will cost $7,279 and the storm sewers will cost $1,134, according to estimates made at the council meeting. The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids, to be opened in two weeks. Bonds of J. F. McCarty, who will paint the water tower, John D. Rogers, a plumber, and the Ideal Bridge company were accepted.

Following some discussion, in which Aldermen Miller, Smart and Bailey favored the move, and Dicair opposed, the city clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the purchase of a garbage burner.

Bemidji Home Damaged.

Bemidji, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Practically every inch of the interior of the residence of Ira Botting, Tenth street between Minnesota avenue and American avenue, was burned in a fire there early Tuesday morning, although the exterior of the house, including the roof, is practically undamaged. An overheated stove is blamed.

WITH THE U. S. FLEET IN THE GULF OF MEXICO

Some Intimate Details About the Life and Habits of the Boys Who Are Holding Down the Lid in Vera Cruz, as Told in Colliers' Weekly By James B. Connolly.

IT HAS been night, but in a moment the red sun rolls up from the oily, undulating tropic gulf and it is day. Landward, the yellow night lights grow dim; there is a moment of haze and vapor and then the city—a pink and white city, with here and there a touch of cream and blue—emerges from above the breakwater and the harbor front. A quartermaster of the watch steps up to the officer of the deck and, saluting, says: "Two bells, sir."

"Strike two!" says the officer of the deck; and the quartermaster strikes them; and, striking them, seems also to strike a sharp double stroke from every other ship in the harbor; for what is happening on one ship is happening also on every other ship in the harbor. The double strokes echo all about us.

A quartermaster of the watch steps up and, saluting, says: "Quarter past 5, sir." And the officer, saluting, says: "Tell the bugler to sound reveille."

And the seagoing bugler sends the morning call echoing up and down the passageways and across the quiet waters; and presently from out of hammocks, from off gratings, from under the bilges of triced-up boats, of the overhangs of turrets—from a blanket or hammock, or wherever a curled-up body could fit, they come rolling out—the slumberers of a battleship's crew; and from other battleships, colliers, cruisers, gunboats, supply ships, repair ships, destroyers and what not, the same insistent call is ringing and the reluctant sleepers also are turning out to greet the tropical morning sun.

The Top of the Day.

Between decks the morning coffee is being served, and soon up topside the stimulated watch is washing down decks. Before the torrential charge of the hose division the last lingering deck slumberer is routed out; before not one, but half a dozen big hose; and in the rear of the hose division come a battalion of scrub brushes and squeegees, the same manned by barefooted lads with trousers rolled to the knee.

The market boat, which is the second steamer, is cleared away and brought to gangway, a half dozen Filipino stewards take position in the stern sheets, and away she goes to bring back what they may gather from the early morning market in Vera Cruz.

The washed-down, scrubbed, and squeegeed planking is drying out, white and beautiful under the mounting sun. Mess gear sounds, and the breakfast call. Joyous sounds! Below rush the men, every soul that is not on watch; and by and by reappear, and, leaning comfortably over for'ard and 'midship, leisurely pick their teeth or smoke while they descant on the fortunes of the city before them.

Swamped With Mascots.

The hot sun works slowly to the westward. Ships' boats come and go; ships also. A transport signals for permission to sail. It is granted. Her passengers, mostly refugees from the interior of Mexico, crowd her rail to wave, and some perhaps to weep, as she passes slowly out of the harbor.

A liberty boat, which in this case is the ship's fifty-foot sailing launch with a gas engine in her, returns with eighty lads aboard. Most of them are happy in their returning. It has been the first visit for most of them to a foreign city, and it is a wonderful, strange city; but home is home—they are glad to get back to the ship.

They bring souvenirs and the promise of even greater things.

One clutches a bunch of ripe red bananas with one hand and a pineapple in the other. He has difficulty in making the transfer from the liberty boat to the ladder platform, but he refuses to loosen his grip of his pineapples or bananas. A lady in a blue dress sold him the pineapple.

One with a bird of glorious plumage announces himself when he makes the deck: "Four pesos," and holds up his prize.

"But what's he good for—besides his looks?"

"Him? Wait till dark comes and hear him sing. He only sings in the dark."

"Too bad you didn't wait till dark came before you bought him."

One brings the offer of two more mascots for the ship. A chum ashore from off a gunboat says he can get him two fine billy goats. D'y' s'pose the executive officer'd let 'em come aboard?

The executive, overhearing, considers the matter for about one-fifth of a second.

"We have ten dogs now," says the executive—"not to mention four parrakeets and an owl, and some kind of a creature that shrieks like a lost soul every time anybody comes within ten feet of him. Tell that gunboat chum of yours to take back his goats."

Plucky Boys From Everywhere.

They are nearly all young, these bluejackets and marines on the warships—average age, about twenty-one years; and they come from anywhere and everywhere—from the farms, the prairies, the corners of city streets; and they have been many things—farm hands, carpenters, mechanics, barbers, trolley-car men, clerks, street loafers, high school boys, and just plain boys who wish to see the world.

Some are terribly sophisticated in worldly ways and some so green, of course, that the wags have frequent chances to keep their wits on edge. Some have come with the plain notion that the navy offers many fine chances for a good, industrious fellow to earn a good living, and some, indisputably, have come with the bright hope of some day pointing a 14-inch gun and sending a relay of 1,400-pound shells where they will blow something foreign and opposing, ship or building, whatever it may be, as high as the flying clouds.

But no matter, all that. When the "show-down" comes but few of them will turn their backs on the fighting. Blowing up ships and people may have seemed a terrible idea at first, but a few weeks in the community of a warship with its matter-of-fact, professional manner of discussing such subjects soon brings them around to common, seagoing notions of the matter.

Ashore at Vera Cruz, during that first and second day's fighting, standing in solid columns there for a while, not knowing just what was going to happen, but feeling to a certainty that something was going to happen, and that something stirring had to happen soon, they stood there grinning widely and waiting for the ball to open.

It may have been their childish innocence, it may have been their untutored ignorance, but when that sheet of flame, the rifle fire of a compactly crowded foe, first burst from the roof of the naval college, and a solid squad or two of them went down, and following that the snipers began to get them in ones and twos and threes—when that happened there was no distressing confusion in their ranks. When later, it became necessary for the Prairie and Chester to fire just over their heads to batter the walls of that same war college, it made no difference. The ship's gunnery was rapid and excellent—they knew it would be—and when the shells went whistling through the walls of the second story, the marines and bluejackets stood under the first story and let them whistle. Plaster and bricks from the shaken walls came tumbling down upon them. They ducked beneath the falling mortar, some of them, but they all took their shells standing.

Soberer Men-o'-War's Men.

They are not the sailors of classic tradition, these battleship lads of the twentieth century. Every man to the age he lives in—it must be so. The old phrase, "Drunk as a sailor," meant, in most men's minds, drunk as a man-o'-war's man. I was born and brought up in a great seaport—Boston—and my earliest memories are of loafing days along the harbor front and the husky-voiced roaring fellows coming ashore in the pulling boats from the men-o'-war; fine, rolling-gaited fellows, in from long cruises and flamingly eager to make the most of their short liberty. "Great-hearted men, who gave truth to the phrase—"and spending his money like a drunken sailor"—and knowing, usually, but two inescapable obligations—to do his duty aboard ship and, to stand by a shipmate in trouble ashore. Almost any of the old-time policemen of the large seaports can tell you many fine tales of the riotous hours along the water front in the old days.

Such is the passing tradition. The present lad of the navy is creating a new one. For one thing, he no longer gets drunk—that is, he does not get drunk by divisions.

The heroic sailor of tradition has passed—a sailor of another kind, but just as efficient in another way—the way of his day—is rapidly creating another tradition. The lad who in the lusty days of his youth can thus hold himself in check is a pretty good product of American navy development, too. He pretty generally passes up the grog shop, but he visits the art galleries, the museums, the cathedrals, the Y. M. C. A.'s ashore, takes books from the library on shipboard, buys postcards and mails them home to let his friends know of the great things in the world.

ELEVEN LEAVE THE HOSPITAL

Only Five Victims of Accident Still Under Doctors' Care.

Only five of the sixteen men injured in the accident when the Billings Park car ran off the Twenty-first street viaduct yesterday morning are at St. Mary's hospital. The other eleven were allowed to go to their homes, the injuries being considered of such minor nature that the care of a physician or nurse was no longer necessary.

The five men still in the institution are: Arnie Olson, dislocated ankle; Erick Erickson, bruised ankle; Martin Engleman, bruised back; Harry Mathieson, flesh wound on elbow, and Martin Bostad, spralned back. All of the men will, it is expected, be out of the hospital early next week.

"Wild Man" Still at Large.

Although Sheriff Carlson has spent three days in a search for the "wild man," said to be running about naked in the woods near South Superior, no trace of him has been found. The search will be given up by the sheriff and arrangements are made to have a citizens' posse organized when the man is next seen and follow him until he is captured. During the time of the search he is said to have been seen three different times by farmers living near the city. Each investigation by the sheriff's men failed to bring further trace of him.

Orders License Supply.

County Clerk W. J. Leader yesterday placed an order for 4,500 hunting license blanks with the state warden. The number is an increase of about 500 over that of last year. During last season the clerk ran out of blanks. This fall it is expected that the demand will be as heavy if not heavier than last fall, when 4,600 licenses were issued.

ASSAULT CASE GOES TO JURY

Closing arguments are being presented this afternoon in the case of the state against Albert Anderson, Normanna farmer, who is on trial charged with an assault on his neighbor, Edward Arntsen, on Sept. 1 last. The taking of testimony was concluded this morning shortly before the noon adjournment.

Anderson shot Arntsen through the knee during a quarrel at the Anderson farm, claiming that it was done in self-defense. Arntsen was then and is now chairman of the town board. Anderson, at that time, had just resigned as town treasurer, and had been made defendant in a suit brought by the town to collect certain alleged shortages.

The case will go to the jury late this afternoon.

DULUTH IS BANNER CITY FOR REALTY INVESTMENTS

Duluth is deemed the banner city of the United States in a real estate way.

According to a wire received by The Herald from Pittsburg today from Henry Nolte, the National Association of Real Estate exchanges has voted a silver cup to Duluth to be held by the real estate exchange here till such time as some other city shall be able to show profits to the association in excess of $40,000 from real estate investments.

The members of the National Real Estate association were evidently immensely pleased with the result of its investment in Waverly park. That such a large proposition should have been cleaned up within a few weeks at a substantial profit was a surprise to real estate men who assembled at Pittsburg from all parts of Canada on the occasion of their annual convention.

The operation is considered to have been a telling advertisement for this city, and is expected to attract considerable outside capital to Duluth in the near future.

NEW SECRETARY OF Y. M. C. A. HERE

S. W. Harris Will Establish Local Employment Department.

S. W. Harris, who has arrived in Duluth from Portland, Or., to establish an employment department in the Duluth Y. M. C. A. work, comes with a record of success, and with the commendation of those with whom he has worked in Portland. The Herald is in receipt of a letter from John A. Goodell, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here some years ago, and who is now industrial secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. in the Pacific coast division, in which Mr. Goodell says of Mr. Harris:

"I want him to meet you early on his arrival, as he is a real live one and will be interested in cordial co-operation with you."

Mr. Harris specialized, with the Portland Y. M. C. A. in the employment work, and was exceedingly successful. Last year employment was found, through that agency, for more than 2,000 young men. Mr. Harris hopes to build up a useful department of the same kind in Duluth.

Mr. Alexander states that Guirl served seven months of a seven-year sentence for forgery in the Nebraska prison and that he is also wanted for forging in Des Moines, Iowa; Sioux Rapids, Iowa, and Omaha.

QUEER VOWS MADE BY MEN AND WOMEN

Bachelor Swore Never to Look on Another Woman's Face; Chess Player Went Mad.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer: There is no limit to human folly, or perverseness, and many of the vows that rash people make are foolish as well as perverse.

Eighteen years ago a California man lost his sight during an illness and there was danger of total blindness. His wife was exceedingly pious and vowed that if her husband's sight was restored she would [illegible] on her hands and knees once a year to a neighboring church in token of her gratitude. He recovered his sight and once a year since then his wife has kept her vow. It was surely nothing but folly and obstinacy that inspired the vow of an old bachelor that he would never look on a woman's face again. In order to carry out his vow he had a high wall built around his house, which he never left, and substituted men for his women servants. Later, when new houses sprang up around his own and his grounds were overlooked, he had them covered with a roof and artificially lighted. He kept his strange vow to the end of his life, which, however, came within seven years.

"Walk Backward Around World."

The most recent of these foolish makers of vows is a native of Brussels, who has sworn that he will make a tour of the world walking backward. It is to be hoped that his fate will be happier than that of the man who swore that he would never rest until he could walk on the ceiling like a fly, and who lost his reason without gaining his wish.

There was "method in the madness" of the great French painter Zeim, who vowed that he would never leave his studio until a certain important picture was finished. He gave instructions that the door should be locked in his studio and that the door should not be opened under any conditions, his meals to be handed to him through a hole in the door. Thus he worked for months during the crisis that ended in Napoleon's famous coup d'etat and his accession to the throne, of which Zeim knew nothing until his picture was completed and his door unlocked.

Another French artist, Gericauld, was equally determined to allow no distraction to interfere with the painting of his great picture, "The Wreck of the Medusa." He had his head shaved and vowed that he would never allow his hair to grow until his work was done. The vow he religiously kept, in spite of strong temptation to break it, and the reward of his heroism was the most perfect painting of his life.

Foolish Confinement For Thirty Years.

It was for a very curious reason that an old lady who died a few years ago condemned herself to more than 30 years' confinement to her home. She had married a widower, as miserly as he was unromantic, and he insisted that his second wife should wear the clothes left behind by his first wife. The wife was as mutinous as her husband was resolute and she determined that until she could have her own clothes she would never leave the house—a vow she kept until her death.

A man who was recently released from San Quentin, the state prison of California, after serving a sentence of six years' imprisonment for burglary, was one of the strangest convicts. The very moment that he entered the prison portals he turned to the sheriff and vowed that he would never speak another word until his sentence had expired.

Every effort was made to make the convict speak, but no threats or punishment had the slightest effect on him, and he never spoke again until he had passed out of the prison, six years later, a free man.

A story is told of a young man in England, a great chess enthusiast, who was so annoyed at his failure to solve, unapparently simple problem that he vowed he would neither sleep nor eat until the solution was found. He shut himself up in a disused room and was found four days later by his relatives, terribly emaciated and out of his mind. He spent a year in a lunatic asylum as the result of the rash vow, and the problem remains unsolved.

FRUITS AND NUTS AS FOOD.

Washington Herald: A well-known food specialist says, in speaking of the peculiarties of various foods, that:

Blanched almonds give the higher nerve or brain muscle food; no heat or waste.

Green water grapes are blood-purifying, but of little food value; reject seeds and skins.

Black grapes are nutritious and blood-purifying, but too rich for those who suffer from the liver.

Tomatoes are good as nerve or brain food; no heat. They are thinning and stimulating. Do not swallow the skins.

Apples supply the higher nerve and muscle food, but do not give stay.

Green figs are excellent food. Dried figs contain nerve and muscle food, heat and waste, but are bad for liver.

Oranges are refreshing and nutritious, but are not good if the liver is out of order.

Juicy fruits give more or less higher nerve or brain, and some few muscle food and waste; no heat.

All stone fruits are considered to be injurious for those who suffer from the liver and should be used cautiously.

Armour's Household Bulletin No. 1

A Guide to Hot Weather Marketing

When heat waves almost blind you, it simplifies summer food buying to be able to tell your dealer, "Send me Armour's," doesn't it? You don't have to think about it. The Armour name guarantees you satisfaction in advance—the utmost of quality plus government certification of purity and wholesomeness. For there's an Armour branch house and a corps of Armour men right here in town to see that Armour quality is delivered. And the summer suggestions given below will help to simplify preparation of these quality products for the table.

Baking Day

Our grandmothers knew perfect shortening and they obtained it thus: They took only the leaf fat and rendered it in an open kettle. Armour and Company make their "Simon Pure" Leaf Lard in just that way.

Leaf Fat—the very finest and most delicate fat for lard—is used and no other is added. It is rendered in an open kettle, sealed in an airtight pail, the whole process government inspected—that is "Simon Pure" Leaf Lard, the cream of shortening.

Get a pail today and try it for yourself.

Eating Without Cooking

Don't stand over a hot stove and injure your health and temper these hot days. Lay in a supply of Armour's Without Canned Meats—choicest meats already prepared and ready to serve. These meats are prepared with the utmost care hygienically—the best meats are used and the world's most famous cooks have supplied the recipes for their preparation, seasoning, etc.

Pork and Beans (With or without tomato sauce)	Veal Loaf
Ox Tongue	Beef Loaf
Lunch Tongue	Chicken Loaf
Boned Chicken	Norwegian Sardines
	Tuna Fish

For sandwiches, entrees, pates, etc., there are delicious Deviled Meats—Chicken, Ham and Tongue.

A Universal Favorite

Buy the tender, sweet, delicious, full flavored ham if you would have your family satisfied. Get the kind that "makes your mouth water"—Armour's Star brand.

The Star brand hams and bacon are taken only from corn fed porkers, as these produce the finest and firmest meat—the kind that takes the cure best and cuts best. They are "mild sugar" cured and smoked over green hickory logs.

Baked Ham—Northern Fashion

Wipe an Armour Star ham and put it in a kettle with enough cold water to cover. (On account of the mild flavor it is never necessary to soak Star ham). Bring to boiling point, and cook until tender. Take kettle from stove and allow the ham to partially cool. Take from water, remove skin, sprinkle thickly with brown sugar and cracker crumbs and stick with cloves one-half inch apart. Bake one hour in a slow oven. Serve hot or cold and you have a dish "fit for a king."

When you market buy a whole ham at a time. It costs less—you have a chance to use every bit of the ham including the skin, bone and trimmings—and you have an emergency meal ready for any call.

Drink Armour's!

Armour's Grape Juice is pure, unfermented, undiluted juice of freshly picked ripe Concord grapes, pressed and bottled in the best Concord grape growing country. Put up in quarts, pints and individual four-ounce bottles. Try it for ices, sherbets, fruit salad, pudding sauce, etc. — and be sure it is Armour's.

Cool, Healthy Drinks

Summer Punch

Boil one cup of sugar with one of water until it will spin a thread. When coo add a pint of Armour's Grape Juice a half cup of lemon juice and a half cup of orange juice. Set on ice and when time to serve pour into punch bowl with ice, fresh mint leaves (crushed), slices of orange and one pint of charged water.

Grapeade

Mix four tablespoonfuls Armour's Grape Juice, three teaspoonfuls lemon juice in a tall glass. Fill glass with shaved ice and put on top one slice of orange and one of pineapple. Fill glass with ginger ale and serve.

Your Appetite!

Give your family a treat with a meal of Dry Sausage, the piquant, savory Summer Sausage made by Armour and Company.

Salami	Goteborg
Lyons	Mortadella
Prosciutto	Lachsschinken

Each made and seasoned according to the individual style of the country of its origin. For picnics, lunches, suppers—nothing more tasty. Be sure you get Armour's—it's the best. Look for the "Star" tag.

HELP FOR SALEM FINALLY IN SIGHT

House Votes to Pass Senate Sundry Civil Bill.

Washington, July 10.—On a division the house voted 76 to 33 to pass the senate amendment to the sundry civil bill, appropriating $200,000 to help the Salem fire sufferers. Although a formal roll call was demanded, it was indicated it would pass finally.

CARE OF CLOTHING.

Washington Star: We all now need so many articles of wearing apparel that the problem of keeping them clean has grown to be a serious one indeed, to those who find it expedient to do some of their own cleaning rather than send all to a professional cleaner.

Grease is the most common of all spots. It may be removed in either of three ways—by absorption, emulsion or by the use of soap and hot water. The soap and hot water process may be applied to all small articles that can be laundered in the usual manner, and should require but little trouble.

Large articles and such fabrics as cannot be laundered may be treated by absorption. Fresh grease spots may often be entirely removed by a melting process alone. Place pieces of white blotting paper over and under the spot and press with a warm iron.

If the fabric is such that the heat will affect the color, cold absorption, with French chalk as the absorbent can be used. Pulverize the chalk, cover the spot thickly with it, and allow it to stand for several hours. Then brush off with a soft brush. If necessary apply it a second time. This chalk may also be applied by mixing it to a paste with benzine, applying it in that form, and brushing it when thoroughly dry.

In cases of large grease spots of long standing it is best to use a solvent of grease, such as alcohol, chloroform, ether, benzine or naphtha. Benzine and naphtha are the best for woolens, while ether and chloroform are best for silk, and may be used in the most delicate fabrics. A thick piece of sateen is a good article with which to apply these solvents, as it does not become linty.

Many women ruin the nap of the cloth in scraping mud from their garments with a knife or sharp point. Take a coin, a half-dollar, and scrape the mud off with this after it is dry and it will not harm the nap in the least.

MERCHANTS "PLAY FAIR"

Miss Eliza Evans Compliments Local Men on Their Attitude.

Met Members of Minimum Wage Commission Half Way.

That the merchants of Duluth are more fair in their attitude on wages for the working girl and have more heartily co-operated with the minimum wage commission than the merchants of Minneapolis is the compliment paid local mercantile men by Miss Eliza P. Evans, secretary of the state commission, who feels a big victory has been won for the working girls of Duluth. Miss Evans even went further than this, and stated that the working girl in Duluth is more intelligent and independent than the girl in the same position in the Twin Cities.

"I am more than pleased with the results attained in Duluth," said Miss Evans after the meeting of the committee this noon. "I consider the $8.50 minimum wage as a good starter, and the working girls have the merchants to thank for their fairness in making concessions so readily. I received hearty co-operation from the merchants here, which is more than I can say of the Minneapolis merchants. There some of them got together and attempted to block our work. Here they have joined with the other workers and done everything possible to get the very best results fair to all sides.

"The relations of employes and employers here are about the best I have ever seen. Some of the girls who have worked with me here have shown marked intelligence, and defend their rights before their employers in a surprising manner."

In speaking of the results of her work in Duluth, Miss Evans said:

"What we have accomplished so far is only a stepping-stone to other things. We may expect to see wages raised further as conditions warrant the change."

Miss Evans will continue her work here the remainder of the week and probably leave for her home in Minneapolis Sunday.

FRISCO EDITORS WILL BE ARRESTED

San Francisco, July 10.—Warrants for the arrest of Charles K. Field, editor of the Sunset magazine, Robert J. Fowler, an aviator, Ray S. Duhem and Riley A. Scott, a writer, were issued today at the request of John W. Preston, United States attorney here. The charge against all four is the disclosure of military secrets and the penalty is ten years imprisonment or a $10,000 fine for such disclosure if made abroad, and one year or a $1,000 fine if made in the United States.

A JOKE ON THE FISHERMEN.

Wide World Magazine: The waters of the Great Salt Lake, Utah, are the most heavily impregnated with salt of any large body of water in the world, save perhaps the Dead Sea, in Palestine. No life exists in the lake except a diminutive form of shrimp, never exceeding one-third inch in length. Residents of Utah are thoroughly familiar with this fact, and frequently play pranks on visitors to the city who have not learned the mysteries of the Great Salt Lake. Some time ago the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Car Workers of America held their convention in Salt Lake City, and on September 10 local members of the organization induced a number of distinguished visitors to "go fishing" in the Great Salt Lake. After casting their lines most dexterously for nearly an hour and cursing their ill-luck in not getting a "rise," the victims were told of the joke. It is said that other sufferers, who "fished" for nearly three hours, are still hunting for the jokers who "landed" them.

HE LEARNED HIS VALUE.

Youth's Companion: A tourist in Scotland came to a wide ferry. It was stormy and the wind was constantly increasing. The Scotch ferryman agreed to take the tourist across, but told him to wait until he had first taken a cow across.

When he had returned and started across with the traveler, the latter became curious.

"Will you tell me why you took the cow across and made me wait?" he asked.

"Well, now," explained the ferryman, "you see the coo wur valuable, and I feared th' wind wud increase to th' boat might upset on th' second trop!"

Someboby started this town; it is up to you to keep it moving.

CLEANING CARPETS.

Washington Star: In place of a vacuum cleaner there are many ways of making the task of keeping the carpets clean moderately easy. When rugs are used they should be cleaned out of doors whenever possible. A good way to do this is to spread them on a veranda floor, sprinkle them with bits of damp paper, or sprinkle them with water with a damp whisk broom and then sweep them carefully on both sides. As soon as one rug is clean gather the dust up with a brush and dustpan, and burn it. Some persons seem to think that dust does no harm out of doors. It does not do so much harm there as in the house, to be sure, but it should be gathered up and destroyed just the same.

All genuine oriental rugs and many of domestic make can be washed with soap and water. The method most successful is to take a thick suds and apply it with a heavy cloth, wrung almost dry in it. The cloth should be rubbed in the direction of the nap of the rug, and after all grease spots and other dirt have disappeared the whole surface of the rug should be sponged until all trace of soap is gone with a cloth wrung out of clear water. The rug must be left to dry where it is cleaned, flat on the floor.

A good soap for cleaning carpets is made of half an ounce of candle wax—old candle ends can be used for the purpose—shredded finely and dissolved in a pint of boiling water, to which a tablespoonful of ammonia and a lump of washing soda the size of a walnut have been added. The soap is ready to use as soon as it is cool enough to be handled. It can be used for a suds to clean rugs in the manner already described.

New York Press: If you have trouble in making bottonholes in thin material, here is a way of overcoming the difficulty: Hold a piece of the material on the under side and cut the hole through this as though it were part of the waist. When the buttonhole is finished, cut away the under cloth very carefully so that it will not show. There will be no difficulty, even with chiffon, if the cloth is folded two or three times.

THE KING OF ROME ASSENTED.

Youth's Companion: A certain Frenchman of spirit once found himself in great distress. It was necessary to find a means of livelihood, or die in misery. There was a vacant place that was worth 10,000 francs a year. He wanted it but how could he get it? It was under the first empire; the king of Rome was a child in the cradle. The aspirant thought of an ingenious plan to bring about the success of his hopes.

He wrote a petition, addressed it to the young king, and through the friendship of a general officer attached to the emperor, got it presented to Napoleon.

The emperor took the petition, and seeing the superscription, began to smile. "Very well," said he, "let the petition be carried to him to whom it is addressed."

Four chamberlains conducted our hero before the cradle of the infant king. After a profound bow, he began in a high voice to read his petition. From time to time he bowed before the cradle. As is the manner of infants, the child uttered several unintelligible sounds.

After having taken his leave respectfully, the petitioner returned to Napoleon, who said, "Ah, well, what response?"

"Sire, his majesty said nothing."

"Who says nothing gives consent," said the emperor. "The petition is granted."

800 CASES IN EQUITY TO DETERMINE INDIANS' RIGHTS

More than 800 cases in equity have been filed by the United State government against White Earth Indians, in which an effort is made to establish title to allotments made to Indians. Several motions were heard by Federal Judge Morris this morning.

The government claims that many of these allotments have been turned over by Indians and that many of these Indians had no authority to take the step. The contention is raised as to the blood of an Indian: If he be full blooded, he has no right to dispose of his allotment, but a mixed-breed can sell his land.

Judge Morris disposed of eight cases and ordered both the government and R. J. Powell, solicitor for the 800 Indians, to file the matter in the Fergus Falls court. Attorney General McReynolds is being represented in the equity suit by First Assistant Norton of Washington.

FRENCH ACTRESS MAKES AN APPEAL TO BRITISH "MILITANT" WOMEN

"You Have Spoiled 'an Idea,'" Says Yvette Guilbert, "and Proved Yourselves to Be No Better Than the Sex You Criticize."

YVETTE GUILBERT,
Who Tells English Women That Gentleness and Love Will Win Votes Sooner Than Violence and the Torch.

A powerful and in some respects pathetic appeal to the militant suffragettes has been forwarded to the editor of the London Telegraph by the famous actress, Mme. Yvette Guilbert.

The following is a translation of Madame Guilbert's appeal:

Suffragettes—my sisters!—let one of your friends cry to you what grief she feels at your foolishness, at seeing you spoiling, so nervously and stupidly, "an idea" which, at the beginning of your peaceful, calm and gentle efforts, made her one of the stanchest supporters of your cause—do you remember?—at a time when you invited me to join a beautiful procession, which the people of London watched as it passed with admiration and respect.

What a memory I stil lretain of that procession! The grateful looks of the thousands of women of the people who had assembled, with infants in their arms, and hanging to their skirts a cluster of delicate children, pale with the pallor of hunger and disease! And that crowd of working class men who acclaimed and cheered you!

Preparing New Era.

And how I looked at that long, long defile of suffragettes, who, as they marched with dignified step, seemed in their mysterious silence to be preparing a new era for feminine humanity, seemed to be constructing a coming reform, by their gentleness, their dignity, their persuasiveness, their sacrifice and their love!

But now you have turned to those old methods of the other sex, to those actions which revolutionary assassins and evildoers have always, and at every period, revealed to the horror of the world and of civilized creatures! You add to the number of brutes and mad folk! To what end? You devastate, you insult, you hurt, you attack even the person of your king himself! You no longer respect even the head of your state! You lose your dignity when you lose your self command; and you kill, you assassinate an admirable cause—a cause which must be put forward with patience, mind, soul and heart.

Could Have Been "Different."

For man would have been disarmed if he had seen you carrying out human reforms without his aid—in spite of him—and you could have done it!

You could have collected in your thousands in the working class districts, kept house for the sick and infirm, looked after the children; whole regiments of you could have gone into the factories and helped the work people; you could have gone hither and thither in your hundreds to bring comfort to the afflicted, to love and succor distressed humanity, and thus proved your ability to repair and overcome the gaps and weaknesses in the laws made by man.

You could have created new laws by your mere example; you could have set up good in the place of evil; you could have shown yourselves to be thoughtful where men had shown themselves to be inconsiderate; you could have replied to the faulty jurisprudence of men by palliatives and remedies that came from your heart—you could, in a word, have proved yourselves to be superior to those against whom you fought; you could have shown yourselves to be "different," instead of following in their tracks and carrying on the succession of their follies.

Ignorance and Selfishness.

All revolutions up to the present have brought with them masculine barbarities. The women had a superb opportunity of proving that everything necessary could be done by gentleness and love. But time was necessary—and the women could not wait! Oh, my sisters, by your ignorance and selfish impatience you have cast a shadow over the finest cause the world has known. You thought of politics first, in the hope that happiness would follow, but it was the contrary that you should have done. Your actions in prison were such, that men had to show themselves chivalrous towards you—you relied on their pity, and it was you who turned them into brutes by making them feed you by force when you refused to eat.

Whole Thing So Childish.

Your influence, then, was bad, and the whole thing was so childish! And so, as the result of the deeds of a few women who could not control themselves, the cause of feminism is dead—or, at any rate, gravely ill.

The English suffragettes should have taken advantage of the splendid qualities of the English race, which was never deaf to the appeal of goodness. Nowhere else are there such examples of charity. Observe the emotion shown by an English crowd when the orator utters a sincere phrase that comes from his heart. A race that has the words "home" and "nursery" in its vocabulary is a race to which woman may well be proud to belong.

Ah, suffregettes, suffragettes! Take pity on your sisters, who have been waiting, and still await from your attentive energies, a means to dry their tears. Rest your nerves—take a quiet and peaceful holiday, and reflect, reflect, reflect! Let a new and charming era be given to the world by you, my sisters of London, and let your weapons be bunches of flowers, and smiles, and tears!

And do not lay the blame on pictures in museums, or on the letter boxes in the streets, or on the shop windows, and do not set fire to churches. For in doing all that you are either in your hundreds or far away from your object—you are making enemies for a pathetic and meritorious cause and raising antipathies against it—a cause which all open hearted people will support with their money and their energies if it be presented to them with dignity and emotion.—Je vous embrasse, mes soeurs.

SAVING FROM MUNICIPAL SALE OF MEAT.

Consul George Nicolas Iltt, Nuremberg Germany: A saving of $2,300,000 to the citizens of Nuremberg resulted from that German municipality's sale of meat at cost prices during 1913.

Statistics recently made public show that the 15 retail shops maintained by the city sold only 4.3 per cent of the meat locally consumed last year. Thus about 15,400 of Nuremberg's 358,500 population, or, in round figures, 4,000 families, enjoyed the benefits of the city's sales of meat at cost prices. The city statistical office, taking the lowest prices prevailing at the regular meat markets, finds that on an average the city sold beef at least 4 cents, pork 3 cents, and veal 2½ cents per pound cheaper than the regular butchers, the average for all meats being about 3½ cents per pound cheaper. As the consumption of meat in Nuremberg was 130 pounds per capita, this means a direct saving through the city meat markets of something more than $70,000.

The facts are that the saving to the people of Nuremberg was many times greater than that sum, and that not only the small fraction of the people who patronized municipal meat markets but the entire population derived material benefit from the city's action. The differences in price between the regular meat markets and the city markets were at least double the minimum figures which the statistical office has used, but the main benefit was the keeping down of prices in the regular shops to the limits of normal profits. The statistical office does not commit itself on this feature of the city activities; but taking into account the sudden drop in the prices of meats of all kinds when the municipal markets were opened in the fall of 1912, it is naming a minimum figure to say that all meat sold in Nuremberg in 1913 was sold for 5 cents per pound less than if the municipal markets had not existed. Thus, instead of only 4,000 families saving about $70,000 by reason of the competition of the municipal markets, the 90,000 families of Nuremberg actually saved about $2,300,000 on their meat bills durlug the year, because the city has gone into the business of retailing meat on its own account.

TALES OF BURIED GOLD

Who Has Not Dreamed of Digging Doubloons From the Earth?

What child is there who cannot recall hearing at mother's knee stories of buried treasures? And what child has not dreamed of digging from the damp, dank earth Spanish doubloons or golden nuggets? Nor were they in childish fancy tainted, though hid by some swashbuckling pirate who roved the main with plank ever set for luckless seafarers who came his way, says the Kansas City Star.

Down the generations has come the story of one who took his talents and buried them, and there is nothing to disprove the theory that he then but conformed to common custom.

Laborer "Finds" a Home.

A farmer digs a well, the drill strikes metal, and a pot of gold is unearthed. In the walls of a dismantled house a black box is revealed and its shinny treasure makes the finder a rich man. From New Haven comes the story of an Italian laborer, who, digging the foundation ditches for his modest home, disinterred enough golden guineas to clear his place from debt.

Few towns away from the prairie country but have their treasure caves, and veteran river men will point in passing to where some vessel treasure laden went to the locker of the fresh water David Jones, Esq.

Tale of Spanish Gold.

At New London, Conn., townspeople still narrate a weird tale of treasure which disappeared from a Spanish vessel there 150 years ago. In 1753, to be exact, the galleon Stas. Jose y Elena, gold laden and bound from Mexico to Spain, was disabled in Southern waters and carried northward. After weeks of idle drifting, the boat was sighted by a relief ship and towed to port at New London.

When repairs had been made and the ship was ready to sail it was learned that from its hold the bullion had disappeared.

There was but one conjecture. The gold had been stolen and buried along the water front close by. Townspeople kept close watch, but no one ever come to reveal the hiding place.

Seeress Led the Way.

Something more than half a century ago came there a seeress, who gave directions as to the whereabouts of the buried riches. Two youths gave credence to her powers and, their story goes, on a murky night she led them to a cache where stood a chest marked plainly "Jose y Elena," but that when they tried to lift it the rusted handles broke away under their grip.

Abandoning the quest for the night, they returned the following day, but never again were they able to locate the mysterious box.

Jewels Never Found.

Not far from Buffalo an island in the Niagara river is said to be the trove of a French refugee and fairly dotted with boxes of jewels and pots of gold. Many prospectors have sunk their picks about the reputed site of the exile's cabin, but no one ever has discovered any treasure, save that once in 1888, at unusually low water, some coins dated 1537 were found at the very edge of the island.

It is known that Gardner's island was once the rendezvous of buccaneers and many rumors tell of buried treasure there, long hidden loot of pirates.

Nor is the rumor of treasure trove confined to the Atlantic seaboard or the East, for from Oregon to Lower California beach dwelling folk cherish and retell the stories of their fathers to the little folks, who dream of growing up and finding the great stores of gold along the Pacific coast.

$300,000 Buried at Natchez.

Even along the Lower Mississippi there is a tale of $300,000 gold buried near Natchez and a classic of Colorado is the legend of Peg Leg Smith, whose vast wealth died with him for all the world is concerned, no one ever having located the cache of the one-legged miner who did his trading with nuggets of huge size.

Out in the Three Hills region there are some who still seek the cache where Peg Leg hoarded up his wealth—some indeed have perished in the search—but no one ever found the rumored gold.

Nearer home there is the war-time tale of buried silver teapots stacked to their brim with family jewels and American gold coin left in ditches hastily dug, where owners, frightened, fled before the soldiery of the Civil war which came foraging.

DO NOT WASTE YOUR SUET.

Boston Advertiser: That there is a serious waste of valuable food in certain sections of the country, due to the fact that many housewives do not appreciate the value of suet in cooking and not know how to use it, is the report of food specialists in the department of agriculture. So they are spreading information in the hope of effecting a cure.

It is declared that much good food suet is thrown away in the garbage pail or else in rare cases used with meat trimming for soap making. Many are unaware that suet possesses the same food value as lard and if properly tried out is a satisfactory substitute for frying purposes, for shortening and in making savory fats. Cook books are blamed for the idea so generally entertained that suet is good only for soap making. In Europe this food is generally kept and rendered and used inter-changeably for frying and shortening.

Suet is the hard fat about the kidneys and loins in beef and mutton, corresponding to the fat of hogs from which leaf lard is made. Those who do not know how to render it object to the hardness of suet and to its special flavor. Fresh suet, it is declared, can be so rendered as to make a soft, usable fat, practically free from any distinctive flavor or odor.

The specialists have revised methods for trying out suet and have a recipe for a mixture of suet and leaf lard, and they give special warning not to let fat burn in the cooking. It is a case of indigestion. Fat when heated too high splits up and forms substances which cause an irritating effect on the throat and digestive disturbances. Fat not scorched is healthful rather than objectionable.

MAN-KILLER WHO HAS LOST AGED FRIEND

GUNDA.

Gunda, the big African elephant at the New York Zoological garden, is the subject of a lively controversy. Gunda is known as a wicked elephant and a man-killer, and he is kept chained by two feet in the animal house at the Zoo. Some persons have written to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to say that Gunda is suffering and should be killed. Dr. Hornaday protests that Gunda is perfectly satisfied. The case may get into the courts.

There was an old lady who used to be Gunda's only friend. She visited the Zoo every day and fed him, and he showed a great deal of affection for her. She has not been seen lately and Gunda's temper has been worse.

HELP FOR SALEM FINALLY IN SIGHT

House Votes to Pass Senate Sundry Civil Bill.

Washington, July 10.—On a division the house voted 76 to 33 to pass the senate amendment to the sundry civil bill, appropriating $200,000 to help the Salem fire sufferers. Although a formal roll call was demanded, it was indicated it would pass finally.

CARE OF CLOTHING.

Washington Star: We all now need so many articles of wearing apparel that the problem of keeping them clean has grown to be a serious one indeed, to those who find it expedient to do some of their own cleaning rather than send all to a professional cleaner.

Grease is the most common of all spots. It may be removed in either of three ways—by absorption, emulsion or by the use of soap and hot water. The soap and hot water process may be applied to all small articles that can be laundered in the usual manner, and should require but little trouble.

Large articles and such fabrics as cannot be laundered may be treated by absorption. Fresh grease spots may often be entirely removed by a melting process alone. Place pieces of white blotting paper over and under the spot and press with a warm iron.

If the fabric is such that the heat will affect the color, cold absorption, with French chalk as the absorbent can be used. Pulverize the chalk, cover the spot thickly with it, and allow it to stand for several hours. Then brush off with a soft brush. If necessary apply it a second time. This chalk may also be applied by mixing it to a paste with benzine, applying it in that form, and brushing it when thoroughly dry.

In cases of large grease spots of long standing it is best to use a solvent of grease, such as alcohol, chloroform, ether, benzine or naphtha. Benzine and naphtha are the best for woolens, while ether and chloroform are best for silk, and may be used in the most delicate fabrics. A thick piece of sateen is a good article with which to apply these solvents, as it does not become linty.

Many women ruin the nap of the cloth in scraping mud from their garments with a knife or sharp point. Take a coin, a half-dollar, and scrape the mud off with this after it is dry and it will not harm the nap in the least.

THE KING OF ROME ASSENTED.

Youth's Companion: A certain Frenchman of spirit once found himself in great distress. It was necessary to find a means of livelihood, or die in misery. There was a vacant place that was worth 10,000 francs a year. He wanted it but how could he get it? It was under the first empire; the king of Rome was a child in the cradle. The aspirant thought of an ingenious plan to bring about the success of his hopes.

He wrote a petition, addressed it to the young king, and through the friendship of a general officer attached to the emperor, got it presented to Napoleon.

The emperor took the petition, and seeing the superscription, began to smile. "Very well," said he; "let the petition be carried to him to whom it is addressed."

Four chamberlains conducted our hero before the cradle of the infant king. After a profound bow, he began in a high voice to read his petition. From time to time he bowed before the cradle. As is the manner of infants, the child uttered several unintelligible sounds.

After having taken his leave respectfully, the petitioner returned to Napoleon, who said, "Ah, well, what response?"

"Sire, his majesty said nothing."

"Who says nothing gives consent," said the emperor. "The petition is granted."

CLEANING CARPETS.

Washington Star: In place of a vacuum cleaner there are many ways of making the task of keeping the carpets clean moderately easy. When rugs are used they should be cleaned out of doors whenever possible. A good way to do this is to spread them on a veranda floor, sprinkle them with bits of damp paper, or sprinkle them with water with a damp whisk broom and then sweep them carefully on both sides. As soon as one rug is clean gather the dust up with a brush and dustpan and burn it. Some persons seem to think that dust does no harm out of doors. It does not do so much harm there as in the house, to be sure, but it should be gathered up and destroyed just the same.

All genuine oriental rugs and many of domestic make can be washed with soap and water. The method most successful is to take a thick suds and apply it with a heavy cloth, wrung almost dry in it. The cloth should be rubbed in the direction of the nap of the rug, and after all grease spots and other dirt have disappeared the whole surface of the rug should be sponged until all trace of soap is gone with a cloth wrung out of clear water. The rug must be left to dry where it is cleaned, flat on the floor.

A good soap for cleaning carpets is made of half an ounce of candle wax—old candle ends can be used for the purpose—shredded finely and dissolved in a pint of boiling water, to which a tablespoonful of ammonia and a lump of washing soda the size of a walnut have been added. The soap is ready to use as soon as it is cool enough to be handled. It can be used for a suds to clean rugs in the manner already described.

New York Press: If you have trouble in making buttonholes in thin material, here is a way of overcoming the difficulty: Hold a piece of the material on the under side and cut the hole through this as though it were part of the waist. When the buttonhole is finished, cut away the under cloth very carefully so that it will not show. There will be no difficulty, even with chiffon, if the cloth is folded two or three times.

800 CASES IN EQUITY TO DETERMINE INDIANS' RIGHTS

More than 800 cases in equity have been filed by the United State government against White Earth Indians, in which an effort is made to establish title to allotments made to Indians. Several motions were heard by Federal Judge Morris this morning.

The government claims that many of these allotments have been turned over by Indians and that many of these Indians had no authority to take the step. The contention is raised as to the blood of an Indian: If he be full blooded, he has no right to dispose of his allotment, but a mixed-breed can sell his land.

Judge Morris disposed of eight cases and ordered both the government and R. J. Powell, solicitor for the 800 Indians, to file the matter in the Fergus Falls court. Attorney General McReynolds is being represented in the equity suit by First Assistant Norton of Washington.

FRENCH ACTRESS MAKES AN APPEAL TO BRITISH "MILITANT" WOMEN

"You Have Spoiled 'an Idea,'" Says Yvette Guilbert, "and Proved Yourselves to Be No Better Than the Sex You Criticize."

A powerful and in some respects pathetic appeal to the militant suffragettes has been forwarded to the editor of the London Telegraph by the famous actress, Mme. Yvette Guilbert.

The following is a translation of Madame Guilbert's appeal:

Suffragettes—my sisters!—let one of your friends cry to you what grief she feels at your foolishness, at seeing you spoiling, so nervously and stupidly, "an idea" which, at the beginning of your peaceful, calm and gentle efforts, made her one of the stanchest supporters of your cause—do you remember?—at a time when you invited me to join a beautiful procession, which the people of London watched as it passed with admiration and respect.

What a memory I stil lretain of that procession! The grateful looks of the thousands of women of the people who had assembled, with infants in their arms, and hanging to their skirts a cluster of delicate children, pale with the pallor of hunger and disease! And that crowd of working class men who acclaimed and cheered you!

Preparing New Era.

And how I looked at that long, long defile of suffragettes, who, as they marched with dignified step, seemed in their mysterious silence to be preparing a new era for feminine humanity, seemed to be constructing a coming reform, by their gentleness, their dignity, their persuasiveness, their sacrifice and their love!

But now you have turned to those old methods of the other sex, to those actions which revolutionary assassins and evildoers have always, and at every period, revealed to the horror of the world and of civilized creatures! You add to the number of brutes and mad folk! To what end? You devastate, you insult, you hurt, you attack even the person of your king himself! You no longer respect even the head of your state! You lose your dignity when you lose your self command; and you kill, you assassinate an admirable cause—a cause which must be put forward with patience, mind, soul and heart.

Could Have Been "Different."

For man would have been disarmed if he had seen you carrying out human reforms without his aid—in spite of him—and you could have done it!

You could have collected in your thousands in the working class districts, kept house for the sick and infirm, looked after the children; whole regiments of you could have gone into the factories and helped the work people; you could have gone hither and thither in your hundreds to bring comfort to the afflicted, to love and aid distressed humanity, and thus proved your ability to repair and overcome the gaps and weaknesses in the laws made by man.

You could have created new laws by your mere example; you could have set up good in the place of evil; you could have shown yourselves to be thoughtful where men had shown themselves to be inconsiderate; you could have replied to the faulty jurisprudence of men by palliatives and remedies that came from your heart—you could, in a word, have proved yourselves to be superior to those against whom you fought; you could have shown yourselves to be "different," instead of following in their tracks and carrying on the succession of their follies.

Ignorance and Selfishness.

All revolutions up to the present have brought with them masculine barbarities. The women had a superb opportunity of proving that everything necessary could be done by gentleness and love. But time was necessary—and the women could not wait! Oh, my sisters, by your ignorance and selfish impatience you have cast a shadow over the finest cause the world has known. You thought of politics first, in the hope that happiness would follow, but it was the contrary that you should have done. Your actions in prison were such, that men had to show themselves chivalrous towards you—you relied on their pity, and it was you who turned them into brutes by making them feed you by force when you refused to eat.

Whole Thing So Childish.

Your influence, then, was bad, and the whole thing was so childish! And so, as the result of the deeds of a few women who could not control themselves, the cause of feminism is dead—or, at any rate, gravely ill.

The English suffragettes should have taken advantage of the splendid qualities of the English race, which was never deaf to the appeal of goodness. Nowhere else are there such examples of charity. Observe the emotion shown by an English crowd when the orator utters a sincere phrase that comes from his heart. A race that has the words "home" and "nursery" in its vocabulary is a race to which woman may well be proud to belong.

Ah, suffragettes, suffragettes! Take pity on your sisters, who have been waiting, and still await from your attentive energies, a means to dry their tears. Rest your nerves—take a quiet and peaceful holiday, and reflect, reflect, reflect! Let a new and charming era be given to the world by you, my sisters of London, and let your weapons be bunches of flowers, and smiles, and tears!

And do not lay the blame on pictures in museums, or on the letter boxes in the streets, or on the shop windows; and do not set fire to churches. For in doing all that you are but traveling further away from your object—you are making enemies for a pathetic and meritorious cause and raising antipathies against it—a cause which all open hearted people will support with their money and their services if it be presented to them with dignity and emotion.—Je vous embrasse, mes soeurs.

SAVING FROM MUNICIPAL SALE OF MEAT.

Consul George Nicolas Iift, Nuremberg Germany: A saving of $2,300,000 to the citizens of Nuremberg resulted from that German municipality's sale of meat at cost prices during 1913.

Statistics recently made public show that the 15 retail shops maintained by the city sold only 4.3 per cent of the meat locally consumed last year. Thus about 15,100 of Nuremberg's 353,500 population, or, in round figures, 4,000 families, enjoyed the benefits of the city's sales of meat at cost prices. The city statistical office, taking the lowest prices prevailing at the regular meat markets, finds that on an average the city sold beef at least 4 cents, pork 3 cents, and veal 2½ cents per pound cheaper than the regular butchers, the average for all meats being about 3½ cents per pound cheaper. As the consumption of meat in Nuremberg was 130 pounds per capita, this means a direct saving through the city meat markets of something more than $70,000.

The facts are that the saving to the people of Nuremberg was many times greater than that sum, and that not only the small fraction of the people who patronized municipal meat markets but the entire population derived material benefit from the city's action. The differences in price between the regular meat markets and the city markets were at least double the minimum figures which the statistical office has used, but the main benefit was the keeping down of prices in the regular shops to the limits of normal profits. The statistical office does not commit itself on this feature of the city activities; but taking into account the sudden drop in the prices of meats of all kinds when the municipal markets were opened in the fall of 1912, it is naming a minimum figure to say that all meat sold in Nuremberg in 1913 was sold for 5 cents per pound less than if the municipal markets had not existed. Thus, instead of only 4,000 families saving about $70,000 by reason of the competition of the municipal markets, the 90,000 families of Nuremberg actually saved about $2,300,000 on their meat bills during the year, because the city has gone into the business of retailing meat on its own account.

TALES OF BURIED GOLD

Who Has Not Dreamed of Digging Doubloons From the Earth?

What child is there who cannot recall hearing at mother's knee stories of buried treasures? And what child has not dreamed of digging from the damp, dank earth Spanish doubloons or golden nuggets? Nor were they in childish fancy tainted, though hid by some swashbuckling pirate who roved the main with plank ever set for luckless seafarers who came his way, says the Kansas City Star.

Down the generations has come the story of one who took his talents and buried them, and there is nothing to disprove the theory that he then but conformed to common custom.

Laborer "Finds" a Home.

A farmer digs a well, the drill strikes metal, and a pot of gold is unearthed. In the walls of a dismantled house a black box is revealed and its shinny treasure makes the finder a rich man. From New Haven comes the story of an Italian laborer, who, digging the foundation ditches for his modest home, disinterred enough golden guineas to clear his place from debt.

Few towns away from the prairie country but have their treasure caves, and veteran river men will point in passing to where some vessel treasure laden went to the locker of the fresh water David Jones, Esq.

Tale of Spanish Gold.

At New London, Conn., townspeople still narrate a weird tale of treasure which disappeared from a Spanish vessel there 150 years ago. In 1753, to be exact, the galleon Stas. Jose y Elena, gold laden and bound from Mexico to Spain, was disabled in Southern waters and carried northward. After weeks of idle drifting, the boat was sighted by a relief ship and towed to port at New London.

When repairs had been made and the ship was ready to said it was learned that from its hold the bullion had disappeared.

There was but one confecture. The gold had been stolen and buried along the water front close by. Townspeople kept close watch, but no one ever come to reveal the hiding place.

Seeress Led the Way.

Something more than half a century ago came there a seeress, who gave directions as to the whereabouts of the buried riches. Two youths gave credence to her powers and, their story goes, on a murky night she led them to a cache where stood a chest marked plainly "Jose y Elena," but that when they tried to lift it the rusted handles broke away under their grip.

Abandoning the quest for the night, they returned the following day, but never again were they able to locate the mysterious box.

Jewels Never Found.

Not far from Buffalo an island in the Niagara river is said to be the trove of a French refugee and fairly dotted with boxes of jewels and pots of gold. Many prospectors have sunk their picks about the reputed site of the exile's cabin, but no one ever has discovered any treasure, save that once in 1888, at unusually low water, some coins dated 1537 were found at the very edge of the island.

It is known that Gardner's island was once the rendezvous of buccaneers and many rumors tell of buried treasure there, long hidden loot of pirates.

Nor is the rumor of treasure trove confined to the Atlantic seaboard or the East, for from Oregon to Lower California beach dwelling folk cherish and retell the stories of their fathers to the little folks, who dream of growing up and finding the great stores of gold along the Pacific coast.

$300,000 Buried at Natchez.

Even along the Lower Mississippi there is a tale of $300,000 gold buried near Natchez and a classic of Colorado is the legend of Peg Leg Smith, whose vast wealth died with him for all the world is concerned, no one ever having located the cache of the one-legged miner who did his trading with nuggets of huge size.

Out in the Three Hills region there are some who still seek the cache where Peg Leg hoarded up his wealth —some indeed have perished in the search—but no one ever found the rumored gold.

Nearer home there is the war-time tale of buried silver teapots stacked to their brim with family jewels and American gold coin left in ditches hastily dug, where owners, frightened, fled before the soldiery of the Civil war which came foraging.

DO NOT WASTE YOUR SUET.

Boston Advertiser: That there is a serious waste of valuable food in certain sections of the country, due to the fact that many housewives do not appreciate the value of suet in cooking and not know how to use it, is the report of food specialists in the department of agriculture. So they are spreading information in the hope of effecting a cure.

It is declared that much good food suet is thrown away in the garbage pail or else in rare cases used with meat trimming for soap making. Many are unaware that suet possesses the same food value as lard and if properly tried out is a satisfactory substitute for frying purposes, for shortening and in making savory fats. Cook books are blamed for the idea so generally entertained that suet is good only for soap making. In Europe this food is generally kept and rendered and used inter-changeably for frying and shortening.

Suet is the hard fat about the kidneys and loins in beef and mutton, corresponding to the fat of hogs from which leaf lard is made. Those who do not know how to render it object to the hardness of suet and to its special flavor. Fresh suet, it is declared, can be so rendered as to make a soft, usable fat, practically free from any distinctive flavor or odor.

The specialists have devised methods for trying out suet and have a recipe for a mixture of suet and leaf lard, and they give special warning not to let fat burn in the cooking. It is a case of indigestion. Fat when heated too high splits up and forms substances which cause an irritating effect on the throat and digestive disturbances. Fat not scorched is healthful rather than objectionable.

MERCHANTS "PLAY FAIR"

Miss Eliza Evans Compliments Local Men on Their Attitude.

Met Members of Minimum Wage Commission Half Way.

That the merchants of Duluth are more fair in their attitude on wages for the working girl and have more heartily co-operated with the minimum wage commission than the merchants of Minneapolis is the compliment paid local mercantile men by Miss Eliza P. Evans, secretary of the state commission, who feels a big victory has been won for the working girls of Duluth. Miss Evans even went further than this, and stated that the working girl in Duluth is more intelligent and independent than the girl in the same position in the Twin Cities.

"I am more than pleased with the results attained in Duluth," said Miss Evans after the meeting of the committee this noon. "I consider the $8.50 minimum wage as a good starter, and the working girls have the merchants to thank for their fairness in making concessions so readily. I received hearty co-operation from the merchants here, which is more than I can say of the Minneapolis merchants. There some of them got together and attempted to block our work. Here they have joined with the other workers and done everything possible to get the very best results fair to all sides.

"The relations of employes and employers here are about the best I have ever seen. Some of the girls who have worked with me here have shown marked intelligence, and defend their rights before their employers in a surprising manner."

In speaking of the results of her work in Duluth, Miss Evans said:

"What we have accomplished so far is only a stepping-stone to other things. We may expect to see wages raised further as conditions warrant the change."

Miss Evans will continue her work here the remainder of the week and probably leave for her home in Minneapolis Sunday.

FRISCO EDITORS WILL BE ARRESTED

San Francisco, July 10.—Warrants for the arrest of Charles K. Field, editor of the Sunset magazine, Robert J. Fowler, an aviator, Ray S. Duhem and Riley A. Scott, a writer, were issued today at the request of John W. Preston, United States attorney here. The charge against all four is the disclosure of military secrets and the penalty is ten years imprisonment or a $10,000 fine for such disclosure if made abroad, and one year or a $1,000 fine if made in the United States.

A JOKE ON THE FISHERMEN

Wide World Magazine: The waters of the Great Salt Lake, Utah, are the most heavily impregnated with salt of any large body of water in the world, save perhaps the Dead Sea, in Palestine. No life exists in the lake except a diminutive form of shrimp, never exceeding one-third of inch in length. Residents of Utah are thoroughly familiar with this fact, and frequently play pranks on visitors to the city who have not learned the mysteries of the Great Salt Lake. Some time ago the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Car Workers of America held their convention in Salt Lake City, and on September 10 local members of the organization induced a number of distinguished visitors to "go fishing" in the Great Salt Lake. After casting their lines most dexterously for nearly an hour and cursing their ill-luck in not getting a "rise," the victims were told of the joke. It is said that other sufferers, who "fished" for nearly three hours, are still hunting for the jokers who "landed" them.

HE LEARNED HIS VALUE.

Youth's Companion: A tourist in Scotland came to a wide ferry. It was stormy and the wind was constantly increasing. The Scotch ferryman agreed to take the tourist across, but told him to wait until he had first taken a cow across.

When he had returned and started across with the traveler, the latter became curious.

"Will you tell me why you took the cow across and made me wait?" he asked.

"Well, now," explained the ferryman, "you see the coo wur valuable, and I feared th' wind wud increase to th' boat might upset on th' second trop!"

Somebody started this town; it is up to you to keep it moving.

MAN-KILLER WHO HAS LOST AGED FRIEND

GUNDA.

Gunda, the big African elephant at the New York Zoological garden, is the subject of a lively controversy. Gunda is known as a wicked elephant and a man-killer, and he is kept chained by two feet in the animal house at the Zoo. Some persons have written to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to say that Gunda is suffering and should be killed. Dr. Hornaday protests that Gunda is perfectly satisfied. The case may get into the courts.

There was an old lady who used to be Gunda's only friend. She visited the Zoo every day and fed him, and he showed a great deal of affection for her. She has not been seen lately and Gunda's temper has been worse.

MARKET HAS WEAK TURN

Wheat Declines on Selling, With Good Northwest Crop Reports.

Flaxseed Is Again Strong, With Steady Inquiry From Crushers.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 10.—The market continued weak up to the close. July wheat closed ¾c off; September ½@⅝c off and December ½@⅝c off. July durum closed ¼c off and September unchanged.

Oats closed ⅛c up at 34⅜c for on the track or 34½c for to arrive. Rye closed unchanged at 58c for on the track or 57c for to arrive. Barley closed unchanged at from 38c to 50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 39¼c bid and October at 36⅝c bid. Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 79⅛c asked and calls at 80⅛c.

After a strong opening today on higher Liverpool cables and some short covering demand, the weak market became easy. Eastern inquiry was quiet and export bids were out of line, and these factors together with the pressure of fall wheat offerings at other American markets bought about a more bearish sentiment. Crop reports from over the Northwest were generally favorable, telling that the plant is making rapid progress with bumper yields in sight unless the unexpected happens.

The congestion in the July option here appeared to be relieved for the time being, the demand being less urgent than in several days. The spread in it over the September option was therefore somewhat narrowed down.

Advices from South Dakota were to the effect that black rust is confined to a few counties in the Southern part of the state and that the weaher is not at present favorable for its spreading. This went to relieve the anxiety of operators for the moment, but the market is extremely sensitive to crop news, as it is realized that at the present critical period of the plants' growth, prices would be readily advanced on any unfavorable reports.

Liverpool and the European markets generally were higher today on advices of dry weather in Canada. The consumptive demand was said, however, to be poor, buyers being generally filled up.

July wheat sold off ½c from yesterday's close to 90⅝c. September opened ¼c up aat 81⅞c, and eased off ⅜c up to the closing hour. The December option opened ⅛c up at 82¾c and weakened ⅛@⅜c. July durum opened unchanged at 86⅝c, and sold off ⅜c, and September opened unchanged at 82½c and weakened fractionally

Flaxseed Slightly Up.

Flaxseed was strong again today as the result of good inquiry by crushers and continued light offerings. Closing prices showed fractional advances.

The foreign markets were steady; Buenos Aires closed unchanged; Antwerp unchanged and London ⅜c off.

July flax opened ⅜c up at $1.61¼, and closed ⅜c up at $1.61¼ asked. September opened ⅜c up at $1.63½, and closed ⅜c up at $1.63½ asked. October opened ½c up at $1.63¼, and closed ⅝c up at $1.63½ asked, and the November option opened ⅜c up at $1.63½, and closed ⅜c up at $1.63½.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed at $1.39⅞ bid, and October at $1.44¼ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 1,150,000 bu in the week.

• • •

The steamer K. K. Barnum is loading 350,000 bu spring wheat at Elevator C today.

The following was received by a Duluth trader from Sidney, Mont., today. "Crops are fine, a bumper crop is assured. It is mostly headed out. Flax is in blossom."

The following optimistic letter on the crop situation was received by the McKinley Grain company today from W. A. Denison, cashier of the First State bank at Cathay, N. D.: "The past week has been very favorable for our crops, and they are doing well. Men who have been here for thirty years say they have never seen a better stand at this season of the year. We have 1912, yes and 1891 beaten to a finish. Indications are that help will be more plentiful, so that fall work can be rushed. In the 1912 fall we were handicapped for help."

At Minneapolis the cash market was steady, with good demand one northern blue stem sold at 2½ to 4 cents over July, and velvet chaff at 2 to 2½ cents over July. There were some scattered flour sales. Cash one northern wheat sold there at from 88⅜c to 90⅞c, and No. 2 northern at from 86⅜c to 88⅞c.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—The late rally in America yesterday caused shorts to cover at the opening here and values were ⅜d to ½d higher. Following the opening, there was further support which resulted in an additional advance of ⅛d to ¼d with the undertone firm. Firmness in spot, less favorable Russian reports, unfavorable weather in Canada, firmness of Manitoba offers and apprehension of rust damage in American spring wheat, caused yesterday's sellers to turn buyers with offers light. At 1:30 p. m. prices were ½d to ⅞d higher.

"Corn—Opened firm, ½d higher on American firmness and unfavorable American weather reports. At 1:30 p. m. it was firm, ½d to ⅞d higher."

Russian and Danube—Wheat shipments this week are forecasted at 3,600,000 bu.

• • •

Leconit wired Baker from Edgerton, Minn.: "From Mitchell to Sioux Falls, some fields are fair, others poor. From Sioux Falls the crop improves. This is not wheat territory but all fields examined in Rock and Pipestone counties today look well, and there is no trace of black rust at present. Infection seems to be confined to Southern South Dakota. Corn and oats are above the average and never looked better."

Broomhall's Russian news: "Stocks of wheat at Odessa are light and arrivals during the week amount to 320,000 tons against 356,000 tons last week. Freights are low at all shipping points as it is difficult to get grain to fill waiting steamers. Heavy rain continues over an important area and harvesting has commenced. In the Volga region dryness continues and rain is urgently wanted. Spring wheat has shown much deterioration since July 1. Today the weather is extremely hot with the forecast for continued great heat. Holders are firm and shipments light, with all offers readily absorbed."

Broomhall estimates world's shipments exclusive of North America at 6,000,000 bu against 6,536,000 bu last week. Of this Europe will take about 5,200,000 bu. Total shipments last week were 11,888,000 bu and last year, 10,432,000 bu.

• • •

Arrivals into the United Kingdom were about 4,000,000 bu. Broomhall predicts moderate changes on passage. Australian wheat shipments were 728,000 bu and Indian wheat shipments, 1,264,000 bu. Estimates for next week are 1,300,000 bu.

by speculators. The close was steady at ⅛ to ⅝@¾c net decline.

Hot, dry weather carried corn higher. Buying power, though, seemed to have become largely exhausted, and there was a report of a heavy rain in Oklahoma, where the drought has been the most severe. The opening, which ranged from ⅛@¼c off to ⅝c advance, was followed by material setbacks.

Denials that rain of any consequence had fallen in Oklahoma led afterwards to a fresh advance. The close was steady at a range ⅛@¼c off to ⅜c up compared with last night.

Oats were in fairly good demand. Absence of sellers kept the market relatively firm.

Provisions climbed with hogs. The best call was for ribs.

London Stocks.

London, July 10.—American securities opened around parity and then declined under realizing. Canadian Pacific lost 1½ points and the rest of the list from ¼ to ⅜ during the forenoon. Prices hardened in the early afternoon, but sagged again in the late trading and the market closed uncertain.

Chicago Livestock.

WEAK CLOSE FOR STOCKS

Heavy Selling Pulls Down High-Priced Lines.

New Haven Gets Below 60 in Course of the Trading.

New York, July 10.—New low records were again in order during today's early dealings in the stock market. New Haven was weakest of all, declining to 60¾ at steady recessions. Ontario & Western, a New Haven subsidiary, Chesapeake & Ohio and several of the Gould issues, including Missouri Pacific stock, the collateral 4's, Missouri, Kansas & Texas preferred and Wabash preferred fell to prices seldom if ever before recorded. Meantime representative securities were holding relatively firm, the most notable exception being Canadian Pacific, which lost 2 points. The unsettlement gradually spread to the active list, however, and before the end of the first half hour the entire market became distinctly heavy.

Representative stocks were supported at concessions, but it was evident that traders to whose operations the market was limited, were indisposed to take the bull side until support became of a more impressive character. Canadian Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio continued weak and towards midday selling of New York Central at a 2-point decline imparted fresh uncertainty. Steel was strongest of the leaders in anticipation of a favorable June statement. Among specialties only the fertilizers and Westinghouse were strong.

Bonds were easy.

Cessation of the decline in the Goulds brought the incretsing weakness of high grade stocks into greater relief. International shares were more freely offered, Canadian Pacific losing 3 points in all. New Haven fell as much to 59¼, New York Central and Delaware & Hudson 2½ points, and Union Pacific, Reading, Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania a point.

Further heavy selling of the cheaper railway shares was finally effective today in producing liquidation among the high priced stocks. The closing was weak. Liquidation became more general in the later dealings. Issues of investment rating were freely sold and the active list showed many substantial losses. A feature of the bond division was the sale of a Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5 per cents at a 20 point decline.

LAY 1,000 DEATHS TO ACT OF ONE MAN ON COLLIER STORSTAD

Probers of Empress of Ireland Wreck Make Their Report.

Say Third Officer's Change of Course Caused Disaster.

Galway's Testimony Is Thrown Out As Worthless.

Quebec, July 11.—The collier Storstad is held to blame for the Empress of Ireland disaster, in the findings of the wreck commission handed down today.

The commission holds that the disaster was due to the Storstad's change of course, ordered by the third officer without instructions from the first officer, who was in charge of the collier at the time. The Empress was sunk in the St. Lawrence on May 29 with a loss of more than 1,000 lives.

The inquiry into the disaster was begun in Quebec June 18 by a commission composed of Lord Mersey, formerly presiding justice of the British admiralty court; Sir Adolpho Routhier of Quebec and Chief Justice McLead of New Brunswick.

The commissioners were assisted in their work by Commander F. W. Caborne of the British royal naval reserve, Prof. John Welsh of Newcastle, England; Capt. Demers of the Dominion wreck commission, and Engineer Commander Howe of the Canadian naval service. Commander Caborne and Prof. Welsh were nominated by the British board of trade.

The collier's third officer found responsible is Alfred Tuftenes. He was on the bridge when the crash occurred.

"Wrong and Negligent."

"We regret," says the finding, "to have to impute the blame to anyone in connection with this lamentable disaster. We can, however, come to no other conclusion than that Mr. Tuftenes was wrong and negligent in altering his course in the fog as he undoubtedly did and that he was wrong and negligent in keeping the navigation of the vessel in his own hands and failing to call the captain when he saw the fog coming on.

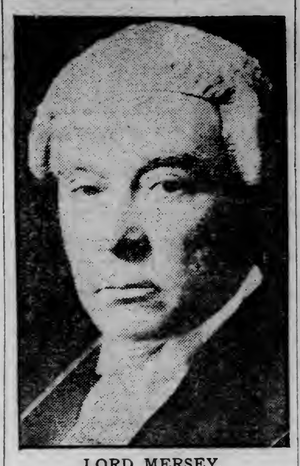

"It is not to be supposed that this disaster was in any way attributable to any special characteristics of the St. Lawrence waterway. It was a disaster which might have occurred in the Thames, in the Clyde, in the Mersey or elsewhere, in similar circumstances.

Why the Suddenness?

"Such is the conclusion at which we

MRS. CARMAN HAS REGAINED COMPOSURE

Bailey Murder Evidence Will Go to Grand Jury Tuesday.

Mineola, N. Y., July 11.—Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, locked up in the Nassau county jail here, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, today went over with her attorney the testimony given at the coroner's inquest. She was much more cheerful, having completely recovered from the collapse she suffered the morning after her arrest.

District Attorney Smith said he planned a rigid private examination of Dr. Carman today regarding the story of the murder.

The evidence in the case will be presented to the grand jury Tuesday.

TWIN CITIES GAIN POINT

Rates West on C., M. & St. P. Are Held Unreasonable.

Are Discriminatory Compared With Those From Duluth.

Washington, July 11.—Class rates on freight from Minneapolis and St. Paul to points as far as 600 miles distant on the trans-continental line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway in North and South Dakota, were today pronounced unjust and unreasonable by the interestate commerce commission.

The railroad was ordered to cease charging the condemned rates, and to put in effect, before Sept. 1, a new schedule which will not be greater than rates named by the commission.

Started By Minneapolis.

The decision was in a long, hard fought case brought by the Minneapolis civic and commercial associations, which alleged that the rates were a discrimination against the manufacturers and merchants of St. Paul and Minneapolis and the people living in the affected territory. The St. Paul Association of Commerce and the South Dakota railroad commission intervened in support of the complaints.

The Chicago Association of Commerce, Sioux City traffic bureau and the Sioux Falls Commercial club opposed it. The contention that the rates from St. Paul and Minneapolis were a discrimination when compared to those in effect from Chicago, Milwaukee, Sioux City, Winona and Duluth, was sustained.

DISTILLERS TO LET DRINKERS CATCH UP

Agree to Reduce Year's Whisky Output 20,000,000 Gallons.

Louisville, Ky., July 11.—More than half the distillers of Kentucky, according to information made public yesterday, agreed to join in a movement that will reduce the 1914 output 20,000,000 gallons, on account of large stocks and over-production during the last five years. Ohio, Indiana and Illinois distillers also are said to be taking like steps.

Distillers point out that decreased demand is not responsible for the proposed curtailment. They say statistics show consumption of whisky has increased from 20,000,000 gallons to 35,000,000 gallons in the last four years, and that in the same time production has jumped from 20,000,000 gallons to 46,000,000 gallons. "The idea," said one distiller, "is to let the demand catch up with the production."

WORK ON TRUST LAW PROGRAM IS RUSHED TO REPORT MONDAY

Two Amendments Added to the Trade Commission Bill.

Some Tentative Changes Made in Wording of Others.

Washington, July 11.—With considerable progress already made towards perfecting the administration's anti-trust program, senate committees were prepared to speed up the work today on those measures. They were determined to complete the entire program by Monday, if possible, for submission to the senate. As the senate will not meet until Monday this was expected to afford ample opportunity to finish the work.

The results of the first day's labors of the interstate commerce and the judiciary committees may be summarized as follows:

The interstate commerce committee perfected the interstate trade commission bill now before the senate by adding two important amendments bearing on the Sherman law, decided not to amend the much discussed Section 5, in which unfair competition is declared unlawful, and took up and considered amendments to the railway securities bill.

The judiciary committee considered the Clayton anti-trust bill, discussed, among other sections, those relating to interlocking directorates and holding companies and to labor unions, and made numerous tentative changes in the phraseology of the bill.

Work on Securities Bill.

The interstate commerce committee when it met today expected to complete its amendments to the railway securities bill by tonight. An amendment which may be proposed would give the interstate commerce commission absolute control over the issuance of all railroad securities at all times.

The judiciary committee was expected to resume consideration of the sections of the Clayton bill relating to labor unions, some changes in the phraseology of which probably will be made. The committees hope to have their report on the two measures ready by Monday.

Possibility of consolidating all three anti-trust bills with a view to expediting completion of the program was being discussed by senators today. Many of them were said today to be in favor of consolidation, and some senators said this may be done when the bill reach the senate floor next week.

Proposed Amendments.

The two amendments proposed to the trade commission bill by the interstate commerce committee provided:

That no order of the proposed trade commission for or against a corporation shall be used as evidence in any subsequent prosecution brought against a corporation under the Sherman law.

That nothing in teh act to create the trade commission shall be construed as amending the Sherman act, or in any way affecting the provisions of that act as it stands on the statute books.

HUERTA REALLY HAS ARRANGED TO RESIGN, IS MEXICAN REPORT

GIVE UP DEFIANCE OF NEW YORK POLICE

New York, July 11.—No attempt was made by anarchists today to hold the proposed funeral parade in honor of the men who were killed in the bomb explosion last Saturday. Earlier the anarchists had declared their intention of holding the parade in defiance of orders by the mayor and police commissioner. The Anti-Militarist league and the Mother Earth association, said Berkman, had decided to call off the parade rather than antagonize the police. The bodies of Arthur Caron, Charles Berg and Carl Hanson were cremated Wednesday and it had been planned to carry the ashes in an urn to Union Square, where eulogies were to be delivered.

Carbajal, Friend of Some of the Constitutionalists, Would Take Office.

Attempt by Villa Followers to Eliminate Carranza Fails.

Guaymas Is Not Evacuated, Says Rebel Commander.

Washington, July 11.—Information was received today from Mexico City from diplomats there saying Gen. Huerta would resign within two or three days in favor of Francisco Carbajal, newly appointed minister of foreign affairs.

It was learned that the appointment of Carbajal, who took office yesterday, is part of a general program by which it is hoped to make peace with the Constitutionalists. The Huerta delegates to the Niagara conference are understood to have been awaiting this move for several days. Carbajal has long been a member of the supreme court of Mexico, and on May 31 last was elected chief justice.

Was Diaz's Peace Envoy.

Carbajal is a member of the class which supported Huerta, but is regarded as having liberal sympathies. He was the peace envoy whom Gen. Porfirio Diaz sent to Juarez in 1911 and arranged with Madero for the transfer of power to the successful revolutionists.

It is believed here that Carbajal will endeavor to arrange for terms of peace which would be virtually terms of surrender. The people in Mexico City are reported apprehensive of a military conquest of the capital, and the efforts of an influential class are believed to be directed toward arranging a peaceful transfer of power.

There would be no necessity for a large army to enter the Mexican capital under such a plan, but merely a few thousand men, able to maintain order if the Federal troops evacuated.

With the naming of Carbajal renewed efforts will be made, it is understood, by the Mexican delegates who were at the Niagara mediation to bring

WOMAN WRITES HOME SHE IS MURDERESS; DISAPPEARS

FOUR SUICIDES IN ST. LOUIS IN AN HOUR

St. Louis, Mo., July 11.—Four men, living in different parts of the city, committed suicide here within an hour yesterday. Three of the men were past 50 years of age and the fourth was within a few years of the half century milestone. Two used shotguns, one poison and one died by self-inflicted asphyxiation. The men were:

PHILIP EDER, 60 years old.
HERMAN HARTE, 56 years.
GEORGE LITTLE, 65 years.
EDWARD BIRK, 48 years.
Each leaves several children.

Mrs. Eloise Dennis and Sister, Beatrice Nelms, Missing.

Had Over $1,400 in Cash When in New Orleans.

Atlanta, Ga., July 11.—Information still is lacking here as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis, believed to have signed a letter received here by her mother in which she said she had killed her sister in New Orleans, was preparing to slay her brother in San Francisco and then would commit suicide.

Police officials, in San Francisco, New Orleans, and Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, Tex., where Mrs. Dennis and her sister, Miss Beatrice Nelms, planned to visit, failed to find any trace of the pair.

Mrs. John W. Nelms, mother of the missing women, continued to believe her daughters were victims of a conspiracy. They had a draft for $1,450 cashed in New Orleans, July 13, after their departure from here, the proceeds of which were to be used in completing Mexican investments made by Mrs. Dennis.

Were to Meet Innes.

The two women left New Orleans for Texas, June 14, supposedly to meet a man giving his name as Innes, either in Houston or San Antonio. The total sum turned over to Innes for investment amounted to approximately $10,000, according to Mrs. Nelms. No information as to whether the business transaction was completed has

SETH LOW PRAISES PRESIDENT'S COURSE

Approves Determination to Support Paul Warburg.

New York, July 11.—Seth Low, president of the New York chamber of commerce, today sent the following telegram to President Wilson:

"Both officially, as president of the New York chamber of commerce, and personally I am glad you propose to contend for the confirmation of Mr. Warburg. His pre-eminent equipment, the large sacrifice he is making in order to be of service to the country at this juncture, and urgent necessity of making the currency law successful from the start, all make his prompt confirmation a matter of supreme public importance."

ALL PASSENGERS OF INVERMORE LANDED

Steamer Goes Ashore on Labrador While Dodging the Ice.

St. John's, Nfld., July 11.—All of the passengers on the coastal steamer Invermore, which struck on the rocks near Brig Harbor point and the Labrador coast, last night, were landed safely today. Messages received here from the scene of the wreck said that the steamer filled rapidly after striking and was today resting on the rocks with only her top deck above water.

The Invermore struck while trying to avoid the heavy ice north of the Strait of Belle Isles. She left here July 4 to go as far north as the ice would permit. She carried a heavy freight and many passengers, most of them Labrador fishermen and planters who were bound north for the summer.

The steamship Kyle, with divers and wrecking gear, was sent from here for Brig Harbor today to attempt to refloat the vessel.

Brig Harbor Point is on the northside of Hamilton inlet on a desolate stretch of rock-bound coast, peopled only by a few families of fishermen.

TIES HIMSELF IN FRONT OF TRAIN

Brookston Man's Suicide Attempt Frustrated By Engineer.

Brookston, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Bauer, aged 54, married, who has lived here five years, working on the Great Northern section, made an unsuccessful effort last night, shortly before 11 o'clock, to kill himself by fastening himself on the Great Northern tracks about a mile west of town. The engineer of passenger train No. 35, the Duluth-Grand Forks train, saw a dark object on the track and brought the train to a stop with the pilot and front wheels of the locomotive right over Bauer, who was bruised about the head but otherwise unhurt. The train crew unfastened him and took him to the Floodwood hospital, where today he is reported doing nicely.

Bauer told the train crew he was tired of life because of long suffering from cancer of the stomach and tried to kill himself in the novel manner chosen. His wife did not know of the affair until notified this morning that her husband was in the Floodwood hospital.

MELVILLE INGALLS DEAD IN VIRGINIA

Has Been Declining for Some Months, Say Family.

Hot Springs, Va., July 11.—Melville E. Ingalls, financier and railroad man, died here early today of heart failure.

Mr. Ingalls had been at his summer home here for some time. Members of the family say he had been gradually declining for months.

Three days ago he suffered from an ulcerated tooth and the shock of treatment was fatal. One of his sons, Melville E. Ingalls, Jr., summoned hurriedly from New York, Mrs. Ingalls, the widow, and a daughter, Miss Gladys Ingalls, were at the bedside when death came.

The body will be taken to Cincinnati tomorrow night. Funeral services will be held Monday at the Unitarian church there. Burial will be in the family plot in Cincinnati.

Four Sons and One Daughter.

Beside the widow and daughter, Mr. Ingalls is survived by four sons, Melville E. Ingalls, Jr., and Fay Ingalls of New York; George H. Ingalls of Chicago and Albert S. Ingalls of Cleveland.

No statement was made on behalf of the family as to the extent of Mr. Ingalls' estate. It was said he withdrew from all active business connections some time ago and had disposed of many of his interests to those whom he wished to have them after h's death.

Until two years ago he was chairman of the board of directors of the Big Four railroad, the transportation line with which his name was most closely identified, although he was a powerful figure in what generally are known as the Vanderbilt group of railroads.

YANKEE AVIATOR WINS RACE, HENDON TO PARIS AND BACK

Walter Brock Adds Third Victory to His List.

London, July 11.—The aeroplane race from Hendon to Paris and back was won by Walter L. Brock, the American airman who recently carried off the aerial derby round London and the London-to-Manchester air race. Six aviators competed, starting early this morning.

Round Trip in Seven Hours.

Brock arrived at the Hendon aerodrome, just outside London, at 48 minutes past 4 o'clock, having taken exactly three hours and a half to fly from the Buc aerodrome outside Paris. As his flying time on the outward journey from Hendon to Paris was 3 hours and 33 minutes, the total duration of his double journey was 7 hours, 3 minutes and 5 second, official time. On his arrival Brock received a great welcome from the huge crowd assembled in the aerodrome. He has become very popular in England since his arrival here from Chicago two years ago.

Brock was the first to arrive on the French side of the English channel.

Brock landed at Hardelot, near Boulogne, and after taking a fifteen-minute rest continued his flight to Paris.

Lord John Carbery, an English airman, and Raoul Garros and Eugene Renaux, two Frenchmen, closely followed Brock, Renaux carrying with him a woman as a passenger.

Two other British entrants, Reginald H. Carr and Louis Noel, descended before reaching the coast.

London to Paris in 3:33.

Paris, July 11.—Walter L. Brock, the American aviator, was the first of the contestants in the international aviation race to arrive at the Buc aerodrome. He landed at 11:18. Lord John Carbery was second at 12:04 p. m. and Raoul Garros third at 12:10.

Brock's flying time from London to Paris was 3 hours 33 minutes; Carbery's, 3 hours 52 minutes, and Garros', 4 hours 5 minutes.

Brock started on his return journey to London at 1:18 p. m. Carbery started for London at 2:05 p. m. and Garros five minutes later after making some repairs to his aeroplane.

Renaux arrived with his passenger just two seconds before 3 o'clock. A great crowd awaited the arrival of the aeroplanes at the Buc aerodrome. Among those present were Henry Deutsch de la Meurthe, president of the French Aero club, the grand duchess of Mecklenburg and Lieut. Kroupenski, military attache of the Russian embassy.

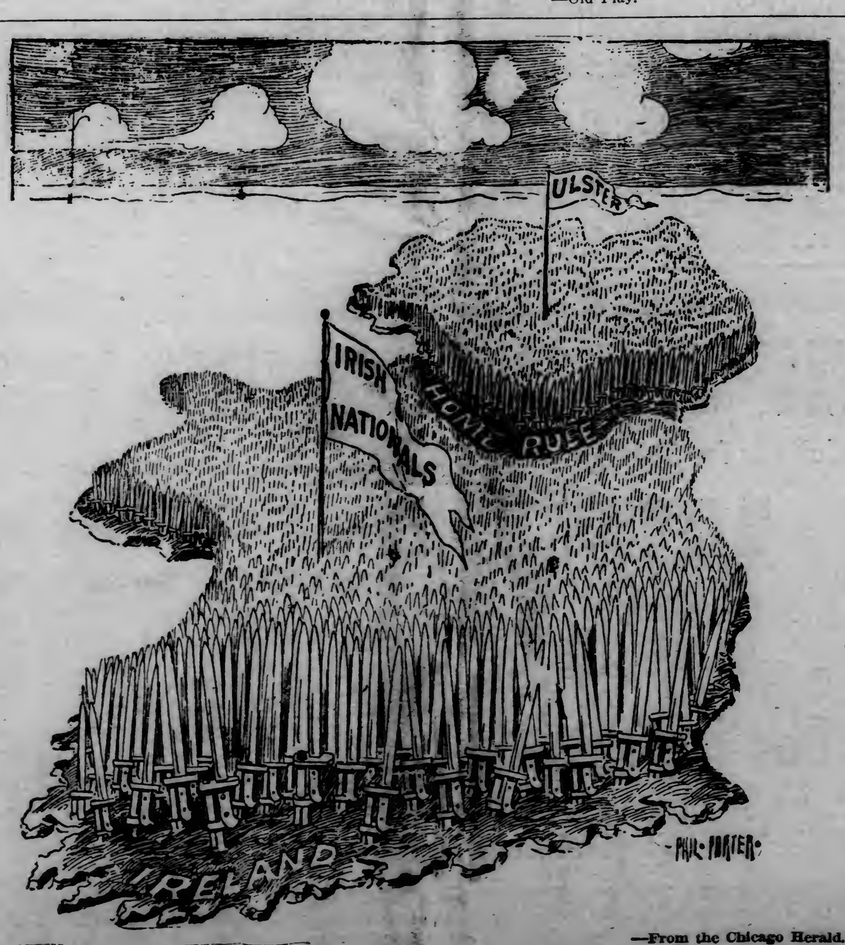

The aviators had a good crossing over the channel on their way here. Garros, however, had trouble with his propellers and steering planes.

LAY 1,000 DEATHS TO ACT OF ONE MAN ON COLLIER STORSTAD

Probers of Empress of Ireland Wreck Make Their Report.

Say Third Officer's Change of Course Caused Disaster.

Galway's Testimony Is Thrown Out As Worthless.

Quebec, July 11.—The collier Storstad is held to blame for the Empress of Ireland disaster, in the findings of the wreck commission handed down today.

The commission holds that the disaster was due to the Storstad's change of course, ordered by the third officer without instructions from the first officer, who was in charge of the collier at the time. The Empress was sunk in the St. Lawrence on May 29 with a loss of more than 1,000 lives.

The inquiry into the disaster was begun in Quebec June 16 by a commission composed of Lord Mersey, formerly presiding justice of the British admiralty court; Sir Adolphe Routhier of Quebec and Chief Justice McLeod of New Brunswick.

The commissioners were assisted in their work by Commander F. W. Caborne of the British royal naval reserve, Prof. John Welsh of Newcastle, England; Capt. Demers of the Dominion wreck commission, and Engineer Commander Howe of the Canadian naval service. Commander Caborne and Prof. Welsh were nominated by the British board of trade.

The collier's third officer found responsible is Alfred Tuftenes. He was on the bridge when the crash occurred.

"Wrong and Negligent."

"We regret," says the finding, "to have to impute the blame to anyone in connection with this lamentable disaster. We can, however, come to no other conclusion than that Mr. Tuftenes was wrong and negligent in altering his course in the fog as he undoubtedly did and that he was wrong and negligent in keeping the navigation of the vessel in his own hands and failing to call the captain when he saw the fog coming on.

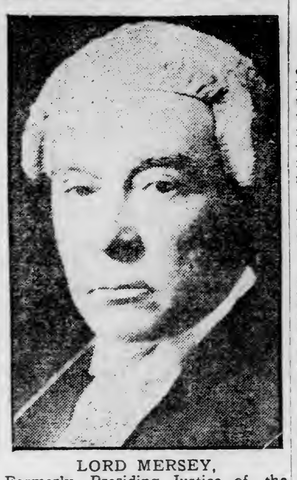

"It is not to be supposed that this disaster was in any way attributable to any special characteristics of the St. Lawrence waterway. It was a disaster which might have occurred in the Thames, in the Clyde, in the Mersey or elsewhere, in similar circumstances.

Why the Suddenness?

"Such is the conclusion at which we

MRS. CARMAN HAS REGAINED COMPOSURE

Bailey Murder Evidence Will Go to Grand Jury Tuesday.

Mineola, N. Y., July 11.—Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, locked up in the Nassau county jail here, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, today went over with her attorney the testimony given at the coroner's inquest. She was much more cheerful, having completely recovered from the collapse she suffered the morning after her arrest.

District Attorney Smith said he planned a rigid private examination of Dr. Carman today regarding the story of the murder.

The evidence in the case will be presented to the grand jury Tuesday.

TWIN CITIES GAIN POINT

Rates West on C., M. & St. P. Are Held Unreasonable.

Are Discriminatory Compared With Those From Duluth.

Washington, July 11.—Class rates on freight from Minneapolis and St. Paul to points as far as 600 miles distant on the trans-continental line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway in North and South Dakota, were today pronounced unjust and unreasonable by the interestate commerce commission.

The railroad was ordered to cease charging the condemned rates, and to put in effect, before Sept. 1, a new schedule which will not be greater than rates named by the commission.

Started By Minneapolis.

The decision was in a long, hard fought case brought by the Minneapolis civic and commercial associations, which alleged that the rates were a discrimination against the manufacturers and merchants of St. Paul and Minneapolis and the people living in the affected territory. The St. Paul Association of Commerce and the South Dakota railroad commission intervened in support of the complaints.

The Chicago Association of Commerce, Sioux City traffic bureau and the Sioux Falls Commercial club opposed it. The contention that the rates from St. Paul and Minneapolis were a discrimination when compared to those in effect from Chicago, Milwaukee, Sioux City, Winona and Duluth, was sustained.

DISTILLERS TO LET DRINKERS CATCH UP

Agree to Reduce Year's Whisky Output 20,000,000 Gallons.

Louisville, Ky., July 11.—More than half the distillers of Kentucky, according to information made public yesterday, agreed to join in a movement that will reduce the 1914 output 20,000,000 gallons, on account of large stocks and over-production during the last five years. Ohio, Indiana and Illinois distillers also are said to be taking like steps.

Distillers point out that decreased demand is not responsible for the proposed curtailment. They say statistics show consumption of whisky has increased from 20,000,000 gallons to 36,000,000 gallons in the last four years, and that in the same time production has jumped from 20,000,000 gallons to 46,000,000 gallons. "The idea," said one distiller, "is to let the demand catch up with the production."

WORK ON TRUST LAW PROGRAM IS RUSHED TO REPORT MONDAY

Two Amendments Added to the Trade Commission Bill.

Some Tentative Changes Made in Wording of Others.

Washington, July 11.—With considerable progress already made towards perfecting the administration's anti-trust program, senate committees were prepared to speed up the work today on those measures. They were determined to complete the entire program by Monday, if possible, for submission to the senate. As the senate will not meet until Monday this was expected to afford ample opportunity to finish the work.

The results of the first day's labors of the interstate commerce and the judiciary committees may be summarized as follows:

The interstate commerce committee perfected the interstate trade commission bill now before the senate by adding two important amendments bearing on the Sherman law, decided not to amend the much discussed Section 5, in which unfair competition is declared unlawful, and took up and considered amendments to the railway securities bill.

The judiciary committee considered the Clayton anti-trust bill, discussed, among other sections, those relating to interlocking directorates and holding companies and to labor unions, and made numerous tentative changes in the phraseology of the bill.

Work on Securities Bill.

The interstate commerce committee when it met today expected to complete its amendments to the railway securities bill by tonight. An amendment which may be proposed would give the interstate commerce commission absolute control over the issuance of railroad securities at all times.

The judiciary committee was expected to resume consideration of the sections of the Clayton bill relating to labor unions, some changes in the phraseology of which probably will be made. The committees hope to have their report on the two measures ready by Monday.

Possibility of consolidating all three anti-trust bills with a view to expediting completion of the program was being discussed by senators today. Many of them were said today to be in favor of consolidation, and some senators said this may be done when they reach the senate floor next week.

Proposed Amendments.

The two amendments added to the trade commission bill by the interstate commerce committee provide:

That no order of the proposed trade commission for or against a corporation shall be used as evidence in any subsequent prosecution brought against a corporation under the Sherman law.

That nothing in teh act to create the trade commission shall be construed as amending the Sherman act, or in any way affecting the provisions of that act as it stands on the statute books.

HUERTA REALLY HAS ARRANGED TO RESIGN, IS MEXICAN REPORT

Carbajal, Friend of Some of the Constitutionalists, Would Take Office.

Attempt by Villa Followers to Eliminate Carranza Fails.

Guaymas Is Not Evacuated, Says Rebel Commander.

Washington, July 11.—Information was received today from Mexico City from diplomats there saying Gen. Huerta would resign within two or three days in favor of Francisco Carbajal, newly appointed minister of foreign affairs.

It was learned that the appointment of Carbajal, who took office yesterday, is part of a general program by which it is hoped to make peace with the Constitutionalists. The Huerta delegates to the Niagara conference are understood to have been awaiting this move for several days. Carbajal has long been a member of the supreme court of Mexico, and on May 31 last was elected chief justice.

Was Diaz's Peace Envoy.

Carbajal is a member of the class which supported Huerta, but is regarded as having liberal sympathies. He was the peace envoy whom Gen. Porfirio Diaz sent to Juarez in 1911 and arranged with Madero for the transfer of power to the successful revolutionists.

It is believed here that Carbajal will endeavor to arrange for terms of peace which would be virtually terms of surrender. The people in Mexico City are reported apprehensive of a military conquest of the capital, and the efforts of an influential class are believed to be directed toward arranging a peaceful transfer of power.

There would be no necessity for a large army to enter the Mexican capital under such a plan, but merely a few thousand men, able to maintain order if the Federal troops evacuated.

With the naming of Carbajal renewed efforts will be made, it is understood, by the Mexican delegates who were at the Niagara mediation to bring

New York, July 11.—No attempt was made by anarchists today to hold the proposed funeral parade in honor of the men who were killed in the bomb explosion last Saturday. Earlier the anarchists had declared their intention of holding the parade in defiance of orders by the mayor and police commissioner. The Anti-Militarist league and the Mother Earth association, said Berkman, had decided to call off the parade rather than antagonize the police. The bodies of Arthur Caron, Charles Berg and Carl Hanson were cremated Wednesday and it had been planned to carry the ashes in an urn to Union Square, where eulogies were to be delivered.

St. Louis, Mo., July 11.—Four men, living in different parts of the city, committed suicide here within an hour yesterday. Three of the men were past 50 years of age and the fourth was within a few years of the half century milestone. Two used shotguns, one poison and one died by self-inflicted asphyxiation. The men were:

PHILIP EDER, 60 years old.
HERMAN HARTE, 56 years.
GEORGE LITTLE, 65 years.
EDWARD BIRK, 48 years.

Each leaves several children.

Mrs. Eloise Dennis and Sister, Beatrice Nelms, Missing.

Had Over $1,400 in Cash When in New Orleans.

Atlanta, Ga., July 11.—Information still is lacking here as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis, believed to have signed a letter received here by her mother in which she said she had killed her sister in New Orleans, was preparing to slay her brother in San Francisco and then would commit suicide.

Police officials in San Francisco, New Orleans, and Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, Tex., where Mrs. Dennis and her sister, Miss Beatrice Nelms, planned to visit, failed to find any trace of the pair.

Mrs. John W. Nelms, mother of the missing women, continued to believe her daughters were victims of a conspiracy. They had a draft for $1,150 cashed in New Orleans, July 13, after their departure from here, the proceeds of which were to be used in completing Mexican investments made by Mrs. Dennis.

Were to Meet Innes.

The two women left New Orleans for Texas, June 14, supposedly to meet a man giving his name as Innes, either in Houston or San Antonio. The total sum turned over to Innes for investment amounted to approximately $10,000, according to Mrs. Nelms. No information as to whether the business transaction was completed has

BUILDING MANAGERS AND OWNERS WILL GATHER HERE FOR THEIR ANNUAL CONVENTION NEXT WEEK

W. M. PRINDLE.

JOHN A. STEPHENSON.

WHITNEY WALL.

Between 300 and 400 of the owners and managers of the biggest buildings in the United States will be guests of Duluth July 14 to 17, inclusive, when the national association will hold its seventh annual convention here at the Spalding hotel. Men of national and international reputation will be present and an excellent four-day program will include addresses on almost every important topic of interest to building owners and managers. The best of entertainment has also been arranged by Duluthians.

Whitney Wall, chairman of the general commmittee, which has had the arrangements in charge, has been busy with his co-workers for weeks in preparing a program of addresses and entertainment, and it is expected that the first visit of the delegates to Duluth will give the visitors an opinion of the city and its enterprising building men that will put the Zenith City in the front rank of all cities where similar conventions have been held. Trips have been arranged for the visitors that will show them all points of interest both on the water and in the city, and every moment during the four days will be crowded with events of the utmost interest.

Big men were expected from practically every state in the Union, and this insures the convention of a splendid program. It is doubtful if any similar convention has been advertised to better advantage and "The Building and Building Management," the publication representing the building owners and managers of the country, has just put out a pre-convention number covering almost every important detail of the big meeting. Biographies of the speakers, the topics for discussion, the beauties and advantages of Duluth as a convention city and many other matters are comprehensively set forth.

List of Speakers.

Among the important speakers who will appear on the program are: Simon Straus, New York; J. E. Randall, president of the national association; Allen D. Albert, associate publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune; H. F. Martin, building specialist, Montgomery, Ala.; William Miller Knight, Chicago, and a great many others. Mr. Wall, as local member of the national association, will give the opening address.

When the opening meeting is called at 10 a. m. Tuesday, Whitney Wall of this city will begin the program with an address of welcome in behalf of the Duluth Building Managers' association. His address will be followed by another address of welcome by Mayor W. I. Prince, who will turn over the keys of the city to the visitors.

Another big address, which will be of interest to every delegate and local member of the association, will be the official address of J. E. Randall, president of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. John H. Hall, of the Emery Estate, Cincinnati, will follow by speaking on "The Building Manager's Contribution to Downtown Development."

The morning session will be closed with a general discussion.

The afternoon session will begin at 1:30 o'clock with an address on "Rental Area Basis" by A. L. Hawley. This will be followed by a discussion.

Franklin N. Wentworth, secretary of the National Fire Protection association, will speak at 3:30 p. m. on "The Significance of Fire Waste." A discussion and question box will follow, closing the afternoon program.

The evening program will consist of illustrated talks by representatives of manufacturers of standard materials and supplies. The session will close at 11 p. m.

Wednesday's Session.

The morning session Wednesday will be taken up by two addresses by prominent journalists of the country, and one other address. The first address will be by Donald O. Lawder on "Putting Your Building on the Map" in which the speaker will throw some sidelights on press-agenting. H. F. Martin, building specialist of Atlanta, Ga., will follow with an address on "Building For Profit." Allan D. Albert, associate publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune will also speak, his topic being "The Building of American Cities."

The session will be closed with a discussion and question box.

One of the principal addresses of the convention is expected at 1:30 p. m. when Simon Straus of New York will speak on "Office Building Bonds." F. Robertson Jones, secretary of the Workmen's Publicity Bureau of New York will speak at 2:30 p. m. on "The Workmen's Compensation." W. Peyton Howard, chairman of the fire insurance committee, will make his report at 3:30 p. m.

A discussion will follow and then there will be a conference of local association officials called at 4:30 p. m. for a private meeting to discuss the organizing of a permanent secretaries' conference. A report of the meeting will be made at the executive session.

The morning session Thursday will open with an address by E. W. Doty, member of the public utilities commission, Ohio, who will speak on "Appraisal of Land Values." Frederick K. Broomhower, chief engineer of the Insurance Exchange building, Chicago, will speak on "Economies in Power Plant." William Miller Knight will speak at 11 o'clock a. m. on "Subdivisions of Space and Alterations for Tenants."

A discussion and question box will be conducted after which the delegates will enjoy a trip around the harbor and a lunch.

The morning session on Friday will be taken up with various reports by committees, the selection of the convention city for 1915, election of officers, and appointment of committees and other matters that may be brought up by delegates.

An auto trip over the boulevard system of Duluth will be taken during the afternoon.

Arrangements have been made to show the delegates points of interest in Duluth and on the range and give them a good idea of this part of the state. On Friday afternoon, July 17, all delegates and their ladies will take the boulevard drive trip.

Trip to Range.

On Saturday a special train will leave leave the Union depot at 7:30 a. m. sharp. This train will run through to Virginia, which place is best described in the language of their Commercial club as follows:

"Our City. Virginia, the fifth city in the state. Where shrieking whistles, exploding dynamite, clanking steam shovels, thundering railroads and rasping band saws, ripping forests into building material at the rate of 1,000,000 feet a day, blend harmoniously in a wonderful soul-inspiring anthem of progress. Railroads, mines, mills, forests and farms insure Virginia's perpetual prosperity and attract to her the attention of states and nations."

At Virginia the delegation will be entertained by the Commercial club with a short drive around this progressive mining town, viewing some of the open pit mines, and also one of the largest sawmills in the world.

The Commercial club will entertain the delegates at a luncheon at the Ormonde hotel. Leaving Virginia at 12:30 p. m., aboard the party will go directly to Hibbing, at which place they will be taken into the Hull-Rust mine, the largest and most marvelous iron mine in the world. The stay at Hibbing will be about one hour, returning to Duluth, arriving at 5 o'clock, in plenty of time for the trains leaving for the East.

HEALTH CERTIFICATE FOR BRIDES SOUGHT.

Geneva, July 11.—Health certificates for brides is the demand of the Swiss Society of Public Utility for Women, an influential organization having branches in the chief cities of Switzerland. The aim of the society is to obtain healthy wives and children in order to better the race and also make for the happiness of the home. It has hopes that later the government will take a hand in the agitation and require a certificate of health from both the bride and the bridegroom before sanctioning a marriage. The society, which is working very quietly, is strongly supported by the medical profession and the university professors.

INSIDE BANK STORY TOLD

Lorimer Institution's Affairs Are Related By Officials.

Early Report of Examiner Disapproving Methods Is Missing.

Chicago, July 11.—Inside history of the re-organization of the La Salle Street National bank into the La Salle Street Trust & Savings bank, now defunct, was told yesterday by state and government officials who have been examining the books of the institutions.

This change occurred Oct. 21, 1912. Illinois statutes require that the capital and surplus of state banks must be paid up and the cash must be on hand before they can begin business. The capital and surplus of both the old and the new La Salle Street bank, was $1,250,000.

Government experts have found that the cash on hand in the La Salle Street National bank the day it became a state institution was $232,000. They also found ten cancelled notes for $125,000 each, which were issued and canceled on Oct. 21, 1912.

Ready For Exhibition.

These totals were deposited with the La Salle Street institution, according to accountants, and subsequently a cashier's check for the total amount, $1,250,000 was issued and signed by Charles G. Fox. This check was deposited with the Central Trust company of Illinois and the money laid aside, ostensibly for the purpose of showing to John H. Rife, then chief bank examiner, that the bank had raised its capital and surplus. According to accountants the money is said to never have left the building occupied by the trust company.

After the bank examiner had left the money was replaced in the vaults of the trust company and later the notes were cancelled and returned to their makers, it is said. The notes were issued and cancelled on Oct. 21, the date of the change.

Signers of the Notes.

The ten notes, each for $125,000, were signed by William Lorimer, C. B. Munday, Charles G. Fox, J. K. Seagrave, Thomas McDonald, Abraham Levin, Charles E. Ward, P. M. Hanney, H. W. Huttig and Frank M. Spohr. Six are directors of the bank.

Of the part the Central Trust company played in the transaction, Charles G. Dawes, its president, said:

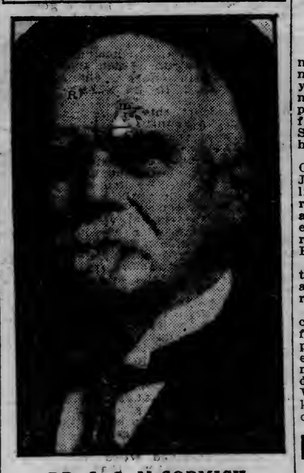

"It was a courtesy extended to any bank in the process of organization. We had no right to question the cashier's check, because it came with the sanction of the state auditor, and the latter was supposed to know that it was all right. It was merely an accommodation on our part. A bank contemplating incorporation might not have the cash on hand when a bank examiner comes to investigate its corporate stock, while the realty possessed might cover the amount of incorporation. It was in this connection that the loan was made."

Examiner's Report Missing.

Former Chief Bank Examiner Rife made an examination of the La Salle Street bank two months after the change, he told the state's attorney. His report to the state auditor is missing and is being sought by the prosecutor, it is said. In this report Rife, it is said, objected to the manner in which the capital stock of the bank was provided.

Rife has been examined at length in the investigation preliminary to the inquiry by the special grand jury, and will be a witness before that body.

HAS OLD PAPER WITH SIGNATURE OF GEN. LEE

DR. S. C. McCORMICK.

Dr. S. C. McCormick of this city, father of W. S. McCormick, former city comptroller, and a veteran of the Civil war, has an interesting relic of the rebellion days in the form of a paper signed by Gen. Robert E. Lee, when the latter was a captain in the United States army twenty years before the Civil war.

Dr. McCormick, who enlisted in the Two Hundred and Second Pennsylvania regiment ran across the paper while rummaging about the Spottsylvania courthouse, when it was seized by the Union men in 1864. He considers it one of his most treasured possessions.

The paper is an abstract of disbursements on account of repairs on Fort La Fayette during the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1841. It was signed by Robert E. Lee at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., on Jan. 10, 1842.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

MUNICIPAL ownership of public utilities is making great strides in Denver, Colo. The water company is trying to prevent the city from building its own plant but has so far lost almost every legal fight. It is now trying to sell the plant to the city. The city is willing to buy but the officials insist that the figures are too high. In February a referendum election was held, in which the taxpayers by a vote of more than two to one decided to buy or build a municipal plant, and voted a bond issue of $8,000,000 for the purpose.

In Cleveland, Ohio, the municipal ownership of the electric light plant is proving a success, and the charge is only 3 cents a kilowatt hour for lighting. Since Jan. 1 the total revenue from the electric light plant has been $81,000, and the total operating and maintenance cost $46,000, leaving a profit of about $35,000 up to May 1.

In Belfast, Ireland, for the fiscal year ending March 31, the cost of producing gas amounted to $616,000 and the total receipts from the sales were $1,024,000, showing a profit of over one-half million dollars which went into the city treasury.

Unless the city and the Duluth-Edison company can agree upon a price the city proposes to start condemnation proceedings in the local courts to acquire possession of the company's plant. Duluth is satisfied with municipal ownership of the gas and water plants.

R. J. COOLE HEADS TRADES ASSEMBLY

The Federated Trades assembly at a meeting held at Kalamazoo hall last night elected officers for the ensuing year and arranged to hold another meeting next Monday evening at which preliminary preparations will be made for the convention of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor to be held here July 20-22.

The convention committee reported that a meeting would be held by the assembly next Monday evening to arrange for the coming state convention.

According to information already received about 500 delegates are assured for this convention, and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be among the many prominent speakers. State presidents of the federations of Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota and perhaps other states are to be on the program.

PERTH WOMAN GIVES ROYALTY BIG FRIGHT

Perth, Scotland, July 11.—A militant suffragette, uttering an exultant yell, sprang on to the footboard of an automobile in which King George and Queen Mary were driving through the streets of Perth yesterday.

The woman, who was identified as Rhoda Fleming from Glasgow, grabbed the handle of the door of the royal automobile before the paralyzed police could act. Two policemen then seized her, and it required a score of soldiers to hold at bay the mob bent on lynching her. Miss Fleming was armed only with a petition against the forcible feeding of imprisoned suffragettes. A large force of troops was requisitioned to protect her as she was conveyed to the police station.

Earlier in the day, in Dundee, the king and queen had received attentions from another suffragette who pitched a bundle of papers into their motor car.

TWO PICNICS BEING HELD

Stirrup Club and Palestine Lodge Entertain Their Members.

Former Goes to Lake Nebagamon; Latter to Fond du Lac.

Two big picnics are being held by Duluthians today and at these some of the most prominent men in the city are in attendance.

The Stirrup club and Palestine lodge, A. F. & A. M., are both entertaining for their members, the former organization holding forth at Lake Nebagamon, while the Masons are cavorting about at Fond du Lac. The weather is ideal for picnics today and in addition to these two a large number of smaller organizations are out for the day, while many families and private parties are enjoying themselves in the woods, on the water or at the many parks and picnic grounds.

Program Kept Secret.

The members of the Stirrup club, headed by Alex McKnight and Frank Crasweller, left at 7:45 this morning for Lake Nebagamon and as is the custom of that famous "political" organization, no information was given as to the program for the day. Many surprises are undoubtedly planned for the day. The Stirrupers will return late this evening. A ball game will be one of the features, it is understood.

Palestine lodge members and their families left for Fond du Lac early this afternoon on the steamer Favorite, which has been chartered for the day. A program of sports has been arranged, including a baseball game between the married and single Masons. About 300 Masons and members of their families were in the party that left this afternoon. They will return late this evening.

Real Picnic Season On.

With the two large picnics today, Duluth's real picnic season is open. Although many organizations have already held frolics in the open, the Stirrup club and the Masons are the two largest. From now on other societies and lodges will hold picnics in Duluth parks and suburbs, continuing until well into the fall season. Ionic lodge will hold its picnic on July 22, when the members will go to Cloquet for the day, while the grocers will hold their annual affair at Lincoln park on Aug. 13, if it doesn't rain. The Odd Fellows will gather at Fond du Lac on Aug. 6.

TRADE REVIEW

New York, July 11.—Dun's review says today: Irregularity still characterizes the business situation. Favorable reports predominate and general conditions afford encouragement, although the volume of new business is of moderate proportions. Indications of improvement are noted in iron and steel.

The betterment is accompanied by some strengthening of prices, and few manufacturers are disposed to book future contracts at present figures. Manufacturers of textiles are endeavoring to meet the slackened demand by curtailing the output. Most interest in the trade is anticipating a more active period later as a consequence of abundant crops. Shoe manufacturers are more optimistic.

Of 371 commodity quotations compiled by Dun's review, there were 23 advances and 17 declines this week, this being the first occasion in some time that the general trade of the leading farm products has been upward.

Commercial failures this week as reported by R. G. Dun & Co. are 293 against 238 last year.

CONSTITUTION OF DENMARK TO CHANGE.

Copenhagen, July 11.—The elections for the upper house of the Danish parliament held yesterday resulted in the return of 20 members of the rights, 5 less than before dissolution, 5 free conservatives, 20 members of the left, 5 radicals and 4 Socialists.

Of the 12 members nominated by the king, 9 are supporters of the government bill for the amendment of the constitution, the passage of which is now assured. In the upper house, as it is constituted this bill has 38 supporters and 28 opponents.

WOMEN JOIN IN PARADE

Many Carry Babies During Finnish Socialist Demonstration.

Picnic at Fairmont Park Will Be Followed By Excursion.

Finnish Socialists of Duluth and Northern Wisconsin are holding their annual picnic today at Fairmont park. Hundreds of members and their families are enjoying the outing.

It began early this forenoon with a parade through the city. Nearly 500 people were in line. The parade was headed by the Finnish Socialist band. Fully as many women and children as men were in line and many of these had with them push-carts in which were their babies. Others carried babies. The parade attracted a great deal of attention because of this feature.

The program at the park began at 12 o'clock noon. Addresses were given by leaders of the Finnish Socialist party Among these were: Leo Lukki, dean of the Finnish Working People's college at Smithville; Tom Lewis, Socialist candidate for governor of Minnesota, and others.

The subway will do away with one of the most dangerous grade crossings in West Duluth. Hundreds of children going to and from school over this street will, on the opening of school in September, have a safe place to cross the tracks. Repeated requests on the part of the citizens in this end of the city have been heeded by the railroad and the contract was let early this week to the local contracting firm.

A report of the contract being let was read at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club last night. Only a short routine business session was held.

"GOOD TIME" ENDS IN JAIL

Waitress Who Came to Duluth with Salesman, Is Arrested.

When Stella Browne, 22 years old, and James C. Bender, 38 years old, a traveling salesman, were arrested at the Spalding hotel yesterday afternoon on a report from the authorities at Minneapolis, the former realized for the first time that she had committed a wrong. She had left Minneapolis a week ago with Bender "to have a good time," she told the police, and could not see why the authorities should interfere.

Upon being brought to headquarters, where Police Matron Walsh took the young woman in charge, she broke down and asked to be taken back home.

In police court this morning both Bender and the young woman pleaded guilty, the former declaring to Judge Cutting that he was entirely to blame and that he "merely did what almost any man would have done under the circumstances." He wanted the blame placed on the girl, he said. Bender was fined $10, while sentence was suspended in the case of the young woman, upon condition that she go right back to Minneapolis.

According to Bender's story, he had been rooming at the West hotel in Minneapolis, where he met the young woman, who was a waitress in the dining room. When Bender was about to leave for Duluth he told her he was on his way to this city.

"Why don't you take me along?" she suggested.

"Come on," assented Bender and soon an agreement was made.

The pair came to Duluth that evening and registered at the Spalding hotel the next morning as man and wife. They were here a week, before their whereabouts were learned by the Minneapolis police. Yesterday morning Chief Troyer received word from the Minneapolis authorities that Bender and the young waitress were here and Detective Bradley was detailed on the case. He caused their arrest at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Bender travels for an Indianapolis firm.

SELF-DEFENSE STORY BELIEVED

Albert Anderson, farmer and former treasurer of the town board of Normanna township, was acquitted by a jury in Judge Fesler's division of the district court yesterday afternoon of the charge of having committed an assault on the person of Edward Arntsen, chairman of the town board, at the Anderson farm on Sept. 1, last.

Anderson shot Arntsen through the leg but justified the act by claiming that it was done in self-defense and that he fired the bullet to prevent Arntsen from striking him over the head with an ax. After hearing both sides of the story the jury deliberated for about a half hour and then returned a verdict of not guilty. Anderson was indicted at the November, 1913, term of court on a charge of assault in the second degree.

SECOND WEEK OF HERALD TRIPS

The second week of the annual series of excursions that are given under auspices of The Herald, will start on Monday with two trips to choose from, either of which will be replete with charm and restfulness, and an exceptionally good one on Tuesday. Two will start Monday morning and give an all-day outing; while the third, which has chief interest for the busy business man, who wants to get away from business callers and the care of his affairs, starts out at 4 Tuesday afternoon, just the right time to take a kick at the waste basket, slam the desk down, grab a hat and a pocket full of cigars and beat it for the boat.

At 9 o'clock in the morning the steamer Favorite will leave the dock at the foot of Fifth avenue west for the trip up the St. Louis river, re-introducing scenes that never grow old and never lose their beauty. The day will be spent at the properly famous Chambers' grove, where those who know what's what about this part of the country, always try to get their picnic parties to go. From the grove there are so many places to explore that—no matter how many times one has investigated—new things are discovered. This party will return at 6 o'clock in the evening after a day of delight at Fond du Lac and listening to the lap of the water against the boat on the outgoing and incoming trips. Besides the pleasure features good views of the new steel plant, the ore docks and elevators will be enjoyed both ways.

At 9:30 in the morning the steamer Columbia will take an excursion to Two Wing, the main port of the south shore's fruit belt, where one will again be living through orchard days of youth. The return trip will be made at 7 in the evening. No prettier trip can be planned from this point of summer pleasures de luxe than that along the south shore.

On Tuesday afternoon at 4 there will be the trip to Two Harbors on the steamer America, which will leave, at that hour, the dock at the foot of Lake avenue. Return will be made by moonlight, reaching Duluth at 9 o'clock. An hour will be spent at Two Harbors, where the ore docks and other attractions will be seen by those who desire to go to them. This is the trip for business men and women, who cannot afford the whole day off. The rest and fresh breeze is most bracing and many take the trip every week for this reason. Now, while the days are yet long, the scenery of the north shore between here and Two Harbors—than which there is none more beautiful—can be seen both when going out and when coming back.

DEATH AWARD BUT $100.

Father of Geo. Matthews, Drowned, Not Dependent on Son.

Because he was not dependent upon his son, George Matthews, 24, who lost his life while in the employment of Curry & White last May, H. A. Matthews of Ghent is entitled to receive only $100 for funeral expenses on his claim for wrongful death against the young man's employers.

In district court yesterday afternoon, Judge Cant approved a settlement in this amount made between the elder Matthews and General Accident, Fire and Insurance corporation, Ltd., the company in which Curry & White were insured.

Young Matthews was drowned on May 24 in an eddy below McDonald dam, Murphy creek, a branch of the Cloquet river near Brimson.

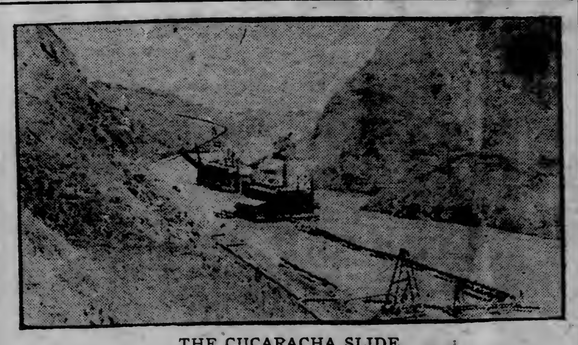

CHARGES DESERTION.

Chas. W. Britton Seeks Separation From His Wife.

On the grounds of desertion, Charles W. Britton started suit for divorce against Nellie Greer Britton, his wife, in district court today.

They were married at Decatur, Ill., June 22, 1907, and are parents of one daughter, Thelma, a girl of 6, the custody of whom is in dispute. Britton charges that his wife left him July 22, 1910, and went to live with her mother on a farm ten miles from Vandalia, Ill., and that although he has repeatedly requested her return, she has refused to do so.

BIG HILL THAT IS MAKING ALL THE TROUBLE AT PANAMA

THE CUCARACHA SLIDE.

Capt. M. B. (Mike) Glockle, formerly a tug captain in this harbor, and now a pilot in the Panama canal, has written The Herald, sending also the accompanying picture of the Cucaracha slide, which is giving so much trouble down there just now. The picture was taken by Capt. Glockle, himself, and he gives a short description of the trouble-making slide. He says:

"I am enclosing a photo of the Cucaracha slide, where all the trouble lies today, causing the delay in letting big ships pass from sea to sea. In the picture, Gold hill is seen on the right with Cucaracha slide in the foreground. Gold hill is 490 feet high and is gradually sliding into the canal on both sides, the north side being called East Culebra slide. On the left of the picture is Contractors hill in the foreground, with West Culebra slide in the background. The Culebra slides are both coming in very slowly all the time, but not interfering with the traffic. In the center of the picture are the dredges working on both sides of Gold hill."

The Cucaracha slide, it is claimed, consists of forty-seven acres of land, which is sliding gradually into the canal, and which, it is claimed, will probably all have to be dredged out before the work is completed.

CLAIM IS SETTLED.

Laborer Gets Personal Damages From McKenzie, Mann & Co.

In Judge Fesler's division of the district court yesterday, settlement of a claim for personal injuries against McKenzie, Mann & Co., Ltd., by Gus Stankovich was settled in open court by stipulation between the attorneys for $3,800.

EDUCATORS QUIT ST. PAUL

Big N. E. A. Meeting Ends With Criticism of Schools.

Former Heads of Association Criticize the Present Methods.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Practically all of the delegates to the fifty-second annual convention of the National Education association, which concluded a week's session here last night and today, left today for their various homes.

Discussion at the informal farewell gatherings in hotel lobbies and railroad stations last night and today indicated the unanimity of opinion that the convention just closed was one of the most successful in point of actual accomplishment in the history of the organization.

An audience that filled the large auditorium where the general sessions had been held heard six of the country's foremost educators, all of them former presidents of the association, in a sweeping arraignment of educational systems and policies at the final meeting last night. "The needs of the public schools," was the evening's topic.

Criticized School Systems.

The speakers were John W. Cook, president of the state normal school, Dekalb, Ill.; James M. Greenwood, advisory superintendent of schools, Kansas City, Mo.; Lorenzo D. Harvey, president of Stout institute, Menomonie, Wis.; Edward T. Fairchild, president of the New Hampshire college of agriculture and mechanic arts; Durham, N. H.; Carroll G. Pearse, president of the state normal school, Milwaukee, Wis.; and James Y. Joyner, state superintendent of public instruction, Raleigh, N. C.

Dr. M. P. E. Grossmann, educational director of the National Association for Study of the Exceptional Child, was re-elected president of the department of special education. L. R. Alderman, Portland, Ore., was elected vice president, and S. B. Allison, district superintendent of schools, Chicago, secretary.

The department of music elected these officers: President, Lucy K. Cole, Seattle; William Earhart, Pittsburg, vice president; Herman Owen, San Jose, Cal., secretary.

LAUNCH NEW DREADNOUGHT

about 66,000 foot tons, and its shell will weigh 1,400 pounds.

Secretary Daniels of the navy department, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, Governor Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada, and Senator Pittman of that state were the principal guests at the launching. The sponsor chosen was Governor Oddie's niece, Eleanor Ann Siebert, 10 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Siebert of Reno.

Another guest was Edward H. Gisburne of Quincy, who was given a medal of honor a few days ago by Secretary Daniels for gallantry in the fighting at Vera Cruz. Gisburne, who was wireless operator on the battleship Florida, was wounded while signaling to the fleet from a hotel roof, and it was found necessary to amputate one of his legs.

Can Concentrate Fire.

The Nevada's turrets are arranged to make complete revolutions, so that the entire battery of the big guns can be concentrated on an enemy approaching from either side, forward or aft.

Besides her big 14-inch guns the Nevada will have distributed about her decks, 21 5-inch guns and minor armament, such as 1-pounders, 3-pounders, 3-inch field pieces and machine guns.

While the Nevada will represent the last word in American sea power, the new British battleship Queen Elizabeth will carry a more formidable armament of no less than eight 15-inch guns. This sea-fighter probably will be commissioned the first of next year.

The Nevada is a contemporary of the British warship, Iron Duke. The Iron Duke's displacement is 26,000 tons and she carries 10 13½-inch guns. The Nevada's speed is estimated at 20½ knots or about the same as the Iron Duke's. Although the Nevada's armor is thicker than that of her British contemporary it is not spread over so great an area of side. The British warrior has a secondary battery of 16 6-inch guns, while the Nevada's will consist of 21 5-inch guns. These questions of distribution of armor and the relative importance of the number and caliber of guns are two problems on which the naval experts of the world are not in complete accord.

Burn Only Oil.

The Nevada will burn oil only, and her engines will have an indicated horsepower of 24,800. The fuel oil will be carried in the double bottom of the ship, this effecting an economy of space over the old arrangement which called for extensive coal bunkers. Her contractors promise to have the new battleship completed by Jan. 22, next.

have arrived on the question as to who was to blame for the disaster. But the question of much greater public interest and importance remains to be considered, viz.: Why the ship sank so quickly and what steps, if any, can be taken to prevent the terrible consequences which so often follow such disasters.

"The main difference between the two stories (of the officers of the Empress and the Storstad respectively), is to be found in the description of the way in which the two vessels were approaching each other at the time the Empress of Ireland changed her course, after having obtained an offing from Father Point.

Stories Irreconcilable.

"The witnesses from the Storstad say they were approaching so as to pass red to red, while those from the Empress of Ireland say they were approaching so as to pass green to green. The stories are irreconcilable, and we have to determine which is the more probable. We have thought it advisable to found our conclusions almost entirely upon the events spoken of by the witnesses.

"After carefully weighing the evidence, we have come to the conclusion that Mr. Tuftenes was mistaken if he supposed that there was any intention on the part of the Empress of Ireland to pass port to port, or that she, in fact, by her lights manifested the intention of doing so; but it appears to be a mistake which would have been of no consequence if both ships had subsequently kept their courses.

Shut Out By Fog.

"Shortly after the ships came into the position of green to green, as claimed by Capt. Kendall, or red to red, as claimed by Mr. Tuftenes, the fog shut them out from each other, and it was while they were both enveloped in this fog that the course of one or the other was changed and the collision brought about.

"From the evidence adduced on behalf of both vessels, it is plain that before the fog and when they last saw each other, there was no risk of collision if each kept her course. Therefore, the question as to who is to blame resolves itself into a simple issue: namely, which of the ships changed her course during the fog.

"There is, in our opinion, no ground for saying that the course of the Empress of Ireland was ever changed in the sense that the wheel was wilfully moved; but another explanation was propounded, namely, that the vessel changed her course in consequence of some uncontrollable movement which was accounted for at one time on the hypothesis that the steering gear was out of order, and at another by the theory that, having regard to the fullness of the stern of the Empress of Ireland, the area of the rudder was insufficient.

Galway's Testimony.

The principal witness on the point as to the steering gear was a man named Galway, one of the quartermasters on the Empress of Ireland. He said that he reported the jamming incident to Williams, the second officer on the bridge (who was drowned), and to Pilot Bernier. Pilot Bernier denied that Galway had made any complaint about the steering gear.

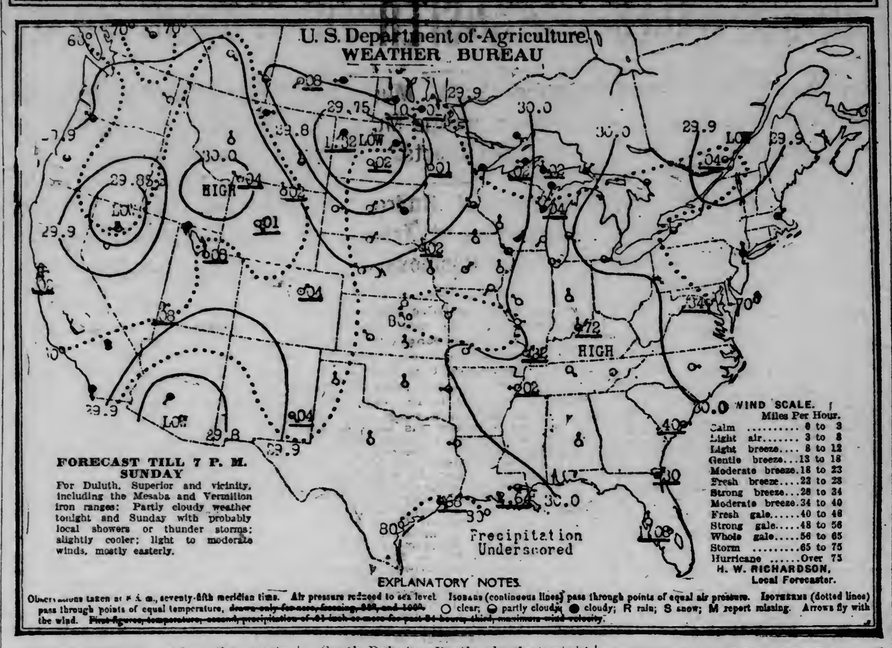

"Galway gave his evidence badly, and made so unsatisfactory a witness that we cannot rely on his testimony. Some evidence was called, however, to confirm Galway. This was the evidence of three men and the pilot from another Norwegian collier called the Alden, at the time under charter to the Dominion Coal company, who were the charterers of the Storstad."

"Not Well Founded."

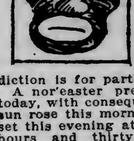

"These witnesses spoke of having passed the Empress of Ireland on her way down the river about 9:30 on the evening of May 28 and they said she was swinging and steering badly, changing from red to green several times. The witnesses do not speak of any behavior of the vessel which would suggest 'jamming,' and it is to be believed that the allegation that the vessel sheered from side to side on this occasion is entirely different from the allegation of Galway, that the wheel jammed.

"On the whole question of the steering gear and rudder we are of the opinion that all allegations as to their conditions are not well founded."

HUERTA REALLY HAS ARRANGED TO RESIGN, IS MEXICAN REPORT

about a peace conference. Washington representatives of Gen. Carranza are in favor of such a plan.

Carranza Not Eliminated.

Torreon, Mex., July 11.—At the Carranza-Villa conciliation conference at Torreon an effort to prevent Gen. Carranza or any of the military leaders of the revolution from becoming candidates for the presidency or vice presidency failed of adoption, according to a lengthy official statement issued today.

The motion was made by the Villa delegates. A motion passed, however, demanding that the first chief, as president ad interim, at the triumph of the revolution should call a convention composed of delegates representing the rebel army, every thousand soldiers to be represented by one delegate selected by a committee of military chiefs to be appointed by the general division, which would fix the date and arrange for the election.

Names Suggested.

A list of names was suggested to Carranza by the delegates from which he could select, if he saw fit, a provisional cabinet, or a consulting committee to act until the election of permanent officers.

Resolutions also were adopted condemning what was declared the activity of the clergy in assisting the Huerta government.

This followed a fight in which the Villa delegates attempted to eliminate any military leader, including Carranza, from presidential possibilities.

The Villa delegates modified their suggestion and all delegates agreed to present a list of names from which could be chosen a "directing committee' of the government. They were: Oglecias Calderon, Luis Cabrera, Antonio I. Villareal, Miguel Silva, Manuel Bonilla, Alberto Pani, Eduardo F. Hay, Ignacio L. Pasqueira, Miguel Diez Lombardo, Jose Vasconcelos, Miguel Alessio Robles and Frederico Gonzales Garza. Three named were members of the conference.

Guaymas Not Evacuated.

Saltillo, July 9.—Via Laredo, Texas, July 11.—Previous reports that the seaport of Guaymas had been evacuated by Federals were in error, according to Constitutionalists besieging that city. Alvaredo reported he has moved the forces so as to surround Guaymas completely on the land side.

Carbajal Foreign Minister.

Mexico City, July 11.—Francisco Carbajal, chief justice of the supreme court, took the oath of office as foreign minister yesterday.

Senor Carbajal has many friends among the Constitutionalists, and it is believed that his appointment as foreign minister will aid in a settlement between the Constitutionalists and the government.

After taking the oath of office the minister said he would do everything in his power to re-establish friendly relations with the United States.

Other new ministers of Huerta's cabinet were sworn in as follows:

Commerce and industry, Salome Botello, former governor of Neuvo Leon; communications, Arturo Alcaradejo; agriculture, Gen. Carlos Rincon Gallardo.

Roberto Esteyado Ruiz, sub-secretary of foreign relations, who has been acting secretary, was slated for minister of commerce and industry, but at the last moment it was decided to keep him in the foreign office.

Huerta's other ministers retain their portfolios.

The chamber of deputies will meet on Monday to discuss the presidential elections. It is understood that they will be declared null and void, but whether further steps will be taken in connection with the elections is a matter of conjecture.

AND NOW THEY ARE COMMANDERS IN THE GREEK NAY-VEE.

Washington, July 11.—Recruiting Americans to man battleships bought from this government, Louis E. Brown, newspaper reporter; Madison L. Hill, policeman, and P. E. Rishel, plumber, were appointed lieutenant commanders in the Greek navy.

WOMAN WRITES HOME SHE IS MURDERESS; THEN DISAPPEARS

been received by Mrs. Nelms.

Innes first met Mrs. Dennis in Roanville a year and a half ago, Mrs. Nelms said. He is supposed to have been a lawyer and to have assisted Mrs. Dennis in obtaining a divorce. Afterward they are said to have become engaged and planned to marry this summer.

Descriptions of Women.

The following descriptions of the women were made public by the police department here:

"Beatrice Nelms is a blonde, 26 years old. She is a self-reliant business woman and brusque in manner. She is of medium height and has blue eyes.

"Eloise Nelms Dennis is a brunnette 30 years old. She is slender and talkative. She is slightly taller than Beatrice."

The younger woman was engaged in the real estate business and was credited with making a fortune. Mrs. Nelms, mother of the missing women, is wealthy.

Seen in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., July 11.—Two women answering the descriptions of Mrs. Dennis and her sister, Beatrice Nelms, registered at a New Orleans hotel June 12, leaving on June 13, according to the clerk of the hotel. The women declined to state where they were from, the clerk said. They requested the clerk to register for them, and when he refused the elder wrote two names on the blotter.

Brother Starts Home.

San Francisco, Cal., July 11.—Marshall Nelms, the brother whom Mrs. Dennis was reported to be seeking to kill, left San Francisco last evening for Atlanta, at the urgent request of his mother, who wanted him with her. He is traveling via New Orleans, but he said he would not stop before reaching Atlanta unless he received more information as to his sisters' whereabouts.

Innes in Portland.

Portland, Ore., July 11.—Victor E. Innes, counsel for Mrs. Eloise Dennis, when she got her divorce at Reno eighteen months ago, is in Portland. He said last night he did not know anything about Mrs. Dennis' whereabouts or those of her sister, Beatrice Nelms, and would make a full statement of his dealings with them.

GLYNN WILLING TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Would Accept Nomination on the Democratic Ticket.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 11.—Governor Martin H. Glynn will accept the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket if his friends offer it to him. This announcement was made here while the governor was attending a clam bake given in his honor. Edward E. Perkins, treasurer of the Democratic state committee, made the announcement, saying "this is the first official statement that has been made regarding Governor Glynn's candidacy to succeed himself."

UNIVERSALISTS FOR EVANGELISM.

Boston, July 11.—A recommendation that a nation-wide evangelistic campaign be conducted was unanimously adopted at the convention of the Young People's Christian union. Many of the delegates spoke on the subject all agreeing that if the Universalist nomination were to grow, its members must go out into the world and quicken the religious life through devoted service.

REPORTS ON WORLD TRADE

Washington Places Year's Export Balance at $400,000,000.

Balance for 124 Years of Traffic Is $8,312,000,000.

Washington, July 11.—In connection with "the recent phenomenon of an excess of imports over exports in April and May," the department of commerce, in a statement on the commerce of the world and international balances of trade, announces that the net export balance of the United States probably will exceed $400,000,000 for the current fiscal year. This would be about $250,000,000 less than last year's balance.

The department pointed out that a large proportion of the older and more advanced nations show an excess of imports over exports of merchandise. Canada shows a balance on the import side, but nearly all other American countries show larger exports.

World Commerce.

"The world's commerce, as far as ascertainable," said the department's statement, "approximates $40,000,000,000, imports being $21,000,000,000 and exports $19,000,000,000. The excess of $2,000,000,000 on the import side is accounted for, in part, by the fact that many importing nations include in their import values the costs of inland freight, insurance and other charges, and in some degree to the closer scrutiny of import values, which are frequently the basis of customs revenue.

"Obviously, the figures have no reference to purchases by travelers and invisible trade settlements, usually omitted from statements of commerce but necessarily constituting an important factor in the balance sheet of nations.

Aggregate Imports.

"The aggregate imports of the seventy-five principal countries and colonies of the world in 1912-13 were valued at $20,845,000,000, or $2,147,000,000 more than their exports. In this vast theater of international trade the United States plays an important role, having bought 10 per cent of all the goods which the leading nations exported and having sold 14½ per cent of the merchandise which they purchased in the markets of the world.

"The United Kingdom had a foreign trade of $6,830,000,000, imports being $652,000,000 in excess of all exports, foreign and domestic. Germany in 1912 had a trade of $5,059,000,000, imports being $449,000,000 in excess of all exports. The United States in the calendar year 1913 had a foreign trade of $4,277,000,000, exports exceeding imports by $691,000,000. Canada's imports were nearly double the value of her exports, and France showed an excess of imports of $293,000,000.

$8,312,000,000 in 124 Years.

"Considering the commerce of the United States from 1790 to 1913, it is noted that the aggregate excess of exports over imports of merchandise in the 124 years in question was $8,312,000,000 and the aggregate excess of exports of gold and silver over imports thereof $1,609,000,000. In the eighty-five years prior to 1876, imports have almost invariably been larger than imports. In the movements of gold and silver the balance of trade shifts more frequently from one to the other side of the ledger, and in the last decade imports of specie have about equaled exports.

SAYS ROAD HAS BEEN RUINED

"Tony" App Complains of Work on the Homestead Road.

Rudolph App, known to Duluth sportsmen and fishermen as "Tony" App, was in the city yesterday trying to secure some prompt action on the repairing of the Homestead road.

The Homestead road runs north from Palmer's for a distance of about five miles. It was formerly a town road kept up by the town of Duluth, but was taken over by the county during the time Commissioner Tischer served on the board.

"Commissioner Tischer secured an appropriation of $1,000 to improve the road," said Mr. App yesterday. "It was graveled and was in fair shape for a time. But lately they have been working on the road and instead of improving it have ruined it, and made it almost impassable. They have sent a grader through there, turning up huge chunks of clay, which have been piled in the center of the road. Some of the chunks couldn't be broken with anything but a sledge hammer. It is worse than a waste of money. It would have been better if the money had simply been thrown into the lake."

OPERA IS LOSING $12,000 A MONTH.

Paris, July 11.—Owing to increasing expenditures and decreasing receipts, Andre Messager and L. J. Broussan, the lessees of the Paris Opera, have given notice of their withdrawal after Aug. 31, under a clause in the lease.

The opera has been running at an average loss of $12,000 a month, and the capital of $320,000 provided by a syndicate of patrons of the opera, has been expended. The lease of Messager and Broussan has extended over seven years, and is due to expire at the end of December.

The withdrawal of the lessees will place the government in a dilemma, unless Jaques Rouche, a wealthy manufacturer and musical enthusiast, who is to succeed to the direction of the opera in January, consents to take it over at once. The government will either have to close the house for four months or continue under the management of an official of the Fine Arts department, the treasury bearing any losses.

MORE PRAISES FOR THE QUAKER

MRS. McCORKLE OF DETROIT, WHO EXPELLED A 72-FOOT TAPEWORM, WRITES LETTER OF PRAISE TO THE HEALTH TEACHER, WHO IS AT THE ORPHEUM PHARMACY. READ IT:

Dear Doctor: We are in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Robert McCorkle of 403 Oak St., Detroit, Mich., extending her thanks to us for the good the Quaker Remedies have done her, and also wishes to express to you her heartfelt gratitude, but not knowing your present address has sent the letter to us.

She writes that her entire system was run down, had stomach troubles, was constipated, her food laid heavy on her stomach and gave her pains, that what she did eat did not taste good and gave her no strength. Also suffered with swimming of the head and had severe pains across the back and was nervous, was tired all the time and was unable to attend to her household duties. She stated that her condition was such that there seemed to be no relief, except death. Mrs. McCorkle states that she bought three bottles of Quaker Herb Extracts from you and before she had taken the first bottle she passed a monster tapeworm about 72 feet in length. She is picking up wonderfully and has gained so rapidly in strength and flesh so that her friends hardly recognize her.

Of course, Doctor, we know, and you also know, what this medicine will do, but it is only gratifying to have people let us know what it had done for them, especially in such complicated complaints. The weather here is very pleasant. Wishing you success in Duluth, we beg to remain yours truly,

MRS. ROBERT McCORKLE.

LIVE SIMPLY, HIS RULE, AND HE PASSES CENTURY MARK

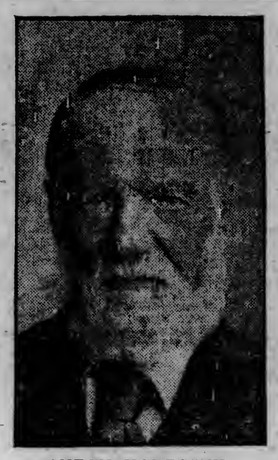

Anton Koneczny Lives 104 Years---Dies From No Apparent Cause.

Able to Read a Newspaper the Day Before His Death.

The death of Anton Koneczny, Sr., 2405 West Fourth street, which took place Thursday night, ended the career of a man who was probably the oldest person in Duluth. If Mr. Koneczny had lived about three months longer he would have been 104 years old.

Mr. Koneczny passed most of his active career on a farm at Silver Lake, Minn., and lived such a life that he could well afford to laugh at doctors, druggists, and physical culturists. He was ill but six weeks during his whole life, and then not seriously, and read the daily newspapers the day before his death. He had no illness when he died and seemed simply to pass into a peaceful sleep caused by the wear and tear of more than a century of activity.

So rugged and healthy was this centenarian up to within a few days of his death that he took a daily walk about the streets near his home, and he was often seen even without the support of a walking stick. His eye was bright and clear, his step firm although a little slow, and his mind was still alert and took in eagerly the current events and neighborhood happenings.

ANTON KONECZNY.

His family account for his longevity by the fact that he was temperate in his habits and loved fresh air and an outdoor life. He passed more than forty years on his farm at Silver Lake, and during the whole of that long period was up in the morning with the birds and went to bed early. He never tampered with drugs or medicines and was no patron of doctors or formulators of the modern rules for health.

Live Simply His Motto.

"If we live simply and obey the laws of nature our health will take care of itself," was his motto.

Mr. Koneczny was born in Posen, Germany, and his parents died when he was an infant. He came to Reading, Pa., during his early manhood and later came to Silver Lake, Minn., where he lived on a farm until six years ago. He and his family then came to Duluth and from that time he lived a retired life. His wife died about that time, but four sons survive him. These are: Anton Koneczny, Jr., Duluth; T. C. Koneczny, Two Harbors; Joe Koneczny, Alaska, and P. Koneczny, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Funeral services were held this morning at 7:30 o'clock at St. Peter's and St. Paul's Polish Catholic church, and the body was then sent to Silver Lake, where services will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

HEARS THREE OF 800 CASES

Judge Morris Then Transfers the Remainder to Fergus Falls.

Three out of the 800 Indian cases that have been brought in the federal court by the United States government against residents of the White Earth reservation, were disposed of yesterday by Federal Judge Morris, who heard several depositions and then ruled that the attorney for the government and R. J. Powell, who is representing the Indians, should enter all the cases in equity with the deputy clerk of the court at Fergus Falls.

The three cases heard by Judge Morris yesterday were against the purchasers of the Indian property, to which the government seeks to establish the proper title. The attorney general's office claims that many Indians sold their allotted lands and as a result the property is now wrongfully held by the new owners in many instances. The suits against the Indians and the property owners are cases in equity and the attorney general's office at Washington is being represented by First Assistant Norton.

The contention raised is that a full blooded Indian has no right to sell his allotted land. In the cases against the 800 Indians the question is raised in each instance as to the blood of the defendant Indian. If he is of mixed blood, he had a right to dispose of his property.

Mr. Powell plans to obtain depositions from most of the Indians, having already obtained several hundred, while about 200 will be brought into court, for the presiding judge to decide. Mr. Powell claims that many are unable to talk intelligently and the court will be compelled to decide from the appearance of the Indian himself.

The cases heard yesterday were against the Nichols-Chisholm company and Hiram Ryan and H. C. Clark. Depositions made by the Indians as to their lineage were read and the court decided to transfer all the cases, of which there are about 800, to the Fergus Falls court. It is expected that the complaints will be filed there by the government and that the cases will come up during the regular November term, which opens on Nov. 10.

SEE DANGER OF A COAL FAMINE

The Black Diamond, the official organ of the coal trade, in its issue of July 11, says:

"The national coal market this week appears to be extremely dull and buying both by steam users and retail dealers has been so very light that come persons have taken alarm lest there will be a coal famine next winter. They pont out now that the crop movement is going to be enormous. This is, of course, going to take an unprecedentel number of cars. The railroads have let down in efficiency, have not repaired cars and certainly have brought no new cars or engines. There seems, therefore, to be very good reason to fear both a car shortage and a coal famine. However, there are pretty good reasons for believing also that the nation will not suffer. At tidewater ports, at the uuper lake docks and at a number of the main distributing centers, quite an accumulation of coal has taken place and considering the small consumption in the steam trade it is just possible that the year will not develop any very marked shortage. However, future developments, especially a time such as this, are mighty hard to forecast and business programs marked out today are not altogether safe to follow."

WOMAN CLEVER AS CAMPAIGN MANAGER.

Marquette, Mich., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Marie Hadrich, a former Marquette young woman, private secretary to Chase S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, is credited with knowing more about Michigan politics and the men who figure in it, than any other woman in the state. Miss Hadrich is one of the aides in the organization of the Osborn campaign and is expected to do major service in the primary canvass now in progress. It is no new experience for Miss Hadrich, as she was prominently concerned in the office organization of the Osborn campaign in 1910, and on its successful conclusion had much work of a political nature to do as the governor's secretary. Miss Hadrich is described as an unusually efficient secretary, and is possessed of more skill in and feeling for politics than some men who think they know a lot about the game.

PIONEER HURLEY WOMAN IS BURIED.

Hurley, Wis., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. A. Lucia, an old and respected resident of this village, died at the family home after a short illness of pneumonia. She was ill only four days. She was 76 years of age, having been born at Waukegan, Ill., Dec. 25, 1838. On July 4, 1861, she was married to Archie Lucia, who also died of pneumonia on May 22, 1911. She is survived by three sons, Archie and Watson of Hurley and Allen of Nama, Mich., and two daughters, Mrs. John Gardiner of Hurley and Mrs. Tim Harrington of Seattle, Wash. The funeral services were conducted from the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Mr. Thompson officiating, and were largely attended. Burial followed at the Hurley cemetery.

CANNOT BE TRANSFERRED

Damage Suits Must Be Heard in Range Municipal Courts.

Residence of Railroad is Any Place it Transacts Business.

Damage suits instituted against railway companies in the range town municipal courts can no longer be shifted to the municipal court of Duluth for trial on the theory that the county metropolis or principal place of the company's business is its legal residence, if a decision handed down by District Judge Fesler this morning is not reversed by the supreme court.

Holding that the residence of the Great Northern railway, so far as St. Louis county is concerned, is anywhere within the county where it does business and not particularly in Duluth, Judge Fesler filed an order sustaining a demurrer to a petition for a writ of mandamus which sought to compel Judge William L. Windom of the municipal court to try a damage suit brought against the railway company in the municipal court of Hibbing.

The decision is considered to be of some importance in view of the fact that it disposes of a question which has long been in dispute and which affects a large number of cases. It has also resulted in a clearer interpretation of the procedure to be followed under a 1913 law governing municipal courts, their jurisdictions, and the rights of a defendant railway company in a change of venue proceeding in counties having more than one municipal court.

The mandamus action resulted from a suit brought in the Hibbing municipal court by August Juntonen against the Great Northern Railway company to recover damages for the loss of a cow alleged to have been killed by one of the company's trains. In the Hibbing municipal court, Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes, attorneys for the railway company, filed affidavits setting forth that the residence of the railway company, so far as St. Louis county was concerned, is in Duluth, its principal place of business, and asked that the court remand the action to the Duluth municipal court for trial, in accordance with a provision of the 1913 statute. The order was made accordingly.

Wanted Case Remanded.

After the change of venue had been granted, Victor J. Power and A. E. Templeton, attorneys for the plaintiff, who reside at Hibbing, appeared before Judge Windom of the municipal court in this city and moved to have the case remanded back to Hibbing for trial on the ground that a railway company's residence is wherever its lines operate and consequently as much in the village of Hibbing as in the city of Duluth. Judge Windom ordered the case sent back.

At this stage of the case, attorneys for the railway company sued out a writ of mandamus for the purpose of compelling the Duluth court to try the case. When the case came on for hearing, Judge Windom was represented in the district court by his attorney, A. E. McManus, and the interests of the plaintiff, Juntonen, were presented by Attorneys Power and Templeton. The proceeding was a rather unusual one in that it invoked the power of a higher court over an inferior court, seldom exercised.

Attorney McManus demurred to the petition for the writ of mandamus and the matter came on for argument, the main question being the residence of the railway company. Judge Fesler, who has had the matter under consideration since March 21, today filed an order sustaining the demurrer.

It is expected that the case will be appealed in order that final adjudication of the issues involved may be had.

MUFFLERS MUST BE KEPT CLOSED

The police are making a determined fight to stop the opening of automobile mufflers by drivers and all the officers have been instructed to arrest every violator of this ordinance.

Three arrests were made yesterday afternoon and evening and in each instance the prisoner pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs or five days in the county jail. They all paid their fines.

Last evening Maurice Kiely, 27 years old, was arrested by Patrolmen Boland and Johnson. He pleaded guilty in court this morning and was fined $5 and costs. The other two arrested yesterday were Arthur Johnson and Louis Oreck.

MINERS' UNION WILL SUE CITY OF BUTTE.

Butte, Mont., July 11.—That the city of Butte was negligent in making no effort to suppress the riots of June 13 when the miners' union hall was wrecked and the records destroyed, and on June 23 when the building was dynamited with twenty blasts and destroyed after an effort had been made to hold a meeting of the local union of the Western Federation of Miners, is the charge made in a claim for $138,291, filed with the city clerk by officers of Butte local, No. 1, of the Federation. This step was said to be preliminary to filing suit against the city.

DOCTOR ORDERS RESINOL FOR BAD RINGWORM

New York, March 9, 1914: "A rash formed on my forehead and commenced spreading. It was a ringworm. The itching and burning which I endured for four months before I commenced using Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment were terrible. All my classmates kept away from me in fear that they would catch it. I used every home remedy I could think of, but with no success. My family doctor advised me to use Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. The moment I applied them I felt a cooling sensation which was lasting—the relief was quick. I used two jars of Resinol Ointment, and Resinol Soap, and was finally rid of the pest. Today there isn't a single mark to show where I had the disease." (Signed) M. G. Ross, 273 Church St.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are also speedily effective for eczema, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, sores and many forms of piles. Sold by all druggists. For trial free, write to Dept. 27-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

NOT SHOWING THEIR HAND

Attorneys for B. Silberstein in Contest Case May Spring Surprise.

Mr. Silberstein Gains Fifty-Three Disputed Ballots By Stipulation.

Just what Bernard Silberstein, defeated candidate for mayor at the April, 1913, municipal election, has "up his sleeve" in his contest proceedings to unseat Mayor William I. Prince will not be disclosed until the case comes on for hearing before Judge Cant of the district court Monday morning.

"We have chosen not to show our hand until we get into court," declared J. B. Richards, attorney for Mr. Silberstein, this morning. Mr. Richards declined to even intimate what the nature of the "surprise" would be, but stated that he thought it would develop in an early stage of the contest proceedings.

Yesterday afternoon Attorney Richards was in conference with Neil E. Beaton of counsel for Mayor Prince at the courthouse, for the purpose of going over the disputed ballots with the view of eliminating some of them by stipulation, and thus saving time when the contest was brought on for hearing Monday. The case was set for trial yesterday, but a continuance was taken in order to prepare the necessary stipulations.

Disputed Ballots.

In the first mayoralty contest, which was brought by W. E. McEwen and was recently decided in favor of Mayor Prince in the supreme court, the recount developed 219 disputed ballots. Of this number the count in the former contest gave Mr. Prince 61 and Mr. McEwen 61. Mr. Silberstein claimed 58. Attorneys agreed to stipulate yesterday, for the purpose of saving time, that 53 of the 58 votes would be conceded for Mr. Silberstein and counted for him, leaving five ballots still in dispute.

Attorneys agreed yesterday to stipulate that the count for Mr. Prince was 3,148, as held by the court in the Prince-McEwen contest, and that Mr. Silberstein had 3,084 undisputed ballots, not including 53 of the 58 ballots claimed by him out of the 219 disputed ballots, which, if added, would give him 3,137.

Attorneys for Mayor Prince concede that Mr. Silberstein has 3,137 votes, or 11 less than Mr. Prince. Attorney Richards claims 5 more votes, which would still leave him with 6 less votes than the number polled by Mayor Prince. The attack on Mayor Prince's election is made on the theory that more than 6 illegal votes were cast for Mr. Prince at the election, and the fight will hinges on that point.

Attorney Richards does not expect that the testimony on this point will take any considerable length of time. O. J. Larson appears in the contest proceedings as one of the attorneys for Mayor Prince.

STORM CAUSES THE DEATHS OF SIX MEN

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars' Damage in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 11.—Six persons killed and property damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars, was the toll of cloudbursts and electric storms in the Lebanon valley and the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania yesterday. Three persons were drowned in Scranton and vicinity in a flood that followed the cloudburst; one man was killed by lightning at Wilkesbarre, and two met death at Lebanon, one when he stepped on a live wire broken during the storm and another by lightning.

Overflowing of a creek in the Lebanon district flooded thousands of acres of corn and wheat, while hail that accompanied the storm destroyed much of the fruit crop.

Twenty-five men were caught in a mine, 200 feet below the surface, at Archbald, near Scranton, when a dam burst and flooded the mine workings. They all managed to escape to the surface by wading through water up to their shoulders.

Trolley traffic was completely tied up, bridges were swept away and hundreds of persons who had gone to the outlying sections on picnics were marooned for the night.

Lightning started numerous fires in the country districts, and many barns containing harvested crops and livestock were destroyed.

SKYSCRAPERS AND THE PROBLEMS THEY PRESENT, AND HOW THE MODERN BUILDING MANAGER HAS SOLVED THESE PROBLEMS

THE WALKER BUILDING IN SALT LAKE CITY.

THE WHITEHALL BUILDING, NEW YORK.

THE UNION CENTRAL BUILDING IN CINCINNATI, THE TALLEST IN THE MIDDLE WEST.

By C. A. PATTERSON,
(Secretary National Association of Building Owners and Managers.)

When we think of a city the first thing that comes to mind is the skyscrapers. Those giants of steel and stone although often criticized from an artistic standpoint show to the world the city's prosperity and are grim examples of the bigness of American ideas.

In many office buildings today, practically every necessity and luxury of mankind can be found under one roof. The tenant can clothe himself completely from the stores on the ground floor, can eat his meals, secure his cigars, receive medical or legal advice, tonsorial attention, satisfy his literary requirements, either with newspapers or magazines from the lobby shop or delve in library volumes as he pleases. A billiard hall, often a theater in the building takes care of his amusements and even space now is being provided to store his automobile in the basement.

The modern building is as necessary to commercialism as the telephone. Ground values have in central locations become so great that high buildings are the only solution to making a dividend as well as saving time for the modern business man.

It is difficult for the average person to appreciate the rapid growth of the big buildings. Although the first skyscraper was built less than thirty years ago, today we have 700 foot buildings of over fifty stories with twenty-five acres of floor space, while plans have already been drawn for a skyscraper one hundred and five stories in height. Although now and then we hear cries of city streets becoming canyons, yet few stop to consider the time saved by the large office buildings. Suppose all the modern buildings of New York were spread out in one and two story buildings. The floor space of the Land Title & Trust building of Philadelphia, alone would cover over six complete blocks. Can you imagine the condition, if the down town section of New York or the loop district of Chicago were flattened out?

Originator of Skyscraper.

Outside of the architectural field, there are few who even know the name of the man who originated the skyscraper or what the actual difference is between a skyscraper and any other big building. We have many high buildings that are not skyscrapers. For instance, The Rookery, Chicago, is a building of eleven stories, yet it is not technically a skyscraper.

In 1883, W. Le Barron Jenney, a Chicago architect, conceived the idea of carrying the walls of a building on the steel framework. Previous to this, the walls were, self-supporting, thus the higher the building, the greater the load upon the lower walls. Mr. Jenney experimented with his new idea on the Home Insurance building, Chicago, building one-half of it by the skeleton construction method while the other one-half was erected by the ordinary method in use at that time. The experiment proved a complete success, which encouraged the architect to try it out on a complete building.

This was done the following year when the fourteen-story Tacoma building, Chicago, was erected, it having the honor of being the first skyscraper ever erected. Although this was in 1884, the building is in excellent condition, completely filled and holding its own with the "new arrivals."

Specializing.

The tendency in office buildings now is toward specializing. As cities grow larger, the down town district gradually assumes sections. Thus we find the musical instrument dealers confined within a block or two, automobile show rooms in another section, the furniture district elsewhere, etc. The modern methods of doing business are quite contrary to the methods of our forefathers, for now the slogan seems to be, the more competition the more business there is for all, so we find large department stores side by side and other lines in equal proximity, all anxious to meet each other's competition.

This has naturally affected the skyscraper and there are several shining examples of specialized buildings, all paying good dividends.

The Cobb building, Seattle, is the latest example of a specialized building. The tenants of this building are exclusively physicians and dentists. Special equipment and arrangement of suites make the appointments in this building exceptionally desirable. For instance, private corridors are provided, mechanical apparatus, superior to any in the city hospitals, and all sorts of electrical devices are furnished by the building. Another interesting feature of the Cobb building is leasing space by the hour. This plan of renting appeals particularly to physicians who have offices in the suburbs of the city or in the outlying towns, who wish to also maintain an office in the city.

Suites of Offices.

To meet this demand the Cobb building fitted up several suites of offices with a general reception room and furnished everything for the suite but linen and doctor's instruments. Each private office is equipped with an adjustable operating chair, cabinet for instruments, two chairs, desk, rug, glass top table, etc. In the reception room, a telephone switchboard with connections to each booth is furnished, as well as the services of a woman attendant. A competent girl is employed by the building manager to operate the switchboard, receive callers and make appointments for the tenants. A special directory board outside the entrance door shows the names, room numbers and office hours of each physician.

The rental rates are from $8 to $10 per month, for one hour each day, which with a possible capacity of nine hours per day, brings in a revenue of $30 per month for one booth, which under ordinary conditions would not rent for more than $15 per month in the best buildings.

This plan was originated in the Reliance building, Chicago, and in both it and the Cobb building it has proved entirely successful.

We also have specialized buildings covering almost every other line of commercial activity. Fire insurance has been one of the foremost lines to get together in certain sections or buildings. It is frankly stated that in one of the largest cities a fire insurance company would go into bankruptcy if it had offices anywhere but in the building specialized to this line.

People seem to get the habit of going to certain sections for certain classes of goods. Shrewd real estate men are quick to take advantage of the situation.

Building of Shops.

One interesting case is the Republic building, Chicago, which is a building of shops. The corridors of every floor are miniature streets with shop windows facing the corridors. Almost everything imaginable is shown in these corridor shops, each of which is similar to its ground floor neighbor. This building was the result of a greater demand for store space on State street within the Loop district, than there was to be secured. Ground floor space on this street has for a long time been impossible to obtain, although the rents have been boosted until now they are probably the highest in the world.

Naturally many merchants wanted to get in the stream of retail trade, and the Republic building has been found the solution. Another building in the district, carrying out the upstairs shop idea, is now under construction, that will go a step farther. The tenants will work out a co-operative plan of advertising, of delivery and a system of co-operative endeavor of pleasing the customers.

It is surprising what an effect the erection of a skyscraper has upon surrounding property. An excellent example of this is the shrewdness of Samuel Newhouse of Salt Lake City. When Mr. Newhouse when to Salt Lake City, he found that all the business of the city centered around the Mormon temple. All the land in the central portion was owned by the Mormons. Mr. Newhouse realized the population was fast becoming non-Mormon, so decided that there was a need for a radical change. He therefore, a few years ago, erected the beautiful Newhouse building several blocks down the street, entirely away from what was then the business center. He next built a beautiful hotel, then another office building, and soon after leased an adjoining lot to the government for the postoffice. This all happened five years ago—today the business center radiates around the Newhouse properties.

Seattle's Center.

In Seattle, the business district which was centered for many years at the crossing of Yesler Way and Second avenue, has steadily moved northward. A valuable corner at this point, is owned by Mr. Smith of Syracuse. In order to counteract the tendency of establishing the commercial center of the city elsewhere, Mr. Smith, now is erecting the L. C. Smith building, a forty-two story office building, which will be the highest building in the world, outside of New York.

It is problematical whether or not this building will produce the desired effect, but there is no question that it really marks an epoch in Pacific coast construction work.

When a new building is planned today, great care is used in designing it to best suit the needs of the tenants for that particular locality. The days when the wealthy business man gave his architect free rein to erect a building to serve as a shining example of his wealth has passed. These "monuments of uselessness" are built no more.

Owners are realizing the importance of retaining specialists, for while it did not take any trained real estate man to advise Peter Minuit, the Dutch governor of New Amsterdam, to buy the whole of Manhattan island, from the Indians for $24, when a 1912 buyer is paying $700 a square foot for some of that same property around Wall street, he wants the advice of some one who knows the entire history of land and building values in the financial zone.

The Building Manager.

Now an owner consults a building manager who is a man experienced in renting and in managing buildings. With him, the owner goes over the idea. The height of building the location will justify, the character of tenants possible to expect in that district, are carefully discussed. Later, rental rates are figured out so as to give the owner an idea of returns from the investment. After this, plans are drawn, all the time the building manager closely co-operating with the architects. The manager decides as to whether or not an isolated plant is required, he suggests the equipment and conveniences that makes space easy to rent, as well as giving the architect the benefit of his operating experience with equipment that has not been found profitable in upkeep cost.

As soon as plans are drawn, a facsimile clay model is made. The building manager now begins his work in renting. Big tenants in other buildings are bombarded to take space. Where a tenant can be secured to take a whole floor he is usually given the corridor space free while hundreds of dollars are saved in marble and glass partitions.

Space is sold on a square foot basis. This varies in different buildings in every city, depending upon location, light and service. Yet, a general average of a $1.50 to $2.00 (above the second floor) per square foot, from coast to coast would not be far from being right. It is said that a modern building, furnishing first-class service cannot operate under $1 per square foot of rentable area.

Figuring Pennies.

To the uninitiated, it might seem that it is figuring things down pretty fine when a building manager will tell you, it costs 8 cents per square foot to heat the building, 8½ cents to clean the offices, 1½ cents to run the elevators and 6½ cents to furnish light. It is found that 9 cents of every square foot sold goes for new equipment and the water 3 cents per square foot of rentable area. Yet all these things are figured out to the penny. Even the waste paper found in the baskets is sorted, baled and sold to the paper mills, netting a profit to the building in some cases of over $1,000 a year. A building manager knows that the average person takes one and three-quarters seconds to enter an elevator car on the first floor and only three-quarters of a second to leave it.

These few statistics taken from the many at hand, may best illustrate that the proposition is not simply the renting of empty excess space within the walls of a building, containing floors, windows and ceilings, but that these must also be kept clean, heated, lighted and provided with adequate elevator and other service at the expense of the owner.

Depreciation of the building physically is not only carefully computed but the economic value as well. At the end of twenty years an office building has outlived its usefulness. In other words, at the end of that time, the ground will either be too valuable for the building or the locality will degenerate so as to require a different type of building.

Two striking examples in New York bear out this assertion. The Bankers' Trust building, now being completed on Wall Street replaced a modern eighteen-story building that was in perfect condition physically, yet the location demanded a forty-two story structure, and it was built. In direct, contrast to this a few months ago on Fifth avenue, a comparatively good residence was demolished because the locality had degenerated. Gradually, the fine old mansions have been given up and the cheaper class shops are filling them. Some day, the location will justify a handsome building, but not at present, so the owner found he could not get enough rent to pay the taxes. Consequently, the residence, although in good condition was torn down in order to escape taxation as improved property.

The Elevator Problem.

Elevators really determine the height of a building erected for a profit. Of course, the higher a building goes, the more elevators required, until it gets to a point where the leasing of space is at a loss for the public necessarily will not pay prohibitive rates.

For instance, in one of the highest buildings, a rental rate of $6.50 per square foot is charged, yet the space is operated at a loss. In fact, the elevators occupy almost as much space as the rental area. It has been carefully estimated that one square foot of elevator space should be provided for every 500 square feet of rentable area, although this naturally varies greatly in the different types of buildings and even in the class of tenants. It is interesting to know that the elevators of a big city, every day carry more passengers than all the local electric and steam railways, combined. Over 100,000,000 people are carried daily in the office building elevators, a greater number by several million than the entire population of the United States. Yet with all this traffic, the serious elevator accidents in any city can be counted on one's fingers.

The skyscraper manager is really, mayor, police, health and street cleaning commissioner and department of public works, to a community of 10,000 people under a single roof.

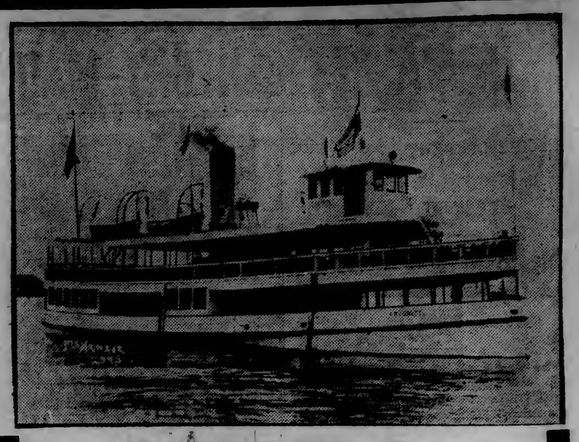

Among realty specialists, the latest to be recognized is the building manager of the skyscraper, who stands between the 10,000 cliff dwellers in a business rookery and the corporation which owns the building. In the early days of the skyscraper, the manager would attend to three or four buildings, but as structures, fifty stories high and covering entire city blocks began to go up, the skyscraper manager of a single building was developed, and this man spends his business life and makes a good income from attending to property under a single roof.

A Busy Life.

The life of such a manager is a busy one, and the things he must know about real estate, business, human nature, housekeeping, and a dozen branches of engineering and trade are myriad. In the first place, he is the head of a community of perhaps 1,000 offices occupied by probably 10,000 people and visited daily by from 15,000 to 25,000 others. He must superintend the safe transportation by elevators of this daily army. In the next place, he must see that the streets—the corridors, of which there are sometimes over a mile in a single building, are kept clean—that offices are properly cared for and all waste paper and litter removed at night. In this way, he may be head of a cleaning force of perhaps fifty men and women whose soap bill alone may amount to $400 a year.

He must also look after the health and safety of his community by seeing that all plumbing and water supply systems are in perfect order; that the heating plant delivers just the right number of degrees without wasting coal; that regulations against fire are observed, and that his fire fighting crew and apparatus are always ready. He must police his streets through reliable employes, must see that there is no breach of the peace, and that no one with an illegal or objectionable calling is allowed to get into the building, or, if he gets in, that he does not long retain his offices. At night, when his busy community has left Skyscraperville, he must see that there is always an adequate guard to protect their deserted property. To attend to all these things and do it economically, he must know something about plumbing, steam fitting, electric wiring, elevators and all the building and repair trades, and must himself be something of a lawyer, engineer, architect and contractor, in order to buy intelligently and to pass on bills for improvements.

To rent offices, he must be a trained diplomat and be able to write advertisements. To handle his force of superintendents, clerks, cleaners, elevator men, engineers, firemen, inspectors, he must be a sort of labor leader and organizer. He must know enough about human nature to keep the 1,000 tenants happy. The making out of leases and the collections and handling of such huge monthly rentals is in itself a big business requiring a perfect office system; but for that matter, merely keeping track of 5,000 door keys to such a structure is in itself no small task. But in addition to all of these things, the skyscraper agent must keep absolutely in touch with his entire neighborhood and with practically every similar building in the city. He must know, for instance, whether the demand for offices in his neighborhood and the price asked in other buildings warrant an increase in rent. He must keep in touch with every municipal proposition which would lead to assessment and keep an eye on the mayor, board of estimate, the aldermen, the state legislature and officials generally.

DOOKS DROP FINAL GAME TO THE WHEELER GANG

Flickertails Win Last of Series By Score of 7 to 2.

Handsome Clarence Grina Is Pounded Hard and Is Relieved By Allen.

BY BRUCE.

Our side was defeated yesterday by the reverse English count of 7 to 2. Three men fainted in the last of the ninth and one woman was affected with hysterics when Umpire Timothy Flood, the well known Swedish umpire, announced that Henry Clay Blancke was to assume the role of pinch hitter. Those present will remember the incident for years.

To the amazement of the thousands present Henry Clay smote the first ball pitched on the nose. The day of miracles was not over, Henry Clay Blancke had hit in a pinch. But Nifnecker raced over and back and picked the line drive just off the ground, and one of the greatest chances to gain fame was rudely snatched from the front door of the poet pitcher.

Handsome Clarence Grina started mound festivities for us. Five runs and five hits were made off the dolivity of the Saxon wheat culture expert. With two gone in the fourth, the disastrous round when the enemy climbed our ramparts for three rounds, Gshkosh Allen was wig wagged from the dog house and assumed the reins of delivery.

Ashland Bill Snow, beloved relative of Duluth Thomas North, started throwing for the Flicks. In the second round young Mr. Snow allowed one hit and issued three passes, thus by the law of addition forcing one run across the plate. Mr. Wheeler declared that he had enough Snow for one day and hurriedly sent out the call for Mr. Larson, the gent who had been so grievously man-handled on the day previous. We secured eight hits and one run off the delivery of Mr. Larson. At the close of the game he thanked the members of the home team for their courteous treatment of him. Larse is a deserving kid and we hope he gets ahead—we mean progress, understand.

The Afflicting Scores.

Jerry Altman singled past third in the second. He was sacrificed to second and went to third on a passed ball. Foster walked and swiped the second bag. Wheeler hit to Handsome Clarence Grina and Altman was tagged out at the plate. Sampson doubled to left and two perfectly good scores were in. In our half O'Brien and Wolfe walked and Edmunds beat out an infield hit that no one went after and then Sweeley walked and one run was in. Mr. Snow was yanked. In the fourth Anderson was safe when Croake fuzzled his grounder, Foster flew out and Wheeler beat out an infield hit. Sampson singled and Anderson and Wheeler raced home. Larson walked and McGraw singled and Sampson scored, but Larson became tangled up in the base lines and was caught out. Allen mounted the mound and Nifnecker lofted to left.

Dutch Flaherty doubled in the next round and counted when Anderson singled past short. In the seventh Nifnecker beat out a hit through the box and Flaherty beat out a hit down the third base line. Altman sacrificed and Nifnecker crossed on Anderson's single. Flaherty was thrown out at the plate on Foster's hit to O'Brien.

Our lonesome final score was manufactured in the fifth round. Brackett beat out an infield hit and scored a minute later when Harold Bond banged a triple to deep center.

Langwell Peters, the upstanding and beautifully modeled catcher of the visiting team, was not in the game yesterday. Yesterday morning the handsome catcher drew a ten days' suspension for indifferent playing. This unfortunate fact robbed ladies' day of one of its chief attractions. Threatening rain also robbed it of many ladies. Those present, however, showed commendable enthusiasm, even if they did occasionally enthuse at improper times, speaking strictly from the home team's standpoint. Let the ladies come out during the Fort William series. There is little likelihood that they will have any occasion to cheer sopranoly and altoly at the wrong time. There ain't a goin' to be no wrong time.

Andrew Anderson, the former first baseman of the Superior team, was on first for the visitors. Mr. Anderson lives in North Dakota and if he can stick on the team until the close of the season he will have less railroad fare to pay out. It is an ill move that does not benefit some one.

DOLDRUMS IS FATE FOR YACHT RACE.

Newport, R. I., July 11.—A day in the doldrums pitching and sliding in an oily grand swell, and spilling the faint winds out of the sails, was the prospect early today for a contest of the Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance, the America's cup class yachts. The wind came intermittently in light slants from southwest, with not enough strength to lift the club burgees flown from the tips of the top masts.

The regatta committee planned today to give the yachts a fifteen-mile turn to windward and run home.

NOTHING TO ARBITRATE.

Cubs' President Stands Pat Regarding Derrick Trade Deal.

Chicago, July 11.—"There is nothing to arbitrate," said President Thomas, when told that August Herrmann proposed to leave the controversy over the Derrick trade to President Tener or Secretary Heydler. "All I told Mr. Herrmann regarding the trade was that I would consider it and take it up with Manager O'Day. Upon investigation, as already stated, I declined on behalf of the Chicago club, to make the trade proposed."

SOUNDING THE REVEILLE IN THE SPORTING CAMP

Duluth Playing Clever and Fast Baseball---Ten Eyck's Oarsmen Leave for Kenora This Week---Northland Club Members Are Preparing for the State Golf Tournament.

BY BRUCE.

"Don't think that we are out of this old race yet," said several of the members of the departing Flickertails last evening. "We'll get going again and be up there fighting for first place."

At least the spirit of the members of the Wheeler squad is of the best. With one more pitcher of first-class quality the Flickers would be more dangerous than they are at the present writing. And it is said that Wheeler is on the search for this pitcher. There are some sweet hitters on the North Dakota outfit, and with some better flinging to hold down the score of the opposition, the wins of the future would increase.

It is true that the Grand Forks outfit got started before several of the other teams of the Northern. This fact led to the early lead of the Wheeler outfit. All of the teams have hit their stride and the race is being run on the mid-season form o fthe gonfalon contenders.

From the general looks of the bunch Duluth has a splendid chance for the flag. There may be another change on the team before O'Brien is satisfied with its making. For all round balance the Dooks look as well as any of the other teams. Right now the White Sox are playing nice ball—the brand of summer amusement that should keep them near the top.

Ten Eyck and his squad of oarsmen will leave during the coming week for Kenora. The Duluth squad will be made up of the two eights, the bantam four and the junior four and the senior four. The senior four will be recruited from the senior eight and the junior four will also be made up from the junior eight.

While Professor James Ten Eyck has little to say in regard to the chances of Duluth, it is generally believed that the senior eight and senior four will win their races. It would not surprise the local followers of the crew if sweet scented victory was also tasted by the bantam four.

During the time Ten Eyck has had charge of the crews here they have shown class superior to the majority of the crews of the other members of the Northwestern International Regatta association. While Duluth has an inexperienced junior eight, junior four and bantam four this season, class may tell and the wins this season may be as sweeping as the victories of last year and the year previous to that.

Present plans call for the journey by boat from Rainy River to Kenora. The Canadian Northern will be taken to Rainy River and the shells loaded on the steel steamer Kenora. The journey is a beautiful one and one much preferable to taking the long overland trip by rail.

While not much news has come out of St. Paul concerning the eight of the Minnesota Boat club, Max Rheinberger, who did some rowing at the Mississippi river club while in the Twin Cities, is authority for the statement that the Minnesotas look better this year than for some time past. Kenneth Hare, the former University of Wisconsin man, and also a former member of the eight of the Duluth Boat club, is in the St. Paul eight this season. Several college oarsmen are also members of the boat.

Winnipeg should be strong in the junior eight and bantam four events. For three seasons Winnipeg has had about the same men in these boats. This will give the Peggers comparatively veteran material against the green and inexperienced crews of the local club in these events.

St. Paul will also hold the advantage in the same regard in the same two events. Regarding the coming regatta in the light of experience in the majority of events, Duluth will be grievously handicapped.

Members of the Northland Golf club are working with the members of the various committees to make the forthcoming annual state golf tournament the most successful in the history of the state association.

The Northland Golf club will be the host of the golfers of the state, and present progress of plans indicate more ambitious efforts than have been attempted in the past by any club in the state for the holding of a tournament.

M. B. Cullum, as chairman of the entertainment committee, and Pentecost Mitchell, as chairman of the arrangement committee, and Thomas F. Cole, as president of the Northland club, are busily engaged in looking after a hundred and one details.

It is expected that fully 100 golfers from the various clubs of the state will be here to play for the state championship. Harry Legg, the present state champion and the cracks of every club in the state, will be on hand. Against the best golfing talent from the outside will be sent the best players of the Duluth club. R. S. Patrick carries the hopes of the Duluth followers of the game.

THE HOPE OF ENGLAND

SHAMROCK.

The new Shamrock will come across the ocean to try for the America's cup. All reports say that she is much faster than the old Shamrock, which is racing her in tryouts but betting on this side is still in favor of the American boat by good odds.

ZIMMERMAN HAS DRIVEN IN NEARLY FIFTY RUNS

The Cub Third Baseman Leads the Major Leagues in Hitting in the Greatest Number of Scores.

(By Ernest J. Lanigan.)

Probably Heinie Zimmerman of the Chicago Cubs will be the first major league player this season to pass the half century mark in driving in runs. At the end of the eleventh week's labors O'Day's hard hitting third baseman had hammered home forty-three tallies and was in the lead for the timely hitting honors of the majors. No less than six men then were tied for second place in the Runs Batted In column, thee athletics being Baker and McInnis of the Athletics, Lewis of the Red Sox, Shanks of the Senators, Walker of the Browns and Wheat of the Superbas. Each of these players had hit in forty counters.

The two Philadelphia teams have the best trios of timely thumpers. To July 1 Baker, McInnis and Collins of the Mackmen had batted in 115 markers, Magee, Cravath and Luderus of the Dooinites 109. The Red Sox have three formidable stickers in Lewis, Speaker and Gardner, who have put the finishing touches to ninety-nine of their team's scoring output, and so have the Subs in Zimmerman, Saier and Leach. The Western trio's record in this respect is the same as the Eastern trio's.

Frank Leroy Chance, who is a peerless leader when things are breaking right and a cheerless leader when they are breaking wrong, must wish that he could round up a trio of able clubbers like Baker, McInnis and Collins. His best batters—Hartzell, a sub; Williams, who has been shunted to the Western league, and Maisel—only have knocked in forty-nine tallies. The entire Yankee team stood credited on July 1 with only having batted in 137 counters. Pittsburg is another major league club sadly in need of three men who can consistently hit safely when runs are in sight. Below will be found the three best men on each club at batting in runs:

American League.

White Elephants, 115—Baker, 40; McInnis, 40; Collins, 35.

Red Sox, 99—Lewis, 40; Speaker, 30; Gardner, 29.

Browns, 92—Walker, 40; Williams, 26; Pratt, 26.

Tigers, 89—Crawford, 38; Burns, 29; Cobb, 22.

Senators, 88—Shanks, 40; Gandil, 25; Milan, 23.

Nape, 79—Jackson, 32; Graney, 25; Lajoie, 22.

White Sox, 76—Collins, 37; Chase, 23; Blackburne, 16.

Yankees, 49—Hartzell, 18; Williams, 16; Moisel, 15.

National League.

Phillies, 109—Magee, 38; Cravath, 37; Luderus, 34.

Cubs, 99—Zimmerman, 43; Saier, 31; Leach, 25.

Superbas, 92—Wheat, 40; Smith, 30; Stengel, 22.

Giants—Doyle, 32; Meyers, 31; Markel, 27.

Cardinals, 85—Miller, 38; Wilson, 28; Magee, 19.

Braves, 67—Maranville, 25; Schmidt, 23; Evers, 19.

Reds, 66—Niehoff, 24; Clarke, 21; Hoblitzel, 21.

Pirates, 65—Viox, 24; Mitchell, 22; Gibson, 19.

Two Chalmers car winners—Walter Johnson, winner of the 1913 American league trophy, and Larry Doyle, winner of the 1912 National league trophy—find places on the two major league teams of timeliest hitters. On the club in the junior league are four White Elephants, three Senators, one Brown and one Red Sock. The team in the senior organization is composed of two Phillies, two Giants, two Cardinals, two Clubs and one Superba. The outfits follow:

pennant contest, having won fifty and lost eleven games for an average of .820. Pittsburg was second with thirty-seven games won and twenty-five lost, giving the Pirates a percentage of .597. Chicago with .567 was third, having lost twenty-six games and won thirty-four. Cincinnati completed the first division with thirty-five victories and thirty-two defeats, the Reds' percentage being .522. Philadelphia, Brooklyn, St. Louis and Boston followed in the order named with percentages of .423, .407, .391 and .303, respectively.

Last season's standing showed several marked changes over this order, for while the Giants were showing the way, their lead was of the narrowest margin, for Philadelphia was in second place and Brooklyn following the Quakers closely. In fact but .120 points separated the first four teams against approximately .300 in 1912. The New York club, ultimate winners of the pennant, had a percentage of .635 to Philadelphia's .633. The Giants had won forty games and lost twenty-three, while the Quakers score stood thirty-eight games won and twenty-two lost. Brooklyn, which held sixth place in 1912, was but 76 points behind the second place club, having won thirty-four games and lost twenty-seven. Chicago completed the list of first division teams with a percentage of .515. The second half of the league standing was occupied by Pittsburg, St. Louis, Boston and Cincinnati, with respective percentages of .461, .424, .413 and .379.

In the American league the Philadelphia Athletics were not playing at top speed in 1912 and held second place with the Boston Red Sox showing the way. Chicago was third and Washington fourth. The race was much closer, however, than that in the National organization, for Boston had but 128 points separating the first and fourth teams, the standing being: Boston, won 46, lost 21, percentage .687; Philadelphia, won 38, lost 25, percentage .602; Chicago, won 38, lost 28, percentage .576; Washington, won 38, lost 30, percentage .559. Cleveland, Detroit, New York and St. Louis formed the rear guard in the order named.

Last season the Athletics held a lead of such proportions that the fans were already beginning to concede the pennant to Connie Mack's players. With forty-eight games won and seventeen lost, the Philadelphia club showed a percentage of .738 against Cleveland's .600, for forty-two games won and twenty-eight lost. Chicago was again in third place with thirty-nine victories and thirty-two defeats, giving the White Sox .549. Washington, while not going as strong as in 1912, still managed to hold fourth place, thirteen points behind Chicago and five points ahead of Boston, which in one year had dropped from first to fifth place. Detroit, St. Louis and New York brought up in the rear as they did in 1912.

American Golfers in England.

Foreign comment on the showing made by the American golfers entered in the recent English amateur championship is unusually fair and considerate. Although the pick of the American field was entered and did not survive the fourth round, it is generally conceded abroad that these players took their responsibilities too heavily and were doomed to defeat from the start. One English writer in reviewing the tournament stated:

"When your men can come over and play a round just as though they were out for a country walk, and play, not with any idea of winning, but simply to while away a summer holiday, they will probably win. You handicap them too heavily before they start. Too much publicity is bad for one's nerves. Nobody knew Tubbs, who defeated Francis Ouimet, for example, had even entered the tournament. He won simply because he was an unknown and out for a little golfing holiday, and was therefore playing his normal game. It was quite good golf."

Ages of Heavyweights.

The fact that Jack Johnson had reached the age of 36 years and 58 days when he risked his title against Frank Moran in Paris last Saturday has led to some interesting discussion regarding the ages at which previous heavyweight champions lost their ring laureis. John L. Sullivan was 34 years old when defeated by James J. Corbett at New Orleans in 1892. He held the title for ten years, but Corbett was less fortunate, for he retained the championship but five years, being 31 years old when Bob Fitzsimmons won at Carson City in 1897.

Fitzsimmons' tenure of championship was even less, for at the age of 37 he was knocked out by Jim Jeffries at Coney Island in 1899, after holding the title for two years and three months. Jeffries, who met defeat at the hands of Johnson at Reno July 4, 1910, was 35 years old when the negro wrested the ring honors from him. He held the championship for eleven years.

BALLOONS IN ANNUAL RACE

Elimination Contest to Select Entrants for Bennett Cup.

Eleven Noted Aeronauts Are Entered—Three Will Be Chosen.

St. Louis, Mo., July 11.—The national balloon race which will start from here this afternoon is the annual elimination contest to select entrants for the international race for the Gordon Bennett cup—which will start from Kansas City next October. Each nation that takes part in the international race is entitled to three entrants. One of the American entrants is R. H. Upson, who won the last international race, which was held in Paris. The two balloonists who make the greatest distance—in an air line—in the race starting today will be qualified for the international race of this year.

Following are the balloonists who have entered for the elimination race:

Warren Rason, Brookville, Ohio; balloon "Hoosier."

R. A. D. Preston, Akron, Ohio; balloon "Goodyear."

Arthur T. Atherholt, Philadelphia.

Paul J. McCullough, St. Louis; balloon "Uncle Sam."

William F. Assmann, St. Louis, balloon "Miss Sofia."

John Berry, St. Louis; balloon, "Aero Club of St. Louis."

E. S. Cole, St. Louis.

Jerome Kingsbury, New York.

John Watts, Kansas City.

Roy F. Donaldson, Springfield, Ill.

H. E. Honeywell, St. Louis.

All the balloons entered in the race have a capacity of 80,000 cubic feet. Many of the aeronauts have thrilling records. Capt. Preston was aide to R. H. Upson in the last international race, and their balloon won the contest over seventeen competitors, staying in the air forty-three hours.

Capt. Atherholt has made over 100 balloon flights. His first long flight was in 1907 from St. Louis when with Maj. Henry B. Hersey he took part in the international race and landed in Canada, after crossing the Great Lakes. In the international race that started from Stuttgart, Germany, in 1912, he flew the length of Germany and Russia and landed in the Baltic region near St. Petersburg. On landing he was arrested by the Russian authorities as a German spy.

William F. Assman of St. Louis has been an aeronaut since he was 17 years old. On July 14, 1909, his balloon fell 20,000 feet at night into Lake Nipissing, Canada. Assmann was in the water all night, and was rescued by two Indians. In a balloon he has crossed the Great Lakes three times. Capt. Assmann will have no aide in the flight this afternoon, as his balloon is not in good condition. The balloon "Million Population Club" in which he intended to fly was lost in the recent balloon race that started from Portland, Or.

Capt. John Berry, who flew in the "Million Population Club" in the Portland race, started his aeronautic career in 1852 when he was 14 years old. In July 1912, in the national races from Kansas City, Berry rode a thunder storm for twelve hours. The basket filled with water waist-deep. As aide in the race today, Berry will have Albert Von Hoffman, Jr., who graduated this spring from the St. Louis high schools and is barely 16 years old. They will fly in the "Aero Club of St. Louis"—the same balloon in which Berry traveled in the international race of 1912 when he fell into the Baltic Sea.

E. S. Cole, who was granted a pilot's license in 1911, holds the distance record for a flight of a 40,000 cubic-foot capacity balloon. In such a balloon he flew from Topeka, Kan., to Tangier, Okla., a distance of 375 miles.

YACHT RESOLUTE THE CLASS OF DEFENDERS

Simply Runs Away From Vanitie and Defiance, Beating the Former By Three Miles and Later By Four and a Half.

New York, July 11.—In typical Sandy Hook cup racing conditions, a long greasy roll and faint airs, the Resolute so completely outsailed her rivals yesterday, that she led the Vanitie three miles and the Defiance four and a half miles at the finish of their thirty-mile contest. The Defiance was so far behind that she quit racing as the Vanitie crossed the line, although the committee waited a few minutes for her to reconsider.

The Resolute's margin elapsed time over the Vanitie was 31 minutes, 31 seconds, which her time allowance increased to 33 minutes and 7 seconds in corrected time.

The race was the second of the trials and the first under the direction of the New York Yacht club. The course gave the boats a ten-mile beat to windward and two reaches of the same distance. The breeze was never stronger than four knots and the Resolute, after a bad start, went to the front in the first mile and steadily increased her lead to the finish. The yachts will race again today when it is hoped that strong winds will prevail.

Clay Court Tennis Starts.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 11.—With an entry list that includes many prominent players from throughout the country, the National Clay Court Tennis championship tournament started here today. For the opening or preliminary round, none of the visiting stars were pitted against each other and no surprises were expected. A total of 102 players are entered in the men's singles.

Maronics Win.

The Maronic Juniors beat the Park Points yesterday by the score of 13 to 3.

MATCH PLAY AT NORTHLAND

The summer handicap, eighteen holes qualifying round, the first sixteen to qualify for match play handicap, the finals of which will be played before Aug. 8, is the golfing event that is being played at the Northland links today.

As the date of the state tournament approaches the interest in the contests at the club increases. All of the players of the Northland are getting into the very best of condition and it is expected that the contest of today will bring out some of the best playing of the season to date.

July seems to be vying with June in the matter of weddings. A large number took place during the week and more have been announced for "the latter part of the month," as the brides have an elusive way of putting it. Bridal dinners and showers have kept the brides and their intimate friends busy up to the last minute and it is likely there will be no cessation of such affairs as the July and August brides are as numerous as their predecessors.

The cool weather recently has not made many persons long for the woods —where mosquitoes are said to bite as ravenously as the fish, but the moon and the stiff breezes have done their part to make outdoor life attractive for the devotees of sailing.

An attractive dinner in charge of the tennis division was given at the boat club Thursday evening. The table decorations and menus carried out the tennis idea and made the dinner a worthy successor of the one given two weeks ago by the sailing division.

The regular Saturday dances at the main house of the boat club and at Oatka branch and the Wednesday dances at Oatka and the Country club have attracted the usual numbers.

The Country club was the scene of an attractive dancing party last evening when Miss Marie d'Autremont entertained for her house guest, Miss Lillian Sills of New York. Another pretty party of the week was the one given by Miss Helen Congdon on the Congdon lawn for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chapin, who came recently to make their home in Duluth.

The women's golf contest, consisting of games for eight consecutive Thursdays, began Thursday at the Country club. There were only four contestants on the links but the succeeding weeks may call out greater numbers.

The course of lecture-recitals on Shakespeare by Dr. Edgar C. Abbott of Boston that began last week were continued Monday and Wednesday afternoons of this week at the homes of Mrs. Guilford G. Hartley and Mrs. Milie Funnell.

Very few functions have been announced for next week and most of them are of an informal nature. Mrs. H. F. Salyards of 2311 East Third street will entertain at the Country club at a bridge luncheon Thursday and at luncheon Friday.

Mrs. Alfred Gillon of 19 South Forty-fourth avenue east will entertain the members of the Women's Relief corps at a picnic on her lawn Thursday afternoon. Another outing will be the trip made by members of the Red, White and Blue society to Nopeming Wednesday morning.

An interesting event of the near future will be the entertainment given by the Duluth Wellesley alumnae, assisted by other college women, the proceeds to go toward the fund for the rebuilding of College hall, which was destroyed by fire last spring. The benefit will be given at the Orpheum July 21 and will include moving pictures of Wellesley "tree day," Wellesley songs, special music and dances by "Lada," known to Duluth as Miss Emily Schupp.

The Venetian fete will be held Monday, July 27, and College day Saturday, Aug. 8. These events will interest a large number of persons, but they are too far off for the committees to be able to make any definite announcements regarding them.

DULUTHIAN HONORABLY MENTIONED IN INTERNATIONAL ESSAY CONTEST

MISS HELEN NELSON.

Miss Helen E. Nelson of 1705 Jefferson street received third honorable mention in the Seabury Prize Essay contest. The decisions were announced at the meeting of the American School Peace league held in St. Paul Thursday afternoon. Miss Nelson was graduated from the Duluth normal school last year.

Two sets of prizes, known as the Seabury prizes are offered annually to normal school seniors and to secondary school seniors, all countries being included in the contest. Three prizes, $75, $50 and $25 are awarded for the best essays in each set.

The subject offered to the seniors of normal schools, the class in which Miss Nelson contested, was "The Opportunity and Duty of the Schools in the International Peace Movement." The maximum length of each essay was 5,000 words, though a length of 3,000 was preferred. The manuscripts were sent to Boston, where the headquarters of the American School Peace league are located, the contest closing March 1 of this year. The conditions governing the 1915 contest are the same.

The prizes were awarded as follows:

Normal school set—First prize, Miss Emma Feldbaum, state normal school, Trenton, N. J.; second prize, Miss Ida L. Williamson, state normal school, Trenton, N. J.; third prize, S. J. Skinner, state normal school, Ypsilanti, Mich.

Honorable mention—First, Miss Nellie C. Schrader, state normal school, Brockport, N. Y.; second, Miss Jeanette MacMillan, normal department, Florida Woman's college, Tallahassee, Fla.; third, Miss Helen E. Nelson, state normal school, Duluth, Minn.; fourth, Miss Virginia Brand, state normal school, Springfield, Mo.

Secondary school set—First prize, Miss Helen Monat, Wadleigh high school, New York City; second prize, Miss Elizabeth Sappenfield, high school, Evansville, Ind.; third prize, Max Artur Jordan, K. Eberhard-Ludwigs-Gymnasiums, Stuttgart, Germany.

Honorable mention—First, Joe F. Thomas, high school, Lincoln, Neb.; second, Elcanon Isaacs, Hughes high school, Cincinnati, Ohio; third, Mervyn Crobaugh, high school, San Jose, Cal.; fourth, Oscar Chester, high school, Camp Hill, Ala.

Announcement was also made at the meeting in St. Paul that Mrs. Katrina Trask, author of the peace drama, "In the Vanguard," is the recipient this year of the gold medal of the American School Peace league. The league will award one of its medals annually to the person who has performed during the year the most signal service for the peace movement on the educational side.

Old People Should Keep Their Property.

There are a few things about which I am firmly resolved, should I live to grow old—to see the time when my children's children cluster about my knees. And one of these few things is this. I will keep my property to myself until I am done with it in this world. Then it shall go to my children or theirs, as the case may be.

Whatever I have be it gold or houses, or just a few sticks of furniture and one or two hundred dollars in the bank, shall remain mine until my use and need for it is done. I have observed that it induces more respect and better treatment from one's descendants, let them be one or two or three generations removed.

No longer than seven years ago a woman of middle age was left in fairly comfortable circumstances by her husband. She owned a comfortable, modern, well furnished house and had $2,000 in the bank. She had one daughter who married shortly after the father's death. Daughter and husband were invited to make their home with "mother," the latter's contribution to the support of the family being her house and its contents.

Things progressed pleasantly enough for a year or two. After the first baby was born the proud grandmother deeded her home and furnishings to her daughter remarking that they would all be hers some day anyway. Shortly after this transaction, trouble commenced on a small scale. The idolized grandchild had a serious illness requiring expert medical attendance. The young father hadn't a cent in reserve, so grandma footed the bills for specialists.

About the time baby was three years old, "mother," who couldn't lay claim to a stick that she had formerly called her own, and whose bank account had suffered a decline, commenced to feel a chill in the air of her former home whenever son-in-law was in the house. Finally she became acquainted with the facts in the case as daughter's husband saw it. There was just one too many mouths to feed. Being independent she took herself off. Today she is keeping house for an elderly couple, thereby earning her living.

So my advice is to hold on to everything you have until you bid the world goodby.

"LITTLE MOTHERS" STUDY THE PROPER CARE OF BABIES IN CITY'S CAMPAIGN TO DECREASE INFANT MORTALITY DURING THE SUMMER

Raising babies properly is no simple matter.

That this important subject may get as much attention as possible the city has begun a campaign of education which is being steadily extended upon broader lines. Infant welfare work is conducted throughout the year and is supplemented during the warm summer months by milk stations and additional nurses.

One of the most recent moves in Duluth has been the organization of Little Mothers' clubs, one at the Bryant school and the other at the Irving school. The members are school girls of the upper grades, 13 and 14 years of age. The classes have been under the direction of Miss Ruth J. Beckman, visiting nurse of the health department. She has been instructing them in the first elements of properly rearing infants, teaching them right methods of bathing, feeding, clothing, etc.

In order that they might demonstrate how much they have learned she had the girls write essays on the proper care of babies. The papers show a surprising understanding of the principal essentials, such as the right milk to use, the hours of feeding and sleeping, the care of nipples and milk bottles, and correct method of making up the crib and the kind of clothing. Some of the most interesting essays are given below.

URSULA CODY.

EDITH RUNDBECK.

ESTHER PETERSON.

JULIA SEGUIN.

By Borghild Berrisford, R. F. D. No. 5, Irving school.

The idea of "Mothers' club" is to give the mother the right idea of taking care of her children.

A baby needs a great deal of fresh air. A baby should be kept in the open air as much as possible in the hot weather, also sleep out of doors, but in a place sheltered from the wind and dust. Be careful and put the child in a shaded place and protect the child from flies. When the child is indoors put the crib in one corner of the room and keep windows opened and screened.

A healthy baby must have at least one tub bath a day. The temperature of the water for the bath must be 98 degrees, that of the room 76 degrees. For the baby's bath you must have within reach the following: Castile soap, safety pins, soft towels, diapers, shirt, also pinning blanket if the child is rather small, and a petticoat and slip.

Baby's clothes must be kept clean. Baby's clothes should be made loose, comfortable and simple. Soiled garments should be promptly removed and these should be washed as soon as possible, using soda dissolved in hot water, then boiled and rinsed well and put out to dry.

The natural food for a baby is mother's milk and of this the baby should have six feedings a day, each four hours apart. For one thing do not think the baby is hungry every time it cries. If the baby cannot get mother's milk, cow's milk put through various processes is a good milk for the child. This milk must be kept clean and fresh and in a cool place. About an hour and a half after feeding give the child a drink of boiled water.

Ursula Cody, 14 Years of Age, 102 Vernon Street; Bryant School.

The best milk for baby is mother's milk. The baby should be bathed every day regularly. It should be dressed according to the weather. Baby should never be picked up after eating as it makes them throw up. It also should never be allowed to have a pacifier as it makes them suck up wind and they will get sick. Baby's bed should consist of a hair mattress and a piece of oil cloth or rubber sheeting. Baby should have a feeding every four hours. If it cries do not give it the bottle. Baby's bottle should be scalded before and after each feeding. Also the nipples should be scalded. The material should be soft and clean for baby's clothes.

Edith Rundbeck, 14 Years of Age, 3009 West Helm Street; Bryant School.

A baby should be bathed every day and should be bathed with Castile soap. The temperature of the room should be 76 deg. and the temperature of the bath should be 98 deg. When the baby is to be bathed it should be covered that it cannot catch a cold.

The baby should be fed on mother's milk if possible. After the baby is fed it should not be handled. A baby should be given plenty of water that is boiled.

A baby should always sleep on a hair mattress so that the heavier part of the body will not sink down.

A baby should be dressed according to the weather. In the summer it should wear thin clothes.

When a baby cries do not think it is hungry. Maybe it may be sleepy or thirsty or a pin may be sticking it.

A baby should sleep twelve hours of the day if it is healthy. Most deaths in the summer are caused from not the proper milk and not the teething which so many people think.

Esther Peterson, 106 North Fifty-third Avenue West. Irving School.

The object in our Little Mothers' club is that any time when necessary to help our mothers or friends by taking care of the baby and in doing this we must know that a baby always needs fresh air.

The best food for a baby is mother's milk. It is pure, fresh and sweet. It is perfect and suitable food for an infant. If mother's milk cannot be obtained cow's milk is the best substitute. Cow's milk should be pasteurized or sterilized.

When giving a baby a bath the necessary articles should always be kept near at hand. The most necessary are castile soap, safety pins, unscented talcum powder, towel, wash cloth and the baby's clothes. Wash the eyes first. Be sure to wash all creases well.

Always support the baby's back with the arm and hand. A baby's bed should be a crib or basket. The mattress and pillow should be made of hair. A piece of oil cloth should be placed over the mattress.

The baby's bottles should be kept clean. The nipple should be soaked in water with soda. The water should be boiled and set aside to cool.

For the baby's clothes use soft cloth. Never bind a baby.

Always put a veil on the baby when going out.

In winter the baby should be kept warm. In summer the baby should wear only a diaper and small waist.

Keep flies away from the baby.

A baby cries when in pain. Find out what the pain is.

By Julia Seguin, Irving School. 313 North Fifty-first Avenue West.

Babies should have the best of care. They should be bathed every morning and have clean clothes every morning. All things before and after the bath should be in readiness. All draughts should be prohibited. Temperature of room should be 76 degs. and temperature of bath should be 98 degs.

The baby should always be fed on mother's milk. In case this is not to be obtained the best substitute is good cow's milk. Care should be taken that the cow is healthy and the milking utensils are clean. In case of doubt pasteurize the milk. It is not good to boil the milk because it takes away the taste and results in constipation. Cow's milk contains fat and makes baby sick if given too much. Mother's milk contains sugar. They have modified sugar for cow's milk now.

Nipples and bottles should be boiled every day. Nipples should stand in a cup of cold water ready for next using. Don't use long-tubed nipples because the tube cannot be cleaned as it ought. Use round bottles. Pacifiers should not be used. Baby gets wind on the stomach from them.

Give baby lots of water to drink, but not too near feeding time, because it dilutes milk. Water should be boiled. Do not overfeed the baby. It will result in indigestion. Do not take up baby and toss around just after feeding.

The baby should have a crib or a basket for a bed. Mattress should be hair. After six months a pillow of hair.

Babies should be fed every four hours. They will become accustomed to regular hours and most babies will sleep during the time that elapses between feeding times.

Will have first tooth about sixth month. It will sit up alone without aid at seventh or eighth month. Will creep at ninth or tenth month. Will walk from twelfth to fourteenth month. Will talk about the fifteenth month.

Above all things, do not give baby any soothing syrups. The baby's greatest enemy is soothing syrups.

Let baby have plenty of fresh air and dress it according to the weather.

GIVING CHILDREN CHANCE TO BECOME GOOD CITIZENS

Secretary of Juvenile Protective Association of Chicago, Spending the Summer Here, Tells of Efforts to Remove the Temptations and Dangers From Their Paths.

MRS. GEORGE DEAN.

MRS. GEORGE DEAN of Chicago, who is spending the summer in Duluth, is the secretary of the Juvenile Protective Association of Chicago that had done so much toward improving the conditions of children in that city by removing the temptations and dangers to which they are subjected, and through its influence and efforts to build up more wholesome moral environments.

Mrs. Dean, in telling of her work, said:

"The Illinois juvenile court law that went into effect in 1899, provided for the organization of the court and for the probation system but made no provision for the salaries of probation officers. At the first session of the court a woman offered to raise a fund from which the salaries of probation officers might be paid and another woman offered her services as the first probation officer. This was the beginning of the juvenile court committee.

"It was against the law to detain young children in jails and police stations but no place of detention was provided. Therefore the juvenile court committee maintained a detention home for six years, assisted by appropriations from the city and county. As the results of the efforts of the committee, the city and county erected the Juvenile Court and Detention home, maintained by public funds and governed by officers appointed under the county civil service law. On its own initiative the committee secured a law placing the probation officers upon the county pay roll also under the county civil service law.

Protecting Children.

"After the juvenile court committee had accomplished these ends it was confronted with the demand that it take over and develop the work of the local leagues that had been started in several parts of the city. In 1909 the name was changed from the juvenile court committee to the Juvenile Protective association. As the name indicates its purpose is to remove as far as possible from children and young persons the dangers that carelessness and greed place about them.

"The association with the assistance of local leagues, salaried officers and the courts is working to get at children before they go down by influencing the parents to raise the standards of homes and by exercising its influence upon amusements and neighborhood conditions. To those who have committed misdemeanors and crimes the association extends its help by seeing they receive fair treatment and are subjected to constructive rather than to destructive forces, though it never stands between the offenders and effective punishment.

"Most cordial relations exist between the courts and the Juvenile Protective association, both working together for the betterment of the young of the city.

"At first the association took up the work of the obvious evils, such as improper picture shows and dance halls, slot machines, pool rooms and indecent post cards. Later more subtle problems were worked out.

Censoring of Films.

"Forty-five of sixty 5 and 10-cent picture shows were found to be bad. This led to the bringing to light of a city ordinance providing for the censoring of films, an ordinance that has never been enforced. There is now a board of censorship that passes upon films children will be allowed to see, studying the films from the viewpoint of children. In some cases children stole electric light bulbs to pay for admission to the movies, three bulbs being accepted as the equivalent of 5 cents.

"Among those who made investigations of the dance halls were two officers of the Juvenile Protective association and their husbands. In order to elude suspicion the women arranged their hair in the most extreme styles and wore clothes that could have been classed as 'Bowery cut' if Chicago had a Bowery.

"Saturday and Sunday nights were the busy times for the dance halls. It was estimated that on each of these nights there were 86,000 young dancers. As there were three-minute dances and twenty-minute waits it was evident the selling of liquor was the chief object.

"A city ordinance calls for bars to close at 1 o'clock but any social organization giving a dance can secure a special bar permit by the payment of $6, extending the time to 3 o'clock. No organization is supposed to have more than three of these permits a year, but whenever a saloon owner wishes to give a dance it is an easy matter for a benevolent society to be formed with the saloon keeper as president and the bartender as secretary—something like sitting up with a sick lodge brother. One of the evils of this system came from the tough youths gravitating to these dances after the saloons closed at 1 o'clock.

Slot Machines.

"Slot machines presented another problem. Many of these gambling devices were in school stores, in easy access of children who often sold their school books for money to play them. The gambling machines were destroyed at police headquarters but they showed come-back qualities that would have done credit to a pugilist. When the companies that owned the machines learned through repeated smashings that the law was in earnest they gave up their persistent efforts as too expensive to be profitable.

"Pool rooms offered another problem to the Juvenile Protective association. Many of them were the hangouts of toughs and about half were operated without licenses.

"Investigations made of the conditions in Newsboys' alley showed many of the boys were sleeping under benches between 'business hours.'

"Many demoralizing influences that do not stand out so glaringly were taken up by the association. When there are many cases of the same kind an effort is made, through a special investigation, to ascertain if they are the result of a common cause. Any action to remedy the conditions is based upon the findings of the investigators. For instance, many children were on the streets during the very early morning hours. Investigations showed that 148 bakeries of the North side were giving away their left over bread and cake at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning. As the working members of families needed this time for sleep, the children were sent for the donations. The association laid the matter before the heads of the baking establishments who changed the time of distribution to 6 or 7 o'clock in the morning.

Child Merchants.

"As the child labor law does not affect child merchants, the presence of children on the streets was regulated by an ordinance forbidding girls under 18 years to sell on the street at any time and boys under 14 years between 8 o'clock at night and 5 o'clock in the morning. Of 82 cases investigated of children who were selling on the streets only 5 needed the money. Many parents whose children were street venders were in comfortable circumstances, one family having $6,000 in the bank. To each family in actual need of the earnings of a child the Consumers' league pays what the child would earn, provided the child is kept in school.

"The Juvenile Protective association has found it difficult to regulate conditions on the excursion boats, the playgrounds for thousands of Chicago people. Jurisdiction is a variable quantity on boats, depending upon the distance from shore, etc. So far the steamship companies have been only mildly co-operative.

"It was through the influence of the association the sheriff established a waiting room for women and girls in the criminal court building and put a matron in charge. Investigations of the conditions of girls working in restaurants showed in some cases the waitresses were not allowed to stay in the restaurant during the hours between the clearing up after luncheon and the serving of dinner. A rest room was established for them by the Junior league, composed of young girls of good families who learned of the treatment to which these working women were subjected through the investigation of the association.

Waiting Rooms.

"The association suspected the waiting rooms of the large department stores offered a good field for those who sought the seduction of young women. The managers of the stores thought the association was mistaken, but were willing to let it make observations. It became evident that the surmises had been correct, particularly in the cases of girls out of employment who went to the rest rooms to rest and read the advertisements for help wanted. The stores co-operated by employing additional matrons and contributing financially to the association.

"Another work done by these men and women who have the interest of the young at heart is the keeping of innocent persons out of court and the jails. Cases that have to be taken into court are so well worked up that 85 to 90 per cent get convictions. The protective officers make on an average of 7.5 visits for each case.

"The establishment of a Boys' court in May of this year was one of the most signal victories of the Juvenile Protective association. Seventeen years of age was the arbitrary dividing line between the Juvenile court and the general court. It was evident that a boy just over 17 was in as great need of guidance as one just below it, yet he was subjected to the treatment accorded to hardened criminals and was liable to moral contamination by association with them in jail. The new court remedies this condition by treating the juvenile-adults as older boys who must receive constructive punishment that will make them manly and better citizens and will not harden them and leave the idea that all the world is against them.

"Many juveniles and juvenile-adults have reached their low place in the social ladder because of home conditions, bad company, drink, lack of a trade, uncongenial employment and other causes too numerous to mention.

One Example.

"A typical example of a juvenile adult who was not vicious but who violated the law is that of one who was started out by his mother with $100 to make his way in the world. Unlike the youths of old who started out to seek their fortunes, he did not buy a steed and champion the cause of a languishing damsel. This modern adventurer could not buy an automobile, but, being mechanically inclined, he set up a small shop and spent all the money he could spare upon parts of an automobile. He could not find out how one part should be fitted in so he "borrowed" a machine that had been left in front of a building. When found he was under the car in his shop studying the adjustment of the puzzling part. Upon the walls of the shop were drawings of several of his inventions.

"As usual the Juvenile Protective association went to the root of things and made inquiries about his early life. His mother said he had always bothered her to death by taking the clocks to pieces. She told the investigators she had curbed his mechanical inclinations because she thought his character would be benefited if he were denied what he wanted. But she did not stop there. She added that she had heard of a boy who was improved by having an operation performed upon his head and asked if such a thing could not be done to her son. Fortunately the court was wiser than the other and instead of subjecting the young prisoner to trepanning it sent him to a reform school where he could have it impressed upon him that indiscriminate 'borrowing' is unlawful and at the same time could develop his unusual natural cleverness in mechanics. Out of 1,200 boys who came before the boys' court, psychopathic examinations were made of 245 in the course of six weeks; of this number 207 were mentally deficient. This was considered a strong proof that punishment is not to be administered according to the offense, but according to the mental development of the offender.

"The juvenile protective work originated in Chicago and has been taken up in several cities. In its nature it is adaptable to the conditions in any community, be it either a large city or a small town. It is the natural outgrowth of the knowledge that comes through the operation of the juvenile court law, that so well establishes the fact that a large proportion of the delinquency of young persons is the result of vicious and unlawful neighborhood influences.

"The Juvenile Protective association has a force of volunteers and twenty paid officers and an annual budget of about $30,000. Last year it handled 6,532 cases. It was organized by Miss Julia C. Lathrop, who is chief of the Children's Federal bureau, and includes on its board of directors the well-

SHALL "MOVIES" CROWD OUT DRAMA?

Miss Frankenfield Urges Legitimate Theatrical Managers to Provide Substitute for the Film-Made Play.

Miss Laura Frankenfield of this city, who is well-known in dramatic circles both here and in other cities, has written for The Herald an article on the growth and future of moving picture shows:

"Shall we allow the movies to crowd out the drama?" is the theme of Miss Frankenfield's article, which is as follows:

"The world always has had and always will have its playtime and its playthings. The drama in one form or another has existed for hundreds of years and has done its part, and that a large one, towards filling this need of the human race. From its birth up to almost the present time it has steadily increased in artistic value and so also has its encouragement and financial patronage, until hundreds of thoroughly trained, cultured and talented men and women have devoted their youth and the best years of their life to its study, fitting themselves, according to their different talents and opportunities, to fill the different places in what has become a permanent and respected profession.

Before "Movies" Came In.

"Such was the condition of the theatrical world before the 'movies' came into being. That was only a few years ago, and what is the present condition? Hundreds, yes, thousands, of able, experienced actors are walking the streets of our theatrical centers looking unsuccessfully for work and our legitimate playhouses are left without adequate support, bravely waging a losing fight, while the moving picture acting companies are made up entirely of types, persons who draw large salaries because they look their parts before the camera, and who very often have neither training nor experience in the art of acting. Moving picture theaters are playing to the financial success denied to the legitimate playhouse.

"Will this condition be permanent? How about the inevitable law of the survival of the fittest? True drama is a reflection of life; pictures merely burlesque it. Only the crudest and most superficial emotions and phases of life are expressed in the pictures. To be successful it is not at all necessary for a moving picture to be artistic. Real deep emotion is next to impossible in pictures, because the conditions under which they are produced prevent it. An artist must have atmosphere, inspiration and the response of an audience to bring out the best that is in him. Art is a mighty hard taskmistress and will accept only the best. When moving picture directors provide audiences, orchestras and atmosphere, their pictures may, provided even then it were a possible thing for the actor to forget the camera, attain real feeling. How can an actor expect to make audiences feel an emotion that he himself does not experience in a small degree at least? This may explain why audiences at the 'movies' invariably sit in unmoved and stolid silence.

Moving Pictures Obvious.

"Present-day pictures not only do not arouse emotion but they do very little towards inducing thought. Once in a while a picture is produced that may appeal to men and women of intellect, but to the thinking mind most of them are of very little interest. They are obvious; one knows just how they will end. It is unnecessary from the very first to turn to the last chapter. Unfortunately for the legitimate drama there is a very large class of people who think they think, and thus, at present, the 'movies' have by far a greater number of patrons than any other form of entertainment.

MISS LAURA FRANKENFIELD.

"There will always be grades of entertainment suited to the different grades of public intelligence. The pictures are at the bottom of the scale. If the thinking men and women care to make a fight for the legitimate drama they must provide a substitute for the 'movies' at competing prices. I do not think this can be done with the present system of traveling companies with their great expense of railroad fares and baggage transportation. Why not go back to the ways of the old days that gave us the great artists, the days that gave us a David Belasco, a John McCullough, a Dion Boucicault, a Louis James, an Edwin Booth and a Lawrence Barrett, the days of stationary stock companies and traveling stars, when any city of any size had its own resident company of earnest, sincere artists to support the stars who came in endless succession to play the parts in which the world has accorded them greatness?

Job for Legitimate Managers.

"I think if the legitimate managers throughout the country would devote their time, money and brains to working out this plan they would leave the picture theaters with only the number of tenants their merits deserve and many of the studios would be to let."

known social workers, Miss Jane Addams, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen and Dean Walter Sumner."

WITH THE GRAND OPERA AND CONCERT STARS

LEO SLEZAK, the giant Czech tenor, who will again concertize in America this coming fall and winter, is now at his country home in Austria, a beautiful estate located near Vienna. During his summer play-spell Slezak is experimenting with a new moving picture camera, and according to his letters to his managers, he is becoming quite expert at making "movies."

* * *

Paul Althouse, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, is passing the summer in Milan, Italy, with his bride, who was Miss Elizabeth Breen of St. Paul. Although recognized as one of the best tenors in the opera and concert field this is his initial trip abroad.

* * *

Dr. Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, is at his summer home on Lake Champlain arranging the programs for the four tours his orchestra will make during the coming season.

* * *

Christine Miller, contralto, who is making her annual European tour is announced for a series of song recitals in Berlin, Germany.

* * *

Mme. Gerville Reache, writes her managers that fishing is unusually good in the wilds of Northern Canada. The grand opera contralto is accompanied by her husband, Dr. George Gibier Rambaud, and their summer camp is located up near the headwaters of the Ottawa river. The nearest approach to civilization is a Hudson bay trading post some thirty miles from camp. Although a high power motor boat is part of the camping outfit Mme. Reache states that she made the trip to the trading post to mail her letter alone in a canoe but that she expected her husband and the motor boat to take her and her canoe back to camp.

Felix Weingartner announces that Carl Flesch, the Hungarian violinist, will have charge of the violin class of the Darmstadt conservatory. Herr Flesch will return to America for a short concert tour during the months of January and February, 1915.

* * *

Grand opera in English may or may not be a success in the United States but according to the Berlin critics the song recital given in the German metropolis by George Hamlin, the American tenor, was both an artistic and financial success. Every number on the program was in English and many of the songs were by noted American composers.

* * *

The itinerary of David and Clara Mannes, sonata recitalists, for the coming season covers the important cities of twenty-eight states and includes also five Canadian cities.

* * *

Mme. Matzenauer, premier contralto of the Metropolitan, may concertize in Australia with Mme. Melba in the summer of 1915.

GETS $6,000 INCOME JUST FOR PRAYERS

Christian Scientist Must Stop, Though, Says New York Court.

New York, July 11.—Commercialized use of Christian Science teaching is held by the appellate division of the supreme court to be illegal. The conviction in a lower court of Willis Vernon Cole for practicing medicine without a license when he accepted fees for Christian Science treatment, was sustained.

The higher court, in its opinion, answered in the negative its premise: "Is the commercialized use of prayer for the avowed purpose of treating all persons seeking cure for all kinds of bodily ills the practice of the religious tenets of a church?"

Cole, formerly a sculptor and a poet, testified at his trial that his practice brought him an annual income of $6,000; that he had never studied medicine and that he never solicited fees, but accepted those offered him.

Clifford P. Smith of the committee on publication of the Christian Science church issued a statement later declaring that the practice of Christian Science differed from the practice of medicine, and that it could not "be made the same by law."

It was announced that in all probability the case will be appealed. The appeals probably will be based upon a dissenting opinion rendered by Justice Dowling, saying that if Cole indulged in silent prayer with his patients there was nothing unlawful in the act, as by so doing Cole might honestly believe he was "assisting the cure of the alleged maladies by placing his patients in the proper spiritual attitude" toward their Maker.

MADERO FAMILY HAVING REUNION

Nearly 150 Members Are Gathered at Asbury Park, N. J.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 11.—Forty-two members of the Madero family, including Mrs. Gustave Madero, widow of the man who was killed shortly before his brother, President Francisco Madero of Mexico, in Mexico City, have arrived here from Monterey, Mexico. They came on a special train from Philadelphia and were met at the station by 100 members of the family who have been here for some time.

"This is the happiest day of my life," said the family's aged head, Francisco Madero, father of the late Mexican executive. "Some of my sons and daughters are with me once more, and my boys now fighting in Mexico have made most honorable names for themselves."

WOMAN MAY SOLVE PRISON OUTBREAKS

New York, July 11.—Eight men wearing the striped suits of prisoners, sat in council around a table in the warden's office in Blackwell's island late yesterday and told New York's woman commissioner of corrections, Dr. Katherine B. Davis, the grievances of themselves and their fellows. There have been four outbreaks within a week among many of the 1,400 inmates of Blackwell's, and Commissioner Davis set out to acquire first-hand information as to their cause. The latest mutiny took place yesterday morning, men attacking the warden and their guards with iron buckets. Several prisoners were hurt.

Asserting that order must be maintained even if it was necessary to summon state militia, Dr. Davis entered the prison, called out to the men in their cells to select a committee to represent them, and later met the committee in the warden's office after barring out all prison attaches.

When this unusual conference concluded, Dr. Davis said she was not satisfied that the men had just cause for complaint, but promised to do all in her power to help the prisoners.

Several members of the committee also complained of lack of food. Dr. Davis later visited the men in solitary confinement and promised them an increased allowance of food.

REAL ESTATE MEN DANCE ON PAVEMENT.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—Dancing on a public street brought to a close last night the third day of the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges of America. Grant boulevard, one of the busiest thoroughfares in the Oakland section, was cleaned and roped off by the city because the heat made dancing in the hotel ballrooms almost unbearable. More than 2,000 persons took part in contests on the unique dancing floor.

The business session was featured by an address on "Subdivision Developments" by W. E. Harmon of New York, who gave the delegates much advice on that part of the realty business. B. G. Koebbe of St. Louis spoke on the "Real Estate Salesman." The delegates spent the afternoon on a steamboat excursion down the Ohio river.

Three delegates, B. V. Surghnor of Chicago, E. A. Loveley of Detroit and C. D. Heppard of Winnipeg were painfully but not seriously hurt when an automobile in which they were riding went over an embankment in trying to avoid striking a bicycle.

NINETY PER CENT OF PEOPLE TUBERCULAR

Scientist Adds That Poverty, Bad Housing and Drink Help Disease.

London, July 11.—Nearly all human beings harbor tubercular germs, Sir William Osler, formerly of Johns Hopkins university, now regius professor of medicine at Oxford, told his audience at the conference of the Association for the Prevention of Consumption.

"Let me give you a shock," the speaker said, by way of warning. "Tuberculosis may be put into three groups. All of us who are here come in the first. If I had an instrument here with which I could look into the chest or the abdomen of each of you, the probability is that in 90 per cent of you would be found somewhere a small area of tuberculosis. So widespread is the bacillus that practically all humans, by the time they become adults, harbor the germ of the disease.

Why We Don't Die.

"Why don't we die? Because we are not guinea pigs or rabbits. We have obtained a certain immunity. But the germ is in us, although negative, and with all of us there is the possibility of slipping into the two other groups.

"The second group comprises those in whom the disease is active enough to produce symptoms, but in whom there is the possibility of arrest or cure with restoration to working health. Those in the third group are doomed. The disease progresses week by week, month by month, year by year, and from one year to five sees the end.

"When workers have living wages, when the house becomes the home, when the nation spends on food what it now spend on drink, then, instead of hundreds of thousands, there will be millions in the first group, with practically continued immunity. The enemy has been tracked to its very stronghold, which is defended by the three allies—poverty, bad housing and drink."

GETS $6,000 INCOME JUST FOR PRAYERS

Christian Scientist Must Stop, Though, Says New York Court.

New York, July 11.—Commercialized use of Christian Science teaching is held by the appellate division of the supreme court to be illegal. The conviction in a lower court of Willis Vernon Cole for practicing medicine without a license when he accepted fees for Christian Science treatment, was sustained.

The higher court, in its opinion, answered in the negative its premise: "That the unmerited use of prayer for the avowed purpose of treating all persons seeking cure for all kinds of bodily ills the practice of the religious tenets of a church?"

Cole, formerly a sculptor and a poet, testified at his trial that his practice brought him an annual income of $6,000; that he had never studied medicine and that he never solicited fees, but accepted those offered him.

Clifford P. Smith of the committee on publication of the Christian Science church issued a statement later declaring that the practice of Christian Science differed from the practice of medicine, and that it could not "be made the same by law."

It was announced that in all probability the case will be appealed. The appeals probably will be based upon a dissenting opinion rendered by Justice Dowling, saying that if Cole indulged in silent prayer with his patients there was nothing unlawful in the act, as by so doing Cole might honestly believe he was "assisting the cure of the alleged maladies by placing his patients in the proper spiritual attitude" toward their Maker.

MADERO FAMILY HAVING REUNION

Nearly 150 Members Are Gathered at Asbury Park, N. J.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 11.—Forty-two members of the Madero family, including Mrs. Gustave Madero, widow of the man who was killed shortly before his brother, President Francisco Madero of Mexico, in Mexico City, have arrived here from Monterey, Mexico. They came on a special train from Philadelphia and were met at the station by 100 members of the family who have been here for some time.

"This is the happiest day of my life," said the family's aged head, Francisco Madero, father of the late Mexican executive. "Some of my sons and daughters are with me once more, and my boys now fighting in Mexico have made most honorable names for themselves."

WOMAN MAY SOLVE PRISON OUTBREAKS

New York, July 11.—Eight men wearing the striped suits of prisoners, sat in council around a table in the warden's office in Blackwell's island late yesterday and told New York's woman commissioner of corrections, Dr. Katherine B. Davis, the grievances of themselves and their fellows. There have been four outbreaks within a week among many of the 1,400 inmates of Blackwell's, and Commissioner Davis set out to acquire first-hand information as to their cause. The latest mutiny took place yesterday morning, men attacking the warden and their guards with iron buckets. Several prisoners were hurt.

Asserting that order must be maintained even if it was necessary to summon state militia, Dr. Davis entered the prison, called out to the men in cells to select a committee to represent them, and later met the committee in the warden's office after barring out all prison attaches.

When this unusual conference concluded, Dr. Davis said she was not satisfied that the men had just cause for complaint, but promised to do all in her power to help the prisoners.

Several members of the committee also complained of lack of food. Dr. Davis later visited the men in solitary confinement and promised them an increased allowance of food.

REAL ESTATE MEN DANCE ON PAVEMENT.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—Dancing on a public street brought to a close last night the third day of the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges of America. Grant boulevard, one of the busiest thoroughfares in the Oakland section, was cleaned and roped off by the city because the heat made dancing in the hotel ballrooms almost unbearable. More than 2,000 persons took part in contests on the unique dancing floor.

The business session was featured by an address on "Subdivision Developments" by W. E. Harmon of New York, who gave the delegates much advice on that part of the realty business. B. G. Koebbs of St. Louis spoke on the "Real Estate Salesman." The delegates spent the afternoon on a steamboat excursion down the Ohio river.

Three delegates, B. V. Surghnor of Chicago, E. A. Loveley of Detroit and C. D. Heppard of Winnipeg were painfully but not seriously hurt when an automobile in which they were riding went over an embankment in trying to avoid striking a bicycle.

NINETY PER CENT OF PEOPLE TUBERCULAR

Scientist Adds That Poverty, Bad Housing and Drink Help Disease.

London, July 11.—Nearly all human beings harbor tubercular germs, Sir William Osler, formerly of Johns Hopkins university, now regius professor of medicine at Oxford, told his audience at the conference of the Association for the Prevention of Consumption.

"Let me give you a shock," the speaker said, by way of warning. "Tuberculosis may be put into three groups. All of us who are here come in the first. If I had an instrument here with which I could look into the chest or the abdomen of each of you, the probability is that in 90 per cent of you would be found somewhere a small area of tuberculosis. So widespread is the bacillus that practically all humans, by the time they become adults, harbor the germ of the disease.

Why We Don't Die.

"Why don't we die? Because we are not guinea pigs or rabbits. We have obtained a certain immunity. But the germ is in us, although negative, and with all of us there is the possibility of slipping into the two other groups.

"The second group comprises those in whom the disease is active enough to produce symptoms, but in whom there is the possibility of arrest or cure with restoration to working health. Those in the third group are doomed. The disease progresses week by week, month by month, year by year, and from one year to five sees the end.

"When workers have living wages, when the house becomes the home, when the nation spends on food what it now spend on drink, then, instead of hundreds of thousands, there will be millions in the first group, with practically continued immunity. The enemy has been tracked to its very stronghold, which is defended by the three allies—poverty, bad housing and drink."

STAGELAND

Lyceum

The Baldwin Players will close their eighth week of continued success with their last performance of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" at the Lyceum tonight.

Commencing tomorrow matinee and continuing all week, with matinees Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday, the Baldwin Players will present another big hit, the comedy of love, risk, romance and thrills, James Montgomery's play "for every woman who is married—and all others who expect to be." It is a comedy of love and romance as women are thinking about it today. The queen of England saw the play twice and said: "The nicest love story I have ever seen on the stage."

"Ready Money" tells of the trials and perplexities of Stephen Baird, a young mine owner, who, on New Year's eve, finds himself possessed of just 25 cents in ready cash. Two days later he has a large payment to make to free his mine from a mortgage. His ability to raise the money by the sale of stock in his mine and the lack of money in his pocket prompt him to absent himself from the New Year's festivities that his friends are celebrating. Against the strong opposition of a haughty and worldly mother, his sweetheart, Grace Tyler, proves by her loyalty what the love of a good woman means to a man.

Among the seventeen roles in the play is a counterfeiter, Jackson Ives, a polished man of the world and an international character, and a secret service agent who makes things lively for Stephen because of his supposed business connection with Ives.

How Stephen overcomes the prejudices of the mother and wins his sweetheart—how the mine is saved and turns out to be rich in gold—is all told in the most exciting and amusing manner possible.

Manager Baldwin promises a performance and production equal to the original and indications are that this will prove another record-breaking success for their popular company of players.

For the week commencing Sunday matinee, July 19, Manager Baldwin will present the great book play, "St. Elmo," a dramatization of the popular and world renowned novel by Augusta Evans Wilson.

DANCING SCENE FROM "HURDY GURDY" At the Empress Today and Sunday.

SCENE FROM "READY MONEY," AT THE LYCEUM ALL NEXT WEEK.

AT EMPRESS

The Arthur Clamage Players will close their engagement at the Empress theater with the two performances tonight and the three tomorrow. "Hurdy Gurdy" is their last production and is entertaining with its many laughs, catchy songs and clever dances. Arthur Clamage, the "O. K. for Heaven's Sake" comedian, is doing his big share in the way of making the play-goers laugh. The scenes between Don Clark, Arthur Clamage and Al Zimmerman are very funny. Their lines are full of comedy that is bright while the various songs the trio appear in are more on the parody line, getting smiles by the number.

Miss Grace Fields appears to splendid advantage in a few new songs, her sweet soprano voice reaching the high notes with ease. Trixie Ayers, the dashing soubrette, has some rag selections which are very popular. Jess Weis does a new set of dancing steps.

The chorus is hard-working and has costume changes for each musical hit. The girls are dressed in the latest theatrical costumes and that is a varied coloring scene.

Arthur Clamage and his associate players give way to the specially engaged company of thirty-two artists, who will open a limited engagement with the charming musical comedy, "The Winning Miss."

• • •

Manager Abrahamson of the Empress theater has just gathered together a company of musical comedy stars and the prettiest of the chorus girls. Manager Abrahamson has succeeded far above his expectations, as he has collected together, through the aid of Boyle Woolfolk, Chicago's big producer, an organization of thirty-two people, consisting of Guy Voyer, Sam Mylee, Al Laughlin, Raye and Brandon, Grace Mainlove, Mabel Lecouver and others with a chorus of twenty.

This organization will put on such well known successes as "The Winning Miss," "Bright Eyes," "A Hot Old Time," "Lovers and Lunatics," "The Three Twins" and others.

The opening bill will be the Garden theater, now the American Music hall success, "The Winning Miss," a spectacular musical comedy, starting with Monday's matinee and continuing for the first half of the week. In "The Winning Miss" the author's wide range of sparkling comedy entertainment is shown to great advantage. He offers no less than fifteen big musical numbers and an exciting plot that is worked out cleverly in every particular. The plot involves, love, comedy situations, sport and mistaken identity.

"The Winning Miss" comes with the prestige of a long run at the American Music hall in Chicago where it was first presented with that funny comedian, Fred Mace, who is now one of the best screen artists in the United States.

The big company's second bill will be "Bright Eyes," which will open Thursday matinee, July 16, for an engagement of three days.

AT THE REX

"Snow Drift" is the appropriate title to a stirring Northwest drama to show at the Rex Sunday. Fred Sterling in "The Crash" or "The Trouble of a Motorcycle Artist," is "guaranteed to produce ninety laugh wrinkles to the square inch," and "Those College Days" will complete the job.

Love making was forbidden between the co-eds; the janitor tattled, and back and forth went the tattling and lovemaking. The girls go for a plunge. While the teacher, set to watch them, sleeps, the boys join in the water frolic. Mr. "Honest" Janitor steals the clothes, the rest of the story is a jolly-girl-and-boy time. The old professors found that "lovering" could not be wiped out like measles.

It remained for D. W. Griffith to reach the topmost notch in the production of a heart-throb drama, for "Home, Sweet Home" bears off the prize. Twenty-five stars, endless expense, months of toil—were all counted as naught by this master producer in building and completing his ideal of the perfect photo drama. The labor has been a labor of love, each of the star actors has worked heart and soul with Producer Griffith to make "Home Sweet Home" a world-known play. How well they have succeeded may be guessed by the fact that it is the first drama to play a return engagement on Broadway, first at the Cort and then at the Strand. Thousands were turned away at the second engagement. The whole story is just a series of slices from life's tears and smiles—and one of the slices that will live for many a day is winsome "Apple Pie Mary" in her calico gown. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Duluth people will have an opportunity to see if they agree with New York's Cort and million-dollar Strand patrons.

"The Only Son" is the latest release of the well-known Jesse L. Lasky company, promised to be in keeping with past releases of this famous company. Nearly all the photo drama companies, like those of the talking stage, have failures, but the Lasky people are carefully guarding their reputation. "The Only Son" deals with Thomas Brainerd, Sr., who strikes gold, goes to New York, where he becomes a financial power. He neglects his wife and devotes every minute of his time to his growing industries. As a result, wife and children go astray, but the story ends in an unconventional happy manner. This film will be at the Rex Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Echo

The patrons of the Echo theater are more than pleased with the new producer, Charles LeRoy, who has made his reputation in the East.

For the first half of the week he presented one of his pretty little musical numbers entitled, "I Should Worry," and he scored heavily with it. For the last half of the week Manager Mistachkin has added to his stock company George L. McCullon, who appears in Mr. Le Roy's new production as Grandpa. Mr. McCullon has a wide circle of friends in this city, having appeared in the leading theaters. The last time he played in this city was with "The Traffic" at the Lyceum. He will spend the rest of the summer season at the Echo. The company now consists of seven principals, Mr. Le Roy, Leo Hoyt, Scott Tidball, George McCullon, Miss Florence Beaty, Miss Blanche Carr, and the prima donna, Marie Russell. The seven principals are assisted by a chorus, one of them Miss Tootsie Bruky, leading a pretty little song number.

The management of the Echo is very well pleased with the business done.

This week's bill, entitled, "The Million Dollar Doll," is meeting with big success. Thursday night 450 women attended the two performances.

For Monday, Mr. Mistachkin has arranged with his producer, Mr. Le Roy, to present the pretty little musical number that played the Columbia theater, Chicago, only a short time ago, entitled, "Who's Baby Are You?"

AT THE SUNBEAM

A number of good features are in store for the patrons of the Sunbeam theater for tomorrow and Monday. The feature for tomorrow's show is a sensational drama entitled, "The Leopard's Foundling," in which the well-trained animals of the Selig company play an important part. The play is written by Kathlyn M. Williams who has been the author of some of the leading photoplay pictures that have appeared at the Sunbeam and this one should be no departure from her former stories. People who love Bunny with his funny smile will have the opportunity of witnessing him in a funny picture tomorrow the title of which is "Bunny Has a Dream." Indications are from the story's name, that a good volume of laughter is awaiting those who se this play. The Pathe Weekly and the Pathe Daily News which is a new innovation in the moving picture business, will be shown Monday.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Selwyn & Co., whose announcements have already indicated that they will be among the most active producers of new plays in the country next season, added another to their list of offerings when they signed contracts for the production of Bayard Veiller and Irvin Cobb's dramatization of "Back Home," made from Mr. Cobb's famous series of stories which appeared originally in a popular magazine and which were subsequently published in book form and have continued to enjoy a large popularity. The production will be made in New York early in the fall, and Selwyn & Co. have engaged Maclyn Arbuckle, who is to be featured in the role of Judge Priest, the genial Southerner, whose rich humor and warm humanity help to give appeal and color to Mr. Cobb's interesting narrative. Mr. Arbuckle will be remembered by playgoers for his performances in "The County Chairman" and "The Round-Up." The collaboration of Mr. Cobb and Mr. Veiller, best known for his play, "Within the Law," has resulted in what promises to be a tense and moving drama of a sweet and wholesome type.

• • •

The prima donna of the company that is to support De Wolf Hopper in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas next season is Idelle Patterson, an American singer whose vocal cultivation was perfected in this country. The remainder of the Gilbert & Sullivan organization, nearly identical with that of last season, follow: Gladys Caldwell, Jayne Herbert, Arthur Cunningham, Herbert Watrous, John Willard and Herbert Cripps.

• • •

Alice Brady is filling an engagement this summer in the stock company at Dayton, Ohio. She will have the principal feminine role in the opening play of the season at William A. Brady's playhouse, New York.

• • •

Philip Bartholomae will send his successful musical comedy, "When Dreams Come True," with Joseph Santley again in the stellar role, on tour the last week in August, the show being routed to the Pacific coast and back to New York.

• • •

The Academic Producing company will next season stand sponsor for "Martha By the Day," a new character comedy adapted from the story of Julie Lipman. May Robson will have the title role. Julia Herne and Lois Frances Clark will also be members of the cast.

• • •

"The Girl From Utah," with Julia Sanderson, Donald Brian and Joe Cawthorn, will open at the Knickerbocker Sept. 1.

Hartley Manners, author of "Peg o' My Heart," is busy upon a new play, which he has entitled "Wreckage."

• • •

Louis Mann claims to have a new play for next season. He says it is from the pen of his wife, Clara Lipmann.

• • •

Rev. Thomas Dixon says he will send out his play, "The Sins of the Father," again next season. He also says that it will be his only theatrical venture.

• • •

At present it looks as if Henry W. Savage would only have three shows at the opening of the new theatrical year. They are "Sari," with two companies; "Along Came Ruth," and "Everywoman."

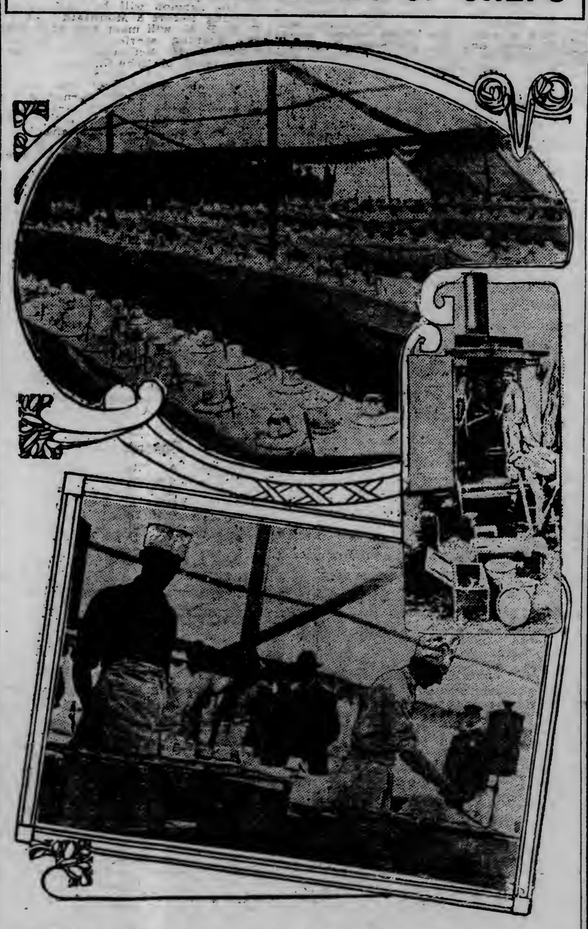

• • •

Charles Frohman has secured the American rights to "Driven," a London Haymarket production, while Klaw & Erlanger have procured the rights to another English production entitled "My Lady's Dress."

• • •

Arthur Hammerstein has secured the services of Mazie Gay to replace Stella Mayhew in "High Jinks," when this play takes to the road in the fall.

RINGLINGVILLE HOTEL HAS AN ARMY OF CHEFS

DINING TENT, STEAM BOILER WAGON AND KITCHEN OF RINGLING BROTHERS' CIRCUS.
The moving municipality of Ringlingville covers an area of twenty acres. Its population, according to the last monthly census, consists of 1,371 people, 735 horses, 41 elephants, 32 camels, 10 zebras, 5 giraffes and 1,003 wild animals.
To move their tented enterprise over the country Ringling Bros. employ a total of eighty-nine double-length railroad cars. These are divided into five, six or more trains depending upon the grades to be overcome by the motive power. One section of twenty cars is used to haul the parade equipment. Another carries the portable stage, costumes, special scenery and electrical apparatus used in this season's 1,250-character spectacle of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba. Attached to this train are the sleepers on which travel the hundreds of dancing girls who appear in this mammoth production.
Ringling Bros.' circus represents an investment of $4,000,000, and the daily expense is approximated at $8,000. Large as the initial sum may seem, it is easily understood when giraffes are computed at $12,000 apiece, elephants at from $5,000 to $10,000, according to their ability to perform, and trained horses at an average of $1,000 each. The feeding of the menagerie and the people of this great circus is an item of expense which only thousands of dollars and perfect system can accomplish. The gigantic canvas hotel occupied by the circus people includes the largest kitchen in the world. A force of ninety chefs, cooks and waiters serve over 4,000 meals a day. The cooking is done on a range weighing more than a half-dozen touring cars, and in caldrons and pots of gigantic proportion, heated by steam. Since the majority of this season's performers come from foreign lands, interpreters are carried and the chefs see that special native dishes are prepared for their benefit. All told there are twenty-three tents in Ringlingville, and within its confines are spoken no less than nineteen languages and dialects. It is a city of many tongues and endless wonders. Ringling Bros. will exhibit here Thursday, July 23.

THE RECALL OF APPOINTVE OFFICERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am surprised that you should oppose the pending constitutional amendment providing for the recall. The Herald always has advocated the initiative, the referendum and the recall, and now that it has a chance to help get them, it is opposing the recall, though supporting the initiative and referendum. Are you aware that the National Short Ballot Organization, of which your President Wilson is president, favors the recall of appointive officers, to which you object?

A PROGRESSIVE.

By a curious coincidence, this criticism comes in the same mail with a letter from the executive secretary of the National Short Ballot Organization, Mr. H. S. Gilbertson, replying to an inquiry by this newspaper as to the organization's views of this innovation of the recall of appointive officers.

The Short Ballot Organization, while urging the short ballot—that is, fewer elective officers and definitely centralized responsibility—takes no stand whatever on the initiative, the referendum or the recall.

However, as will be seen from this letter, the recall of appointive officers is so utterly out of harmony with modern theories of good government that Mr. Gilbertson does not hesitate to agree with The Herald's view, and to brand the Minnesota proposal as absurd and reactionary. Says the executive secretary of the organization:

> It is not within the province of this organization to take any stand in regard to the recall. Personally, however, I am certain that all of the active men in this work concur most heartily in your view of the recall of appointive officers.
> THE IDEA IS PERFECTLY ABSURD, as it DESTROYS THE RESPONSIBILITY of the appointing power.
> It is true that the best of officers may make bad appointments at times, but after all that is up to them. If they do not make good THEY SHOULD SUFFER THE PENALTY.
>
> One of the things which is absolutely essential to the proper working of the short ballot is the principle of FIXED RESPONSIBILITY. It is quite possible to work out a system under which there will be very few names on the ballot but which will work very badly in practice. Off-hand I cannot think of anything which quite so well fits this description as the recall of appointive officers.
>
> Very truly yours,
> H. S. GILBERTSON,
> Executive Secretary.

It is a pity that the legislature should have gone through the motions of submitting a recall amendment, and then produced a monstrosity so impossible, so absurd, so retrogressive as the pending proposal of the recall of appointive officers.

The amendment should be defeated, and the next legislature required to submit a reasonable and logical and progressive recall provision.

Now that the N. E. A. is through with its meeting, how many schools in the country will make any changes as a result of the discussions held there?

"EAT LESS AND LIVE LONGER."

Talking to a gathering of physicians the other day Dr. Edward Beecher Hooker of Hartford gave some wise advice which he summed up in this sentence: "Eat less and live longer."

He called attention anew to the old contention that many persons of advancing years eat too heavily, overtax their digestive powers and bring about disturbances of the system weakened by years which result in shortening life, or rather in bringing collapse and death before the allotted time.

It's so old that it's tiresome, most tiresome to those who need it most; but it is true and good advice.

Consider the body as an engine, requiring a definite amount of fuel to keep it at its maximum efficiency. Though it varies with individuals, and with the individual according to whether he does much or little physical work, that quantity is definite for each individual and for each phase of the individual's existence.

More than is needed clogs the system, overtaxes the digestive and eliminatory processes, runs to fat which reduces efficiency, and puts a handicap upon the physical and mental faculties.

Less than enough is starvation, but there is far less danger in that than in too much. Indeed, those who have experimented have been amazed to find out how much they can cut down their food and not only not suffer harm, but actually find benefit by it.

The appetite would be a fairly safe guide if it wasn't for ways we have of teasing the appetite. A man who has had a full meal, all he wants and all he needs, will tempt his appetite with a dessert, and crowd a rich and indigestible surplus into himself. Another man will spur his appetite before a meal with a cocktail, and thus set up a fictitious appetite that leads to overloading.

Many have found virtue in "Fletcherism," and think it is due to excessive mastication. In reality, we have no doubt, the real good comes in the fact that those who "fletcherize" eat less than they do when they bolt their food.

Dr. Hooker's advice was intended chiefly for the mature or elderly, but they need it most only because their recuperative and resistive powers are less. Many a healthy young person who prides himself on the fact that he can eat anything at any time is sowing the seeds of disease and death without feeling it in the slightest degree.

Not even the high cost of living has been effective in reducing the diet. That "most people eat too much" is a platitude, but it is true. Those who have tried sharply reducing their daily intake of food have benefited by it physically and mentally. If they eat less than is good for them—though there is little danger of that—they will soon find it out, and can increase the quantity. But if they eat too much they do not find it out until years after, often when it is too late.

It is generally understood that George Fred Williams spoke for himself.

IT JUST HAPPENS.

Once again the question whether women or men actually take the initiative in arranging matrimonial contracts is being discussed.

It is a good enough subject for discussion in the dog days, when politics is or ought to be taboo; and the discussion will get about as far as previous discussions of the kind, which is nowhere.

A contributor to the Baltimore Sun has been making a canvass of his friends, and as a result he declares that in a majority of cases it is the women who, if they do not propose, actually engineer the engagements.

His statistics are as follows:

> The men proposed.....24
> The women proposed.....33
> No proposals at all.....29

To which the investigator, going behind the returns, adds:

> Of the twenty-four who said they had proposed themselves, five were habitual boasters, and therefore it is reasonable to suspect that they lied. But even assuming that they told the truth, it appears that only twenty-eight per cent of married men do their own proposing. The remaining seventy-two per cent are either boldly tackled by their wives-to-be, or duped into marriage without proposal.

George Bernard Shaw has said that marriage is the culmination of a chase, in which women are the pursuers and men the pursued. But Shaw is a cynic and has a reputation for brilliancy to maintain. And he maintains it by saying whatever clever thing pops into his head, whether or not it is true or even possible.

Frankly, we don't think much of these Baltimore statistics. What would you think of a husband who would declare that he was the pursued and his wife the pursuer? What would you think of a man who disclaimed all responsibility for his marriage, and threw the whole blame on his wife? Not much, sure enough. Yet thirty-three of the Baltimore man's friends did this precise thing. They are not deserving of belief.

And the twenty-four who said that they proposed—their testimony is no better. If they were gentlemen, they would shoulder the blame even if it had been their wives who did the proposing; and as it is fair to assume that they are all gentlemen, their testimony obviously is valueless.

The twenty-nine who said that there were no proposals at all probably have about the right idea.

Marriage engagements, on the whole, probably—note that in such discussions the motto "Safety First" is peculiarly applicable, and that the liberal use of such phrases as "on the whole" and "probably" is the part of wisdom—"just happen," much as Topsy "just growed."

The formal procedure probably is rare:

"Will you be mine?"

"Oh, this is so sudden!" Very brief pause. "Yes."

It is supposed to be that way, but it isn't. It gets to be a sort of understanding, after proximity and association kindle the fires, and "probably" in a great many cases the first crystalization of the affair in words is a discussion of the date.

And as men are crude creatures who do not know their own minds, and are full of fear and bashfulness, if women deftly promote that understanding—if they even ingeniously extract a formal proposal that is latent and seems not likely to precipitate itself spontaneously—why, that's a good thing for the men and for humanity, and no harm to anybody.

Count Charles de Lesseps says three men made the Panama canal, and two of them were Frenchmen and the third was George Goethals. It's a shame to take such advantage of a man's weak throat.

FLOWERS AND THE FLOWERLESS.

Many in Duluth are wise enough—or lucky enough, as the case may be—to be in a position to grow large quantities of flowers on their home grounds during the summer.

And Duluth's climate produces some of the finest flowers, in size and color and fragrance, to be found anywhere.

What becomes of the surplus flowers?

Most blooming plants are the better for constant picking. Sweet peas, for instance, should be picked daily. If the average flowering plant is permitted to go to seed it ceases blooming, because it has fulfilled its purpose. But if the flowers are kept cut, the plant keeps on trying to produce seed, and so furnishes bloom the summer through.

The average home well supplied with flower beds and borders can be kept full of cut flowers most of the summer, and still there will be plenty left over. What becomes of the "left overs?"

There are hospitals where these wasted blossoms would bring fragrance and color and cheer.

There are homes by the hundreds where there is no opportunity to grow flowers, not even the prolific and democratic nasturtium, which seems to bloom better in the poor family's poor soil than in the rich man's richly fed beds. The surplus flowers would gladden these homes and pierce the drab atmosphere of poverty with a shaft of gay color.

What do you do with your surplus flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Home Gardener? Why not share your daily cuttings with the hospitals and the flowerless homes? That you have not done so is, we know, thoughtlessness and not selfishness. Nothing is to be gained by selfishness with flowers, because the bloom ought to be cut anyway, and when your vases are full the rest is wasted.

Why not remember the flowerless when your garden yields an embarrassment of floral riches?

Now come some men who claim that Morgan did not dominate the New Haven. Would they have cared to make such a statement before his death?

THE PRESIDENT AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The sober second thought of advocates of votes for women will be, we are sure, that the president is right in refusing to divide his energies by giving part of them to the cause of gaining suffrage by amending the Constitution.

Votes for women is coming, as surely as tomorrow's sunrise.

But it will continue to come by the action of the individual states, and those who are seeking what they believe to be the short route of Federal action will find, sooner or later, that their energies have been worse than wasted.

To get a resolution through congress proposing a constitutional amendment would be a task hard enough, but it would be only the beginning.

Three-fourths of the states would then have to ratify the amendment before it could be effective; and it would take longer to bring that about than it will to get that many states to adopt equal suffrage by amending their own Constitutions.

Under the present plan, when a state acts the women of that state become voters.

Under the proposed plan of Federal action not a single woman would gain the ballot until three-fourths of the states had acted, when all women would get the ballot.

The Herald favors votes for women, and hopes that the Minnesota legislature will submit a suffrage amendment at its coming session, and that the men of Minnesota will adopt it in 1916.

But The Herald does not believe that the Federal government should dictate the terms of the elective franchise to the states, or to any of them.

The policy of the nation has been to leave this issue to the states themselves. The single exception to this rule was the fifteenth amendment, adopted as a part of the tyrannously handled process of reconstruction, which required the states to admit the negroes to the ballot box. This was a mistake, and the states have done about as they pleased about it.

The sooner the women who want to vote cease wasting time and energy on the misguided attempt to force Federal action, the better it will be for woman suffrage.

Will anybody have the kindness to remark that the Bull Moose party is another psychological proposition?

DIRECT LEGISLATION IN OREGON.

Those who believe in direct legislation—the initiative and the referendum—would feel a little easier if Oregon, the experiment station, would quit loading up its referendum ballots.

This year there are thirty-six proposals pending that the people must pass on in November, and the end is not yet. The lists are still open, and more are expected before they close.

In 1904 only two measures were submitted. In 1906 there were eight. In 1908 there were sixteen, in 1910 thirty-two and in 1912 the number had risen to thirty-seven.

There is so far only one less this year, and the prospects are that a new record will be set.

That's altogether too many. It makes direct legislation a burden, and the surplus of more or less insignificant measures tends to confuse and submerge the measures of first importance.

The term "direct legislation" is a misnomer. It creates the idea that the plan is a substitute for legislation by lawmaking bodies, when it ought to be nothing of the sort.

The initiative is working ideally when it is not exerted at all because the legislature by its loyalty and responsiveness to the public will makes it unnecessary to exert it.

The referendum is working ideally when it is not working at all because the legislature enacts no laws against the public will.

When the initiative and the referendum are first adopted in a state it is natural that they should be used somewhat unduly. They are new machinery, and people like to see how new machinery works. But that ought to be a passing phase, and the number of measures presented to the people ought to dwindle, both because the people get used to the initiative and the referendum and because the legislature, knowing that these weapons are available for use, will behave itself so well that it will not be necessary to use them.

But it isn't working out that way in Oregon, apparently. There is an increase where there ought to be a decrease. It would be more comfortable for advocates of the initiative and the referendum if it were not so.

The initiative and referendum system that the people of Minnesota will vote upon this fall as a proposed amendment to the Constitution is different from that of Oregon, and in the opinion of The Herald it is a great improvement over the Oregon system. The Oregon system is too easily invoked. The required percentage of petitioners to institute it is too small, and initiated measures must all go to the people.

Under the Minnesota system the legislature will have the first chance at every initiated measure. If it acts, that ends it. If it fails to act, or amends the measure out of recognition, further petitions result in submitting the matter to the people. Under that system the legislature doubtless will enact most of the sensible measures proposed by the initiative, and the number of measures submitted to popular vote ought to be much smaller than in Oregon.

The initiative and the referendum as checks on lawmaking bodies are right, wise and necessary. They ought not to be considered for a moment as substitutes for the work of legislative bodies.

And to think that it's just possible that fellow who went up 21,654 feet in the air thought he enjoyed it!

"SERVING SOMETHING SMALLER THAN THE COUNTRY."

President Wilson's Fourth of July speech at the birthplace of Independence was a splendid utterance that deserves to go down through history in the shining pages of the nation's patriotic classics.

And there was much matter in that speech that ought to go home to the heart of every patriotic American.

For instance, this man who, though the leader of his party, is greater than any party and serves his country because he holds it higher than any party, has had to contend—is still contending—with the most unfair opposition imaginable: that which is based not on patriotism and public spirit, but on selfishness and partisanship. Men of this type are eager to see the president and congress of the United States sacrifice the best interests of the nation and its people, simply because they hope thereby to profit their party or the special interests of themselves or their class. It is of such that he was speaking when he said: "Now, the truth always matches the truth, and when I find gentlemen insisting that everything is going wrong, when it is demonstrable that most things are going right, I wonder what they are trying to do.

"ARE THEY TRYING TO SERVE SOMETHING SMALLER THAN THE COUNTRY? Are they trying to put hope into the hearts of men who work and toil every day, or are they putting discouragement and despair into these hearts? If they love America and anything is wrong, it is their duty to put their hands to the task of setting it right. And when the facts are known and acknowledged, the duty of all patriotic men is to accept them in candor and address themselves to common counsel and to work in harmony and universal concern."

At bottom, every citizen wishes the best things for his country and all its people.

But superficially, many have gotten into the intensely small ways that have goaded this reproach out of the president.

Not wishing the Democratic party to stay in power, they seek to give circulation to the notion that hard times and depression are the inevitable handmaidens of Democratic rule. And so, by word and act, they seek to spread the obsession of calamity, recking nothing that by so doing, so far as they achieve anything, they can only achieve a deadly hurt to the nation and to many of its people, particularly those most subject to the vicissitudes of business. And this, a deliberate hurt to country and fellow-man, for the mere sake of personal profit or party gain!

"Something smaller than the country?" Something infinitely smaller actuates this type of man, whose habit of thought is the smallest, the most despicable, and the most traitorous imaginable.

Less politics, and more public business; less partisanship and more patriotism; less petty thinking and more large thinking; less puny suspicion and more trust and trustworthiness; less bickering about personalities and more clear-headed thought of principles; less empty babbling about superficial things and more clear-visioned and harmonious discussion of ways and means for the freer and fairer life for all of us: these are what this nation needs.

President Wilson is showing the way for those who will take it with him.

In the utmost good faith, inspired by ideals and purposes as high as any that ever inspired a president of the United States, he is grappling with our common problems and seeking to solve them in the best and most effective way possible.

He is the president of the United States.

He is the leader of a great people that is groping its way out of the thickets of privilege and selfishness and partisanship into the clearer fields of democracy and social justice.

He deserves encouragement, not discouragement; wise counsel, not narrow and bitter criticism; help and support, not partisan and selfish opposition.

His measures and his acts should be judged not by a crooked twenty-inch partisan yardstick, but on their merits—for what good they will do the nation and its people.

Public discussion inspired by "something smaller than the country" can get us nowhere but into confusion.

It is a time for patriotism, for co-operation, for harmony in the common good. Let us have these, and all will be well with the Republic.

Tariff Tear-Ups

Editorial in the Springfield Republican.

Senator Penrose scoffs at Mr. Roosevelt's idea of a permanent "nonpartisan" tariff commission for the future revision of the tariff, "schedule by schedule, treating each case on an intelligent consideration of its merits, divorced from favoritism and the fostering of special interests." Mr. Penrose has a program of his own. "We demand a Republican majority in the house and senate and a Republican president at the earliest opportunity to pass in the course of two or three months a tariff bill which will afford adequate protection." The Penrose idea is doubtless the idea of most of the interests that are still resentful because they have been deprived of their old high tariff schedules by the present administration.

The triumph of Penrose and his kind in the near future would mean another tariff tear-up. The country had one in 1909. It had one again in 1913. Mr. Penrose and the interests he represents demand a third one in 1917. The duties were revised downward a great deal more in 1913. But it would be no revision downward in 1917; on the contrary, the duties would go thumping back to the good old Dingley basis, in case Mr. Penrose and his friends should have their way. The ups and down, or rather, the downs and up, of the tariff within the short space of eight years would thus compare favorably with those of the old oaken bucket that hung in the well.

The Republican does not believe that Senator Penrose and his Pennsylvania friends will have an opportunity in 1917, or at any future time, to carry out the program they have in mind. The old tariff will never come back. We have gone permanently to a lower level of duties and the chief changes upward which the future will see will be in spots, as experience may determine the need, or the government's revenue necessities may dictate. The present tariff was not made in any ideal way, and it is by no means a perfect tariff. But special and selfish interests had less to do with the making of it than any previous tariff in half a century. There is no use denying that fact, in view of the sacrifice of Louisiana, a Democratic state, by the Democratic administration and congress in the adoption of free sugar. This tariff is not ideal, it is far from perfect, but revision downward from the old abominations was possible in no other way, and the country now has a tariff which would form a good basis for really scientific, non-partisan revision in case that kind of revision should prove politically possible.

The Republican would very much like to see the non-partisan, non-political, scientific tariff commission idea carried into effect in the future, provided congress could ever be persuaded to accept such a commission's recommendations without prejudice and the country would be convinced that the commission idea was not a cloak for sinister purposes or the safeguarding of private rather than public interests. But if the commission plan is impracticable for any reason, the business interests of the United States will be well advised not to encourage the Penrose program. That means an endless succession of tear-ups. To get stability and peace the high tariff men must compromise with the low tariff men. Low tariff men will never accept as final and permanent a protective system such as developed in the period of Mark Hanna and Mr. Quay.

Uplift of Optimism

Christian Herald: He who thinks the world is full of good people and kindly blessings is much richer than he who thinks the contrary. Each man's imagination largely peoples the world for himself. Some live in a world peopled with princes of the royal blood; some in a world of paupers and privation. You have your choice.

This is a big, busy world. It cares precious little what you think of it, or what faults or troubles you find in it. It is a choice that concerns yourself more than all others combined, whether you grouch in the gloom, the companion of hateful goblins, or stride in the sunshine, seeing smiles and catching shreds of song.

Men and women in God's image were not made as whining, groveling beings. They were made to stand erect, mentally as well as physically; to labor well and joyously; to take the gifts of providence, whether they be joy or sorrow, and bear them cheerfully and with courage; to add ever something to the world's store of happiness, if it be only a smile.

Look up! See how flooded with sunshine this beautiful world is when faced with smiling eyes.

If you would win anything, do anything, be anything, don't whine.

The Fire Alarm.

When riding on their motor-trucks
I see the firemen pass,
Like soldiers dressed in uniforms
Of natty blue and brass.
I think about the volunteers
Who used, in other days,
To rally to the fire-alarm,
And battle with the blaze.

When clanging upon the midnight air
That sudden summons loud,
The people tumbled out of bed,
A wild, excited crowd.
The barking dogs ran on ahead,
And shouts and cries arose
Above the crackle of the flames,
The hissing of the hose.

To save a neighbor's little home
The ax and hose they plied,
Until among the cinders black
The lurid demon died.
The old red shirts they used to sport
Are full of moths and holes;
The men who wore them, too, are dead—
God rest their gallant souls!

But still we fear the smoky scourge,
And tremble with affright,
When suddenly the fire-alarm
Blares out upon the night.
So here's a tribute from the heart,
A word of praise for all
The heroes of the hose and truck
Who answers to its call.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Chasing the Rainbow.

According to an old and pleasant legend, a pot of gold is to be found at the end of the rainbow. It is probable that, since time began, sundry simple-minded folk and children have diligently sought for treasure at a spot where the shining arch seems to touch the earth.

We smile at the fancy even when we ourselves may be cherishing one equally childish. Plenty of wordly-wise folk there are who simply reverse the process and, obtaining the pot of gold, expect it to lead them to the rainbow.

Along the line of this quest no less than of the first disappointment may easily lie. The pot of gold is not certain to have a rainbow attachment. Money by no means always bathes life in rosy colors. Cash is not an absolute guarantee of comfort.

It is a matter on which about eight people out of ten in this rushing world need to be set right. Money is confessedly so desirable a possession that its limitations are often overlooked. We expect of it more than it has the power to give.

In plain fact, what money gives is not power to be happy, but rather power to obtain certain articles that are generally supposed to contribute to happiness. Very often they do so contribute, but by no means always. They may minister merely to care and sorrow.

Since most of us must remain untaught by personal experience it is competent at least to hear testimony on the point. Li Hung Chang, the richest man in the Chinese empire, wrote some memoirs in which he remarked: "I remember when I was a youth at Lou Chow that riches and promotions seemed as very gifts of the celestial regions. But I have found that neither great wealth, nor distinguished decorations, nor both put together, will guarantee a man against unrest of mind or turmoil of soul. How great and honorable is the peacock's feather of the throne, yet how much easier rests the head on goose feathers!"

With that put the word of Andrew Carnegie, surely a substantial witness: "Some men think that poverty is a dreadful burden, and that wealth leads to happiness. What do they know about it? They know only one side; they imagine the other. I have lived both, and I know that there is very little in wealth that can add to human happiness beyond the small comforts of life. Millionaires who laugh are very rare. My experience is that wealth is apt to take the smiles away."

Millions have found the rainbow without the aid of any pot of gold. The poor in spirit, and in material possessions, too, have ever been able to enter the kingdom of heaven. St. Paul, Socrates, St. Francis of Assisi, John Wesley, William Booth and a host beside have lived as poor men, but with a richness and a splendor of experience that forbids our thinking of them as in any sense poverty stricken. They knew rather a joy of life that Croesus might envy. He that hath a will to learn, let him learn.

When she has not got the Cabinet on the run,

She is utterly devoid of hate and malice,

And her life is a serene domestic one.

SCOOP THE CUB REPORTER — If Brains Were An Alleyway---Scoop's Would Be A Boulevard — By "HOP"

ROOSEVELT THE REFORMER

By SAVOYARD

Washington, July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. Teddy Roosevelt is again "present in the ranks," and so let the battle begin, as the "Dook" of Wellington remarked at Waterloo when he found that Corporal Patrick O'Flannagan was ready for action. Col. Roosevelt has begun the fight, but he takes mighty good care to say nothing against the domestic policies of the Democratic administration. All his guns are centered on the "foreign policy." Why? Because the people know less and care less about that than the other.

Col. Roosevelt believes in privilege for a class. He would have a foreign war to take the minds of the people off domestic affairs. The patricians of old Rome, every time they were hard pressed by the plebeians, used to get up a war. The same was true of the aristocracy of England. There was Edward III., father of the Black Prince, infinitely a greater hero than Teddy and equally as adroit a politician. When hard pressed he would lick France. Now Edward used to deliver himself of some political preachments such as would delight a true Jeffersonian; but he never acted them. He hanged those of his loyal subjects he caught exporting wool.

And so Roosevelt can thunder in the index though as president he was as helpless in the grasp of Wall Street as a basket of chips on the way to the fire to be burned.

And why not? Here is an episode in the man's career you have not forgot. A few days before the election in 1904 a Wall Street magnate told Alton B. Parker, the Democratic candidate, that he would be hopelessly beaten, that the trusts and monopolies had raised an enormous compaign fund to buy the election for Roosevelt. Parker stated in a public speech what this man had told him. That very night Roosevelt denounced Parker as a liar. The man who had furnished the information to Parker dared not come out with the truth, for Roosevelt's Wall Street friends would have bankrupted him in revenge. Now Roosevelt knew that Parker told the truth. He knew that he had written Harriman to raise an enormous fund. He knew that Harriman raised that fund under an implied promise that he was to see Roosevelt's message as to trusts. Roosevelt knew that Standard Oil, Steel, Insurance, Wool, Morgan and all the other monopolies lavishly contributed to his campaign fund. He knew that when he denounced Parker as a liar.

There is no mistake about it for it has all come out in congressional investigation. These facts would have driven any other man in our history into disgraceful and permanent political retirement.

Now I'll show you how Roosevelt fetched and carried for Wall Street in return for that enormous fund that monopoly had raised to debauch the electorate in his interests—Harriman said what he raised bought 50,000 votes in New York city alone. And I have not a doubt that with the exception of Julius Caesar, and not excepting William McKinley, more votes were bought for Theodore Roosevelt in 1904 than were ever bought for another man in the history of human government. My recollection is the books were burned.

But to get back. Teddy, with a loud flouish of trumpets, proposed to make the railroads behave and convened congress with that end in view. Steve Elkins' committee had it in charge and there were hearings. When the thing got out of the committee it was put in charge of Ben Tillman in order that honest men might have some confidence in it.

Then the gabfest began in the senate. There was a magnificent sham battle between Joe Bailey and John Spooner about the "judicial power" that nobody understood or cared a rap about. For the practical end in view it had no more relation than it had to the Pragmatic sanction that secured to Marie Therese the crown of Austria, or the treaty of Ghent that granted letters of administration on the conquests of Louis XIV., or the treaties of Paris and Vienna that administered on the empire of Napoleon Bonaparte.

Oh, there was a grand throwing about of brains, as Hamlet would say. Old Hale said he was convinced. The lesser folk sat back in amazement and wondered what the devil it was all about and what the devil it all meant. All the lawyers in Philadelphia could not have told them.

Well! By this time the weather was hot and Aldrich was ready to go to Europe. So he went down to New York, saw Wall Street, and came back with an amendment. Of course he did not himself offer it, but he gave it to old "Smoothing Iron" Allison, rather short on brains, to be sure, but abundantly supplied with respectability. Teddy said it was the very thing he had been contending for all the time. It suited Aldrich and Elkins and the others. Ben Tillman fought it like a wildcat and Teddy telephoned Lodge to tell the senate that Tillman was a liar, and so the sham battle was over, the bill passed and the moot court adjourned.

Now that is only one of the numerous Roosevelt shams. Wall Street is never mistaken in a man. Wall Street knew what it was getting when it bought all those votes for Roosevelt. It knew that under the presidency of Roosevelt more trusts were created and fostered than under all the other presidents together. What did Wall Street care for his vaporings and his threats? Not a rap.

* * *

Roosevelt announces that when Perkins goes out of the Progressive party he will go with him. Of course he will. Perkins has got the boodle, and nobody knows better than Teddy the power of boodle in an election. And Perkins knows that what Teddy will do to the trusts will be after harmonious consultation with the trusts.

But Wilson is a reformer the trusts hate with the hatred of guilt and the malevolence of fear.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

A Cross-Section of American Life.

CLARK'S FIELD. By Robert Herrick. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin company. $1.40 net.

Mr. Herrick has observed widely and deeply, and has thought to good effect, in the preparation of this latest novel.

It cuts American life from the top stratum to the bottom, and it cuts across again to show the ascent and descent of the American strain during the years.

A fifty-acre field stood in the outskirts of a manufacturing town. The town grew up around it and the nearby city overflowed it and absorbed it—whole. It stood idle and useless because the run-out Americans who owned it couldn't sell it—the title was bad.

The very commonplace Clark family owned it, all but an undivided and undivisible half, which belonged to a missing relative if he still lived, or his family if he had died and left one. But nobody knew anything about these other Clarks, nor could anybody find out anything.

Meanwhile the value of the field grew, at first slowly and then at an ever-increasing rate. The brother of the missing heir would gladly have sold it for $5,000 but for the flaw in the title. A little later his son would have sold just his equity, heavily encumbered, for $25,000, if he had not died. The family, already gone to seed, was spoiled by this expectancy of wealth which it could not touch.

Finally it all got down to one little girl, Adelle Clark; a meek, self-effacing, mentally numb girl with a small stock of vitality. A wise and kind probate judge averted the real estate sharks from her and put her in guardianship in a trust company. The field now was worth millions, and growing in value daily.

Adelle Clark, a child of poverty and born and bred to poverty, was sent to an expensive girls' finishing school, where she was snubbed and hectored and made miserable and taught evil—it is a scathing picture of a school of snobbery and vice. Slowly she develops, very slowly. She seems not even to have a mind or soul, but they develop, belated. She learns to use her Aladdin's lamp of wealth; she learns to riot in riches with the best of them. She all but carries off bodily a young man who strikes her fancy, and marries and ruins him.

Then, finally, her soul awakened through tragedy and suffering, she finds a Clark—a bitter, intelligent stonemason who gets drunk and spits tobacco, but has sound fiber in him. And of course he is one of the heirs to that undivided and undivisible half, and only one of a brood of them—none worth much.

And the field has become a slum, a profitable slum that yields big dividends of profit and crime and misery.

That is as far as it is fair to carry the story here. It is enough to say that it is no only absorbing, but thought-making; that it plumbs American life, and if it brings up dregs it is because dregs are there.

Memorial Philosophy.

THE PATH OF LIFE. Compiled from the writings of Emanuel Swedenborg by John Curtis Ager; a memorial volume to the late Julius Shoemaker of the J. B. Lippincott company, the publishers, Philadelphia.

Perhaps there has never heretofore been published so comprehensive and yet so brief a summary of the philosophy of Swedenborg. Certainly it never has been put up in more attractive form, for this 250-page morocco-bound volume would gain the instant admiration of anybody who chanced to see it; and the terse, well-phrased contents make the reading of it a pleasure even for one not particularly inclined toward philosophy. The Swedenborgian doctrines are notable chiefly for their cheerfulness, their all-pervading optimism; and that feature naturally predominates in this compilation. Swedenborg's philosophy was set forth, not in one volume, but in many, and in this work all have been culled and their chief points set down. So that even in this brief space one may gain enough to feel fairly well versed in Swedenborgian doctrines. It comes well within the bounds required for really popular translations of serious work.

The book is intended as a memorial for Mr. Shoemaker. It may well be classed as a memorial to Swedenborg himself, and a most worthy one, in that it is well qualified to extend still more the knowledge of his teachings.

Jack London's Short Stories.

THE STRENGTH OF THE STRONG. By Jack London. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.25 net.

Jack London is at his best in short stories. He made his name with them, and his final fame will rest more upon his short stories than upon his long ones.

This is a book of London's short stories—seven of them. They are all good, but not all equally good. Yet not one of them is dull. London's Socialism inspires two of them, but they are not worse stories for that—maybe better.

The title tale is of prognathous cave men, and tells the origin of the tribe and of law; of land proprietorship; of privilege; of religion and priests as the servants of privilege; of class and sycophancy; an epitome of the world today—the world that Jack London and his fellow Socialists would revolutionize. It's a cunning conception.

Then there is the story of a conventional sociologist who went to live among and study workingmen, and by a twist of atavism become one of them—the lowbrows—the while he maintained his standing and existence as a "highbrow;" and of how the romances of his two selves conflicted and what came of it.

There is a striking story of how China, half a century hence, rises and spreads and overflows the world, and of how a humble scientist destroyed by mosquitoes this world menace that laughed at armies and navies. There is the story of how a scientist, crazed by cruel and amazing persecution, turned against mankind and wrought horrible catastrophes with fiendish ingenuity. There is the imaginative story of a complete and nation-wide strike, peaceful but paralyzing: no wires, no trains, no newspapers, no food, no light, no fuel, no profits—millionaires in the breadline.

The last two stories are strikingly different. They deal with characters of Island McGill, off the north coast of Ireland, peopled with Scots-Irish with an outlandish dialect which London loves to inflict upon us and which we follow for the sake of the stories.

A Man and a Girl.

CUDDY YARBOROUGH'S DAUGHTER. By Una L. Silberrad, author of "Success." "Keren of Lowbole," etc. New York: George H. Doran company. $1.25 net.

If you can get past the outlandish title of this book—and the name of its author, which is almost as bad—you will find a good story of the leisurely, slowly moving kind, with interesting matter in it about interesting people.

The heroine is the young daughter of a ruddy-faced, frank and slow-witted English country squire, who died later on in the story and left her with relatives. Cuddy Yarborough's friend, who spent most of his time in African jungles, was Violet's friend, too, and when circumstances clouded her environments she turned to him. She was alone in the world, and she trusted this quiet, unassuming gentleman who was twice her age. The comradeship between them ripened into something warmer, and that's the thread of the story; though there are other diverting matters about a forgetful and flirtatious married lady and other people.

Mystery and Crime.

THE LOST PARCHMENT. By Fergus Hume, author of "The Steel Crown." "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab." "The Mystery Queen," etc. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.25 net.

Full of mystery and excitement, this story should add to the laurels of this writer of sensational fiction.

The plot of "The Lost Parchment" is ingenious and surprising. Rupert Hendle, the hero, is in love with Dorinda Maillen, whose father has an insatiable desire for rare jewels. A lost will is found in the Hendle vault by Leigh, a recluse clergyman, and this will, if declared valid, makes Maillen the heir. At this juncture the excitement starts, for the lawyer hired by Hendle, commits murder and then buries the will near a sun-dial in the garden of his victim's home. To tell the rest would reduce one's interest in the mysteries and intrigues that follow.

"The Lost Parchment" represents Fergus Hume in his best vein.

Pa Bassett and the High Life.

GAY MORNING. By J. E. Buckrose, author of "Because of Jane." "A Bachelor's Comedy," etc. London: Hodder & Stoughton. New York: George H. Doran company. $1.25.

The Bassett family of commonplace English folk, who had been happy and contented in genteef poverty, were suddenly lifted to riches in a mansion by inheritance from a brother of Mr. Bassett. Of course they had to live up to it, and in a large way the story is a humorous and sympathetic study of the effect of wealth on such a family. This element, however, becomes considerably submerged by the love story of Emma, the daughter of the family, who has an astonishing quantity of common sense and is engaged to a excellent though characteristic young man. Though her relatives expect her to look higher, she determinedly refuses to abandon her young man. However, Sir Matthew Bond, an aristocratic neighbor, becomes a very close friend indeed; while a cattish cousin, Sylvia, with her attempts to be vile, blunders so as to bring the story out satisfactorily. It is a tender and amusing love story, and the experiences of the Massetts are not so completely overwhelmed by it that they cease to be of interest.

Just Boy.

BOBBY. By J. J. Bell, author of "Wee MacGreegor," "Oh! Christina!" etc. London: Hodder & Stoughton. New York: George H. Doran company. $1 net.

Here is a bunch of lively stories about a very small boy and his elders—a "kid" that you'll itch to spank very often, but at whose pranks and perversities you will inevitably laugh. He is the universal baby boy of the lovable but slightly spoiled kind, and these exquisitely funny stories about him are told in the inimitable fashion of the author of "Wee MacGreegor."

Buried Treasure.

THE PIRATE OF PANAMA. By William MacLeod Raine, author of "A Texas Ranger," "Bucky O'Connor," etc. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.25 net.

This is primarily a tale of a fight for a buried treasure, but it has an absorbing love-story running through it that adds to the interest.

The scenes of "The Pirate of Panama," which tells about pirates in the old-fashioned days and of modern love, hate and adventure, are laid in San Francisco, on board the Argus, and in Panama. A treasure map is the bone of contention and for its possession murder is committed, a mutiny is started on board a vessel at sea and the heroine is kidnaped. The scoundrel who accomplishes all this dastardly work to gain his ends, is killed in Panama and after his death the story moves smoothly.

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

The Sewer-Gas Bugaboo

OUR ancestors and their medical advisers dreaded bad odors. They associated malodorous conditions with certain diseases, and knowing nothing of bacteriology they believed an unpleasant odor a sure indication of unhygienic surroundings.

Anything unpleasant to the senses is popularly deemed a nuisance and reported to the board of health. Personal and municipal cleanliness is to be encouraged always, for esthetic reasons if not for reasons of public health. Yet it is difficult to see why the health department should be more concerned with street cleaning than any other municipal department. It is as reasonable to place the health deparment in charge of dredging, park amusements, and every other branch of administration; for everything mentioned has some slight relation to the public health.

A Famous Bugaboo.

Perhaps the most famous bugaboo in history was the malodorous vapor that arose from the Thames River in 1859 when the river was grossly polluted with the sewage of London. A thorough investigation conducted by Dr. Budd proved that this odor caused none of the serious results the people attributed to it or feared from it. Budd wrote: "In view of these inexorable figures the illusions of half a century vanished in a moment"—meaning the illusions of the doctors. The people still considered bad odors as dangerous as ever.

"Sewer gas" was formerly deemed a deadly poison. It was supposed to cause typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria and tonsilitis. Nowadays everybody knows that these diseases are communicable by contact, and not by the air or by sewer gas.

What Is Sewer Gas?

As a matter of fact sewer gas is air containing volatile gases derived from decomposing organic matter—malodorous but utterly incapable of causing disease. The air in sewers has been found remarkably free from germs, even when typhoid germs in large numbers were present in the sewage itself. Workmen employed in and about sewers are no more frequently ill than are street laborers. Sewer air is cleaner to breathe than the air of many a city street.

A plumbing inspector may be worth his salary, but if he should discover forty leaks a day he would not prevent as much disease as the health officer does when he detects one typhoid carrier, diphtheria carrier or scarlet fever carrier.

Questions and Answers.

A. S. writes: You have urged that we "let the baby holler—it will do him good." Suppose he insists on keeping it up all night and all next day, what can we do?

REPLY.

Send for your doctor.

M. B. L. reports: After reading your recent article upon Bunions and Shoes, I had a pair of shoes made according to the suggestions in the article, and I want to thank you for the great relief they have already given me. Health is wealth, runs the saying. Wealth is money and money talks. That's why your department of the paper is headed "Health Talks."

D. R. inquires: Can you suggest anything to prevent head sweats in babies? My baby, 13 months old, sleeps poorly, cries a great deal, has head stuffed up most of the time and the head sweats a great deal. He takes nothing but malted milk.

REPLY.

The diet is sufficient to cause head sweats, a symptom in many cases of rickets. Rickets is more than suspiciously common in babies cheated with malted milk and condensed milk. You should have your family doctor's opinion on this, and follow his advice. Malted milk and condensed milk are both rich in sugar, and nothing much else. They are too poor in fat and protein—bone and blood builders. They "agree" for a while, but they cheat the baby of his due nourishment.

If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personlly if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. "RUSH ORDERS A PLEASURE"

THE CITY OF DULUTH and the State of Minnesota both seek to reduce the number of accidents due to heavy Traffic through ordinances and state laws. We would respectfully ask the co-operation of Duluth drivers of all kinds of vehicles in a "safety first" campaign to help make these laws and ordinances more effective.

Section 3 of the Duluth city traffic ordinance reads as follows:

> "Every person using any vehicle on any street in the city of Duluth shall, before turning out to pass any other vehicle, and before turning around, and before turning out of the line of traffic for any purpose, look carefully to the rear of the vehicle which said person is using upon the side toward which he contemplates turning, and if he fails so to look and in so turning out causes a collision with any vehicle coming from the rear he shall be deemed guilty of gross negligence."

The failure of drivers and chauffeurs to look back before turning out of their courses in obedience to the above is the direct cause of a great majority of the collisions between street cars and other vehicles. IN ALL SUCH CASES THE DRIVER OR CHAUFFEUR IS GUILTY OF GROSS NEGLIGENCE.

Remember that "A Street Car Can't Dodge" to avoid running into anything upon or near the track. Our Duluth street cars weigh twenty-five tons—the rails are very often slippery from a variety of causes in summer as well as from frost in winter—if the motorman cannot stop before reaching an obstruction he cannot turn his car out to avoid it, as could be done with any other vehicle, and a collision is the result. This inability to dodge obstructions puts the motormen at a great disadvantage and at the same time gives the drivers of other vehicles the great advantage of knowing the course the car will take.

In the interests of safeguarding life and property, we would like to call the attention of every driver of a vehicle in Duluth to this ordinance.

FORMER VIRGINIA MAN IS ARRESTED

M. W. Stanley Alleged to Have Obtained Money By Fraud.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Macton W. Stanley, formerly connected with the International Securities company here, was returned to Virginia last night under arrest on a warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretense.

He was taken to Hibbing this morning where he will be arraigned before Judge Hughes today. Stanley is alleged to have secured payment of a draft drawn on the International Securities company through the First National bank of this city.

Gets Money and Leaves.

The concern refused to pay the draft and declare they know nothing of Stanley. In the meantime he had left the city, having obtained the money.

He was arrested at Minneapolis. Stanley left a number of unpaid bills about the city, including one at a local hotel. He was arrested here some time ago charged with stealing a check from a companion during a drinking bout.

He alleges his innocence and will have an opportunity to tell his story to Judge Hughes today.

VIRGINIAN GETS MARBLE CONTRACT

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Michael Boylan of Virginia was the successful bidder for the installing of new sewer and water mains at the village of Marble at a figure approximately $7,000, for which there were twenty-three bidders.

The award was made yesterday. Mr. Boylan stated today work would be begun on the improvement as soon as the material could be got on the ground.

McDonnell to Start Work.

P. McDonnell of Duluth, who is the successful bidder for the Keewatin paving contract at a figure approximating $50,000 is in the city today. He will start a crew of 100 men working on the job next Monday morning.

HUSBAND'S MOTHER "NAGGED" TOO MUCH

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Laura Sand of Chisholm has begun an action for divorce against Clarence Sand. The papers in the case were filed here today. The grounds are desertion.

The Sands were married at Leeds, N. D., Sept. 18, 1911. Mrs. Sand alleges that her husband and mother-in-law continually "nagged" her and that Sand deserted her two years ago and has since failed to contribute to her support. E. W. Freeman of Chisholm is her attorney.

HILL CITY ROAD WILL PROVE BOON

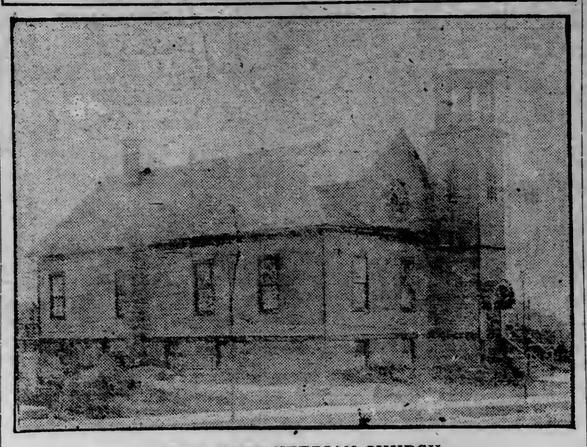

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The construction of the Hill City road being built by Itasca and Aitkin counties will tend to strengthen the bond between the two places, which, owing to the difficulty of getting from one place to the other, have not been as close as they should have been for towns as close together. The first automobile to go over the road, and go clear through to Hill City was driven through Thursday by Leonard Blanchard, and with Mike Lieberman and R. W. Engstrom as passengers. The one-way trip of twenty-two miles was made in two hours. They report the road as very good for the first thirteen or fourteen miles, and that after that they are nicely passable until within three miles of Hill City where they were very bad.

Part of Way State Road.

The way lies over the state road south of the Mississippi for about six miles down, and at the McKinley schoolhouse branches south, goes around the end of Pokegama lake, and then southwest. From the McKinley schoolhouse to the county line, McWilliams, Latvala & Lake, Nashwauk contractors, have the contract for the construction of the road, and they are doing a splendid job, and rushing it to completion. They have about fifty men and twenty teams on the job, and have work done all along the road, with most of the road at the north end of their contract completed.

M. L. Smith, the Hill City telephone man, who owns the toll line between Grand Rapids and Hill City, was the next to go over the road with a car, coming in yesterday morning with a crew of line men to repair his line. They made the trip leisurely, looking for telephone "trouble" along the line.

EVELETH CHURCH MOVED AND GENERALLY REMODELED

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Philip A. Schwarz has been the pastor for the past five years, will be formally reopened on Sunday. The church until recently was located on the Fayal road and McKinley avenue, but the city wanted that site to complete Central park so moved the building to its present location on McKinley avenue opposite the public library.

The church, since being moved, has been put upon a good foundation and completely remodeled, many improvements and changes having been made in its exterior and interior and much new equipment for work having been added. Among the improvements are the new basement, a heating plant, new pews and bookracks, a pulpit set, new lights and other improvements that will add materially to the comfort and convenience of the church and enable it to do better work in the future.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 11.—(Special to he Herald.)—There will be a general cessation of business here Thursday, July 30, for that is the day picked for the annual clerks' and band boys' picnic which will be held this year at the Omega hotel grounds, Lake Pokegama.

A meeting of the Clerks and Band association picked committees for the picnic as follows: Advertising, Arthur Peterson, Will Maddy and W. W. Libby; soliciting, Carl J. Eller, Ed Whaling and Mike Lieberman; sports, A. Higgins, John A. Johnson and Stan McMahon and Will Powers; transportation, Joseph O'Day, Truman Seamans, Ray Le Roux and Frank Jutras.

Among the attractions will be races, ladies' ball game, clerks'-band ball game, boat riding and all the fun that can be crowded in at a place with the advantages that Pokegama lake and the Hotel Ogema can provide, and a big dance in the evening.

These officers will have general charge and supervision of the picnic and of such other doings as the association may have during the year.

HIBBING PUPILS MORE HEALTHFUL.

Hibbing, Minn., July 11.—The annual report of Dr. Lee, school physician, shows a decrease in the number of children with skin diseases and of vermin (lice). It also shows that more children have been fitted with glasses for astigmatism, eye strain and nearsightedness, which were badly needed; and, that the number of adenoids and enlarged tonsil cases has decreased, although there is still a large number. Examination showed one case of trachoma among the 1,825 pupils examined.

Forty per cent of examinations made showed adenoids and 70 per cent enlarged tonsils.

Mountain Iron Getting Ready to Erect Village Hall-Library.

Mountain Iron, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council this week took the first steps toward building the new village hall and library by selling two of the three buildings upon the proposed site to the highest bidder. The bids made on the other one, not being considered satisfactory, it was withdrawn from the sale. At this meeting considerable other routine business was transacted.

WOULD STOCK MINE PIT WITH FISH FRY.

Mountain Iron, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mountain Iron open pit mine, which has been idle now for several years, has assumed considerable proportions as an inland lake. There is some talk that an effort will be made to get permission from the owners of this mine to stock it with fish. It is owned by the Oliver Iron Mining company and as they are very considerate about matters of that kind, affecting the communities in which their properties are situated, there is little doubt but that they would readily sanction such a move.

CARL ANDERSON HUNT STILL BEING MADE

Virginia Hires Fifty Men to Aid in Search for Missing Man.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The search for Carl Anderson who escaped eleven days ago from his boarding house on Locust street in a delirious condition, while suffering from typhoid fever, and who has once been committed to a state institution for the care of the insane, is being prosecuted with renewed vigor today. Unless he is found before tonight a searching party of more than 300 will start at sunrise tomorrow, scouring the country about Virginia and Eveleth, disposed in an effective dragnet and will spend all of the day looking for him.

Virginia Hires Posse.

Mayor Boylan this morning ordered a posse of fifty men employed to aid the police of Virginia and Eveleth and the deputy sheriffs in their hunt for Anderson. They left the city hall at 8 o'clock this morning and were marshaled and assigned to territory at the detention hospital under the direction of the city police.

The S. H. and E. F. lodge of which Anderson was a member, issued an appeal last night to all its members to join in the hunt for Anderson and also asked Sheriff Meinling to have the county bloodhound returned here to aid in the hunt. Police officers and the deputy sheriffs are inclined to the belief that Anderson, in his delirious condition, wandered to some nearby lake and was drowned. Chief of Police Gately said this morning he placed little confidence in stories to the effect that Anderson had been seen at various places in this vicinity during the past few days.

"Such stories always prevail in cases of this kind," says Gately. "They are too vague to be dependable. We shall watch the shore line of the lakes for Anderson's body. It is possible that he is still alive and at large in the woods, but under the circumstances I do not regard it as probable."

MILLER MINE TRIO DO LOADING STUNT

Load Seventy-Five Cars With Steam Shovel in Ten Hours.

Aurora, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry King, runner; Carl Heins, craner; and Matt Beesum, fireman, broke the steam shovel record for this end of the range Thursday when they loaded seventy-five cars at the Miller mine during a ten-hour shift. There was no attempt made at a record, but this amount of cars was loaded in the regular day's work. There was considerable time lost waiting for cars and switching which was not deducted from the ten hours, but counting the whole time, seventy-five cars is quite a record for one shift in a regular day's work. The shovel is working at the Miller mine stockpile.

Ely, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Hard times" and "calamity howlers" are not causing any depression here judging by the amount of building going on. Brozick's building, which will cost over $7,000, is almost completed. At least six more houses are being constructed.

Five and ten-mile events for stock and racing cars will be staged at the fair grounds with suitable prizes. On the last day there will be free-for-all races for both automobiles and motorcycles.

Fix Road Themselves.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Burt brothers, who live in the Splithead country, are doing a commendable piece of road work which is going to cost nobody but themselves anything. They had a bad piece of road between their place and the road to town, and rather than to bother getting an appropriation which would cost them in lobbying and time lost as much as they would get, they decided to do the work themselves. The work consists of a fill and some grading along the Splithand brook, and when the work is finished it will greatly improve their road out.

DOG IS SUFFOCATED.

Only Way to Relieve Animal Imprisoned in Mine at Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—While passing through the property of the old Pearce mine Thursday evening the yelp of a dog attracted the attention of a small boy who learned upon investigation that the animal was in the bottom of an old timber shaft, about 150 feet below the surface. The lad summoned help and Probation Officer Lee Rell and Humane Officer Albert Zastrow hurried to the location. Every effort was made to help the dog, but nothing could be done until yesterday morning. It is rumored that the dog has been in the shaft for about three weeks, there being water enough there to satisfy his thirst and it is supposed that rabbits and other animals have furnished food. After trying to get him out, it was decided to shoot him but he refused to come into sight so the authorities finally lowered combustibles into the shaft which suffocated him to death.

AUSTIN CALLS BLUFF.

Quits Chisholm Clerkship Rather Than Work for Nothing.

Chisholm, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water and light commission yesterday afternoon discussed with Frank L. Austin, clerk of the commission, the matter of $255 which Mr. Austin on July kept out of the water receipts for salary due him as village accountant for the months of April, May and June, at $85 per months. The commission made a demand for the money to be returned but Mr. Austin maintained his former position. He was then given the option of resigning as clerk or returning the money and he chose the former. A resolution instructing the village attorney to take action to have the money returned was then passed. A resolution further dispensing with the clerk's services, effective July 15 was also passed.

Aside from discussing the advisability of letting work by contract in certain branches and the issuing of calls for bids to be opened July 20 for six-inch pipe. the commission adjourned.

MOROCCOANS LIKE FORD.

Little Car Competes Favorably With Fast Arabian Horses.

The Ford is the only car that gives satisfactory service to the poeple of Morocco during the winter months, according to Dr. G. Veyre, Ford agent in Morocco with headquarters at Casablanca and Rabba. According to Dr. Veyre, the purchasers of these cars make so much money with them that they pay for them by three or four trips.

"It is suprising and awe-inspiring," says Dr. Veyre, "to see the Ford go out of Casablanca with seven or eight passengers and a considerable quantity of baggage and know that it will make the trip in good condition."

But the Ford has other uses in Morocco which are unusual. Dr. Veyre recently sold five cars to the French government. It is the government's intention to mount mitrailleuse guns on these cars and use them to chase and subdue turbulent tribesmen. The fleet-footed Arabian horses will need all their fleetness if they are to elude the flying battery of Fords.

This is not a new use for the car. During the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty in China several high Chinese officials bought Ford cars and equipped them with light machine guns.

As in other countries, the Ford has made steady progress in Morocco. During the fiscal year ending September last, Ford sales in Morocco totaled thirty-one cars. With six months to go in the present fiscal year the Morocco agent had sold fifty-nine Fords, showing that his last year's record will be left way behind.

Ford success in Morocco is largely due to its ability to travel roads that are impassable to other cars. In this country the roads are not of the best, and any other but a light, strong, powerful car is under a serious handicap.

Many of the government officials in Morocco use Fords. Perhaps the most notable of these is the governor general of Morocco, M. Lyautuy.

SEASON ENDS JULY 1.

Auto Makers Have Nearly Sold Out 1914 Models.

With the advent of July the so-called season of 1914 ends with most of the automobile makers. Not all of the cars have been sold, but very few are left and the factories are through making what have been called the 1914 models. Some of the plants do not announce any yearly models so they keep at it as the demand manifests itself.

Most of the talk among those who are keen for all that is new in the automobile world centers around the 1915 models and speculation of what changes are to be made. It is conceded that they will be few in comparison with other years, because the 1914 crop was so much superior to any other that the engineers are finding less fault.

Interest in 1915 Models.

It is known that one of the big plants which had confined its production to fours is out with a six for 1915 and it is hinted that others will follow suit. However, one factory which has made a splendid reputation on fours has made no announcement this way, and it is certain that far more fours will be built than sixes, for it should not be overlooked that the Ford is a four.

The production record of the Detroit factories in May broke all records for that month and was bigger than some of the earlier months in years gone by. This shows the condition of the business, for May is rather late for production. The best part of all is the fact that practically all of these cars are on order, so that they have gone into the hands of the users and now are among those pressed on the city and country drives.

Cycle Cars on Display.

Just what the cycle car is going to amount to from a trade viewpoint is to be determined, but the makers and the boosters of the narrow tread vehicles are very enthusiastic. They are planning a big show at Detroit this week, during which a number of makes of the little cars will be displayed, and they will be put through their paces on the race track, in speed and other stunts.

The cycle car has not cut into the motorcycle field perceptibly, as the sale of the two-wheelers has been good this year. The motorcycle has made a place for itself in the industrial and commercial world which cannot be taken from it, and many concerns have added machines to their service equipment this year.

Also, there are more motorcycles ridden for pleasure, the side seat having solved a problem and made it a pretty nifty turnout for two people. Improvements on the motorcycles are as marked as in the case of the automobiles, and the devotees of the pastime do not know anything in the same class.

CONTEST RULES CHANGED.

Synopsis Given By Chairman of American Association.

New York, July 11.—The contest board of the American Automobile association has issued a synopsis of the 1914 contest rules, explaining the changes that have been made. Chairman Kennerdell says:

"The rules governing speed competitions of stock cars and stock chassis have been eliminated and a more simple method of registration of stock models for touring events has been provided. A less technical description of stock models must be filed with the contest board prior to any events in which the stock model is entered and such certificate is turned over to the technical committee to check up the cars entered for competition in stock car touring events.

"In all speed events 100 miles or over the crew of a car must consist of driver and mechanician, and all mechanicians must be registered in the same way as drivers have been required to register since 1910.

"A new rule has been incorporated strictly prohibiting the use of intoxicants in contests, under penalty of disqualification.

"The distinction heretofore existing between touring contests of six days and under and contests over six days in duration has been eliminated, and new grades for interclub and economy contests included.

"Touring cars and runabouts may compete together for the same prizes without reference to passenger-carrying capacity.

"There is no penalty for tire repairs and replacements, and the time consumed is added to the daily running time. Extra casings and tubes may be removed from competing cars in controls for repairs. Motors may be stopped during tire repairs without penalty. Demountable rims or wheels may be used in stock car events only where cars are regularly equipped.

"The time lost on account of traffic delays occasioned by railroad crossings, congestion in city streets, open bridges, obstructed roadways, etc., will not be added to the daily running schedule, but such lost time must be made up.

"All cars are required to carry at least one passenger other than the driver without regard to body equipment or carrying capacity.

"Dry cells for ignition or lighting may be replaced without penalty, the work to be done on the car's running time.

"Replacing or recharging of storage batteries where charging generator is regular equipment will be penalized.

"Replacing or recharging of storage batteries where no charging means are furnished will be allowed without penalty.

"The fixed penalty schedule has been amplified to provide penalties for damaged or inoperative equipment such as self-starters, automatic gearshifts, two-speed rear axles, lighting, shock absorbers, speedometers, horns, windshields, tops and similar accessories."

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR AUTOMOBILISTS

1. Thou shalt not scorch on the public road, nor challenge thine enemy to a race on the same.
2. Thou shalt not boast of thy mileage, nor of thy tires, for pride goeth before a puncture.
3. Thou shalt not gaily pass another by and refuse assistance, for thou mayest be in a like condition some day.
4. Remember thy spark plugs and keep them clean and also thy batteries charged.
5. Thou shalt not neglect to work for good roads, so that thy going may be smooth.
6. Fill thy tanks with gasoline before starting on a journey, so that thou mayest not be stuck in the woods miles from home.
7. Honor an honest repairer, but keep tabs on thy chauffeur, so that thy automobile may not be abused.
8. Do unto the drivers of other vehicles as you would have them do unto you.
9. Thou shalt not borrow thy neighbor's pump, nor his jack, nor his tube, nor anything else that is thy neighbor's.
10. Thou shalt not try to improve on the work of the manufacturer, because they that take lessons from schools of correspondence are oft book wise and practice foolish.

FACTS ABOUT LEATHER.

France Furnishes Best Product for Auto Trimmings.

Here are some interesting facts about leather that automobile owners should know.

The best leather for trimming comes from France. The value of leather for trimming is determined largely by uniformity of size of the hides and lack of flankiness. The cattle in France are sleek and well-kept and hence there is little flank. And hides are more uniform in size.

The cheapest leather comes from South America. Cattle there are utilized chiefly for their hides and for beef extract. But the cattle run wild and hence are more rangy and the hides run to flanks. The hides from American cattle class next to those from France.

After the hide is removed from the animal it is given a treatment that causes it to swell. Then it is split into three, and sometimes four layers. The layer next to the hair is the best because it is the weather-side, provided by nature for the protection of the animal. This layer also has the natural grain. The lowest layer, the one next to the flesh, is of the poorest quality. These lowest layers are artificially grained to stimulate the natural grain. It requires the eye, touch and experience of an expert to tell the best from the poorest.

Much skill is required in cutting up a hide for trimming. The toughest part, that of the back, is selected for the places that have the greatest wear. The hide of legs and flanks is put where there is minimum wear.

"JUST RITE" IS HERE.

J. T. Peacha Gets Samples of Oil and Grease Remover.

"Just Rite" is the newest thing in automobile circles.

This article is a cleansing substance, but so remarkable is its power to clean anything from dust to the greasiest oils, that it is expected soon to become the byword of every automobile owner and chauffeur.

Samples of this cleaner have been received by J. T. Peacha, Jr., of the Interstate Auto company, who will be the local agent for "Just Rite." With some of the substance on a small piece of waste, Mr. Peacha, Jr., cleaned an automobile, washed off the oils from the floor and then experimented by cleaning a rusty door knob and wiping a grease spot off his clothes.

In answer to a query, Mr. Peacha, Jr., received the following telegram yesterday from Don Lee, California's most prominent automobile dealer and garage owner, he having in operation more than 200 garages throughout the state:

"Interstate Auto Company,
Duluth, Minn.:

"'Just Rite' is meeting with approval to everyone we have sold. We believe we are proving this by purchasing over $4,000 worth.

"DON LEE."

OPENS AUTOMOBILE CLEARING HOUSE.

John M. Ford, well known Duluth business man, has just opened the Duluth clearing house for automobiles at 307 East Superior street. Mr. Ford plans to buy, sell and trade automobiles.

In addition Mr. Ford has obtained exclusive agency for the Firestone tires and he already has a corps of salesmen out covering the territory in Northern Minnesota.

GETS WILSON'S O. K.

President Writes Letter Approving Lincoln Highway.

Washington, July 11.—Official indorsement and approval of the proposed Lincoln highway has been given by President Woodrow Wilson, who, in a letter to Henry B. Joy, president of the Lincoln Highway association, declares the roadway to be one of great need. The indorsement of the plan by the chief executive of the nation is highly gratifying to the promoters.

The president also suggested that official Lincoln highway markers be placed in that part of the road entering Washington and passing the Lincoln memorial now under construction here. President Wilson's letter follows:

"I am sure that the whole country is interested to see to it that there should no longer exist a North or South in this absolutely united country, which we all love, and that the imaginary Mason and Dixon line should be made once and for all a thing of the past, and as a small contribution to that end I earnestly suggest that the Lincoln Highway association should grant permission to place the official Lincoln highway markers on the macadam roadway running from Philadelphia to Washington, through the properly selected streets of the latter city to the Lincoln memorial now under construction and from thence along the roadway through Frederick, Md., and from Frederick to Gettysburg.

"I am reliably informed that this route is now or will be in the very near future a modern macadam roadway from Philadelphia to Gettysburg by way of Washington."

TIRE SIZE IMPORTANT.

Heavy Expense for Tires Not Necessary, Says Auto Man.

"Heavy tire expense is not, as many people suppose, a 'necessary evil,'" says Arthur Holmes, vice president of the Franklin Automobile company.

"Ask the average man what is the one big thing left to be done to perfect the automobile and he will say, 'find some way of cutting down tire expense and tire troubles.' The average man—with all he knows about automobiles—has not yet learned that tire trouble comes from a tire too small for the weight of the car. He meekly accepts tire trouble and heavy tire expense as necessary evils, when he should know that if the tire was large enough it would last its natural life the same way as any other part of the car.

"Tires have an elastic limit beyond which it is not safe to work them. Cars can be so designed that the tires are not stressed beyond this elastic limit and thus will give the same factor of reliability as other parts of the car."

New Cap Satisfactory.

The new model Cadillac makes Fifteenth avenue east to the Boulevard on high speed, with the new compression cap attachment, which is made especially for the 1914 models. These can be placed in the machine at a little cost and are being sold by dealers throughout the country. Several local Cadillac owners have put the cap in their machines and they report complete satisfaction with the invention.

OWNERS OF FORD CARS IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA HOLD THEIR FIRST ANNUAL PICNIC ON THE WHITEFISH RIVER

The first annual Ford picnic which was given on the Fourth of July by the Mutual Auto company of Duluth at Jungle lodge, E. J. Filiatrault's summer home on the White Face river, forty miles from Duluth, was voted by those who attended as one of the most successful and enjoyable picnics ever given at the Head of the Lakes.

There were 105 cars assembled at Jungle lodge for the occasion, as follows: Grand Rapids, 1; Hibbing, 7; Virginia, 9; Eveleth, 8; Chisholm, 4; Proctor, 5; Duluth, 61; Two Harbors, 2; Cloquet, 7; Superior, 6.

Nearly every car carried at least five passengers and some had six and seven, which brings the total people in attendance at the picnic to approximately 550.

A great deal of enthusiasm and interest was created by the blind time contest. Mayor Prince of Duluth set the time of 12:58, put it in an envelope and sealed it. This envelope was delivered to the committee in charge at Jungle lodge and was not opened until about 2 p. m. after all cars had arrived. The three prizes offered by the Mutual Auto company for the three cars arriving nearest to the blind time set by the mayor were awarded as follows:

First—Miss Cummings of Hibbing, who registered at 1 p. m.; second, George H. Carlton of Proctor, who registered at 12:50 p. m.; third Theodore Couture of Duluth, who registered at 1:09 p. m.

The first prize was a 30 by 3½ Fisk heavy car type casing, the second prize a set of Sager shock absorbers, and the third a set of electric lights installed.

The grounds were handsomely decorated with flags, bunting and Japanese lanterns. A number of long tables were built in a grove under the trees and a dancing platform was provided which was decorated with national colors. LaBrosse's orchestra of five pieces furnished the music and everybody enjoyed the affair to the fullest extent in dancing and old fashioned games. It was 7 o'clock in the evening before the last car took its departure for home.

The Ford Motor company sent a special representative from the factory, H. D. Henyon, who looked after all trouble, answered all questions and gave all the information possible pertaining to the maintenance of Ford cars. The roads from the various towns were showered with confetti all along the route in order to blaze the trail, together with signs which were posted at each turn so there could be no possibility of anybody going astray or not finding the place. The weather was ideal for an outing of this kind. There was no mishap whatever on the entire trip to any of the cars or their passengers.

It is the intention of the Mutual Auto company to make this an annual ocurrence in the future, but a little later date will probably be set as there are so many things going on the Fourth at the different towns that it makes it rather hard for some people to get away and attend. The date for the next annual picnic will probably be the latter part of July or the first of August of next year. This will give more people an opportunity to attend.

Motorcycle Notes

The motorcycle has solved a serious problem of the Bulletin, a daily paper of Bloomington, Ill. When the evening train over the Big Four was taken off, the Bulletin was at a loss how to serve its many subscribers at Gillum, Downs, Leroy, Farmer City and Mansfield, who had received their papers on this train. However, the matter was soon settled by the employment of a motorcyclist, who now rides out to these towns each evening, delivers the papers to subscribers, and chugs back to Bloomington in the early evening.

BLANK SHELLS RUIN GOOD MURDER CASE

Austrian Courts Now Have Knotty Problem to Solve.

Vienna, July 11.—A fine point in law has been raised here as to whether a person can be convicted of attempted murder when blank cartridges have been fired in the belief they had bullets.

The case is that of a young woman who bought a pistol from a dealer who prudently charged it with blank shells. The girl then shot at her lover without doing him the slightest harm. On arrest she admitted her intention to murder the man, but her lawyers have now raised the point that a person can not be convicted of "shooting with intent to kill" when it is impossible to carry out the intention. This point is now the subject of ingenious argument on both sides.

HAS YOUR HOUSE ANY KATATHERMOMETER?

It Should Have, Says Professor—Also a Hypocaust

London, July 11.—No home in the future will be complete without a katathermometer, says Prof. Leonard Hill of the London hospital. Also, the futurist home must be equipped with a hypocaust to meet futurist conditions, which demand warm feet and cool head.

Prof. Hill's invention, the katathermometer, tells whether the temperature indoors approximates that out of doors, his theory being that it is wrong to maintain a level summer heat in rooms. This is responsible, he believes, for the prevalence of nerve troubles. Houses should have plenty of air in circulation to match the air outside.

The hypocaust, to keep the feet warm while the fresh draughts cool the head, is an idea borrowed from the Romans. It is a plan for keeping the floors warm by flues from a furnace.

DANES AMAZED BY STEAM GANG PLOW.

Copenhagen, July 11.—The American steam gang plow has been introduced in Jutland, where it has reclaimed a large area for cultivation which had been covered with heather and thought worthless. In twenty minutes as much ground was turned over, the peasants were astonished to find, as would have taken a team of horses twelve hours. Mr. Winslow, the American consul, attended the experiments. So successful were they that the farmers are arranging to buy more plows.

BAD OPERATION AVOIDED

By Timely Use of Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Sowers' Own Statement.

Hodgdon, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Maine.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Officers elected by the association for the ensuing year are: President, Thomas D. Cooper, director of the North Dakota agricultural experiment station at Fargo; vice president, W. A. TAX EXEMPTION WILL BE TESTED

North Dakota Tax Commission Will Start Case in Grand Forks.

Bismarck, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota state law exempting certain church, lodge, hospital and similar properties from taxation will be tested in the courts through action to be started in Grand Forks county by the state tax commission.

The commission will take steps to mandamus the board of county commissioners of Grand Forks to compel that board to levy assessments against lodge properties in Grand Forks. Recently the city council refused to levy assessments against such properties, exempt under a statute, but the taxation problem has now passed out of the hands of the council, being before the county board of commissioners, acting as a county equalization board.

Should the properties in question be added to the tax rolls of the state, they would add greatly to the assessed valuation of the state. The tax commission has maintained for some time that the law is invalid, but only in a few taxing precincts of the state has this view been upheld.

WRITES HOME OF MEXICAN SERVICE

Brookston Boy in U. S. Navy Tells of West Coast Experience.

Brookston, Minn., July 11. (Special to The Herald.)—Walter M. Bauer of Brookston, who is aboard the U. S. S. New Orleans on the west coast of Mexico, has written an interesting letter to his parents here.

He says in part: "On June 7 we received orders to relieve the Raleigh and follow the Mexican warship Gen. Guerrero, on her way from Mazatlan to Guaymas and followed the warship to the latter port. On the 10th the Guerrero steamed to the Yagai valley and shelled a schooner loaded with ammunition which the rebels had captured from the Federals. Yesterday the Guerrero left Guaymas with our ship on her trail, and this morning she arrived here and engaged the rebel ship Tampico in a battle and succeeded in setting her on fire and sinking her. The Guerrero was hit with three shells. The Federals captured the captain and about twenty of the crew. We picked up six of the crew, who jumped overboard before the ship sank. Six were killed. The torpedo boats, Perry and Preble, are also here."

CRAZED BY HEAT AND BAD WHISKY.

Brainerd, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Driven insane by the intense heat and bad whisky, Carl Erickson rapped at the door of a prominent farmer near Bay lake at 3 o'clock in the morning, looking for a gun. Entrance being denied, he ran across a marsh and sixteen miles across country to Brainerd, where a policeman arrested him and lodged him in jail.

ASYLUM DEATH WILL BE PROBED.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 11.—County Attorney Anton Thompson has decided to bring the matter of Mrs. Hilda Bollins' death at the state hospital here before the grand jury at the coming term of the district court.

He hints at criminal carelessness and proposes to probe the matter thoroughly.

Mrs. Bollins is said to have died from being scalded in a bath tub at the asylum, when a nurse could not turn off the hot water.

GOOD RACING CARD AT CROOKSTON FAIR

Over Sixty Speedy Nags Expected to Be Entered in Races.

Crookston, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Besides better farming stock and other exhibits the annual fair of the Northwestern Minnesota Agricultural association which will open here next Tuesday, July 14, and continue for four days will furnish some of the best horse racing seen in the Northwest in some time.

Large purses have been provided for all classes and have attracted such horses for the free-for-all as Georgee Cano, 2:02, Don Densmore, 2:02½. Over sixty horses, the fastest track animals anywhere in the Northwest have been entered and filled the three new race stables to capacity. In the workouts some of the fast horses have done the mile in 2:16, which shows the track to be a fast one.

New Barns Erected.

In addition to the new racing stables, four new stock barns have been erected with a capacity of 500 head, and even these will not provide all the room necessary for the entries, necessitating the erection of several big stock tents. All of the new buildings have been painted white, and a veritable white city his been erected.

Water mains has been laid, connecting with all the stock barns, racing stables, grand stand, main exhibition building, which will be supplied with pure artesian water, a big convenience to the exhibitors and patrons of the fair. The fair this year will be a great big proposition and will properly represent the Minnesota Red River Valley counties from Polk county north.

The Great International shows will provide ample amusement features and insure big evening crowds.

Grounds All Parked.

The grounds have been parked and the entire enclosure of nearly 100 acres is laid out like a big park upon which 500 trees have been planted, concrete and gravel walks laid, roadways graveled, etc., running along the entire west side which runs to the main hallway an eight-foot woven wire art fence has been erected, attached to steel posts set in concrete, an exact duplication of the art fences at the state fair grounds at Hamline. An eight-foot woven wire fence was also provided for the two sides, while at the rear facing the railroad an eight-foot board fence has been erected upon which the fair is properly advertised, to passengers on both the northern Pacific and the Great Northern trains.

The only building from the old fair grounds that has been utilized is floral hall which is moved to the new grounds and improved, by the installation of a big refrigerator with a capacity of 200 tubs of butter which will be filled to overflowing with exhibits.

A new grand stand has been erected with seating capacity of almost 2,000 and elevated so that the lowest seat is ten feet above the race track, so that crowds passing in front of the grand stand will not interfere with the view of the race track.

ECZEMA BURNED SO NEARLY WENT CRAZY

Like Ringworms on Face and Neck. Later Formed White Scales. Spread. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

354 Plum St., Youngstown, Ohio.—"Blotches like ringworms started to come out all over my face and neck. Later it took the form of white flakes and when I would rub they came off in little white scales. The eczema so disfigured me that I was ashamed to go out anywhere. It itched all the time and whenever I perspired or got my face the least bit wet, it would burn until I very nearly went crazy. The more I rubbed or scratched the more it spread and it made me so restless I could not sleep at night.

"I used one remedy after another, ——, —— and two or three others that were made at home, but none of them did any good and I was despairing of ever being cured. One day a friend prevailed upon me to get a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. They caused the itching to stop instantly and in a very few days my face and neck began to show a marked improvement. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and my face and neck are completely cured." (Signed) Newton D. W. Chapman, Feb. 27, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

Although Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent free upon request. Address post-card: "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Planning for the Stork's Arrival

Among those things which all women should know of, and many of them do, is a splendid external application sold in most drug stores under the name of "Mother's Friend." It is a penetrating liquid and many and many a mother tells how it so wonderfully aided them through the period of expectancy. Its chief purpose is to render the tendons, ligaments and muscles so pliant that nature's expansion may be accomplished without the intense strain so often characteristic of the period of expectancy.

At any rate it is reasonable to believe that since "Mother's Friend" has been a companion to motherhood for more than half a century no more timely advice could be given the inexperienced mother than to suggest its daily use during expectancy.

Ask at any drug store for "Mother's Friend," a penetrating, external liquid of great help and value. And write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 302 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their book of useful and timely information to expectant mothers. It contains many suggestions that are of interest to all women.

WHEAT PRICE HOLDS FIRM

Market Closes Slightly Up in Near Futures After Early Weakness.

Trading in Flaxseed Quiet, With Price Changes Nominal.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 11—The wheat market was a nervous affair again today and on the windup prices were fractionally up in the new grain options.

The opening was weak on lower Liverpool cables, but later some active buying and short covering materialized on further rust reports from a few sections in South Dakota. After the call from the shorts was satisfied, the market eased off and became dull to the close.

There was an easier tone in the cash and the July option as a result of light eastern demand, and final transactions were at a lower range. July wheat opened ¼c off at 90½c and after easing off a fraction further, it bulged ⅝c. Then with some offerings it sold off to the opening figure at 90½c. September opened ⅛c off at 81c, and closed at 81¼@81⅜c, and the December option opened ⅜@½c off at 81c, and closed ⅛@¼c up at 82½c bid.

July durum opened unchanged at 86⅜c and closed ⅛c off at 86¼c bid. The September option opened unchanged at 82½c and closed ⅛c off at 82⅜c bid.

Oats were stronger in line with the bulge in corn at Chicago, closing ¼c up at 35½c for on the track or 34⅝c for to arrive. Rye closed 1c off at 57c for on the track or 56c for to arrive. Barley closed unchanged at from 38c to 50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 39¼c bid and October at 46⅞c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 79¼c, and calls at 80⅜c.

Apart from reports of black rust from a few scattering points in South Dakota, the general news of the day was bearish. Duluth operators received optimistic advices regarding the condition of the plant over Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana, and there was a disposition to take a cheerful view regarding the outlook in South Dakota. It was admitted by one of the crop reporters covering that state, that the black rust seen was of a different type from 1904, and he regarded the damage as largely local.

Country acceptances of wheat offers in the southwest were reported liberal, the bulk of the stuff to go out for export through the gulf ports. At Chicago, Armour and the cash houses were said to be free sellers of wheat in the early trading, but they reversed their position and turned buyers later.

Flaxseed Trading Quiet.

Business in flaxseed was merely nominal and trading was on the narrowest order during the session. The near futures weakened fractionally, but the other options closed unchanged.

The foreign markets were firm. Buenos Aires closed ¼c up and London and Liverpool unchanged.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.61¼ and closed ¼c off. September opened unchanged at $1.63½ and closed ⅛c off. October and November both opened and closed unchanged at $1.63½.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed at $1.40¼ bid, and October at $1.44⅝ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

At Minneapolis the cash market was very firm with the demand good. Blue stem sold at 2½@4c over July and velvet chaff at 2½@3c over.

Flour demands were slow for immediate delivery but there was an improved demand for deferred shipment. Cash one northern wheat sold there at from 87¾@90¼c and No. 2 northern at from 85¾@88¼c.

Lecount wired Baker from Madison, S. D.—"Crop is below the average. Wheat here is badly affected by red rust. There is also some black rust but the outcome cannot be determined for ten days. I do not think the damage will be very great as the black rust is of entirely different nature from 1904, though considerable damage is possible. From here south spring wheat is not an important crop, but going north the country runs into wheat rapidly. The weather is clear favorable and windy."

A wire from Winnipeg said: "Under present conditions the crop should be as large as last year. There are a good many dry spots, and these being sent out as a general crop failure."

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—Lower American cables yesterday prompted further selling here and the opening was ¼d lower, and following the opening prices further declined ¼d with the undertone easy. Favorable reports were received from Roumania, with winter offers 3d lower and a less active demand from the Continent. Toward the close there was support on shorts covering on the continued strong statistical situation and forecast of lighter world's shipments. At the close it was ½d to ⅝d lower."

* * *

"Corn opened unchanged with steady American cables. Later there was a decline of ¼d to ⅜d on the decline in Buenos Aires, and more favorable Argentine weather, but it again steadied on a good spot demand and firmness in nearby cargoes. At the close prices were ¼d lower."

At the Pacific coast harvesting is finished. Samples of new wheat and barley show excellent quality.

In the districts in the sea of Azoff, Russia reports coming to hand are that the rain was too late to be of much benefit and wheat is in a very unfavorable condition, according to Broomhall.

A wire from Chicago said: "Kansas City claimed considerable wheat was carried over unsold yesterday with the best bids 2c under prices paid the previous day. Cash corn values were strong with offerings small in all directions.

"Sales of cash grain in all positions were 625,000 bu wheat; sales to mills, 25,000 bu; corn, 100,000 bu, and oats, 300,000 bu. The seaboard reported 800,000 bu of wheat sold for export."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Easy, But Rallies on Northwest Heat.

Chicago, July 11.—Excessively high temperatures in the Northwest threatening damage to the spring crop rallied the wheat market today after an easy start. It was said the heat would overtop 100 degrees in many places before the day was over. Bearish cables were responsible for the depression at the outset. The opening, which was unchanged to ⅜c off was followed by a moderate setback all around, and then by a decided upturn.

Increasing reports of black rust injury were given considerable attention. The close, however, was weak ¼@½c under last night.

Fear that continued dry hot weather would bring about serious injury of the Illinois crop had a bullish effect on corn. Many speculators switched to the buying side. After opening ⅛c to ¾c higher, the market scored further gains.

Missouri reports that the crop was going back rapidly counted further against the bears. Closing prices were strong at an advance of 1@1¼c net.

Oats hardened with corn. Sellers were scarce.

Advancing prices for hogs carried provisions along. Shorts covered rather freely.

STOCK CLOSE IS IRREGULAR

Reduction of Western Rates Helps Bears Hammer Prices.

New Haven Gets to Lowest Figure in Its History.

New York, July 11.—Further acute weakness in New Haven shares was the feature of the early dealings on the stock exchange today.

Within the first half hour the stock declined abruptly on small dealings to 55½, compared with yesterday's low price of 58⅞. Ontario & Western, a New Haven subsidiary, also fell to the lowest quotation in some years. Otherwise price changes were mostly nominal, except for Canadian Pacific, which recovered a point of yesterday's loss and Baltimore & Ohio, which rose as much. Gould issues were not especially conspicuous, although Missouri Pacific reacted after an initial advance and soon went lower than before. Chesapeake & Ohio and Missouri, Kansas & Texas also established lower prices. Trading was in diminished volume, owing in part to the small attendance of brokers on the exchange.

Another selling movement occured today in New Haven, Chesapeake & Ohio, the Gould issues and some more obscure stocks, producing new low records. The selling appeared to be largely of bear origin, following an announcement that the interstate commerce commission had ordered the St. Paul road to reduce rates between Minnesota and North and South Dakota points. The closing was irregular.

Recoveries were made by high grade stocks and some of the low priced issues rebounded 1 to 2 points. The movement was checked, however, by sudden decline in Western Union and American Telephone & Telegraph which fell from 1 to over 2 points respectively.

QUIET TRADING IN MINING STOCKS

Business in mining stocks was quiet again today at Boston, but closing prices were fractionally up as a rule, as a result of steady inquiry for the standard stocks, and a firmer disposition of the part of holders.

Alaska Gold closed 25c up at $27.50; Butte & Superior a fraction up at $36.88; Butte & Ballaklava unchanged at $2.75; Calumet & Arizona 25c off at $64.25; Granby unchanged at $79; Greene-Cananea 25c up at $28.75; North Butte unchanged at $24.75, and Amalgamated Copper unchanged at $70.

In the Duluth curb list, Keating sold at $2 and Alex Scott at $5.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following comment from Boston:

"Further pressure characterized the stock market today. The Gould stocks and New Haven were the leaders with nearly the entire list affected. Selling of Missouri Pacific was traced to the same source as yesterday, and it made a new low record. The volume of trading showed a tendency to broaden and increased the belief that this is due to pressure of liquidation and is gradually placing the market in a position when the better support, than short covering is essential to bring about a good reaction and induce a better class of buying.

MUNICIPAL CHAPLAIN.

Ironwood Minister Would Pray for City Council.

Ironwood, Mich., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. A. E. Healey, pastor of the First Methodist church here believes that like the sittings of the national and state law-making bodies, the meetings of the city council should be opened with prayer. He is advocating the appointment of a municipal chaplain. "The recognition of God in all the work of the community would do much to bring about justice to all of the heterogenous class of people in our city," the clergyman says. Mr. Healey urges also that a voting hall should be erected in each ward and in it should be placed pictures of famous American statesmen. "Then," he argues, "the electors could commune with the greatest of men and, under their influence, endeavor to serve their city and state in the same unselfish manner as our past presidents and law-makers."

The animal was in a clearing a mile from the house.

M. Frost. An energetic campaign is being waged by the women.

PIER TO HAVE ELECTRICITY

Congressman Miller Promises Better Service For Range Lights.

As a result of agitation for a better system of lighting of the piers at the Duluth entrace to the bay, it is probable, assures Congressman Miller, that a system of electric lights will be established in the south pier, the control of which will be independent of water.

The matter was brought to Congressman Miller's attention following the fiasco of furnishing guide lights in the storm last spring when the steamer Benjamin Noble was lost with all hands. Many believed that the lack of range lights doubtless caused this loss, as it left the steamer and her crew out in the storm without a guide. It was said that the lights were not lighted on the south pier of the entrance because the lighthouse man could not get out to them, and there there was no way by which they could be manipulated from shore. In reply to a letter sent by Frederick B. Spelman, chairman of the Commercial club's committee on harbors and waterways, Mr. Miller writes:

"The lighthouse board has given extended consideration to your suggestions and has had an investigation of the premises made. I have gone over the matter carefully with the board and have submitted such personal views as, in my judgment, the circumstances warrant. It is practically decided to establish an electrical system of lights in the south pier, such that the control will be independent of the water. The lighthouse board has been a trifle deliberate in arriving at a decision but that deliberation has been accompanied by careful consideration. It is practically decided that a complete new electric lighting system will be installed in the very near future."

This news will, doubtless, be received by marine men with a feeling of relief, for in a storm, under present conditions, unless the lighthouse man happens to be marooned at the end of the pier, being caught early by the storm and unable to get back, the probability is that no guiding range lights will be seen by the masters of craft out in the gale after darkness falls.

Anent life-saving matters, Congressman Miller, in the same letter, says that Mr. Kennedy, in charge of the life saving service, promised some months since, to purchase a high power launch for the life saving station here, the moment funds are available for the purpose. He says, declares Congressman Miller, that an appropriation for his department is now pending and as soon as the bill passes he will know for certain whether or not he can purchase the launch this season.

PROCEDURE AS TO BREAKWATER

Congressman Tells of Necessary Steps to Obtain Harbor Protection.

Sometime ago Frederick B. Spelman, chairman of the committee on harbors and waterways of the Duluth Commercial club, wrote Congressman C. B. Miller of this district concerning the matter of how best to proceed in regard to obtaining a breakwater for the Duluth entry. He has just received Mr. Miller's answer, dated at Washington, July 8, but since that time Mr. Miller has conferred with United States Senator Nelson of Minnesota and yesterday had provision for an appropriation for a survey for the proposed breakwater inserted in the rivers and harbors bill. However, in his letter to Mr. Spelman, the congressman says:

"There is only one procedure possible. Let me give you a word of history. Ever since I have been a member of congress I have been urging upon the river and harbor authorities the advisability of a breakwater at Duluth. I have had many conversations with the chief of engineers and his associates on the board governing river and harbor improvements respecting this very important matter. You are no doubt, advised that under the law no appropriation can be secured for a river and harbor project that does not have the approval of this board. Therefore it is necessary to secure the approval of this board.

"The board of army engineers finally stated that it was absolutely useless to argue the case further until the navigators and operators were agreed that the breakwater should be constructed in the interests of navigation. I am pleased to inform you that very recently I have received absolute assurances that the lake navigators and the vessel owners are ready to indorse the breakwater project.

"It was constantly asserted by the board of engineers and the vessel men that a breakwater was being constructed at the Superior entrance and it would be advisable first to try this and see how it worked before the big breakwater project should be undertaken at the Duluth end. The Superior breakwater has worked with entire satisfaction. Personally I have always considered and now consider a breakwater one of the essential features of the harbor scheme at Duluth and one the government should undertake without delay.

"It is first necessary that there be a survey made by the board of army engineers relative to the propect. The survey will require the passage of a law authorizing it. At the time it is made, hearings will be had, at which all interested parties will be notified to express their views. At that time Duluth, and especially your Commercial club, under the leadership of your committee, will be able to render most efficient and valuable services. It will be wise to have the matter carefully arranged so that the strongest possible representation be made. If the report from the board of army engineers is favorable, the next step will be to secure an appropriation."

WOULD CHECK OVERFLOW

City and County Will Confer on Mission Creek Problem.

At the council meeting Monday a resolution will be passed designating Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, and City Engineer John Wilson, a committee to confer with County Commissioner Charles Kauppi and County Engineer E. K. Coo to work out a plan for preventing future overflowing of Mission creek at Fond du Lac.

The last two springs the creek has gone over its banks following heavy rain storms, doing considerable damage to adjacent property. The owners have filed damage claims against the city and although the legal department says that the liability against the city is doubtful, the officials recognize the fact that something should be done to prevent future damage of that nature.

The city and county officials will work out a plan for making the necessary changes and repairs. This plan will be submitted to the city council and the county commissioners for approval. They will share the expense but what the proportion of each will be has not been determined.

A resolution will be passed vacating part of the St. Louis River road in section 1, 49-15, where it intersects the western extension of the boulevard near Oneota cemetery. The city's drive was run over private property for a distance of about 600 feet and the vacation is granted in return for an easement. The city is also giving the owners a small piece of ground below the boulevard.

Sanitary sewers will be ordered in East Tenth street between Eighth and Ninth avenues and in East Seventh street between Nineteenth and Eighteenth avenues.

Judge Dancer of the district court this morning granted findings in favor of the plaintiff in the case of L. Karon and Ben Karon against Beccy Karon and the First National bank and signed an order for a writ of injunction against the bank enjoining them from delivering the possession of two promissory notes, one for $50 and another for $75, to the defendant Beccy Karon or anyone else except the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs claim that they executed the two notes to the defendant Beccy Karon on the condition that she perform certain conditions, but that she failed to carry out her part of the agreement.

OBITUARY

M. Hartwig, the Russian minister to Servia, died suddenly in Belgrade, July 10. M. Hartwig was one of the best known of Russian diplomats. He was formerly minister to Persia. He is believed to have had much to do with the formation of the Balkan alliance and the preparation for the Balkan war. His strong Servian sympathies made him obnoxious to Austria.

Prof. Julius Rodenberg, the German poet and author, died in Berlin July 11 in his 84th year.

FINE PROGRAM FOR CONCERT

An excellent program has been prepared for the season's fourth free band concert which will be given at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Fairmont park by the Third regiment band.

The park is one of the prettiest and most picturesque in the city and if the weather is favorable the music will be heard by another large crowd. A number have planned to bring picnic lunches with them and spend the day enjoying the day outdoors, with the concert as the chief attraction of the afternoon.

The weather of three preceding Sundays on which band concerts have been given has been of the made-to-order variety and thousands have turned out to hear the music. The band will be under the direction of Charles Helmer.

The program will be as follows:

DOUBLEHEADER FOR SUNDAY

It was decided at noon today that there will be two games with the Fort William team tomorrow. The first game will be called at 2 o'clock and the second one immediately after the conclusion of the first one. Ezells, the new pitcher who was secured from the Sioux City team of the Western league, and who made so excellent a showing in the game against Grand Forks Thursday, will probably work in one of the games against the Canadians. Either Cunningham or Blancke will work in the other one. The Dooks are out to take both of the games, though Hawkins, the star of the Fort William team, will probably work in one of the games for the Twins.

REFERENDUM VOTE ON BILLS REPORTED

Washington, July 11.—Results of a referendum on the trust bills pending in congress, conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States among its constituent members, were announced here today at the headquarters of the chamber. Some organizations declined to vote, giving as their reason that they regarded such legislation unnecessary at this time. Business organizations in thirty-six states, casting a total vote of 559, recorded their views.

The vote against attempt by statute to forbid discrimination in prices of commodities was 531 to 22.

That a proposal to compel persons controlling the product of mines to sell all applicants "who may be responsible," is wrong in principle and unworkable in practice, was voted 527 to 32.

That there should not be statutory prohibition of conditions accompanying sales and leases to the effect that buyers or lessees cannot handle or use the products of competitors, was voted 514 to 35.

That a final decree in an equity suit brought by the government which establishes the existence or the non-existence of restraint of trade or of a monopoly should be conclusive evidence as to the same general fact in private actions brought against the same defendants under the anti-trust laws, was voted 484 to 62.

TAG BRIGADE HELPS LIFT CHURCH DEBT

"Will you have a tag?"

Probably every pedestrian of the downtown district in the city was approached today and requested to buy a tag. The proceeds are to go toward lifting the mortgage and other indebtedness, the whole amounting to $5,000, of the African M. E. church.

As the tag plan has been very successful for raising funds upon other occasions the members of the African M. E. church decided to adopt it as a mortgage lifter.

Young women of the congregation were stationed at the street corners and if any person escaped without being tagged it was due to the fact that he was remarkably skillful in eluding the money-raising brigade.

"BURGLAR" WAS ONLY THE "PROPERTY MAN"

"Someone just broke into the rear of the Empress theater and I guess you had better detail a squad of officers to come up here at once," came over the telephone at police headquarters shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

Lieut. Barber received the message from Patrolman Englert, who saw a man enter the theater building. The former immediately formed a squad of officers and the men started out for the theater. Lieut. Barber, Sergeant Moberg and Patrolman Toewe and Dinkel, who made up the party of officers, met Englert at the corner of Lake avenue and Superior street.

"You two stay in front of the building," said Lieut. Barber to Sergt. Roberg and Patrolman Toewe, "while the rest of us will go to the rear of the building. We will break in and if the man gets out the front way, nab him."

With these instructions Lieut. Barber and the two patrolmen went to the Michigan street side of the theater and after gaining entrance discovered the man, who broke into the building. He was asleep in the "property man's" room. Promptly unconscious that a squad of officers had surrounded the building to effect his capture.

But the strange part of it all was that he was the "property man" himself. He had come in to spend the night.

BROTHER CLAIMS SUICIDE'S BODY.

Word was received here this morning from Harry Freed of Norristown, Pa., a brother of Harrison J. Freed, who committed suicide in his room at 428 West Second street, some time Wednesday night.

William Crawford of the Crawford undertaking rooms will send the body to Norristown tomorrow evening and interment will take place there next Wednesday. The local arrangements for the sending of the body are in charge of the Odd Fellows, of which the young man was a member.

Freed was found dead in his bed early Thursday evening, with a package of potassium of cyanide lying underneath a dresser in the room. An autopsy held yesterday morning disclosed that he died of poison. He was a sailor and until recently sailed on the steamer Booth. Despondency over a love affair is believed to have caused him to take his life.

CITY WILL NOT ORDER WORK

Ask For Petition If Property Owners Want Concrete Road.

The city commission will not pass a resolution ordering the concreting of the New Duluth road at the regular council meeting Monday afternoon.

The commissioners state that the property owners should present a petition asking that the work be done. They say that in that way they can expedite the work so that it may be done this year. They point out that a resolution ordering the work would have to lay over sixty days, which would probably result in nothing being done this season. It would also make is possible for objectors to file a remonstrance, which could not be done if a petition is presented. Under a petition there would also be no question of the cost of the work being assessed against the property benefited, except for the city's share for intersections.

Commissioner Murchison, head of the works division, said this morning that he expects such a petition will be presented within a short time. He asserted that he and his colleagues are opposed to ordering the work by resolution. The petition which is being circulated calls for the paving of the road from Zimmerly avenue to the west side of the large fill on Commonwealth avenue, a distance of about two miles. This includes the substitute road which the property owners have failed to improve.

As soon as the petition is received, a meeting of the council will be called to start the work without loss of time. Every effort will be made to finish the concreting as soon as possible. It is doubtful if the street car tracks will be extended to the steel plant this year.

DESTRUCTION OF LIGHTS CONTINUES

Complaints continue to come to Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, of the wanton destruction of street lights in various parts of the city. The last came from the Duluth-Edison company relative to the Mazda globe at Thirtieth avenue east and London road.

The company states that this is not the first time this light has been destroyed. Commissioner Merritt said this morning that he would recommend to the council that this light be discontinued. The same policy will likely be followed with other lights which are repeatedly broken. The commissioner says that it is useless to pay for lights which render little or no service, and that if the residents of the various vicinities where this is done want a street light, they should cooperate with the city to apprehend those guilty. It has been almost impossible to learn their identity. If this could be done, examples would be made of them, which might result in the destruction of the lights being stopped.

EMPLOYES AT PICNIC.

The employes of the water and light department are holding their first picnic at the grounds of the Lakewood pumping station this afternoon. Arrangements were made for transporting the picnickers by automobile from the end of the car line at Lester Park. The Merritt Utility association is furnishing coffee and ice cream and those attending brought their own baskets. An excellent program of sports is scheduled.

Many came from individuals, and others from organizations. The committee's adverse report on Jones will be presented next week. An effort will be made to consider it in open, instead of executive session. Acting Chairman Hitchcock, leading the opposition, said he would welcome public discussion.

FEAR WORST IS TO COME

Butte Citizens Alarmed at Prevalence of Anarchistic Spirit.

Reign of Terror Results From Use of Dynamite as Argument.

Butte, Mont., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The I. W. W. and the Miners' union rebels have at last disclosed their real purpose and grievances. At a public meeting of the new union, dominated by the I. W. W., a long statement was issued, devoted entirely to an attack on the Amalgamated Copper company, the one employing corporation among mining concerns that has in all its long history and the history of its predecessors not had a single strike or unsettled controversy with employes; a corporation that comes as near to being a profit sharing corporation as any can be under present conditions, which bases its wages to employes on the rise and fall of the price of its own products, and which is constantly trying to better conditions for the miners, and is even now carrying out a project to build homes and productive farms for its employes by which each may become independent.

The I. W. W. and seceders say the company has controlled the affairs of the old union, has made its officers financially prosperous, and has prevented the vast majority from participating in the affairs and business of the union. They have already outlined a course of conduct and intent toward the company. First, they are going to demand the abolition of the rustling card system, and then they are going to demand a permanent increase in wages, and a share in the wealth they produce. If they can get that, they will undoubtedly make other demands on the mining companies.

Dynamite as Argument.

The element of discord and rebellion now rampant in Butte has not yet been able to directly involve the companies, and so far the mines have operated at normal capacity, without interruption, but it can't be said how long that condition will continue. The I. W. W. spirit is in the saddle, and dynamite is the potent argument. The direct result so far has been the destruction of union property, the murder of one man, several general riots, and an attempt to assassinate Mayor Lewis J. Duncan, the Socialist head of Butte, by one of his own kind, a direct action Socialist, who was offended because the mayor would not obey a request or order from a band of direct-actionists to drive out of town a lot of men who expressed themselves opposed to lawlessness and I. W. Wism.

At the conclusion of the big meeting of rebels, at which the hostile statement was issued, a member wearing the white button of the seceders, made the statement to one of the newspapers that the "boys" had the Amalgamated by the throat, and that if the mines were shut down as a means of punishment they would "blow up every mine from Silver Bow to the Butte and Bacorn," Conditions in Butte are appalling.

The chamber of commerce was requested by many people to meet and consider the situation, but its members received warnings from the dynamiting element, and they scattered without taking action and then begged the newspapers not to mention the fact that a meeting was held or that the matter was considered. A meeting of citizens was called to be held in the office of a man who himself had preached, in years gone by, the virtue of dynamite, and the I. W. W.'s stationed men in the building to take the names of citizens attending the meeting, and others were warned that they would be marked men if they attended. Then there was another scattering of citizens and no action toward the contemplated organization of a committee of safety was taken. Mayor Duncan was induced to add a few more policemen to his force, but he took the precaution not to refer to the actual reason or need of additional peace officers, but stated to the public that they were required because the approach of the horse-racing season brought people into Butte who needed watching. It has been a very frequent thing in newspaper offices to receive large delegations of I. W. W. and other lawless men who issued orders and warnings as to what facts should not be published, and what things might be printed. They even took it on themselves to go into newspaper offices and remove objectionable bulletins, and once when they encountered some red-blooded opposition they called in the sheriff to have the bulletins suppressed, under threats of violence. During the height of the rioting the cry, "Let's dynamite the newspapers" was frequently heard on the streets.

After President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners, and some of his officers had fled from Butte to save their lives, the governor of the state opened negotiations with the leader of the mob, in an effort to restore peace, and was snubbed. He appealed to the mayor for protection to some of the Butte men who wished to return to their homes, and the mayor advised that they would return at their own risk. The revolt against Moyer and the federation includes several thousand of the best and most peaceable miners in the district, but the revolt has gotten away from them and they are in the hands of an element of destruction whose ranks have been augmented ever since the story of Butte's riots has been published. They have flocked into Butte on every brake-beam and freight train by the hundreds. While the town was wrought up and excited over the attempted assassination of Mayor Duncan an I. W. W. speaker was haranguing a crowd in Butte, and glorying in the results of recent riots here.

Mayor Duncan spoke from his hospital bed to say that if the attack upon himself, and the fatal shot he fired into his assailant would bring the riotous element to a clearer sense and tend to restore peace, he would not regret the tragedy, but a very large portion of the people of Butte fear that the worst is yet to come.

Certain lawyers in Butte have been complaining that they could not get fair trials in Butte because of the alleged influence on courts and juries by the big mining companies. One lawyer has been demanding changes of venue and has carried his cases from the state to the Federal courts and from Montana into other states. A recent suit of a miner against the North Butte Mining company for $40,000, brought by the lawyer in question, was tried in the Federal court at Butte and a verdict returned by the jury in favor of the company. However, the judge granted the plaintiff a new trial on an erroneous instruction to the jury. Before the case could be tried again the attorneys for the plaintiff dismissed the suit and later instituted another action at Duluth, the home of the North Butte company, the latter being incorporated under the laws of the state of Minnesota. The suit was tried there recently and the jury again returned a verdict in favor of the company. Lawyers in Montana had been watching the case with much interest, as considerable comment had been created when the suit was dismissed here and later revived in Minnesota.

Electrification work was started last week on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road in Montana, out of Deer Lodge, and at the same time the company's contractors began excavation work for a passenger station in Butte. A band of I. W. W. and walking delegates of the Workingmen's union and the Electrical Workers' union, notified the company that the men employed not being members of the Butte union, they could not work. All work was stopped. When it will be resumed is not known. Several years ago when the St. Paul built into Butte it started to establish division headquarters and repair shops here. The labor unions interfered and the division was changed to Deer Lodge. Since then, the company discovers, the Butte unions have extended their sphere of influence and jurisdiction.

The beginning of construction work on the proposed Southern Montana railway, which is to open the enormous Big Hole basin and the Elkhorn and French gulch mining districts, has been delayed by the general financial conditions, but all preliminary work has been done and nearly the entire right of-way has been procured. A cablegram from London says the bond issue has been placed and that actual work on the road has only been delayed a little. The development work at the Elkhorn mines has gone on without interruption. The big tunnel has been driven in at the Wise river water level about 450 feet. Many quartz stringers, containing ore, have been cut, all showing the characteristic of the big veins which have been opened on the surface. Supt. Hall is very confident that the Elkhorn mines will rival those of Butte in a few years.

The Butte-Milwaukee Copper company, owner of the Col. Sellers' group of mines in the Butte district, has practically been put out of business and its property has been, or will be, sold to the Butte-New York Copper company, a concern that was absorbed by the Butte & Superior company. When the new interests got hold of the Butte-New York nearly all the Butte-Milwaukee share holders exchanged their stock for Butte-New York. A minority held out and then the Butte & Superior interests called a special meeting and voted to sell the assets of the Butte-Milwaukee to the Butte-New York for $500,000. It is stated that the last named company will be continued in control and separate from the Butte & Superior, and that funds will be raised by the sale of stock for the further development of the Col. Sellers' group. The Butte & Superior got possession under a contract to run a crosscut from the main shaft of the Butte & Superior to the shaft of the Col. Sellers at a depth of 1,200 feet, which has been done. While nothing of value was found in the crosscut, other developments in the Col. Sellers' property have demonstrated that it has great prospective value.

The Butte & Superior itself is making no effort at present to increase its output, and no extensive development work has been done lately. It is stated, however, that the "ore in sight" in the mine is maintained at about 1,200,000 tons. The ordinary course of mining has demonstrated that the ore bodies are increasing in depth and in extent to the eastward, beyond any estimates that had been made. The Butte & Superior mill has raised the recovery to 93 per cent and the concentrates to 54 per cent zinc. Very little value has been running to waste lately.

Thomas F. Cole of Duluth has been in Butte on a tour of inspection of the North Butte and Rainbow Development company properties and expresses himself well pleased with results. Regarding the Rainbow, which company is developing a large new area of ground on the east side of the old district and is also doing the work on the Butte & London, Mr. Cole said: "The veins are there, and we are developing the property as fast as we can. There is much work to be done and I prefer to wait for this work to show for itself before making predictions."

The recently organized and incorporated International Smelting company of Montana was formed for the purpose of taking over the Tooele smelter in Utah and the proposed smelter in Arizona to avoid the necessity of taking the Anaconda Copper Mining company, which recently purchased the International Smelting & Refining company, into Utah and Arizona with its large capitalization. The Anaconda, of course, owns all the stock of the Montana corporation.

SHIPPING TO ANOTHER MILL

Isle Royale Production More Than Its Own Mill Can Handle.

Calumet & Hecla Is Planning a Big Reclamation Project.

Houghton, Mich., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Isle Royale began this week to ship rock to the Centennial-Allouez mill.

This has been expected for some time as the production has been flooding the Isle Royale mill for the last three months. So much development work has been done for the last two and one-half years and is being continued at the present time that the number of available stopes of good ground is constantly increasing. Of course, the past records are being broken very fast and it is probably a fact that within a period of from one to two years six stamps, double the number at the old mill, if not more, will be required. Another fact that is very encouraging is the return of the yield a ton, which fell off from 16.4 pounds in 1911 and 15.4 in 1912 to 13.2 in 1913, and which for the current year so far is back to tie the earlier figures. The great decrease was due to the great amount of development work and comparatively small amount of stoping. With an increase in the latter, an increase in the yield will follow and probably within a year or so new records will be established, and consequently the costs, excluding those of construction, will be decreased, a reduction that will be further decreased by means of the gradual rise in production. The costs for 1912 of 11.89 cents should be taken as a criterion rather than those of 1913 of 18.81, as this extraordinary figure represents the expenses of the strike. The only construction cost for this year of any importance will be that of retimbering No. 1 shaft, and this will not be large and will greatly aid in the increase of output. It is likely that there will be an expenditure of this nature each year for two or three years to come as probably No. 7 shaft will be started again next year and unless the copper should pinch out, of which there is hardly a possibility, two more shafts will be sunk. In order to increase production with a view of ultimately hoisting rock to the shaft's capacity new development work is being increased, and sinking has been resumed within the three past weeks at shafts Nos. 5 and 4. At the former which so far has disclosed the best ground of any of the shafts the sinking is being carried down from 104 feet below the tenth level, 1,389 feet from the surface and at the latter from fifty-six feet below the sixteenth level, 2,118.5 feet down. These depths with those of the remaining shafts, 3,116 feet at No. 2 and 1,694 at No. 6, and 1,335 at No. 1, show that according to Lake Superior standards, several inclined shafts having a depth of over 7,000 feet, that the lodes of this mine are but merely "scratched." In short, the conditions at this mine are very favorable at the present moment.

Calumet & Hecla.

Calumet & Hecla has started up at its new regrinding mill eleven Hardinge conical tube regrinding mills with their "wash" of Wilfley tables. This work is being done for the purpose of testing the units and getting them into good running order by treating the sands from the Hecla mill. They are destined for the reclamation of the $40,000,000 worth of copper that is estimated to be contained in the vast quantity of sands that lie along the shore extending for a long distance out into Torch Lake. There will be finally installed sixty-four mills of which about two-thirds are already in position. Each mill will have a capacity of fifty tons daily, making that of the whole plant, roundly speaking, about 3,000 tons. All of the mills and the tables are being manufactured in the company's shops at Calumet. The mammoth dredge built by the Bucyrus company will be completed about the last of this month.

Calumet & Hecla, at the Cliff mine, drilled a series of holes from the Kearsarge lode, a little over two miles southeast, passing through the Cliff and one-quarter section of the Frontenac to the limits of the Calumet & Hecla's holdings in this direction. The drill was then moved a mile southwest on the same strike and the cross-section is being continued for about a quarter of a mile on the Cliff, then a little over one-half of a mile through the Tamarack to the eastern sandstone. Nothing of value was encountered in the first part of this work and nothing has yet been announced by the company as to its findings on the last part. There is quite an interest shown in this work here as it is the first time that the lowest member of the Keweenawan series, the Bohemian Range group, has been systematically and scientifically explored.

Keweenaw.

Keweenaw Copper with its No. 15 hole has just passed through fifty-eight feet of copper and nearly forty-two feet of this extent has commercial values. The management has arrived at the conclusion, from the showings of the many holes and the Phoenix shaft, that the Ashbed lodge is naturally divided into three parts. The upper is an amygdaloidal conglomerate that is, conglomerate having pebbles of amygdaloidal rock instead of the hard felisitic varieties of the Calumet and Allouez conglomerates, and it displays the characteristics of a conglomerate in a very marked degree. The middle member is a trap which varies in thickness from two or three feet to about twenty-nine and which has the general appearance of a "horse" The lowest member is what is known as the Ashbed lode and is itself an amygdaloidal conglomerate whose characteristics are not easily distinguishable, and which averages about twenty-six feet in width. In this hole the first and second members are each sixteen feet wide and the third is twenty-six feet. The first and third have a good mineralization, which is quite thoroughly distributed, while about five-eights of the third possess some copper. This somewhat rare occurrence of copper in the trap has been observed in two or three feet to about twenty-nine and which has the general appearance of a "horse" The lowest member is what is known as the Ashbed lode and is itself an amygdaloidal conglomerate whose characteristics are not easily distinguishable, and which averages about twenty-six feet in width. In this hole the first and second members are each sixteen feet wide and the third is twenty-six feet. The first and third have a good mineralization, which is quite thoroughly distributed, while about five-eights of the third possess some copper. This somewhat rare occurrence of copper in the trap has been observed in two other holes. This hole is the first of the deeper series that is being drilled to cut the lode at nearly 800 feet in depth, and it is located in the vicinity of the old Garden City shaft, which lies east of the Phoenix shaft. The drill has been moved for No. 16 hole in the east of the Crest View park which is located east of the village of Eagle River about the distance of a ten minutes' walk, for the purpose of testing the lode at the depth of the first series, 400 feet, in a small tract not previously explored. Specimens from the Phoenix shaft Armstrong below the fissure, said to be good average selections, reveal the lode as unbroken and as carrying very good grades of the metal. The thin flakes of copper seemed to have passed out of the shaft with the disturbed ground.

WILL LEACH ORES.

Calumet & Arizona Co. Has Evolved Process for Handling Overburden.

The popularity of the leaching process grows apace. The latest convert to this method for the recovery of values is Calumet & Arizona, which announces, through Dr. L. D. Ricketts, that a suitable process has been evolved for the profitable leaching of the surface capping of oxidized ores at the company's big steam shovel proposition in the Ajos district, Ariz. The evolving of a suitable process for the treatment of these ores, which constitute the overburden at the Ajos property, is one of very great importance, as it eliminates the stripping expense to which steam shovel mines are usually subject, and insures the company a profit from what, in other similar properties, is usually waste material.

The plant to handle these ores will have an initial capacity of 2,000 tons daily. There is no surface water available, but General Manager Greenway has put down drillholes and finds the desert underlaid by water at depths of 400 to 500 feet and is of the opinion that enough water can be cheaply obtained in this way for all milling and other purposes connected with the enterprise. Fuel oil will furnish cheap power. Ultimately it is probable that the harnessing of the Colorado river at Yuma, 140 miles distant, may furnish even cheaper hydro-electric power. The important question of sulphuric acid is still in abeyance.

The large-scale steam shovelling of the ore without surface stripping of any kind; the simple coarse crushing; the probable use of cheap acid manufactured at the companys' own smelter; together with cheap oil or hydro-electric power, combine to make the Ajos ore body an exceptionally low cost proposition for leaching. Besides, the ore contains two ounces of silver per ton, and $1 in gold, and it is possible to recover most of the silver and some of the gold. The copper will run close to 2 per cent, or forty pounds per ton, of which 80 per cent will go into solution with three to four days' leaching in 3 to 6 per cent cold acid—these figures suggesting a probable ultimate recovery of somewhere between 60 and 75 per cent of the original copper content of the ore.

It is impossible to figure costs closely, since the whole matter is still in the experimental stage; but enough work has been done to indicate that the carbonate surface ores can be "stripped off" without expense, and yielding in fact a handsome profit in the operation.

CUYUNA IRON PROPERTIES SHOWING MUCH ACTIVITY

Eastern Directors Will Inspect Cuyuna-Duluth and Other Mines.

The Week's Trading in Ore Lands Brisk—Many Transfers.

Brainerd, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eastern directors of the American Manganese Manufacturing company are expected on the range next week to inspect the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs and the Cuyuna-Duluth mines and to arrange for heavy shipments. The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine has recently completed shipments to the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company at Ashland.

The Duluth-Brainerd mine north of Ironton and near Iron Mountain will be in ore in a few days. Isaac Williams and Gust Hill are the shift bosses and eighteen or more miners are employed. At the Cuyuna-Sultana property it is estimated that 16,200,000 tons of ore have been proven up. The progress of the shaft has been very satisfactory. It is now down more than sixty-four feet, showing five feet of ore. The shaft will be put down to seventy-five feet, at which depth drifting will be done. The mine ore is especially valuable on account of its manganiferous qualities, thus commanding a higher price in the market than ordinary iron ore.

At the Barrows mine at Barrows the M. A. Hanna company is taking up the last big pump and steam will be shut off in a few days. Supt. W. J. Nicholas, who has been a year and a month at Barrows, expects to be transferred to the Crystal Falls district in Michigan.

The Lenox Development company held its regular monthly meeting on its property in Section 10, township 43, range 32 near the station of Lenox. Furnace connections may be made with Eastern furnaces. The Lenox Development company owns 254 acres. Considerable ore was found on the north end of the property and near here is where B. B. Gaylord of Crosby has had a drill working for some time.

Shafts Being Cleared.

After meeting with no serious obstacles and making bed rock, Supt. Alien MacKay may have thought his troubles were over and that his shaft was down permanently. But a boil of water was encountered and in a short time the shaft had filled up fifty feet. Work is now being carried on clearing the shaft. The same difficulty was encountered by the Brainerd-Cuyuna mine in the city limits of Brainerd. The first shaft filled with quick sand and water. The second one, backed by 40-foot steel piling driven through the quick sand area is now about in ledge, and both shafts are comparatively free from water.

Three options for sub-lease have been filed and these include Frank A. Barber and others to Louis Peterson, covering the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 33, 47-29; the High Grade Managnese company to Franklin W. Merritt and Louis Peterson and covering the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 33, 47-29; W. A. Kerr to Louis Peterson and covering the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 33, 47-29.

The Inter-State Mining company is check drilling the property of the Cuyuna Iron & Manganese Ore company and finding good ore. At the Merrimac Mining company property including the Hans Anderson forty and the forty owned by John G. Williams and A. M. Chisholm of Duluth and B. Magoffin, Jr., of Deerwood, surveyors, have designated where the main shaft is to be, with the temporary shaft 400 feet north.

Iroquois Tonnage Assured.

Of the tonnage which the Cuyuna iron range is practically assured is that of the Iroquois mine 250,000 tons, the Rogers, Brown Ore company, 200,000 tons, the Thompson pit mine soon to start shipping, 250,000 tons; the Rowe pit mine in Riverton, 300,000 tons, while the Barrows mine has shipped 20,000 tons and the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine about that amount. Other mines are preparing for shipments.

John T. Murphy of the Superior Telegram has been on the range looking after his various interests. Ben P. Brown and M. A. Keeley of Grand Forks, were range visitors. Franklin W. Merritt of Minneapolis has placed a drill on section 33, 47-29, and the Stowell Exploration company will do the drilling.

The rails are laid half the distance from Loerch on the Northern Pacific railway to the Wilcox mine. Northern Pacific officials have authorized the connection at Cedar Lake with the Soo line. The general idea is that the Northern Pacific will get considerable haulage from the Kennedy mine at Cuyuna.

At the Crow Wing county poor farm the Longyear Exploration company drill is down fifty feet in the surface at the fourth hole. Some ore, 50 per cent in quality, but at considerable depth, was found in the second hole.

The Minnesota Land & Colonization company, W. J. Schwab and the Gopher Iron company, have given an easement deed, consideration $200, to the Soo line, being a strip 100 feet wide across the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 23, 47-29. Milton Alfred Gilbert and the Little Rabbit Iron company have given an easement deed, consideration $1, to the Soo line, covering a strip 100 feet wide across the west half of the northeast quarter of section 5, 46-29.

William E. Dean has conveyed to E. M. Merrick the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter, the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter, the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 7, 138-25; the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 15, 138-25; the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 17, 138-25; the west half of the northeast quarter and the east half of the northwest quarter of section 18, 138-25. Christ J. Dehnning has deeded to the Soo line by easement deed, consideration $562, a strip 100 feet in width across lot 3, and George Dehning across lot 2 and the east 7.7 acres of lot 1 of section 20, 47-28, consideration $933.

Trading Is Active.

The Felthouse Land company has sold to the Wisconsin Ore-Land company the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter and the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 20, 138-28; the north half of the northwest quarter of section 28, 138-28. James B. Fulton has sold to B. A. Marshall for $1,000 the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 11, 136-29. John Kemler has sold to H. L. Nehls and S. A. Wilson for $2,000 the east half of the northeast quarter, the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 1, 138-25. The Minnesota Land Corporation has sold to the Cuyuna Ore Land company lot 1, the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 10, 138-28.

Wm. Ritchel has sold to E. H. Loofbourrow an undivided third interest in the east half of the southeast quarter, the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 2, 138-26. Albert Atherton has sold to Peter J. Walters an undivided half of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 30, 137-28. David E. Hagadone has sold to Robert Harmon Jordon the north half of the southwest quarter of section 15, 134-28 for $1,100. Seth E. Thompson has sold to Otto Fletcher the west half of the southwest quarter of section 28, 138-25 for $600.

The Star Iron Mining company has been incorporated by Ben P. Brown and M. A. Keeley of Duluth and E. A. Lamb of Deerwood with a capital stock of $50,000. The highest amount of indebtedness allowed is $10,000. The board of directors includes the above and W. W. Fegan and E. A. Hershberger of Grand Forks, N. D. The principal place of business will be at Ironton.

FEWER MEN ON PAY ROLL

Steel Corporation Curtailing Operations in Marquette Ore District.

Activities on Mesaba Range May Be Responsible for Retrenchment.

Employing ten years ago in its mines on the Marquette iron range approximately 3,000 men, the United States Steel corporation has gradually been curtailing its operations in the district. At present only 600 names are on the payrolls. The fact that the company has increased its operations on the Mesaba range, largely in consequence of the growing demands of the lease to the Hill ore lands, has been in part responsible for the retrenchment in the older district, where much of the lands is owned in fee and where therefore deposits may be held in reserve until needed without the penalty of royalty payments.

Lately trade conditions have resulted in curtailments. Recently the services of 100 men were dispensed with in the Negaunee field, where operations at the Prince of Wales mine of the Queen group were cut to a single-shift basis. Now approximately 150 men have been laid off in the neighboring city of Ishpeming. Shaft No. 7, known as the Hard Ore mine, has been put of commission. In addition, the forces in the general offices and in the machine shops and the laboratories have been scaled down, as have the crews of unskilled surface labor. A still further measure of retrenchment has been the decision to operate the mines five days a week, instead of six.

Hard Ore Mine Active.

Since its opening many years ago, the Hard Ore mine had never before been idle. It has been wrought steadily, winter and summer, in dull seasons as well as in the most prosperous periods. Of late years the pillars in the worked-out part of the mine have been removed; but the property still contains much ore and some time it will again be producing large tonnages. The pumps in the shaft, which fast filling with water. Of the Steel corporation's Ishpeming mines, only the Lake Superior Hematite, a soft ore producer on the western shore of the former Lake Angeline basis, and the Section 16 Hematite are in commission. The Section 21 was closed several years ago. The Champion mine at Beacon has long been idle.

Shipments are being made from the Lake Superior Hematite, Section 16 and Hard Ore at Ishpeming; the Queen group at Negaunee and the Stegmiller in the Gwinn district. But the amount forwarded is small and the stockpiles are of generous proportions. The Lake Superior Hematite is employing 100 men, part of whom were transferred from the Hard Ore on the suspension of work at the latter. The force at the Section 16 is much below the normal. Whether the Steel corporation will prepare to increase its operations on the Marquette range when the Hill lease has terminated in January, next, is a question. The indications are there will be no enlargement of production at a particularly early day. Conditions in the Marquette district are similar to those in the older fields. The operations of the corporation on the Menominee, Gogebic and Vermilion ranges are all much below capacity.

Mined Half Century Ago.

Iron ore was discovered in the Lake Superior region seventy years ago. This was at Negaunee. A few years afterward the pioneer miners were taking ore from the ground. This was at the Jackson property, now a possession of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company. Mining has been in progress at Negaunee continuously since the arrival of the pioneers, and yet the city still is to attain the zenith of its career. Ore will be coming from the ground when the generation now springing up has passed away.

Even the Jackson is not yet exhausted. Much of this pioneer tract is yet to be explored. It undoubtedly holds deposits at great depth, and in years to come these ores will be mined. An interesting work and one indicative of the long life of the Negaunee field is in progress at the Athens property. Here the Cleveland-Cliffs company is sinking a shaft that will go down 2,000 feet before a big deposit located by diamond drilling will be encountered.

The Athens is within the corporate limits of the city. It will be a model mine. The shaft will be lined with concrete from top to bottom, and its equipment, compartments, and all, will be of steel. There will be two skipways, a ladder and pipeway, and a counter-balance compartment for the cage. A steel headframe has been erected, as have an engine house and other required buildings. As far as possible all machinery will be operated by electricity. An air compressor and a hoisting engine are already installed and in operation. The mine will be fully equipped with electric motors and electric lamps, both above and below ground. The feed wires will extend below the surface through a 12-inch pipeline. It is considered unlikely that the Athens will go into permanent operation much before four years. The shaft is down but eighty feet. Fifteen men are employed under Capt. John Phillips. The shifts are of eight hours each, and, Sundays excepted, the work is ceaseless.

Two New Blast Furnaces.

The announcement that the firm of Corrigan, McKinney & Co. of Cleveland has awarded contracts for the erection of two additional blast furnaces, auxiliary to the steel plant it has under construction, has been cheery news to the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee range. The Corrigan-McKinney interests are large holders of mining property in the field, and of late years only a minimum amount of ofe has been produced and shipped. Most of the shafts are, in fact, inactive at present. It is believed that with the company utilizing its ores in its own manufacturing operations, a new era of prosperity will dawn for the Crystal Falls country. The Corrigan-McKinney company holds in this field the Great Western, Tobin, Genesee, Columbia, Fairbanks and Lamont mines, all idle now, and the Dunn and other properties. A large amount of ore is in stock, much of it possessed of peculiarities which operate against its sale in times like the present. The furnaces of the company will enable the utilization of all the raw material.

Before the Great Western is again placed in commission, some notable improvement work will have been accomplished. For a distance of eighty feet the upper part of the shaft extends through quicksand and is therefore unstable. It has, in fact, been necessary to keep a hydraulic pump in operation all during the time the mine has been idle. The timbering will be removed and the shaft concreted from the surface to the ledge. The present shafthouse will be replaced with a more modern and more substantial structure. In addition, the ore-crushing plant will be removed from the shafthouse and installed in a separate structure. Work on these improvements will be commenced at once.

On the Mesaba range Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Stevenson open-pit mine is inactive. Time was when the Stevenson was the Mesaba's biggest producer. It is still a valuable property, capable of producing upwards of half a million tons annually.

The Institute Itinerary.

As announced previously, the Lake Superior Mining Institute will assemble at Ishpeming, Mich., Aug. 31, in annual meeting, with the closing session to be held in Detroit. As arranged by Secretary A. J. Yungbluth, the itinerary is as follows:

Monday, Aug. 31—At Ishpeming, First-aid exhibition by teams of miners from the various ranges; automobile tour of the mines, followed in the evening by a business session.

Tuesday, Sept. 1—Leave at 4 a. m. via D., S. S. & A. railway for St. Ignace. Leave Straits of Mackinac 10:45 a. m. via Detroit & Cleveland Steamship company's steamer City of Detroit II. for Detroit. Business sessions, afternoon and evening.

Wednesday, Sept. 2—Arrive Detroit 9 a. m. Day to be spent in visiting various industrial plants.

Thursday, Sept. 3.—Visit at Detroit to continue until 5:30 p. m. when steamer will depart for St. Ignace.

Friday, Sept. 4.—Arrive St. Ignace 3:30 p. m. Party then to proceed to the mining regions and disperse.

Will Develop Property.

The Thomas Furnace company of Milwaukee has a force of forty men in its employ at the old Indiana mine near Iron Mountain, Menominee range, which property it leased several weeks ago from Capt. John T. Spencer. The erection of the machinery, which plant finally was delivered, after vexatious delays, is in progress, as is other preparatory work, and operations in the way of development will soon be under way. Provision is being made to accommodate 100 men. Buildings at the old Cuff mine, formerly operated by the Steel corporation, have been purchased and are being prepared for occupancy. A year hence the Indiana will be shipping ore.

SEEING WITH EARS LATEST IN LONDON

Doctor Has Invented Machine He Calls the "Optophone."

London, July 11.—Seeing with the ears is the latest triumph of science in the invention of the "optophone," which has been demonstrated before the Royal society by Dr. Fournier d'Albe, an Englishman of Huguenot descent. Dr. d'Albe says that a blind man should be able to read ordinary books and newspapers by sound, on the principle of translating light waves to sound waves. While the doctor's instrument which effects the translation is not yet developed to its potential capacity, it enabled a blind man in Birmingham not long ago to count the number of nurses before him, and investigators of the Royal society have even made out lines of print.

The device consists of a perforated disk which rotates in front of a powerful Nerust lamp. The type to be read is placed facing the light upon a rest. A small, intensely bright line of light, passing through the holes in the disk, travels from one letter to the next, and the type reflects the light on to a selenium bridge. Each letter gives a characteristic sound, which is heard by means of a telephone. The reader must know the sound of each letter to be able to follow the print.

ARRESTED FOR TALK AGAINST CAR SERVICE

Austrian Comes Near Serious Trouble in Salonika.

Salonika, July 11.—Liberty of speech is becoming so curtailed in Greece that one dare not criticise even the street car service, as an Austrian resident learned here recently. The street car company had just raised the price of first-class fares, and while speaking to a friend on a car the Austrian took the officials to task on this account. Another passenger, overhearing the talk, summoned gendarmes, who arrested the critic. Only on protest by the Austrian consul was he released.

Before the Grecian occupation, the Turkish authorities left the street car management free to employ Turks, Greeks or Jews, as it wished, and the men were allowed to dress as they pleased. Now, to force out the Turks, the Greek officials have "invited" the company, which is Belgian, to order the men to wear caps. The result aimed at was accomplished, since the Turks, rather than give up the fez, resigned. In this manner the Moslems have been forced out of employment in many other quarters.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

EXTENSIVE HOME-BUILDING CONTINUES DURING WEEK

Permits for the Period Foot Up to the Sum of $55,000.

Contractors and Architects Are Arranging for Active Autumn.

Though nothing pretentious in the way of new construction came out during the present week, permits issued at the building inspector's office ran up into respectable figures, being sixteen in number with the cost of improvements placed at $55,000.

The demand for moderate-priced homes that has prevailed in the city since early in the spring is being well maintained, as evidenced in the fact that with but one exception all the permits taken out were for houses.

Judging from the plans now in hand, architects and contractors are looking forward to the most active fall in many years in the building trade. It is intimated that several large propositions in high class homes and in industrial projects are likely to be carried through. It is also thought probable that the erection of another big warehouse to go up in a central location will be proceeded with.

It is expected that the plans for the additional story to be placed on the Fargusson block at the corner of Superior street and Fourth avenue west will be ready to go out for figures next week from the office of W. P. Allred, architect.

* * *

The Duluth Builders' exchange is showing renewed activity in all departments. At the last monthly meeting on Wednesday evening more than seventy-five members were in attendance and discussions were held on various topics of interest to the trade. An enjoyable social program was carried through. It included a piano solo by J. A. Williams; a selection by the official exchange quartet composed of Messrs. Dunning, Siverson, Lee and Thompson; a ledgerdermain feature by C. V. Oliver, and a character sketch by Stanley Lamb.

Twenty-six new members were elected including the following:

Deibel Bros., De Calgny & Pape, Charles E. Pearson, Gustafson & Olson, Iver M. Olson, C. L. Burman, Virginia & Rainy Lake company, C. M. Brooks, Fred De Boer, C. O. Jacobson, Wieland & Wade, Burgess Electric company, Albert Larsen, Charles Danielson, A. H. Melander company, Lake Hardware company, James Falconer, St. Germain Bros., J. F. Nauffts, E. Ekroot, Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, Universal Portland Cement company, Auto Truck Service company, Couture & De Roche, Duluth Log company, Comstock Lumber company.

It was decided to hold an exchange picnic at the end of this month or the beginning of August.

Vernon J. Price & Co. have plans in hand for a four-story and basement fire-proof block to be built for George Gardiner at Brainerd, Minn. It is to be of reinforced concrete construction, and will entail an estimated expenditure of $80,000.

The same office has plans in preparation for a Holmberg school to be located near Cloquet, Minn. It will have two rooms and quarters for the principal on the first floor. In the basement will be placed manual training, domestic science and an agricultural department, and an electric lighting plant.

The same firm will have plans ready for figures next week for a frame and stucco home to be built for Louis Dworshak in Crescent View Park.

It is expected that the contract will be awarded next Monday for a large two-story fire-proof addition to the sanitarium at Nopeming, Minn. Jacobson Bros. are said to be the lowest bidders. The structure is estimated to cost $44,000. Two cottage shacks to accommodate six patients each are included in the figures. Holstead & Sullivan were the architects.

The same architects have plans out for figures on a frame and stucco house for H. J. Bergen to be built on Fourth street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues at a cost of about $6,000.

Anthony Puck, architect, has plans out for a brick garage to be built for Julius H. Barnes on Twenty-sixth avenue east.

Wangenstein & Gilliuson, architects, are preparing plans for a home for Josephine Carlson Haglund at Fifty-sixth avenue west and Elinor street.

Figures are being taken by the same architects on the heating, plumbing and electrical work on a two-story brick hotel at Solon Springs, Wis., for J. Hoch. L. J. Klippen of Duluth has the general contract for the job.

F. A. Barber is about to build a frame and stucco home on Woodland avenue near Victoria street at an estimated cost of $6,000. The plans were prepared by Arthur Hanford, architect, and the contract has been awarded to the Hanford Construction company.

* * *

The Hanford Construction company has five modern homes under erection in the eastern sections of the city. It advises a remarkable improvement in the call for moderate-priced homes this season. All the homes built by it so far this year have been disposed of almost before completion in each case.

* * *

The Brunswick Amusement company is making progress in the remodeling of the building formerly occupied by the Lyric and Odeum theaters and its conversion into one moving picture showhouse of practically fireproof construction. The work is being done by day labor and it is expected the new house will be ready to open early in September.

UNEVENTFUL WEEK IN REAL ESTATE MARKET CLOSES

Sales Consisted Chiefly of Lots for Building of Homes.

Two Deals for Industrial Sites Will Soon Be Closed.

Outside of one transaction, there were no transpirings of special moment in the real estate field during the present week. A fair number of sales mainly in the way of building lots were put through, and negotiations were opened up in some new propositions that promise to develop satisfactorily in the near future. It is said that two deals involving industrial sites that have been under consideration during the last three weeks, are expected to be closed up any day now. In one case the completion of the transaction is awaiting the signing of an agreement by the railroad company to build a spur into the property.

Duluth Awarded a Cup.

Members of the Duluth Real Estate exchange have been much interested in the proceedings at the convention of the National Association of Real Estate exchanges, held at Pittsburg this week. Gratification was expressed at the news that the Duluth exchange had been voted a silver cup in recognition of the success that had attended the Waverly park sale, in which the delegation from here was able to report a profit of $40,000. That was deemed a remarkably good showing by the representative real estate operators at the convention, surprise being expressed at the dispatch attained in developing and disposing of the tract. It was agreed that Duluth should retain the cup until such time as some other city shall be able to show larger profits than $40,000 on an investment made in behalf of the National Realty associates.

The Duluth delegation at Pittsburg included Henry Nolte, N. J. Upham, A. H. Brown of Stryker, Manley & Buck, Thomas W. Wahl, T. W. Hoopes, and G. T. agling of W. M. Prindle & Co.'s office.

Bought Coal Dock Site.

An interesting development of the week came in the recording of deeds covering the purchase of a large block of water frontage at Rice's Point by the Northwestern Fuel company as a site for its proposed coal dock. The consideration was reported at approximately $125,000. The sale was effected by the Little & Nolte company. It is understood that contracts covering the building of a dock to entail an investment of over $500,000, will be let this fall.

* * *

Increased investment interest in the steel plant districts was reported by operators specializing in them. Marked activity in Gary, and New Duluth properties is confidently predicted during the fall months.

A. W. Kuehnow, president of the Gary Land company reported the sale of the five lots in Gary First and Central divisions during the week and Kinsel & Burke disposed of three Gary building lots to outside investors.

Charles P. Craig & Co. sold for the Lakeside Land company to Carlton Johnson, a lot on Cook street at a consideration of $400. The purchaser proposes to improve immediately in the building of a home.

* * *

The Wahl-Messer Realty company sold two Home Acres tracts over the Duluth Heights yesterday to an Illinois buyer.

* * *

The A. A. Fider company sold two lots in Waverly park, B. E. Johnson and George Power being the buyers. Other purchasers of lots in Waverly Park through the same office during the recent campaign were S. M. Kaner, Joseph Daugherty, Edwin Lowe and B. Hintz.

* * *

The Alliance Real Estate company had another busy week. Good inquiry in connection with its Exeter Farms proposition was met with, and eight tracts were disposed of.

The Hoopes-Kohagen company reported a broadening inquiry for building sites in its Park Drive division. Six lots were disposed of during the week. A large proportion of the 212 lots in the addition are said to have been already sold though the selling campaign was not actively started till the latter part of May.

It is announced by the company that J. M. Boyle has been engaged to take charge of the sales in Park Drive division and that he will be at the property during the evenings and on Saturday and Sunday afternoons prepared to meet parties desirous of inspecting it.

Three homes are now in course of erection in that division. A. Otto of the Oliver Iron Mining company is building a house on Park Drive boulevard and Fourth street east to cost $6,000, and John F. Nelson is building two dwellings on Grand avenue and Eighth street at an outlay of $4,000 each.

The following real estate transfers were recorded during the week with the register of deeds:

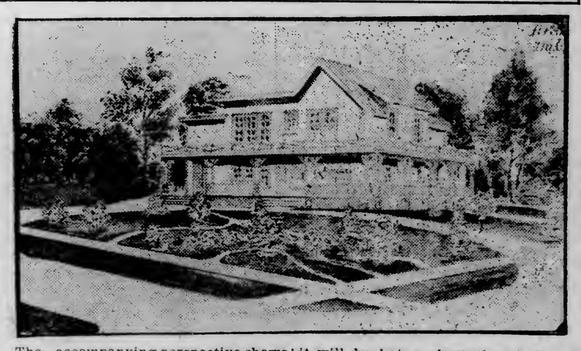

James W. Sherman et ux to William A. McKay, w½ of se¼, e½ of sw¼, section 9, 61 17 1

Elizabeth L. Carson et mar to Joseph Weinberg, lot 12, part lot 11, blk. 49, Portland division 1

NEW RESORT FOR PICNIC PARTIES AT PUMPING STATION

The accompanying perspective shows an addition to one of the many attractions about Duluth and old Lake Superior where the people and their visitors may enjoy themselves for a few hours or a day's recreation during the summer season. Lakewood is located nine miles east of Lake avenue, on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, and what is more commonly known as the pumping station, three miles distant from Lester river.

The city owns a large plot of land on which the pumping station is located and the space of land that is unoccupied by the buildings at present is being utilized as a park and is supplied with seats and tables placed in the natural groves for the accommodation of visitors who wish to spend a day or a few hours' outing. Like any other pleasure resort it requires some kind of a suitable building in which the public can be accommodated, for a lunch party, or a private, dance or musical entertainment, as they might see fit. The only building available at the present is the engine house and while it is a large room, yet it is only suitable for shelter in case of a thunder storm.

Charles Chartier, the assistant engineer of the station, has observed the want of some such kind of a suitable building. He decided that such a proposition would be a good investment and instructed Austin Terryberry, the architect, to prepare plans and specifications for the building. It is now in course of construction and it will be but a short time before it is ready for occupancy.

The building has a frontage of fifty-one feet and a depth of sixty-two feet. It is to be two stories high with a basement under the residence part.

It will be heated with hot-air furnaces placed in the basement. There will be an auditorium 29 by 40 feet and in addition it will have a dining room at the rear about 12 by 30 feet in size. The building will contain men's smoking room, ladies' parlor, rest rooms, etc., all complete with hot and cold water. Mr. Chartier intends running a confectionery department in the front corner of the building. At the rear of the store, and facing the lake, will be located a private parlor, dining room, kitchen and pantry for his own private use. The sleeping rooms wil be on the second floor. The culinary department will be fully supplied and equipped with modern fixtures of cupboards, drawers, icebox, refrigerator, sinks, etc., all conveniently arranged.

The plot of land on which the buildings are located lies on the north side of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad. One corner extends to the station, thus making it convenient for people who use the trains for transportation. There are ten acres of land in the lot and it is being cleared and will be laid out in walks and driveways.

Mr. Chartier intends to have a garage constructed after the grounds are cleared so that autos can be housed during storms, etc.

MINNESOTA GETTING MORE NEW SETTLERS THAN ANY TWO OTHER STATES IN UNION

Statistics on Movement of Settlers Make Favorable Showing.

St. Louis County Getting Its Full Share of the New Arrivals.

Settlers have been flocking into Northern Minnesota in increasing numbers during the present season, according to the freight and land departments of the railroads. Arrivals up here of practical farmers from the older states are said to be setting new records, and the best of it is that they are coming well equipped with capital and agricultural machinery and effects to enable them to succeed in establishing themselves in their new homes.

During the month of June, Minnesota received more cars of immigrants' effects than any other two states in the Union, as Fred D. Sherman, state immigration commissioner, figures it up. Out of the 144 cars of effects handled by the Minnesota Transfer Railway company during the month fifty-one were left in Minnesota. Montana came next with twenty-one cars, while nineteen were destined to Canada and fifteen each to Wisconsin and North Dakota.

Peopling St. Louis County.

St. Louis county is estimated to be attracting its full share of the inflow, due largely to the efforts put forth by the Duluth Commercial club, Duluth & Iron Range railroad and other agencies. The establishing of the demonstration farm here is said to have been already productive of good results and another factor has been the success that has uniformly attended the efforts of those who have taken up dairying and the raising of root crops.

It is furthermore commented upon as a notable fact that settlers who have bought land here during recent years could, with but few exceptions, dispose of their holdings for substantially more than their original cost. Referring to that feature, John McAuliffe, a Duluth land operator, said to The Herald yesterday: "I know of numbers of instances where settlers are able to show large profits on their holdings as the result of only a few years' work. Now that attention is being more systematically directed this way, I look to see land values increase steadily from now on."

Possibilities in Dairying.

In the opinion of persons who have made a careful study of the land and agricultural situation in Northern Minnesota, and especially in St. Louis, Carlton, Lake and Aitkin counties, dairying and cattle raising offers great possibilities in view of the wider market for dairy products offering through the providing of refrigerator service facilities on the package freight boats plying between Duluth and Buffalo. Though this service went into effect only last June, Eastern inquiry for Minnesota butter and eggs has been so good that the leading dealers in the trade at Duluth aver it has already become a question of ability to secure sufficient supplies to fill the orders.

To encourage dairying and cattle raising the land department of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad has begun the importation of high grade Holstein cows into St. Louis county. These are being purchased wherever good stock can be obtained, at reasonable prices.

W. A. Dickinson, agricultural superintendent for the road, arrived here yesterday morning with a carload which he purchased down in Kennebec county. These were taken to Meadowlands today, where they will find a ready sale.

This is said to be only the beginning of a program which that land department has mapped out for itself, in using $5,000 revolving fund for the purchase of dairy cows, for its settlers at Meadowlands. These cows are sold at cost to the settlers. Where they cannot pay cash they are given ample time to pay for them, at an interest rate of 6 per cent. The settler signs a contract to pay for the cows, in monthly installments. Mr. Dickinson will go after another carload next week and a number will be purchased before fall. Fences are now being built to provide temporary pasturage for these animals, on the company's land at Meadowlands.

Acreamery has been organized in Meadowlands and most of the stock for it has been already subscribed. A building site has been donated by the Duluth & Iron Range land department. The creamery will be provided with ample trackage at the local switchyards. The tract is located alongside one of the recently built county ditches at Meadowlands, and it will have ample drainage. A well will be sunk in a short time, the building erected and operations started this fall. A full equipment of machinery has been purchased of an abandoned creamery organization at Two Harbors, Minn.

Settlers Making Money.

Experiences of settlers in St. Louis county are illuminating. It has been proven that in the Meadowlands district for example celery can be raised of a far superior quality to the Kalamazoo, Mich., article which up to the present has held the palm and commanded an enormous market.

In roots, it is quite the regular thing to dig 300 bushels of potatoes to the acre, and yields of cabbage, rutabagas and other heavy lines are unusually enormous. The demonstration farm established there by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad has proven of great benefit to settlers in solving the special agricultural problems of the district.

Remarkable results have also been attained in the Floodwood, Cook and other districts. For example F. S. Hutchinson of Floodwood in referring to his experience says:

"The first two years we had quite a struggle to make both ends meet, but after we got some land cleared we have got along nicely. With the healthful climate, the pure scent of the pine, tamarack and spruce in the air, the long, bright sunshine days and cool night of summer, and four months of good sleighing in winter, the wild game and fish, and with wild berries, the flowers and birds, and everything new to us, we all consider the past seven years a continued picnic (only it did not rain every day).

"All varieties of vegetables grow to perfection. I expect to harvest 1,000 bushels of rutagagas, mangels, carrots and sugar beets from one acre. Have never failed to raise less than 200 bushels of potatoes per acre except in one year; have dug 500 bushels per acre and have picked 200 quarts of strawberries from a flat 20 feet square. Will have nearly one-half acre bearing next year. Have a few black cap raspberries and blackberries that do very well.

"I have thirty acres of land cleared, part of it in meadow, yielding from one to one and one-half tons per acre. I now have 200 acres of land, am out of debt and have a bank account in my favor."

James Wittanen, a settler in the Cook district, says that when he took up a claim there seven years ago, he had but $40.10 in cash, and he owed $60. Today, he has the patent to his land, owns eleven cows, a good team of horses, a flock of chickens, a good house and outbuildings and all the machinery, he requires for his farm. He is free from debt and has money in the bank.

Stories of the above stripe could be multiplied, and in fact it is said that the letters from settlers to their relatives and friends are proving an effective agency in promoting the incoming of farmers to Northern Minnesota.

MANY TYPES OF ARCHITECTURE

Herald's Beautiful Home Series Offers Wide Choice of Design.

The designs now being presented to the public in The Herald's Home Beautiful series on Saturdays are without question one of the most elaborate displays of modern domestic architecture ever conducted by a newspaper.

The architects, Edward P. Shurick and Oscar L. Solheim, are devoting a great deal of attention to this series, and when it is completed it will represent a valuable collection of drawings, as numerous types of architecture will be introduced, giving to the public a general idea of what may be accomplished by them in the way of beautiful homes.

Beginning next week, the American Home series will begin. They will represent three different types of American architecture, costing $15,000, $7,500 and $4,500 respectively. Mr. Shurick is very familiar with this type of architecture, having worked and studied under the founder of this style for several years. He is, with one exception, the only architect in this state who has had training under this famous architect and this series promises to do him credit.

Following the American series will appear the Colonial series, comprising three houses, and following this will appear different series, with three designs to each as follows: The English half-timbered, the Spanish mission, the Swiss chalet, the German type, the French type, the Beaux arts type and several others.

The series will completed some time in November and many of the houses will be constructed in Duluth during this year and the first of next.

Vermont has decided to return to earth and gravel roadmaking in the less traveled highways.

DANIELS URGES ALL NAVY MEN TO STUDY INTERNATIONAL LAW

Points Out How They Often Determine Foreign Policy.

Mayo at Tampico, He Says, Raised Unexpected Problems.

Perry and Dewey Also Named as Influencing Affairs.

Newport, R. I., July 13.—How the nation's foreign policy often hangs upon the acton and discretion of a naval officer commanding a warship in a far-awsy port, was discussed by Secretary Daniels here today at the opening of the naval war college session. He pictured the duties of the naval officer in the role of diplomat, recalled incidents in which commanders of American war ships in foreign ports had opened new chapters in American history, and urged officers at the college and marine officers to train themselves in international law and the languages in preparation for such emergencies.

"The navy, in the technical diplomatic sense," said the secretary, "must leave to the department of state the settlement of international policies, and properly so. But in the practical operation of policies affecting other nations, the action of the youngest naval officer commanding the smallest vessel in a foreign port might determine the action of our government, independent of the policies which the trained diplomats might have planned.

Consequences of Ignorance.

"If he be uniformed as to the requirements of international law, what

ONE DEAD OF HEAT AT LINCOLN, NEB.

Kansas City and Louisville Are Hottest of the Year.

Lincoln, Neb., July 13.—One death occurred here yesterday from the heat in the hottest day of the year when an official temperature of 103 degrees was recorded. The heat was general over the central portion of the state.

Kansas City Gets 97.

Kansas City, July 13.—Heat records of the year were shattered Sunday in Western Missouri and Kansas. Intense humidity in most sections made the day a most oppressive one. Kansas City's official maximum temperature, 97, was one degree higher than the previous mark of the season. Concordia, Kan., set a new season mark for the state with a temperature of 108.

Deaths in Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., July 13.—The season's heat record was equaled here Sunday when the weather bureau reported a temperature of 102. Street thermometers registered 112. Two deaths were reported.

HEAR HUERTA IS TO RESIGN

Rebels Get Report He Will Give Up Office Thursday.

Similar Statement Is Made By Ruiz at Vera Cruz.

El Paso, Texas, July 13.—Constitutionalist agents here assert that they have received from a secret agent in Mexico City information that Gen. Huerta will resign Thursday. This, coupled with a similar statement by Esterva Ruiz at Vera Cruz, was taken as indicating an early change in the central government.

An announcement of the former subsecretary of foreign relations that Secretary Carbajal would be replaced by a provisional president acceptable to the Constitutionalists, was received with expressions of doubt. They pointed out that Ruiz, acting on the suggestion of Huerta, might merely be testing the feeling of the Constitutionalists toward a provisional president.

Ordered Road Rebuilt.

London, July 13.—The manager of the Mexican railways cabled today that Provisional President Huerta's government had ordered him to reconstruct the portion of the line near Vera Cruz, which was destroyed by the Mexican Federal troops when the city of Vera Cruz was occupied by the Americans.

The Daily Graphic, commenting on the reported intention of President Huerta to resign, says: "Huerta's game is up. From the moment the rebellion had the overt sympathy of the United States, its ultimate success was assured."

The paper expresses the hope that President Wilson, whose policy now triumphs, will not forget "the broad principle upon which that policy is based."

Fighting Commenced.

SOLICITOR GENERAL IS URGED FOR THE BENCH

JOHN W. DAVIS.

Washington, July 13.—Members of congress from Tennessee are preparing to urge the selection of Attorney General McReynolds to succeed Justice Lurton, Solicitor General John W. Davis of West Virginia also is being brought forward for the place. The fourth circuit, to which West Virginia is assigned, has not been represented on the supreme court bench since Chief Justice Taney's day, more than half a century ago.

NO FUNERAL AT CAPITAL

Late Justice Lurton's Body Taken to Clarksville, Tenn.

Death at Atlantic City Causes Sorrow in Washington.

Washington, July 13.—No funeral ceremonies for the late Justice Lurton of the supreme court will be held here. Because of a change in the route of the funeral party from Atlantic City to Clarksville, Tenn., where the burial will be, it will not pass through the capital.

Chief Justice White, at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., has arranged to go to Clarksville with Justice Lamar, now here, but other members of the court, widely scattered for their summer vacations, may not be able to attend.

News of the death of Associate Justice Horace H. Lurton at Atlantic City was received with profound sorrow by the friends and associates of the justice in Washington.

Had Been Very Ill.

The shock was tempered, however, by the knowledge that had been general for months that the justice was a very ill man and that the inevitable might be expected at any time.

For a year or more Justice Lurton's condition had been serious, but he insisted upon performing his duties until last December, when he was compelled to give up and go to Florida with his family. At that time it was reported he would resign, but after fighting for health in the South until April, he returned to Washington and resumed his place on the bench to take an ac-

MONK WHO SWAYS CZAR IS STABBED

Rasputin Mortally Wounded By Woman—Assailant Caught.

St. Petersburg, Russia, July 13.—Details reached here today in a dispatch to the Courier of a probably fatal attack on the mystic lay monk, Gregory Rasputin, whose influence over the emperor is said to be very great.

Rasputin, who has been one of the most prominent figures in Russia in recent years, was visiting his native village, Pokrovsky, in the province of Tobolsk, Siberia, when a woman, a stranger to the locality, approached him pretending to be a beggar. After accosting him, she stabbed him in the abdomen with a long military dirk.

The assailant was arrested and confessed she had waited two weeks for the opportunity. She said she had decided to kill the monk because he was a false prophet and was leading everybody in Russia astray.

Doctors who examined the monk's wound declared it was likely to prove fatal.

PUTS DAMAGE AT MILLIONS

London Paper Publishes Figures on Work of Suffragettes.

Prisoner Upbraids Judge; Pankhurst Free; Missile Hits Queen.

London, July 13.—The Morning Post publishes statistics of the damage wrought by the militants since the beginning of 1913. According to the Post, they have set fire to 146 public buildings, churches, houses or other structures, and have exploded or attempted to explode forty-three bombs.

The material damage is estimated at $1,920,000, excluding the damage to works of art, which cannot be measured.

When Annie Bell, the militant suffragette, was arraigned today for trying yesterday to destroy Archdeacon Wilberforce's famous old Church of St. John, Evangelist, Westminster, with a bomb, she said "the only thing I regret is that the beastly thing did not go off."

Proud of Her Act.

The prisoner expressed intense pride in her act. She congratulated the woman worshiper who had detected her setting fire to the fuse attached to a can of gunpowder, and said her smartness was worthy of a better cause. She advised her to become a militant suffragette.

"I meant the bomb to go off and blow up the church, right enough," said Miss Bell.

The prisoner then stretched herself at full length on the seat in the prisoner's inclosure, and asked the woman warden to give her a pillow and wake her when the case had concluded.

"Goodbye, you paid bully," was Miss

FENIAN PLOT MAN FREED FROM PRISON

Luke Dillon Is on the Way Home to Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 13.—Luke Dillon, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in a Canadian jail in 1900, after being convicted of complicity in a Fenian plot to blow up the Welland canal, has sent word to his family in this city that he has been pardoned and is on his way home.

Dillon was paroled Saturday from the Kingston, Ont., prison according to the message, and was deported from Canada to this country at Buffalo Sunday. His parole was obtained through the efforts of Irish labor leaders in many parts of the United States.

Dillon's wife, a daughter and seven sons will meet him.

MUSSULMANS TAKE THE TOWN OF BERAT.

Durazzo, July 13.—The important Albanian town of Berat, thirty miles northeast of the port of Avlona, was captured today by the Albania Mussulman insurgents, who recently took Koritsa.

IS BIG DAY IN IRELAND

Battle of Boyne Anniversary Celebrated—Factions Keep Apart.

Nationalists Are Given Mild Scare at Londonderry.

Belfast, Ireland, July 13.—The insistent demand of the Protestant portion of the province of Ulster for exclusion from the operations of the Irish home rule bill lent added interest to today's celebration of the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne. The celebration was carried out with great enthusiasm.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, rode at the head of some 5,000 Orangemen, accompanied by the usual fife and drum bands and including a sprinkling of bretaren from the United States and the British colonies. They marched through the city of Belfast to Drumbeg, where a great open-air meeting was addressed by Sir Edward Carson and other leaders.

No Clash of Factions.

The Nationalist quarter of Belfast was carefully avoided by the demonstrants, and on no occasion during the procession did the rival factions come into contact. So little did the authorities expect trouble that they depended entirely on the local police force to keep order, but all the military were confined to barracks, as is usually the case during political demonstrations.

A great crowd of tourists including many Americans, came to see the procession and to hear the speeches which were a prelude to resolutions calling on the Ulster leaders to take what

NEW HAVEN MANAGEMENT IS SCATHINGLY FLAYED IN THE I. C. C. REPORT TO SENATE

HIS MANAGEMENT OF ROAD IS DENOUNCED

CHARLES S. MELLEN,
Former President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway.

"DIRECTORS CRIMINALLY NEGLIGENT"

"One of the Most Glaring of Cases of Maladministration."

Horde of "Significant Incidents" Are Cited By Inquirers.

Recovery of Substantial Amount of Wasted Money Possible.

Washington, July 13.—"One of the most glaring instances of maladministration revealed in all the history of American railroading," is the interstate commerce commission's characterization of its findings in the investigation of New Haven railroad financial affairs, reported today to the senate.

In a report of 30,000 words, probably the most drastic in terms of any ever made by the commission, the New Haven's directors were pronounced "criminally negligent."

Evidence pointing to violation of law has been transmitted to district attorneys in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York, and the Federal department of justice.

"A reasonable estimate of the loss of the New Haven by reason of waste and mismanagement," says the report, "will amount to between $60,000,000 and $90,000,000. Directors should be made individually liable to civil and criminal laws for the manner in which they discharge their trust."

Present Management Cleared.

All the commission's strictures were

SUE MORGAN ESTATE, LEDYARD AND OTHERS FOR $125,000,000

Boston, Mass., July 13.—A demand that the directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad reimburse minority stockholders is to be made in a suit to recover about $125,000,000 alleged to have been wasted by the management. Attorneys for the minority stockholders, it is said, will file the action this week.

The suit is to be directed against the estate of J. P. Morgan, William Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Ledyard and others who were members of the New Haven directorate at the time the transactions that have been the subject of inquiry by the interstate commerce commission were made. In a letter to the directors, made public today, the attorneys refer to the testimony concerning New Haven investments which proved unprofitable, brought out by the interstate commerce commission.

"We, therefore, in behalf of our clients," the letter reads, "respectfully demand that you institute proper legal proceedings to enforce the liability of directors to the corporation which we have pointed out, and such other liability as may be disclosed as a result of a careful and thorough investigation of the company's affairs."

AERIAL SIDEWALKS AND AEROPLANE LANDINGS

SAYS JONES WILL BE CONFIRMED

President Wilson Declares Opposition Has Been Overrated.

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson today denied that there was any conflict between him and the senate over the nominations of Paul Warburg and Thomas D. Jones, as members of the Federal reserve board. In talks with callers he declared he was working in complete harmony with the Democratic majority in the senate, with only one or two exceptions. Mr. Wilson said he had definite assurances Mr. Jones would be confirmed. He did not discuss the case of Mr. Warburg, except to say that he thought the senate as a whole would be perfectly fair.

Skyscrapers of Future Will Have Many Startling Innovations.

Radiators May Be Concealed in Walls to Save Space.

Plans that are expected to work a revolution in modern office buildings and make great changes in large cities in a few years will be discussed by well-known authorities from all parts of the land during the convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers here this week.

Building owners and managers now concede that it is a difficult problem to make the tall skyscraper a paying proposition as elevator space, increasing cost of maintenance and operation for each succeeding story, and many other things are problems that well-nigh defy the genius of the American business and professional men.

One of the things that will probably be suggested as a remedy for some of these problems will be an elevated system of sidewalks connecting large buildings across the street from each other and also door connections between skyscrapers. The elevated system, it is said, would go far to eliminate the gigantic elevator expense entailed in operating a large building.

"Washed Air."

Another topic that is expected to arouse discussion is the "washed air"

ST. LOUIS GROCERY CASHIER ROBBED

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—Miss Esther Cohen, cashier at a wholesale grocery, was robbed of a package, said to contain $8,000 in checks and cash, on the street here today.

Miss Cohen was on the way to a bank with the money when the robbery occurred. She had left the wholesale establishment of her father a few minutes before. A man ran out of an areaway, snatched the bundle and disappeared. Miss Cohen had wrapped the money in a newspaper so it would not attract attention.

TWO GRAND JURIES ON LORIMER PROBE

State and Federal Inquisitorial Bodies Study Bank Failure.

The state grand jury, summoned Friday, opened its inquiry into the insolvency of the bank, and the Federal grand jury, called by Judge Landis, directed its investigation to the conduct of the bank while it was a national bank before its liquidation and reorganization into a state bank.

BOOZE HELPS MAKE CROOKS

So Says Speaker at Convention of Alienists.

"Drunkard Always a Weakling," Says Another—Society Scored.

Chicago, July 13.—"Prison populations are composed of deteriorated and defective individuals who fall below the average physical and mental standards," declared Dr. Paul E. Bowers, physician to the Indiana state prison today at the convention here of alienists and neurologists.

Several hundred specialists from all parts of the United States were in attendance at the sessions which began today and will continue over Friday. The first day was devoted chiefly to discussing the protection of society from the partially insane.

Physical Bankrupts.

"The majority of prisoners are in a state of physical insolvency," said Dr. Bowers. "Seventy-five of 100 prisoners I recently classified had venereal disease, and of these sixty-five had both kinds of venereal infection. Twenty-five per cent of habitual criminals are feeble-minded. The feeble-minded, however, are not inherently criminal; except as they are easy victims of environment. The difficulty here is in the recognizing and control of high grade feeble-minded persons.

"Alcoholism," Dr. Bowers said, "most frequently plays the part of a contributing factor and not the immediate cause of crime. It served to intensify the defect already existing."

Drinker Is a Weakling.

"The alcoholic is primarily a weakling," asserted Dr. Charles F. Read, assistant superintendent of the Chicago state hospital for the insane. "For this reason he drinks, and he is doubly a weakling because of drinking; a vicious circle.

"The only effectual cure for alcoholism is enforced abstinence, together with industrial re-education. This is proper work of the state. Inebriate colonies should be established to save the offspring of the alcoholic from insanity and crime."

Dr. W. S. Lindsay of Topeka, Kan., declared that sterilization of male and female incurable defectives was the only logical step, and that the medical profession had not given up hope that such a law might be so safeguarded as to become operative.

Dr. Lindsay agreed with other speakers that the public safety required recognition and restraint of border line cases of mental deficiency. This, he said, was a grave problem that had been left almost untouched.

What Society Does.

Speaking to the theme "Society Largely Responsible for the Most Potent Factor of Nervous and Mental Diseases," Dr. J. Cheston King of Atlanta today declared that society does little to aid humanity to reveal the "inherent ideal of divinity" within each man. "Instead," he said, "we see society encouraging imprudent speculation, intemperance and vice, augmenting the desire to gain wealth by speculation, rather than by honest labor and virtuous efforts, converting our youth into idle vagabonds, filling our prisons and penitentiaries with defaulters, forgers, bank robbers, thieves and murderers."

"Is it not a fact that society looks upon the vitality of the race and the health of the family in an indifferent mood?" continued Dr. King in his address to the medical convention. "Our prisons and asylums bear testimony to the fact that the communication of disease in marriage is a matter between husband and wife, and society has nothing to do with it."

NOT DISCOURAGED BY THE WEATHER

Five Courageous Souls Take Herald Trip to Port Wing.

Even when the Duluth weather goes on a rampage it does not entirely discourage The Herald excursionists.

This morning five courageous souls made their appearance to take the trip to Port Wing, in spite of the wretched weather conditions. With a heavy fog over the lake and with a chill drizzle of rain falling a lake trip was not the most enjoyable excursion in the world, but the five brave ones were willing to take it, so the owners of the good ship Columbia decided to show their good faith and send their boat out on the journey. The five brave excursionists had the boat to themselves and perhaps had as enjoyable a trip as they would have had with a larger crowd aboard. They looked upon the trip as a rather unusual lark.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock the trip to Two Harbors will be held and if the weather is favorable a big crowd is expected. Whenever the sun shines The Herald trips never fail to attract good crowds and in fact the chief problem is to limit the crowd to such a size that conditions on the boat will be comfortable for all.

The trip to Fond du Lac was also made this morning with a fair-sized crowd, despite the weather.

Bridegroom Too Young.

KILLS SELF WITH RAZOR

Erick Nevilla, Employe of Blast Furnace, a Suicide; Evidently Insane.

Slashes Throat and Jugular Vein While Patrolman Pursues.

Erick Nevilla, 46 years old, 330 South Sixty-third avenue west, committed suicide by cutting the right side of his throat and severing the jugular vein with a razor shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. The suicide was committed on the foot bridge leading to the bay on Seventy-first avenue west, below Grand avenue.

Patrolman Fred Anderson and a 17-year-old son of Nevilla were within a few feet of the man when he committed the deed. The act was done so quickly that neither the officer nor the son was able to prevent it.

The West Duluth police station had been notified shortly after 9 o'clock of queer actions on the part of the man. Patrolman Anderson was sent to investigate and when he arrived at the home the man was gone. The son directed the officer to the route Nevilla had taken and after going several blocks along the Northern Pacific right of way the patrolman saw the man sitting near the track. As the officer approached Nevilla noticed him and started to run.

The officer and the boy ran after him. As Nevilla got to the center of the foot bridge he stopped and after shaking a razor with a threatening gesture at the two pursuers he slashed his throat. Death was almost instantaneous. Coroner McComb was notified and ordered the body removed to Filiatrault's undertaking rooms.

Nevilla had been employed for a number of years by the Zenith Furnace company and worked in the blast furnace until 6:52 this morning. He is said to have been acting queerly for the last few days. His actions were not thought much of until this morning when, in an incoherent manner, he threatened members of the family and then police protection was sought.

At present hundreds of people are busy picking gooseberries in the vicinity of Duluth. The bushes are said to be well loaded with this fruit. Raspberries will be ready to be picked within another ten days.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Denying the jurisdiction of the Hennepin county district court to hear the case of Henry Rines, contestant, asking for a recount of the votes at the primary election to determine the Republican nominee for state auditor, R. Childs began an argument before Judge Steele at 2 p. m. today. Mr. Childs declared the case had not been properly venued from Kanabec county, and said if the Hennepin county court held that the case had been properly venued he would appeal to the supreme court for a mandamus ordering the clerk of the Hennepin county court to return the files to Kanabec county.

When the case was called this morning, Judge McGee said the appearance of the files in Hennepin county was evidence that the venue had been changed according to law. Judge Steele said that unless proof was shown that the change of venue had not been done legally, he would go on with the case. Mr. Childs was ordered to appear at 2 p. m. and show grounds for his contention that the case had not been changed.

Mr. Childs said the trial judge of Kanabec county had set the case for hearing at Stillwater, where he would sit in chambers the next calendar call in the judicial district. He contended that if the venue was proper it should have been from the Stillwater bench rather than the court clerk at Mora. Mora and Stillwater are both in the same judicial district, and it is claimed by attorneys for J. A. O. Preus that a venue from any clerk in the district is a venue from the district court.

SECRETARY OF BUILDING MANAGERS IS A WALKING ENCYCLOPEDIA

C. A. Patterson, editor and owner of "Building and Building Management," a magazine devoted to the interest of skyscrapers, and secretary of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, was the first officer of the association to arrive in Duluth. He came late Saturday afternoon from Chicago accompanied by his wife, and will be here during the entire week.

There are other building magazines but Mr. Patterson's publication is the one recognized by the national association and it was Mr. Patterson who was largely instrumental in the original organization. He is still a very young man being a little more than 30 years of age, but he has more information on skyscrapers tucked under his hat than probably any other man in the country. He radiates information on every possible phase of the subject, not dead statistics but live news and vital history. It is just as easy for him to say that the Woolworth building in New York has fifty-five stories as to tell the number of his residence and if one were to ask him how many tenants there are in the Flatiron building in New York or how many rooms there are in the new L. C. Smith building in Seattle he wouldn't have to refer to his notes. All the big skyscrapers in the United States, and other countries, too, for that matter, are as familiar to him as the location of the furniture in his office.

He is fluent on all subjects except himself. The subject of "Mr. Patterson" is a closed book with him and only through his friends was it learned that he was instrumental in organizing the national association and that he helped write "the ten commandments and the gospels" of the building managers and builders and that he is carrying their message to all parts of the world.

C. A. PATTERSON,
Chicago, Editor and Owner of "Building and Building Management" and Secretary of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers.

FINNISH PLAY AT THE ORPHEUM

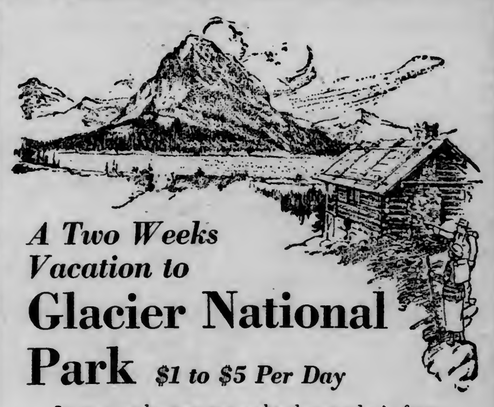

Is Climax of Two Days' Celebration By the Socialists.

An audience of more than 600 people witnessed the presentation of the play "Karkurit" by Alexis Kivi at the Orpheum theater last evening under the auspices of the Duluth Finnish Socialist local. The play which was put on by local talent ended a two-days' annual celebration of the Duluth Socialists.

In the leading role, Nilo, Lauri Lemberg scored the hit of the evening. The acting of Miss Vieno Pasanen was also exceptional for an amateur performance. The play consisted of seven scenes and was given entirely in Finnish. The players were: Vaino Pernu, Frank Merisuo, Matti Pellinen, Nick Oman, Vieno Pasanen, Lauri Lemberg, Maria Kolu, Gust Aakula, Robert Anderson, Minnie Kauhanen and Annie Kauppi.

SURPLUS IN TREASURY

Government Is Ahead Even After Panama Canal Payments.

Income and Corporation Tax Receipts Exceed Estimates.

Washington, July 13.—Income and corporation tax receipts for the first ten days of July aggregated $5,240,-108.83, and raised the receipts from that source for the last fiscal year to $76,626,264.96. The estimate of Secretary McAdoo was that the total income and corporation tax collections would be only $75,000,000.

Ordinary receipts for the first ten days of July amounted to $34,996,-178.59, as against $18,103,544.44 for the corresponding period of last year. The two warships sold to Greece netted $12,535,275.96, which was included in the collections for the first ten days of July.

Expenditures for that period were $21,123,772.70, leaving a surplus of $13,872,405.89. Deducting from that sum the expenditures for the Panama canal the surplus is $10,538,160.89, as against a deficit last year of $8,114,-062.55.

The total balance in the general fund at the close of business July 10 was $156,735,930.02.

Many Income Tax Dodgers.

One hundred and fifty-five thousand persons in the United States are charged with dodging their income tax.

When the income tax laws was under consideration in congress, the treasury dedpartment estimated there were 425,000 men and women to whom the tax would apply. The department has now completed its tabulation of the voluntary returns made by men and women to the internal revenue collectors. Only 270,000 filed such returns.

"The balance are tax dodgers," said Senator Simmons, chairman of the senate finance committee, "and we propose to make them pay up or pay the penalty."

But this is not all. An examination of the returns show a woeful discrepancy between the number of persons estimated to draw big incomes and that which the returns show for this class.

"Some of these people, too, are dodging their taxes," commented Mr. Simmons, "and they will be investigated. If found guilty of attempting to cheat the government they will be prosecuted."

DANIELS URGES ALL NAVY MEN TO STUDY INTERNATIONAL LAW

consequences of evil may flow from his ignorance! If he lack tact and a sense of courtesy, he may block the path of his country to serve the people to whom he is sent, and prevent the opening of doors through which his countrymen might enter to promote commerce, friendliness and amity."

There had been no secretary of state, Mr. Daniels said, who had availed himself more of the service of the naval officer as a diplomat, "who has shown greater confidence in his ability, his judgment and his absolute trustworthiness," than had Secretary Bryan.

The Tampico Incident.

He recalled the demand made for a salute of the Stars and Stripes by Admiral Mayo at Tampico as an example of how the action of a naval officer in a foreign country precipitated "an issue not contemplated in diplomatic channels, and irrevocably committed his government to a policy of action in support of his demand."

Perry's achievement in the opening of Japan to commerce, Dewey's brilliant victory and his administration in Philippine waters, and finally Rear Admiral Fletcher's occupation of Vera Cruz were pointed to by the secretary as conspicuous instances of the double service required of the American naval officer abroad.

"There is very recent proof that Perry was a true prophet when he foresaw friendship between the United States and Japan. In the present Mexican trouble the Japanese have been scrupulous to prevent the shipment of arms by Japanese manufacturers."

Temptation of Imperialism.

If all American diplomacy in the Spanish-American war had been modeled after that of Perry's, the secretary declared, "the United States might not have yielded to the temptation of imperialism. If our government had followed closely the diplomatic pact set by another great commodore of the United States navy who himself followed the diplomacy of Perry and squared his every action with the basic doctrines of our republic, we would not have strayed so far afield. We would at least been consistent in our diplomacy; we would not have laid down one rule for Cuba and another for the Philippines."

"When you stop to think of it," said the secretary, "no representative of our government, official or unofficial, can command such respect or can impress another country so deeply with the power of his government as the captain of a warship lying in the harbor with its decks cleared, perhaps for action, and its ominous 12-inch guns trained on the town. Believe me, gentlemen, that man is going to be seriously listened to by every official within range of the ship's armament."

IS BIG DAY IN IRELAND

steps they considered necessary to prevent Ulster coming under the authority of the Dublin parliament.

Sir Edward Carson was the hero of the day. Butons bearing his portrait were worn by nearly every man in the procession, while great canvases spread across the streets in the Unionist section of the city bore his likeness.

"For the Present."

It is regarded as significant that in recent interview he has given, Sir Edward is quoted as saying that the only condition of peace is the exclusion of Ulster "for the present," while the more remote action of the Unionists must, in his opinion, depend upon the way the Dublin parliament treats Protestants in the other provinces of Ireland.

Throughout the province of Ulster, and notably in Londonderry, precautions were taken against possible clashes between the organized forces of the Protestants and the Catholics.

Orangemen Celebrate.

Londonderry, Ireland, July 13.—The Orangemen here began the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne with a cannonade, during which they projected their explosives so that they burst over the residences in the Catholic section of the city.

The Nationalists, believing the cannonade to be the prelude to aggressive action on the part of the Orangemen, organized for defense, but up to noon no collision between the two parties had taken place.

While the Orangemen were attending church on Sunday and the police were busy guarding their processions, the Nationalist volunteers succeeded in bringing into the city two automobile loads of rifles.

The rifles had been landed at the entrance to Lough Swilly in the north of Ireland by a passing steamer from America under the noses of the crews of a flotilla of destroyers lying in the lough.

PUTS DAMAGE AT MILLIONS

Bell's farewell to the magistrate when he remanded her.

Sylvia in Parade.

Despite the fact that her license of release from Holloway jail had expired, Sylvia Pankhurst took part Sunday in a suffragist procession through the east end of London to Canning Town public hall. A large number of members of the east end of London with a band and banners, assembled outside Miss Pankhurst's residence and the band played "The Red Flag" as she entered a wagonette, unmolested by the police. She was quickly surrounded by a body guard of friends, and supporters.

The militant leader was loudly cheered when she reached the hall, and again when she arose to speak.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader who was arrested on July 8 at the offices of the Women's Social and Political Union, was again released from Holloway jail Saturday.

Ball Lands in Queen's Lap.

Edinburgh, Scotland, July 13.—King George and Queen Mary, who made their last public appearance Sunday in their Scottish tour, were subjected to a fresh insult by a suffragette while driving to St. Giles cathedral to attend morning services. Just outside the cathedral a Dundee suffragette, Olive Walker, broke through the spectators and police and ran toward the royal carriage. She hurled a rubber ball to which was attached a label inscribed "Stop forcible feeding."

The ball landed on the lap of the queen, who laughingly brushed it aside The woman was removed from a threatening crowd, but later was released.

NO FUNERAL AT CAPITAL

tive part in one of the busiest sessions in the court's history. The court adjourned June 22 for the summer, after disposing of a record number of cases, many of them of great importance, and ten days ago Justice Lurton went to Atlantic City with his family, hoping to gain strength in the salt air.

Telegram From President.

President Wilson today sent the following telegram of condolence to the widow of Justice Lurton:

"Our deepest sympathies go out to you in your bereavement. The country has lost a gifted and honorable servant, whose memory it will always honor, and I am sure that my feeling is the feeling of the whole country."

Died at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 13.—Associate Justice Horace Harmon Lurton of the United States supreme court died suddenly at a hotel here yesterday from heart failure superinduced by cardiac asthma. He was 70 years old.

The justice, who came here on July 1, was in his usual health before retiring Saturday night and had taken his customary evening outing on the board walk. Shortly after midnight he complained of feeling ill, and although his physician, Dr. Ruffin, who arrived Saturday from Washington, was immediately summoned, Justice Lurton died at 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

His wife and son, Horace H. Lurton, Jr., of Nashville, were at the bedside. Mrs. Horace Van De Vanter, a daughter, and her husband arrived last night from Knoxville and other members of the family are expected.

The body will be taken to Clarksville, Tenn., for interment, the funeral party leaving here at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It was at that city that Justice Lurton began the practice of law and lived for twenty years. Funeral services will be held there on Wednesday. Chief Justice White and several associate justices of the United States supreme court, as well as many friends of the late associate justice from different parts of the country, are expected to be present.

Judge Lurton was born in Campbell county, Ky., Feb. 26, 1844, the son of Lycurgus L. and Sarah Ann Harmon Lurton, who were natives of the Blue Grass state. Judge Lurton's father years ago was a practicing physician, but in 1870 he left medicine for clerics and was ordained a priest in the Protestant Episcopal church.

Student Once in Chicago.

Judge Lurton's early education was received from private instructors, but in 1859 he went to Chicago and entered Douglas university, later the University of Chicago. The Civil war brought a halt to the completion of his collegiate training, for, at the first bugle blast, young Lurton hurried South and offered his services. He was enlisted in the Thirty-fifth Tennessee, commanded by Col. B. J. Hill, and was made sergeant-major.

In February, 1862, Maj. Lurton was discharged on account of ill health, but he was not idle long, as he returned in time to take part in the battle of Fort Donelson, where he was taken prisoner and confined in Camp Chase. He managed to effect his escape in the spring of 1862, and promptly enlisted in the Third Kentucky cavalry, with which he served until July, 1863, when he was again captured, this time in Ohio on Morgan's famous raid.

Judge Lurton was carefully guarded and remained in prison until the end of the war, when he entered the law department of Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., and was graduated in February, 1867, and entered at once into practice at Clarksville, Tenn., in partnership with Gustavus A. Henry, a kinsman of Patrick Henry. Later Judge Lurton was a partner of James E. Bailey, who subsequently was elected to the United States Senate.

His Career in Tennessee.

In January, 1875, Judge Lurton was appointed by Governor Porter chancellor of the sixth chancery division of Tennessee, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Charles G. Smith. At the expiration of the term of appointment in 1876 he was elected to the office without opposition, but in 1878 he resigned. From 1878 to 1886 he practiced law at Clarksville in partnership with Charles G. Smith, having served as the first president of the Farmers' & Mechanics' National bank, and also acquired wide reputation as a financier.

In 1886 he was elected a justice of the supreme court of Tennessee, and in January, 1893, by vote of his colleagues, became chief justice in place of Peter Turney, who was governor-elect of Tennessee. Two months later he was appointed by President Cleveland circuit judge of the Sixth United States circuit to succeed Howell E. Jackson, who had been elevated to the United States supreme bench.

Appointed by Taft.

He was appointed by President Taft to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States in 1909, taking the position Jan. 3, 1910.

Judge Lurton is an Episcopalian, was for many years a vestryman in Trinity church, Clarksville, Tenn., and, since 1883, has been a trustee of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., from which university he received the degree of doctor of civil laws. He married in September, 1867, Miss Mary Frances, daughter of Dr. Benjamin Franklin Owen of Wilson county, Tenn., and step-daughter of Prof. James M. Safford, geologist of Tennessee. They have four children, of whom the two eldest, Catherine Howard and Leon Owen, have died, and two, Mary Lurton Vandeventer, wife of Horace Vandeventer of Knoxville, Tenn., and Horace Harmon Lurton, Jr., are living.

Child Swallows Kerosene.

Sheldon, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elizabeth Marks, 3 years old, was nearly strangled by drinking kerosene, while members of the family were absent from the home. A little brother found the child drinking the oil, and knocked the cup from her hands but not before some of the kerosene ran down her windpipe, nearly causing strangulation.

and "dustless" ventilation system already receiving considerable attention from building men and now in vogue at the New York public library. The first requisite for this system is said to be double-glass air-tight immovable windows, the only air space being from the top. Air coming from the top of the skyscraper is much purer than that from the street, it is claimed, and when this purer quality of air is received into the building it passes through the rooms absorbing all dust and impure particles. The question or transporting air from the suburbs is also much discussed at the present time, and will be touched upon by building men at the convention.

Eliminating Waste Space.

The doing away with waste space will also be discussed along with other skyscraper problems. Office men, it is said, are becoming restless over high rents and object to paying for space taken up by washstands, radiators and the like. The ancient Romans are said to have had a heating system with radiators in the walls, and how this system can be used without causing the plumber to go on a strike or being compelled to tear down the walls to make repairs is now a big problem among the authorities.

New York, Chicago and other large city authorities are now advising the building of aeroplane landings on skyscrapers, and this topic will be ably handled here this week.

HEAR HUERTA IS TO RESIGN

tablish the Federal strength and position, are of daily occurence, according to reports received here by Gen. Carranza. These actions are careful reconnaissances.

Nothing But Surrender.

Chihuahua City, July 13.—Gen. Villa received a telegram from Gen. Carranza in which the Constitutionalist commander-in-chief said he would not accept mediation by the A. B. C. alliance in Mexico's internal affairs. Carranza also stated that the only thing he would accept was the surrender of Gen. Huerta and his army.

Upon his arrival here, Gen. Villa said he might start south again with his army within a week. The movement against Huerta's forces depends upon the length of time needed to secure supplies for the northern division, he said.

Ruiz's Statement.

Vera Cruz, July 13.—To save his country from the horrors of civil war and his capital from capture and perhaps sack by the victorious army, Gen. Huerta intends this week to resign the provisional presidency and leave Mexico.

This statement was made yesterday by Roberto Esteva Ruiz, Mexican subsecretary of foreign affairs, who reached Vera Cruz from Mexico City on his way to Europe. Huerta, he said, will surrender the government to Francisco Carbajal, the new minister of foreign affairs, who, in turn will step aside when the time comes for some provisional president acceptable to the Constitutionalists.

Just when the change will come Ruiz said he did not know. He was convinced, however, that Huerta would lay down his power during the coming week, and it would not surprise him, he said, if his resignation were announced today.

NEW HAVEN MANAGEMENT IS SCATHINGLY FLAYED IN THE I. C. C. REPORT TO SENATE

upon the management of the New Haven system under former President Mellen. In justice to the present management, the commission says, it is only fair to say that Chairman Howard Elliott and Walker D. Hines, special counsel, "have cooperated with the commission and rendered it substantial assistance throughout this investigation."

The report cites these "significant incidents":

"Marked features and significant incidents in the loose, extravagant and improvident administration of the finances of the New Haven as shown in this investigation are:

"The Boston & Maine despoilments."

"The equity of the Westchester acquisition.

"The double price paid for the Rhode Island trolleys.

"The recklessness in the purchase of Connecticut and Massachusetts trolleys at prices exorbitantly in excess of their market value.

"The unwarranted expenditure of large amounts in 'educating public opinion.'

"The disposition, without knowledge of the directors, of hundreds of thousands of dollars for influencing public sentiment.

Payment of Vouchers.

"The habitual payment of unitemized vouchers without any clear specification of details.

"The confusing inter-relation of the principal company and its subsidiaries, and consequent complication of accounts.

"The practice of financial legerdemain in issuing large blocks of New Haven stocks for notes of the New England Navigation company, and manipulating these securities back and forth.

"Fictitious sales of New Haven stock to friendly parties with the design of boosting the stock and unloading on the public at the higher 'market price.'

"The unlawful diversion of corporate funds to political organizations.

"The scattering of retainers to attorneys of five states, who rendered no itemized bills for services and who conducted no litigation to which the railroad was a party.

"Extensive use of a paid lobby in the matters as to which the directors claim to have no information.

Tried to Bribe Reporters.

"The attempt to control utterances of the press by subsidizing reporters.

"Payment of money and the profligate use of free passes by legislators and their friends.

"The investment of $400,000 in securities of a New England newspaper.

"The regular employment of political bosses in Rhode Island and other states, not for them to perform any service, but to prevent them, as Mr. Mellen expressed it, from 'becoming active on the other side.'

"The retention by John L. Billard of more than $2,700,000 in a transaction in which he represented the New Haven and in which he invested not a dollar.

"The inability of Oakleigh Thorne to account for $1,032,000 of the funds of the New Haven intrusted to him in carrying out the Westchester proposition.

"The story of Mr. Mellen as to the distribution of $1,200,000 for corrupt purposes in bringing about amendments of the Westchester and Portchester franchises.

Domination By Morgan.

"The domination of all the affairs of these railroads by Mr. Morgan and Mr. Mellen, and the absolute subordination of other members of the board of directors to the will of these two.

"The unwarranted increase of the New Haven liabilities from $93,000,000 in 1903 to $417,000,000 in 1913.

"The increase in floating notes from nothing in 1903 to approximately $40,000,000 in 1913.

"The indefensible standard of business ethics and the absence of financial acumen displayed by eminent financiers in directing the destinies of this railroad in an attempt to establish a monopoly of the transportation of New England.

"A combination of all these has resulted in the present deplorable situation in which the affairs of this railroad are involved."

May Recover Money.

From the facts developed in this investigation it would seem that there is little question concerning the recovery of a substantial amount of the stockholders' money that has been wasted. Several items of this nature are briefly summarized.

"Overpaid Perry and Thorne in commissions $303,750.

"Illegally spent in obtaining Westchester franchise charges $1,624,072.77.

"In the Billard transactions $2,748,-700.

Suggestion for Recovery.

"The money with which Billard acquired the 15,755 additional shares of common stock and 5,826 shares of preferred stock of the Boston & Maine Railroad company was furnished by the New England Navigation company. This stock was turned back to the Navigation company for $3,370,082. It would seem that a suit by stockholders for the recovery of the profit which is justly due to the Navigation company, if any was made by Billard in the transactions involving these additional shares, could be maintained."

MERSEY DOCKS EMPLOYES STRIKE

Liverpool, Eng., July 13.—A strike was started today among the Mersey dock employes to force recognition of the workmen's unions and bring about the establishment of a joint board of workmen and employers to deal with disputes.

While the strike was not general, many of the power stations were rendered idle and several liners were imprisoned in the docks owing to the impossibility of opening the gates.

HAS "BOMB" FOR INSURANCE MEN

Missourian Wants Building Owners to Write Own Insurance.

William Peyton Howard of Kansas City, Mo., wha will be one of the prominent delegates at the Building Owners and Managers' convention here this week, will be the official "bomb thrower" of the convention which will have representatives from about seventy-five cities.

Mr. Howard has a nice, little explosive in his "grip" which he will throw at the insurance men, and being from Missouri, he will either put them to flight or they will have to "show him" the reason.

This bomb is in the form of a well-worked out plan for a building owners' and managers' insurance company, which, when launched, will provide for the building men a system to underwrite their own insurance and take their own risks. His idea is that the building men can do this at a lower cost than is now entailed, and that the ultimate saving will be great. Of course, a big fire might sweep off a row of skyscrapers at a swoop and cause heavy losses, but the danger of the building men being swamped with losses does not frighten the projector of the plan.

Mr. Howard will probably be here tomorrow. Advance advocates of his plan, however, are already discussing it.

MUCH IN COMMON.

Kansas City Star: Prof. D. A. Ellsworth tells of an Emporia man who was introduced to a grand lady in a Far Eastern city one time.

"From Kansas?" she circumflexed. And, stooping to take up her poodle, she said: "Just think of it, Fido, Mr. X. is from Kansas!"

"May I ask where your family is from?" inquired the Kansas man.

"Ours is a New England family," she replied.

"Is that so?" exclaimed the Jayhawker. "You'd like my wife, then. She has a Boston terrier."

AUTOS LEAD AS KILLERS

Murders and Suicides Break Even in Sunday Statistics.

Negro Woman Is Lynched By South Carolina Mob.

Six people killed in automobile accidents and 24 hurt; 3 murders and 2 attempts at murder; 3 suicides; the lynching of a negro woman in South Carolina, and futile attempts by a Missouri woman to kill seven officers who tried to arrest her for disorderly conduct—these are some of the telegraphic reports of country-wide doings on Sunday, the day of rest.

Negress Lynched.

Orangeburg, S. C., July 13.—Rosa Carson, a negress, was taken from the jail at Ellore, near here, Sunday, and lynched by a mob. She is said to have confessed to beating to death the 12-year-old daughter of D. F. Bell on Saturday.

The negress was taken to the scene of the crime by a mob and hanged to a tree. Afterwards the body was riddled with bullets. The confession was made just previous to the hanging.

Searching parties found the body of the murdered child early Sunday after an all-night hunt, partly hidden beneath a log and covered with wounds. The child disappeared late Saturday. Suspicion was directed toward the negress on account of recent trouble with the child's family. With her sister she was arrested. As soon as the arrest became generally known, a mob was formed which battered in the door of the jail and took possession of the two women. The sister of the accused woman was released when she is said to have admitted that her sister killed the child.

"Fussy" Man Kills Himself.

Baltimore, Md., July 13.—After asking his wife for a divorce, which she said she would grant because he "fussed too much," Frederick Beese, 52, committed suicide Sunday while kneeling on the grave of his first wife.

Some Auto Fatalities.

Philadelphia, July 13.—Three persons were killed and more than a score injured, some of them perhaps fatally, in a series of automobile accidents in this section Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Orr of this city was killed, her husband, James Orr, was probably fatally injured and their four children were hurt more or less seriously when their motor car overturned while rounding a curve at Buena, N. J.

Near Lebanon, Pa., one man was killed, another probably fatally injured and four others seriously hurt in a collision in which two motor cars and a team figured. The dead man is Claude Witters of Palmyra, Pa., while Raymond Stauffer of the same place was probably fatally injured.

The other fatality occurred near Morristown, Pa., when Mrs. Joseph Luibbert was killed by a motor truck which ran over her when she jumped from her husband's automobile to avoid the shock of a collision with the truck.

Shoots Woman, Kills Self.

Wilmington, Dela., July 13.—John Clifton Wilkes, aged 33, of Brunswick, Ga., a corporal in the Thirty-sixth company, Coast Artillery corps, Fort Mott, N. J., Sunday shot and fatally wounded Miss Lulu Finan, aged 33. He then sent two bullets into his own head, dying almost instantly. The tragedy occurred near here. United States Senator Willard Saulsbury, who was passing in his automobile, took the woman to the state hospital at Farnhurst.

Three Killed, Four Hurt.

Morgantown, W. Va., July 13.—Three persons were killed and four injured, one probably fatally, when an automobile got beyond control of the chauffeur on a curve in the road near Morgantown Sunday and dashed into the side of a hill. All the occupants were hurled from the car. The dead:

WINFIELD F. McKAY, 65, Ravenswood, W. Va.

WINFIELD McKAY, 7, grandson of the above, Fairmont, W. Va.

DR. H. C. McKAY, Fairmont.

Killed Near Girl's Home.

Riverside, N. J., July 13.—Herman Fisher, 12-year-old son of a wealthy farmer of New Albany, N. J., was murdered early Sunday just after he had left the home of his sweetheart, Ida Wilhelm of Taylors station. The youth was killed by two shots from a shotgun fired at short range from behind a fence in a cornfield through which Fisher was taking a short cut home.

County authorities are inclined to ascribe the murder as due to jealousy on the part of some youthful rival of Fisher, but have made no arrests.

Jealousy Causes Crimes.

Ottumwa, Iowa, July 13.—While in a jealous rage, Melvin Johnson shot and killed his wife Sunday, seriously injured her mother, Mrs. Seeley and shot himself, dying instantly. Mrs. Seeley is not expected to recover.

Woman Stands Off Officers.

Joplin, Mo., July 13.—Mrs. Emma Hensley, wife of a miner, armed herself with a revolver here Sunday and after barricading her house held off seven officers for six hours. She finally was placed under arrest after she had emptied the revolver, using all her ammunition. All of the shots went wild.

Mrs. Hensley was charged by her husband with disturbing the peace. When a constable with a warrant went to arrest her, she apeared at a window of her home and fired at the officer and threatened to kill anyone who entered the yard. The constable ordered reinforcements and the officers repeatedly charged the house, never returning the fire, however.

When the loads in the revolver were spent the officers entered the house by tearing down a screen door and overpowered the woman.

ISLE OF PINES AMERICAN SLAIN.

Havana, July 13.—The American colony in the Isle of Pines is aroused over the stabbing to death of an American, Duncan Campbell, at Santa Fe Saturday. A meeting was held in the newspaper office of the Isle of Pines Appeal and a resolution adopted that a message be sent to President Menocal demanding that the case be tried in the Isle of Pines.

The Appeal published an extra containing a proclamation involving threats that Americans will take vengeance into their own hands.

Mr. Perez, who killed Campbell, has been placed in jail at Nuevo Gerona under strong guard.

ROBLIN MAY FAIL IN HIS GOVERNMENT.

Winnipeg, July 13.—The Liberals, the opposition in Manitoba to the Roblin government, added another seat to their list when late returns showed the election of Sigfussen over Taylor, the government candidate and former member. This leaves the standing of the parties as follows:

Conservatives 24, Liberals 22, and three elections deferred. It is considered probable that Sir Rodman Roblin will not be able to carry on the government, as he must elect a speaker out of his total.

"MODERN PROPHETS"

Rev. George R. Gebauer Continues His Series of Sermons.

Lowell, the Poetical Defender of Freedom in Faith.

Rev. George R. Gebauer continued his series of sermons on "Modern Prophets" at the First Unitarian church yesterday morning, discussing James Russell Lowell. He spoke in part as follows:

"What makes Shakespeare so great a genius is the fact that he teaches the grandest lessons of morality without trying to do so. He simply brings to us the truth of life and our true self is uplifted. We see the evil and abhor it, and we see the good and cling to it. Shakespeare does not talk us into morality, but he simply takes us with him upon the mountain of life and showing us the kingdom of the spirit, he says: 'All these may be yours if you live in the spirit of the kingdom.' But not every poet can be a Shakespeare, who gives us living truth without teaching it and there is after all a legitimate place for the poet-preacher with his direct appeal to the moral self. Our New England preachers of the last century were such and though we may well believe that none of them reached the heights of Parnassus, we love them for the very burden of their song and because they take us a good ways toward the top of the mount of transfiguration. And in the end it matters little if the preacher sings or if the poet preaches as long as we are lifted and helped by song or preachment.

A Preacher's Son.

"Lowell, like Emerson, Longfellow and Holmes, was a preacher's son, and this no doubt accounts for his didactic tendencies. He could never deny the preacher's blood in his veins. In his heart was a deep sympathy for all that concerns human welfare, and especially the deeper problems of life appeal to his loving soul. Freedom, conscience, justice, truth, love—these are the burden of his song. He became the poetical defender of freedom in faith. Though he loved the 'Church of England's rites,' he loved still more the church of universal love that had 'no customed sacrifice' and whose music shall be the song of the righteous. And while he loved the old Bible, he knew of a greater scripture, no Bible lids between. He sings:

"'Slowly the Bible of the race is writ,
And not on paper leaves nor leaves of stone;
Each age, each kindred adds a verse to it,
Texts of despair, or hope, or joy, or moan.'

"And in his poem 'Rhoecus' he declares:

"'God sends his teachers unto every age,
To every clime and every race of men,
With revelations fitted to their growth,
And shape of mind, nor gives the realm of truth
Into the selfish rule of one sole race.'

"The same thought is brought out in his beautiful poem 'Ambrose.'

Height of Liberalism.

"In it Lowell reaches the height of liberalism in religion, a liberalism which will not despise the strivings of any soul reaching out after God. He trusts that to each comes the revelation he needs and that as heart and mind expand religion will grow nobler and purer. The differing beliefs are to him only so many vessels of various shape and size which contain the same eternal water of life. The size and shape of the vessels may be important enough, but infinitely more so is the water within, which ought to be used for the cleansing and the invigoration of life itself.

"And because the poet sees in religion the servant of life, therefore the bitter arraignment of the churches of his day. It was a time, when the churches merely tried to save souls from hell to come and would not see the hell in which they were living. His strongest arraignment of lifeless Christianity we find in 'A Parable.' The Son of Man is portrayed as coming back to earth, where a great welcome awaits him in every church. But the Christ walks on with bowed and sorrowful head, for beneath the flagstones of church and halls of justice he hears the sighs of the oppressed. He turns to the chief priests and says:

"'Have you founded your thrones and altars, then,
On the bodies and souls of living men?
And think ye that building shall endure
Which shelters the noble and crushes the poor?'

"The same noble thought again is brought out in his materpiece, 'The Vision of Sir Launfal':

"'The holy supper is kept, indeed,
In whatso we share with another's need;
Not what we give, but what we share—
For the gift without the giver is bare.'

"And in the same fearless way he meets a false and selfish patriotism. In his poem 'On the Capture of Fugitive Slaves Near Washington,' he writes:

"'Though we break our Father's promise, we have noble duties first;
The traitor to humanity is the traitor most accursed;
Man is more than constitutions; better rot beneath the sod,
Than to be true to church and state while we are doubly false to God.
Our country claims our fealty; we grant it so, but then
Before man made us citizens, great nature made us men.'

"No doubt narrow patriotism would condemn such words as high treason and I doubt if that poem is ever recited at patriotic festivals. And yet it might and should, for that poem gives us the larger vision of life and its loyalties. Lowell's is not the smaller patriotism but the larger one. In his love of humanity he showed the nobler patriotism. He, too, loved his country, when wrong, but just because he loved when wrong, therefore he was eager to get it right.

"The unity of mankind in spite of all peace conferences will come about when the masses will have learned to say with Thomas Paine in the spirit of Lowell, 'The world is my country and to do good is my religion.'"

JEALOUSY WORST EVIL

Dr. Hovis Preaches Strong Sermon, Using "Othello" as Illustration.

Shows How Besetting Sin of Iago Is General in the World.

"The Ruin of Jealousy" was the topic of the sermon preached yesterday morning by Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, and he used as an illustration "Othello, Or the Moor of Venice," the play of Shakespeare dealing particularly with that evil characteristic. Dr. Hovis chose as his text: "Who is able to stand before jealousy?" Proverbs xxvii:4.

His sermon, in part, follows:

"In Shakespeare's 'Othello,' Desdemona, the daughter of Brabantio, a rich senator of Venice, shocks the conventions of society by marrying a Moor—a black man. The color line has always been so sharply drawn that the world has looked with disfavor on the mixing of the races. It is doubtful whether the time will ever come when the barriers of race prejudice shall be broken down sufficiently to justify the inter-marriage of the black race and the white. It is true, however, that some white men are blacker than they look and black men often have natures which are white.

"Desdemona regarded Othello's mind rather than his features, but, notwithstanding the esteemed nobility of the trusted Moor, the singular independence of her unusual choice is more a matter to be admired than an act for imitation. Her dark-hued suitor had been a brave soldier and an adventurous traveler on land and sea and she loved to hear him tell of battles, seiges, encounters and escapes. His thrilling tales engaged her heart and won her for his bride.

Color Like a Barrier.

"Neither Othello's color nor his fortune could have won Brabantio's favor who had hoped for his daughter a husband of senatorial rank or at least of expectations. When, therefore, their marriage which had been arranged in private, could no longer be a secret, the enraged father took his grievance to the senate where he charged Othello with securing the affections of his daughter, Desdemona by spells and conjurations.

"At his trial the Moor related the story of his wooing in such an open, artless manner, that the duke before whom the case was tried, confessed that such a tale so plainly told would have won his daughter, too. When the lady was called upon the witness stand, she confirmed Othello's statement, and, while professing a duty to her father for life and education, claimed a higher duty to her lord and husband, even as her mother had chosen her father, Brabantio, in preference to her parents. Unable to maintain his plea, the old senator therefore begrudgingly bestowed his daughter on the Moor.

"About this time Othello was called upon to defend the isle of Cyprus for the Venetians against the Turks. Among his friends was a certain gay, amorous and attractive young Florentine by the name of Cassio whom he had employed as a sort of 'John Allen' in his love affairs and whom he now promoted to the office of lieutenant, a place of trust which made Cassio his right-hand man.

"This promotion greatly offended Iago, who was an older officer and therefore, as it seemed to him, entitled to the place. Iago hated Cassio and he hated Othello for promoting him and also because he had conceived an unjust suspicion that Othello was too fond of his wife, Emilia. The wicked, plotting mind of Iago, incited by these imaginary provocations, contrived a horrid scheme of revenge which should involve Cassio, Othello and Desdemona in one common ruin.

Character of Iago.

"Iago was artful and wily and full of wicked trickery. He knew that the pains of jealousy were the most intolerable torments which afflict the mind. He set about to make Othello jealous of Cassio hoping that this might mean the death of Cassio or Othello, or both—he did not care. The only thing he wished for was revenge.

"When Othello and his fair lady reached the isle of Cyprus it was found that a severe tempest had dispersed the Turkish fleet and war was no longer imminent. Accordingly the whole island was given over to jollity and feasting. Wine flowed in abundance as the company drank to the health of the black Othello and his lady, Desdemona. Cassio had direction of the guard that night and was charged by the general to keep the soldiers from excess of drinking.

"The hour had struck for Iago to begin his deep-laid plans of michief. Pretending loyalty and love he enticed Cassio to put the enemy in his mouth that stole away his brains. A drunken brawl ensued in which Montano, the governor of the island, received a painful wound. An alarm was sounded which brought Othello hurrying to the scene. He demanded to know the cause of such ado. Cassio was too much chagrined and full of shame to make reply, whereupon, Iago, pretending reluctance to accuse Cassio, made his offense seem all the greater, with the result that Othello, who was a strict disciplinarian, removed him from his place. Thus did Iago's art depose his rated rival.

Under Guise of Friendship.

"Under the cover of friendship, but with the sly purpose of arousing the jealousy of Othello, Iago urges Cassio to apply to Desdemona to plead his cause before her lord. With cursed stealth and insinuating suggestion he dropped the seeds of jealousy in Othello's heart intimating that if Desdemona had deceived her father she might deceive her husband. He had destroyed Othello's peace of mind—his heart was sick within him.

"Torn and hurt with these distracting hints Othello sometimes thought his lady honest, and again he thought her false; sometimes he thought Iago just, and again he thought him insincere. Once he caught him by the throat and demanded proof of Desdemona's guilt, in default of which he threatened instant death. But Iago feigned great anger when his honesty was questioned.

"'Iago is aware that trifles light as air are to the jealous proofs as strong as holy writ. So he refers to a handkerchief which he knows Othello had presented to his wife and says that he saw it in the hands of Cassio. This so enrages the Moor that he declares if what Iago says is true he will not rest until he gets revenge. He orders Iago to see that Cassio is put to death and then sets out to devise some swift way to put away his lady. A handkerchief belonging to his wife seen in the hands of Cassio was sufficient to cause the deluded Othello to pass the sentence of death upon them both without any inquiry of how he came to have it.

"Neither Cassio nor Desdemona had been at fault. It was a villainy perpetrated by Iago whose wife, Emilia, had stolen the kerchief and had purposely left it where Cassio could not help but find it. But jealousy had done its dreadful work and the infuriated Othello slays his innocent wife upon her couch, only to learn when all too late that Cassio was innocent and that Iago was the fiend. This discovery filled his soul with anguish more than he could bear and falling upon his sword he threw himself beside his injured wife and died.

Results of Jealousy.

"Iago had realized his treacherous designs. He worked the ruin of Cassio and deposed him from his office, he poisoned the heart of a worthy man until he became guilty of murder and self-destruction, he wrought the ruin of a home and had nothing left but blasted devastation, for he reaped no benefit himself. He had brought upon his guilty head the censure of the law and he dies with strictest tortures.

"O, Jealousy, what ruin thou hast wrought!

"Jealousy is a common fault.

"It is not confined to any race or clime. It affects the heart of savage and civilized alike. It is not conditioned on wealth or poverty. It is a curse of both the wise and untutored It abides with the king in the palace and the humble dweller in the cot. It is feund in the nursery, the school room, the kitchen and the parlor; the market, the forum, the workshop and the church.

Nature of Jealousy.

"Jealousy is unchristian.

"It is cruel as the grave and feeds upon the heart that holds it. It is rooted in suspicion and scantiness of trust. It sees things which have no existence and mistakes and misinterprets signs. It suspects motives, actions and even innocence itself. It troubles others and torments itself. It is envious and uncharitable and reverses the Christian exhortation to esteem others better than one's self. It glories in the downfall of its rival even though it cannot rise itself. It is not magnanimous enough to say 'He must increase, but I must decrease' or 'He that cometh after me is mightier than I.'

"Jealousy results in ruin.

"It poisons everything it touches. It has no honor. It violates contracts, dissolves society, breaks wedlock, and betrays its friends and neighbors. It mocks the meat it feeds upon. Nothing stands safely in its way. It will lie, cheat, steal, murder, though it needs must face the issue of its crime. It eats the heart and feeds upon the gall and turns life's joy to misery. O, jealousy, thou ugliest fiend of hell, thou green-eyed monster of the serpents' den, thou dost corrode man's very thought and blast this paradise of love! Ruin follows in thy wake."

"MODERN PROPHETS"

Rev. George R. Gebauer Continues His Series of Sermons.

Lowell, the Poetical Defender of Freedom in Faith.

Rev. George R. Gebauer continued his series of sermons on "Modern Prophets" at the First Unitarian church yesterday morning, discussing James Russell Lowell. He spoke in part as follows:

"What makes Shakespeare so great a genius is the fact that he teaches the grandest lessons of morality without trying to do so. He simply brings to us the truth of life and our true self is uplifted. We see the evil and abhor it, and we see the good and cling to it. Shakespeare does not talk us into morality, but he simply takes us with him upon the mountain of life and showing us the kingdom of the spirit, he says: 'All these may be yours if you live in the spirit of the kingdom.' But not every poet can be a Shakespeare, who gives us living truth without teaching it and there is after all a legitimate place for the poet-preacher with his direct appeal to the moral self. Our New England preachers of the last century were such and though we may well believe that none of them reached the heights of Parnassus, we love them for the very burden of their song and because they take us a good ways toward the top of the mount of transfiguration. And in the end it matters little if the preacher sings or if the poet preaches as long as we are lifted and helped by song or preachment.

A Preacher's Son.

"Lowell, like Emerson, Longfellow and Holmes, was a preacher's son, and this no doubt accounts for his didactic tendencies. He could never deny the preacher's blood in his veins. In his heart was a deep sympathy for all that concerns human welfare, and especially the deeper problems of life appeal to his loving soul. Freedom, conscience, justice, truth, love—these are the burden of his song. He became the poetical defender of freedom in faith. Though he loved the 'Church of England's rites,' he loved still more the church of universal love that had 'no customed sacrifice' and whose music shall be the song of the righteous. And while he loved the old Bible, he knew of a greater scripture, no Bible lids between. He sings:

"'Slowly the Bible of the race is writ,
And not on paper leaves nor leaves of stone;
Each age, each kindred adds a verse to it,
Texts of despair, or hope, or joy, or moan.'

"And in his poem 'Rhoecus' he declares:

"'God sends his teachers unto every age,
To every clime and every race of men,
With revelations fitted to their growth,
And shape of mind, nor gives the realm of truth
Into the selfish rule of one sole race.'

"The same thought is brought out in his beautiful poem 'Ambrose.'

Height of Liberalism.

"In it Lowell reaches the height of liberalism in religion, a liberalism which will not despise the strivings of any soul reaching out after God. He trusts that to each comes the revelation he needs and that as heart and mind expand religion will grow nobler and purer. The differing beliefs are to him only so many vessels of various shape and size which contain the same eternal water of life. The size and shape of the vessels may be important enough, but infinitely more so is the water within, which ought to be used for the cleansing and the invigoration of life itself.

"And because the poet sees in religion the servant of life, therefore the bitter arraignment of the churches of his day. It was a time, when the churches merely tried to save souls from hell to come and would not see the hell in which they were living. His strongest arraignment of lifeless Christianity we find in 'A Parable.' The Son of Man is portrayed as coming back to earth, where a great welcome awaits him in every church. But the Christ walks on with bowed and sorrowful head, for beneath the flagstones of church and halls of justice he hears the sighs of the oppressed. He turns to the chief priests and says:

"'Have you founded your thrones and altars, then,
On the bodies and souls of living men?
And think ye that building shall endure
Which shelters the noble and crushes the poor?'

"The same noble thought again is brought out in his materpiece, 'The Vision of Sir Launfal':

"'The holy supper is kept, indeed,
In whatso we share with another's need;
Not what we give, but what we share—
For the gift without the giver is bare.'

"And in the same fearless way he meets a false and selfish patriotism. In his poem 'On the Capture of Fugitive Slaves Near Washington,' he writes:

"'Though we break our Father's promise, we have noble duties first;
The traitor to humanity is the traitor most accursed;
Man is more than constitutions; better rot beneath the sod,
Than to be true to church and state while we are doubly false to God.
Our country claims our fealty; we grant it so, but then
Before man made us citizens, great nature made us men.'

"No doubt narrow patriotism would condemn such words as high treason and I doubt if that poem is ever recited at patriotic festivals. And yet it might and should, for that poem gives us the larger vision of life and its loyalties. Lowell's is not the smaller patriotism but the larger one. In his love of humanity he showed the nobler patriotism. He, too, loved his country, when wrong, but just because he loved when wrong, therefore he was eager to get it right.

"The unity of mankind in spite of all peace conferences will come about when the masses will have learned to say with Thomas Paine in the spirit of Lowell, 'The world is my country and to do good is my religion.'"

JEALOUSY WORST EVIL

Dr. Hovis Preaches Strong Sermon, Using "Othello" as Illustration.

Shows How Besetting Sin of Iago Is General in the World.

"The Ruin of Jealousy" was the topic of the sermon preached yesterday morning by Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, and he used as an illustration "Othello, Or the Moor of Venice," the play of Shakespeare dealing particularly with that evil characteristic. Dr. Hovis chose as his text: "Who is able to stand before jealousy?" Proverbs xxvii:4.

His sermon, in part, follows:

"In Shakespeare's 'Othello,' Desdemona, the daughter of Brabantio, a rich senator of Venice, shocks the conventions of society by marrying a Moor—a black man. The color line has always been so sharply drawn that the world has looked with disfavor on the mixing of the races. It is doubtful whether the time will ever come when the barriers of race prejudice shall be broken down sufficiently to justify the inter-marriage of the black race and the white. It is true, however, that some white men are blacker than they look and black men often have natures which are white.

"Desdemona regarded Othello's mind rather than his features, but, notwithstanding the esteemed nobility of the trusted Moor, the singular independence of her unusual choice is more a matter to be admired than an act for imitation. Her dark-hued suitor had been a brave soldier and an adventurous traveler on land and sea and she loved to hear him tell of battles, seiges, encounters and escapes. His thrilling tales engaged her heart and won her for his bride.

Color Line a Barrier.

"Neither Othello's color nor his fortune could have won Brabantio's favor who had hoped for his daughter a husband of senatorial rank or at least of expectations. When, therefore, their marriage which had been arranged in private, could no longer be a secret, the enraged father took his grievance to the senate, where he charged Othello with securing the affections of his daughter, Desdemona by spells and conjurations.

"At his trial the Moor related the story of his wooing in such an open, artless manner, that the duke before whom the case was tried, confessed that such a tale so plainly told would have won his daughter, too. When the lady was called upon the witness stand, she confirmed Othello's statement, and, while professing a duty to her father for life and education, claimed a higher duty to her lord and husband, even as her mother had chosen her father, Brabantio, in preference to her parents. Unable to maintain his plea, the old senator therefore begrudgingly bestowed his daughter on the Moor.

"About this time Othello was called upon to defend the isle of Cyprus for the Venetians against the Turks. Among his friends was a certain gay, amorous and attractive young Florentine by the name of Cassio whom he had employed as a sort of 'John Allen' in his love affairs and whom he now promoted to the office of lieutenant, a place of trust which made Cassio his right-hand man.

"This promotion greatly offended Iago, who was an older officer and therefore, as it seemed to him, entitled to the place. Iago hated Cassio and he hated Othello for promoting him and also because he had conceived an unjust suspicion that Othello was too fond of his wife, Emilia. The wicked, plotting mind of Iago, incited by these imaginary provocations, contrived a horrid scheme of revenge which should involve Cassio, Othello and Desdemona in one common ruin.

Character of Iago.

"Iago was artful and wily and full of wicked trickery. He knew that the pains of jealousy were the most intolerable torments which afflict the mind. He set about to make Othello jealous of Cassio hoping that this might mean the death of Cassio or Othello, or both—he did not care. The only thing he wished for was revenge.

"When Othello and his fair lady reached the isle of Cyprus it was found that a severe tempest had dispersed the Turkish fleet and war was no longer imminent. Accordingly the whole island was given over to jollity and feasting. Wine flowed in abundance as the company drank to the health of the black Othello and his lady, Desdemona. Cassio had direction of the guard that night and was charged by the general to keep the soldiers from excess of drinking.

"The hour had struck for Iago to begin his deep-laid plans of mischief. Pretending loyalty and love he enticed Cassio to put the enemy in his mouth that stole away his brains. A drunken brawl ensued in which Montano, the governor of the island, received a painful wound. An alarm was sounded which brought Othello hurrying to the scene. He demanded to know the cause of such ado. Cassio was too much chagrined and full of shame to make reply, whereupon, Iago, pretending reluctance to accuse Cassio, made his offense seem all the greater, with the result that Othello, who was a strict disciplinarian, removed him from his place. Thus did Iago's art depose his rated rival.

Under Guise of Friendship.

"Under the cover of friendship, but with the sly purpose of arousing the jealousy of Othello, Iago urges Cassio to apply to Desdemona to plead his cause before her lord. With cursed stealth and insinuating suggestion he dropped the seeds of jealousy in Othello's heart intimating that if Desdemona had deceived her father she might deceive her husband. He had destroyed Othello's peace of mind—his heart was sick within him.

"Torn and hurt with these distracting hints Othello sometimes thought his lady honest, and again he thought her false; sometimes he thought Iago just, and again he thought him insincere. Once he caught him by the throat and demanded proof of Desdemona's guilt, in default of which he threatened instant death. But Iago feigned great anger when his honesty was questioned.

"Iago is aware that trifles light as air are to the jealous proofs as strong as holy writ. So he refers to a handkerchief which he knows Othello had presented to his wife and says that he saw it in the hands of Cassio. This so enrages the Moor that he declares if what Iago says is true he will not rest until he gets revenge. He orders Iago to see that Cassio is put to death and then sets out to devise some swift way to put away his lady. A handkerchief belonging to his wife seen in the hands of Cassio was sufficient to cause the deluded Othello to pass the sentence of death upon them both without any inquiry of how he came to have it.

"Neither Cassio nor Desdemona had been at fault. It was all a villainy perpetrated by Iago whose wife, Emilia, had stolen the kerchief and had purposely left it where Cassio could not help but find it. But jealousy had done its dreadful work and the infuriated Othello slays his innocent wife upon her couch, only to learn when all too late that Cassio was innocent and that Iago was the fiend. This discovery filled his soul with anguish more than he could bear and falling upon his sword he threw himself beside his injured wife and died.

Results of Jealousy.

"Iago had realized his treacherous designs. He worked the ruin of Cassio and deposed him from his office, he poisoned the heart of a worthy man until he became guilty of murder and self-destruction, he wrought the ruin of a home and had nothing left but blasted devastation, for he reaped no benefit himself. He had brought upon his guilty head the censure of the law and he dies with strictest tortures.

"O, Jealousy, what ruin thou hast wrought!

"Jealousy is a common fault.

"It is not confined to any race or clime. It affects the heart of savage and civilized alike. It is not conditioned on wealth or poverty. It is a curse of both the wise and untutored. It abides with the king in the palace and the humble dweller in the cot. It is found in the nursery, the school room, the kitchen and the parlor; the market, the forum, the workshop and the church.

Nature of Jealousy.

"Jealousy is unchristian.

"It is cruel as the grave and feeds upon the heart that holds it. It is rooted in suspicion and scantiness of trust. It sees things which have no existence and mistakes and misinterprets signs. It suspects motives, actions and even innocence itself. It troubles others and torments itself. It is envious and uncharitable and reverses the Christian exhortation to esteem others better than one's self. It glories in the downfall of its rival even though it cannot rise itself. It is not magnanimous enough to say 'He must increase, but I must decrease' or 'He that cometh after me is mightier than I.'

"Jealousy results in ruin.

"It poisons everything it touches. It has no honor. It violates contracts, dissolves society, breaks wedlock, and betrays its friends and neighbors. It mocks the meat it feeds upon. Nothing stands safely in its way. It will lie, cheat, steal, murder, though it needs must face the issue of its crime. It eats the heart and feeds upon the gall and turns life's joy to misery. O, jealousy, thou ugliest fiend of hell, thou green-eyed monster of the serpents' den, thou dost corrode man's very thought and blast this paradise of love! Ruin follows in thy wake."

MOVIES AND STYLES CHIEF EVIL AGENTS

Milwaukee Man So States Before Wisconsin Vice Probers.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—The Wisconsin vice commission opened its hearings here today, calling a number of employers of girl labor to testify at the forenoon session.

Herman Schwarting, representing a shirt manufacturing company, testified that he considered moving picture shows and the present mode of conspicuous dressing as being two of the greatest agencies of evil influencing the morality of working girls.

Nathan Stone, representing a large department store, believed that palm gardens and dance halls are all right if properly conducted. He thought they fill a necessary part in the city life, believing them to be poor people's clubhouses. But if not properly conducted he considered them a decided source of evil. He believed that the abolition of the "red light" district improved the general moral tone of the city.

Oscar Greenwald, another department store representative, agreed as to the general moral standard of the employes, and said that department store girls were, he thought, the most moral of any class of working girls.

MAY SPLIT ON FIRE TRUCK

Hicken's Proposed Purchase Likely to Cause Debate in Council.

Contract for a Year's Supply of Coal Will Be Let.

The resolution awarding a contract to the American La France company for furnishing the city a motor-driven and motor-operated aerial truck is due to come before the council at its regular meeting this afternoon.

The resolution was laid over one week when it was introduced last Monday. Finance Commissioner Voss raised objection to it, stating that he did not believe the transaction fulfilled the requirements in that bids had not been officially advertised for. Commissioner Hicken, head of the safety division, said that he didn't think advertising was necessary as the machine could be classed as a patented article. Commissioner Voss answered that he didn't believe a machine should be considered a patented article because it had a patented bolt or spring or other patented attachment.

It is not unlikely that another discussion will be precipitated if the resolution is brought up for a vote this afternoon. The first tilt over the question occurred some weeks ago at an informal meeting of the commissioners. The finance commissioner objected to purchasing the machine at this time. He said that it would increase the fire department's efficiency and lessen its expenses, but he felt that a greater saving could be made by using any available money for other purposes. He cited the constantly recurring storm damages as an illustration.

Will Order Stairway.

Commissioner Murchison will introduce a resolution ordering the construction of an iron stairway on the east side of the Lake avenue viaduct, leading to the lower side of Michigan street. It will be conditional upon the property owners paying half the cost, which is limited to $300. The commissioner said that the property owners have agreed to foot half the bill. Strong objection has been made to the present stair on the ground that it leads past the side door of a saloon and lands under the viaduct, which is dirty and ill-lighted.

The resolution awarding the contract for the year's supply of coal to the Carnegie Fuel company will be given its first reading. Under the charter it must lay over a week before being voted upon. The ordinance appropriating $12,000 for the coal supply has been passed. Although the contract calls for about 3,000 tons and bids were advertised for, the city is getting no better price than if it bought one or two tons at a time. The bids of four companies submitting figures were identical.

Will Not Lose License.

Commissioner Hicken will recommend that the resolution citing Henry Casmir, proprietor of the saloon at 608 West Michigan street, to appear to show cause why his license should not be revoked, be tabled or dismissed. Casmir's bartender was recently convicted of selling liquor to a minor. The safety commissioner says that his position is based upon extenuating circumstances connected with the case, but thus far he has not stated what they are. The building will be penalized for a year after the expiration of the license.

Commissioner Murchison will introduce a resolution directing D. C. Thompson and C. G. Suessmilch to build a 24-inch culvert across their lots to take care of water which followed a natural water course through their property before being improved. The present 12-inch culvert is insufficient and has resulted in damaging other property in the block, which lies on the upper side of London road between Fortieth and Forty-first avenues east, and also the street.

B. J. Madden will present an application for a saloon license at 1½ West Superior street. Bennie Vail conducted a saloon there until a week ago, when he went out of business, although his license does not expire until December.

Two damage suits will be authorized for settlement. James F. Sexton will be given $250 for injuries sustained by falling to the sidewalk on Lake avenue above Superior street, Feb. 4. Mrs. Mausolf of 722 East Seventh street will receive $25 for injuries sustained by falling on the sidewalk near Sixth avenue east and Fifth street, July 5.

Hustis, president and acting chairman of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company in the absence of Howard Elliott, the chairman, who is on leave, stated today that until an official copy of the report of the interstate commerce commission was received, no statement would be issued by the company.

ANOTHER HEARING ON BAGGAGE RULE.

Bismarck, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state railroad commission today suspended its recent order to railroads operating in the state to reinstate the sale of interstate baggage coupons, based on the newly created North Dakota excess baggage rate.

The order is a result of the decision to grant the railroads another hearing on the question July 25 in Bismarck.

WILLIAMS AGAIN ON VISIT TO EPIRUS.

Vienna, July 13.—A dispatch from Athens to the Neue Freie Presse says George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, until recently American minister to Greece and Montenegro, left for Epirus, Albania, today. His journey was undertaken on the invitation of M. Vografos, the president of the provisional government of Northern Epirus, established by the Mussulman insurgents, who object to the rulership of Prince William of Wied.

Steamer Towed to Port.

Havre, France, July 13.—The French line steamer Virginie, which broke down on her voyage from New York, whence she sailed June 27 for Havre, was brought into port here today by the British freighter Etonian.

BURGLARS ENTER DENTISTS' OFFICES

Burglars broke into the dental offices of Dr. Henry Johnston, 30 East Superior street, and Dr. W. S. Storer, 26 West Superior street, some time between Saturday evening and early this morning and stole about $30 worth of tools and fillings.

The thefts were discovered this morning, Dr. Johnston reporting a loss of $18 and Dr. Storer a loss of about $12. Detectives Schulte and Lahti are investigating the burglaries, but as yet have obtained no clews to the burglars.

The men gained entrance into the two dental offices by breaking the door locks.

WOULD LEARN WISHES OF PROPERTY OWNERS.

Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, will meet with property owners on West Faribault street between Kolstad and Shakopee streets next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to learn their wishes relative to the building of a sanitary sewer. The meeting will be held in the works division office in the city hall.

A petition has been presented asking that the sewer be built. It appears that some of the property owners are divided as to the desirability of the sewer this year. The works commissioner states that he is willing to abide by the wishes of the residents along the street and the meeting has been called to ascertain what they are.

FUGITIVE AT OLD TRICKS

Harry W. Guirl Believed to Have Committed Eau Claire Forgeries.

Steals Check Books, Passes Two Forged Checks and Escapes.

Harry W. Guirl, alias Albert H. Stewart while he operated in Duluth, who made his escape from Sheriff Meining's office last Monday afternoon following his confession to forgery charges brought against him, is still at large and actively at work, apparently being not at all afraid of the net set by the local police throughout the Northwest. Advices received this morning from Eau Claire are to the effect that a man answering the description of Guirl had broken into a store and stolen some blank checks, which he later filled out and cashed at Madison. Guirl is now believed to be in Chicago.

Guirl, or Stewart, as he called himself here, used the name of R. F. Smith while operating at Eau Claire. A circular asking for his apprehension is being sent throughout the country by Henry G. Weber, sheriff at Eau Claire. The description of the fugitive is similar to that of Guirl, while the methods employed by the man in Wisconsin are exactly like those used by Guirl when he worked in Duluth and Superior. His signature is the same, judging from a photograph of the checks he cashed and the check he attempted to cash at the Oak Hall clothing store on June 26. Many of the letters and flourishes are exactly alike. Chief Troyer is positive Smith and Guirl are the same man.

Stole Check Books.

The circular from Eau Claire states that Smith broke into the office of the Laursen Automatic Pump company on Wednesday evening, July 8, and stole several check books on the Union National bank of Eau Claire and the State bank of Holcomb, Wis. He then used the company's stamp and made out two checks, one for $16.50, payable to himself and signed by W. J. Eberwin, secretary of the Pump company, and the other for $28.60, payable to Mr. Eberwein and signed by L. A. Laursen, president of the company. These he cashed at Madison, the circular states.

Guirl had a room at an Eau Claire hotel, coming there Tuesday morning, thus showing that he went immediately to the Wisconsin city after making his escape from the sheriff's office here on Monday afternoon. He is known to have purchased a ticket for Chicago on Wednesday afternoon, but when he left for the Windy City is not known.

The fugitive made his spectacular escape from the sheriff's office at 4:30 o'clock last Monday afternoon. He had a few moments before confessed to Judge Fesler, but the court continued sentence, pending an investigation into the prisoner's record. He was then ordered remanded to the county jail.

Guirl broke into the offices of the Wisconsin Colonization company in Superior on the night of June 24, when he stole several blank checks. It was one of these that he had made payable to Albert H. Stewart, which he tried to cash at the Oak Hall store. His arrest was caused by one of the store managers, who notified the police.

Much Wanted Man.

Guirl is a much wanted criminal, there being requests for his arrest in nearly ten cities throughout the west, all on charges of forgery. He had served seven months of a seven-year sentence in the Nebraska state prison on a forgery conviction, but was released several years ago.

A description of Guirl follows: Age, 25; height, 5 feet 4⅝ inches; weight, 123 pounds; slight build, light chestnut hair, blue eyes, light complexion, wears glasses and has good teeth. He had a beard while in Duluth, but this he has shaved since making his escape here last Monday.

TWO SOCIETIES HOLD PICNIC

Stirrup Club at Lake Nebagamon and Masons at Fond du Lac.

Elmer F. Blu, president of the Stirrup club, was the butt of many jokes at the picnic held Saturday at Lake Nebagamon. He cheerfully took everything that came his way, and returned some of it with interest.

Saturday afternoon the married men and bachelors played their annual game of baseball and the former won easily, 8 to 3. The members refuse to give out the line-up.

About twenty-five members of the club and their wives went to Lake Nebagamon at 7:40 o'clock Saturday morning. They spent both days with W. G. Wilke of the South Shore road, who has a summer lodge on the lake shore. The outing came to a close late yesterday and the members returned to Duluth on the 9:10 train.

Several hundred Masons enjoyed themselves at the annual picnic of Palestine lodge held at Fond du Lac. The picnickers went up the river on the excursion boat Favorite, which was chartered for the day. The only accident that marred the pleasant day was the grounding of the steamer near the Carnegie docks during the storm late Saturday evening. The boat was an hour late in returning but the passengers were in no danger at any time.

PETITIONS ARE SUPERFLUOUS

Scandinavian Languages Already Offered in High Schools.

Despite the fact that the Scandinavian languages are included in the elective courses at the Central high school, petitions are being circulated asking that these courses be offered. The promoters of the petition have evidently been misinformed on the matter, according to Secretary Bronson of the board of education.

According to the petition the Scandinavian people of the city claim that fully one-fourth of the children attending the high schools are of Scandinavian descent and would rather study their language than German, French or Latin. They also claim that the Scandinavian languages are necessary in this part of the county owing to the large Scandinavian population.

In practically every Swedish and Norwegian church in the city yesterday the petitions were being readily signed.

Superior

GET YEAR FOR "BORROWING."

Two Sentenced for Taking Ride on Launch.

Arthur Ford and John Hill will serve a year in the reformatory for taking a boat ride in a motor launch owned by T. S. West of Solon Springs. The men were arrested on a charge of grand larceny and the court held that they had attempted to steal the boat and gave each a year. The two claimed that they had just "borrowed" the boat and were returning it when the engine broke down a short distance from the owner's dock.

James O'Hearn was also sentenced to one year at the reformatory. He was charged with having stolen a suit of clothes from a fellow boarder at the Merchant's hotel. Judge Charles Smith of the superior court imposed the sentences.

UNION MEN REFUSE TO ARBITRATE.

Superior union men refused to listen to any plea for arbitration in the matter of the normal school difficulty yesterday. Col. Duncan McGregor, private secretary to Governor F. E. McGovern, was in the city yesterday and attempted to bring about a friendly settlement in the strike situation but these was repulsed. It is now probable that the governor will take a personal hand in the matter.

The work on the construction of the normal school is being rapidly pushed with non-union labor. Union men have branded the job and the normal school regents as "unfair" and requested all union men to keep away from the place. No disorders of any kind have been reported about the place.

SCHOOL CENSUS WILL SHOW AN INCREASE.

The school census will show the school population well over 10,000 children in Superior, according to figures so far compiled from the various wards. The count is expected to be completed before the end of this week. At the present rate of increase, shown by the wards already covered, the figures are expected to show 10,286 children of school age. In 1913 the population was 9,771 while in 1912 it was 9,852.

GERMAN STUDENT DUEL ENDS FATALLY.

Marburg, Germany, July 13.—A student of the university bled to death today after a duel with a fellow student, during which his jugular vein was severed. Fatal results are almost unknown in these encounters between the members of the various college fraternities. The duels usually involve only a few harmless cuts on the head and face.

Livestock Burned to Death.

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—A large number of cattle, sheep and hogs were burned to death last night in a fire which destroyed the livestock sheds of the Sullivan Packing company. The number varied from 500 to 1,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Claim Agent Killed.

Monticello, N. Y., July 13.—Lightning Saturday night killed Herbert Hammett of Brooklyn, a claim agent, in a telephone booth at a hotel here. Mrs. Louise Phillips of New York city, standing nearby, was rendered unconscious for several hours by the bolt, and may die.

Starts Big Suit.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 13.—Stanley Vineseck, a Pole, who says he lost a leg and the sight of one eye when a car he was repairing ran over him at Williston, N. D., March 5, 1914, has entered suit against the Great Northern railway for $75,000. It is one of the largest amounts ever asked for personal injury in the Hennepin courts.

Risks Life Saving Sister.

Crosby, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eleanor M. Cain, aged 7, risked her life and saved her sister, aged 2 years, when the Cain farm home, five miles from here, was destroyed by fire.

NEW PITCHER FOR THE SOX

Withers Is Signed and Blaser May Come—Allen Released.

A deal was completed today that brings to the Duluth Baseball club Bert Withers, a former Kansas City pitcher, who was with the Superior team last year. Clarence Grina has a bad arm and the new pitcher is coming here to complete the twirling staff.

Fred Allen, the pitcher secured from the Oshkosh team, was released today, according to the information let loose at the baseball office. Allen failed to make good and the need for another pitcher, with Grina out of the game temporarily, prompted the signing of Withers. Norman Blaser, an Ohio pitcher whom Darby tried to sign at the beginning of the season, has been sent a contract. The youngster has all the marks of a great pitcher and is in addition an all round player. If the terms of the contract are accepted the new comer will be with the team during the present week.

YACHTS START ON DRIFTING MATCH

Defiance Takes Lead, Appearing to Take to Light Airs.

Newport, R. I., July 13.—Over a triangular course the America's cup yachts Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance were sent away in a contest today that promised to be little more than a drifting match.

The first lef sent the yachts ten miles southeast by east, then a leg ten miles west-southwest, then home north half east, giving the yachts a beat and two reaches.

The yachts went across the line in the following order: Resolute, 12:15:1s, Vanitie, 12:15:18, Defiance, 12:15:36. The Defiance seemed to like the mild air and soon took the lead.

BALLOON GOODYEAR WINNER OF RACE

All Aircraft in Elimination Contest Now Accounted For.

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—The balloon San Francisco 1915 landed eleven miles southeast of McLeansboro, Ill., at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, according to a telegram received from E. S. Cole, the pilot, today. McLeansboro is 95 miles southeast of St. Louis. The baloon covered about 106 miles in an airline.

All eight balloons that sailed from here last Saturday afternoon now have been heard from and the winner of the national elimination race to select the third American entrant to the international race that will start from Kansas City next October is the balloon "Goodyear," pilot R. A. D. Preston of Akron, O., aide, H. D. Tremelin of Akron. This balloon landed at Constance, Ky., 300 miles from St. Louis.

The two other entrants for the international race are the men who won first and second place in the last international race, Dr. R. Upson of Akron, Ohio, and H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis.

The dispatch to The Associated Press from Pilot Cole and Aide Emerson said: "Balloon San Francisco, 1915, landed easily eleven miles southeast of McLeansboro at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, actually traveling 158 miles in a roundabout course in light variable winds.

"On leaving the motordrome at St. Louis, the balloon rose straight up half a mile, then drifted slowly west at the rate of four miles an hour. We threw out much ballast on account of the intensely overheated gas cooling rapidly in the evening. We drifted all night in a complete circle over the St. Louis suburbs, crossing the Mississippi at the Chain of Rocks at 2 a. m., and then passing over Southern Illinois, easterly, then southeasterly.

"Our trail rope got caught in the trees and we were delayed, throwing out the remnant of our sand ballast, lunch and other things to pull loose. Then we shot up, finally landing here among a hospitable farming community, most of whom were on the way to church."

THE ALL-NATIONS SHOW REAL CLASS

Jamestown, N. D., July 13.—By the score of 10 to 5 the All Nations defeated Jamestown for the second time Saturday, having the game well in hand at all stages. The game was featured by the heavy batting of the All Nations. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
All Nations	2	0	3
Jamestown	0	1	4

Batteries—All Nations, Mendez and Schaumberg; Jamestown, Nierling, Boyle and Stovern.

The All Nation club defeated the Jamestown team here Friday by a score of 5 to 0. This was the first defeat suffered by the Jamestown club this season. "Cannon Ball" Jackson pitched a great game and held his opponents to a single hit. Mendez the Cuban, put the game on the ice in the fifth inning with a home run drive to center. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
All Nations	5	10	2
Jamestown	0	1	3

Batteries—All Nations, Jackson and Schaunberg; Jamestown, Hanson and Stovern.

ST. PAUL WANTS PETERS.

Will Pay Thousand Dollars for Flickertail Catcher.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Catcher John Peters of the Grand Forks club is wanted by the St. Paul club of the American association, an offer from that club being made yesterday. The St. Paul club is willing to part with $1,000 for the privilege of paying Peters' salary.

Peters has been making good in the Northern league this season, being the possessor of one of the best arms in the league, and his throwing has been the sensation of the circuit.

Just at present Peters is enjoying a "vacation" under Manager Kavanaugh's orders.

Virginia, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Eddie Wheeler of the Grand Forks baseball club today reported the sale of Catcher John Peters to the St. Paul club of the American association. Grand Forks receives $1,000 for Peters. John (Dutch) Altman of the same team will probably be sold to the Chicago White Sox. Negotiations for the sale are under way and will probably be completed today.

THE BILL OF RIGHTS

Ancient Liberties in Industrial Stress. Do Police, Mayors and Courts Violate the Law?

George W. Alger, Author "The Old Law and the New Order."

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

The commission on industrial relations is acting wisely in making careful inquiries as it goes along in the examination of recent industrial disturbances, to see to what extent, if any, the law is being violated by executive and police officers and by the courts, in denying to strikers the fundamental protection of the bill of rights.

Our constitutions, both state and national, of course, guarantee to everyone freedom of speech, the right of assembly, the right to the writ of habeas corpus, freedom of the press, and the like, all of which are ancient liberties of the English people, considered by our forefathers absolutely essential to an American democracy.

Are Fundamental Rights "Impractical."

In all the recent industrial disturbances, including those in Lawrence in West Virginia, in Paterson, in Colorado, things have been done which as given in the press at the time, would indicate that the bill of rights, which includes all these constitutional liberties to which I have referred, was not considered "practical." No conservative public opinion has as yet been aroused, since these violations (if they have been such) of the bill of rights have applied only to discontented poor people in the course of industrial disturbances.

Most of the court decisions by which these constitutional rights seem to have been denied have been made by judges in petty courts, whose judicial opinions as such are quite negligible from the standpoint of the working people affected by them.

Take, for example, the Paterson decision by the local magistrate in the Scott case. If it had been affirmed in the supreme court of New Jersey, the liberty of the press would have been a dead letter in New Jersey. Similar decisions have been made by the police courts in Massachusetts and in our own state on other branches of the bill of rights.

Colorado and West Virginia.

These decisions and the action of local executive and police officers, through which these decisions arise, all seem to come from an idea that the bill of rights is not practical, in its application at least to this large class of foreigners who form the striking masses of a majority of these industrial disputes. Colorado has apparently decided in a number of cases that the bill of rights is not practical, and outrages upon those rights have been so frequent, if one may judge by recent magazine articles, as to arouse the question as to whether, so far as the working class is concerned, a Republican form of government exists in that state.

West Virginia, through its governor, established a military tribunal in defense of a constitution which clearly declares that no such tribunal should ever be established in the state, and this tribunal denies the writ of habeas corpus in defiance of a constitution which expressly forbids that it should ever be denied. The practical executive saw that action was necessary to re-establish order, and, having reached that conclusion, he concluded that it was advisable to suspend the constitution so far as the striking miners were concerned, and the highest court of West Virginia sustained him in what he did.

Military Power Challenged.

As conservative an authority as ex-Chief Justice Cullen of the New York court of appeals, has characterized these decisions in language which a judge rarely uses concerning decisions of the highest court of another state. He declared in an address before the New York State Bar association in January of this year:

"These decisions exalt the military power beyond any height hitherto known in this country. They assert the power of the military at the uncontrolled discretion of a single man to dispose of the life the liberty of any person within the state, not by way of detention till the termination of an insurrection nor where life is taken in the actual clash of arms, but purely as a punishment for acts which may not be offenses at all by the law, or, if offenses, subject to slight penalties."

If the commission on industrial relations can so far assist us by getting us the actual facts, so that we may judge whether in its fundamentals the bill of rights is being disregarded in its application to strikers in industrial disputes, it will aid a conservative body of opinion to crystalize itself and make its opinion felt.

It is true conservatism to regard the bill of rights as something fundamental, as belonging to all of us, which cannot exist at all if it is denied to one class and preserved only to a more prosperous class which economically needs it least. There are many of us who have no sympathy whatever with the class of agitators, who are today shouting for free speech, believing them to be insincere and lawless in their purposes. The mere fact that we do not sympathize with them is no reason why we should permit any of the foundamental guarantees of citizenship in America to be undermined or destroyed.

Upholding the Bill of Rights.

The bill of rights cost a great deal of blood; it was a thing which our forefathers fought for; it cannot become out of date and impractical unless we agree to its destruction by indirect attack. All the questions which relate to the bill of rights in recent times have, of course, arisen in connection with one class only—working people, mostly foreigners, suffering from economic pressure and distress on American soil. Unless we are agreed that it is possible to Mexicanize America by having a constitution which is a name rather than a reality to a peon class, we must take sides in favor of the bill of rights when its protection is denied to any class under any conditions.

It is to be hoped that the commission on industrial relations will throughout its investigations bear the bill of rights clearly in mind and will be able to report to us as a people the extent, if any, by which that charter of liberties has been nullified or overruled or cast aside during the industrial disputes of recent years. No part of its work can be of any greater value, as I see it, than this. It is to be hoped that that work will be done thoroughly and impartially.

CLAY COURT MATCHES.

Some Stars Slated to Take Part in National Tournament.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 13.—A number of stars were on the program of the opening matches when play was resumed today in the national clay court tennis championship tournament of the United States. Clarence Griffin and Claude Wayne, who rank among the best players on the Pacific coast, were to play their first matches.

The start of the ladies' singles also was on today's program, a number of prominent players from out of town being carded to play.

ONE BALLOON IS STILL MISSING.

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—Nothing had been heard from the balloon "San Francisco 1915" at 10 o'clock this morning, but members of the St. Louis Aeroclub believe the balloon had landed.

The father of E. S. Cole, the pilot, said his son had planned to stay awake throughout the trip and lie down on the ground and sleep the minute the balloon landed.

If Pilot Cole carried out his plan, this would explain the delay in hearing from him.

FRANCE WINS DOUBLES MATCH.

Wimbledon, Eng., July 13.—France was the winner of today's doubles match against Great Britain in the preliminary competition for the Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis trophy.

CARBAJAL MAY QUIT

He Wants Early Agreement on Peace in Mexico.

Mexico City, July 13.—Authoritative quarters here today declare that unless a quick agreement is reached between the contending factions in Mexico, Francisco Carbajal, minister of foreign affairs, will sever his connection with the administration.

"No Mediation Whatever."

Washington, July 13.—Gen. Carranza formally notified the United States today that he would engage in no mediation whatever with the Huerta delegates and would accept only terms of absolute surrender.

COMING TO ESTABLISH NEW AUTO AGENCY.

S. J. Hentschell, automobile editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, accompanied by a representative of the Empire Automobile company, will motor to Duluth the latter part of this week in one of the new Empire models, according to word received by the automobile department of The Herald this morning.

It is the aim of the Empire officials to establish an agency in Duluth and the trip to this city is being made with that purpose in view. Both Mr. Hentschell and the Empire representative will also make a tour of the larger range towns.

DEFAULT JUDGMENT AGAINST ANDERSON

Former Treasurer of Normanna Makes No Defense Against Charge.

Default judgment was taken in district court this morning in favor of the town of Normanna and against Albert Anderson, former town treasurer, for $190.49 which was claimed to have been wrongfully withheld by the officer. Anderson, the defendant in the action, was tried and acquitted in district court last week on a charge of having assaulted his neighbor, Edward Arntsen, chairman of the town board with a dangerous weapon. Anderson shot Arntsen through the knee, but claimed that he did in self-defense.

In the civil action which was tried before Judge Dancer this morning, it was shown by witnesses for the town that when Anderson surrendered the books and accounts of his office to his successor last year he had withheld the amount for which judgment was ordered. Anderson made no appearance in court to defend the charge. His attorney, Andrew Nelson, recently filed a notice of withdrawal as his counsel.

MORE OF STREETS OF PARIS CAVE IN

Paris, July 13.—In the central fashionable quarter of Paris yesterday several street cave-ins occurred after a heavy thunder storm. In the Place Saint Augustine, not far from the spot where a taxicab was engulfed in a similar subsidence on June 15, a portion of the roadway about ten feet square collapsed. Traffic has been diverted from this neighborhood. Other pits were formed in the Rude De Comartin, near the Rue De Havre, and in front of the Opera Comique. No casualties are reported.

NEW "EYE WITNESS" OF CRIME IS TRAMP

Mineola, N. Y., July 13.—The new "eye witness" to the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, the Mineola woman whom Mrs. Edwin Carman is accused of shooting from outside a window of the office of her husband, a Freeport physician, is the so-called tramp, Frank Farrell, who figured last week as a witness in the case. Farrell said he had seen a woman outside the house about the time of the murder. He now goes further and declares he saw a revolver in the woman's hand, with which she smashed the glass of the office window. Then he heard the shot fired. He waited to see no more, he says, but started off down the road toward the village.

District Attorney Smith said he was having Farrell's story fully investigated.

Because of a report that he had prepared the affidavit of Celia Coleman, the colored maid in the Carman home, which she made the day after the shooting, George M. Levy, counsel for Mrs. Carman, exhibited the affidavit last night. He said he was anxious to show that the document was written with a lead pencil, indicating that it had been given little "preparation" by him.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Watch Your House Against Thieves.

This is the time of the year when the peddler is in evidence. Among this class are those who use some trifle of merchandise as a pretext for getting into homes and surveying the premises for ulterior motives. Incidentally at no time of the year are our homes more easy of access than at present.

Neither screen windows or doors are exactly adequate protection. Probably the average housewife intends to keep her doors locked, but the occupant of a single house is often very careless, indeed, particularly if she has a family of children running in and out.

Friends of mine had an experience the other day which will long be a lesson to them. They lived in a detached house in one of our city suburbs. It happened that the maid was hanging out clothes and the mistress was in the pantry. The children were playing about the neighborhood. Both the front and back doors were unlocked.

To make a long story short, a well-dressed young man entered the front door, letting the door bang behind him as he did so. He went up to the second story and ransacked it thoroughly. Then he left the house as he entered it, borrowing a handy suitcase in which to store his loot.

In telling of the experience afterward the mistress said: "I heard the door slam both times, but thought it was one of the children. They run in and out forty times a day. I even heard the villain as he worked in the rooms overheard, but I thought it was the maid searching for something, or making the beds. Taking things for granted cost me several valuable pieces of jewelry and wedding silver. We will keep the doors latched hereafter and I suppose I will be suspicious of every stranger."

It was an unfortunate experience, but it teaches its lesson. And, as I intimated, it might have been worse. Every woman, or several women together who are left alone in their homes, ought to safeguard themselves by locked doors. Many callers are on legitimate business bent. Others are looking for the opportunity, an open or unlocked door, and a defenseless woman present.

DESSERT RECIPES FOR MIDSUMMER

These tested desserts, delicious and simple, with the added virtue of coolness, are suggested for the midsummer days by Miss Cora E. Binzel, instructor in home economics, University of Wisconsin extension division:

Watermelon Cups—Remove the rind and cut the melon into cubes; sprinkle with powdered sugar and lemon juice; chill before serving.

Apple Marshmallow—One cup pared apples, ½ cup blanched almonds, 1 cup marshmallows cut in quarters, 2 cups whipped cream. Combine and chill.

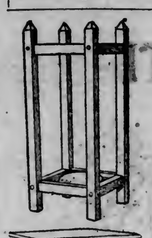

Mousse—One cup heavy cream, 1 saltspoon salt, 1-3 cup powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat the cream, add the sugar, salt and vanilla. Turn the mixture in a tin mold, adjust cover and seal with strips of cheese cloth dipped in melted lard or butter, or seal with melted paraffine. This is to prevent salt water from entering the can. Pack the mold in salt and ice, using two parts ice to one part salt. Allow two hours or more for the freezing. This is a delicious, wholesome dessert, very easily prepared and does not require an ice cream freezer. For variety flavor the cream with an ounce of melted chocolate or one-third cup maple syrup. During the winter the mould may be packed in a mixture of snow and salt. Baking powder or cocoa cans may be used for molds. Fill with water and test to see that they do not leak.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "Ready Money."
EMPRESS—"The Winning Miss."

PLAY BIG LAUGH GETTER.

Baldwin Players Score Heavily in "Ready Money."

In presenting "Ready Money," a three-act comedy by James Montgomery, the Baldwin Players opened for a week's engagement at the Lyceum theater quite the best little play yet presented in Duluth by that talented organization. Team work was strongly displayed by the entire company, even in the initial performance of the piece. There were few empty seats in the house, and the audience was composed of good laughers, who seemed hugely to enjoy the numerous situations and mirth-provoking episodes.

Homer Barton, leading man, was cast as Stephen Baird, the owner of a wildcat mine—which made good when most needed—and Barton, always a hard and conscientious worker, developed all the possibilities given him. A flattering "hand" greeted Barton upon his appearance.

A. Romaine Callender, as William Stewart; Walter S. Baldwin, Jr., as Sydney Rosenthal; Joseph de Stefani as Sam Welch, and Chester McLeod as Sumner Holbrook, all friends of the luckless Stephen Baird, merited the applause they received by very good work. But perhaps the character best liked by the audience was that of Jackson Ives, ably portrayed by Walter Baldwin, Sr. Mr. Baldwin has a compelling, sure, precise enunciation—mature experience seems to radiate from him—and a part could hardly be better molded for him than the one he has this week. Al Smith, with his size and big voice, made a typical United States secret service operative, and Chester McLeod did a nice bit of work in the last act as "Reddy," the office boy.

R. B. Pell, a new man in the company, was pleasing as James E. Morgan, owner of the "Safety" mine. He has a good talking voice.

But four of the women of the company appear this week. To Lola May, leading woman, the audience, of course, turns for satisfying work. So far she has not disappointed her audiences, and this week is no exception. Unfortunately, however, "Ready Money" deals with the sterner sex in great part, and Miss May is not such a busy little person as she has been in preceding plays staged in Duluth by the company.

Miss May plays this week the part of Grace Tyler, Stephen Baird's sweetheart. Lola May's sister, Verney Barnett, plays Ida Tyler, and Pearl Melville takes the part of the mother of the Tyler girls, and the wife of Hon. John H. Tyler, the latter handled by James Nelson. Old Man Tyler is a much henpecked old party, Pearl Melville pecking him aplenty. Miss Melville is an actress of no limited ability.

The play is a delightful one, with not a few genuine surprises, and here and there a heart-throb. The story is that of a young man, in whom his friends see all the attributes of a successful man, but success shies away from him until the last moment. Stephen Baird takes ten thousand perfectly good dollars out West and with the money procures an option on a mine—the "Sky rocket" mine. He has not money enough to work his property, and James E. Morgan, owner of an adjacent property, covetous of the "Sky Rocket" property, lends Baird $20,000, taking Baird's note for the money. Morgan apparently intends that the "Sky Rocket" will fall into his hands when the time on the note expires, leaving Baird busted and the "Sky Rocket" in the possession of Morgan. Baird is living in the New York apartment of one of his friends, and he has but a solitary quarter of a dollar left. That quarter causes numerous laughs.

The note against Baird will fall due on Jan. 2. On New Year's Eve a party is held in the same house in which Baird is living. He refuses to attend the festivities—because, his friends surmise, he is busted and his friends are successful.

Meanwhile Baird has become acquainted with Jackson Ives, one of the slickest counterfeiters uncaught. Ives' pals are all in prison; he is seeking a young man to aid him in his dangerous work, and by first pledging the young Baird to see him through thick or thin, Ives concocts a scheme by which Baird will show a roll of counterfeit $1,000 notes to Bairds' friends, Ives declaring that it is necessary to show money to make money. Baird decides to give Ives' theory a test. He displays an enormous amount of the spurious money, and his friends, convinced that Baird has at last struck it rich, tumble over each other to purchase stock in the "Sky Rocket." Forty-five thousand dollars quickly is pledged by Baird's friends, but Baird cannot honestly cash and use the money, despite his dire need. So he keeps the checks of his friends and the counterfeit money.

Suddenly Baird and Ives are arrested by United States secret service men. Grace Tyler had left her handbag containing the "Sky Rocket" prospectus, hanging on a chair. The counterfeit money reposed in an envelope identical with the one containing the prospectus. Skillfully making a switch of the two envelopes, Baird foils the detectives who, upon examination of the contents of the envelope, found upon Baird, discover only the mine literature. Meanwhile Grace Taylor has taken home the counterfeit.

Next day, in Wall Street, Grace Tyler returns the envelope to Baird. At the same instant the detectives again rush into the room, arrest Baird and Ives, and again are discomfited. An expert examines the counterfeit—and declares it genuine. Exit the detectives.

But here comes Morgan after his $20,000 or to take the mine! "Write a check for $20,000," directs Ives, and Baird does so. It will take at least seven days for the check to go out West and be declared no good. Meanwhile the "Sky Rocket" is being worked night and day in hope of finding gold.

Well, the mine makes good. Grace Tyler reads the telegram to her sweetheart. All doubts of Baird's business acumen are immediately swept away; Baird divides his profits with Ives, and Ives tears up the "queer."

And then, for the half-dozeneth time since they have been playing in Duluth, Homer Barton wins Lola May for his wife!

At the Empress.

The company that will present "The Winning Miss" at the opening performance at the Empress theater today is said to be the most pretentious of any that has yet appeared at that playhouse. Thirty-two people including a cast of star principals and a large beauty chorus are included in the roster of players.

The piece is produced under the management of Boyle Woolfolk, who has embellished it with every possible touch known to the art of producing musical comedy. He has engaged a company of people, who are said to be stars one and all.

The all-star cast includes, besides the beauty chorus of twenty smiling girls, such people as Sam Mylie, Guy Voyer, Al Laughlin, Raye and Brandon, Mabel Lecouver, Grace Manlove and many others.

Manager Abrahamson will keep this large company at the Empress producing only the best in musical comedy plays, such as "Bright Eyes," "The Three Twins," "Johnny Wise," "A Hot Old Time," "Lovers and Lunatics," "The Red Rooster" and others as long as his patrons show their liking for that kind of entertainment.

HOLD CONCERT DESPITE RAIN

Third Regiment Band Delights Audience at Fairmont Park.

Despite the heavy rain of Saturday night and the continued threatening weather during the day, the city's free band concert at Fairmont park yesterday was attended by several hundred people.

They showed high appreciation of the excellent program which was rendered by the Third Regiment band under the direction of Charles Helmer. Both classic and popular numbers were played and all were received with enthusiastic applause.

The next concert will be given at Chester park next Sunday afternoon. The Svea Glee club will probably sing several selections.

AGED CHIPPEWA GETS SACRAMENT.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 13.—Bishop McGolrick of Duluth Saturday administered the sacrament of confirmation to about 400 persons, about half of whom were Chippewa Indians in attendance at the Catholic Chippewa congress in session here.

Among those whom the bishop confirmed was John Smith, a Chippewa Indian who is generally credited with being about 127 years old. It is altogether likely the sacrament of confirmation has never in the history of the church been administered to an older person. The sacrament was administered after solemn high mass, which was sung by Father Gordon, a full-blood Chippewa Indian priest.

ARRIVING FOR RETAILERS' MEET.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Numerous members of the North Dakota Retail Merchants' association arrived today for the annual meeting which commences tomorrow.

The retailers are taking unusual interest in this year's gathering. The session lasts two days.

Abandon Farmers' Store.

Harvey N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers who have been operating a store at this point for a number of years have abandoned the plan and sold the place to Julius Sgutt, who will consolidate it with his store. The stockholders had no practical experience and none of them could devote the requisite amount of time to the place to insure its success.

LIGHT IN MEXICO!

To save his country from the horrors of civil war and his capital from capture and perhaps sack by a victorious army, Gen. Huerta intends this week to resign the provisional presidency and leave Mexico.—Associated Press dispatch.

Incidentally, he will also save his neck, which doubtless counts somewhat in his calculations.

These reports have come so often that they have ceased to thrill, but this one comes with such authority and confirmative detail that it is believable. And belief in it is very grateful.

If it is true—and events may have proved it so before these words reach the public—it means that the dictator will surrender his power to Carbajal, who seems to be a "prominent citizen" with friends among the Constitutionalists, and who will turn the reins over to a provisional president acceptable to the revolutionists, perhaps to Carranza himself. The rebels, meanwhile, have arranged plans for what promises to be as real an election as Mexico knows how to hold.

The elimination of Huerta, then, the chief thing for which we have contended, seems at hand. The triumph of the Constitutionalists, which also is pleasing to us, has been inevitable; and when Huerta slips out the back way headed for Paris and safety, the rebels will walk in the front way and take charge.

It looks like peace in Mexico—peace without further destruction of life and property; peace without American intervention; peace with the promise that the fundamentally important land question will be settled; peace with the prospect of a more real democracy in Mexico; peace with security to foreign enterprises in Mexico; peace largely procured by the influence of the American government, but without its having arranged incidentally any little deal for American oil or mineral magnates.

It is the triumph of "watchful waiting." It is the triumph of the Wilson policy of peace with honor. It is the triumph of A. B. C. mediation. It promises to gain all that anybody had hoped without the sacrifice of American blood, treasure or honor. A government that Americans can recognize seems at hand—a government that will not run Mexico for the Cientificos—the "system" in Mexico—but a government that will strive to uplift the masses and build a real republic on a foundation of liberty and enlightenment.

God grant that it may be all it seems to be!

Who started this idea of a Monday morning rain, anyhow?

MORE USEFULNESS.

The Y. M. C. A., which has made itself a highly useful factor in this community in many ways, has added an employment department under a skilled expert.

Heretofore the Y. M. C. A. has done some of this work incidentally, but now it has risen to the dignity of a distinct department, and it will be done systematically and on business lines.

The Y. M. C. A. is to be congratulated on this showing of its desire to make itself of the widest possible use to the community.

What has become of the clairvoyants? Are they missing a golden opportunity like the Bailey case?

GET THAT BREAKWATER.

A start has been made toward getting a breakwater for the protection of boats entering the Duluth harbor in a storm.

The rivers and harbors bill has passed the house and is before the senate. Senator Nelson has succeeded in getting an amendment added providing for a survey by the army engineers, and Congressman Miller will push the project in the house.

This is as far as it is possible to go now. Before any further steps can be taken, the project must be examined and reported upon by the engineer corps, and this is the purpose of the Nelson amendment.

A start has been made. Duluth and the lake country should get behind the project and push it to success. Duluth needs that breakwater. The harbor needs it, and the lake shipping interests need it.

The Colonel is wise in declining the governorship nomination. It wouldn't help his chances any in 1916 to have a home state walloping on his record. And even he couldn't expunge that.

THAT SCHOOL BOND ISSUE.

The school board has asked the voters to authorize an issue of two hundred thousand dollars in bonds for new school buildings. In a general way, it is understood that part but not all of this sum will be needed immediately for buildings that are necessary.

We have confidence in the school board, and believe that it is using its best judgment. Still, it is asking the property-owners of the city to mortgage their homes for a large sum. The property-owners ought not to vote for this until they are in possession of all the facts.

The Herald has a communication making pertinent inquiries on this subject. The questions in it are fair. They are questions that every taxpayer should ask the board, and that the board should answer when it is asking votes for this bond issue. Therefore it is passed on to the board with the suggestion that it should be answered fully, and with the invitation to use the columns of The Herald for that purpose. The communication follows:

To the Editor of The Herald:

The school board has asked for authority to put a mortgage of $200,000 on my property.

I would rather not do it. Of course I will if necessary but I would rather not. If it is at all possible I believe in paying as we go. Before I give my consent I should like to know what is the present debt of the school district and what provision is to be made for paying off the mortgage.

How much for building purposes can the school board get from current revenues and how much do they need? What part of the cost is to be paid as we go and what part is to be paid off during the life of the buildings and what part is to be staved off till some future generation gets ready to pay for our dead horses?

In short, I want to know exactly what I should expect to know before I made a building loan on my own house.

Of course we all have the highest confidence in the school board, we all recognize the patriotism of their services. Even so we can hardly authorize a mortgage on our property intelligently until we know how it is to be financed. We have no right to do it unintelligently.

Possibly such a statement has already appeared. If so I overlooked it. In any case I would be obliged to you for enlightenment.

A PLAIN CITIZEN.

What would you do if you were in Paul Warburg's place?

SHOULD AULD ACQUAINTANCE BE FORGOT?

All but two of the members of the senate banking committee who are making it difficult, if not impossible, for the president to get the best available men for the reserve board are Republicans.

They are obstructing the president and the success of the new currency system because, forsooth, one of the nominees is a stockholder in large corporations, though he is accused of nothing else unpatriotic and despicable; and because another is a Wall Street banker, though he is accused of nothing worse than being the most scientific international banker in the country.

Mind you, it is Republicans who lead in this obstructive fight. Republicans! Members of a party that has for two generations been financed, inspired, led, driven and slept with by Wall Street and the great corporations!

Save the mark!

Queen Mary would have made a permanent hit with several thousand Americans if she had caught that ball that was thrown at her.

CONTROL OF TIMBER.

Timber is a public necessity like water and coal and food. It is an essential to shelter.

All timber at one time belonged to the public domain. Very little belongs to the public domain now.

A report just made by Commissioner Davies of the bureau of corporations gives some startling revelations about the situation of the remaining timber supply.

Two men hold forty-nine per cent of the timber in Southwestern Washington. Five men own thirty-six per cent of that in Western Oregon. Six men have seventy per cent of the timber in Northeastern California. Ten men have more than half the redwood area. Four holders have half the timber in North Central Idaho.

A small handful—comparatively—of timber owners, 1,694, hold in fee more than a twentieth of the land area of the entire United States; and as these men own no land at all in a great many states, the bulk of their holdings in the timber country is enormous. In the nine hundred timbered counties investigated they own one-seventh of the total area. Their holdings amount to 105,600,000 acres—an area four-fifths the size of France, more than the entire state of California, twice the area of Minnesota. Sixteen holders own nearly fifty million acres, or almost as great a territory as the state of Minnesota.

Getting nearer home, forty-five per cent of the land in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan is held by thirty-two timber owners.

"The control of our standing timber in a comparatively few enormous holdings," says Commissioner Davies, "speculatively held far in advance of any use thereof, and the great increase in the value of timber resulting in part from such speculative holdings, are underlying facts that will become more and more important elements in determining the price of lumber as the supply of timber diminishes."

This was all ours; now it is theirs: and they and their heirs will use to exploit us what once was ours.

It was foolish to let it go. An element of loss not figured in this report, if it could possibly be figured at all, is the waste through private ownership. Almost any once timbered section of Northern Minnesota will illustrate it. The cream of the timber was taken, and much of the rest wasted in cutting or burned. Forests have been leveled, and forest places laid waste.

When it is remembered that European governments have forests from which they have been cutting all they needed for centuries, and have remaining forests greater than they started with, it will be realized what a tremendous and incalculable loss has been entailed by letting our heritage of timber go into private hands.

But it has gone, and the milk is spilt. We can keep the rest from going if we will. We can preserve our remaining forests, and we can grow more.

We MUST do this, if we are to have any means of defense against the peril of the present close ownership of the timber supply outside of the government domain. By conserving what is left, the government can keep timber prices down to a level of decency, and prevent the exploitation of the public by a timber monopoly.

Now comes a specialist who avers that prison populations are not up to the average citizenship standard. Looks like a good chance for an investigation by congress.

"Independence" and Journalism

Collier's: To most folks an independent paper is one that supports their side; the one that supports the other side is partisan. Also, there seems to be something in human nature which reacts against the idea of a really independent paper—a paper, that is to say, which supports the better acts of a man or a party and condemns the less desirable ones. Perhaps it is mixed up with the universal human liking for the quality of loyalty. To interrupt a course of praise seems, of course, like the unpleasing trait of disloyalty. But is there anything else for a really independent paper to do? Many a paper which regards itself as independent merely contents itself with keeping silent about the things it cannot conscientiously praise. In the nature of things, a really independent paper cannot inspire universal affection. It is on the fence, and it is going to get the bricks from both sides. In spite of all the talk about an independent press, in spite of the great growth of the independent vote, the only really independent papers in this country continue to be the ones that have held to that rule for more than a generation, such as the New York Evening Post and the Springfield, Mass., Republican. The editorial page of the New York World, which has been for more than thirty years a remarkably able and virile critic of public affairs, has been, of intention, prevailingly Democratic. It has not been independent in the sense of detached regard, or disregard, of all parties and all leaders alike.

"Courting."

In grandma's day love's tale was told
While lights were burning low;
Now, out upon the fashion old,
Designed when girls were slow.
Today the suitor takes the girl into a cabaret,
And in the dizzy tango's whirl
He pops to her this way:
"Say, kid, at dancing you're a scream—
A whirl—This is the life!
You're dolled up, kiddo, like a dream,
Now, get me: Be my wife!"
"You win!" she yelled (she had to, bo,
'Twas in a cabaret!)
Give me the love lights, burning low,
Of dear old grandma's day!

"Hamlet Left Out."

Lippincott's: A prominent Virginian had died and his daughter in arranging the house for the funeral had gone almost to an extreme in placing palms and ferns and plants in the drawing room—in fact, it had more the appearance of a wedding than a funeral. One of the old darkies came to pay his last respects. "Miss Mae," he said, "dis surely is fine, all dese here trees; but, Miss Mae, where is you going to put your Pa?"

An Amazing Resemblance.

Washington Star: "Let's wait a minute and see the game," said the near-sighted man, who was traveling in Holland.

"There's no game."

"What's that just ahead of us?"

"A windmill."

"My mistake! I thought it was a pitcher going through the motions preliminary to sending a hot one over the plate."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—This little tale is about a man who is a master of the Art of Getting Acquainted.

Robert H. Davis, who edits Frank Munsey's clump of magazines, is the man, and he makes getting acquainted a specialty, a hobby, a business—almost a mania. He likes to know a whole lot of people, and does. Years ago he started in to make acquaintances from necessity—because he needed acquaintance more than anything else. Today he still keeps at it partly from habit and partly from the sheer joy of the thing. He adds to his string of acquaintances with the zest of a man who collects stamps, or rare tapestries, or hotel keys.

There may be somebody who knows more people than "Bob" Davis does, but it is doubtful if there ever was a person who knew so many by premeditation and method.

Davis never walks a mile or rides a mile without acquiring at least one more acquaintance. And he doesn't care whether his new friend is a banker or a painless dentist.

"Every man," says he, "has a story that I would like to hear if I had time to listen."

When Davis is about to ride on a subway car he first buys two newspapers, which he tucks under his left wing. One is for himself and the other is for the stranger who sits next to him—provided the stranger wants it. When he opens up his own paper Davis glances out of the tail of his eye to note if his seatmate is looking at the headlines. The instant the stranger shows the slightest interest in the news Davis smilingly whisks forth the other paper and hands it to the stranger.

If there breathes a man with soul so dead that he can reist the captivating geniality of the Davis smile under such circumstances, go mark him well, for he must be a crab, indeed.

Having given the man a paper, Davis uses the livest news topic as a fulcrum on which to pry open a conversation. Before they separate he knows the man's occupation, street address and views about things.

Sometimes when he is merely walking along the street, Davis will think it is about time to make a new acquaintance, whereupon he will turn his engaging smile upon some innocent bystander and begin to talk about the architecture of a nearby building or the color of a passing automobile.

As we sat at lunch one noon in a quiet little cafe, Davis suddenly turned to the waiter and inquired:

"Is all the coffee in the world getting better or worse? Don't you get a great many complaints about coffee?"

"Indeed I do, sir," replied the waiter, earnestly. "It seems impossible to get good coffee any more."

"How long have you been a waiter?" pursued Davis. And soon he had learned enough to show that the waiter's life story would have been interesting if one had time to hear it.

"See how readily he fell for that about the coffee?" remarked Davis, after the waiter had departed for more food. "Ask any man about something with which he is familiar and you'll get a hearty response."

When he was graduated from the printing office to a job as reporter out in San Francisco, Davis was an extremely poor newsgatherer—that is, at first. In order to get news one must know people, and Davis knew scarcely any. Moreover, even aside from business reasons, Davis keenly felt his lack of acquaintance. He was brought up in a small town—Carson City, Nev.—and in the big city he was lonesome. He missed having men wallop him on the back and inquire: "How's the fishin'?"

So he came to the logical conclusion that he ought to set about getting the thing he most needed and most desired.

As rapidly as he made an acquaintance he put the name, address and occupation down in a little book. And before separating from a new acquaintance he always said: "Remember me, now, because I'm going to see you again some day."

At the end of a few years Davis had a great many thousand names listed. He classified the names alphabetically and by occupation—and the occupations covered a wide range. If a man fell off a church steeple and broke his neck Davis could look at his list and find the addresses of six or seven steeplejacks who could tell him exactly how a man felt when falling from a high place. Or if the story was about a stolen violin, Davis was certain to know a violin maker who could supply a lot of technical information.

One of the best news beats Davis ever landed in Frisco was through the co-operation of a street car acquaintance who had charge of the furnace and gas plant at Lucky Baldwin's hotel. Davis is ashamed now of the unethical means he employed and says he would fire any reporter in his employ who brought in a good story by any such method. He will be vexed when this reference to it is brought to his attention, but the thing is too illustrative of the value of acquaintance to omit.

A big state Republican convention was in progress and Davis knew that the platform was to be drawn up in a certain room at the Baldwin hotel by the governor of the state. Reporters for the various 'Frisco papers were to be admitted to the room and all would be allowed to see the platform when it was completed. Davis did not like the idea of having so many reporters know the contents of the platform. He wanted it exclusively for his own paper. So he went to his friend, the gas man, and asked him if he would mind turning off the gas in the hotel at exactly 11 o'clock that night.

"I'll turn 'er off and then turn 'er on again and put everybody in the hotel to sleep if you want me to," offered the gas man, who had become greatly attached to Davis.

"The only trouble in turning it off in the entire hotel," says Davis, "is that the gas in the pipes will last a few minutes and the flame will die down too slowly. Now if you could turn it off in the part of the building where this room is—"

"I'll turn it off right in that one room," volunteered the man.

He went ahead and made a fake investigation after a leak and put a little jigger in the pipe just outside the room, so that he could turn it off at a signal from Davis.

That night when it was apparent that the governor had about completed state platform Davis gave his signal to his friend outside, and the room was in total darkness. Davis reached over, grabbed up the sheets containing the platform and went his way. There were no other copies and his paper carried it exclusively the next morning.

Davis' employers never knew how he got so much exclusive news. They thought it was because of superior powers of intuition or some such elusive quality as that. Davis alone knew that it was because he knew more people than his competitors. To this day he declares that he has never accomplished anything of consequence in life except through his acquaintanceship. If he were asked to cram the most advice to the young into the fewest words he would probably say simply:

"Know lots of people."

"Develop all the ability of one kind or another you can," he remarked one day, "but you'll find out that a man's friends are the chief instruments in getting him anywhere."

The last paper Davis worked for in San Francisco belonged to Mr. Hearst and he was sent for to come to New York and go to work on the Hearst paper in that town. It happened that when Davis arrived the editorial force had just been reorganized and no one understood just what Davis was to do.

"Just wait here a few minutes," one of the editors told him. And for thirty minutes Davis sat in a little reception room twirling his thumbs.

At the end of that time he observed to himself: "I'll not wait around like this for any man."

He went out and strolled up Fifth avenue. When he got to the Plaza hotel, he dropped in and chanced to see a Utah congressman to whom he had once introduced himself in San Francisco. The Utah man gave him a red hot interview regarding the question of Mormons holding seats in congress—which was a thing much talked about just then. Davis wrote three columns and took it down to Bradford Merrill, managing editor of the New York World. With that interview for his letter of introduction he was received like a rich relative and went to work on the World.

Several days later when the Hearst people learned where he was they asked him what he meant by not going to their shop and starting to work there.

"I was there," replied Davis, "and hung around for half an hour, but nobody paid any attention to me. And I just can't stand for a place where nobody knows me."

Angelic Service.

"In one of Murillo's pictures in the Louvre she shows us the interior of a convent kitchen; but doing the work there are, not mortals in old dresses, but beautiful white-winged angels. * * * It is the angel-arm and standard in an act that consecrates it."—William C. Gannett.

No angel is so high
But serveth clowns and kings,
And doeth lowly things.
He in this serviceable love can see
The symbol of a heavenly mystery—
So labor grows white wings.

No angel bravely dressed
In larkspur-colored gown
But he will kneel him down
And sweep with careful art the meanest floor,
Singing the while he sweeps and toiling more
Because he wears a crown.

Set water on to boil,
An angel helps thee straight,
Kneeling beside the grate
With pursed mouth he bloweth up the flame,
Chiding the tardy kettle that for shame
It makes an angel wait.

Make thou conserves, the while
Two little cherubs stand
Tiptoe at either hand,
And one would help thee stir, and one would skim
The golden juice that foams about the brim,
So serveth thy command.

Lady, thou art a queen,
Thy kitchen an estate,
Within its wall be great,
Rule prudently. With faces kind and bland,
Crowned heads and folded wings, for thy command
And service angels wait.

Scepticism of Willie.

Philadelphia Telegraph: The conversation at a social affair the other night turned to scepticism when Congressman Moses P. Kinkaid of Nebraska was reminded of the doubt of little Willie.

Some time ago Willie, accompanied by his mother, went to visit relatives in the country. One afternoon a violent thunder storm arose, and with the first peal of sky artillery the youngster broke the cabbage zone record in beating it for cover.

"Why; Willie," said the boy's mother, as he precipitately fled through the house, "what in the world is the matter?"

"Storm is coming," panted the youngster, "and I am afraid of the thunder!"

"There is nothing to be afraid of, Willie," reassuringly responded mother. "The storm is sent us to cool the air, water the flowers and make the world more pleasant. No harm will come to you and everything will be better when it is over."

"That's all right, mamma," was the doubtful rejoinder of Willie, "but you talk just like you did last week when you took me to the dentist to have a tooth pulled."

Political Drainage.

Farm, Stock and Home: Somebody has blundered in the planning of much of the ditch work in Minnesota. To dig a ditch twelve feet wide, four feet deep and then to dam it up every mile or so with a culvert that will carry but a small fraction of the capacity of the ditch might be excusable in school boys, but it looks worse than foolish in drainage engineers who assume to know their business. The same sort of thing is being done with even larger ditches. Now it costs money to move dirt, while the amount of water moved by the ditch is determined by the fall of the ditch and the cross sections of the smallest culvert. It doesn't take an engineer to know that. Nor does it take the taxpayer long to figure out that his pocketbook has to pay for the excess dirt removed, and for the ultimate tearing up of these bottle-neck culverts, and their replacement by girder bridges.

Minnesota, it appears, is still suffering from too much political drainage. What is needed is common sense on the job and a fair amount of business vision. The mismanagement of drainage matters is another argument for the plan of reorganization of the state departments proposed by the efficiency commission.

Where Skirts Are Taboo.

From the rules of the Canadian Alpine club: No lady climbing who wears skirts or bloomers will be allowed to take a place on a rope, as these have been found a distinct source of danger to the party making the climb.

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

How Can You Say So?

Madison Press: A cartoon on the first page of The Duluth Herald of the 29th ult. suggests the thought that Mr. Lee, during his primary campaign, furnished the Democratic party with enough ammunition to defeat him in November. The Herald shouldn't take Mr. Lee too seriously. A fellow is allowed to exaggerate a bit in a hot political fight. We notice The Herald does it.

Indorses the Idea.

Sioux City, Iowa, Journal: The Duluth Herald suggests that since every county has a public prosecutor, it would be no more than right that every county also have a public defender. It too frequently happens that a county attorney, for the sake of his own political reputation, pushes cases and railroads innocent men to the penitentiary. Every man, under the law, should be deemed innocent until he is proven guilty, but in most cases the man who is charged with a crime is considered guilty before he is tried, and the prosecuting attorney considers it is his business to convict. Of course, this is not true in all cases. It really should be as much the duty of a county attorney to protect the innocent as to prosecute the guilty.

An Analysis of Orthography.

Sandstone Tribune: The Duluth Herald is a good newspaper, and its claim to being independent in every way no doubt enhances its popularity. The Tribune don't like to admit that The Herald has accepted volapuk—the universal language—as its standard authority in orthography, but the way it has of spelling some words is certainly curious. For instance, the way The Herald spells "Independent"—from a political standpoint—is thus: "D-e-m-o-c-r-a-t-i-c."

It's Been Done Before.

Carlton Vidette: Our friend, the enemy, through The Duluth Herald, makes the assertion in Monday evening's issue that the good ship Minnesota is to be pulled off the rocks of Republican misrule, extravagance and waste by the little tugboat Democracy. Can't believe it, brother. If the little old boat changes pilots it will doubtless be sold to the "Greeks" as was the government battleship bearing that name. There's no use trying to pull any ship off the rocks where she is firmly grounded. Better dig the rocks out.

Both Flattered.

East Grand Forks Record: The Duluth News Tribune switched the pictures of Congressman Volstead of Minnesota and Senator Gronna of North Dakota in a recent issue. As neither of the solons would be a blue ribboner in a beauty show, there is no cause for complaint.

State's Dual Duty.

Greenbush Tribune: The Duluth Herald suggests that we should have a public defender as well as a public prosecutor. The suggestion is a good one. The one aim of the prosecutor seems to be to get a man convicted ofttimes when there is serious doubt about his guilt. It isn't only that somebody shall be hanged or jailed, but that the right man shall get what is coming to him. The state is just as much concerned in seeing that no innocent man is punished as it is in seeing that every guilty man is punished. Why, then, should it have a public prosecutor and no public defender?

Good All Around.

Alexandria Citizen: The Duluth Herald proposes that all parties and candidates agree to a political truce until Sept. 1. Not a bad idea. July and August are the vacation months and the people will get enough of politics if the campaign does not start until September 1. This would also mean less expense to the candidates.

Motorist Manners

John Kendrick Bangs in Lippincott's: We go speeding unasked with our heavy, high-powered motors over the public highways for whose construction we have not contributed a penny; and if we do not find them wholly to our liking we comment insultingly upon them and their makers, calling our hosts, in this case the taxpayers who have paid for them, hayseeds, reubens, jays, mossbacks, antidiluvian fossils and whatnot, in utter forgetfulness of the fact that it is for the most part ourselves who have brought the roads into their present condition by our unconscionable and destructive speeding upon them.

In other words, we go with our cars where we have not been asked to go; we tear up the country roads with our heavily-built cars; we require our unwitting hosts practically to rebuild at their own expense these same highways every season; and then we call them mossbacks and fossils because we do not find boulevards and parkways waiting for us on every hand. We know my lord's answer to this, that we leave enough money behind us to pay for it all; but, as a matter of fact, we don't.

There are some of us, for instance, who seem to think that, because we are in a picnicking spirit, therefore everybody else is, and that we have therefore a perfect right to be as noisy as we please in quiet country vales at any hour of the day or night; that we have a right to sound those raucous horns of ours in carnival-wise as we rush madly past houses of worship on Sunday morning; that we have a right to treat all women on the highway as we pass them very much as if they were flirtatious housemaids, and we were all jolly butcher boys off on a lark; and that also, just because we are off in the country, it is our privilege to strew newspapers, torn letters, lunch boxes, eggshells and empty bottles in our wake, as if country people always kept a corps of white-wings ready to clean up after us, or really didn't care whether their thoroughfares were tolerably tidy or not.

Solicitous for Others.

Lippincott's: A member of the Providence bar one day met an able and conscientious judge on the street and said to him:

"I see, Judge, that the supreme court has overruled you in the case of A versus Z, but you need feel no concern about your reputation."

"No indeed," answered the judge complacently; "I don't. I'm only concerned about the reputation of the supreme court."

Baltimore Sun: Before it is too late, we wish to express our satisfaction and delight at the elevation to a baronetcy of our old friend, Joseph Beecham. Sir Joseph is the Lydia Pinkham of Great Britain. He is known to fame principally by his pills, which doubtless are very efficacious and which certainly have built up a fortune for their manufacturer. The honorary but indefinite title of philanthropist is also accorded him in the cable dispatches, whether because his pellets have proved "a real boon to suffering humanity," or because they have enabled him to give money to worthy objects we do not know. At all events, he is now a baronet, with all the social dignity and consequence which still appertain to rank in a kingdom that is more democratic than many republics. The practice of putting new blood into the British aristocracy by conferring titles on wealthy merchants and manufacturers is not a new one, and there is a well-known monument in one of the London churches to a pill-maker of the seventeenth century who had rendered distinguished service to the human stomach during his generation. And why should not a man who eases pain have as much right to knighthood as your windy orator who stirs up trouble at home or your truculent soldier who creates "hell" abroad? We salute Sir Joseph, knight of the pestle and the mortar, missionary of internal peace and emancipator of the inner man. A pill couchant on a coat of arms is as honorable as a lion rampant.

The Real Strength of Villa.

George Marvin in the World's Work: Hitherto in Mexico, as in other countries, when a man has risen from obscurity through the troubled waters of revolution to the surface of public attention, he has generally changed his manners if not his morals. Other peons who have won seats of authority sit down in them and have their boots blackened and their leggins laced by peons who are still common or garden. "Pancho" Villa takes his boots and leggins out into the street in front of his quarters, sits down on a curbstone, and puts them on himself. The authority he exercises is not artificial, a thing of titles and shoulder straps, or anything else that can be rubbed off at close quarters. It is the result of several ingredients, one of the strongest of which is the ability and the shrewdness of this bandit in keeping on being to an army what he was to a gang of other bandits: their chief, their leader, stronger than they but their friend, one of them—"Pancho" still.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CITIZENSHIP.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Would you be so very kind as to explain to me briefly, in the columns of the Open Court, how I may quickly become a citizen of the United States? I came to this country twenty years ago and then took out my first papers, but through carelessness I neglected to complete the work.

Kindly supply the information and oblige. Sincerely yours,

JOHN NELSON.

"WASTE LANDS."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you answer the following questions in the Open Court:

1. What is meant by the reclaiming of waste lands by the state?

2. Are such lands sold or homesteaded?

3. Are there any new laws under consideration?

Hoping that you will treat the subjects as broadly as possible, I remain, yours truly, P. G. PHILLIPS.

West Duluth, July 13.

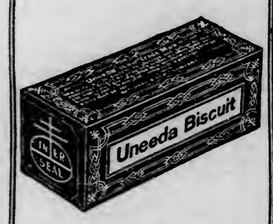

1. As our very backward laws stand, reclamation means only the drainage of submerged lands. It should mean, both in law and in practice, the clearing of lands covered with brush and stumps, and the building of roads to reach lands now inaccessible.

2. State lands are not homesteaded, but are sold at public auctions held once or twice a year in each county containing state lands. Often drainage projects reclaim government lands that are subject to homestead entry. A pro rata share of the cost of drainage is assessed against such land, and some of it has been acquired by payment of the drainage assessments.

3. While plans are not in concrete form, there is a more or less widespread realization that a complete revolution is needed in the state's land policy, foundationed upon a department of public domain to have complete charge of conservation and development. The Herald has urged a constitutional amendment that will permit the state to clear a portion of each tract before offering it for sale, thus enabling the homeseeker to gain a living while he is clearing the rest.—The Editor.

IDLE CARS DECREASE

Volume of Freight Shows Steady Gain in Last Fortnight.

That the volume of freight moving is gaining steadily throughout the country is shown in a decrease of 12,789 idle freight cars during the fortnight ending July 1.

In the two weeks the gross surplus of cars dropped from 232,994 to 220,875. The net surplus of boxcars was 80,965, compared with 88,271 on June 15, while the surplus of coal cars decreased from 93,471 to 90,850. While the net surplus of 219,545 cars is the largest for the same period in any year since 1909, it is thought by railroad managements it will rapidly disappear in view of the prospective bumper harvest to be moved. The decrease in car surplus in the last report followed one of 9,000 cars in the preceding fortnight.

In the rush to place their out-of-order cars in shape, all the leading railroads have increased their shop forces and it is expected there will be very little equipment not available to go into commission by the time the rush period arrives. It is pointed out that with 81,000 idle boxcars, the railroads have nearly three times the number on hand at this time last year. As it is, however, an extensive car shortage is feared this fall if the farmers attempt to rush their grain to market simultaneously from the various sections of the country.

It is reported that the New York Central, Erie and Chicago-Great Western have come into the market for cars during the last few days.

BRYAN DEFENDS COLOMBIA TREATY.

Washington, July 13.—Secretary Bryan issued a statement last night defending the proposed treaty to settle differences between the United States and Colombia over the separation of Panama. The treaty has met vigorous opposition in the senate, and Former President Roosevelt has attacked it as a vehicle for the payment of "blackmail."

Mr. Bryan declared that it was necessary to discuss only the fact that an estrangement exists, and not the events which gave rise to the differences; and that regardless of whether Colombia has a just grievance against her more powerful neighbor, no one would deny that the former country sustained great financial loss, considerably more than the $25,000,000 which the United States would pay under the treaty, through the separation of Panama.

As to the expressions of regret on the part of the American government to which opponents of the pending convention offer their bitterest objection, the secretary said this was almost identical with a similar expression in the Du Bois memorandum on the basis of which the Taft administration unsuccessfully sought to placate Colombia.

MISSOURI TO VOTE UPON SUFFRAGE.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 13.—The amendment to the Missouri Constitution giving women the right to vote will go on the ballots at the November election. It was announced that the petition presented by the suffrage leaders providing for the placing of the amendment before the people had sufficient signatures.

NEW INTER-MOUNTAIN RATES BEGIN OCT. 1.

Washington, July 13.—The effective date of the interstate commerce commission's inter-mountain rate orders, recently sustained by the supreme court, has been advanced to Oct. 1 to enable the railroads to compile and publish the tariffs to be put into effect.

Slight modifications of the zone boundary lines fixed in the original order have been made to make the zones upon diagonal traffic from the Lake Superior region to the South Pacific coast and from Galveston to the North Pacific coast conform to the zones already fixed in the tariffs applicable to class rates.

HONOR SYSTEM AND NO MORE STRIPES.

New York, July 13.—On her visit to the penitentiary at Blackwell's island Sunday to address the prisoners at the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal services, Katherine B. Davis, commissioner of correction, in view of the restoration of order, announced minor reforms she was introducing there. The striped prison garment will be replaced by suits of sailor blue cloth, she told the prisoners, who applauded her heartily. Her further announcement that she would introduce the honor system was greeted with prolonged cheering.

FEW CONTROL TIMBER LAND

Concentration of Holdings Is Shown in Government Report.

Land Laws and Railroad Grants Denounced By Davies.

Washington, July 13.—Two men hold 49 per cent of the timber in Southwestern Washington; five men hold 36 per cent in Western Oregon; six have 70 per cent in Northeastern California; ten have more than half in the redwood area and in North Central Idaho four holders have 50 per cent.

These are some of the things shown in the statistics on concentration of timber lands in the United States in the hands of a few owners, in the second and third parts of the report of the bureau of corporations on the lumber industry, just submitted to President Wilson by Commissioner Davies.

Determining the Price.

"The control of our standing timber in a comparatively few enormous holdings, speculatively held far in advance of any use thereof, and the great increase in the value of timber resulting in part from such speculative holdings, are underlying facts that will become more and more important elements in determining the price of lumber as the supply of timber diminishes," says the report.

"The main fact shown is that 1,694 timber owners hold in fee over one-twentieth of the land area of the entire United States, from the Canadian to the Mexican border. In many states these 1,694 own no lands at all. In the 900 timbered counties investigated they own one-seventh of the area.

More Than All California.

"These 1,694 holders own 105,600,000 acres. This is an area four-fifths the size of France; or greater than the entire state of California; or more than two and one-half times the land area of the six New England states. Sixteen holders own 47,800,000 acres, or nearly ten times the land area of New Jersey. Three land-grant railroads own enough to give fifteen acres to every male of voting age in the nine Western states where almost all their holdings lie.

"Not all this land is suitable for agriculture. In the South and in the Lake states and in part of the West a large portion of it can be used for agriculture after the timber is removed; but in many parts of the West the land is mountainous and adapted chiefly to reforestation. Much of the railroad-owned land outside the timber regions is arid or semi-arid.

In Upper Michigan.

"In the Upper Peninsula of Michigan 45 per cent of the land is held, mostly in fee, by 32 timber owners. In Florida 52 holders (mostly timber owners) hold one-third of the land in the entire state.

"Lavish land grants and loose, ill-enforced land laws are the historical background of the concentration of land and timber ownership shown in this report. A study of the present ownership of 7,370,000 acres of railroad, wagon-road, and canal grant lands, covering most of the granted lands in the map area, and a little elsewhere, shows that of these particular lands, granted long ago to single corporations, apparently with the idea that they would be quickly sold to settlers, only 15 per cent are now distributed in small holdings. Eighty-five per cent are owned by the grantees or their successors, or by large timber holders. Of 82,500,000 acres granted to three western railroads in the sixties, the roads still retained 40 per cent in 1910.

Helped Monopolies.

"Moreover, the states appear to have disposed of the various Federal grants made to them in such a way as to contribute to the concentration of land and timber ownership. Florida is a striking example of this. Again the public-land laws, the cash-sale law (now repealed), the scrip laws, and the homestead and timber and stone laws operated, at least in timber regions, to transfer government lands directly or almost directly to great holders.

"Ninety-eight per cent of the 1,500,000 acres comprised in the largest timber holding in the Lake states was acquired in a wholesale manner, chiefly from tracts disposed of by the government through grants to the state or under the scrip and the cash-sale laws.

"This marked concentration in the ownership of land has two important aspects. The first is the concentration of control of the natural resources, other than agricultural, in the area comprised in these great holdings. Besides its timber now standing, part of the land must be depended on, together with the national forests, to supply future crops of timber. Furthermore, some of it has valuable resources of ores, oil, gas, waterpower, etc.

Needed for Agriculture.

"The second is the possibility that these holdings, which will form a considerable proportion of the future area used for agriculture in this country, may be retained under concentrated control. Formerly lumbermen often got rid of their cut-over land at nominal prices or let it go for taxes. But as the agricultural possibilities of such land have become apparent, this policy is being abandoned. A large part of the present cut-over land is now of considerable value for tillage.

"That part of the present timber land which when denuded will be arable will have a higher and higher value as land, the longer the timber is kept uncut; because if the timber is held for many years, the land when finally denuded will be in greater demand for agriculture. Such a condition suggests the following potential effects upon the public: High prices for land sold to settlers, increase of the tenantry system, or direct farming by large corporations.

Only One Phase.

"The data obtained by the bureau, so far as land is concerned, are not sufficient for a study of the land problem as a whole. They cover only one class of owners—the timbermen—and only part of the country. They show conditions only at the time of the investigation, and do not show whether the concentration is increasing or decreasing. They are not typical of present conditions in agricultural communities, where the average size of holding is, of course, much smaller. Though incomplete, these data are nevertheless suggestive and worthy of serious consideration.

"Most of the land grants were made on conditions, and it appears that in many cases not all of the conditions were complied with. The government is now attacking some of these grants for alleged violation of the condition imposed.

"The abuse of the general land laws in the past suggests that any lands restored to the public domain by these or other, forfeiture suits should not be disposed of under the present land laws. To allow such lands to be taken up by private parties before the revision of the public land laws has been completed would be to lose much of the public benefit from their recovery."

Lumbering in the Philippines.

There are some 60,000 square miles of timber standing in the Philippines, of which two-thirds is virgin forest, according to a pamphlet "Lumbering Industry of the Philippines," just issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce. The commercial output of lumber has been steadily increasing and has practically quadrupled in the last seven years, amounting to over 112,000,000 board feet in 1913.

Although the hardwood products of the Philippine forests rank with the best in the world for cabinet work, construction and various uses in which durability is an essential factor, very little of the yearly output has reached the outside world, as the home demand is more than sufficient to absorb the whole present supply. The industry is capable of very great expansion, according to those now engaged in the business. The director of forestry estimates the amount of timber that could be removed annually without diminishing the productivity of the forests at ten times the present output. Capital is the principal factor necessary to develop the industry.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

THE council at Richmond, Ind., has introduced an ordinance which regulates street cars. The law will eliminate several awkward street cars which have an entrance in the front part, and will compel the street car company to have conductors on all its cars. It has been customary to operate cars on some lines without conductors. The company has objected to placing conductors on these cars, saying the revenue from these lines did not justify such action, but expresses a willingness to place mirrors in the front of the cars, so that the motormen could see when a passenger safely boarded a car or alighted from them. The city council is of the opinion that these mirrors would be impracticable. The second section of the ordinance provides that only cars where passengers can enter or depart at or near the rear end on the right-hand side can be operated. Violation of this ordinance provides fines for both the company and the motormen operating them.

Duluth has no occasion for regulations of the kind adopted by Richmond. The principal interest of the item is that it shows how far ahead of many other cities is the street car service which Duluth is getting.

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

The Standard American Baby

AT birth he is a fraction over twenty inches long, he weighs seven pounds and four ounces, all friends and things look alike to him—because he doesn't know how to focus his vision—and he looks like the less pretentious of his parents.

His head is not quite fourteen inches in circumference and it is chuck full of cerebrum and cerebellum. There are two soft places in it, however. The front one is the largest and the last to close; it doesn't close until he is about eighteen months old. The back one, being smaller, becomes closed with hard bone when he is about three months old. If he gets nothing but condensed milk or other short rations, these soft places, or fontanelles remain unclosed much longer, and that is one sign of rickets.

How Fast He Grows.

During the first three days his weight falls steadily and alarmingly till he reaches six and a quarter pounds or so. But after that, if he has a fair show, he gains an ounce or two a day right along. By the time he attains the age of ten days he weighs as much as he did when he first arrived; and when he reaches the ripe old age of three weeks he tips the scales at eight pounds or a trifle more if you keep your hand on him.

At one month he weighs 8½ pounds and begins to look more like his mother. At two months he weighs 11 pounds and it is discovered that his eyes are wide open and just like grandfather's. At three months he weighs 12 pounds and gains about a pound a month for the rest of the year. If he reaches 20 pounds on his first birthday you may be proud of him. If he doesn't, and yet seems quite well and happy, you have no particular reason to worry.

His Other Accomplishments.

At three months he makes his first voluntary efforts. At seven months he can sit up by himself. At ten months, if he takes after his dad he does so very warily, for his legs are still wabbly and weak. On his first birthday he is able to stand up and receive his candy. After that, before you know it, he is walking around the house. When he is fifteen months old he insists on investigating everything within reach.

He knows his mother's voice at three months or so. He says "mamma" in the cutest way imaginable when he is about a year old. "Papa" comes next, of course. From that point forward he develops new accomplishments so rapidly that we can't attempt to catalogue them. The parents may always be trusted to do that with plenty of poetic license.

City Transportation Service to and from Grand Central Terminal

THE CITY OF DULUTH and the State of Minnesota both seek to reduce the number of accidents due to heavy Traffic through ordinances and state laws. We would respectfully ask the co-operation of Duluth drivers of all kinds of vehicles in a "safety first" campaign to help make these laws and ordinances more effective.

Section 3 of the Duluth city traffic ordinance reads as follows:

"Every person using any vehicle on any street in the city of Duluth shall, before turning out to pass any other vehicle, and before turning around, and before turning out of the line of traffic for any purpose, look carefully to the rear of the vehicle which said person is using upon the side toward which he contemplates turning, and if he fails so to look and in so turning out causes a collision with any vehicle coming from the rear he shall be deemed guilty of gross negligence."

The failure of drivers and chauffeurs to look back before turning out of their courses in obedience to the above is the direct cause of a great majority of the collisions between street cars and other vehicles. IN ALL SUCH CASES THE DRIVER OR CHAUFFEUR IS GUILTY OF GROSS NEGLIGENCE.

Remember that "A Street Car Can't Dodge" to avoid running into anything upon or near the track. Our Duluth street cars weigh twenty-five tons—the rails are very often slippery from a variety of causes in summer as well as from frost in winter—if the motorman cannot stop before reaching an obstruction he cannot turn his car out to avoid it, as could be done with any other vehicle, and a collision is the result. This inability to dodge obstructions puts the motormen at a great disadvantage and at the same time gives the drivers of other vehicles the great advantage of knowing the course the car will take.

In the interests of safeguarding life and property, we would like to call the attention of every driver of a vehicle in Duluth to this ordinance.

TERRIFIC ELECTRICAL STORM BREAKS OVER ZENITH CITY

Motorman Meets Death While Trying to Remove "Live Wire."

Vivid Display of Lightning Is Accompanied By Drenching Downpour.

RAGNALD E. LARSON.

Saturday night's heavy electrical storm, which began at 9:10 o'clock, and during which 2.41 inches of rain fell in three hours, resulted in the death of one man by electrocution, the grounding of the excursion boat Favorite with several hundred members of Palestine lodge on board, the disabling of the aerial bridge for nearly an hour, several small fires, some minor accidents to pedestrians and considerable damage to property and streets throughout the city.

Although the storm began at 9:10 o'clock, the heaviest part came between 10:30 and 11 o'clock, according to H. W. Richardson, weather forecaster. Mr. Richardson said this morning that 1:40 inches of rain fell between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock and that 2:41 inches fell during the entire storm, which ended shortly after midnight. There was no heavy wind, but the electrical display was especially commented upon by Mr. Richardson this morning.

Motorman Killed.

Ragnald E. Larson, 23 years old, a street car motorman, was electrocuted directly in front of the Duluth Street Railway company's office at Twenty-seventh avenue west and Superior street shortly after 10 o'clock. Larson, who was operating a West Duluth and Aerial Bridge car, found the passage of his car blocked by an overhead wire that hung down on the track. He stopped the car and jumping out started to brush the wire away with his switch iron.

Several pedestrians shouted to Larson not to touch the wire, but he attempted to push it aside and in doing so received a shock. Luckily, the wire glanced off and Larson was unharmed. However, he refused to listen to warnings of pedestrians and the street car passengers, all of whom had stepped out on the street to witness the cause of the blockade. Larson made a second attempt to brush the wire away and this time received a double shock, one through the switch iron and another, when the dangling wire circled about his body. He fell to the pavement and for a moment writhed in the water and mud.

Charles Johnson, a cousin of the dead man, saw the accident and he immediately rushed to Larson and carried him into the office of the street car company, where every effort was made to revive him. Dr. Oliver S. Olson of West Duluth, who was a passenger on the car, organized a squad of men to manipulate the man's limbs to produce artificial respiration, but the efforts proved of no avail. The pulmotor was sent for, but this also proved valueless. Dr. Olson said at the time that a pulmotor is of no use in an electrocution case.

An examination of the body by Dr. Olson revealed severe burns about the dead man's right wrist and on the body, where the wire is believed to have touched him. Dr. Olson is of the opinion that the second shock caused instant death.

Was An Athlete.

Larson was unmarried and had lived with Gust Olson, 518 North Twenty-third avenue west. He had been in the employ of the street railway company for the last three years and was one of the best known men in the department. He was the champion heavyweight wrestler among the employes and ever since the gymnasium was opened in the car barns, took a prominent part in the athletic life among the men. Besides five cousins residing in the West end, Larson leaves no other living relatives.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the First Norwegian Lutheran church, First avenue east and Third street. Rev. John Stenberg will officiate and interment will be at the Park Hill cemetary.

Steamer Grounds.

The excursion boat Favorite, which had been chartered by Palestine lodge for the excursion and picnic to Fond du Lac early Saturday afternoon, went aground for a short time near the Carnegie coal docks, but was never in any danger. The police were swamped with telephone calls from families anxious as to the whereabouts of the excursionists. There was no damage done to the vessel, its owners said this morning.

Hundreds of launches and rowboats in the harbor and along the river took warning when the heavy fog came down about 8 o'clock and as a result not an accident among the craft of this kind was reported.

Bridge Stops.

At 10:30 o'clock the electrical apparatus of the aerial bridge became affected by the lightning and for fifty minutes it failed to work, marooning about seventy-five people at the main house of the boat club.

As a result of the paving of Minnesota avenue on Park Point, automobiles are unable to drive onto the club grounds and the membes, compelled to leave their machines on the avenue, were obliged to wade through the pools and mud for a distance of two blocks to get into the cars. And after doing this they were then compelled to wait at the bridge for nearly an hour.

Ray Higgins, president of the boat club, who was in the dancing party, was already arranging with Clow & Nicholson for a boat to take the club members across the bay, when a report was received that the bridge was in operation. Then came a scramble among the members and with improvised umbrellas and slickers from the lockers, the entire crowd made a dash for waiting automobiles on the avenue or to the bridge. This was at 11:30 o'clock and the rain had subsided to a great extent.

Car Catches Fire.

A Duluth and Superior car caught fire at Garfield avenue and Superior street during the heaviest part of the storm, but the damage was slight. The fire department responded to the alarm.

M. Viener of 130 Sixth avenue west collided with the fender of a street car at Seventh avenue west and Superior street, while on his way home from his store, 703 West Superior street. He was hurrying around a pile of bricks and sand with his umbrella in front of him and as a result failed to see the approaching car. The car was going slowly at the time and Viener received painful bruises about his leg. He was assisted home by several pedestrians.

Lightning struck the residence of W. N. Gullenberg, 22 East Fourth street, causing a damage of $150 to the roof. The heavy downpour of rain extinguished the blaze before the fire department arrived on the scene. The contents of the building were slightly damaged.

Despite the severity of the storm, the wire service remained unimpaired, with the exception of one feed wire to Superior and telephone connections with the range towns. This is accounted for by the fact that there were no heavy winds during the evening.

Basements Flooded.

Many basements were flooded throughout the city, while several streets were slightly damaged as a result of the large amount of rain washing down the hilly streets. Mud washed down the avenues also damaged the thoroughfares to some extent. There was no heavy loss anywhere, according to the reports received at headquarters and by Roderick Murchison, commissioner of public works.

Patrons of the Lyceum theater were caught in the heaviest part of the storm a few minutes before 11 o'clock. Many waited in the lobby of the theater, while the more daring rushed through the rain into waiting street cars that had been sent out by the street car officials.

Yesterday afternoon and evening .16 inches of rain fell, according to Mr. Richardson.

BOLT STRIKES HOME; SEVENTEEN UNHURT.

Rugby, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Every room in the A. J. Olson home at Girard Lake was visited by a bolt of lightning that struck the house, but not one of the seventeen persons in the house was in any manner affected.

A wire screen used for climbing vines on the porch was welded in a most remarkable manner, but the leaves of the vine were not scorched. The china closet was wrecked, but not a dish was broken. Three sides of the chimney were knocked completely out, the one side remaining intact for its full length.

SWIMMER DROWNS.

George Mumm of Crosby Loses Life in Serpent Lake.

Crosby, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—George F. Mumm was drowned Sunday afternoon in Serpent lake while in bathing. It is thought that he was seized with cramps and was unable to help himself.

He and his family had gone down to the lake for a walk and the children coaxed him to go in swimming with them. He played in the water for a short time and then started to swim to an empty boat which was about ten rods out but did not get to it when he sank from view while his wife stood on the shore and watched him. When he did not come up the people on shore got a boat and went out to where he was last seen. They soon saw the body lying on the bottom in about eight feet of water. The body was soon recovered and medical aid summoned but efforts to revive him failed.

Mr. Mumm was a highly respected man and a hard and faithful worker. He was a stockholder in the Montrose Cement & Fuel company and at the time of his death was employed with the Koop Mercantile company. He also was a member of the Odd Fellow lodge, who have taken charge of the general arrangements.

He leaves a wife and five small children. The body was shipped to Montrose, Minn., his old home and where his parents reside.

This is the second drowning in Serpent lake in a week.

DELEGATES ARRIVING

First Building Manager to Reach City Comes From Edmonton.

Program for First Day Contains Many Interesting Addresses.

That the convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers will have a wide representation of delegates is shown by the fact that the first delegate to arrive was J. J. Forbrich, manager of the Tegler building, Edmonton, Can., who came Saturday night. The Tegler building is the farthest north of any skyscraper in the world, and in the language of Mr. Forbrich, is "only a stone's-throw from the North Pole."

Mr. Forbrich, like the Wise Men of the East, started on his journey early so as to be ready when the great event begins. Living so far away, and the weather being so uncertain, he said he wanted to anticipate any washouts or accidents, so as to be here for the opening session tomorrow morning.

"Edmonton," said Mr. Forbrich today, "is a thriving 'village' of about 80,000 inhabitants, and the Tegler building, when entirely completed, will cost $2,000,000. About $15,000,000 will be spent for building purposes in Edmonton this year. The Tegler building occupies an entire city block, and is the largest office building in Western Canada, and maintains a staff of 315 employes."

Mr. Forbrich, like many other office building managers, was once an engineer, which he says is considered a very good asset in a building manager's capabilities.

He declares Edmonton is a fast-growing city, and that many families there are still unprovided with proper shelter. Tents and huts of various kinds are still maintained, as rents are exorbitant for all classes of dwelling houses and flats.

Before coming to Edmonton, Mr. Forbrich was manager of the Majestic building in Detroit, and before that managed the construction of the Y. M. C. A. building in New York city.

Delegates Arriving.

Most of the delegates are expected to arrive today and tomorrow, although many may come for the last part of the convention only. Registration of the delegates will take place at the Spalding hotel tomorrow morning. The complete program of the convention has been published in The Herald.

The meeting will be called to order at 10 a. m. tomorrow and Dr. Thomas J. MacLean, vicar of Trinity Pro-Cathedral, will pronounce the benediction. Whitney Wall, the only local officer of the National association and chairman of the arrangements committee, will then give an address of welcome in behalf of the Duluth Building Managers' association. Mayor W. I. Prince will follow with an address of welcome in behalf of the city.

J. E. Randall of Chicago, president of the national association, will then make his official address. The subject of "The Building Managers' Contribution of Downtown Development" will be discussed by John H. Hill of the Emery Estate, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The afternoon session will begin at 1:30 o'clock and A. L. Hawley will speak on "Rental Area Basis." A discussion will follow. Ralph Hawley, chairman of the electrolysis committee, will make a report which will be discussed by the delegates.

Franklin N. Wentworth, secretary of the National Fire Protection association, will give an address on "The Significance of Fire Waste."

Following will be a discussion, and a question box.

During the evening there will be illustrated talks by representatives of standard materials and supplies, between 8 and 11 o'clock.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS WILL ENJOY OUTING

Zenith council, No. 40, United Commercial Travelers, voted at their meeting at K. P. hall, 118 West Superior street, Saturday night to hold their annual picnic at Fond du Lac, Saturday, Aug. 1. A special steamer will be chartered for the occasion and music will be furnished by the Third regiment band. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of George M. Peterson, Walter Melberg and H. C. Wahl. Reports of the delegates to the state convention at Mankato were read at the meeting.

PURCHASE SITE FOR SALE STABLE

Barrett & Zimmerman Pay $11,500 for West End Property.

Barrett & Zimmerman, horse dealers with headquarters at Midway, St. Paul, propose to extend their operations at the Head of the Lakes and have just purchased a 100-foot site for a new sales stable and office on Superior street, near Twenty-third avenue west, at an approximate consideration of $11,500. The deal was put through by the F. I. Salter company.

Plans for the proposed new building are now being prepared by P. M. Olsen, architect. It is designed to be one of the largest and most complete of its kind in the district, extending back the full width of the lot from Superior to Michigan street. It is expected the plans will be ready to go out for figures in a short time.

THREE LOSE LIVES IN SEA COLLISION.

Boston, July 13.—Capt. John H. Thomas of the five-masted schooner George P. Hudson and two seamen, lost their lives in a collision between the schooner and the coastwise steamer Middlesex in a fog off Cape Cod Saturday night. The schooner, which was laden with coal bound from Philadelphia to Boston, was nearly cut in two, and sank within five minutes after the collision.

The Middlesex, bound from Boston to Norfolk without a cargo, put back into port with nine rescued seamen from the schooner aboard, bringing the first news of the disaster.

CANADIAN BOAT GOES UPON ROCKS.

Rimouski, Quebec, July 13.—The steamer Canada of the Gaspe & Baie Chaleurs company, limited, on her way from Montreal to Campbellton, N. B., struck the rocks of Cape Chatte Saturday night in a dense fog a half a mile east of Cape Chatte lighthouse. The Canada carried about 100 passengers, who were placed in boats and landed without acident about half a mile from the stranded steamer.

Robert H. Patchin of Washington, D. C., is the secretary.

"Greater prosperity through greater foreign trade," is announced as the basic principle. The council will seek the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and commercial and industrial bodies throughout the country.

THE "HEART OF DULUTH"

Where Is Most Valuable Piece of Property in City?

Cleveland Man Will Answer Question—Herald Invites Others to Decide.

What is the most valuable piece of property in Duluth?

Where is the "heart of Duluth?"

Local real estate men would probably differ on this question if they where to mske a decision and might find considerations of a personal character interfering in their decision.

In order that this problem may be decided by an unbiased authority, Walter Pollock of Cleveland, an unquestioned authority on such matters, will decide this momentous question during the convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers this week. He will make a systematic appraisal of several of the most valuable pieces of property and give his opinion late in the week.

Mr. Pollock's appraisal may be of considerable value to Duluthians in deciding for them several mooted questions. He will give his reasons for his decision, which may help real estate men to decide whether the trend of population and business will be eastward or westward and how soon the change may be detected for a certainty. Duluthians will watch with interest to see whether Mr. Pollock will select some downtown business corner or some other piece of property having what he considers a greater future value. The appraisal is expected to involve both the present and future valuation of all property considered.

As Mr. Pollock's decision will be of such general interest in the city, The Herald will be glad to publish suggestions, questions or ideas of any Duluthian who may wish to discuss the matter.

Madrid, July 13.—The bulls carried off the honors in the bull fighting here Sunday. In the event for amateurs, the sword of one of the toreadors was caught by a bull and tossed into the stand. It struck a spectator in the neck, killing him. Later a Mexican swordsman, Miguel Frey, after killing the first bull, was mortally gored by the second.

HEAVY STORM IS DAMAGING

Monetary Damage to Hibbing and Environs Is Reported Large.

Eveleth, Virginia, Chisholm and Other Places Are Hard Hit.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carrying out bridges, undermining sidewalks and washing out roadbeds, and coming down in torrents for several hours Saturday evening's rainfall is said by local pioneers to have been the most heavy fall, continued for such a long time, that has ever been experienced in the village since its organization. Besides about $40,000 damage done in several business houses of the village, the bridge between Hibbing and Alice was washed out; sidewalks at Alice were made to float and the streets were badly torn up.

Several inches of water was on the streets of Alice during the storm and the force with which the rain came down, with the action of the brisk gale, which was blowing caused whirlpools and eddies which were the chief factors of devastation.

Stores Lose Heavily.

The heaviest loser was Messner Bros. whose damage is conservatively estimated at $14,000. About a year ago the Messners moved the entire surplus stock ordinarily kept in their warehouses to the basement. Though every effort was made to move some of the goods it was impossible to get any out and an almost total loss resulted.

The Itasca Bazaar loss is placed at about $1,500 with a possible salvage of a portion of that amount.

A loss of at least $1,000 was sustained by the Lippman Department store, which kept a large stock of goods in the basement.

The Hibbing Tribune loss will run close to the thousand-dollar mark, the large stock of paper that was carried in the basement being an almost total loss. The motor used in running the newspaper press and the press itself were covered with water and it will be several days before the mechanical end of the shop will be back in running order.

Mules Drown in Mine.

Caught in the Utica mine during the storm, a pair of mules was entrapped and drowned. Efforts were made to get the beasts out but they proved fruitless.

The heavy rainfall caused much damage in the Buffalo-Susequehanna mine. The extent of the damage is not known but it is in the nature of a landslide caused by the excessive water fall. In several places the tracks are covered by several inches of sand and ore.

Several of the Oliver mines are reported to have been more or less damaged but none of them as much as the properties owned by the Rogers-Brown company.

Worst Virginia Storm.

Virginia, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia's business district is today taking account of the damage done by Saturday night's storm, which is pronounced by old residents the most severe ever experienced in this section. Basements in practically every business house on Chestnut street were flooded.

The roof at the store of the Minnesota Dry Goods store gave way in several spots and rain drenched dry goods and shoe stocks causing considerable damage. Stocks of the Home Stores company in the basement were also heavily damaged. Lightning struck the residence of Nick Orovich on the north side, struck one man from his feet and fired the interior. The fire department was called out to extinguish it and the apparatus was driven to the spot in a rain so blinding that the auto truck driver could see only a few feet ahead of the apparatus. The damage was slight.

Lightning Fires Lumber.

Lightning also communicated fire to the lumber piles at the Bailey mill but the rain extinguished it. Joseph Gilbert an employe of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company working about the barns, was knocked down by a bolt of lightning, but escaped serious injury. The greater part of the city was plunged into darkness for several hours when lightning came in on the switch board at the electric light plant and put it out of commission. The city was isolated from the outside world so far as telegraph and telephone connections were concerned all of Saturday night, and long distance telephone service to Duluth was impaired until this morning. The fire department using the fire engine is pumping water from basements over the business district today.

Eveleth's Worst Storm.

Eveleth, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The storm Saturday night was the most severe experienced in Eveleth this year. The rain fell in sheets with a strong wind from the west. Storm sewers and gutters were inadequate to handle the water and the streets were flooded, in some places the water flowing over the walks. Dirt was carried onto the pavements in wagon loads from the unpaved streets and considerable damage was done to gardens. An electric line car was derailed and stalled on the Fayal road during the storm.

Bad at Mountain Iron.

Mountain Iron, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the worst storms that this part of the country has experienced in years, struck this part of the range Saturday evening. The rain fell in torrents and the wind blew a gale for an hour or more. No particular damage was done so far as is known at this time.

Chisholm Water Mains Burst.

Chisholm, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some say the damage done here by Saturday's storm will amount to $15,000. Water mains were burst and sidewalks carried off. The road between Hibbing and Chisholm was practically put out of business and men have been placed at work repairing the extensive damage. A. C. Dougall's home was struck and one side torn off.

Gilbert's Water Supply Hit.

Gilbert, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rainstorm of Saturday night filled the Genoa mine to a depth of about 100 feet and put Gilbert's water supply out of business for a day or two until the water can be pumped out and the place cleaned out. The water is shut off in the tank but it is possible to pump dirty water for fire protection. It will not be done except in case of urgent need as the mains will require to be thoroughly washed afterward before the water would be fit for domestic consumption. The effect of this blow to the water supply is being discussed by the people of Gilbert. The need of a new source has been recognized for some time and bonds have been voted to provide a pumping station at Elv lake. The mining companies, however, have brought suit against the village to annul the recent election which included enough additional territory to provide the valuation necessary to issue more bonds to provide much needed improvements, chief of which was this pumping plant and mains.

CLAIMS LIGHTNING STRUCK AUTOMOBILE.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—While driving through the cut-off from Morton to Penobscot during the storm Saturday evening, Toni Timpano, who runs the store at Stevenson, and a passenger barely escaped serious injury when the car struck a rock near the Agnew mine.

Timpano claims that the car was struck by lightning and gives that as the cause of the accident. The hands of both were badly cut, but they escaped serious injury.

COLERAINE BOOSTERS TOUR MESABA RANGE

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marching up street with clarionets carrying the melody in the trio of "Fellcitas," a snappy marchtime piece with plenty of harmony, the Coleraine City band of twenty pieces led the thirty-five automobiles from Coleraine, Bovey and Marble yesterday when they paraded up Third avenue. The parade consisted of delegations from the Coleraine Commercial club, the Bovey Commercial club and the Trout Lake Boat club. The pacemaker was Tresider.

From here the run to Eveleth was made. The tourers stopped there for dinner and then went on to Virginia, where they attended the ball games. All along the way advertising matter boosting the Coleraine vicinity was distributed.

Stopping in Hibbing on the return trip they had supper here. The band played several pieces.

They Visit Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thirty-three Coleraine and Bovey motor car drivers, carrying about 100 boosters for the Coleraine Boating club, made this their stopping place for dinner yesterday while on a tour over the range. The heavy rain Saturday damaged the roads and the motorists were two hours behind time when they pulled up at the Glode hotel between 1 and 2 o'clock. The first car into this city was piloted by Mrs. Gordon Meagher, a licensed chauffeur. The Eveleth Commercial club and the Fayal band were at hand to greet the tourists.

AUTOMOBILE IN MUD.

Unknown Car Is Found Stuck Near Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Carlson, driver for the Duluth Brewing & Malting company branch here, reported that an automobile had turned turtle and was laying in that condition out on the Sturgeon lake road, northwest of Hibbing. The car was covered with mud and in such condition that in Mr. Carlson's estimation several horses would be necessary to pull it out and get it righted again. The owner and license number of the car are unknown.

On the same trip Mr. Carlson also met the Atkinson car, driven by Miss Beatrice and helped pull it out of a mudhole in which it was stuck.

FIND BODY IN LAKE.

Swimmers Come Across Corpse of Missing Virginian.

Virginia, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—While swimming in Virginia lake here Saturday afternoon, Oscar Erickson and W. J. Sulk encountered the corpse of Carl Anderson who disappeared from his sick bed a week previous while in a delirium from typhoid fever and had since been sought for by numerous posses.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon. The S. H. N. E. F. society, a Swedish organization, was in charge of the services, and interment was made at Greenwood cemetery. Anderson was 45 years old. He leaves a wife, who is living in Sweden.

MUST PAY CULVER.

Judge Fesler Orders Chisholm Council to Liquidate Salary Claim.

A new angle developed Saturday afternoon in the fight which has been on in Chisholm since the March village election over the offices of village recorder and village accountant when District Judge Fesler signed an alternative writ of mandamus directing the city council to pay Bert E. Culver, village recorder, $85 for June salary or appear in court and show reason for not doing so. The writ is directed against Joseph Austin, president of the village and the members of the village council.

The action brought by Culver to collect his salary is an aftermath of the reputed attempt of Frank L. Austin, appointed as village accountant, to gain access to the books of the recorder and audit them. Judge Cant quashed a writ of mandamus which required Culver to virtually turn the office over to Austin. In the meantime, Culver has not been able to secure his salary. Through his attorneys, Fryberger, Fulton & Spear, Saturday afternoon, he started proceedings to compel the council to pay over the money alleged to be due him.

Grand Rapids Shut Out.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji ball team played the Rapids nine here Sunday, for the first time this season and administered an awful drubbing to the home crew. Some new players were tried out by Grand Rapids and made a very poor showing, along with many errors by the regulars. This combined with heavy hitting by the visitors, resulted in a score of 9 to 0, in their favor.

Coal for Hibbing Schools.

Hibbing, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the school board, at which bids will be opened for 2,230 tons of coal to be delivered in varying quantities at the different buildings in the Hibbing district will be held tomorrow evening. The amounts vary from 1,200 to be delivered at the Lincoln school to seven tons for the Kelly lake building.

CUBS DEFEAT PIRATES.

Rival Iron Range Teams at Two Harbors Settle Differences.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a game of baseball that ended in a one-sided score, but nevertheless up to the seventh inning was a fine exhibition of baseball, featured by fine fielding, the Cubs defeated the Pirates here Saturday afternoon by the score of 13 to 6.

Skeltin for the Cubs pitched a good game and was given almost perfect support. Sullivan started the game for the Pirates and pitched fairly good ball, but was relieved in the fifth inning by Archdeacon, whose delivery was found with perfect ease by the Cubs.

The Cub team is composed of the office employes of the Iron Range railroad, while the Pirates are composed of employes of the machine and boiler shops. Saturday's game decided a 3 to 3 tie which was played between the same two teams a week ago.

The game was attended by a large crowd. Another game will undoubtedly be scheduled between the two teams in the near future.

The following was the line-up:

Pirates—		Cubs—
Kernan	c	Walstrom
Sullivan-Archdeacon	p	Skelton

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

It's hard to believe at this writing, but Weather Forecaster Richardson promises fair weather with warmer temperature tonight and tomorrow. The fog and drenching rains of the past two days make one feel that the sun will never be seen again; but while there's life and ground above water there's hope of sunny skies and the slufting of raincoats.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours light to heavy rains fell over the lake region, Red river and Upper Ohio valleys, North Atlantic state, the extreme Northwest, Iowa, Northwestern Missouri, Southern Louisiana and Northern Florida. The following heavy rainfalls occurred Saturday or Saturday night: Winnipeg, 4.80 inches; Duluth, 2.41 inches. Hot weather continues in Central and Southern states and portions of the Northwest, Medicine Hat reporting 104 deg. as the maximum temperature Sunday."

N. M. D. A. ISSUES BOOSTER PAPER

Local Man Associate Editor of Advocate of Northern Minnesota.

M. J. Thompson of the state experiment farm at Duluth, A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the experiment station at Grand Rapids, and recently appointed to the faculty of the state agricultural college, and Miss Annie D. Shelland, superintendent of Koochiching county schools, are associate editors of a monthly publication called the "Northern Minnesota Booster," which is being issued by Secretary W. R. MacKenzie of the Northern Minnesota Development association. The first number has just been issued from the Minneapolis office of the association. It is a four-page publication, which will be distributed as widely as possible with the object of advertising Northern Minnesota and making known to prospective settlers the advantages of taking up land in the northern part of the state. "SHAN KIVA" AND ITS MEANING

T. W. Hugo Traces the Word "Kiva," But Can Find No Information About "Shan."

(By T. W. Hugo.)

A short time ago the words "Shan Kiva" were suggested as a name for the 1915 pageant, and received the indorsement of the name committee, until it was stated that it was not an Indian name, or combination of Indian words, at least of Chippewa Indian etymology, and was then dropped. I was not satisfied to let it drop at that, and have been trying to fix some meaning, or secure some derivation, being satisfied that it had some signification, or at least was a variant of some words which had some reference to the purpose to which it was sought to be applied.

The great trouble with Indian names is the different dialects into which the main Indian languages become differentiated by the division of the main or parent tribe, by intermarriage and by local conditions, even our own Chippewa words having different spellings, and we become very much confused unless we adhere strictly to the etymology of some particular tribal community.

I could not find any combination of the two words "Shan Kiva," but did find that the word "Kiva" is the Hopi name for the sacred ceremonial, assembly and lounging chamber, characteristic of ancient and modern Pueblo settlements of Arizona and New Mexico and the prehistoric Pueblos of Colorado and Utah. This, then, would give it an application to the purpose under consideration, but the word "Shan" was very elusive and could not be located. The word Shana applies to the Eagle clan of the Yuchi, a tribe of Southern Indians. The word Shanana is a synonym for Dakota, and the compound words might probably stand for the ceremonial chamber of the "Eagle clan of the Yuchi;" if we would admit that words of two different tribes would be conjoined naturally. I do not believe they would, except arbitrarily.

I find, however, that the Hopi were of the Shoshonean linguistic stock, and that members of that stock occupied part of Montana, the whole of Idaho, parts of Oregon, Central Wyoming and Central Colorado, and probably portions of Alberta and all of Utah, North Arizona and Nevada, so that it is not improbable that Shan is some northern localism of that stock, which, used in conjunction with Kiva of the southern, or Hopi, formed a compound word of the general Shoshonean language, and the combination designates some kind of a "sacred ceremonial, assembly or lounging chamber." If we knew what "Shan" stands for, we would know what that kind was, but I have been unable to trace out any such word. I believe, however, we may safely conclude that they are not Chippewa words. The original meaning of the word Kiva may be accepted as stated, and it is very probable that in addition to meaning the sacred chamber, it covered the ceremonies performed therein and the materials used in those ceremonies, as the Chippewa word "Mide," grand medicine, covers not only the Pagan religious ceremonies but the materials used, such as medicine bags, music, drums, etc. The simple languages are not restricted in their application by sharply defined rules as the more complicated ones are, and it is very difficult to say just what any combination of words mean to Indians of different encampments of the same tribe. In the meantime somebody else will have to supply the meaning and other information referring to "Shan," if it is worth while.

IOWA MAN STUCK WITH PITCHFORK

A farmer living in the Northern part of Iowa stuck himself in the leg with a pitch fork. The wound would not heal and for two years he had a running sore. He tried all the common salves and liniments and sometimes the sore would heal, but it always broke open again. Finally he healed it up to stay healed with Allen's Ulcerine Salve.

This salve is one of the oldest remedies in America since 1869 it has been known as the only salve powerful enough to cure chronic ulcers and old sores of long standing.

Allen's Ulcerine Salve acts by drawing out the poisons and healing the sore from the bottom up. It is so powerful that it heals new cuts and sores in one-third the time that common salves and liniments take. And it heals burns and scalds without a scar. Sold by the Spencer Pharmacy company and other leading druggists.

ARE BRIBING THE DELEGATES

Atlanta Would Buy Building Managers With Georgia Peaches.

The building owners and managers of Atlanta, Ga., who will be here in large numbers for the convention tomorrow, have a deep-lain plot to grab off the convention for next year. These gentlemen from the South seem to have no knowledge of the "corrupt practice" laws of the Gopher state, and have sent a half carload of peaches ahead. Those who have tasted these fine specimens of Georgia fruit are perfectly willing to cast their vote for Atlanta. As there are so many delegates coming, the Atlanta men want to have the fruit go all the way around, and will bring a few more crates with them.

C. F. Wilkinson, manager of the Candeler building, Atlanta, one of the most historic skyscrapers in the South, will head the delegation.

New York, St. Louis and other large cities are expected to make a big effort to land the convention, and it may be that a suitable substitute for peaches may be brought by the delegations from those cities.

HEADACHE AND DIZZINESS

Headache is never a disease. It is always a symptom. Applications, powders and tablets that drug headache into quietude are treating the symptoms, not the disease, always a useless proceeding and often harmful.

When headache is associated with some dizziness it is usually the result of nervous exhaustion and will continue as long as the person who is overworked allows the debility to continue. It rapidly disappears when rest and the proper tonic is taken.

Nervous exhaustion, the cause of such headaches and dizziness, results from a strain on the nerves with which the rebuilding work of the blood is unable to keep pace. The best tonic for such a condition is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. With this treatment, unless the overwork, worry, or whatever has caused the nervous breakdown, is persisted in, the headaches, dizziness, nervousness and irritability that characterize neurasthenia rapidly disappear.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a helpful little book on the home treatment of nervous disorders. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are obtainable at any drug store.

HAIL DAMAGE IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Alexander, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A hail storm swept over this district, and considerable damage was done to early sown wheat, the losses averaging from 10 to 40 per cent. PRAISES RED RIVER VALLEY'S BIG CROPS

President of Valley Development Association Says They Are Great.

Crookston, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leslie Welter of Moorhead, president of the Minnesota Red River Valley Development association has just completed a two days' investigation of the potato crops in Polk, Norman, Manhomen and Becker counties. President Welter who is also a director of the Clay county Potato Growers' association said: "The Red River valley is growing one of the biggest if not the biggest potato crops in its history. In Clay county we had some drowned out but this occurred just in patches and the balance of the crop is so much above the average that the total yield in Clay county will be fully up to the normal.

"I spent nearly a whole day near Nielsville in Polk county which is quite a potato center and I find the potato crop in that section magnificent. The last heavy rain drowned out a few low places but the balance of the crop is one of the best ever raised in Polk county.

"In Becker and Mahnomen counties the potato crop is also good and I certainly feel very gratified over the potato outlook in the entire valley.

All Other Crops Good.

"The same is true of all of the other crops. Prospects never looked brighter for splendid oats, barley, rye, flax and wheat. I see the effects of better farming everywhere and the splendid improvements being made in farm buildings, fences, silos, etc., reflect a prosperity that nothing else can do.

"When it comes to corn and alfalfa we have made great strides. This year the corn acreage is greatly increased and alfalfa acreage has at least quadrupled. The farmers are all feeling first rate and wherever I go I meet newcomers who are raising their first crop in Red River valley who are greatly pleased with the country. I have not met a single newcomer but what was enthused over this section."

BEGGAR MAKES MONEY.

Sells Maps of Mexico That Iron River Banker Did Not Want.

Iron River, Mich., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arthur J. Whitford, cashier of the Miners' State bank of Iron River, had an experience in high financing the other day. The bank's insurance department received from one of its companies a consignment of folded war maps of Mexico, sent out as advertising. The maps were left on a counter for the public to help itself. Along came a crippled beggar who had been operating in the street. He saw a golden opportunity in the maps, and when he asked for a few the kindly Whitford told him to go as far as he liked. The beggar took a bundle and departed. In an hour or so he returned for another supply, and then the cashier thought he would investigate. He found the beggar selling the maps in the street at 10 cents each.

New Law in Interest of Bachelor and Spinster Settlers.

Dickinson, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.—After a residence of a year each, bachelor and spinster homesteaders may marry and each retain their claims and make final proofs, according to a bill recently passed by congress and construed in a letter from Land Commissioner Tallman to the local land office. TWO TAKE LIVES.

Aged Woman and Crippled North Dakotan End Earthly Troubles.

Antler, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Catherine Wheeler, aged 82, and David Irwin, 38, both committed suicide near there. The woman was the mother of Mrs. Charles Hoffman and came here last winter from New York to make her home with her daughter. She was despondent and lonesome for the companionship of friends of her former home and imagined she was a burden on her daughter. She tied strips of a sheet together then with one end around her neck and the other over a wall hook, she slowly strangled to death. The family was absent from home at the time.

Man Was Cripple.

David Irwin, a cripple, who had lost both feet in an accident some years ago, made his home with a bachelor brother and acted as cook. He blew his head off with a shotgun after crawling about twenty rods from the house. He left a note in which he stated that life without feet was not worth living.

BAUER DOING WELL.

Would-Be Suicide Will Recover From His Injury.

Floodwood, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Bauer, the Brookston Great Northern section man who tried to kill himself near that village Friday night by fastening himself to the track in front of the engine of an approaching train and was brought to a local hospital, is doing as well as could be expected and will probably recover. The pilot of the engine injured his head.

He told the hospital attendants that he has been suffering for years with cancer of the stomach, and both his wife and children refused to care for him, and considering his case hopeless, he decided to end his sufferings and tied himself to the rail on the main line of the Great Northern track, in the hope that the train would kill him. He was discovered however in time for the engine to slow down and although hit and bruised, he was not killed. He is about 54 years old, has a wife and five children living at Brookston, where he owns a house and some property. He was employed at odd jobs, but lately has not been able to do much work, owing to the advanced stage of the cancer.

KNIFE IS REVOLVER.

Pulled From Man's Pocket; Goes Off, Killing Girl.

Park Falls, Wis., July 13.—While watching the progress of a friendly wrestling match Saturday, Miss Lucy La Tourney, 17 years old, was shot and killed.

As a pastime, George La Tourney, her brother, and William Turner, his friend, grappled. During the progress of the match La Tourney pulled what he supposed was a pocket knife from Turner's hip pocket. The object proved to be a revolver and almost as soon as he had withdrawn it from Turner's clothes it was accidentally discharged, the bullet striking the La Tourney girl in the chin and, taking an upward course, lodged in her brain.

Officers are making an investigation but no arrests have as yet been made.

ACCUSED OF FORGERY.

Crookston Business Man Is Under Bonds Pending Hearing.

Crookston, Minn., July 13.—An aftermtah of the recent report of J. O. Cerebers, assistant state examiner, in which he charged loose and irregular methods in connection with the building of a schoolhouse in Fanny District No. 280, six miles northwest of Crookston, was furnished when J. A. Axtell, a well-known business man of this city, and formerly identified with the affairs of the Fanny district, was arrested on a charge of forgery. Bonds in his case were fixed in the sum of $500, which were promptly forthcoming, and he was immediately released pending a preliminary hearing before Judge Gossman in municipal court, July 24.

The complaint against Axtell was sworn to by William Shipper, clerk of the Fanny district school board, who accuses him of having on April 17, 1912, presented a written order to Mrs. G. Pearl, then treasurer of the board, for $40, the order having been raised from $20. The order, the complaint states, was accepted but not paid for lack of funds.

Blood Risings Not Sign of Health
Boils are Caused by Sluggish and Impure Blood

Look Out for Volcano Effects
When there are swellings, gatherings or risings of the skin it is a sure sign that the blood needs help. It needs the cleansing that can be had only by the famous blood purifier S. S. S. Any eruption of the skin shows the body is retaining impurities, and either continue to circulate and impoverish the blood or are deposited here and there in the form of abscesses or surface risings and eruptions.
A host of people use S. S. S. every spring and summer to withstand those habits that leave the system tired out.
Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist. Give your blood a good bath. It will cause your liver to convert impurities, your lungs to burn them, your kidneys to excrete them and your skin to carry them off thus leaving your entire system fresh and clean to revive and again be conscious of renewed health. THE INDUSTRIOUS DOOKS LARRUP THE TWINS THRICE

Darby's Climbers Win Twice on Sunday and Once Saturday.

Henry Clay Blancke, Ezell and Cunningham Are Mound Winners.

The lowly and despised Fort William tribal warriors were defeated yesterday twice—just once more than is the usual daily portion of the bedraggled and foot-weary gang of weazened-armed individuals that draw scanty kopecks from the avaricious kale box of H. P. Conrad. Let it be added that the defeats of yesterday registered one more than the usual portion because of the simple fact that the Twins play but one game a day as a rule. The score of the first rout was 7 to 1 and the second 5 to 2.

In the first game Buggs Weidel was on the heaving landscape for the visitors and Ezell heaved prodigiously for the Dooks. Not until the final round could the visitors cross the plate, so effective was the brand of ball the former Western leaguer was hurling. In the final round the one lonesome tally of the visitors was counted.

In the second round Ford walked and O'Brien singled and Wolfe sacrificed and both runners crossed when Edmunds singled. In the third Croake singled and was sacrificed by Handsome Harold Bond. Collins scored Croake with his Texas league offering.

Collins hit for the circuit of the bases in the sixth. Ford was safe on an infield error and O'Brien singled. Ezell hit a beauty to right and the two runners crossed the plate. In the seventh Collins hot footed to first ahead of the throw of his infield offering. James stole second and came home when Weidel made a wild throw to catch him napping.

The one lonesome score of the visitors came in the final round and was a sort of gift upon the elongated part of Ezell.

The Second Contest.

George Austin Cunningham was twisted and twirled for our side in the Sunday closing contest. Sutton was chosen to labor for the Fort William spavs. The game mercifully went only seven rounds.

In the second round the visitors crossed the pan twice, something unusual for the visitors in one day, a single, double, a pass, another single, a wild pitch and a stolen base figuring in the run getting.

Hi Brackett raced to first in the first round ahead of an infield hit. Without hesitation the fleet and handsome outfielder stole second and third and then came home on a wild pitch.

In the third round Mr. Brackett walked and scored when Harold Bond doubled. In the fifth Bond singled and took second on an error and third on a passed ball and scored on an error on O'Brien's offering. Wolfe singled and then Edmunds scored both runners with a hit that went up against the center field paling.

Saturday's Celebration.

While we have Fort William on our hands we might as well beat them. Strange to say a win from the Fort William crowd counts as much as a win from Winnipeg. This is strange. If Fort William is in the league another season it is proposed to make the games with that lowly and moribund aggregation in the nature of a handicap—or else give the team defeating the Twin credit for but half a game. Something surely should be done. Affairs in the hostile—no, that's not right, Fort William is nothostile—camp of the enemy are at an awful pass.

We won Saturday by the count of 5 to 0. Henry Clay Blancke forsook the epic grandeur of Paradise Lost and thoroughly cleaned the opposition. Mike Kramer was on the mound for the visitors—but comparisons are odious.

WINNIPEG TAKES ALL THREE GAMES

Red Sox Lose Once Saturday and Twice on Sunday.

While the Dooks have been climbing the percentage pole at the expense of the Fort William team, the Winnipeg aggregation has also been progressing nicely at the expense of the Superior Red Sox.

Saturday the Peggers defeated the downtrodden Taylor gang by the count of 6 to 0. Yesterday the carnage was something awful. The first game was won by the Canadian invaders by the score of 14 to 2. In the second game the Red Sox did somewhat better and were only beaten by the score of 14 to 3. It was the worst rout in years, and several of the most loyal fans had to be supported as they left the park.

Giants Win Opener.

Chicago, July 13.—The series between New York and Chicago, which is to determine temporarily the leadership of the National league, opened yesterday with a 7 to 2 victory for New York. The largest crowd of the season was present and ground rules were necessary.

The visitors outplayed the locals. Tesreau, though wild, allowed but six hits, only two of which were bunched. On the offensive, New York touched Cheney and Zabel for a total of ten hits which netted nineteen bases.

Fletcher led the attack scoring the first run in the second inning with a homer into the left field stand. He also made a double and a single and scored two other runs.

In the fourth inning Robertson cut off at least two runs by a great running catch. Chicago had men on second and third and none out when Corridon shot a short line drive into right field. Robertson, after a hard run, caught the ball at his shoe tops and prevented the base runners from advancing. Meyers' fingers were torn by a foul tip and he retired from the game.

President Thomas announced that Shortstop Derrick, obtained from Cincinnati, had not reported and said that he had not heard from him. It is expected he will report today. The fans had hoped to see him in yesterday's game. Score:

TENNIS IN FOREGROUND

International Players Will Feature Coming Week's Sport Program.

Big League Batting Averages—English Henley Regatta Rules.

New York, July 13.—The arrival of the Australasian Davis cup team in this country during the present week is expected to give added impetus to both the international tennis matches and the sport in general. The team, consisting of Brookes, Dunlop, Doust and Wilding, is one of exceptional strength and is considered to have an excellent chance of ultimately winning the trophy emblematic of the world's team championship in tennis.

The quartet sailed Saturday and should arrive in New York on Friday or Saturday. They will go directly to the West Side club quarters at Forest Hills, L.I., for practice, moving on to Chicago at the end of the week for the first round against the Canadian team. These matches are scheduled for July 23, 24 and 25. Upon the completion of this match the Australasian doubles pair, Wilding and Brookes, will enter in the Western championship in order to qualify for the national championship challenge round at Newport late in August.

While the Canadian team will consist of four players this year, including two former internationalists, it is considered unlikely that the combination can check the progress of the Australasians toward the cup finals. The Maple Leaf representatives include R. B. Powell and B. P. Schwengers, both of Victoria, who played in the 1913 cup round; B. C. Mayers of Winnipeg, and H. Sherwell of Toronto. Neither individually or as a team does the Canadian four rank with the Antipodeans and for this reason interest turns toward the English team which is at present playing through the lower half of the draw on home courts.

Having successfully passed the Belgium team at Folkstone last week the English players are at present crossing racquets with the French combination on the championship courts at Wimbledon. As composed for these preliminary ties the team is considered strong strong enough to win its way to the final round against the Australasians at Boston, Aug. 6, 7 and 8, but it is believed that England will select other players for the American invasion since winter and spring tournament play abroad has shown that Kingscote, Parke, Mavrogordato and Barrett do not as a combination class with the Australasians.

Batting averages based upon the hitting in the two major leagues during the first three months of the 1914 season show that as a rule the heavy hitters of the past two years are batting fairly close to form. In the National league Grant, Cincinnati; Crandayy, New York, and Zimmerman, Chicago were leading on July 1, 1912. A year later Crandall, New York; Cravath, Philadelphia; Hyatt, Pittsburg, and Daubert, Brooklyn, were closely bunched in the race for honors. Their averages on the first of July were as follows: Grant .329, which gave him fourth place among those players who had participated in at least twenty-five games. Crandall in the Federal league was batting at .323 rate which put him among the first seven stick wielders in the new league. Zimmerman, however, showed a slump in his batting, being more than a hundred points below his previous record, Cravath, who batted .346 in 1913 showed .311, while Hyatt, like Zimmerman, was considerably below his 1913 form.

The average in the American league was about the same, for while Jackson and Cobb were going at top speed, Tris Speaker and Nap Lajoie had fallen short of their performances of the last two years. The standing of the first five batters in each year were as follows: 1912, Jackson, Cleveland, .402; Speaker, Boston, .384; Lajoie, Cleveland, .384; Cobb, Detroit, .383; Baker, Philadelphia, .349; 1913, Jackson, 404; Cobb, .397; Speaker, .371; Collins, Philadelphia, .352; D. Murphy, Philadelphia, .348.

This season Cobb was second with .349; Jackson third with .328; Baker sixth with .326; Collins tenth with .295; Speaker fourteenth with .280, while Lajoie had dropped far down the list with .247.

The stewards of the English Royal Henley regatta, where American and other foreign crews and scullers competed so meritoriously last week, have taken decisive steps to fix the status of these rowing races in the future. Because of the prominent and classic history of this regatta and its trophies, there is a constantly increasing pressure from foreign rowing clubs to be permitted to enter their best scullers, fours and eights. Under the affiliation agreement between the British Amateur Rowing association and similar associations of other countries, the crews of any club a member of these associations are eligible for entry at Henley, providing their amateur status complies with the Henley regulations.

The Australian oarsmen, however, brought forward a point which the Henley stewards refused to concede when they asked permission to enter an all-Australasian eight at the recent regatta. The secretary of the regatta management replied in part to the request as follows:

"My committee, after very careful examination, is of the opinion that, under the rules, this would be impossible. By Rule IV the entry of a crew from outside the United Kingdom cannot be accepted unless such crew belongs to a club which is affiliated to a union or federation having an agreement with the committee of management of the Henley Royal regatta. This rule obviously contemplated, and has always been interpreted as contemplating, a union or federation of separate clubs duly affiliated thereto, which by virtue of its constitution exercises control over those clubs. If such an entry were permitted in one instance, other bodies would follow suit, and the United Kingdom would, in self-defense, be compelled to form a representative crew, probably every year. This would entirely alter the character of the Henley regatta, and would be seriously detrimental to the rowing of those clubs and colleges by which the Henley regatta has been supported since its institution, and which constitute the backbone of rowing in this country. No doubt there have been many entries in the past at the Henley regatta from oversea dominions, as well as from foreign countries, but they have been from clubs formed on a basis similar to that of the rowing clubs in this country. No entry has ever been tendered by a crew representing the whole of a country, and it is thought inadvisable that a new departure in this direction should be made."

Although the plans of the Federal league magnates regarding a post-season series are not yet completed, it is apparent that there will be an effort made to hold the attention of the baseball fans during the playing of the world's series between the winners of the National and American league pennants. The major leagues close their seasons on Oct. 7 and the Federals on Oct. 13. According to the tentative plans of the new organization, the pennant winning clubs will issue an open challenge to the leaders of the two major organizations, and if ignored, will institute a series of their own.

It is proposed to select an all-star team from the seven clubs finishing after the pennant winner. This combination will play a series of seven or nine games against the league leaders, the contests to be held in various cities comprising the Federal circuit. The gate receipts will be divided among the players composing the two teams upon a basis of 60 per cent to the winners and 40 per cent to the losers. There is also talk of the magnates adding either a sum of money or automobiles to the pool, in order to make the prize worth winning.

The average follower of English sports has always insisted that Americans take their games and contests too seriously. Recently, however, the shoe appears to be on the other foot, for those in charge of big commercial enterprises abroad have contended that the craze for sports was seriously interfering with the efficiency of their help. An example is shown in the case of an employe of a big steel plant who attended a football cup final on his employer's time and without permission. When the firm learned of the matter he was discharged. More than 300 employes struck as a result of the action, and it was several days before the difficulty was satisfactorily adjusted. The manager of the plant stated: "The way in which workmen have become engrossed in football and other sports often involves industrial disorganization." Similar charges have yet to be brought against American sports.

PRISONERS GET EVEN WITH POLICE

Paddling about in a sea of mud the ball team of the work farm prisoners trimmed the nine of the Duluth "cops" by a score of 11 to 10 at the work farm grounds yesterday morning.

The contest was full of laughs from start to finish and was characterized by a running exchange of good-natured retorts between the bluecoats and the prisoners. Both sides showed flashes of speed at intervals. The contest was watched by a good-sized crowd seated on bleachers constructed of planks placed between stumps.

Following the game the work farm artists entertained the guardians of the peace at a real, old-fashioned dinner, which was enlivened by the continued chaffing between the opposing teams. Before the policemen left for the city they were challenged to come again for another game. The lineup:

BEACHEY IS A DOUBTER

Fears Trans-Atlantic Flight Will End in a Tragedy.

Believes Preparations Are Inadequate and the Task Underrated.

By Lincoln Beachey.

I hope they get across. For their own sakes, as well as for the sake of aviation in general, I hope Lieut. Porte and his aide are successful in crossing the Atlantic in the aeroplane flight scheduled for the near future—but I don't believe they will be. I can see no termination to the announced attempt but fiasco or tragedy.

I have hesitated, have refrained, from making any statement regarding the Porte venture. So insistent have been my questioners, however, that I cannot longer dodge an opinion.

And the opinion I am now going to express is my absolutely honest belief—founded on my intimate knowledge of practical aviation. Time—and a very short time, too—will show whether I am right or wrong.

If wrong, I will be glad of it. If right, I will have no compunction. I believe that a very serious mistake will be made if the flight is even attempted—but I have my doubts if the actual attempt will be made.

This is not a reflection on Lieut. Porte or anyone concerned in the proposed flight; doubtless he and his aides have been sincere in their efforts and the information they have given to the public. But I believe that the next week or two will prove to them all that the trans-Atlantic flight is not at present feasible, that their theories have failed in execution.

I realize that in making this statement I lay myself liable to the charge of egotism. But I so dread this flight—or this attempt—that I am bound to speak my mind freely, if I speak at all. I myself would not attempt this flight for a million dollars—and I have spent 500 hours in the air where Lieut. Porte has spent one hour.

Preparations Inadequate.

My prediction of failure is summarized in a few words: The enormity of the proposition has been underrated—the preparations have been entirely inadequate. This, briefly, is the story.

I do not believe that one aviator can make the flight. I do not believe that the present machine, the "America," is capable of making the flight. I am convinced that the attempt, if made, will only result in giving aviation a terrible "wallop" in this country.

While I do not undervalue Lieut. Porte's ability as an aviator, I am convinced that no one man can perform this feat, particularly a man of Lieut. Porte's unproved caliber. Even the assistant on the "America" must be far and away above the average as an aviator.

It is one thing to drive a machine for ten hours, fifteen hours, over a stated course over the land. It is an entirely different thing to drive this machine over water, over the boundless ocean, for that length of time.

In the first instance the aviator is always in sight of good old mother earth. In the other, when a man is faced with the endless expanse of water, out of sight of land, the loneliness, the sense of helplessness, will be awful. The very enormity of nature will be overwhelming. And most important of all is the necessity of the pilot possessing an intimate knowledge of navigation. I understand that Lieut. Porte is hardly grounded in the rudiments of this exacting science, which must be infallible once land is lost sight of.

I believe that the mental tension will be more wearing than the physical tax of handling the wheel. I do not believe that any man in the world can, without training, stand the terrible strain. Long and constant practice alone can fit a man for such a feat.

To be sure, Lieut. Porte will have with him a capable mechanician, but he should have another seasoned aviator, one who has stood the gaff, and who should alternate with him in four or five-hour tricks at the wheel. He should have an experienced over-water aviator, like either Charlie Witmer or Frank Coffyn.

Danger of Sleep.

Those on the "America" will quickly become accustomed to the roar of the propeller, and absolute physical weariness will induce—even force—sleep. Observing Lieut Porte as a fellow passenger on the Lusitania coming from Europe last April, I know him to be susceptible to the wiles of Morpheus, to be inclined to drowsiness. Frequently I had difficulty in arousing him from his deck chair slumbers to go in to luncheon.

Reaching the machine, there has not been enough preparation. I believe that speed has been sacrificed too much to sustaining power. The machine that successfully flies across the Atlantic will, I believe, be one that will travel like a blue streak, that will not falter.

The "America" has been constructed in a hurry. Building a great automobile, bringing forth a splendid breed of dogs, even the gentleman of highest civilization is a performance of "progressive destruction." The first types, weak and insufficient, must be done away with. Their successors must contain none of these weaknesses. Their strength is strengthened, their weakness banished wherever real progress is shown, but it is only by actual tests and comparisons that these strong and weak points are determined, and the "America" has never been given even a half-hearted real tryout.

The so-called tests that are being announced from Lake Kueka are merely experiments that tell nothing. They should be continued through a period of at least a year. True enough, the machine has lifted itself from the water and has flown—but for how long? Does anyone think that a leap through the air lasting a few minutes proves efficiency for trans-Atlantic flight?

Test on Great Lakes.

Right here in the United States we have the Great Lakes. One can very easily get out of sight of land in crossing them. Wouldn't it be the part of wisdom to try the "America" out in a long, continuous flight over the Great Lakes, or even over the thirty miles long Lake Keuka, putting it through a test of at least one-half the time and mileage and severity required for the real journey?

One does not have to confine himself to matters of the air to form a conclusion regarding durability. Take automobiles, instead. For two years our leading automobile owners have failed to produce a car for the Indianapolis 500-mile race capable of gong the entire distance in close competition with foreigners. The home product gives evidence of speed and durability for a while, but a stop at the pits, even for a slight repair, is always sooner or later necessary. And a stop at the pits in a motor race is vastly different from a drop into the ocean a thousand miles from land. There are no "pits" in mid-Atlantic.

But when a machine is built in a hurry, from paper specifications and figures that seem to prove every point, there is only one answer—the burning out of some vital part—for that is what always happens at Indianapolis.

What if this trans-Atlantic "America" has great sustaining power? What if it is able to lift from Lake Kueka. All of that enormous planing surface will avail nothing in waves even five feet high, and what sane optimist can even imagine the "America" going the entire distance without a single stop, without alighting once in the midst of great mid-ocean swells?

On my own longest flight of three hours the mental strain was terrific. What will it be for the man at the wheel when hour after hour is reeled off, when a mans' eyeballs are burning and aching in spite of serviceable goggles, when every muscle is strained to the breaking point?

Fears a Tragedy.

I believe that there will be tragedy or fiasco. I fear that aviation in the United States will receive a body blow. In the "America" there should be at least two seasoned, hardy aviators—and the "America" should be a seasoned, hardy machine itself. It should be thoroughly tried out, and be able to "go like hell." There should be auxiliary power, so the "America" would go, go, go!

This is my honest opinion. If I am wrong, I will rejoice with Lieut. Porte and his companions. But the well wishers of aviation—those who even pray for its success—must not place more than a blind faith in the attempt. They must be ready any day for an announcement that the entire scheme has been abandoned. The "alibi" in the daily news concerning the "America" is ever present to aviation's initiated.

When will the ocean be crossed? Perhaps in 1915 or 1916. Europeans have not been as hasty as Americans. Noted foreign designers are at work on a trans-Atlantic aeroplane. They build and distroy, build and destroy—but each building and each destruction means progress. With the evolution of the craft is coming an evolution of the aviators, training themselves by flights ever increasing in distance and rigor and hardship. But both man and machine are being perfected by months and months of "progressive destruction." When the intelligent preparation is completed then—and not until then—may we expect the Atlantic to be crossed via the air lanes.

HEAT INTERFERES.

New York, July 13.—In a hard-fought three-set battle, R. Norris Williams II, beat William M. Johnstone by a score of 2-6, 9-7; 6-4, in the final of the Davis cup test tournament on the courts of the Country club of Westchester yesterday.

Johnstone, the California boy, suffered from the heat, and it took much of the snap from his game. As it was, he scored more points than Williams, second string player of last year's Davis cup team, as the respective totals stood at 122 to 118.

STRUGGLE FOR LEADERSHIP

Close Race in Big Leagues for First Places in Percentage.

Past Year's Monotony of Giants and Athletics Disappears.

New York, July 13.—The half-way mark in the major league baseball season, reached this week, finds the race in each league an open one, with pennant possibilities for at least three clubs in the National circuit and for six in the American.

Interest, which has been lagging because of the seeming prospect that the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics would continue the monotony of flag-winning in their respective organizations, has picked up tremendously within a fortnight and the almost daily changes in the club standings in each league, are being followed with keen attention.

While the struggle between the New York and Chicago teams in the National league brought to the beginning of a climax by the meeting of the two clubs in Chicago yesterday, is a local point for the eyes of baseball enthusiasts, the more sustained interest at present is in the American league race.

Not in years has this organization proved so tense a struggle for honors. When play closed last night the leaders were only two and a half games over Detroit. Washington was only three games behind the leaders, Chicago half a game further down and St. Louis four games removed from the top. Boston trailed in the leading sextet, five games from the front.

The White Sox forged toward the top, and at one period in the week were closely pressing the Athletics. Their loss in the last game in Boston and their decisive defeat at the hands of Frank Chance's better-going New Yorks Saturday, pulled them down somewhat. St. Louis and Washington meanwhile were fighting each other to a finish, while the Detroits, even without the assistance of Tyrus Cobb, who is still incapacitated, met the Athletics, their ancient enemies, on their own grounds and bested them in two of three games.

Connie Mack's men finished the week wobbling, losing to St. Louis in a 12-inning game, but taking the second contest of the double header.

Meanwhile the Cubs were having a hard time of it with the Braves. O'Day's warriors were able to take only one game in four from Stalling's team, and went into the series with New York beginning yesterday three and a half games behind. St. Louis gained most advantage, pulling up somewhat on the Cubs and considerably on the Giants.

Milwaukee administered a crushing blow to the American association pennant hopes of Louisville last week. The champions in a four-game series downed the Colonels in three straight games, and it was not until the final battle of the set that the Louisville team won. The result, combined with an aggressive spurt by Indianapolis bumped the Colonels into third place by Friday.

The forward movement of the Brewers did not affect the smallness of the space in which the association teams are running, for the tail-enders, Columbus and St. Paul, both showed enough speed to break even.

Chicago managed to stay in front in the Federal league race. Two defeats for Indianapolis at the hands of St. Louis put the former temporarily out of the struggle for first place, and Chicago made certain its hold for a few days by winning the first game of the series with the Hoosiers.

Manager Herzog of the Reds announces that he had sold Outfielder Lohr to the Memphis club of the Southern association. Announcement also is made of the sale of Pitcher "Jack" Rowan to the Chattanooga club of the Southern association.

Motorcycle Rider Killed.

Toledo, Ohio, July 13.—Michael Kisel of Kokomo, Ind., a motorcycle rider was killed and four other riders were injured in accidents which marred a 100-motorcycle race here yesterday. Kisel's skull was fractured when he was thrown from his machine. The other riders were not seriously hurt.

STORMS AND LACK OF BALLAST CAUSE SHORT BALLOON FLIGHTS

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—With seven of the eight balloons which started in the national elimination race from here Saturday, landed, six of them within a radius of 160 miles of the starting point, it was evident late last night that the winner of the race would be the Goodyear, which landed at Constance, Ky., approximately 300 miles in an airline from St. Louis, or the balloon San Francisco 1915, which at midnight was still believed to be in the air.

The San Francisco was last heard from at 8 o'clock yesterday morning when it passed over Dahlgren, Ill., headed eastward.

A message received here late last night said the Uncle Sam of St. Louis with Paul J. McCullough as pilot and William S. Terefts as aide, landed six miles southeast of Lewis, in Clay county, Ind., at 9:20 o'clock yesterday morning. The distance they traveled is approximately 140 miles.

The America III, piloted by Dr. Jerome Kingsbury of New York, landed at Mount Carmel, Ill., approximately 128 miles east of St. Louis, at 11 o'clock last evening. The balloon was forced to land because the last of ballast had been used.

The Miss Sofia, pilot, William Assman of St. Louis, landed at Flat Rock, Ill., a distance of 132 miles.

Kansas City, Mo., July 13.—The Kansas City II, John Watts, pilot, one of the contestants in the national elimination race that started from St. Louis yesterday, landed near Enfield, Ill., at 2:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a trip of 1,000 feet, according to a telegram received by George M. Meyers, president of the Kansas City Aero club. The message dated at Enfield, Ill., said:

"Landed 2:20 two miles north Enfield. Not seriously hurt. Fell 1,000 feet into tree. JOHN WATTS."

A later message from Watts explained that his accident was due to the rapid descent he was compelled to make when the balloon was caught in an electrical storm. He was at an altitude of 1,000 feet when he began to race to earth to avoid the storm. His injuries, caused by the capsizing of the basket, when the balloon landed among the trees, consisted of a sprained ankle and a few bruises. W. F. Comstock, Watts' aide, was unhurt.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 13.—The balloon Goodyear, in charge of Pilot R. A. D. Preston and Aide M. D. Tremelin of Akron, Ohio, landed at 5:10 o'clock last night at Constance, Ky., a few miles below this city. Mr. Preston said that his ballast gave out.

Rockville, Ind., July 13.—The Pennsylvania, pilot, Arthur T. Atherholt, landed four miles southwest of Rockville at 9:15 o'clock yesterday morning. Atherholt reported that he flew at an altitude of 17,000 feet most of the trip. He was compelled to land when his gas supply was exhausted.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 13.—The balloon Aero Club of St. Louis, Capt. John Berry, pilot, landed three miles east of Terre Haute at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Capt. Berry was compelled to descend to avoid a severe rain and wind storm. He had traveled about 150 miles.

CRADLE-ROCKERS BEAT HOPEFULS

In a heart-rending swatfest which began at Desmond park some time Saturday afternoon and dragged along into darkness, the courthouse benedicts took their bachelor friends into camp to the tune of 24 to 12 or thereabouts, again tightening their hold on their supremecy as baseball players.

It was a slugfest from the start. Manager "Bob" Johnson of the married men had things his way at all stages of the game and at no time were the laurels of the go-cart pushers threatened. On the other hand, Stanley Gilpin, manager for the unannexed aggregation, was obliged to yank his pitcher and make several changes in his line-up.

Clarence Olson was pounded about the field for four innings until Gilpin took him out and sent in little Freddie Nelson, who managed to stop the onslaught for one frame, but lost his grip during the next inning when six runs were registered by the cradle-rockers. "Bob" Johnson pitched his own game and managed to keep the bachelor bingles well scattered.

Charley Calligan's work at short stop and Bill Wasson's performance on the third sack were features of the game. Mention should also be made of "Spike" Crosby's manner of spearing the high ones off first. The heavy sluggers were Steve Pierce for the Benedicts and Tarnowski for the single men.

Sam De Pass took his life in his own hands when he consented to act as arbiter. There were many threatening moments for the "umps" during the fracas, but he managed to "get by" each time. A good aggregation of rooters was out for both sides including a large number of the fair sex. The line-up follows:

Benedicts—Crosby and Pierce, 1b; Calligan, ss. Ward, rf; Pierce and Ink, 2b; Bob Johnson, p; Wasson, 3b; Tischer, rf; Carston, cf; Ryan, c.

Bachelors—Nelson, ss and p; Holmstrand, 1b; Tarnowski, c; Gilpin, lf; Olson, p; V. Johnson and Feaks, rf; Hursch, 3b; Hidgson, cf. Score by innings:

Benedicts	4 4 5 2 0 6 3—24
Bachelors	2 2 2 4 0 0 2—12

BROOKSTON'S WATERLOO

Loses to Zenith Furnace Team After Eight Straight Victories.

Brookston, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—After winning eight straight games, the Brookston base ball team went down to defeat before the Zenith Furnace company's fast nine Sunday afternoon by a score of 7 to 9.

The home team was clearly out of form and Adams did not pitch up to his usual standard. The visitors scored five runs in the first inning by coupling a couple of hard hits with errors by the Brookston players and they were never headed, although in the sixth inning five runs were scored by the home players.

Batteries—McDougall and Brown for the Zenith; Adams and Stein for Brookston.

Valiant of Chicago Yacht Chosen for Richardson Trophy Races.

Chicago, July 13.—Valiant, a new class H sloop owned by Fred A. This was determined yesterday when the yacht won the last two of a series of trials to select a challenger.

Valiant covered the triangular course of twenty-four miles in a fraction better than two minutes faster than Olympian in both races. Michicago, which defended the trophy two years ago, was third. Valiant's elapsed time in the afternoon trial was 2:22:44.

would be seriously detrimental to the rowing of those clubs and colleges by which the Henley regatta has been supported since its institution, and which constitute the backbone of rowing in this country. No doubt there have been many entries in the past at the Henley regatta from overseas dominions, as well as from foreign countries, but they have been from clubs formed on a basis similar to that of the rowing clubs in this country. No entry has ever been tendered by a crew representing the whole of a country, and it is thought inadvisable that a new departure in this direction should be made."

Although the plans of the Federal league magnates regarding a post-season series are not yet completed, it is apparent that there will be an effort made to hold the attention of the baseball fans during the playing of the world's series between the winners of the National and American league pennants. The major leagues close their seasons on Oct. 7 and the Federals on Oct. 13. According to the tentative plans of the new organization, the pennant winning clubs will issue an open challenge to the leaders of the two major organizations, and if ignored, will institute a series of their own.

It is proposed to select an all-star team from the seven clubs finishing after the pennant winner. This combination will play a series of seven or nine games against the league leaders, the contests to be held in various cities comprising the Federal circuit. The gate receipts will be divided among the players composing the two teams upon a basis of 60 per cent to the winners and 40 per cent to the losers. There is also talk of the magnates adding either a sum of money or automobiles to the pool, in order to make the prize worth winning.

The average follower of English sports has always insisted that Americans take their games and contests too seriously. Recently, however, the shoe appears to be on the other foot, for those in charge of big commercial enterprises abroad have contended that the craze for sports was seriously interfering with the efficiency of their help. An example is shown in the case of an employe of a big steel plant who attended a football cup final on his employer's time and without permission. When the firm learned of the matter he was discharged. More than 300 employes struck as a result of the action, and it was several days before the difficulty was satisfactorily adjusted. The manager of the plant stated: "The way in which workmen have become engrossed in football and other sports often involves industrial disorganization." Similar charges have yet to be brought against American sports.

PRISONERS GET EVEN WITH POLICE

Paddling about in a sea of mud the ball team of the work farm prisoners trimmed the nine of the Duluth "cops" by a score of 11 to 10 at the work farm grounds yesterday morning.

The contest was full of laughs from start to finish and was characterized by a running exchange of good-natured retorts between the bluecoats and the prisoners. Both sides showed flashes of speed at intervals. The contest was watched by a good-sized crowd seated on bleachers constructed of planks placed between stumps.

Following the game the work farm artists entertained the guardians of the peace at a real, old-fashioned dinner, which was enlivened by the continued chaffing between the opposing teams. Before the policemen left for the city they were challenged to come again for another game. The lineup:

Work Farm—		Police—
Stubbler	p	Harwood, Perry
Porter	c	O. Olson
Ward	1b	Englert
Wikajwni	2b	H. Toewe
Brennon	3b	Dinkel

The score by innings:

PATRICKS LOSE TO THE GRAIN DEALERS.

The Board of Trade baseball team, the champions of the Commercial league in 1913, won its third game of the season Saturday by defeating the F. A. Patrick team by the count of 8 to 5. The feature of the game was the hitting of the Board of Trade aggregation. The lineup:

Board of Trade—Baker, left field; Doig, center field; Hovis, catcher; Brown, second base; Hansen, pitcher; Wisted, first base; Barry, shortstop; Ebmer, third base; Bodeen, right field. F. A. Patrick—Jones, left field; Anderson, center field; Graim, catcher; Amundsen, second base; Gillilan, pitcher; Olson, first base; Campbell, shortstop; Larson, third base; Swanstrom, right field.

Score by innings:

BEACHEY IS A DOUBTER

Fears Trans-Atlantic Flight Will End in a Tragedy.

Believes Preparations Are Inadequate and the Task Underrated.

By Lincoln Beachey.

I hope they get across. For their own sakes, as well as for the sake of aviation in general, I hope Lieut. Porte and his aide are successful in crossing the Atlantic in the aeroplane flight scheduled for the near future—but I don't believe they will be. I can see no termination to the announced attempt but fiasco or tragedy.

I have hesitated, have refrained, from making any statement regarding the Porte venture. So insistent have been my questioners, however, that I cannot longer dodge an opinion.

And the opinion I am now going to express is my absolutely honest belief—founded on my intimate knowledge of practical aviation. Time—and a very short time, too—will show whether I am right or wrong.

If wrong, I will be glad of it. If right, I will have no compunction. I believe that a very serious mistake will be made if the flight is even attempted—but I have my doubts if the actual attempt will be made.

This is not a reflection on Lieut. Porte or anyone concerned in the proposed flight; doubtless he and his aides have been sincere in their efforts and the information they have given to the public. But I believe that the next week or two will prove to them all that the trans-Atlantic flight is not at present feasible, that their theories have failed in execution.

I realize that in making this statement I lay myself liable to the charge of egotism. But I so dread this flight—or this attempt—that I am bound to speak my mind freely, if I speak at all. I myself would not attempt this flight for a million dollars—and I have spent 500 hours in the air where Lieut. Porte has spent one hour.

Preparations Inadequate.

My prediction of failure is summarized in a few words: The enormity of the proposition has been underrated—the preparations have been entirely inadequate. This, briefly, is the story.

I do not believe that one aviator can make the flight. I do not believe that the present machine, the "America," is capable of making the flight. I am convinced that the attempt, if made, will only result in giving aviation a terrible "wallop" in this country.

While I do not undervalue Lieut. Porte's ability as an aviator, I am convinced that no one man can perform this feat, particularly a man of Lieut. Porte's unproved caliber. Even the assistant on the "America" must be far and away above the average as an aviator.

It is one thing to drive a machine for ten hours, fifteen hours, over a stated course over the land. It is an entirely different thing to drive this machine over water, over the boundless ocean, for that length of time.

In the first instance the aviator is always in sight of good old mother earth. In the other, when a man is faced with the endless expanse of water, out of sight of land, the loneliness, the sense of helplessness, will be awful. The very enormity of nature will be overwhelming. And most important of all is the necessity of the pilot possessing an intimate knowledge of navigation. I understand that Lieut. Porte is hardly grounded in the rudiments of this exacting science, which must be infallible once land is lost sight of.

I believe that the mental tension will be more wearing than the physical tax of handling the wheel. I do not believe that any man in the world can, without training, stand the terrible strain. Long and constant practice alone can fit a man for such a feat.

To be sure, Lieut. Porte will have with him a capable mechanician, but he should have another seasoned aviator, one who has stood the gaff, and who should alternate with him in four or five-hour tricks at the wheel. He should have an experienced over-water aviator, like either Charlie Witmer or Frank Coffyn.

Danger of Sleep.

Those on the "America" will quickly become accustomed to the roar of the propeller, and absolute physical weariness will induce—even force—sleep. Observing Lieut Porte as a fellow passenger on the Lusitania coming from Europe last April, I know him to be susceptible to the wiles of Morpheus, to be inclined to drowsiness. Frequently I had difficulty in arousing him from his deck chair slumbers to go in to luncheon.

Reaching the machine, there has not been enough preparation. I believe that speed has been sacrificed too much to sustaining power. The machine that successfully flies across the Atlantic will, I believe, be one that will travel like a blue streak, that will not falter.

The "America" has been constructed in a hurry. Building a great automobile, bringing forth a splendid breed of dogs, even the gentleman of highest civilization is a performance of "progressive destruction." The first types, weak and insufficient, must be done away with. Their successors must contain none of these weaknesses. Their strength is strengthened, their weakness banished wherever real progress is shown, but it is only by actual tests and comparisons that these strong and weak points are determined, and the "America" has never been given even a half-hearted real tryout.

The so-called tests that are being announced from Lake Keuka are merely experiments that tell nothing. They should be continued through a period of at least a year. True enough, the machine has lifted itself from the water and has flown—but for how long? Does anyone think that a leap through the air lasting a few minutes proves efficiency for trans-Atlantic flight?

Test on Great Lakes.

Right here in the United States we have the Great Lakes. One can very easily get out of sight of land in crossing them. Wouldn't it be the part of wisdom to try the "America" out in a long, continuous flight over the Great Lakes, or even over the thirty miles long Lake Keuka, putting it through a test of at least one-half the time and mileage and severity required for the real journey?

One does not have to confine himself to matters of the air to form a conclusion regarding durability. Take automobiles, instead. For two years our leading automoble owners have failed to produce a car for the Indianapolis 500-mile race capable of going the entire distance in close competition with foreigners. The home product gives evidence of speed and durability for a while, but a stop at the pits, even for a slight repair, is always sooner or later necessary. And a stop at the pits in a motor race is vastly different from a drop into the ocean a thousand miles from land. There are no "pits" in mid-Atlantic.

But when a machine is built in a hurry, from paper specifications and figures that seem to prove every point, there is only one answer—the burning out of some vital part—for that is what always happens at Indianapolis.

What if this trans-Atlantic "America" has great sustaining power? What if it is able to lift from Lake Kueka. All of that enormous planing surface will avail nothing in waves even five feet high, and what sane optimist can even imagine the "America" going the entire distance without a single stop, without alighting once in the midst of great mid-ocean swells?

On my own longest flight of three hours the mental strain was terrific. What will it be for the man at the wheel when hour after hour is reeled off, when a mans' eyeballs are burning and aching in spite of serviceable goggles, when every muscle is strained to the breaking point?

Fears a Tragedy.

I believe that there will be tragedy or fiasco. I fear that aviation in the United States will receive a body blow. In the "America" there should be at least two seasoned, hardy aviators—and the "America" should be a seasoned, hardy machine itself. It should be thoroughly tried out, and be able to "go like hell." There should be auxiliary power, so the "America" would go, go, go!

This is my honest opinion. If I am wrong, I will rejoice with Lieut. Porte and his companions. But the well wishers of aviation—those who even pray for its success—must not place more than a blind faith in the attempt. They must be ready any day for an announcement that the entire scheme has been abandoned. The "alibi" in the daily news concerning the "America" is ever present to aviation's initiated.

When will the ocean be crossed? Perhaps in 1915 or 1916. Europeans have not been as hasty as Americans. Noted foreign designers are at work on a trans-Atlantic aeroplane. They build and dtstroy, build and destroy—but each building and each destruction means progress. With the evolution of the craft is coming an evolution of the aviators, training themselves by flights ever increasing in distance and rigor and hardship. But both man and machine are being perfected by months and months of "progressive destruction." When the intelligent preparation is completed then—and not until then—may we expect the Atlantic to be crossed via the air lanes.

HEAT INTERFERES.

New York, July 13.—In a hard-fought three-set battle, R. Norris Williams II, beat William M. Johnstone by a score of 2-6, 9-7; 6-4, in the final of the Davis cup test tournament on the courts of the Country club of Westchester yesterday.

Johnstone, the California boy, suffered from the heat, and it took much of the snap from his game. As it was, he scored more points than Williams, second string player of last year's Davis cup team, as the respective totals stood at 122 to 118.

STRUGGLE FOR LEADERSHIP

Close Race in Big Leagues for First Places in Percentage.

Past Year's Monotony of Giants and Athletics Disappears.

New York, July 13.—The half-way mark in the major league baseball season, reached this week, finds the race in each league an open one, with pennant possibilities for at least three clubs in the National circuit and for six in the American.

Interest, which has been lagging because of the seeming prospect that the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics would continue the monotony of flag-winning in their respective organizations, has picked up tremendously within a fortnight and the almost daily changes in the club standings in each league, are being followed with keen attention.

While the struggle between the New York and Chicago teams in the National league brought to the beginning of a climax by the meeting of the two clubs in Chicago yesterday, is a local point for the eyes of baseball enthusiasts, the more sustained interest at present is in the American league race.

Not in years has this organization proved so tense a struggle for honors. When play closed last night the leaders were only two and a half games over Detroit. Washington was only three games behind the leaders, Chicago half a game further down and St. Louis four games removed from the top. Boston trailed in the leading sextet, five games from the front.

The White Sox forged toward the top, and at one period in the week were closely pressing the Athletics. Their loss in the last game in Boston and their decisive defeat at the hands of Frank Chance's better-going New Yorks Saturday, pulled them down somewhat. St. Louis and Washington meanwhile were fighting each other to a finish, while the Detroits, even without the assistance of Tyrus Cobb, who is still incapacitated, met the Athletics, their ancient enemies, on their own grounds and bested them in two of three games.

Connie Mack's men finished the week wobbling, losing to St. Louis in a 12-inning game, but taking the second contest of the double header.

Meanwhile the Cubs were having a hard time of it with the Braves. O'Day's warriors were able to take only one game in four from Stalling's team, and went into the series with New York beginning yesterday three and a half games behind. St. Louis gained most advantage, pulling up somewhat on the Cubs and considerably on the Giants.

Milwaukee administered a crushing blow to the American association pennant hopes of Louisville last week. The champions in a four-game series downed the Colonels in three straight games, and it was not until the final battle of the set that the Louisville team won. The result, combined with an aggressive spurt by Indianapolis bumped the Colonels into third place by Friday.

The forward movement of the Brewers did not affect the smallness of the space in which the association teams are running, for the tail-enders, Columbus and St. Paul, both showed enough speed to break even.

Chicago managed to stay in front in the Federal league race. Two defeats for Indianapolis at the hands of St. Louis put the former temporarily out of the struggle for first place, and Chicago made certain its hold for a few days by winning the first game of the series with the Hoosiers.

DERRICK CASE SETTLED.

Shortstop Goes to Cubs and Reds Get Real Money to Boot.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 13.—President August Herrmann, of the Cincinnati National League club, announces that the deal for an exchange of players between the Cincinnati and Chicago National League clubs had been satisfactorily arranged.

By the agreement reached between Mr. Herrmann and Charles P. Taft, owner of the Chicago team, the latter team is to get Shortstop Claude Derrick in exchange for First Baseman Mollwitz. Cincinnati is also to get a money consideration, but Outfielder Williams is not included in the new deal.

Manager Herzog of the Reds announces that he had sold Outfielder Lohr to the Memphis club of the Southern association. Announcement also is made of the sale of Pitcher "Jack" Rowan to the Chattanooga club of the Southern association.

Motorcycle Rider Killed.

Toledo, Ohio, July 13.—Michael Kisel of Kokomo, Ind., a motorcycle rider was killed and four other riders were injured in accidents which marred a 100-motorcycle race here yesterday. Kisel's skull was fractured when he was thrown from his machine. The other riders were not seriously hurt.

STORMS AND LACK OF BALLAST CAUSE SHORT BALLOON FLIGHTS

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—With seven of the eight balloons which started in the national elimination race from here Saturday, landed, six of them within a radius of 160 miles of the starting point, it was evident late last night that the winner of the race would be the Goodyear, which landed at Constance, Ky., approximately 300 miles in an airline from St. Louis, or the balloon San Francisco 1915, which at midnight was still believed to be in the air.

The San Francisco was last heard from at 8 o'clock yesterday morning when it passed over Dahlgren, Ill., headed eastward.

A message received here late last night said the Uncle Sam of St. Louis with Paul J. McCullough as pilot and William S. Terefts as aide, landed six miles southeast of Lewis, in Clay county, Ind., at 9:20 o'clock yesterday morning. The distance they traveled is approximately 140 miles.

The America III, piloted by Dr. Jerome Kingsbury of New York, landed at Mount Carmel, Ill., approximately 128 miles east of St. Louis, at 11 o'clock last evening. The balloon was forced to land because the last of ballast had been used.

The Miss Sofia, pilot, William Assman of St. Louis, landed at Flat Rock, Ill., a distance of 122 miles.

Kansas City, Mo., July 13.—The Kansas City II, John Watts, pilot, one of the contestants in the national elimination race that started from St. Louis yesterday, landed near Enfield, Ill., at 2:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a fall of 1,000 feet, according to a telegram received by George M. Meyers, president of the Kansas City Aero club. The message dated at Enfield, Ill., said:

"Landed 2:20 two miles north Enfield. Not seriously hurt. Fell 1,000 feet into tree. JOHN WATTS."

A later message from Watts explained that his accident was due to the rapid descent he was compelled to make when the balloon was caught in an electrical storm. He was at an altitude of 1,000 feet when he began to race to earth to avoid the storm. His injuries, caused by the capsizing of the basket, when the balloon landed among the trees, consisted of a sprained ankle and a few bruises. W. F. Comstock, Watts' aide, was unhurt.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 13.—The balloon Goodyear, in charge of Pilot R. A. D. Preston and Aide M. D. Tremelin of Akron, Ohio, landed at 6:10 o'clock last night at Constance, Ky., a few miles below this city. Mr. Preston said that his ballast gave out.

Rockville, Ind., July 13.—The Pennsylvania, pilot, Arthur T. Atherholt, landed four miles southwest of Rockville at 9:15 o'clock yesterday morning. Atherholt reported that he flew at an altitude of 17,000 feet most of the trip. He was compelled to land when his gas supply was exhausted.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 13.—The balloon Aero Club of St. Louis, Capt. John Berry, pilot, landed three miles east of Terre Haute at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Capt. Berry was compelled to descend to avoid a severe rain and wind storm. He had traveled about 150 miles.

CRADLE-ROCKERS BEAT HOPEFULS

In a heart-rending swatfest which began at Desmond park some time Saturday afternoon and dragged along into darkness, the courthouse benedicts took their bachelor friends into camp to the tune of 24 to 12 or thereabouts, again tightening their hold on their supremecy as baseball players.

It was a slugfest from the start. Manager "Bob" Johnson of the married men had things his way at all stages of the game and at no time were the laurels of the go-cart pushers threatened. On the other hand, Stanley Gilpin, manager for the unannexed aggregation, was obliged to yank his pitcher and make several changes in his line-up.

Clarence Olson was pounded about the field for four innings until Gilpin took him out and sent in little Freddie Nelson, who managed to stop the onslaught for one frame, but lost his grip during the next inning when six runs were registered by the cradle-rockers. "Bob" Johnson pitched his own game and managed to keep the bachelor bingles well scattered.

Charley Calligan's work at short stop and Bill Wasson's performance on the third sack were features of the game. Mention should also be made of "Spike" Crosby's manner of spearing the high ones off first. The heavy sluggers were Steve Pierce for the Benedicts and Tarnowski for the single men.

Sam De Pass took his life in his own hands when he consented to act as arbiter. There were many threatening moments for the "umps" during the fracas, but he managed to "get by" each time. A good aggregation of rooters was out for both sides including a large number of the fair sex. The line-up follows:

Benedicts—Crosby and Pierce, 1b; Calligan, ss; Ward, rf; Pierce and Ink, 2b; Bob Johnson, p; Wasson, 3b; Tischer, rf; Carston, cf; Ryan, c.

Bachelors—Nelson, ss and p; Holmstrand, 1b; Tarnowski, c; Gilpin, lf; Olson, p; V. Johnson and Feaks, rf; Hursch, 3b; Hidgson, cf. Score by innings:

Benedicts	4 4 5 2 0 6 3—24
Bachelors	2 2 2 4 0 0 2—12

BROOKSTON'S WATERLOO

Loses to Zenith Furnace Team After Eight Straight Victories.

Brookston, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—After winning eight straight games, the Brookston base ball team went down to defeat before the Zenith Furnace company's fast nine Sunday afternoon by a score of 7 to 9.

The home team was clearly out of form and Adams did not pitch up to his usual standard. The visitors scored five runs in the first inning by coupling a couple of hard hits with errors by the Brookston players and they were never headed, although in the sixth inning five runs were scored by the home players.

Batteries—McDougall and Brown for the Zenith; Adams and Stein for Brookston.

Chicago, July 13.—Valiant, a new class H sloop owned by Fred A. This was determined yesterday when the yacht won the last two of a series of trials to select a challenger.

Valiant covered the triangular course of twenty-four miles in a fraction better than two minutes faster than Olympian in both races. Michicago, which defended the trophy two years ago, was third. Valiant's elapsed time in the afternoon trial was 2:22:44.

WILSON HAS RIGHT POLICY

Rev. J P Hauser, Missionary to Mexico, Opposed to Intervention.

Believes Mexicans Will Work Out Their Own Salvation.

That President Wilson's policy toward Mexico is the correct one and that intervention in Mexico would be foolhardy and disastrous and would have results opposite to that desired, is the opinion of Rev. J P Hauser, who is engaged in the missionary field of Mexico, and who, with his wife, is visiting here with his sister, Mrs. J. E. Hauter, 323 First avenue east, and her husband. Mr. Hauter, who is religious secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here, was formerly engaged in Y. M. C. A. work in Mexico City, where Rev. M. Hauser was engaged at the time in the Methodist publishing house. The latter has been in Mexico twelve years and has followed the vicissitudes of that republic during the good days of Diaz, through the brief rule of Madero, and during the present turmoil, and is believed to be in a position to speak with authority on conditions and on the temper of the Mexican people.

He has been for several years district superintendent of the eastern district of the Mexican annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, and is now on furlough, having come to the United States in February. Mr. Hauser does not know just when the missionaries will be permitted to return, but says that just as soon as permission is given they will go, even though it is no further than Vera Cruz. They are all out now. Concerning their exodus from Mexico Mr. Hauser said today:

"I was not present, owing to the fact that my furlough began in February, but others have told me that they had a good deal of difficulty getting out, for they had no notice at all. One missionary who went with 258 other Americans to the west coast, had a hard time of it. For two hours, nineteen of them were stood up by the Federal troops ready to be shot, if a vessel approaching had proved to be an American war vessel. She proved to be a trader, however, and they were allowed to proceed."

Concerning conditions in Mexico, and the matter of intervention Mr. Hauser said this morning:

"A good many people say that the United States should intervene or send peace messengers into Mexico to try to fix up matters. Either would be a mistake. The landing of troops at Vera Cruz caused a crystallization of Mexicans against Americans, when before that, there was indifference. The Huerta adherents used it to make the Mexicans believe that the United States was about to try to conquer Mexico, and by that means enlisted a large number of recruits who otherwise would not be in the Mexican army. Now that the troops are installed at Vera Cruz it is well to leave them there as a threat; but not to advance further.

Will Work Own Salvation.

"Mexico can work out her own salvation. I have faith in the Mexican people, for Madero instilled into their minds the idea of popular government, and he was their idol. Because Carranza and Villa promise the same thing is the reason that the Constitutionalists are winning. Mexico will fight her way out of this and it will be well for Uncle Sam to keep his hands off.

"Our own Civil war of the sixties was far worse than the civil war in Mexico. Suppose somebody had intervened, you can imagine the trouble that would have occurred. Great Britain tried it and was told to go about her business. Mexico is in a similar position.

"The United States would not have a Cuba or a Philippine problem to handle were we to tackle the Mexican problem. Mexico really has a claim to be something of a world power; and if the United States meddles too much with her, this country will find a fight on its hands that will not be at all nice. The Mexicans are patriotic and will not stand for interference by a foreign power. As I have said, I have faith in the Mexicans, and I believe that they will work out their own salvation. President Wilson is taking the proper stand in the matter, and should be supported."

Mr. Hauser has just left a gathering of missionaries to Mexico who met in Cincinnati. These missionaries were of all Protestant denominations and they made plans for districting Mexico so that, after the present trouble is over and religious work renewed, they will not conflict with each other either in religious work or in educational matters.

"Down in Mexico," said Mr. Hauser, "all denominations work together, and we never have any strife. We have been very successful; and I must say that our Mexican converts have been true to us although they have been persecuted and many of them have lost their lives."

One distinction that Mr. Hauser bears is as to his Christian name. His initials "J P" stand for nothing but themselves, and they do not even bear the handicap of a period after them. He is simply "J P Hauser," with the title "reverend" as the only addition.

PUBLIC MARKET WILL BE OPENED

The West end public market will open this week according to the expectations of many of the farmers of Hermantown. The first day that several of the farmers will be there in any number will be Saturday.

The housewife will be offered the fresh vegetables of the smaller variety. Among these will also be new potatoes, young onions, radishes, carrots and other varieties.

Arrangements have been made whereby the farmers will each have a booth assigned to him for the summer. This arrangement has been made through the West End Commercial club, and each will pay a sum of $10 for the booth for the season. This amount will go towards the paying of the rental and upkeep of the place.

During this season the farmers expect to make three trips each week to the market place. The days selected will be Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Last year they were at the place only twice each week coming there on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

START THINGS ABOUT AUG. 1

Hammond Hopes to Get Home Then and Campaign.

Some State Interests to Be Cleared Up First.

Washington, July 13.—Aug. 1 is the date which Representative Hammond has set for beginning his active campaign for the governorship of Minnesota. Mr. Hammond says he is not certain that he will be able to leave Washington by that time. He hopes, however, that the condition of legislation will be such that he will feel justified in leaving for the state and giving the campaign his personal attention.

The ways and means committee is the only committee of which Representative Hammond is a member and there is nothing pending before the committee now which will come up before the house for action. He said that among some local matters that he hoped to be able to clean up is a proposed appropriation of $6,500 to repair damages at the Pipestone Indian school caused by a terrific storm. The buildings were damaged so severely that repairs are necessary and the appropriation has received the approval of the Indian bureau. Mr. Hammond says he hopes to have the item included in the Indian appropriation bill.

Wants to Clear Dockets.

"Naturally there are many other minor matters that accumulated during my absence," Mr. Hammond said, "that it will take me some time to adjust. There is always more or less to attend to in the departments. While such things are of no national importance, they are important to persons living in my district, and I wish to clear my docket of all such things before going to Minnesota to engage in the campaign."

Mr. Hammond is giving considerable thought to the details of his speaking campaign. He said, however, that these will become apparent only after he actually has got into the harness in Minnesota, and that he considers it premature for him to discuss them while they are in a more or less nebulous state.

State Issues Predominate.

It is likely, however, that state rather than national issues will predominate in the campaign for the governorship. The question of having the Democratic national committee furnish speakers for Mr. Hammond has not been discussed as yet, and Mr. Hammond said frankly that he had no idea about such a possibility. At present his political activities are entirely in the hands of his friends in Minnesota.

Mr. Hammond said his mail has accumulated enormously during his absence, and that he has kept his office busy answering letters of congratulation which arrived during his absence. He spoke appreciatively of the friendly messages he has received from those who opposed his nomination, and is confident of united party support in the fight he is to make as chief executive of Minnesota.

SCOTCH CLERGYMAN TO PREACH IN GAELIC

Rev. Dr. McLennan of Edinburgh, Scotland, Will Be Heard Sunday Afternoon at First Presbyterian Church.

Those who understand the Gaelic tongue—and there are many in Duluth—will have an opportunity to hear a sermon preached in that language next Sunday.

Rev. Malcolm McLennan, pastor of St. Columbus United Free church of Edinburgh, Scotland, will preach in Gaelic at the First Presbyterian church, Third avenue east and Second street, next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. Robert Yost, pastor of the church, made that announcement yesterday, and much interest was evinced.

Dr. McLennan and his wife, the latter a sister of Mrs. W. R. Link of Superior, will be visitors at the Head of the Lakes for several days. They are expected to arrive on Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Link, who have gone to Gravenhurst, Ont., to meet them. Dr. McLennan and Alex Macrae of Duluth were schoolmates. It is probable that on Sunday morning Dr. McLennan will preach at the Hammond Avenue Presbyterian church in Superior, and he may preach here in the English language on Sunday evening.

It is expected that the afternoon services next Sunday will be attended by a large congregation, for there are a very great many Scotch people in Duluth and Superior, whose native tongue was Gaelic; and as sermons in that language come about once in a "blue moon," this one will doubtless be taken advantage of by all who can understand it.

FIND BODY OF BABY ON SHORE

Infant Believed By Police to Have Been Murdered.

Probably thrown into the waters of Lake Superior immediately after its birth, either by its mother or an accomplice in the crime, the body of a baby boy was found at the foot of Twenty-first avenue east yesterday afternoon.

Vincent Grady of Grady & Horgan, who have the body of the small child in charge, is of the belief that it was in the water a week when it was washed up on the shore probably during the heavy storm Saturday night. From every indication, he said this morning, the child had just been born and was not more than two or three days old, when it met its death in the lake.

The body of the child, wrapped in a woman's undergarment, was found on the shore by Carl Nelson, 8 years old, of 726 South Twenty-second avenue east. Carl informed his parents and they immediately notified Coroner McComb, who placed Detectives Schulte and Irvine on the case. They believe that it is a clear case of murder and that either the mother of the child or some friend threw the infant into the lake immediately after its birth. A thorough investigation is being made by the authorities, although they have no clew whatever to the mystery.

The body of the child will be held at the Grady & Horgan undertaking rooms, pending the investigation.

To Overcome Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Wrinkles

If your skin is unduly reddened, freckled or tanned, dab a liberal amount of mercolized wax on the face and allow it to remain over night. When you wash off the wax in the morning, fine flaky, almost invisible particles of cuticle come with it. Repeating this daily, the entire outer skin is absorbed, but so gradually there's not the slightest hurt or inconvenience. Even the stubbornest freckles are affected. The underlying skin which forms the new complexion is so fresh and youthful-looking, you'll marvel at the transformation. It's the only thing known to actually discard an aged, faded, muddy or blotchy complexion. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, is sufficient in most cases.

If sun and winds make you squint and frown, you're bound to cultivate wrinkles and crow's-feet. To overcome these quickly, bathe the face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. —Advertisement.

SLATED FOR PRESIDENT OF BUILDING MANAGERS

CHARLES E. DOTY,
Cleveland, Ohio, Vice President of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, Who Is Slated to be Made President at the Duluth Convention.

Who will be the next president of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers seems to be a foregone conclusion according to delegates who have already arrived. Western delegates are said to have worked up strong support for Charles E. Doty of Cleveland, Ohio, who is vice president and a natural successor of President J. E. Randell. The news of Western support has come following the announcement from Eastern delegates that his support was strong in that quarter.

Mr. Doty wired the Spalding headquarters here yesterday that he would be in Duluth today with his wife and a company of delegates who are all coming in an automobile. Unlike William Henry Harrison, who ran for the presidency as the "log cabin candidate," Mr. Doty is the "automobile" candidate. Because of the excessive rains and storms Mr. Doty and his party have had a drive full of adventures.

PRESIDENT IS TOLD BUSINESS IS BETTER

Herman of Detroit and Branch of Chicago See Him.

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson continued today his conferences with business men on conditions throughout the country and their bearing on the anti-trust program. He saw Raphael Herman of Detroit and Joseph G. Branch of Chicago.

Mr. Herman told the president that, in his opinion, business men generally agreed that anti-trust legislation should be put through at the present session of congress, and that business conditions generally were improving.

SUN STRIKES DOWN GERMAN SOLDIERS

Two Die and Over 100 Are Overcome During Maneuvers.

Berlin, July 13.—Two German soldiers died and more than 100 others are ill today from sunstroke, by which they were affected yesterday in the course of military maneuvers at Frankfort-on-Oder, according to the Tageblatt. The men belonged to Crown Prince Charles of Prussia's Brandenburg infantry regiment, commanded by Col. Von Reuter, who was transferred from Zabern, Alsace, after the recent conflict between soldiers and civilians there.

The weather was the hottest experienced in Germany this year.

ANOTHER SETTLER IS 'THE GOAT' OF THE LAW

Will Have to Pay Twice for His Homestead Acres.

St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five years ago Martin Paulson filed on a government claim of 120 acres in Beltrami county. Last week he was notified that his claim belonged to the state and that he would have to vacate.

Today E. H. Hobe, Norwegian consul for Minnesota, took up the matter with State Auditor Iverson and while Paulson will not lose his claim he will have to pay the $5 an acre required under the Constitution. He has already paid the government for the land and has no recovery because of the latter's mistake.

Nothing for Improvements.

Paulson, according to Hobe, has improved the land, but Mr. Iverson said today that such improvements would not be taken into consideration when the regular school appraisal was made. He said he would see to it that the settler retained the land and that by as little cost as possible.

According to Mr. Iverson hundreds of such cases occur annually and he believed that something should be done to compel the government to reimburse the settler where a mistake is made. Both he and the auditors in the past have hundreds of such cases to deal with and in every instance the rights of the settlers are protected as fas as the state is concerned.

"SHANG O'BRIEN" IS SUMMONED

Well-Known Duluth Character Dies—Was Formerly Dock Foreman.

John Lane, known as "Shang O'Brien," who had been blind and in poor health for years, and at one time was boss of Police Chief Troyer when the latter was employed with a dock crew, died Saturday afternoon at the county poor farm.

Lane was one of Duluth's characters and was probably the best known of his type. For years he obtained what little work he could and whenever he was out of funds, would go to the poor farm or the police. He had been in poor health for some time and his death Saturday was not unexpected.

"Shang O'Brien" was foreman of the first crew at the Omaha dock when it was opened here thirty-five years ago. When Chief Troyer entered the employ of that crew in 1888, Lane was still the boss and the present head of the police department worked for him for nearly a year. At the end of that time Lane left and the chief was made the foreman of the crew.

Lane was unmarried and as far as is known had no relatives. The body has been removed to the Crawford undertaking rooms and unless friends claim the remains, Lane will be buried at the county's expense.

SCREAMS UNHEEDED.

No Attention Paid to Fergus Falls Asylum Inmate's Cries.

Fergus Falls, July 13.—That Mrs. Hilda Bolin declared after she was fatally burned in a bathtub at the Fergus Falls state hospital for the insane that she had called for help, but there was no one in the bathroom at the time, was the statement of Miss Martha Strom, night supervisor of the hospital, at a hearing into the affair conducted at the hospital by two members of the state board of control.

Miss Strom said that Mrs. Bolin had so informed her in Swedish on the night of July 3. Mrs. Bolin died a week later. Minute cross-examination by C. E. Vasaly of the board of control failed to shake Miss Strom's statement.

The hearing conducted by C. E. Vasaly and C. J. Swendson of the board of control, lasted eight hours, during which fifteen witnesses were examined.

RAISE PRICE OF ICE TO SMALL BUYERS

St. Louis Companies Say Higher Wages Necessitate Move.

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—A 20 per cent increase in the price of ice in the resident districts of the city was announced today by two of the largest distributing companies in St. Louis. It was said the increase was the result of recent increases in the wages of ice wagon drivers and their helpers. The wage increase was granted after a strike had been declared against several companies.

The price of ice will not be increased to those consumers who have been buying tickets for 1,000 pounds of ice, but will be increased to those who have been getting ice cheap by buying tickets for 2,000 pounds or more. Those who buy in 5-cent quantities will also get less for their money than heretofore.

TAYLOR, WIS., TRAGEDY.

Black River Falls, Wis., July 13.—Four children in the family of Richard Roberts, a farmer living near Taylor, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Roberts home Friday night.

Two other children in the family were badly burned, but it is expected they will recover.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Taylor is a small station on the Green Bay & Western road.

Big Lumber Yard Deal.

Jamestown, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lumber yards controlled by the George Lutz company of Jamestown, located at Edmunds, Pingree, Buchanan, Ypsilanti and Montpelier, have been sold to the Wells-Thompson company, the deal being effective immediately.

Mr. Lutz established the lumber company in 1882, and it is one of the oldest independent companies in the state.

Senator Allen Renominated.

Linton, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator H. Allen of Kidder and Emmons counties was successful in his campaign for the Republican nomination for re-election by a majority of only five votes over George Lynn. It required the official canvass to determine the result.

UNABLE TO LIE DOWN

FOR TEN DAYS OR NIGHTS, SUCH WAS THE AWFUL CONDITION OF MR. W. H. LOWRY, BUT QUAKER CAME TO HIS RESCUE

Mr. W. H. Lowry, who resides at Witt, Va., address R. F. D. No. 1; occupation, miller; employed at Damivar's Mill, Witt, Va., called on the Quaker Health Teacher and told him how he had suffered with catarrh of the head, throat and stomach; also a very severe case of kidney trouble for the past twelve years. Mr. Lowry said: "I have had severe headaches and constantly spitting mucous that seemed to drop from my head. Throat became sore and stomach rebelled, it would cause me an awful lot of misery. Everything I ate would sour, gases would form and cause my heart to palpitate and pain. At times I thought it had stopped beating. Gases would also rise up in my breast and throat. At times it seemed as if my breath was shut off altogether, and my kidneys pained me so that at times I thought I would break in two. I have tried everything that was recommended and have taken several treatments, but nothing seemed to reach my case. Continued to get worse all the time until ten days ago my misery became so terrible that I was unable to lie down for ten days. Have been compelled to sit up all night long in a chair on account of my awful misery."

After having a talk with the Health Teacher, who told him to give the Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm a trial and watch the results, he purchased a three-bottle trial treatment of Extract and one bottle of Oil of Balm. Started taking it and after using it two weeks reports back and says: "After using those remedies two days I was able to lie down and get a good night's rest, and after two weeks can say that my pain and misery is all gone. I rest well at nights, have no more headaches—no pains around my heart, nor shortness of breath. No pains in my back and can sit down and eat a good meal without fear of it hurting me afterward, and you can just let me have six more bottles for I know I have got hold of a permanent cure in the Quaker Remedies, and I would not take any price in exchange for the benefits already received for them, and you can tell anyone you want, to call on or write to me, and I will be only too glad to tell what Quaker has done for me, for I, as a sufferer, have gotten the long sought for benefits and want others who suffer to get the same."

The Health Teacher is still at the Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior street, Duluth, and invites all who suffer from rheumatism, stomach, liver, kidney troubles, or catarrh in any form, or worms of any kind, to call and have a talk with him—it costs you nothing. He is at the drug store from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily.

Quaker Extract is sold in treatments—6 bottles for $5.00, now 3 for $2.50, or $1.00 single bottle. Oil of Balm, 50c. Quaker All Healing Salve, 25c.—Advertisement.

SILBERSTEIN CONTEST IS BASED ON 436 BALLOTS

Regular on Mayoralty But Irregular on Commissionership.

"Does One Defect Make Entire Ballot Void?" Is Question.

Bernard Silberstein's success in his legal fight to unseat Mayor William I. Prince will be largely contingent upon the view which the courts will take with reference to the validity of 436 ballots, regular with respect to the count for mayor, but which were irregular so far as the count for commissioners to be elected is concerned.

This was made apparent today at an early stage of the hearing on the contest which Mr. Silberstein, one of the defeated candidates for mayor at the April, 1913, municipal election, is making against Mayor Prince. The hearing came on before Judge Cant in district court this morning, but owing to the fact that the attorneys were unable to enter into any stipulation with reference to what the recount of the ballots showed, the court ordered an adjournment until 2 o'clock.

The long expected "surprise" was sprung shortly after the case was opened this morning, when J. B. Richards, attorney for Mr. Silberstein, stated in court that he was unwilling to jeopardize the rights of his client by allowing the report which the ballot inspectors prepared with refernce to the recount, to be introduced in evidence in the contest.

The Stipulation.

The report among other things contained the following alleged stipulation:

"It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between O. J. Larson, attorney for William I. Prince; John B. Arnold, attorney for Marcus L. Fay; Walter F. Dacey, attorney for William E. McEwen; and J. B. Richards, attorney for Bernard Silberstein, that in the recount, no ballot for mayor shall be set aside or disputed on account of the fact that there may not have been votes for four or the full amount of those candidates who were running for the office of commissioner, or on account of any irregularity affecting merely the vote of the other commissioners.

Attorney Richards stated in court this morning that he might have made such a stipulation, but at this time if the attorneys for Mayor Prince wanted it introduced in the case that it was up to them to prove it and get it introduced in evidence. He said that he would object to its introduction so far as it was binding upon Mr. Silberstein and his rights to contest certain of the ballots affected by it.

Attorneys O. J. Larson and Neil E. Benton, who were in court to represent the interests of Mayor Prince declared that Attorney Richards had entered into the stipulation and that he now wanted to back out. They declared their unwillingness to enter into any further stipulations with him unless he stood by his former agreements.

Defective Ballots.

When the recount of the votes for mayor was made, it was found among other things that 436 ballots which had been regularly cast for mayor were defective with reference to the vote on commissioner and were so held by the court in the recent contest waged against W. A. Ricken and Roderick Murchison by James A. Farrell, a defeated candidate for short term commissioner. In the commissioners contest, the court threw the ballots out because they did not conform with the charter provisions for a preferential ballot.

It is now believed that the contention of Mr. Silberstein is that the ballots which the court threw out in the race for commissioner, should also be discredited with reference to the mayoralty count. If the ballots which are so disputed are thrown out, Mr. Silberstein would be elected. This is conceded by attorneys for Mayor Prince.

Supreme Court Ruling.

The supreme court in the Hicken-Murchison-Farrell contest held that the provision of the city charter that "no vote shall be counted on the election of commissioners unless the voter marks as many first choice votes as there are commissioners to be elected," is not in conflict with the section of the state constitution, which gives to every male person belonging to certain classes the right to vote for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elected by the people and that the Duluth charter does not abrogate the provision of the general election law, which confers upon the voter the right to vote for persons other than the regularly nominated candidates whose names are printed on the ballot.

The contention of the attorneys for Mayor Prince on the other hand is first that Attorney Richards stipulated away his right to contest the election on this ground at the time the recount was made and second that the ballots should not be thrown out even if they were irregular with reference to the count for commissioner.

Attorney Richards admitted that some such stipulation had been entered into but claimed that it was done merely to expedite matters and to enable the inspectors to make a more speedy count. He claimed that the stipulation did not affect his right to attack the ballots as being illegal at this time.

Unless the attorneys agree with reference to the count it may be necessary to conduct a second recount. This would involve the counting of 10,286 ballots and would require about ten days' time.

GREET MODEL SHIP AT CREAM CITY

Hanna, Jr., and Owner, Capt. Richardson, Royally Received at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—One of the greatest receptions ever given a new steamer and its owner was that given here Saturday when the handsome H. H. Hanna, Jr., recently launched, and model freighter of the Great Lakes, arrived in the local harbor, with Capt. W. C. Richardson, owner, builder and veteran navigator.

Nearly all the tugs in the harbor, laden with Milwaukee men and women, went out to meet the ship and there was continuous screeching of their whistles from the moment she was sighted until she tied up at the foot of Greenfield avenue.

The women were first to reach the deck of the big fellow. In a few moments the decks were strewn with confetti and a general reception took place.

Capt. Richardson escorted the visitors about the vessel while she was proceeding towards the harbor and showed with pride the modern ideas which had been installed in order to make the ship safe as well as a beautiful vessel.

While the passenger quarters are luxuriously fitted out the old navigator had not forgotten his early sailing days when the crew's quarters were given but scant consideration. Special care has been given to make these home-like and comfortable. Every room is carpeted and the seamen and firemen have separate tub and shower bath accommodations.

Capt. John Babbitt, who has been in the employ of the Richardson company fleet for almost thirty years, is in command of the flagship. James Falconer, fleet engineer, who brought the Hanna, Jr., up the lakes, has been in the same employ for many years and has brought out all the new vessels of the line.

LONGSHOREMEN IN MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13.—The International Longshoremen's association opened its annual convention here today with about 250 delegates present from United States, Canada, Porto Rico and Cuba. The delegates include twelve colored representatives from southern states and the West Indies, this being probably the only union that has locals represented by colored men.

The convention will be in session for three days, and will consider various matters of interest to the association. The sessions are secret.

BUILDING MEN TO KILL OLD D. CARE

Special Cabaret Programs and Mock Trial to Enliven Things.

With the incoming of the early delegates to the building owners' and managers' convention plans were put under way this forenoon for some lively entertainment. Delegates called on Manager Lewis of the New St. Louis hotel and Sol. Goldberg of the Hotel Holland and arranged to have special cabaret shows at those places for the remainder of the week. In addition the delegates will pull off a mock trial on Wednesday evening, which promises to go down in history as a comedy feature.

Manager Lewis of the St. Louis was busy on the wire today to have a special company of entertainers to begin a big cabaret show tomorrow and continue for the remainder of the week. He expects to complete all arrangements by tonight. A special program will be put on at the Holland daily.

The mock trial, however, seems to be something of an institutional feature with the building men. Reminiscences of former trials were recalled today and arrangements started to pull off the most entertaining trial in the history of the association.

ACID BURNS THROUGH ROPE

Workmen Have Narrow Escape From Falling Four Stories.

One Grasps Rope Above Place Where It Was Parting.

Thomas Glenn and Charles Emburg narrowly escaped serious if not fatal injuries this morning when a rope holding the scaffold upon which they were standing while engaged at the work of cleaning the walls of the west interior court of the courthouse building gave way. Glenn's presence of mind saved both men from a fall of four stories.

The scaffold upon which the men were working was suspended by ropes from a block and tackle on the courthouse roof. About 10:30 o'clock one of the ropes parted and the scaffold started to drop. Glenn grabbed the rope and clasped it so that the fall of the staging was retarded enough to allow Emburg to get a footing on a widow sill. Later both men got off safely. The incident was witnessed by a number of persons who were in the courthouse at the time.

It is believed that acid which the men were using in the work of cleaning the marble facing of the courthouse walls burned the strands of the rope, causing it to give way. Chief Engineer Williams of the courthouse stated this morning that both ropes had been inspected this morning and that he had warned both of the workmen to be careful with respect to the acid.

WHEAT HAS SHARP DROP

Market Declines With Heavy Selling on Good Crop Reports.

Flaxseed Bulges Under Spur of Liberal Demand From Crushers.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 13.—The market was still weaker at the close on heavy offerings. July wheat closed 1¼c off; September, 1¼@1⅜c off, and December, 1⅛@1¼c off. July durum closed ¾c off and September ⅝c off.

Oats closed ¾c off at 34⅜c for on the track or 33¾c for to arrive. Rye closed unchanged at 57c for on the track or 56c for to arrive. Barley closed unchanged at from 38 to 50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 38¾c bid and October at 36⅜c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 79@79⅛c bid, and calls at 79¼c bid.

The course of the wheat market nowadays largely hinges on the Northwest weather news for the time being. Today the general advices from over Minnesota and North and South Dakota were favorable. Crop reporters covering these states wired that the plant is making rapid progress towards maturity. No traces of black rust could be found in North Dakota, while the damage in South Dakota continues to be confined to a few scattering sections, and with the present brand of weather, it is not spreading. The plant is also said to be looking well over the Red River valley, where fears of damage through an overplus of moisture had been entertained. To add to the general bearishness of the situation, good rains fell over Manitoba and Saskatchewan yesterday, with further precipitation promised in some sections today. Liverpool closed lower, largely on the Canadian Northwest development. In other directions, the foreign situation was regarded as bullish, as Russian news was unfavorable, and there were disturbing reports from Argentina.

Boston reported that cables were off sharply this morning, but further heavy export business was advised in winter wheat in which shipments via the gulf ports are expected to be enormous during the next few weeks. Buyers at the markets in the Southwest advised that country acceptances were heavy this morning.

A good cash demand was reported by Duluth operators this morning, and the underlying situation in old wheat continues strong in view of the small stocks remaining in the elevators here. While receipts continue liberal for the season, the market is being kept well cleaned up.

July wheat opened ¼c off at 90¼c and sold off ¼c more up to the noon hour. September opened ¼@⅜c off at 81c, and weakened ½c more. December opened ⅜c off at 81⅝c, and broke ⅝c more. July durum opened ⅛c off at 86¼c and declined ⅝c further. The September option opened ⅛c off at 82¼c and weakened ⅛c more.

Sharp Bulge in Flax.

Crushers were in the market for flaxseed today and the market was strong from the opening with a bulge coming near the close. Offerings were comparatively light, with trading mostly in small lots. Final prices in the day showed advances of ¼@1¾c. The foreign markets were steady. Antwerp closed unchanged; Buenos Aires ⅛c off and London ⅝c up.

July flax opened ¼c up at $1.61-⅜ and closed 1¼c up at $1.62⅜. September opened ⅛c up at $1.63½ and closed 1⅝c up at $1.65 bid. October opened unchanged at $1.63½ and closed 1¾c up at $1.65¾ bid and November opened unchanged at $1.63½ and closed 1⅝c up at $1.65⅛.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed at $1.42 asked and October at $1.46¼ bid.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Easier cables from America Saturday were offset by continued favorable advices from Russia and a comparatively small percentage of world's shipments destined to the United Kingdom with the continent absorbing freely with the demand unabated. The opening was unchanged to ¼d higher, with October leading. During the morning there was a decline on American selling here, and prices lost ¼@⅛d. It was augmented by private reports here of rain in Canada. Foreign offers were firmly held and disturbing reports continue to come from Argentina, but the American movement and good grading is having an effect. At 1:30 p. m. it was easy, ¼d lower."

C. E. Lewis wired from Grand Forks, N. D.: "Drove about twenty miles yesterday and found the crops in this vicinity looking exceptionally fine, and if the present promise is maintained at harvest, it will show a very large yield. While the farmers fear black rust because of the thick stand, there is no indication of it now and the present weather is against its developing. I talked with a banker north of Devil's Lake and he says a fine condition exists up there."

• • •

John Inglis wired from Mankato, Minn.: "They were cutting wheat between Mitchell and Salem yesterday and south from there. To cut spring wheat by the tenth of July is sufficient reason to know that the crop is badly hurt in quality and quantity. Much of the blue stem will not pay cutting expenses. From Mount Vernon to Mankato, 240 miles, the acreage is small through Southern Minnesota. Apart from rust, the crop would be very poor anyway as the fields are badly spotted. Corn in South Dakota is splendid. Much of it laid by and tasseling. While general appearance of oats is good, yields will be disappointing, as they are not filling well and heads are small."

Corn, total, 4,778,000 bu, against 6,852,000 bu last year.

Lecount wired Baker this morning from Deland, S. D.: "Wheat and oats crops are above the average. Early wheat needs ten days more favorable weather to mature. There is very little black rust. I believe black rust will be found in all near localities, and there will be some damage, but I don't think this crop here will be badly damaged as the rust development is now very slow and we are having favorable weather, though the past two days was too hot but it was clear and wheat was forced while rust was retarded. Today the weather is cool and windy and unless we get hot, damp weather soon I do not think black rust will be an important factor in Northwest this year."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Bearish on Prospects of Big Receipts.

Chicago, July 13.—Prospects of the largest receipts of the season here and at Kansas City had a bearish effect today on wheat. It was estimated that the arrivals at the two terminals would reach a total of 1,300 carloads. Reports of rain in the Canadian Northwest tended also to make the market easy. Opening prices, which ranged from ½c lower to ⅛c advance, were followed by an all-around decline.

Cool winds in the spring wheat states appeared likely to minimize damage from black rust. There was also a big increase in the visible supply total. Prices closed weak, ⅞ to 1⅛c net lower.

Hot, dry weather over most of the belt brought about a sharp rise in corn Higher cables counted further against the bears. After opening ⅛@⅞c up, the market scored yet additional gains.

A decided reaction ensued owing to news of rain in Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Ohio. The close was steady at ⅝ to ⅞c net decline.

Oats proved weak compared with corn. At first prices bulged in sympathy with the coarser grain, but a fair increase of selling pressure led to a material setback.

Provisions climbed because of the continued upturn in the hog market. Pork led the advance.

FEATURELESS TRADE IN COPPER ISSUES

Fair trading developed in mining stocks at Boston today but business was confined to a comparatively few issues. Price changes were about equally divided between advances and declines.

Butte & Superior closed a shade off at $36.75; Butte & Ballaklava unchanged at $2.75; Calumet & Arizona 50c up at $64.75; North Butte unchanged at $24.75; Shattuck 50c up at $23; Granby 50c up at $79.50 and Amalgamated Copper 50c off at $69.50.

In the Duluth curb list, Alex Scott sold at $5 and Keating at $2.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following market comment from New York: "No fresh developments occurred over Sunday to cause any change in conditions or sentiment. The element of uncertainty attached to the depression of the Gould stocks combined with constant liquidation in New Haven are still existing factors. The prevalence of these factors has been the means of creating a rather low level of prices throughout the list. It is thought in some quarters that if something definite were known regarding the reason of this particular liquidation and the causes were eliminated, the technical position which has been strengthened may improve still further."

LIQUIDATION ON EXCHANGE

Stocks Open Firm, But Decline to Weak Close.

Canadian Pacific Leads Slump of Standard Shares.

New York, July 13.—Liquidation of investment issues after temporary firmness was the feature of today's stock market. Canadian Pacific declined 5 points on heavy offerings. The close was weak.

The new week brought little change to the stock market, the undertone again showing weakness in minor issues, while investment shares held firm. Gould securities, Ontario & Western and Western Maryland were lower, but Missouri Pacific convertible 5's inclined toward improvement. Chesapeake & Ohio, one of last week's heavy features, yielded another point, while New Haven advanced a point. In the special group there were such countermovements as a one-point loss in United States Rubber and a gain of as much for Dry Goods preferred.

The course of the market suggested that the bears were searching for weak spots in their efforts to depress the general list. Canadian Pacific, the most active stock, fell 3¾ points on combined selling by Canadian houses and the short interest. Baltimore & Ohio and Louisville & Nashville lost a point or more under similar pressure, while New Haven was feverish, declining to its recent low level. Obscure stocks were temporarily neglected, while the leaders, including Harrimans, Hills and Anthracite and Steel, were on firm ground. Bonds were steady with weakness in Western Maryland, New York, Westchester and Boston 4½'s, the latter a New Haven subsidiary. These issues fell 3¾@5½ points respectively.

Selling of New York Central, which broke 1⅝c and further liquidation in minor securities caused the list to sag under last week's closing prices. The decline was concurrent with the publication of the interstate commerce commission's condemnation of the former New Haven railroad management.

Selling of standard shares became more pronounced in the last hour under the lead of Canadian Pacific, which sold at its lowest price in four days. Declines elsewhere in this division ranged from 1 to 2 points, with a feeble rally at the end.

GIGANTIC STRIKE ON WESTERN RAILROADS HANGS IN BALANCE

Engineers and Firemen Present Ultimatum to Managers.

Walkout Would Tie Up 148,000 Miles of Lines.

Stone and Carter Present Demands at Chicago Conference.

MEN WILL NOT ACCEPT ERDMAN ACT PROVISION.

Chicago, July 14.—Representatives of 55,000 engineers and firemen on ninety-eight Western railroads today declared they would not accept arbitration of their wage differences under the Erdman act, but would continue negotiations with their employers.

Chicago, July 14.—An ultimatum in the wage dispute between 55,000 engineers and firemen of the ninety-eight railroads west of Chicago and their employers was scheduled to be presented today to the managers of the roads. A gigantic strike which will tie up 148,000 miles of road is imminent unless an agreement is reached, according to the union officers.

The ultimatum, it was announced, contained the statement that 90 per cent of the men had voted to strike unless their demands were acceded to. Counting of the strike referendum ballots has just been completed. The next move is up to the roads. It may take the form of an appeal to the Federal department of labor for arbitration.

Virtually all lines west of Chicago, the Illinois Central and lines in Canada west of Fort William, except the Canadian Grand Trunk Pacific, are affected.

Had Long Session.

Warren S. Stone, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive engineers, and W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, met the general managers' committee of the railroads today. The session was prolonged until after noon, and no announcement of the result of the strike vote was made before the convening of the session, which was behind closed doors. A. W. Trenholm, general manager of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, & Omaha railway, chairman of the managers' committee, and other members of the committee were present.

MRS. WAKEFIELD IS PUT ON TRIAL AGAIN

Saved From Gallows By Decision of Appellate Court.

New Haven, Conn., July 14.—Bessie J. Wakefield was placed an trial today for a second time under an indictment for murder in the first degree in causing the death of her husband, William O. Wakefield, at Cheshire on June 23, 1913.

The woman was found guilty of the murder on Oct. 31 and sentenced to be hanged on March 4 last. Upon an appeal, the supreme court of errors granted a new trial.

James Plew, who actually murdered Wakefield, was convicted in a separate trial and paid the penalty for the crime. Mrs. Wakefield and Plew had been close friends. The state alleged in the first trial of Mrs. Wakefield that the woman's was the master mind in a plot to kill Wakefield.

ASK DR. CARMAN TO WAIVE IMMUNITY

He Will Be Called Before the Grand Jury in Bailey Case.

Mineola, N. Y., July 14.—At the grand jury investigation today into the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, Freeport, on the night of June 30, District Attorney Lewis J. Smith planned to call the members of the dead woman's family to trace her movements from the time she left her home in Hempstead until she arrived at the physician's office.

Tomorrow or Thursday, Mr. Smith announced, he would give Mrs. Carman, who is held in the county jail here charged with the murder of Mrs. Bailey, an opportunity to tell her story. Previous to hearing Mrs. Carman, however, the district attorney, it is said, would call Celia Coleman, the Carman negro maid, who is expected to change her original story.

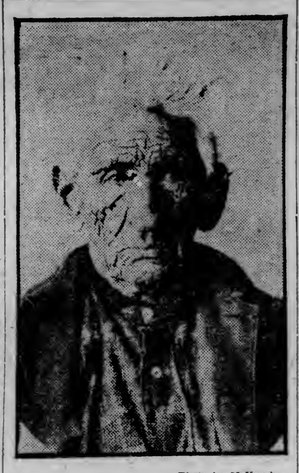

Another striking development in the case today was the announcement that Dr. Carman would also be called before the grand jury, and that he would be asked to waive immunity.

JOHN SMITH.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—When Bishop McGolrick of the Duluth diocese of the Roman Catholic church administered the sacrament of confirmation to about 400 Chippewa Indians at the Chippewa Catholic congress held here he performed the service for probably the oldest human being ever receiving it. John Smith, a Chippewa credited with being 127 years old, received the sacrament. It is said he is remarkably active for one of so great an age. While there are no records to prove his age, his friends all say he is as old as he claims to be.

KAREL MEN IN CREAM CITY

One Faction of Wisconsin Democrats Holds Convention.

Calvin Stewart of Kenosha Is Temporary Chairman.

Madison, Wis., July 14.—John A. Aylward of Madison today announced his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket at the September primaries.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 14.—Wisconsin Democrats, adherents of Judge John C. Karel of Milwaukee and Thomas M. Kearney of Racine, candidates respectively for governor and United States senator, were prepared to enter a conference at 1 o'clock today for the purpose of suggesting the makeup of a state ticket and indorsing a candidate for United States senator.

The holding of the conference is contrary to the wishes of a majority of the membership of the Democratic state central committee, which voted several weeks ago against holding a state convention.

Calvin Stewart of Kenosha was decided upon for the position of temporary

MONKISH ADVISER OF CZAR NOT DEAD

Report That Woman's Attack Was Fatal Is Denied.

St. Petersburg, July 14.—The report that Gregory Rasputin, the mystic lay monk and adviser of the emperor of Russia, had died from the wound inflicted on him recently by a woman in Pokrovsky, his native village in Tobolsk, Siberia, was unfounded. The monk was conveyed by steamer to Tyumen, accompanied by the governor of the province, the bishop of Tobelsk, and two doctors.

Had Spell Over Women.

London, July 14.—Commenting on the attack on Rasputin, the Daily Mail says: "It will be a grim irony of fate if this mysterious monk meets death at the hands of a woman, for it was by his uncanny ascendancy over women of every class, from the highest to the lowest, that he raised himself from obscurity to the position of trusted counsellor of the Russian emperor. The names of an almost endless series of best-known women in St. Petersburg social centers have been linked with that of this mysterious peasant's son. Women of unblemished reputation have fallen under the unexplained but irresistible spell which Rasputin seemed to exercise."

The Daily Chronicle's St. Petersburg correspondent says it is believed the attack on Rasputin was the outcome of a plot by adherents of the monk, Heliodorus, abbot of Tsaritsyn and reactionary leader. Heliodorus was banished from St. Petersburg because he censured Rasputin's mode of living. He also was unfrocked by the holy synod, an action which threatened to split the Russian orthodox church.

NEW HAVEN DATA BEFORE LAWMAKERS

I. C. C. Report Affords Basis for Drafting New Statute.

State Authorities Get Evidence to Aid in Prosecutions.

Morgan Denies Hindrance of Probe—"Politics," Says Mellen.

Washington, July 14.—With its unmeasured denunciation of the "maladministration" of New Haven financial affairs and "criminal negligence" of directors, the interstate commerce commission's sensational report on its investigation of the New England railroad lines was today before the senate committee working to frame legislation for control of railroad financing, interlocking directorates and other subjects concerned in the investigation.

Administration supporters declared that many of the recommendations of the commission agreed perfectly with portions of President Wilson's trust legislation program.

Federal Law Violated?

The next step in New Haven affairs, however, was expected from the department of justice. Apart from alleged violations of laws of states and liability of the New Haven's directors, over which Attorney General McReynolds has said the Federal statutes have no control, the department was concerned chiefly in the commission's findings that all the acts characterized as "corrupt and unlawful," were for the purpose of setting up a monop-

Mr. Holden claims that the unanimous finding of the commissioners shows that the Canadian Pacific railway is not liable for damage to relatives of drowned persons or those injured.

GERMAN AVIATOR RISES 24,606 FEET

Heinrich Oelerich Goes Up Nearly Five Miles From Ground.

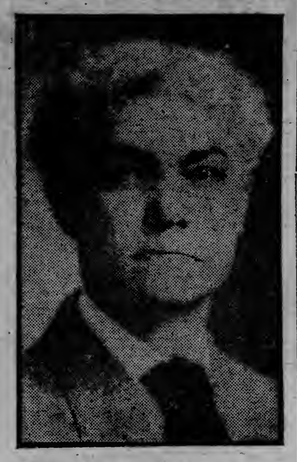

Leipsic, July 14.—A new world's record for altitude for an aeroplane was established here today by Heinrich Oelerich, a German aviator, who rose in his biplane 7,500 meters, or approximately 24,606 feet, nearly four and three-quarters miles.

The official world's record, 6,600 meters, or approximately 21,654 feet, had been established only on July 9 at Johannisthal by Otto Linekogel, another German airman.

CONSTITUTIONALISTS ARE SWEEPING WEST COAST, SAYS HOWARD

Federal Troops Are Joining Rebels at Some Places.

Huerta's Departure Is Expected at Any Moment.

Some Obstacles to Peace in Mexico Still Remain.

On Board U. S. S. California, Mazatlan, Mex., July 13, by wireless to San Diego, Cal., July 14.—The insurgents are sweeping the Pacific coast of Mexico. Evacuations, occupations, armistices and the exchange of prisoners are reported from many points to Rear Admiral Howard, commanding the American Pacific fleet, and the indications are that within a week the Federals will remain in possession of only Mazatlan and Salina Cruz among the important garrisoned seaports.

At Santa Rosalia, a mining port on the outer coast of Lower California, the Federals and Constitutionalists held a conference yesterday at which it was decided to bury the hatchet and make joint cause with Carranza. The same procedure is expected to take place at La Paz, another Lower California port, while at Guaymas, the most important point on the Gulf of California, an armistice has been agreed on to expire at midnight July 20.

Defenders Take to Boats.

In the meantime four large merchant vessels of the Naviera (Mexican) line are loading rapidly, and it is expected all of the regular troops will be out of Guaymas within the next few days. Negotiations for the exchange of prisoners began with the signing of the armistice.

Col. Gomez of the Zapitasta forces, it is reported, has taken charge in the name of the Constitutionalists at Acapulco, once a port of call for the Spanish galleons from the Philippines. Gen. Salido, the Federal commander there, has been hard pressed of late, and the last refugees reported that he had been forced to make daily levies of cash and rations to support his small garrison.

Thank Admiral Howard.

Both Federal and Constitutionalist generals at Guaymas expressed profuse thanks to the American commander there for his assistance in negotiating the armistice. Admiral Howard's pol-

LORDS PASS IRISH BILL

Send Amended Home Rule Measure to the Commons.

Marquis of Crewe Promises Agreement as to Ulster.

London, July 14.—The house of lords today passed the third reading of the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill, and sent it across to the house of commons for consideration.

In its closing stage in the upper house the marquis of Crewe, the Liberal leader, took part in the debate on the bill, and indirectly promised that the attainment of an agreement in regard to the elimination of the time limit by which the counties of Ulster were allowed to vote on the question of their exclusion for a period of six years from the operation of the home rule bill would not prove difficult.

He said, however, that the area of the portion of Ireland to be excluded had been so greatly enlarged by the Unionists that it would be a vexed and critical question.

The Unionists, he agreed, had failed to explain how they proposed to meet the inevitable objections to exclusion of the Roman Catholic counties of Ulster and their friends elsewhere in Ireland.

SHOW BANK RECORDS TO THE GRAND JURY

Federal Law Halts State Probe of Lorimer Bank.

Chicago, July 14.—Government attorneys planned to show to a special Federal grand jury today records of transactions of the La Salle Street bank while it was a national institution, including records revealing what are called "huge" loans to the Lorimer & Gallagher company, the Litchfield Mill & Elevator company and the Southern Traction company.

Investigation of the bank's affairs by the Cook county grand jury was blocked today because Hiram Kadish, a government accountant, declined to reveal to it evidence he has obtained in the Federal investigation. He said the Federal laws forbade his disclosing his evidence in advance of action by the United States grand jury.

In a suit asking the dissolution of the Calumet state bank, James J. Brady, state auditor, charged that the bank had been controlled and owned by the officers of the La Salle Street bank to promote the schemes of William Lorimer and C. B. Munday.

BRITISH JOURNALIST IN JAPANESE PRISON

Is Convicted of Receiving Stolen Documents in Scandal.

Tokio, July 14.—Andrew M. Pooley, an English journalist, was today sentenced to two years imprisonment and a fine of $100 on a charge of receiving stolen documents in connection with the recent Japanese naval scandals involving officers in the receipt of illicit commissions for influencing the allotment of contracts.

Pooley received the documents from Col. Richter, an employe of a German armament firm, who had stolen them and was alleged to have used them for blackmailing purposes.

Two other prisoners also were convicted today in the same case—V. Herrmann, the Tokio representative of the German armament firm, being sentenced to one year in jail, and George Blundell, also connected with English journalism, to ten months imprisonment. The sentences on these two men were, however, suspended for three years.

WILL CONFER OVER GENERAL DAM BILL

Congressmen and Cabinet Officers Will Meet President.

Washington, July 14.—Conservationists in congress looked forward with interest today to the conference which had been arranged to be held at the White House tonight, when efforts are to be made to smooth out differences over pending conservation legislation. President Wilson, members of the cabinet and members of the house planned to consider the pending Adamson general dam bill.

The bill is designed to boom navigation on what are now, in the aggregate, thousands of miles of shallow streams with possibilities of power development attractive to private capital, but practically prohibitive to the government if undertaken to promote navigation only.

To Grant Permits.

The plan is to grant permits, for 50-year periods, for private construction of dams and locks so as to provide heads of water for generation of power and hydro-electricity for power purposes for communities needing light, fuel and power for manufacturing and other purposes.

President Wilson, Secretaries Lane and Garrison, Democratic Leader Underwood, Representatives Ferris of Oklahoma, Democrat, and Lenroot of Wisconsin, Republican, representing the house public lands committee, and Representatives Adamson of Georgia, Democrat, and Stevens of Minnesota, Republican, representing the house interstate commerce committee, will be the conferees.

An effort will be made to change the language of the pending Adamson general dam bill so as to meet contentions that it would convey perpetual water power rights to private capital and repeal the laws under which the big government irrigation works in the West have been built up, and to specifically prescribe the respective jurisdictions of the interior and war departments.

TERM WILL BE VERY BRIEF

Only Seven Cases for Federal Grand Jury to Consider.

Eight Cases Will Be Heard Before Judge Page Morris.

The regular July term of the Federal court, which was convened at 10 o'clock this morning, will probably be one of the shortest in years. There are but seven cases for the grand jury to consider, while eight cases are to come up before the petit jury or Judge Morris.

Most of the cases scheduled for this term were continued this morning, so that three law cases, two demurrers and three equity cases will be heard at this time. Egbert S. Oakley, assistant United States attorney, said that the grand jury will have but seven cases to consider and that the work will be finished by tomorrow afternoon. Judge Morris charged the jury, after having appointed Emil M. Nelson of Litchfield as foreman, and the members now in session. The petit jury, which was called this morning, will have but three or four cases to hear.

The case of the United States government against the Duluth & Northern Minnesota Railway company will not be heard during the present term. Upon motion of Alfred Jaques, United States attorney, and Harris & Pearson for the defendant company, the case was continued. The government claims that the railroad underpaid its labor and that it is therefore liable to a $10,000 fine.

Two Cases Settled.

Two cases have been settled out of court and on motion of the attorneys, Judge Morris this morning ordered their dismissal. They are: Frank Urban against the Whitney Bros. & Co. for alleged damages, and Joseph Pienkosski against the Northern Pacific Railroad company, also for damages. The case of George Ojorsky against the Minnesota & Ontario Power company for damages was dismissed in a judgment entered this morning upon stipulation of the attorneys.

Will Hear Motion.

This afternoon Judge Morris will hear the motion of W. S. Ervin and William Lamson, who have asked for a new trial in the case of G. W. Maskery against Clara M. Crabtree. They entered a motion this morning, but when the attorneys for the defendant objected, the court decided to hear the arguments this afternoon. The case of Joseph B. McGilligan, who was last week granted a new trial against the Canadian Northern road, will be heard during this term. The other law case to be heard is that of Frank Smith against Ell Loiselle. Judge Morris will hear the two following demurrers Saturday; Poor Hand Maids of Jesus Christ vs. Duluth Log company, and Oliver J. Lunn vs. Great Northern Railway company. The three equity cases set for this term are: Hanaman Manufacturing company vs. Town of Princeton, et al; United States vs. Joseph Cass, and Walter Eggleston vs. Mississippi, Hill City & Western Railway company.

Following are the cases ordered continued from the present term of court:

Jury Trials.

United States vs. Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway; in re-petition of Davis Real Estate company; Charles W. Kotcher vs. Vermilion Lumber company; Continental Credit company vs. Butler-Coons Contracting company, et al.

Demurrers, Motions, etc.

Alsop Process company vs. Princeton Roller Mill company; Max Kosleck, a minor, vs. The Shenango Furnace company.

Equity Cases.

Commonwealth Trust company vs. New York State Steel company, et al; Challoner company vs. Diamond Calk Horse Shoe company, et al.

REUNITED BY WANT AD

"Personal" Brings Brother and Sister Together After 26 Years.

Archie Larivee Lost to Relatives for More Than Quarter Century.

A personal want ad published in The Herald has been the means of reuniting Archie Larivee and his relatives after a separation of twenty-six years.

Larivee left his home in Montreal, Can., when a young man about 25 years old and after traveling for a while made his way to the Head of the Lakes, whence he journeyed to the town of Duluth, a short distance from this city. He settled on a claim and has lived on it constantly ever since.

For years his brothers and sisters have been endeavoring to get some trace of him. They received reports of his death. Recently his sister, Mrs. Sophie Charette, of Montreal heard a rumor that he was in Duluth or Superior. Although past 70 years of age, Mrs. Charette determined to make one last effort to find her brother. Having married children residing in Minneapolis she visited them for a short time and then came here. Going first to Superior she wandered about hoping to see him on the streets. Despite his long absence she was confident that she would be able to recognize him. A family with whom she was acquainted refered her to the family of Levy Regali, 315 Isanti street, Woodland. She went to them and repeated her fruitless attempts to discover him on the streets. Mrs. Regali advised her to insert a want ad in The Herald, which she did.

When the paper was delivered in the evening Mrs. E. J. Whalen saw the inquiry for Archie Larivee. She called her husband on the telephone and asked him if it wasn't likely that the man wanted was the Archie Larivee who had a claim near his holdings in the town of Duluth. He was confident that it was and so it proved. Yesterday Larivee and his sister met each other for the first time in twenty-six years.

DRUMS AT DRUMBEG "LIKE MAXIM GUNS"

A Belfast Correspondent Writes of March of Orangemen.

London, July 14.—The Daily Mail's Belfast correspondent thus describes the march of 100,000 men to Drumbeg:

"Rattling and roaring like maxim guns, the drums of Ulster today proclaimed the victory of the Boyne. When in the future I recall the 12th of July, I shall hear the drums at Drumbeg. Hundreds of big drums thundered the Orange rejoicing.

"These drums were not thumped with drumsticks in single heavy notes; they were flogged with loaded canes wielded by men with wrists of steel, and the noise was the noise of maxim guns. With boiler riveters working in chorus for five hours along five Irish miles, the drum delivered their mighty message of Ulster's defiance to the world."

U. S. BATTLESHIPS IN BRITISH PORT

Many Invitations Ashore Are Tendered Officers and Cadets.

London, July 14.—The American battleships Missouri and Illinois arrived from Gibraltar today and anchored in the Thames, off Gravsend, where they will remain about a week. On board is a large party of cadets from the naval academy at Annapolis, who have been making their annual cruise.

Capt. William F. Fullam, superintendent of the naval academy, who commands the practice squadron, found a sheaf of invitations awaiting him, his officers and the cadets. They came from British naval men and from various American societies in London who have arranged generally for entertainment for the American visitors.

The officers of the American battleships will reciprocate by throwing the vessels open to visitors. On July 20 the American officers will participate in the dedication to Pocahontas in St. George's church, Gravsend, of two memorial windows which Ambassador Walter Hines Page will formally present on behalf of the Dames of Virginia.

TRY RIVER PILOT IN SECRET SESSION

Steamboat Inspectors Inquire Into Loss of Majestic.

St. Louis, Mo., July 14.—The trial of S. E. Withrow of Winona, Minn., pilot of the steamer Majestic of the Wisherd line, which sank in the Mississippi river ten minutes after colliding with a submerged part of the St. Louis water works on June 20, was scheduled to begin behind closed doors here today.

The boat sank at midnight, an hour after putting ashore at Alton, Ill., 900 girls who had attended a telephone operators' moonlight excursion. Three members of the crew were drowned in the accident.

Withrow will be tried by local United States steamboat Inspectors R. V. Downs and George Bower, who have preferred charges against him of carelessness, neglect of duty and unskillful handling of the boat. He will be represented at the trial by an attorney. If Withrow is found guilty his license will be either temporarily or permanently revoked or he may be fined.

NO EVIDENCE TO PROSECUTE LIPTON

Attorney General Replies to Question in Parliament.

London, July 14.—The attorney general declared today there was no evidence before him to justify the criminal prosecution of Sir Thomas Lipton in connection with the recent army canteen scandals for which several army officers and employes of Lipton, Ltd., were convicted on charges of accepting or giving bribes to influence contracts.

Replying to a question by Sir Arthur Markham in the house of commons, the attorney general said proceedings had already been taken in regard to those against whom evidence existed. No such evidence, however, existed against Sir Thomas Lipton.

At the annual meeting of Lipton, Ltd., today, Sir Thomas was attacked by a number of shareholders. Sir Thomas in a speech said nobody could attempt to justify the acts of the men who had been implicated in the canteen scandals and nobody deplored them more than he did.

BACK BILLS FOR WATER

City Believed to Have Lost Big Sum on Flat Rates.

Survey Being Made to Check Up All New Fixtures.

The water and light department is making a survey of all residences and buildings in the city, where flat rates are in effect to see that none of them have fixtures for which they are making no payment.

The check thus far has shown that additional fixtures have been installed in many places without notice to the water and light department. Some of them have been in for years. Under the flat rate charges are made according to the number of fixtures and under the regulations the department should be notified whenever any changes have been made.

Wherever it is found that fixtures have been in use without payment, the water and light department is sending back bills to the owners or agents of the property. In the aggregate it is probable that several thousand dollars will be found to be due the city on these back charges. Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the utility division, has been advised by City Attorney Harvey Clapp that the bills are legal charges and can be collected. It has already become apparent that considerable objection will be made to paying the back charges, but the officials of the department state that they intend to enforce the payment. The department has authority to shut off services of those who are indebted to it.

It is likely that this action will result in many persons now paying on a flat rate installing meters. The department officials state that this will in most cases save money for the user as well as be more satisfactory to the department. The users will not waste water and the charges will be for actual consumption only.

M. Wesenberg appeared before the city council yesterday afternoon relative to a back charge of $12, covering a period of two years. Commissioner Merritt said that he could not recommend that Mr. Wesenberg be allowed to pay in proportion to the amount which a meter would show for two or three months, as the same would have to be done for all the others. He stated that the flat rates were fixed and that in justice to all no exceptions could be made.

IRONWOOD YOUTH KILLS BROTHER

Knocks Him Down During Row and Then Makes Escape.

NAME NEW HAVEN IN TILT IN THE SENATE

Gallinger and Thomas Clash in "Prosperity" Debate.

Washington, July 14.—New Haven affairs were brought up in the senate today during a "prosperity" debate between Senator Gallinger, Republican, and Senator Thomas, Democrat.

The Republican senator read a clipping telling of the discharge of shop hands in Wilmington, Del., and the Democratic senator retorted that his colleagues might be more solicitous of those who had suffered in New Haven operations as disclosed in the interstate commerce commission's report.

Senator Thomas quoted from the late J. P. Morgan's will, the words in which the dead financier committed "my soul to the hands of my Maker."

"That will is a fitting companion piece to the commission's report," concluded Mr. Thomas.

RAILROADS SCRAP BEFORE COMMISSION

Acceptance of Interstate Shipments Is Issue Raised.

Peoria, Ill., July 14.—Examiner E. N. Brown of the interstate commerce commission heard testimony here today of the Chicago, Ottawa & Peoria railroad against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Minneapolis & St. Louis, Wabash, Grand Trunk, Erie, Pere Marquette and Baltimore & Ohio, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroads. The contention of the plaintiff is that the roads made defendants will not accept interstate commerce shipments at an equal rate, which makes necessary a rebilling at junction points. Many prominent freight men are attending the hearing.

DIES OF OLD AGE.

George Brooks, Pioneer of Gogebic County, Passes at Bessemer.

Bessemer, Mich., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Brooks, 78 years of age, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Rowett, with whom he has made his home for many years. He was born in London, Eng., July 26, 1838.

When a young man he came to Canada, where he was married to Miss Henrietta Higgins. He came with his family to Gogebic county twenty-five years ago, residing in Ironwood for the first fifteen years. Ten years ago he came to this city, where he spent his last days. Death was due to old age. He is survived by two children, a daughter, Mrs. John Rowett, and one son, William, who were with him when the end came.

Mr. Brooks was one of the charter members of the Ironwood temple of Honor and Temperance and which organization attended the funeral services in a body. The last services were held at the home of John Rowett and were conducted by Rev. W. S. Smith, pastor of the First M. E. church. Interment was made in the Bessemer cemetery.

NOBODY BLAMED FOR GOLD MINE AFFAIR

Senators and J. S. Williams Exonerated By Committee.

Washington, July 14.—Exoneration of all senators concerned in the charge of misuse of official letter paper for promotion of a North Carolina gold mine, is contained in the findings of an investigating committee which completed its report today.

John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, who figured in the investigation as having sent a government expert to examine the mine, also was exonerated of any reprehensible conduct. The report holds that senators who bought stock in the mine did so as individuals, and made no use of their official positions in promoting it.

Benjamin, who is assistant attorney general of California, succeeds Grand Exalted Ruler Edward Leach of New York.

Sentiment favoring the selection of Seattle as the reunion city in 1915 apparently has become general.

MAJORITY OF 5 TO 10 FOR JONES LIKELY

Warburg's Case Will Be Taken Up Later, It Is Said.

Washington, July 14.—Administration senators, after a canvass today, reported to the White House that President Wilson's nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago to the Federal reserve board would be confirmed by a majority ranging from 5 to 10.

There were no developments in the nomination of Paul M. Warburg of New York. Indications were that the White House would not begin the fight for his confirmation until after Mr. Jones had been placed.

One hundred and twenty cases of peaches are being handed out today by the Atlanta delegates as part of their campaign to land the 1915 convention. The Southerners are working hard and are confident of victory.

"This isn't fair to bribe the fellows," said an Omaha delegate when he was handed a peach. "Just lay your claims like Omaha is doing."

"What claim do you make?" asked the Georgian.

"We're the geographical center of America," replied he of Nebraska.

"Good work. That ought to make your city a favorite with the members of the National Geographical society. Why not try for that?"

However, the boys from Omaha are fighting steadily for the honor and are just as confident of winning out.

"Safety First" is the cry of E. F. Rosenberg of Minneapolis, representing varnishes and to prove it, he gives every delegate a brand new safety razor. His desk in the Spalding lobby is one of the most popular at the convention.

"Looks like a county fair," said John P. Slaon of New Haven, when he saw all the machines and samples on exhibition in the lobby this morning. About thirty representatives of manufacturing concerns throughout the country are showing their wares to the delegates.

"Why is Whitney Wall like a woman's wrapper?" asked E. H. Doyle of Detroit, the funny man of the convention.

"Got me," answered Charles E. Doty of Cleveland.

"Because he is all over at the same time."

Inspect Street Improvement.

Commissioners Roderick Murchison, W. A. Hicken and F. J. Voss looked over the Vernon street improvement this morning. The street is being paved with brick from the west line of Bryant's addition to Grand Forks avenue. PROPRIETOR TOO GOOD CUSTOMER

Because it is alleged that the proprietor was addicted to intoxicants, Gust Johnson's saloon at 413 West Michigan street has been closed temporarily at the direction of Safety Commissioner William A. Hicken.

The safety commissioner says that Johnson has been drunk around the saloon and that the place has been without a responsible head. He declares that men holding licenses who cannot keep themselves in hand are not wanted in the saloon business in this city. He states that several efforts have been made to straighten Johnson up, but without avail.

The commissioner explained that it is not proposed to keep the saloon closed. He said that if Johnson realizes his position and will take hold of himself he will be allowed to continue, or if he can get a competent manager the place will be allowed to reopen.

This is the first time in the history of Duluth that a saloon has been closed, temporarily or otherwise, because the proprietor was too good a customer at his own bar.

MASTER DIES IN MID-LAKE

Capt. McKay of Steamer South American Expires After Short Sickness.

Big Passenger Vessel Arrives With Flags at Half Mast.

Her master lying dead in his stateroom, the palatial lake steamer South American came into the harbor this morning with all her flags at half mast.

Capt. William A. McKay, who took command of the South American at the opening of navigation this season, died on board the vessel at 4 o'clock this morning. Death came suddenly and an examination by the ship's surgeon disclosed the fact that heart disease was the cause of his demise.

Yesterday afternoon Capt. McKay complained of a slight pain above his heart and he was immediately ordered to bed by Dr. Lyndn Harris, ship's surgeon. The latter was assisted by Dr. J. B. Miller of Chicago, one of the passengers. Capt. McKay sank rapidly and at 4 o'clock this morning he passed away. The boat was then between Fort William and Duluth.

Wireless dispatches were sent out by the boat to the widow at Hamburg, N. Y., and to local marine men. Capt. McKay is also survived by a daughter.

Capt. McKay had sailed on the lakes for about twenty-two years and was one of the best known mariners on fresh water. He was first officer on the North American last year and when the South American was placed in commission this spring, he was given command. Two years ago he was first officer on the steamer North West.

Immediately after the boat had docked this morning the body of Capt. McKay was taken to the Stewart undertaking rooms, where it will be prepared for burial. The body will be sent to Buffalo tomorrow and thence to Hamburg, where it will be interred.

It is understood that Capt. McKay was very much worried over a series of accidents which took place to his boat on the way up. He hit a dock at a lower port, struck a tug at the Soo and ran into another dock at the Canadian head of the lakes, all because of fog. He stayed on duty to an extent, as a result of these accidents, which overtaxed his vitality.

The ship left on her return trip before noon today in charge of the first mate.

NAVIGATION GUIDE CHANGES ANNOUNCED

Hydrographic Office Issues Warning to Mariners on Great Lakes.

The hydrographic office, in its latest notice to mariners, issued within a few days, announces certain changes in the Great Lakes and their connecting waters, which affect lake navigation materially. Probably the most important are the changes and characteristics in St. Mary's river and in the Detroit river, two of the most important connecting waters which vessel men have to negotiate. Concerning St. Mary's river the following is announced:

The Canadian government has given notice that the lights shown from the gas buoys marking Vidal shoals, Canadian channel have been changed as follows:

The gas buoy marking the northern side of the eastern end of the channel, from intermittent white to intermittent red; the gas buoy marking the southern side of the eastern end of the channel, from fixed to intermittent white; the gas buoy marking the northern side of the western end of the channel, from intermittent white to intermittent red; the gas buoy marking the southern side of the western end of the channel, from fixed white to intermittent white.

The characteristic of the light exhibited from upper turning gas buoy, Canadian canal, moored on the southern edge of the dredged curve, 1,350 feet westward of the western end of the south entrance pier, has been changed from fixed white to intermittent white.

The characteristic of the light exhibited from the gas buoy moored 950 feet, 142 deg. from the outer end of the south pier at the lower entrance to Canadian canal has been changed from fixed white to intermittent white.

Concerning Livingstone channel in the Detroit river the following changes are announced:

Channel buoy 8 moved 145 yards, 186 deg.; channel buoy 13 moved 145 yards, 186 deg.; channel gas buoy 8A, spar-shaped, showing thirteen feet above the water, an intermittent red light of 35-candle power every ten seconds established in twenty-three feet of water at a point on the eastern side of the channel midway between Livingstone channel lights Nos. 2 and 4; channel gas buoy 13A, spar-shaped, showing thirteen feet above the water, an intermittent white light of 120-candle power every ten seconds established in twenty-three feet of water at a point on the western side of channel midway between Livingstone channel lights Nos. 1 and 3 (temporary gas buoys); channel buoy 10 moved 145 yards, 6 deg.; channel buoy 15 moved 145 yards, 6 deg; channel buoy 12 moved 145 yards, 186 deg.; channel buoy 17 moved 145 yards, 186 deg.; channel gas buoy 12A, spar-shaped, showing thirteen feet above the water, an intermittent red light of about 35-candle power every ten seconds established in twenty-three feet of water at a point on the eastern side of the channel midway between Livingstone channel light No. 4 and Livingstone channel gas buoy 16; channel gas buoy 17A, spar-shaped, showing thirteen feet above the water, an intermittent white light of about 120-candle power every ten seconds established in twenty-three feet of water at a point on the western side of the channel midway between Livingstone channel light No. 3 (temporary gas buoy) and Livingstone channel gas buoy 21; channel buoy 14 will be moved 145 yards, 6 deg.; channel buoy 19 will be moved 145 yards, 6 deg.

Changes in Lakes Superior, Huron and Erie are given as follows:

Lake Superior — The Canadian government has given notice that the color of the light exhibited from Outer Pancake shoal gas and bell buoy, Lake Superior, has been changed from white to red.

Lake Huron — About July 20 the luminous power of Forty-mile Point light, western shore of Lake Huron, will be increased to 55,000 candles by changing the illuminant from oil to incandescent oil vapor; at the same time the duration of the flash will be decreased to 1.3 second, with a corresponding increase in the duration of the eclipse.

Strait of Mackinac—The work of placing rubble-stone superstructures on the breakwater foundations, built in 1911 and 1912, at Biddle and Mission points, Mackinac harbor, Mackinac Island, is in progress. The contractor is required to maintain suitable buoys and lights to mark the work and the plant engaged thereon.

Buffalo harbor—On May 16 to June 9, 1914, the following buoys, each a third-class spar, were established in twenty-three feet of water in Black Rock channel, Buffalo harbor:

Entrance buoy 1, in lieu of Black Rock harbor entrance buoy 1; entrance buoy 2, in lieu of Black Rock harbor entrance buoy 2; channel buoy 5, in lieu of Black Rock harbor entrance buoy 5; channel buoy 10, on the eastern channel bank at the beginning of the bend, 400 yards northwestward from buoy light 8; channel buoy 12, on the eastern bank abreast of buoy light 11; channel buoy 16, on the eastern bank at the angle in the channel abreast of buoy light 23.

TURRET CHIEF ON WAY TO DRYDOCK

Canadian Freighter Driven Ashore in November Storm Is Released.

Calumet, Mich., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Canadian freighter Turret Chief was released today from the rocks six miles northeast of Copper Harbor by the wrecker Favorite and left this afternoon for Port Arthur where she will be dry-docked. Temporary repairs were made while the steamer was being salvaged, a bulkhead being built inside the hull.

After many weeks of effort, Capt. Alexander Cunning and his crew of wreckers have succeeded in their difficult task. Many believed the vessel could not be saved as she was high and dry. The Turret Chief was driven on the rocks in the great storm of last November. Except for damage to the hull, the vessel is said to be in good condition.

WENTWORTH TALKS ON FIRE WASTE

Manufacturers Will Speak to Building Men at Night Session.

The big feature of the afternoon session of the building owners and managers' convention was an address by Franklin N. Wentworth, secretary of the National Fire Protection association, who spoke on "The Significance of Fire Waste." A. L. Hawley also spoke on "Rental Area Basis."

Another matter of interest was the report of the electrolysis committee by the chairman, Ralph Hawley. A general discussion and question box followed.

Tonight the program will be given over to representatives of manufacturers of standard materials and supplies. The talks will be illustrated. Many manufacturers were busy today arranging exhibits of their goods in the lobby and various rooms of the hotel.

MARVELS OF NATURE

The white blood corpuscles are the warriors, the red the chemical re-agents of the body. The arterial blood, by sub-division of the arteries into the finest capillaries, is carried to all parts of the system. It is supposed to have been oxygenated, that is refreshened in the lungs. It is the province of the white corpuscles to fight and overcome disease germs and other bacterial menace or die in the attempt. The red corpuscles are the aerators of the body. They carry the oxygen which burns up the poisons and effects the chemical changes that preserve life. If the lungs cannot furnish sufficient oxygen the blood corpuscles cannot perform their functions. The lungs must have fresh air to do their part.

FROM DULUTH TO THE SEA

New Welland Canal Will Be Another Step Toward That Object.

Canadian Government Will Spend $50,000,000 on New "Ditch."

With an army of men engaged and a myriad of machinery being brought into requisition, progress is being made in digging the new Welland canal. The first shovel was started to work on Oct. 3 last, and the specifications provide for the completion of all contracts in time for the opening of the canal in 1918.

Fifty million dollars, roughly speaking, is the estimate of the chief Canadian government engineer, John Laing Weller, on the cost of the undertaking. Then to carry through the project of deep water navigation from the Head of the Lakes to the sea will come the expenditure of scores of millions in deepening the system of St. Lawrence canals. Duluth is deeply interested in the outcome of this ultimate undertaking, for it will mean the saving of millions of dollars in the transport of grain from the Northwest to the markets of the world.

Referring to the proposed new Welland canal, and making comparisons between the other great canal enterprises of the world at Sault Ste. Marie, Panama and Suez, the Toronto Globe says:

"With the new canal that is to be, the largest freighter now plying on the lakes, and the largest freighter for many years to come, will be able to pass through the canal without difficulty.

Thirty Feet Deep.

"Let us now get down to dimensions. The lake-to-lake length of the canal is 25 miles. The bottom width of the canal will be 200 feet, the width at water-line 310 feet. The depth of the canal will be 25 feet, while at 'low water" there will be 30 feet of water over the sills. This will enable the canal to be deepened at any time to a depth of 30 feet without disturbing the locks.

"From these figures alone, it will be seen that the new Welland ship canal will be no mere 'ditch,' but in all respects an important connecting link in the great system of inland waterways that penetrates the heart of this continent and continues with more or less interruption to the foothills of the Rocky mountains.

Compared With the Panama.

"Now, look at the locks, and this is where interesting comparisons can be made with the Panama canal, as well as the locks on either side of the river at Sault Ste. Marie. The usable length of the locks on the Welland canal will be 800 feet, with a width of eighty feet. Each of the seven locks in the canal will have a lift of 46.5 feet, which will make the total lift of the canal 325.5 feet. At Sault Ste. Marie the Canadian lock is 800 feet long and sixty feet wide, with a depth of water over the sills of about twenty-one feet. On the American side the Poe lock is 900 feet long and 100 feet wide, but a new lock is being built both longer and wider. On the Panama canal the total lift is between eighty and ninety feet, and while the locks do not compare in size, in view of the different type of vessel using them, to those of the Welland, there are points of interest in considering engineering details.

Locks 85 Feet High.

"On the Panama and on the Soo canals the lock gates mitre. On the new Welland canal the gates will be of the "single leaf" type, one gate only being used at each end of the lock. The lower gates on the locks will be eighty-five feet in height, ninety feet in length and ten feet thick. These gates will be built of structural steel, and the ten feet thickness will provide an ample driveway for an automobile or vehicle and give foot passengers plenty of room at the same time. Each of these gates will weight 1,100 tons. The gates on the Panama canal weigh 750 tons. They will not sit squarely across the lock, but slant into the opposite wall, an addition of three feet in length of the gate more than the width of the lock bringing the point of contact twenty-three feet down the lock wall. The submerged portion of the gate will serve as a floating chamber and will relieve the pivot upon which the gate is swung of much of its weight, although the pin is designed to carry the weight of the gate plus its weight filled with water.

Immovable Gates.

"Mr. Weller, the engineer, discusses dispassionately the chances of accident to these gates. 'In making studies to find a substitute for the mitering gate,' says he, 'my aim was to design a gate which in single leaf would stretch directly across the lock chamber and which, resting in a recess in either wall, would form an absolute barrier and to be accidentally removed must be entirely wrecked.'

But in addition to this strength the design also calls for a chain guard above the gates, which is held in place by a hydraulic ram, and woe betide the erring master who runs his vessel foul of this barrier.

Big Operations Now.

"Roughly speaking over 2,000 men are employed on the works at the present time, but this man-power is a small factor to the 'man-made' power that is being applied.

"From Lake Ontario to Thorold the route of the canal traverses entirely new ground, Port Weller being three miles east of Port Dalhousie.

"Near Thorold the surveyed line of the new canal joins the present canal, and from this point to Lake Erie the work is largely that of excavation, although before reaching Thorold the new waterway will cross the old canal twice. It is here that the most spectacular work is being done at the present time. The line of the Grand Trunk railway lies right on the land that the engineers want for the new canal, and to shift the railway farther off is a task in itself costing a hundred thousand dollars. While large freighters are towering over them near by, steam shovels are gnawing away at the shale to make a grade for the new location. Hydraulic drills are boring their way into the heart of the rock to permit blasting to be carried on.

"Beyond Thorold more steam shovels are at work, and ere another year is out the foundations for the locks will be under way."

CROKER IS COMING TO WAR ON MURPHY

New York, July 14.—Richard Croker will return to New York from Ireland next September and seek to oust Charles F. Murphy from the leadership of Tammany Hall, according to Harry W. Walker, confidante of Croker, who has reached here from a visit to Croker in Ireland.

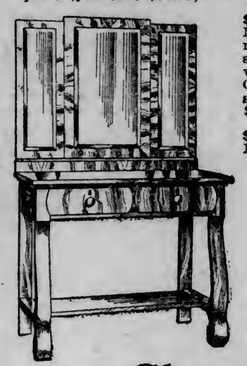

"Big things are going to happen when Croker comes here in September," Mr. Walker said. "He has in his possession confessions that he is going to make public. These will have an important bearing on his fight against Charles F. Murphy, which he will vigorously renew."

FEAR AUTONOMY OF CENTRAL AMERICA

Costa Rica and Salvador Extend Protests on Treaty.

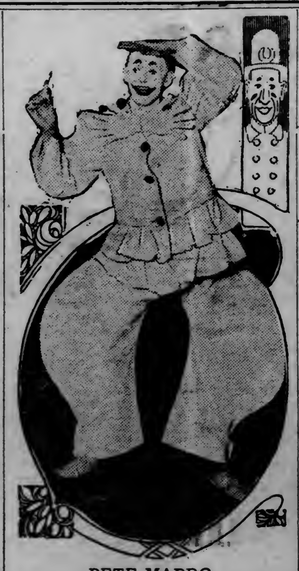

Washington, July 14.—Costa Rica Salvador have extended their protests against the pending Nicaraguan treaty so as to include objection to tentative amendments to the pact that virtually operates as an American protectorate over Nicaragua. The supplementary protests, it was said, have been transmitted to the state department to be presented at hearings of the senate foreign relations committee, now considering the proposed treaty.

New objection to the treaty is based on the contention that the proposed protectorate over Nicaragua would impair the autonomy of other Central American governments. Salvador's original protest against the treaty declared her rights in the Bay of Fonseca would be invaded if the United States were given authority to establish a naval base there, as proposed by the pact. Costa Rica objected that its interests in the route of the proposed Nicaraguan canal had not been considered.

SAWDUST SENATE IN SESSION DAILY

Ringling Bros. Circus Clowns Devise Novel Method of Gathering Stunts.

Once each month the clowns of Ringling Bros.' circus, which is coming here Thursday, July 23, hold a meeting and elect a "joke editor." It becomes the duty of this official to buy all the newspapers procurable and to read them religiously. Whenever he comes upon a topic which might serve for an up-to-date parody or humorous caricature, he puts it aside. Every afternoon at 1 o'clock there is a meeting of what is known as the "sawdust senate." This is composed of a committee of twenty clowns selected from the entire army of jesters. The "editor" makes his report to this body, and they discuss it and select those ideas which may be turned to account on the hippodrome track.

PETE MARDO,
A Famous European Clown Coming With Ringling Bros.' Shows.

This is the secret of the down-to-the-minute performances of the Ringling Bros.' skylarkers. There is not a fad of dress, dance or unusual innovation which they do not portray in some ludicrous manner. They pantomime public and political events, but with so much good humor that the bitterest of factionists pound each other on the back and roar with laughter. The clowns do not fear to enter the land of invention, but introduce gaudily painted airships which skim around in the tent top and explode while in midair. They flit around in the hippodrome track in queer-looking racing cars and high-speed motor boats. They throw terrible-looking but quite innocent bombs, and shoot each other from big wooden cannons. They mimic everybody and everything. Sandwiched between the gorgeousness of the new spectacle of "Solomon and the Queen of Sheba" with its cast of 1,250 characters, and the daring of the arenic displays, these merry Andrews temper the entire circus program with the rarest of comedy.

MORE BUSINESS MEN GO TO WHITE HOUSE

S. R. Bertron of New York Will Call There Wednesday.

Washington, July 14.—Convinced that his talks with J. P. Morgan, Henry Ford and other leading business men have done much to show the country that the Democratic administration is the friend and not the enemy of honest business, President Wilson has planned further conferences. He invited S. R. Bertron, head of a New York banking house, to call at the White House on Wednesday next. The president wants to discuss business conditions and his anti-trust program with Mr. Bertron, and it was understood that the nomination of Paul R. Warburg as a member of the Federal reserve board might be taken up at the conference. It was said at the White House, however, that the president had not considered appointing Mr. Bertron to the board in case Mr. Warburg finally declined or failed of confirmation.

Mr. Wilson also will see a delegation of Kansas City business men Wednesday, and other leaders in the business world are expected to call within the next few weeks. Letters received from men who have already talked with the president have greatly encouraged him.

TAX LEVY NOT CONSIDERED

County Board Will Fix It at Meeting on Aug. 6.

Plan to Dissolve School District Precipitates Hot Debate.

Little business was transacted yesterday afternoon at the semi-annual meeting of the county board which, after a short session, adjourned until Aug. 6, when it is believed the annual tax levy will be made.

In addition to authorizing several small appropriations for work on the county roads, the board considered petitions for the dissolution of school districts.

When the matter of dissolving district, No. 14, comprising all of township 52-17, with the exception of section 18, came on for a hearing, it precipitated a heated debate between property owners of the district who appeared before the board to present arguments pro an con.

The board listened to both sides then unanimously granted the petition for dissolution, which now places the school district in the unorganized district and under direct charge of the county superintendent of schools. The petition had been recommended by County Supt. Young.

Those who appeared in opposition to it declared that the dissolution would thwart plans which were now under way to eventually consolidate with district No. 23. The county superintendent who was present, in answer to this, stated that it would be possible to effect the consolidation at any time and that if this was desired later, the dissolution would not stand in the way.

Owing to the absence of Commissioners McMahan and O'Neill the petitions for the dissolution of school districts No. 42 and 69 were not passed upon yesterday afternoon.

WILSON HOLDS TO TRUST LAW PLANS

Is Not Disturbed By Result of Referendum Vote.

Washington, July 14.—President Wilson is not disturbed by the adverse results of the referendum conducted last week by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States on his anti-trust program. He believes the questions sent out by the chamber referred more specifically to the Clayton anti-trust bill as it passed the house, and that therefore the replies do not bear directly on the situation at present, since the Clayton bill has been materially changed after reaching the senate.

The president told callers that he still felt that the business men of the country were with him on getting anti-trust legislation at this time, although he had not compared in detail the results of the chamber's referendum with the voluminous correspondence he has had with business men in different parts of the country.

WITNESS DISAPPEARS.

North Dakotan Finds Cross-Examination Too Strenuous and Departs.

Alexander, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the cross-examination become too personal, Richard Dickinson, a witness for the state in the Foreman case, disappeared during the noon hour. He was still on the stand when the court adjourned for lunch and the questions of the attorney for the defense had become so personal Dickinson apparently feared disclosures concerning himself would be forced after further questioning. A bench warrant was issued for him but the man has not been located and the defendant was acquitted.

BOY 8 YEARS OLD IS KILLED BY SET GUN.

Johnstown, Pa., July 14.—The authorities here were notified of the death Sunday at Barnesboro, Pa., of Thomas Cuchran, aged 8, as the result of a burglar trap. According to the story told to the coroner, A. W. Lawson, a merchant who had been robbed recently, so placed a loaded gun that when a door leading from the cellar to the store was opened, the gun would be discharged. The boy's body was found just outside the door with a charge of shot in his lungs.

CUBA IS PROBING AMERICAN'S DEATH.

Havana, July 14.—The Cuban secretary of justice has ordered Attorney General Hector de Saavedra to go to the Isle of Pines to investigate the circumstances of the death of Duncan Campbell, an American who was fatally stabbed on July 11 by Victor Perez after a quarrel. He will be conveyed to the island on board a revenue cutter.

U. S. MAY TAKE HAND IN ISLAND REVOLTS.

Washington, July 14.—Seven hundred marines have been ordered assembled at Guantanamo, Cuba, to be held in readiness for service in revolution-torn Haiti and Santo Domingo. The navy department acted at the request of Secretary Bryan, who asked that the fleet be prepared to deal with any emergency that might arise in the turbulent litle island. The marines will be gathered from those now in Mexican waters and from the marine barracks in Philadelphia and Norfolk.

At Guantanamo the force will be only a day's sail from the north coast of Haiti and San Domingo and their proximity is expected to impress upon the revolutionists the determination of the American government to terminate their activities by forcible means unless they listen to the warnings already given. The situation in San Domingo has come to be regarded as almost hopeless of a cure from within, while in Haiti conditions are little better.

BURGLAR CUT TELEPHONE WIRE

Prowler Uses Modern Methods—Gets $4.80 and a Watch.

After cutting the telephone cord so as to shut off all communication with the police, a bold burglar entered the bedroom of J. H. Neill, 418 Eighth avenue west, early this morning and then made his escape with Mr. Neill's trousers, a silver watch, $4.80 in cash, his underwear and one sock.

The burglar used a pocket flashlight and the glare awoke Mrs. Neill, but the burglar escaped before she was able to cut off his escape. She then attempted to notify police headquarters and discovered that the telephone cord had been cut.

By breaking the catch on the screen door, the burglar gained entrance into the house and after cutting the wires, he went into the bedroom, where he effected his robbery. Mr. Neill was awakened by his wife after she had failed to cut off the escape of the burglar, and he notified the police later this morning.

OIL INSPECTION IS ATTACKED IN COURTS

Concern Doing Business in North Dakota Starts Action.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Taxation totaling $100,000, obtained by the state through the oil inspection measure, is attacked in the courts by the Bartles Northern Oil company of Grand Forks, which charges that the inspection fees are illegal, in that they make an impost on interstate commerce.

The suit is brought in the form of a writ of injunction against T. W. Jackman, state oil inspector, and the order granted by Judge C. M. Cooley of the district court enjoins Jackman from holding up certain oil shipments to the Bartles Northern company, because of the latter's refusal to pay the fees demanded.

Judge Cooley will hear arguments on the writ on July 25.

STEEL PLANT SUBURBS

THINKS HE HAS THE LARGEST EGG

Yesterday afternoon Harry A. Hutter, poultry fancier and the steel plant's chief timekeeper, reported having been presented by one of his hens with an egg which he believes has all previous records for size beaten.

The egg was laid by a white Orpington hen. It weighed 1,560 grains, troy, and when compared with an ordinary egg was a little more than one-half heavier. Its circumference around the oblong way was seven and three-eighths inches, while the other way the circumference was six and one-half inches. The weight in avoirdupois was three and three-fifths ounces, as compared with that of an ordinary egg of two and one-sixth ounces.

Mr. Hutter lives near the main entrance to the plant, occupying one of the company's houses that was built four years ago. He spends most of his spare time in bettering his flock of chickens and has now one of the finest flocks in the city. This morning he was displaying the prize to many of the officials at the plant.

"NO THOROUGHFARE" NOTICE IS POSTED

Road to Steel Plant Suburbs May Be Closed Entirely.

"Private Property, No Thoroughfare" is the sign that greets the traffic between Duluth and the suburbs when going across the property of the Minnesota Steel plant. The signs are posted in three different places along the road vacated four years ago by the old city council of Duluth.

As yet the company has not enforced the above order, but citizens of New Duluth are beginning to fear that it is the intention to do so within a short time. The signs have been posted only a few days.

Although this road was vacated four years ago the traffic between the city and suburbs is still being carried over the road. This is because of the fact that the other highway skirting around the property has never been placed in condition. The only work done is the grading of the road, but no surfacing has been put on it and the street is no better than a mud hole. This road was to have been put in good condition by the property owners, according to an agreement with the city when the old country road was abandoned.

The placing of the signs on the stretch through the company's property is taken as an indication that within a short time it proposed to close up the highway entirely to traffic. It is rumored that a fence will be put around it, similar to that now used around other parts of the company's property.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

WHAT A DULUTH MAN HAS TO SAY ABOUT QUAKER EXTRACT

A Duluth Man, Sick for Many Years, Related a Most Remarkable Incident at Orpheum Pharmacy. He Said: "I Owe My Life to Quaker Herb Extract."

Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior street, certainly is showing most remarkable signs of activity and enthusiasm these days. Hardly has the great interest created by the many cures of rheumatism, catarrh and stomach troubles subsided, when along comes cures, more extraordinary than ever, to convince the most skeptical person of the marvelous curative powers of Quaker Herb Extract, that wonderful remedy which Gaskin, the Quaker Health Teacher, has introduced in Duluth. A Duluth business man, who does not wish his name to appear in public print, related how he suffered, how long he doctored without getting any better and how he was finally restored to perfect health by Quaker Herb Extract. Evidences to substantiate his cure will be cheerfully given to all who may call.

The gentleman in question said:

"It was about five years ago when I began to complain about stomach trouble. I at first thought these troubles would not amount to much and they would gradually pass off by themselves. But in this I was mistaken, as I soon found I was growing worse instead of better. Then I began to take one medicine after another, which had been recommended to me, but all to no avail. I then realized that my condition was becoming serious and I placed myself in the hands of specialists I told them how distressed I felt after eating, how at times I had awful cramping spells in my stomach, how gas would form and cause much misery, how I was growing absent-minded and forgetful. For over two years they treated me for intestinal indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines did not touch the case. They admitted that the case puzzled them. One time they put me on a severe diet and I nearly died. I longed and prayed for health, but it surely seemed death would claim me. I called on Gaskin, Quaker Health Teacher, at Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior street, this city. I will admit it was more out of curiosity than anything else and I had no idea of trying the remedy. Still his talk was so full of common sense and his terms so decidedly fair and reasonable that when I left the store I had a treatment of Quaker Herb Extract in my pocket. I began to take it on a Thursday morning. That and the following day I realized no particular results, but on Saturday morning a most extraordinary thing happened. About 8 o'clock I began to feel faint and dizzy and slightly sick at the stomach and I can assure you I felt alarmed and frightened at these conditions. A few minutes later my bowels expressed urgent desire for movement. I accommodated the desire and in a flash the monster which I now have in this jar passed from me. My wife and daughter told me they never saw me look so happy. And I was indeed happy and Quaker Herb Extract is the remedy to which I owe my life. I will leave the tapeworm here, as the strongest evidence of the complete truth of what I have stated."—Advertisement.

SAY CORNER IS TURNED

Manufacturers Look for Increasing Activity in Steel Trade.

Manufacturers are now of the opinion that the corner has been definitely turned in the steel trade, and a more optimistic sentiment prevails.

Steel plants of the country are estimated to be operating on a basis of fully sixty-five per cent of capacity this week. This is slightly higher than the average during June, and what is better, manufacturers now see good reasons to look for a gradual expansion in the volume of bookings in all lines. It is regarded as significant that the steel companies are maintaining their plants at their recent higher rates of operation this month instead of closing many of them down for periods of from one to three weeks as is usual at midsummer. What is taken as another encouraging feature in the trade is the good buying of steel bars by implement makers. It is believed that the larger concerns in that line have placed contracts to cover their requirements for the next six months feeling that prices are now at the low points. A few instances are reported where makers bought for delivery during the first part of next year, but advances of $1 per ton in quotations were demanded by the mills on that business.

Prices Stronger.

The Iron Age says: "Not only is the demand for finished steel products better, but indications are seen of strengthening in price. Few manufacturers are willing to book long contracts at present figures, and intimations are being made of some advance. Probably wire products may be the first to be advanced as the demand has increased decidedly within the last few days."

June pig iron sales are reported to have been the largest in several months, though production showed a decrease of 192,452 tons as compared with May. Increased activity in basic pig iron is advised in the Pittsburg district during the last few days, some large sales having been effected. The car market has also shown more stir and some heavy orders are said to be pending.

Among the big business in sight, it is mentioned that the Southern Pacific has issued inquiries for 4,600 cars, and that the Union Pacific is expected to shortly enter the market for 9,000 cars and the Illinois Central for 4,000 cars of a miscellaneous character.

It is intimated that the Carnegie Steel company is planning to operate its coking plant at Farrell, Pa., at full capacity within the next thirty days. By the first week in August it expects to be operating 175 of its furnaces out of a total of 212. That will mean the employment of a considerable larger force of men.

KERR TOURING MESABA RANGE

Vice President of Steel Corporation Accompanied By Local Officials.

D. G. Kerr, vice president of the United States Steel corporation, and McGilvray Sharis, ore expert for the same corporation, together with W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern; W. J. Olcott, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company; John Uno Sehenius, mining engineer; F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, and several other officials of the Oliver Iron Mining company left Duluth yesterday for the Mesaba range, where an inspection is being made today of the mines of the company.

It is expected that Vice President Kerr and the members of the party will return to Duluth on Thursday.

NORWEGIAN DAY AT GRAND FORKS FAIR

July 29 to Be Set Aside to Norsemen of North Dakota.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Norwegian day will be observed at the Red River Valley exposition here July 29, the natal day of St. Olaf, a descendant of Harold Fairhair, who united the kingdom in 872. St. Olaf was a Christian and it was his great idea to Christianize Norway and drive out the foreign rulers.

Dr. J. N. Kildahl, president of St. Olaf's college, Northfield, Minn., will be the principal speaker.

Making Preparations.

H. Bendeke, vice consul for Norway to North Dakota; P. O. Thorson and Judge L. K. Hassell are making the arrangements for the celebration.

Plans for the exposition are well under way, according to Secretary D. V. Moore. The exposition will be held the last four days under the direction of the Grand Forks Agricultural society, this being the off year, so far as Grand Forks and the state fair is concerned.

The first day of the fair will be Grand Forks day; second, Norwegian day; third, East Grand Forks and Polk county day; and the fourth, North Dakota day.

BOY DETECTIVES FIND JAIL BREAKER.

East Grand Forks, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Cunningham, charged with robbery, escaped from the local jail, but three silver dollars, offered by Capt. Hugh Quigley of the police department to three boys as a reward for Cunningham's capture, turned the offender back to the cell. The boys, turning detectives, trailed Cunningham in the "jungles," finding him concealed under a high walk waiting an opportunity to escape on a passing freight train.

The robbery case fell through, for lack of evidence, but Cunningham was yesterday sentenced to forty days in the county jail at Crookston.

FARMER HELD FOR MURDER OF BOY.

Riverside, N. J., July 14.—Edward Murphy, a farmer who was the first to discover the death of Herman Fisher, the 17-year-old lad who was shot as he was on his way home from the residence of Ida Wilhelm, his sweetheart, early Sunday, was arrested yesterday in connection with the murder.

A ten-gauge shotgun, such as was used to kill Fisher, was found hidden in Murphy's barn, together with a pair of shoes which fit the footprints found near the scene of the crime.

Alumni and undergraduates from nearby cities are arranging to visit Duluth for the college day festivities.

Vincent Expected to Come.

Should the Twin City delegation come in a body, it is probable President George E. Vincent will be induced to visit Duluth at the unusual festivities and he may be able to arrange to come to Duluth on Aug. 8. In that event, he will be asked to make an address during the afternoon.

The Duluth Boat club is again behind the fourth annual college day, and Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones are in general charge. Each university plans its own stand or booth for the "pike," one of the college day features and the alumni organizations are already meeting and making preparations for the affair. Committees will be announced within a few days. The Yale men are already at work and it is understood are planning to "show the other fellows up this year."

On Thursday noon the members of the Northern Minnesota Alumni association will meet at a luncheon to be held at the Spalding hotel, when Laird Goodman, president, plans to appoint a general commmittee to have charge of the Minnesota "stunts." As there are more Minnesota alumni in Duluth than from any other university, the Gopher "grads" and "undergrads" have already decided to have at least two "stunts" and possibly three. The women also are arranging to have a booth, as they did for the first time very successfully last year.

Big Eligible List.

The standing rule is that every college man and woman from the year 1840 until 1914 is invited to take part. Those who do not know of alumni from their schools now residing in Duluth should send their names to Dr. Jones, who also asks for the names of all college men and women. Invitations are to be sent out later by the secretary of the boat club.

College day was inaugurated in 1911 and is now a part of the summer program of the Duluth Boat club.

The celebration this year will begin at 3 o'clock with a parade starting from the Spalding hotel. Graduates of each college will march together, the members being decorated with their colors and banners, while many are also planning for special floats and "stunts" for the parade. The Third Regiment band will lead the parade, while the automobiles, all decorated, will follow, with those on foot in the rear. The line of march will continue to Lake avenue, south to the aerial bridge and then from there cars will be taken to the Oatka grounds, where the celebration proper will begin at 4 o'clock.

"Pike" Open to Public.

From that time until 6 o'clock the "pike" will remain open for the public. The band will play and it is expected that at least 15,000 Duluthians will spend the afternoon and evening at the grounds. Last year there were fully 10,000 men, women and children at the entertainment.

At 6 o'clock a picnic supper will be server to those wo do not bring their lunches, and as soon as it is dark the bonfire will be started and the fun for the evening will commence. First will come the annual tug-of-war, after which the races and then the wind-up with the college yells and parades. Minnesota won the tug-of-war last year and the other colleges plan to make a big fight for the honor this year.

"THE WOMEN OF MEXICO"

Duluth Visitor Tells of Conditions in the Sister Republic—Lived There for Years Constantly Expecting to Be Compelled to Leave.

To those who think Mexico has been one huge battlefield for several years it is a surprise to hear Mrs. J P Hauser of Mexico City tell of the country. Rev. and Mrs. Hauser, who are visiting Mr. Hauser's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hauter of 323 First avenue east, have been away from Mexico since February on leave of absence. "For several years we had been expecting we would have to get out of the country," Mrs. Hauser said, "but when we did so it was on a regular leave of absence." They expect to go back to Mexico in September but their return will depend upon conditions that cannot be foretold yet.

Dr. Hauser is superintendent of the eastern district of the Mexican annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The Women of Mexico.

Speaking of the women of Mexico, Mrs. Hauser said, "There are three classes, the very rich, the middle class, and the very poor. The wealthy women are exceedingly generous, giving time and money to philanthropic institutions such as we have in the United States. A prominent woman of Mexico City, after attending a mothers' congress in the United States, gives a great deal of attention and time to a day nursery for the children of poor working women. The generosity of the wealthy Mexican women includes their relatives, friends and servants. A friend of mine daily has dinner prepared for two extra persons, sending her servants with these meals to those who are in need of them."

Educating Girls.

A highly successful attempt to educate Mexican girls in the rudiments of home sanitation was made by a mission industrial school just outside Mexico city. The school accommodates sixty pupils but a new dormitory must be built at once to meet the growing demand for admission. Speaking of the course of study at this school, Mrs. Hauser said: "The girls learn to cook, do housework, preserve and raise poultry. A small farm in connection with the school, about the size of several city blocks, gives them an opportunity to raise flowers that they sell and to observe simple farming, although the girls do none of the actual farm work. In addition to the manual training the pupils have regular lessons up to the sixth grade, after which they attend the regular girl's school in the city, walking into town each day, a distance of a mile or a mile and a half.

"The very smallest Mexican children work. It is a common sight to see tiny tots of three years caring for baby brothes and sisters. They wash clothes and dishes in streams, very simple processes, but they do their work very earnestly.

"Most of the pupils learn quickly, especially the descendants of the real Indian tribes, the Otomis, Aztecs and Toltecs, having the very best foundation for mental development that has come down from peoples who had attained a wonderfully high state of civilization centuries ago. In only a very few cases are there found Mexicans who have not the mental capacity to continue their studies in the higher grades. When these exceptions are found they are given as much training in household arts as possible in order that they may find good, well-paying positions as servants in American families, who are often driven to despair in their efforts to get servants who understand American ways."

Mrs. Hauser told of a friend teaching in a Mexican school who found it impossible to eat the beans that are a staple food for Mexicans. She taught one of the cooks to fry potatoes and make chocolate, thinking she could manage to exist if she had these standbys "Coming home very tired, late one evening," Mrs. Hauser said, "she told the Mexican, whom she thought she had trained, to prepare her some fried potatoes and chocolate and bring them to her room. When her meal was taken to her the fried potatoes were floating around in the chocolate."

Are Good Cooks.

"But the Mexicans are naturally good cooks,' Mrs. Hauser continued, "and much cleaner than they are given credit for being. They cook eggs, vegetables and chicken, in fact all kinds of meat, well, but know nothing of pastry as they have no ovens. Very enjoyable meals are often served to strangers in the poorest houses, on a table borrowed from one person, with a napkin from another, and a knife from another."

When asked about the styles of women's clothes in Mexico, Mrs. Hauser said, "I didn't see any thing more up-to-date in New York than I did in Mexico. They can get their clothes cheaper from France than from the United States. The poorer persons still wear full skirts but they are getting them tighter. The Mexican women still have the art of wearing scarfs gracefully and even the little children know just how to drape them."

Newsboys' Home.

Perhaps one of the most interesting charitable institutions in Mexico City is a newsboys' home. It was opened about three years ago. It is non-sectarian, being under the direction of men from many organizations. The small newsies who are without homes go to the home in the evening, are given baths and clean pajamas in which they have their supper and romp around until bed time. In the meantime their "business clothes" are undergoing a vigorous process of fumigation for the next day. In the morning each boy picks his clothes out of the fumigated mass and goes to his work after having breakfast. The pajama and fumigating process is repeated each night. Most of the boys have absolutely no idea of discipline of obedience when they enter the home, but they are quick to learn. Men from the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium department entertain the boys by putting them through exercises and then giving them a lunch as a fitting close of the evening's festivities.

"A great many of these boys were killed during the recent bombardment," Mrs. Hauser said. "They played marbles in the street regardless of shot, absolutely without fear as they held life cheaply."

The thought of men having been killed in tht streets does not seem to alarm Mrs. Hauser in the least. "The fighting hasn't been in any one locality all the time," she explained. "The brigands have destroyed a great deal of property on the haciendos, by looting and by demolishing large pieces of furniture they could not carry off, as pianos, sideboards and chiffoniers. These they took out in the patios and broke up. Many of the wealthy land owners have gone into the cities to stay and have sent their sons and daughters to schools for protection. Our schools were never so full as during the political troubles."

Mrs. Hauser has been in Mexico eight years, but has made two trips home before this one.

Mrs. Hauser has done excellent work in Spanish, having translated at least three devotional books into that language from English and served on a special commission for translating hymns into Spanish. For two years she was the Mexican national secretary of the Epworth league and before going to Mexico was Y. W. C. A. secretary for Nebraska and South Dakota, visiting colleges in which there were branches of the association.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—The Baldwin Players in "Ready Money."
EMPRESS—"The Winning Miss."

AT THE EMPRESS.

New Musical Comedy Company Opens Engagement Here.

Without a doubt the best musical attraction yet offered at the Empress theater is the musical comedy, "The Winning Miss," which opened yesterday afternoon for the first half of this week.

"The Winning Miss" is the opening show of a series of musical comedies to be presented by the same company for the next four weeks. This stock engagement promises to surpass anything of its kind ever offered at the Empress, as the principals have all starred in tabloid productions, while the chorus consisting of twenty people, is very capably trained, good looking and beautifully costumed.

Manager Abrahamson deserves no little praise for securing the engagement of these players at popular prices.

Heading this company of stars is Sam Mylie, who reminds one very much of Fred Stone, the famous scarce-crow in "The Wizard of Oz" and mate of Dave Montgomery. He is a born comedian and can sing and dance. He is an asset worth while and will no doubt become very popular here. As J. Barrington Ham, alias the Yankee Lad Skipper, he scored at all the performances yesterday.

Grace Manlove as Winnie Winters, the winning miss, won her audiences yesterday. She is very attractive looking, has a good voice and a charming personality. Her song numbers, aided by the quartet, consisting of Clarence Backous, Curt Vance, Fred Vance and Roy Binder, are all a hit. "Just For Tonight" by Miss Manlove, who is aided by the chorus and several scenic effects, is pleasing.

Guy Voyer, who will be remembered by many as the star in "Bright Eyes," plays the part of Billy. He will star in one of the later productions, Manager Abrahamson of the Empress announced. Helen Brandon as Anastasia May scored a hit with Sam Mylie in their duet number, "There Are Many Different Ways of Making Love."

Al Laughlin as Horatio Dunn is effective. He is in charge of these productions and will direct the several shows to come. The chorus, consisting of five young men and twelve young women, all good looking and well costumed, scored a hit last evening.

"The Winning Miss" will continue until tomorrow evening and on Thursday "Bright Eyes" will open for the second half of the week. Guy Voyer will star in the production. Beginning next week the shows will open on Sundays and Thursdays, resuming the old schedule of this playhouse.

At the Lyceum.

The Baldwin Players have undoubtedly made the most pronounced hit of their wonderfully successful engagement at the Lyceum theater by their exceedingly clever production of the great comedy, "Ready Money," and there is no question but what all records will be broken this week, for the advance sale indicates the largest business of the season. One has only to see this delightful performance to be convinced that the Baldwin Players are the best stock organization that has yet appeared in this city, and their many friends will be charmed with their clever work in "Ready Money."

The stage settings are beautiful and appropriate and every detail has been carefully looked after, making the entire production both in acting and staging a pronounced success.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Futile for Men and Women to Argue.

I know a succesful business woman who maintains that this is the age of woman, and to be a success she must be well spoken. Conditions that bring her closer to business and political strife with man make it necessary that she should express herself with confidence and be able to argue, so my friend says.

How many, I wonder, will hold that successful argument between man and woman is possible. I take it, successful argument means the scoring of a point, which, if not convincing to both sides, leaves one's adversary without a word in which to defend his side. And so, I have yet to hear an argument between the male and female in which there was a satisfactory terminus. Both are, as far as one can judge, still firmly convinced that their individual point of view is the right one.

This is not because neither will admit defeat always. Even though their ideas are quite similar, they arrive at them by different avenues and therein lies the difference. Two of the most logical speakers I have ever heard are women high in suffrage interests. I agree most always with the views of both, perhaps because I am a woman. But men have frequently risen to contradict these women in positive and assertive manner.

By no means do I pretend that either men or women are always able to convince the members of their respective sexes in an argument. They often meet the strongest kind of opposition from their own kind. But there is a different spirit in argument between them. When man argues with man and woman with woman, it does not strike one as being quite so much at cross purposes as it does between man and woman. Men and women besides being different in kind are also different in mind.

Whatever the reason, I have yet to hear a successful argument between a man and a woman—successful in convincing one or the other that he or she is in error, or successful in the sense that either one is worsted and ready to admit that he or she has no argument to match the opponent, though still firm in his or her conviction.

I am sure that many women need training in the art of expressing themselves with confidence, conviction and poise. But I doubt that we shall have successful argument between women and men until—well, the millenium.

REWRITE PART OF THE CLAYTON BILL

Senators Would Make Punishment Clause Stronger.

Washington, July 14.—When the senate judiciary committee took up its work of perfecting the Clayton anti-trust bill today it was planned to rewrite the section relating to the punishment of individuals with a view to making it more binding. The committee hoped to complete its draft of the measure today. The interstate commerce committee also is expected to finish its work on the railway securities bill today. The committee, apparently, however, is deadlocked on several important features of the bill.

FRANCE CELEBRATES BASTILE'S FALL

Army Stunts, Fireworks and Free Theaters Are Given.

Paris, July 14.—Half a million Parisians celebrating the anniversary of the fall of the Bastile at the president's annual review of the Paris garrison today, saw twenty military aeroplanes rise at the far end of the Long Champs race course and, in perfect alignment of fours, fly at full speed past the presidential stand.

A mighty roar of cheering swept over the grounds, and kept on as 30,000 troops, comprising cavalry, artillery, infantry and other branches, marched in close order before the reviewing stand.

Another minute of excitement was provided when, at the close of the review, 2,000 cuirassiers in bright steel breastplates and brass helmets charged, swords in air, to within thirty paces of the president.

Over 400 in Air at Once.

The troops of all the garrisons in France also paraded, and the military authorities calculated that over 400 army aeroplanes were on the wing at one time in various parts of the country.

Fireworks displays, military bands, public dancing, free performances at theaters both afternoon and evening in Paris and all the other cities, towns and villages of France, were provided at the expense of the government.

ARMORED CRUISER NEAR SCRAP HEAP

Philadelphia, July 14.—The armored cruiser Brooklyn, which took a prominent part in the operations off Cuba in the Spanish-American war, left the Philadelphia navy yard today for Boston, where the old fighter will become a receiving ship. It is the first time in seven years that the Brooklyn has put to sea, having been laid up at the navy yard here since her return from the Jamestown fair in 1907. The Brooklyn was built in 1893 at a cost of $4,423,790.

WELCOME!

To the warm words of unstinted welcome that have been delivered to its guests by the official representatives of the community and the local members of its organization, let The Herald add its word of greeting to the members of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, who have given concrete evidence of their wisdom and good judgment by choosing Duluth as their meeting place this year.

Duluth is glad to see them. The gates are flung wide, the door of hospitality is open, and a hearty welcoming hand is across the threshold.

Duluth welcomes these guests, and if the time they have here makes them enjoy being here half as much as Duluth enjoys having them, Duluth will rejoice and be glad.

Far be it from us to boast, but we'll leave it to the visitors, after they have looked the situation over carefully and with the seeing eye that made them the business successes they are, whether there is another community in the United States with as great a prospect for growth and development. The cities that are more in the public eye have had their "booms"—Duluth has not. The cities that are known as boom cities have realized their prospects—Duluth has not. These other cities have capitalized not only present value but prospective value for years to come—Duluth has not yet even caught up with its present value.

Handicaps but lately removed, long suffered to stand because the community relied too much upon "manifest destiny" and did not go out after what belonged to it, are responsible for this belated fortune.

It is a matter of only a scant handful of years since Duluth woke up to the fact that "manifest destiny" was a delusion, and that reliance upon it was a mistake. Then, Duluth set out with a grim determination to get back its own, and any visitor who has the patience to listen to the story of the Duluth Commercial club and its traffic commission will agree that what it went after IT GOT.

Duluth is the home of opportunity. It has a foundation of assets far in excess of its size. It has a great future, close at hand. In sharp contrast with some other communities, its prospects have not been discounted and dissipated by a boom. Its growth has been steady and certain; its progress safe and permanent.

In its new steel industry, in its new traffic conditions, in its strategic relationship to the movement of world commerce, in the rapidly filling empire about it which was lately a wilderness, Duluth has an unanticipated and unimpaired capital beyond compare.

This is not idle boasting, the usual blatant town patriotism which needs no foundation of fact. It is the simple truth which any man can see for himself.

The Herald hopes that the city's guests will have a profitable meeting and a good time, and that they will want to come again and come often.

"What did you eat for dinner two days ago?" asks an exchange. Pity the poor chap who can't forget a meal in forty-eight hours.

RUNNING RAILROADS—INTO THE GROUND.

The interstate commerce commission gives the New Haven management of the Morgan-Mellen regime a fearful scorching, and it seems to be deserved.

It is a case of a railroad used by its responsible managers as a Wall Street plaything; of directors who looked upon their charge not as a responsibility to their masters, the stockholders, but as a personal chattel to play with as they pleased; of a management more concerned in the big game of high finance than in running a railroad.

The moral, of course, is public regulation of railroad finances. The New Haven is not the only road that has been squeezed dry by bankers. It is not the only road that is less a railroad than a feeding ground for financial leeches. In the interests of all railroads, no less than in the interests of the New Haven, the interstate commerce commission should be given full power to regulate railroad finances.

It is important that the New Haven stockholders get back by suit if they can what they have lost through the incompetence and unfaithfulness of their directors; but it is much more important that a system of public regulation of railroad finance shall be framed that will make such things impossible in the future.

This will be in the interests of the stockholders, of the railroads, of the public, of business morality, of real railroad men who have had to suffer the ignominy of becoming crooked little errand boys for Wall Street giants.

Census statistics show that Chicago pays its mayor more than any other city in the United States. Now watch New York boost salaries.

THEY NEED IT.

The Omaha World-Herald, an aggressive and excellent newspaper, is owned by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska.

Senator Hitchcock, with Senator Reed of Missouri and five Republicans, has been making trouble for the president in his attempt to get a qualified expert international banker on the Federal reserve board. It was about the same people who made so much trouble for the banking and currency law when it was a pending measure.

At the close of an editorial justifying the dog-in-the-manger attitude of these seven members of the senate banking committee, the World-Herald says: "God give light and wisdom to the senate!"

God knows the senate needs it—especially those who are associated with Senator-Editor Hitchcock in balking the president's purpose of getting the best possible collection of experts for the Federal reserve board.

Why doesn't somebody launch an Association of Building Occupiers?

WHAT IS BLACKMAIL?

The Isthmus, the Canal Zone and the property of the old Panama concerns all once belonged to Colombia.

By a revolution countenanced if not propagated by the Roosevelt administration, Colombia lost all these valuable holdings, and they came into the hands of the United States.

Colombia long sought to have its grievance arbitrated, and the government of this nation refused to arbitrate it. A re-reading of the history of the Panama revolution makes it clear enough why this country would not arbitrate. It could not afford to have the facts disclosed.

Colombia's grievance against us not only made the people of that country hate us night and day, but it spread distrust and hate of us throughout all Latin-America. It is costing our exporters millions yearly.

The Wilson administration has sought to redress this grievance by a treaty paying Colombia twenty-five millions of dollars and expressing "regret that anything should have occurred" to disturb the friendly relations between the two countries.

And Theodore Roosevelt says that the "regret" is a shameful apology, and that the payment of twenty-five millions is "blackmail."

When Mr. Roosevelt was president he offered to pay Colombia two millions and a half.

This, though a confession that Colombia had been wronged, manifestly was not blackmail. But twenty-five millions is blackmail.

The ex-president should make this more clear than he leaves it.

We can all see readily enough that two and a half millions is not blackmail, but that twenty-five millions IS blackmail.

But this is a wide margin. Where is the line to be drawn?

Would it still be blackmail if the sum offered were twenty millions? Or would that be simple justice?

If twenty millions is blackmail, how would it be with fifteen millions? With ten? With five?

Or would two and a half millions be simple justice, and one dollar over that be blackmail?

Roosevelt himself has proved that Colombia was wronged. He has said "I took the canal zone," and he has offered Colombia two and a half millions.

If Colombia has been wronged, as he admits, it is simply the decent thing to right the wrong.

But we can't till the Colonel tells us the exact figure which fixes the line between simple justice and blackmail.

Huerta, the Man

O. M. Hueffer in the New York Evening Post.

One of the disadvantages of a free press is that at times it provides too much news. Especially is this true about personalities; and never perhaps has human being suffered more severely from this surplus of news than has Gen. Huerta. The existence of one man only allows room for a certain number of facts; set out too many and he loses all resemblance to a man and becomes a monster. This is true even when the facts are set out in a friendly spirit. When they are not, as in the case of Huerta, the monster loses even the suggestion of humanity. As a matter of fact, President Huerta is very human, indeed—too human, if anything—and his most human traits have been distorted to line the monstrous caricature which serves to represent him to the American public.

Believing only what you read, you would picture the general as a kind of drunken savage, living only to gratify his two overmastering passions for loot and bloodshed. I used to believe a good deal of this, myself, before I saw something of the man and his surroundings. Afterwards I realized that if he lived in New York he would probably be conspicuous only by his success in some kind of rather unscrupulous business career. Huerta is not an angel, and he is admittedly not a man of high moral tone. There is no doubt, for instance, about his propensity for strong liquor. I saw him quite recently one evening at the Cafe Colon, which is one of several of which he is a regular patron. He was perfectly sober, and, after I had watched him drink four small ponies of cognac, he was none the less sober, talking and walking with perfect composure. Yet it is a fact that at 8 o'clock that morning he had been seen at the Automobile clubhouse, near Chapultepec, drinking cognac and that he had been drinking cognac ever since, probably, as a Mexican doctor who has close relations with the presidential circles told me, thirty or forty ponies of cognac in the twenty-four hours. Certainly such prowess would be frowned upon in any respectable temperance circle; but it does not appear to interfere with the general's health, his brain, or his business.

We are told that Gen. Huerta has, in a very short time, accumulated an even more enormous fortune than did any of his predecessors. Personally I do not believe it and my disbelief is based upon the authority of a Mexican politician and anti-Huertista. He takes the view that the president has only very little actual cash. His property is mostly in the form of real estate, much of it in the City of Mexico. Hence his reluctance to resign until the legislative acts passed during his term of office be legitimated by his successor, in which case only could he hope to enjoy the fruits of office. I have heard, also, on very good authority, that of the politicians it has been found necessary to dispose of in the last year or two a number were possessed of real estate which, after their execution, was confiscated. What became of it afterwards I do not know, and it is never wise to believe all you hear in Mexico.

There is one point in which the general stands out very markedly from the ordinary run of Mexicans. He is generous not only in words but in deeds also. Every Mexican, of course, makes a point of putting all that he has entirely at your disposal. It is only his form of politeness, and if you seriously accepted his gifts he would probably be greatly amazed. Gen. Huerta not only makes such offers, but actually carries them out. A very eminent diplomatist told me one instance in point. He was, before the present troubles, upon a certain intimacy with the general, and his small boy would frequently play with the Huerta children in their garden, where they have, among other things, a whole farmyard of chickens, lambs, calves and the like. Among the rest was a small pony to which the young foreigner took a decided and loudly expressed fancy. It chanced that the general was standing near and overheard him. "You shall have it," he said, and at once gave orders to one of his entourage that the pony be taken to the diplomatist's house. Naturally the small boy was delighted; his father less so. In such times as the present, to accept presents, however small, from President Huerta might be made the basis for who shall say what charges of graft, bribery and the like. Fortunately he was leaving the city within a few days, and his hope lay in the proverbial dilatoriness of the Mexican. He knew that the pony would come, because the general had said so; he hoped that it might come too late, because some other Mexican would have to see to the sending of it. As it turned out, he was right; the pony arrived in due course, but not until the diplomatist and his small boy were already far away from the city.

Not only do all the foreigners who have come into personal contact with the general, almost without expression, speak well of him; but his own servants are devoted to him, whatever their particular positions. This does not, of course, apply to his ministers and political entourage. Among them, indeed, he lives and reigns only because the others are afraid of him, and that he should yet be able to inspire real affection in those in more intimate relations with him is something of a tribute.

Perhaps the secret of the extraordinary fight he has put up against such heavy odds is that he attends to things personally. You may frequently read that he is swayed by this, that, or the other minister; that his cleverest moves are dictated by some subtle foreign adviser. As a matter of actual fact, his ministers are mere appendages, more or less ornamental, to his "court." Things are done, in their names, of which they know nothing whatever until afterwards—and they are far too wise to make any protest. One particular instance came under my personal observation a few weeks ago. In common with some other newspaper men, I happened to be arrested as a spy. I was released first, and naturally set to work to obtain, if might be, the release of my friends. In the end I was enabled to enlist the sympathies of the minister of the Gobernacion, in whose province fall naturally all matters of imprisonment He was ready enough to help, but there was a drawback. He knew nothing of the circumstances, had not heard of the arrests, and at first refused to believe that they had occurred at all. The police, of whom he was the nominal head, had not thought it worth while to mention the matter to him. And when my friend was at last released it was to the president and by no means to the minister that it was due.

Gen. Huerta has the typical Indian face, suggesting a Savonarola devoid of scrupulosity; he has wise eyes that are not unkindly, and somehow always suggested to me the eyes of an amiable rogue elephant. I confess that, despite his lapses from the strict path of rectitude, I like and admire him. He is at least a man—a man of the unpopular Bismarckian type.

An Unworthy Opposition

Springfield Republican: The specific case of Messrs. Warburg and Jones crystallizes much that has been vague and incoherent. When the administration was fighting for the new banking and currency law it was accused of indifference and even hostility to the banking interests of the country. The truth was that the best possible was being done for the whole people, under existing conditions; and, when the law had been enacted, the president pledged himself to place on the Federal reserve board men fully qualified for the difficult undertaking of inaugurating the new national banking system. He has fulfilled the pledge, so far as he has the power to. His nominees are incontestably men of ability and experience. They command the respect and confidence of the national bankers, who must be depended upon to make the new system successful. The president, in brief, has worked from the beginning for the public interest and, in organizing the board of control, has sought to reassure and encourage the entire banking and business world.

Thus far one has been able to see in the heckling opposition to Messrs. Warburg and Jones in the senate nothing but a malicious and vindictive desire to embarrass the president in one of his most difficult undertakings. It is significant that conspicuous in the coterie of senators attacking Mr. Warburg and Mr. Jones is a Western Democratic senator who irreconcilably fought the passage of the Federal reserve act in the senate—posing as a conservative reformer and friend of "sound banking," although now he appears terribly suspicious of the foremost authority on international banking in the United States.

The Unknown Dead.

Where the pallid smokes are lifting,
Where the wraiths of death are drifting,
Where the golds of dawn are shifting
Through the dusk;

Where the huddled blue and gray,
Where the sodden fields of clay,
Where the unknown dead men lay
Dig the trench;

Where the cannon wheels bite deep,
Where the smitten grasses sleep,
Where the winds a requiem keep,
Hide them in.

Somewhere, where life's currents flow,
Somewhere broken with their woe,
Somewhere there are hearts that know
Every name!

Not a soldier that ye gave
Where the battle's red tides lave,
Not a dead man in his grave
But is known!

On some woman's altar-flame
Glorified to hero-fame,
Not a dead man but has name
For God's ear!

Past the hot heartbeats of hating,
Past the grass-grown years 'belating
Each for each a woman's waiting
At the bars.

Each shall wake at the dawn's flaming
Quicken to a woman's claiming,
Woman's lips and woman's naming
Past the stars!

Sleep, then ye, the "Dead Unknown,"
Till the trumpet-blast is blown,
Till ye waken, named and known—
Named and known!

If Wishes Were Automobiles.

World's Work: Henry Ford, whose genius for standardization has made the "everyman's" car possible, and Thomas A. Edison, whose many inventions have made modern life possible, have become partners in a scheme to put an electric automobile within the means of the multitude in the city.

Perhaps it would be foolish to prophesy a day when the city laborer will go to his work in an electric and when a line of their cars will stand in front of every building under construction, and yet it is no more difficult to picture such a condition now that it was ten years ago to picture millions of the men who served our funny papers as butts and incidentally tilled the soil, using gasoline automobiles as a matter-of-course part of their daily existence.

Particularly if the development of central power stations continues as it promises to do there will be an ever increasing field for the poor man's electric which Mr. Edison and Mr. Ford contemplate.

Made a Fatal Mistake.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Reference at a recent dinner was made to great mistakes when Congressman W. M. Calder of New York, who is seeking a senatorial seat, recalled an incident that happened in a small community in the alfalfa belt.

Some time since two natives of the town met along the public highway and paused to compare news and crop reports. One of them was wearing an exceedingly long face.

"S'pose ye heard that our preacher is goin' ter leave," said he of the long face. "Got a call ter some town about 200 miles away an' says he's goin' ter accept."

"I knowed it! I knowed it!" was the emotional response of the other. "Thought we was makin' a big mistake at the time!"

"Don't know what yer talkin' about," said the other, wonderingly. "What mistake did we make?"

"Raised the preacher's salary," answered the second. "If we hadn't give him more money last year he couldn't have saved up enough ter buy a car ticket out o' town."

A Lesson in Domestic Diplomacy.

Kansas City Star: A young married man yesterday was complaining that he could not get his wife to mend his clothes, says the Chanute Tribune. "I asked her to sew a button on my vest last night and she hasn't touched it." And then his old married friend remarked: "Never ask a woman to mend anything. When I want a shirt mended I take it to my wife and flourish it around a little and say: 'Where is that ragbag?' Then my wife says: 'What do you want of the ragbag?' 'I want to throw this shirt away; it's worn out.' 'Let me see that shirt,' my wife says. Of course I pass it over and she examines it. 'Why, it only needs—' and then she mends it."

A Dirty Job.

Lippincott's: "Just look at the wonderful color of the sea!" exclaimed a tourist on his first Mediterranean cruise. "See how blue it is!"

"That's not strange," growled a traveler who had lately run the gamut of the Neapolitan pensions and was therefore disillusioned. "No wonder it's blue. You'd be blue yourself if you had to wash the shores of Italy!"

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative George W. Fairchild of New York and George Woolworth, proprietor of the highest building in the world, used to be at the head of a big New York bank. One was president and the other vice president of the institution. It was a good, sound bank—one of the comparatively few at the time of the financial troubles of 1907, about which there was never a suspicion of danger. Just when the papers were full of news about bank failures and such, Woolworth met Fairchild on the street one morning and talked to him not about finance, but about an odd vase that he was about to buy at a little shop up the street—rare bric-a-brac being one of Woolworth's hobbies. Fairchild accompanied him to have a look at the vase in the little shop—a combination second-hand store and pawnbroker's place. As they emerged from the shop, Fairchild suddenly gave a queer look at his companion and exclaimed: "Great heavens! What if somebody should see us here together?"

"What if they did?" asked Woolworth.

"Nothing," said Fairchild; "only the sight of the president and vice president of a bank coming out of a pawnshop at a time like this might be construed by somebody as a mighty suspicious circumstance."

Representative Post of Ohio had a postoffice applicant a time ago who persisted in assuming a highly optimistic outlook toward his own candidacy. He took it for granted that the moment the retiring postmaster's term was up he himself would be appointed. One day the postmaster died suddenly and the optimistic candidate immediately wired Post as follows:

"Postmaster Smith just died. What shall I do?"—meaning what steps would it be necessary for him to take before he could receive the formal appointment.

Post wired back thusly: "Convey my sympathy to the widow."

When John A. Fahey was editor and publisher of the Boston Traveler, a young reporter on that paper named McWade—who later became one of the leading political writers of Boston—walked into Fahey's office and said that he desired to quit his job. Fahey asked why. Oh, explained McWade, he was dissatisfied and thought he could do better if he made a change.

"We might pay you more money," suggested Fahey.

"No," replied McWade, "I don't like to come to an employer and threaten to quit unless I have more money. I'd rather just stop and take my chances on getting a better job."

Fahey tried to persuade him to stay, telling him how sorry he was to lose his services, but McWade wouldn't listen.

"I'll tell you what I wish you would do, though," suggested McWade. "I'd like to have a good strong letter of recommendation that I could show when I seek other employment. It might be a great help."

Fahey gladly complied with this request and the two said goodby.

The following day, as Fahey sat in his private office, McWade's card was brought to him. A moment later McWade was ushered in.

"You're Mr. Fahey?" inquired McWade. "Ah, then I believe you're the man I desire to see. I came to seek employment on your paper. Here is a letter of recommendation from my last employer that speaks for itself. I think you will agree after reading it that I would be a valuable addition to your staff. I left my last place because I was dissatisfied with my wages, and if we can agree on that important point, I should like to start in with you at once."

So Fahey hired the applicant at a salary that was mutually satisfactory.

Ray Long, editor of the Red Book and other magazines, has offices on the nineteenth floor of a big Chicago skyscraper. It is one of those white tile affairs, and on such buildings it is customary to let scaffolds down from the roof now and then with pulleys, so that men may go over the outer wall with sponges and clean it. Every time these men worked outside Long's window it nearly gave him nervous prostration. But one day recently he made up his mind to forget their perilous plight and read manuscript. In order to do so he had to drill himself not to look at them. He sat back in any easy chair with his feet on a table and read literary productions throughout the afternoon. By 5:30 o'clock he had read some fifty or sixty thousand words of manuscript, and hadn't noticed the fellows on the outside of the window. They, however, must have been watching him, for at quitting time one of them climbed in the window and started toward the main hall. As he got to the door, he turned and said:

"Say, brother, would you mind answering me one question?"

"Surely," Long answered, "go as far as you like."

"I just wanted to know," says he, "whether you've got somebody kidded into paying money for what you've been doing this afternoon."

Incompetent Employers.

Ellis O. Jones in Lippincott's: Are there such things as incompetent employers? We hear of poor business men, but that is not exactly the same as a poor employer. Incompetent employes, of course, seem to abound, for almost any one is able to tell of scores of them with whom he has had dealings, and many are the troubles that are blamed upon them. But, as we go along the streets and about our business day by day, nobody ever mentions the incompetent employer either in scorn or in pity. To all intents and purposes he does not exist. And yet it is not at all likely that all employers are perfectly competent. There must be some among them who ought to be given their walking papers or otherwise relieved of their responsibilities.

Won't somebody look into the matter? Are there incompetent employers? If so, what are the causes of, the character of and the cure for their incompetence?

A Demagogue Defined.

Washington Star: "Father," said the small boy, "what is a demagogue?"

"A demagogue, my son, is a brilliant and convincing speaker who wanders away and gets ideas with which you disagree."

Knew When to Quit.

Kansas City Star: There is nothing like knowing when you have said enough. "You are charged," said the magistrate, "with talking back to an officer. Have you anything to say?"

"Niver a word, your honor," replied the culprit. "O'ive said too much already."

Governorship Talk

What the State Press Thinks

Sam Langum Not Reconstructed.

Preston Times (Rep.): The Times is a Republican paper and is ever ready to support Republican principles and Republican candidates, if they be good men and good Republicans, but it owes no allegiance to candidates who call themselves Republicans but have been guilty of treason to their own party in the past. A good out-and-out Democrat looks better to us than a renegade Republican. We like a thoroughbred, whatever the breed, but have no use for a mongrel.

Possible? Worse Than That.

Anoka Union (Rep.): W. S. Hammond is the Democratic nominee for governor and consternation is seen in the Lee crowd as defeat is possible in November.

Democrats Have Less Trouble.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette (Rep.): There is every indication that the battle for the governorship from now until the general election will be an interesting one. The Democrats have a strong candidate in the person of W. S. Hammond and will put up a big fight to elect him. The Republicans will endeavor to blend the two factions and get them solidly behind W. E. Lee.

There will undoubtedly be a reorganization of the state central committee and it is expected that every Eberhart man will be "eliminated."

Looking Backward.

St. Cloud Times: Wonder what the janitors' brigade thinks of Lee's nomination as Republican candidate for governor.

A Good, Substantial Reason.

Mahnomen Pioneer: There have been many reasons given by the friends of Governor Eberhart for his defeat at the recent primary election. All are agreed that the principal one was that the people did not seem to want him for governor any more. This seems to be the most reasonable one.

Lee Not Out of the Woods.

Virgina Enterprise: That William E. Lee will not be elected governor of Minnesota without a tidy bit of a fight is more and more evident. Lee defeated Governor Eberhart, not because he had much on the governor, figuratively speaking, but because the people had so many things on him. Mr. Lee was generally accepted as the lesser of two evils. The people were tired of the governor; they didn't dislike him but they were dissatisfied with his caliber as the state's chief executive. They did not pay much attention to Mr. Lee. They reasoned that he would have to be about the limit to be worse than Eberhart.

But now things are somewhat changed. Eberhart is out of the running. The race is between Mr. Lee and Congressman Hammond. It is anybody's fight today, but the man who most impresses the people will be the man elected. Mr. Lee is not an impressive public speaker. He is of that type of speakers who are most appreciated when least heard. Mr. Hammond is somewhat better. In the meantime all speculation as to the outcome at present is idle. Mr. Lee would appear to have the best of things as they are. That he will be bitterly fought by the same interests who stanchly backed Eberhart for the nomination is certain, but whether or not their influence remains to be seen. Hammond may suffer by his friends, if those friends are the same interests who backed the defeated Mr. Eberhart so strongly.

Financed Into Bankruptcy

New York World: There is no mystery about the fall of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad into the hands of receivers any more than there was no mystery in the earlier fall of the Flint & Pere Marquette into the hands of receivers.

Both systems serve a territory thickly settled and rich in agricultural and manufacturing production. Both enjoy a density of traffic above the average for Western railroads which are amply solvent and pay good dividends.

If either of these properties had been run by railroad men for railroad ends of public service and ownership profit, the bankruptcy of the one would be as accountable as would have been the bankruptcy of the other. But both were run by bankers for bankers' profits. Both were loaded down with bond issue after bond issue, with bankers' commissions on each issue. Both have a bonded debt far exceeding stock ownership.

When the bankers of the Morgan group who controlled both properties could force no more of the inflated bond issues on the open market, they proceeded to make a market otherwise. When the Erie refused their offer of the Hamilton & Dayton they loaded it over on to the Baltimore & Ohio, which sunk $23,000,000 in the property within a few years. They then unloaded on the Baltimore & Ohio 110,000 shares of Pere Marquette, which, President Willard testified a month ago, "has been a dead loss."

The bankers skinned both properties as they have skinned the New Haven. Both properties have been Morganized to the verge of a receivership. How many more cases of the kind are needed to effect a complete and final divorce of banking and railroading?

Not a Bad Guess.

Philadelphia Telegraph: They were speaking of the rising generation the other evening when Congressman George R. Smith of Minnesota told of the good guesswork of little Willie.

Little Willie, who was visiting in the suburbs, was taken to the village Sunday school one afternoon, when the teacher was expatiating on the story of the prodigal son. At the conclusion of the story, she turned to the visitor.

"Do you think, my little man," said the teacher, kindly, "that you can remember the story I have told you?"

"Yes, ma'am," was the prompt rejoinder of little Willie.

"Good!" returned the teacher. "Can you tell me who it was that was not glad to see the prodigal son?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered Willie, "the fatted calf."

Retailing the Dog.

Judge: A real estate man had been out in the country to look at a piece of property, and the old farmer, accompanied him back to town to close the deal. After traveling several miles the farmer was much surprised to see his dog crawl from under the seat, for he had no idea that it had followed him. As the train slowed up at a junction the farmer put the dog off the car and chased him away.

"That's too nice a dog to lose," remarked the real estate man. "Does he know the way home?"

"Does he?" echoed the old farmer. "Why, mister, I've sold that dog four times."

Small Beginnings.

A traveler through a dusty road
strewed acorns on the lea;
And one took root and sprouted up,
and grew into a tree.
Love sought its shade at evening time,
to breathe its early vows;
And age was pleased, in heats of noon,
to bask beneath its boughs;
The dormouse loved its dangling twigs,
the sweet music bore;
It stood a glory in its place, a blessing evermore.

A little spring had lost its ways amid the grass and fern,
A passing stranger scooped a well,
where weary men might turn;
He walled it in, and hung with care a
ladle at the brink;
He thought not of the deed he did, but judged that toil might drink;
He passed again, and lo! the well, by summer never dried,
Had cooled ten thousand parching tongues, and saved a life beside.

A dreamer dropped a random thought;
'twas old, and yet 'twas new;
A simple fancy of the brain, but strong in being true.
It shone upon a genial mind, and lo!
its light became
A lamp of life, a beacon ray, a monitory flame.
The thought was small; its issue great;
a watch-fire on the hill;
It sheds its radiance far adown, and cheers the valley still!

A nameless man, amid a crowd that thronged the daily mart,
Let fall a word of Hope and Love, unstudied, from the heart;
A whisper on the tumult thrown,—a transitory breath,—
It raised a brother from the dust; it saved a soul from death.
O germ! O fount! O word of love! O thought of random cast!
Ye were but little at the first, but mighty at the last.

Novel Experience for the Editor.

Kansas City Times: This letter, according to the Louisville Twice-a-Week Times, was recently received by an editor: "I have no domestic troubles and no financial troubles to speak of. I am not in love with anybody's wife and nobody's wife is in love with me. I have no recipe and have not lost the recipe for rose beads, orange marmalade or peanut butter. I am writing without special motive except to say 'Bully for you!' I thought it might be a pleasant surprise to get a letter of the other sort as a change from the eternal whine."

"TURN ABOUT IS FAIR PLAY."

To the Editor of The Herald:

In The Duluth Herald issue of June 23 was reproduced a letter which had been published, over my signature, in the Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser, and in which I endeavored to pay a deserved tribute to the summer climate of this splendid city of Duluth. Since the publication of that letter I have been requested by a number of Duluth citizens to tell them, through The Herald, something about Montgomery, the great Alabama winter resort. I, therefore, find pleasure in offering the following:

Montgomery is situated on the Alabama river, in the great "black belt" of the South and in the heart of the cotton-producing section.

The site of the city has a splendid natural drainage towards the river. Artesian wells, from 600 to 800 feet deep, provide the people with a supply of pure, cold water, which is not surpassed anywhere. The natural pressure of these wells is ample to throw a heavy stream to the top of the highest building in the city, which is a splendid means of protection from fire. The water supply was originally provided by a New England company, but was acquired by the city some time ago and is now under municipal control. The splendid water, together with the modern and extensive sewerage system, make Montgomery one of the most healthful cities in the South. In fact, there are fewer physicians in Montgomery now, with its 50,000 population, than there were during the years following the war, when the population numbered but 10,000.

Montgomery's winter climate is superb. The last snow storm, carrying enough snow to remain on the ground twelve hours, occurred in 1884.

Montgomery is a great cotton market. While the entire state produces cotton extensively, the heaviest crop is gathered in the "black belt," so named because of the preponderance of seven negroes to one white person.

Truck farming is a recent but extensive and profitable calling in the territory between Montgomery and Mobile.

This section is also the home of the great turpentine and lumber industry.

Less than 100 miles north of Montgomery is the great new city of Birmingham, with its population of 200,000. The Birmingham district has an inexhaustible supply of coal and iron ore.

Birmingham claims more skyscrapers than any city of its size in the country. The city is under the commission plan of government, and the three commissions have made a splendid record since their election.

Alabama law gives to whites and negroes the same protection in person and property. The race line is drawn very closely in Alabama, as it always has been and always will be. The laws require that whites and negroes shall be provided with separate, but equal, accommodations on trains and street cars. This practice holds good in churches and theaters, and even the saloons are required to serve their white and colored patrons at different bars. All of this tends to promote the best of feeling between the races, where conflict would be constant if the race line were not so generally recognized.

Practically all domestic service in Alabama is performed by negroes. I have in my home a male cook who has been in my employ for thirty-eight consecutive years. We also had a colored "mammy" in our home for forty consecutive years, up to the time of her death, two years ago. These belong to the passing order, however, and the "servant problem" is present in Alabama, as elsewhere, today.

The cotton crop is usually planted in February and March, and is ready to gather in August, but this gathering extends over until late in November. Visitors from the North and East are always greatly interested in the beautiful snow-white cotton fields and in the process of picking and ginning. A standard bale of cotton weighs about 500 pounds and is sold in the market by the pound. A planter who is wise enough to raise sufficient meat and corn for the requirements of his plantation can sell cotton at a price per pound which would represent a profit to him, but a heavy loss to the less provident planter. But "diversified crops" is the cry in the South now, as everywhere, and Alabama is now exporting corn where but a short time ago it was all imported from Kansas and Nebraska. Very sincerely,

JACOB PEPPERMAN.

REED WANTS BILL "FIXED"

Criticizes Trade Commission Plan, But Offers No Remedy.

Consolidation of Anti-Trust Measures Is Proposed.

Washington, July 14.—Attacking the administration interstate commerce commission bill on the floor of the senate, Senator Reed of Missouri, Democratic leader, charged that the interstate commerce committee and judiciary committee should get together to work out trust legislation jointly, with a view to consolidating all pending measures on the subject.

Senator Reed's attack, directed particularly at the section relating to "unfair competition," was followed by assaults from other members of the judiciary committee, and later it developed that an unsuccessful effort already had been made by the interstate commerce committee to have the judiciary committee co-operate with it. Senators Reed and Hoke Smith of Georgia were reported to have looked with favor on the suggestion, but other members of the judiciary committee declined to yield sole jurisdiction over the Clayton anti-trust bill.

Joint Session Sentiment.

The suggestion for joint sessions is said to be growing in favor, however, and Senator Reed was drawing a resolution on the subject when the senate adjourned.

Senator Reed said the "unfair competition" section of the trade commission bill would dispel public sentiment in favor of trust legislation without giving the people a single remedy not already accorded them by the courts. Moreover, he believed the people never would sanction a bill which would place the business of the country in the control of a board governed by no rule of conduct except its own conception of right and wrong.

Senators Newlands and Saulsbury of the interstate commerce committee repeatedly urged Senator Reed to suggest amendments to the trade bill to make it more specific.

Nelson a Critic.

Senator Nelson, another member of the judiciary committee, attacked the trade commission bill as merely "nibbling" at the trust problem, while pretending to solve the entire problem. He said the unfair competition section would act as a protection to trusts which had felt the uncomfortable effect of the Sherman anti-trust law.

DROWNED BOY HAD AN INJURY CLAIM

Mother of Ward Winters Collects Small Amount From Son's Employers — Other Compensation Cases Settled.

When Ward Winters, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Winters of Spirit Lake, came to his death by drowning in the St. Louis river, Dec. 18 last, he had $4.37 coming from his former employers, the Duluth Ice company, on a claim for personal injuries under the workmen's compensation act. He bruised his hand on Oct. 27 and was crippled for three and a half days.

In district court yesterday Judge Dancer signed an order approving a settlement between Mrs. Henrietta Winters, his mother, and the ice company for the amount named. Winters was drowned while skating. He had left the employ of the ice company but a few days before. At the time of his death he was supporting an aged mother. His father is blind and an invalid.

Judge Dancer has set Aug. 27 as a date for the hearing of a contested claim of Charles A. Worling against the Minnesota Cedar & Logging company. Worling was injured by a falling log while working in one of the company's camps fifty miles north of Deer River on April 14 last. A log fell on his right foot, crushing it.

Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing has approved the settlement of two claims against the Oliver Iron Mining company brought by workmen in the Spruce mine. Axel Niemi, 29, will receive $128.25 for the loss of his left hand little finger on June 20 last, and John Grudelj, 23, will receive $8.40 for thirteen and a half weeks for broken ribs received in an accident on March 11 last.

THE CALAMITY HOWL

By SAVOYARD.

Washington, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Possibly it was when John Quincy Adams was president, though it might have been after Gen. Jackson came in, that a man named Morgan printed a book in New York state that purported to reveal the "secrets of Masonry." The book would have amounted to nothing had not Morgan disappeared. Silly and nervous folks contended that he had been murdered by Masons. The thing got into politics. A party called "anti-Masonic" was formed. William H. Seward and Thaddeus Stevens joined it and for a time it flourished, especially in New York, Pennsylvania and part of New England. It nominated a candidate for president in 1832 and who do you think it was? Why, William Wirt, a Mason, and he carried Vermont in the electoral college. But the party died, and is now remembered only as one of the many political concerns that failed to destroy the party of Jefferson.

In New York, not long after Morgan's disappearance, they discovered what Daniel Webster in the finest figure to be found in any of his orations called "a dead corpse," and there were those to swear that it was the corpse of Morgan. I believe somebody was convicted of murder as a result. The story was that Thurlow Weed, the grandfather of Boss Barnes of New York, viewed the remains and made the declaration that it was "good enough Morgan till after the election."

Your unscrupulous and bitter partisan always has a "good enough Morgan" in stock. Just now it is calamity. Such men as Smoot, Borah, Pristow, Cummins, Mondell, Humphrey and others are lugging it around hoping that it will serve "till after the election." For years the Republicans have been proclaiming that the Democratic party is incapable of successfully administering the affairs of the government. They have repeated it so persistently that they have come to believe it. Only the other day one of them declared that the Democratic tariff had ruined the wool industry, and that in the teeth of the fact that wool is higher today in price than it was under the McKinley tariff, or the Dingley tariff, or the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

Only this morning Morris Sheppard, senator from Texas, told me that he had just received a letter from an extensive wool grower in his state, who had bitterly opposed free wool, in which communication the sheep man acknowledged his error and congratulated the senator on his stand for free wool. The American wool grower is now getting the advantage of that 11 cents a pound tariff tax that the Democrats took off wool.

One of our calamity howlers declared that there were 3,000,000 men involuntarily idle because of "Democratic hard times." He could have said 30,000,000. The harvest field is crying for labor and only yesterday two big steel works in Pennsylvania resumed work with full complements of men and full hours.

Now there is no doubt that there has been depression in business and every bit of it is due to the filibusters in congress against the Wilson policies. All his measures ought to have been embalmed in the law by the first of August after his inauguration, but the opposition in congress forbade, and they, not Wilson, held up business. The tariff did not become the law till October. The banking bill was held up several months later. The tolls bill was in the senate for months.

And now the senate has the anti-trust bills in its hands, and nobody knows when the senate will dispose of them. Business wants to know, everybody wants to know. This is no time to pass sentence of condemnation on the Wilson policies, for they have not been tried, and the opposition is afraid to give them a trial.

Even Democrats have besought Wilson to "let up on the trusts." Every one of the rapacious monopolies was developed under the Sherman anti-trust law, and Mr. Oscar Underwood implores the president to call off congress and leave his work half-baked. Well, he is not going to do it. He is going to have his policies perfected or know the reason why. There are intimations in Republican circles that Mr. Underwood will defy the president and secure an adjournment of congress by July 15. I hope it is not true. Should he do so Mr. Underwood will be as disastrously beaten as he was when he advocated that ship subsidy of non-Democrats and unholy memory.

Will the opposition dare to filibuster on the anti-trust measures? It is a ticklish business, for the people are more intelligent and better versed in public affairs than they once were. Bristow, Cummins, Borah, La Follette and others voted against the income tax and the folks at home have not forgotten that and should they hold congress here till frost filibustering against legislation designed to loosen the grasp of monopoly on the plain people of the land they will hear from it.

The fact is just this and only this—these gentry have a premonition that the Wilson policies when put into law will prove marvelously successful. That is what they are afraid of. That is why they filibustered against them; but the president is inexorable and congress might as well make up its mind to enact the bills and be done with it.

Sometimes it is dangerous to predict, but not this time, and here it is: When the senate votes on the anti-trust bills a majority of the Republicans will vote for them as a majority of them did in the house.

FORMER CABARET GIRL SPEAKS OUT

Tells Vice Committee of Some Naughty Acts in Milwaukee Cafe.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 14.—Sensational testimony was offered the Wisconsin vice commission late Monday afternoon by a female cabaret entertainer who came to Milwaukee from St. Louis, having been employed by a Chicago booking office to sing at a local cafe.

The young woman, whose identity was withheld, testified that the actions in the cafe in which she started to work on Saturday last were decidedly indecent.

According to her testimony, female entertainers were required to "sing a little," but that their most important duties were to mix with the male guests, "to be sociable" with them, to share their drinks and smoke, and in this way to help make the place "popular." Refusing to do this, she was discharged after one day's employment and was refused compensation.

Waiters Act Improperly.

She testified that the orders to be "indecent and be a good sport" were transmitted by the male waiters, who themselves acted very improperly toward her. Entertainers were supposed "to lead men on" according to the witness.

The cafe in question is on the "black list" and is to be closed shortly by order of the chief of police.

A number of manufacturers and mercantile managers testified at the afternoon session, their testimony generally being to the effect that the morals of Milwaukee are on a much higher plane since the abolishment of the segregated vice district two years ago.

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

Should One Bathe in Hot Water?

FROM the hygienic standpoint the recent dictum of the great English physician that people bathe too much nowadays, has much to corroborate it. To keep cool is a hygienic duty. And the bathing habit is of doubtful utility for this purpose.

There is no denying that a modern bathroom has a cool, tempting look these torrid days. It does seem as though a cool shower bath or a plunge in the cool water would make one comfortable for the rest of the day. But does it?

What regulates body temperature? The external environment—air, water, clothing? No. The body temperature is regulated by the nervous system, and the nervous system reacts in peculiar ways to external impressions. For example, a cool or cold bath is stimulating to the nervous system. The touch of the cold water arouses the delicate nerve terminals in the skin, these flash a message to the heat regulating centers in the medulla and a hurry-up call goes out to the surface blood vessels and to all the circulation. The result is a more active circulation and increased warmth. That is why a cold shower, like a drink of liquor or a cigarette, simply creates a desire for another.

The Scientific Solution.

On the other hand, one hardly craves a hot bath in warm weather. It leaves the body relaxed and limp and encourages profuse and continuous perspiration. Still it is obvious that the human skin, hampered in its work of elimination by clothing, requires washing at more frequent intervals in summer than in winter.

The reasonable solution of the problem is a matter of science. We should neither practice stimulation of an already over-worked skin, nor should we further relax an already dripping membrane. The happy mean is the thing. A tepid bath, at or about body warmth, taken as often as may be for cleanliness. This leaves one refreshed, yet not due for a reaction or an all-day soak.

The reader may test this idea for himself by trying the suggestion for a day or two upon his face. Cold water brings a reactionary flush and warmth to the face; hot water leaves it relaxed and perspiring; tepid water refreshes.

Questions and Answers.

Smoker asks: Is there any pipe tobacco which contains less nicotine or does less harm to the system than ordinary brands?

REPLY.

Some tobaccos contain much larger quantities of nicotine than others. But there is good reason to doubt whether any nicotine is present in tobacco smoke. Practically there is no choice between brands, so far as effects upon the health are concerned.

B. B. P. writes: I am a baseball player and the doctor tells me I have a small inguinal hernia. He urges me to be operated on, but several of our family have died of heart disease and I fear the anesthetic. Could it be done under cocain?

REPLY.

The fact that others in your family had heart disease is of little or no consequence in estimating the condition of your heart. Yes, the operation can be done under a local anesthetic, is often performed under novocain.

* * *

Miss A. W. asks: Is the use of oxydonor advisable for one with chronic cough and run down condition?

REPLY.

If you mean a little mysterious metal cylinder filled with earth or sand or metal filings and attached to the victim of credulity by means of cords which are supposed to conduct the "oxygen," no. It is one of the greatest hoaxes ever foisted on an unprotected public.

* * *

Mrs. R. L. A. asks: Will you please explain what was meant in one of your articles when you said one can catch cold from oneself?

REPLY.

The same article mentioned the fact that at least one in each five persons habitually harbors pneumococci ("cold" germs) in the mouth or throat. Now when that one person abuses himself with bad air, overfeeding, excessive coddling, alcohol or other vitiating influence, his pneumococci may invade the tissues and cause a coryza (head "cold"), sore throat, tonsilitis, quinsy, bronchitis, pluerisy, pneumonia or any one of a dozen other illnesses.

The Homecroft Corner

Conducted By C. E. Roe.

Questions sent to Mr. Roe or to The Herald will be answered.

Gardeners' Calendar.
Destroy noxious weeds.
Thin beets and carrots.
Can beet greens for winter use.
Start lettuce plants for late crop.
Trim tomato plants.
Hoe corn and potatoes.

While the ground is wet and soft large weeds can be easily pulled and removed from the garden. Great care should be used to see that none are allowed to go to seed. The Canada thistle, quack grass, dandelion, plantain and dock are all weed enemies that threaten Duluth gardens. The roots must be removed as well as the tops.

Beets, carrots and onions should be properly thinned when the weeding is done. Carrots should stand about three inches apart in the row and beets should have fully four inches between them. The young carrots are tender and delicious and should not be wasted when the thinning is done. Beet thinnings are excellent for greens, using both tops and roots. Any surplus of beet thinnings should be canned for winter use.

After the greens are cooked and the cans are sealed, cans should be returned to the boiler and held at the boiling point for one hour and fifteen minutes. Any vegetable which undergoes this sterilization process will keep indefinitely. Be sure to have a support for jars on the bottom of boiler so that the hot water can circulate under bottom of jar.

There is still time to sow head lettuce for later transplanting. When plants are about two inches high they should be carefully lifted and set about one foot apart, as soon as plants start to grow, hoe carefully and repeat the process every week until ready for the table.

In order to insure good fruit and ripen it, tomato plants should be staked and trimmed. Cut off all suckers coming from the root and trim the plant to one or two vines, pinching out shoots starting from the axils of the leaf. Personally, I have found the low trellis better than stakes. Drive posts about eight feet apart leaving them eighteen inches or two feet high and nail a top rail to these posts. The vine can then be tied to the rail in several places. By this method the fruit is brought nearer to the ground which radiates some heat at night, and the high winds are less liable to break or injure the vines.

Cucumbers will give better results if the ends of the vines are pinched off just after the blossoms start. Squash vines should be pruned in the same manner.

Remember that beans should never be hoed nor handled when the vines are wet. Rust is sure to result.

Redding, Cal., July 14.—The sixteenth decisive eruption of Lassen peak since the volcano first broke into renewed activity on May 30, occurred at 2:50 p. m. yesterday. A piebald cloud, half jet black and half pure white, shot several thousand feet into the air.

ASKS RECEIVER FOR SOLVENT CONCERN.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 14.—Judge John R. Hazel in Federal court here has appointed receivers for the United States Light & Heating company, a $17,500,000 corporation engaged in the manufacture of car lighting and heating apparatus. The application was made by Frederick R. Humpage, one of a committee of three appointed last December by a minority stockholders' committee to investigate the operations of the company.

In his petition Mr. Humpage said the company is solvent, and will succeed if properly managed. The assets of the company were placed at $3,000,000 and liabilities at $900,000.

"MUCH OBLIGED, UNCLE SAM, BUT WE CAN MOVE CROP ALONE," BANKERS' MESSAGE

Do Not Need Government Money to Move Wheat.

All Four Local National Banks Decline Proffered Aid.

So strongly entrenched are Duluth banks financially, that they will likely be abundantly able to take care of the requirements of their customers during the crop moving period this fall.

Such is the opinion of the managements of the four local national banks, and in each case their reply to the recent offer of the treasury department at Washington of deposits of funds to be available for crop moving purposes, has been to the effect that they will not be required.

"I think that we are going to be in good shape this fall and so far as I can see we should be able to do our share in handling the crop movement," said A. L. Ordean, president of the First National bank, today. "Though the harvest promises to be a bumper one, it looks as if we should be able to round the corner without any stringency being brought about. It must also be remembered, too, that our district Federal Reserve bank is likely to be in operation this fall to help out."

William G. Hegardt, vice president of the American Exchange National bank, said, "We have replied to the government circular to the effect that our bank will not require any deposit of funds during crop-moving period. We got through all right last year, and unless conditions change materially, we should be all right this fall."

"We were in line with the other banks here in declining assistance from the treasury department," said J. W. Lyder, cashier of the Northern National bank. "As shown in the last statement of conditions, Duluth banks have their funds in such liquid shape that they are prepared for any emergency."

H. C. Matzke, assistant cashier of the City National bank, said that its management had also declined the government's proffer, taking the view that the assistance would not be necessary.

Follow Same Course.

In taking the action they have, it is to be noted that Duluth bankers are following their course of a year ago when they refused to accept the allotments of government deposits made to them. Last fall the government put out $37,000,000 in deposits with a view to assisting in moving the crops, none of which came either here or to the Twin Cities. It is now expected that the Federal reserve bank at Minneapolis will be opened for business during September. The directing banks are now voting on the directorates of the class A, B, and C groups in the district. A few other formalities will then remain to be complied with before the Federal reserve bank's certificate can be issued.

The following is the text of the circular letter addressed by Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department to all the national bank presidents asking for their opinions as to crop moving needs. "In order that the treasury department may determine intelligently to what extent, if at all, it may be necessary or desirable this season to deposit government funds in national banks in different sections of the country to meet the legitimate demands of business due to the movement of the crops, or to other commercial causes, I shall greatly appreciate it if you will send me promptly answers to the following questions which are being submitted also to other national banks:

1. "Does your bank expect to have any unusual demand for money or credit within the next six months? If so for what purpose or purposes?

2. "To what extent, in your judgment, will funds be needed in your immediate section in addition to what local banks may be able to supply conveniently and normally, from their own resources, or through the usual accommodations from correspondents?

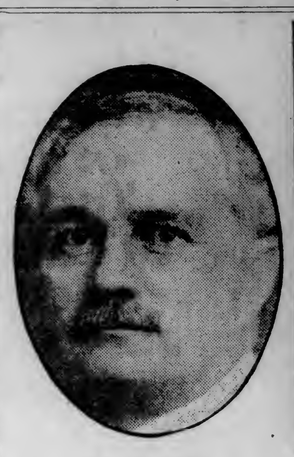

3. "During what months between now and Jan. 1, 1915, will additional funds, if any, be most needed?

4. "If, in your opinion, it is desirable to deposit public funds, as was done last year, in the national banks in certain principal cities of different states, please indicate when and to what extent you think it may be desirable to place such funds in the national banks in principal cities in your state, upon the assumption that the banks in such principal cities will use such funds, as far as practicable, for the accommodation of their country bank correspondents.

5. "If such deposits should be made this season, please state when you think the deposit placed in your community could be returned conveniently to the treasury, indicating the proportions of the deposits to be returned each month, so that the last repayments may be made not later than March 1, 1915.

6. "What security—commercial paper, United States or other bonds—can, with greatest advantage to general business and with safety to the government, be given by the banks in your section to secure such government deposits?

"While it is expected that the Federal reserve banks will begin business in time to assist in moving the crops this fall, the treasury department will, nevertheless, be prepared to help business, to the full extent of its powers through the proper use of government funds if it becomes apparent at any time that such help is needed in any section of the country."

WEST END WILL CELEBRATE

At a meeting of the West End Commercial club to be held Thursday evening at Simonson hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, plans will be made for celebrating in this end of the city in honor of the installation of the "white way." The festivities will be held about the middle of August.

Members of the club will interest every merchant on the street in the affair. Their co-operation in making the celebration a big success will be asked.

The club members will also plan the opening of the public market on Saturday. Citizens of the West end will be asked to liberally patronize the place and do all in their power to encourage a large number of the farmers to visit it on market days with their produce.

A committee which has been working on the proposed opening of Railroad street will also make its report. Members of the club aver that no step has so far been taken by the city in providing a connection between Garfield avenue and the docks along the bay and intend insisting on having this matter attended to at early date.

STREET WORK AND SALOONS

Occupy the Attention of the City Commissioners.

Purchase of Aerial Truck Is Authorized, Voss Alone Dissenting.

Street improvements and saloon matters occupied most of the attention of a rather featureless city council meeting yesterday afternoon.

A resolution was passed ordering the improvement of Michigan street from the east line of Second avenue east to the west line of Fifth avenue east. No petition has been received for the work so that the resolution will have to lay over sixty days before it becomes effective, unless in the meantime a sufficient remonstrance is filed. It is proposed to pave the street to a width of twenty feet. The estimated cost of concrete is $7,085.04; brick, $10,525.24, and sandstone, $11,837.64.

The resolution awarding D. H. Clough & Co. the contract for the paving of South First avenue east from the N. P. tracks to Buchanan street and Sutphin street between First and Lake avenues, was given its first reading. Under the charter it must lay over a week before final passage, as it involves more than $1,000. While the property owners expressed a preference for brick with a concrete curb, the resolution calls for brick with a granite curb. The city officials feel that concrete is not the proper material for a street which will have as much heavy traffic as that in question. They prefer granite with sandstone as the alternative. Clough's bid for brick with a granite curb was $35,018.08 and for brick with a sandstone curb, $35,363.93. With an armored concrete curb the cost would be between $25,000 and $38,000. The contractor and the city engineer said that the steel would attract heat and result in the concrete being pulled out where it was anchored.

Mysterious Applicant.

A young mystery developed when the application of one Morris Lazebuik for a saloon license at 1201 West Michigan street was read by the city clerk. Safety Commissioner W. A. Hicken said that he didn't know the applicant and that the agents of the building knew nothing of any one having rented it. At his suggestion the application was taken from the file until some definite information as to the applicant is available. The room for which the license is asked is part of a small hotel building which has been vacant for some months.

Deny Frey License.

The application of J. J. Frey for a saloon license in the Grand hotel, 5217 Ramsey street, West Duluth, which was tabled last Monday, was recalled at the meeting yesterday afternoon on motion of Commissioner Hicken. The safety head then submitted a resolution denying the application and it was passed unanimously. Several large petitions were presented opposing a saloon at that location and several organizations passed resolutions asking that the application be denied.

Buy Aerial Truck.

The resolution awarding a contract to the American La France Fire Engine company for a motor aerial truck costing $10,500 was passed by a vote of 4 to 1, Finance Commissioner Voss voting against it. The finance commissioner did not voice the objections raised by him when the purchase of the truck was considered at previous meetings. The city will pay $9,500 cash for the machine, $1,000 being allowed for the motive old truck now in use.

Commissioner Murchison and City Engineer Wilson were appointed a committee to confer with County Commissioner Charles Kauppi and County Engineer Coe, the county committee, to devise a plan for repairing Mission creek at Fond du Lac so that future storm damages will be prevented. The creek has been overflowing each spring, damaging considerable property.

The resolution citing Henry Casmir, proprietor of the saloon at 505 West Michigan street, to appear before the council to show cause why his license should not be revoked, was placed on the table on motion of Commissioner Hicken. Casmir's bartender was recently convicted of selling liquor to a minor. The commissioner said that there are extenuating circumstances connected with the case. He stated that if later developments showed that the license ought to be revoked the original motion could be recalled. If there are no later developments Casmir will be allowed to run his saloon until the license expires next year, after which the building will be penalized for a year.

Residence District.

A petition was presented asking that lots 1 to 8, block 17 and lots 1 to 3, block 18, New Endion division, and lots 1 to 8, block 18, lots 1 to 16, block 19 and lots 1 to 16, block 20, Harrison's division, be designated a residence district. A resolution was passed directing that the application be advertised for a hearing.

The resolution awarding the Carnegie Fuel company the contract for the year's coal supply was given its first reading. An ordinance appropriating $12,000 for this purpose was recently passed.

Eklund and Hedberg were awarded the contract for the construction of a sanitary sewer in Magellan street between Forty-ninth and Forty-seventh avenues west on their bid of $1,950.

D. H. Clough & Co., were awarded the contract for concreting Third alley between Lake and First avenue west to a width of sixteen feet on their bid of $1,501.16.

Sanitary sewers were ordered constructed in East Seventh street between Nineteenth and Eighteenth avenues and in East Tenth street between Ninth and Eighth avenues.

An iron stairway was authorized to be built from the east side of the Lake avenue viaduct to the lower side of Michigan street, the cost not to exceed $300. The property owners benefited will pay half the cost.

Have Damage Claim.

Erick and Selma Johnson filed notice of damage claims aggregating $2,575. They allege that because of the city's negligence their automobile was precipitated into a ditch on Sixty-third avenue west between Bristol and Green streets the night of June 20. They say that they were seriously hurt, their baby killed and the machine badly damaged.

The damage claim of James F. Sexton was authorized settled for $250, and that of Mrs. Mausolf of 722 East Seventh street for $25. Both claimed damages because of falls to sidewalks.

D. C. Thompson and C. G. von Suessmilch were directed to build a 24-inch culvert across their lots on London road between Fortieth and Forty-first avenues east. Overflowing water has caused damage to the street, the present 12-inch culvert being too small.

A resolution was passed awarding the Great Northern Power company the contract for furnishing electricity for the Woodland pumping station.

Because it has been repeatedly broken, the council, upon recommendation of Commissioner Merritt, ordered the street light at Thirtieth avenue east and London road discontinued.

U. S. CAVALRY AND MEXICANS CLASH.

Douglas, Ariz., July 14.—Exchange of rifle fire without damage to either side took place between three Ninth cavalry troopers and fifteen Mexican irregulars Sunday night, three miles east of Dog Springs, N. M. According to reports reaching here, the Mexicans opened fire a short distance north of the border, when they were surprised while rounding up cattle belonging to American ranchers. The Mexicans retreated into Chihuahua when their fire was returned.

Another brush between the Ninth cavalry border patrol and Mexicans is reported to have taken place near Antelope Wells, New Mexico, where the Mexicans are said to have begun shooting across the border. There were no casualties.

DOCTOR MURDERED BY FORMER PATIENT.

Chicago, July 14.—Dr. Harold H. Steere was shot and killed last night by Anton Truskowski, a former patient, who then shot himself and died within a few minutes. In Truskowski's pockets the police found receipts showing that he had paid the physician and his partner $435 since last October.

Dynamite

THEN ..... and ..... NOW

Forty-six years ago today the first official test of dynamite in England was made. The hills around Merstham shook beneath the mighty vibrations of a new explosive born to civilization. It had been discovered by Alfred Nobel of Sweden and its experimental tests made in the preceding year. Nobel created it to take the place of the untamed nitro-glycerin which had appalled the world for several years with its grim tragedies. The inventor had lost his father and a brother when his nitro-glycerin factory had blown up a few years before his discovery. Its death toll was such that England, Belgium and Sweden forbade its manufacture. The world was aroused when as a climax to its record a ship loaded with nitro-glycerin blew up in mid-ocean while on its way from Europe to Chili, and the governments were on the point of prohibiting its use. It was then that Nobel began his experiments toward taming nitro-glycerin—and created dynamite, or "giant powder" as it was first called in the United States. In this world-wide propaganda to convince governments that dynamite was a safe explosive, the inventor came to America. It was while he was registering at a small hotel in New York that he casually exclaimed to the hotel clerk that his satchel contained dynamite. The clerk firmly ordered Nobel to seek other quarters, and was relieved when he went out of the door.

Today dynamite is being manufactured in the United States at the rate of 250,000,000 pounds a year. Filling 5,000 freight cars, it is constantly being transported over the railroads of the country. Though it is the third most powerful explosive in general use, it has been tamed so that railroad companies receive it for transportation almost as readily as they do coal. Nitro-glycerin, however, is still under the transportation ban in both the United States and Europe. Dynamite is today one of the most important factors in the progress of civilization. Without it the mighty engineering achievements—the Panama canal, the mountain and river tunnels—could not be accomplished. It takes an important part in building the modern skyscrapers; it is used to mine the necessary huge quantities of iron and other metals that enter into structures. It blasts out the millions of tons of coal that supply heat, light and power, and give life to the locomotives that bring food and clothing in the populace of cities. It is helping to grow the food we eat—the modern scientific farmer uses it to plow his land, its explosions shattering the sub-soil which no plow ever reaches. It is said to increase the crops greatly in quality by 50 per cent in quantity. Today dynamite is used to fight great conflagrations, to fight wars and to prepare for a large part of the progress of the world.

How English Beauties Keep Faces Youthful

Christian Miller, F. C. L., noted English health expert, attributes the early aging of American women mainly to the "national nervousness." The women of England, she says, can teach us the inestimable lesson of repose.

Another valuable lesson to be learned from the English woman is that she does not go in much for cosmetics, the continual use of which must ruin any complexion. The beauty devotees of King George's realm have the mercolized wax habit, a more wholesome method of keeping the face girlish-looking and healthy. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, rejuvenates the worst complexion. Women here may easily acquire the habit, this wax being obtainable at drug stores generally in the United States and Canada. It is applied at night and washed off in the morning. One ounce is sufficient to completely renovate a bad complexion. It has a peculiar action in keeping the face free from the particles of dead and devitalized scarf skin which are constantly appearing. —Advertisement.

"MUCH OBLIGED, UNCLE SAM, BUT WE CAN MOVE CROP ALONE," BANKERS' MESSAGE

Do Not Need Government Money to Move Wheat.

All Four Local National Banks Decline Proffered Aid.

A. L. ORDEAN.

J. W. LYDER, JR.

So stvongly entrenched are Duluth banks financially, that they will likely be abundantly able to take care of the requirements of their customers during the crop moving period this fall.

Such is the opinion of the managements of the four local national banks, and in each case their reply to the recent offer of the treasury department at Washington of deposits of funds to be available for crop moving purposes, has been to the effect that they will not be required.

"I think that we are going to be in good shape this fall and so far as I can see we should be able to do our share in handling the crop movement," said A. L. Ordean, president of the First National bank, today. "Though the harvest promises to be a bumper one, it looks as if we should be able to round the corner without any stringency being brought about. It must also be remembered, too, that our district Federal Reserve bank is likely to be in operation this fall to help out."

William G. Hegardt, vice president of the American Exchange National bank, said, "We have replied to the government circular to the effect that our bank will not require any deposit of funds during crop-moving period. We got through all right last year, and unless conditions change materially, we should be all right this fall."

"We were in line with the other banks here in declining assistance from the treasury department," said J. W. Lyder, cashier of the Northern National bank. "As shown in the last statement of conditions, Duluth banks have their funds in such liquid shape that they are prepared for any emergency."

H. C. Matzke, assistant cashier of the City National bank, said that its management had also declined the government's proffer, taking the view that the assistance would not be necessary.

Follow Same Course.

In taking the action they have, it is to be noted that Duluth bankers are following their course of a year ago when they refused to accept the allotments of government deposits made to them. Last fall the government put out $37,000,000 in deposits with a view to assisting in moving the crops, none of which came either here or to the Twin Cities. It is now expected that the Federal reserve bank at Minneapolis will be opened for business during September. The directing banks are now voting on the directorates of the class A, B and C groups in the district. A few other formalities will then remain to be compiled with before the Federal reserve bank's certificate can be issued.

The following is the text of the circular letter addressed by Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department to all the national bank presidents asking for their opinions as to crop moving needs. "In order that the treasury department may determine intelligently to what extent, if at all, it may be necessary or destrable this season to deposit government funds in national banks in different sections of the country to meet the legitimate demands of business due to the movement of the crops, or to other commercial causes, I shall greatly appreciate it if you will send me promptly answers to the following questions which are being submitted also to other national banks:

1. "Does your bank expect to have any unusual demand for money or credit within the next six months? If so for what purpose or purposes?

2. "To what extent, in your judgment, will funds be needed in your immediate section in addition to what local banks may be able to supply conveniently and normally, from their own resources, or through the usual accommodations from correspondents?

3. "During what months between now and Jan. 1, 1915, will additional funds, if any, be most needed?

4. "If, in your opinion, it is desirable to deposit public funds, as was done last year, in the national banks in certain principal cities of different states, please indicate when and to what extent you think it may be desirable to place such funds in the national banks in principal cities in your state, upon the assumption that the banks in such principal cities will use such funds, as far as practicable, for the accommodation of their country bank correspondents.

5. "If such deposits should be made this season, please state when you think the deposit placed in your community could be returned conveniently to the treasury, indicating the proportions of the deposits to be returned each month, so that the last repayments may be made not later than March 1, 1915.

6. "What security—commercial paper, United States or other bonds—can, with greatest advantage to general business and with safety to the government, be given by the banks in your section to secure such government deposits?

"While it is expected that the Federal reserve banks will begin business in time to assist in moving the crops this fall, the treasury department will, nevertheless, be prepared to help business, to the full extent of its powers through the proper use of government funds if it becomes apparent at any time that such help is needed in any section of the country."

STREET WORK AND SALOONS

Occupy the Attention of the City Commissioners.

Purchase of Aerial Truck Is Authorized, Voss Alone Dissenting.

Street improvements and saloon matters occupied most of the attention of a rather featureless city council meeting yesterday afternoon.

A resolution was passed ordering the improvement of Michigan street from the east line of Second avenue east to the west line of Fifth avenue east. No petition has been received for the work so that the resolution will have to lay over sixty days before it becomes effective, unless in the meantime a sufficient remonstrance is filed. It is proposed to pave the street to a width of twenty feet. The estimated cost of concrete is $7,025.04; brick, $10,525.24, and sandstone, $11,827.64.

The resolution awarding D. H. Clough & Co. the contract for the paving of South First avenue east from the N. Dynamite

THEN and NOW

Forty-six years ago today the first official test of dynamite in England was made. The hills around Merstham shook beneath the mighty vibrations of a new explosive born to civilization. It had been discovered by Alfred Nobel of Sweden and its experimental tests made in the preceding year. Nobel created it to take the place of the untamed nitro-glycerin which had appalled the world for several years with its grim tragedies. The inventor had lost his father and a brother when his nitroglycerin factory had blown up a few years before his discovery. Its death toll was such that England, Belgium and Sweden forbade its manufacture. The world was aroused when as a climax to its record a ship loaded with nitro-glycerin blew up in mid-ocean while on its way from Europe to Chili, and the governments were on the point of prohibiting its use. It was then that Nobel began his experiments toward taming nitroglycerin—and created dynamite, or "giant powder" as it was first called in the United States. In this world-wide propaganda to convince governments that dynamite was a safe explosive, the inventor came to America. It was while he was registering at a small hotel in New York that he casually exclaimed to the hotel clerk that his satchel contained dynamite. The clerk firmly ordered Nobel to seek other quarters, and was relieved when he went out of the door.

Today dynamite is being manufactured in the United States at the rate of 250,000,000 pounds a year. Filling 5,000 freight cars, it is constantly being transported over the railroads of the country. Though it is the third most powerful explosive in general use, it has been tamed so that railroad companies receive it for transportation almost as readily as they do coal. Nitroglycerin, however, is still under the transportation ban in both the United States and Europe. Dynamite is today one of the most important factors in the progress of civilization. Without it the mighty engineering achievements—the Panama canal, the mountain and river tunnels—could not be accomplished. It takes an important part in building the modern skyscrapers; it is used to mine the necessary huge quantities of iron and other metals that enter into structures. It blasts out the millions of tons of coal that supply heat, light and power, and give life to the locomotives that bring food and clothing in the populace of cities. It is helping to grow the food we eat—the modern scientific farmer uses it to plow his land, its explosions shattering the sub-soil which no plow ever reaches. It is said to increase the crops greatly in quality by 50 per cent in quantity. Today dynamite is used to fight great conflagrations, to fight wars and to prepare for a large part of the progress of the world.

How English Beauties Keep Faces Youthful

Christian Miller, F. C. L., noted English health expert, attributes the early aging of American women mainly to the "national nervousness." The women of England, she says, can teach us the inestimable lesson of repose.

Another valuable lesson to be learned from the English woman is that she does not go in much for cosmetics, the continual use of which must ruin any complexion. The beauty devoteess of King George's realm have the mercolized wax habit, a more wholesome method of keeping the face girlish-looking and healthy. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, rejuvenates the worst complexion. Women here may easily acquire the habit, this wax being obtainable at drug stores generally in the United States and Canada. It is applied at night and washed off in the morning. One ounce is sufficient to completely renovate a bad complexion. It has a peculiar action in keeping the face free from the particles of dead and devitalized scarf skin which are constantly appearing. —Advertisement.

Deterioration and dirt have always been two of the hardest things to overcome in the marketing of prepared foods. Both manufacturers and health authorities have found this to be true. It looks now as if the double problem has been solved by the making of the Waxtite package, for it certainly is proof against dirt and moisture, and is calculated to keep the contents from losing any of their food value. This container should find immediate favor with housewives and all others who care for cleanliness and healthfulness in what they eat.

The new WAXTITE package ensures the delivery of KELLOGG'S TOASTED CORN FLAKES as crisp, fresh and full-flavored as they are when they leave our ovens.

Only ready-to-eat cereal food packed WAXTITE can be absolutely free from moisture, dust or odors.

That is why the Health and Pure Food Officials, named in the next column, are endorsing the WAXTITE package.

IS GOOD ON BOTH COASTS

New York and Seattle Men Optimistic on Business Outlook.

People Have the Complaining Habit, Says John C. Knight.

Business conditions on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts are improving and are sound from top to bottom acording to business representatives of New York city and Seattle, who are atten'ing the annual convention of the National Association of Business Owners and Managers at the Spalding hotel.

John C. Knight, manager of the Metropolitan Life building, New York city, the second largest building in the world, who is a former president of the national association, is a business optimist. When asked regarding conditions in the East he said:

"There has been a depression, but there is nothing wrong with business. There isn't even a 'psychological' complaint that is well grounded. People have got in the habit of complainina about business, and that seems to be all the trouble.

"After the trust legislation is enacted and other administrative measures have got to working, I look to see a big forward movement in all lines of enterprise. Everything is ripe for progress."

C. B. Brown, manager of the Hoge building, Seattle, is just as optimistic about business in the West as Mr. Knight is about the East.

"Business in Seattle is good," said Mr. Brown, who arrived this morning. "There have been labor troubles in San Francisco, and depression in some parts of the West coast country, but everything in general is in good condition, and growing better every day."

NEW HAVEN DATA BEFORE LAWMAKERS

oly in violation of the Federal statutes.

The department of justice has taken that view in its dissolution suit against the New Haven system, which probably will be filed within the next few days unless the railroad officials reverse their attitude and accept the terms of peaceful dissolution.

The possibility of any criminal acts being in violation of Federal laws was being considered by the department, but that phase of the case is apart from the dissolution proceedings.

Copies of Testimony.

Certified copies of testimony and exhibits of evidence gathered by the commission's examiners were on their way by registered mail today to district attorneys in various jurisdictions in New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island in which New Haven transactions were carried out. The testimony and exhibits relate to such acts as the commission has characterized as unlawful, but upon which state officers, if any, must act.

The entire record was sent some time ago to the department of justice, where it has been under study by the attorneys in charge of the government's contemplated dissolution suit.

Morgan Denies Charge.

New York, July 14.—While J. P. Morgan & Co. consistently refused to discuss the report of the interstate commerce commission severely censuring the directors under the administration of Charles S. Mellen for "reckless and profligate" financial operations, estimated to have cost stockholders from $65,000,000 to $90,000,000, J. P. Morgan himself denies the charge that the commission's examiners were not accorded full access to the firm's books bearing on the New Haven. Correspondence made public at Washington told of Commissioner McChord's directing the chief examiner to cease the work as it was "useless."

Late last night Mr. Morgan issued this statement in reply:

"The information with regard to the withdrawal of the interstate commerce commission's examiners from the examination of the books of our firm is the first intimation that I have had that they have been recalled."

Out of I. C. C. Hands.

The New Haven situation is now out of the hands of the interstate commerce commission, and what action, if any, is taken on the recommendations that the directors be prosecuted, lies with the department of justice and the district attorneys in the states in which the system has lines.

Prosecuting Attorneys at New York, Boston, Hartford, New Haven, New London and other points had received no copies of the evidence today. It is understood, however, that copies will be received.

District Attorney Whitman reached his office shortly before 11 o'clock and issued this statement:

"When these papers (relative to the New Haven) reach this office they will be closely scrutinized, and if we have any reason to believe that any crime of any kind has been committed by any person connected with the New Haven railroad or its management in this country, an indictment will follow no matter who the person may be."

Directors and former directors of the road generally have refused to discuss the commission's report. Mr. Mellen, however, under whose administration the alleged acts complained of were committed, branded it as "a report of a political tribunal made for political purposes."

The full board of the present New Haven directors is to meet in New York on Thursday. At that time some statement bearing on the charges may be issued.

Defends Mellen.

Mr. Mellen's counsel, J. W. H. Crim, has issued a statement defending Mellen's actions. He said that Mellen's private fortune when he took charge of the New Haven was a million dollars. Now, he added, it was far less than that. He added that if the government or the stockholders began action against the directors of the New Haven railroad, as suggested by the commission, the directors would retaliate with what he termed an affirmative action, in which the other action would be nullified and much to the credit of Mr. Mellen and the directors would be established.

"Political," Says Mellen.

Stockbridge, Mass., July 14.—"The report of a political tribunal, made for political purposes," was the characterization made by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven road, of the interstate commerce commission's report on its investigation of the road. In a telephone interview Mr. Mellen said neither he nor any members of the board of directors of the road during the period covered by the report "was ever guilty of conscious negligence in any matter affecting the New Haven or the public."

"Every act of the New Haven of any importance while I was in control," he said, "was done with my complete knowledge and sanction, with two exceptions. I am prepared to defend every one of those acts before any tribunal in the country, including the great tribunal of public opinion."

The refusal of the directors to sell the road's steamship holdings, and the Westchester deal, were the two exceptions referred to by Mellen.

Blames Massachusetts.

"If the purchase of Boston & Maine stock by the Boston holding company," he continued, "is to be the basis of prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law, or any other law, the commonwealth of Massachusetts should be joined as co-defendant and co-conspirator against the law of the United States and the welfare of the people of New England; for, as is well known, this purchase was expressly authorized by the Massachusetts legislature.

"I wish the Federal prosecuting authorities would name the commonwealth as a joint defendant. I would gladly testify to the implication of some men who are prominent in Boston financial circles.

"I think it is a great honor to have been associated with J. P. Morgan. If I had to choose my associates, there is no man in the world I should prefer to him to be associated with.

"The commission had to knock some one, and as I was the only live man they could get, they picked me as the target."

"Knew What They Were Buying."

Philadelphia, Pa., July 14.—Samuel T. Bodine, president of the United Gas Improvement company, in discussing the purchase by the New Haven railroad from his company of the Rhode Island Securities company, said: "The New Haven people knew exactly what they were buying."

Referring to the report of the interstate commerce commission which had pointed to the securing of the Improvement company, Mr. Bodine said:

"They knew the story and Mellen wanted the property. They believed it to be a wise policy to control all transportation in New England. We were not anxious to sell. The New Haven sought the sale, and had to pay our price to get the company, and we naturally considered in making our price what we expected to make out of the property in the future."

Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and T. DeWitt Cuyler, directors of the New Haven road, declined to comment upon the report of the commission.

CONSTITUTIONALISTS ARE SWEEPING WEST COAST, SAYS HOWARD

icy of strict neutrality won the confidence of both contesting parties.

The destroyers Whipple, Truxlan and Paul Jones left today for Mare Island navy yard, via San Diego, to be overhauled.

Not Among Refugees.

Washington, July 14.—Gen. Huerta was not among the high official Mexican refugees sailing from Vera Cruz on the liner Espagne, according to early dispatches today from Gen. Funston.

The holding of the liner and the hurried repair of the railroad to Mexico City had been taken as an indication that the dictator was ready to flee with Adolfo De La Lama, Estava Ruiz, Querido Moheno and Gen. Maas, who sailed on the Espagne.

Reports from Consular Agent Carothers say Carranza has moved his provisional capital to Monterey from Saltillo.

The Brazilian minister to Mexico, who is caring for the interests of the United States in that country, telegraphed the state department last night that the resignation of Gen. Huerta in favor of Francisco Carbajal, the newly appointed minister of foreign affairs, was expected today or Wednesday.

Minister Suarez of Chile, one of the three mediators, anticipating the retirement of Huerta, sought in an informal talk with Secretary Bryan to learn what the attitude of the United States would be toward the Carbajal government. While the Washington government will not recognize Carbajal, Mr. Suarez learned that the American government was not disinclined to treat informally with the new administration until a transfer of power to the Constitutionalists could be affected.

Fernando Iglesias Calderon, head of the Liberal party in Mexico, and here on a mission for Gen. Carranza, holds the view that unless the Huerta forces are ready to capitulate, conferences would be futile.

Gen. Carranza notified the United States through John R. Silliman, formerly American consul at Saltillo and now personal representative of President Wilson there, that under no circumstances would he sanction conferences with representatives of Huerta. He told Mr. Silliman that only the unconditional surrender of the authorities at Mexico City would be accepted.

Why Carranza Insists.

Saltillo, July 14.—Why Gen. Carranza demands un unconditional surrender from President Huerta is told in a statement purporting to represent Carranza's views, issued by Isidrio Fabela, Constitutionalist minister of foreign affairs. Fabela said Constitutionalists never could agree to a provisional presidency under Francisco Carbajal as such an agreement would mean recognition of Huerta's acts, would prevent carrying out certain reforms to which the Constitutionalists are pledged and also "would leave the Federal army armed and unpunished, which might lead to the renewal of hostilities."

Some Reforms.

Abolition of company commissaries which tend to make the laborer a peon; home rule for municipalities; reforms in the general land tax laws and tariffs, providing free trade and reforms of civil and penal laws, are among the urgent reforms Venustiano Carranza desires to make, Fabela's statement asserts. The laws would be enforced until establishment of Constitutionalist law and order, and later ratified or rectified by congress.

The impossibility of securing the consent of all the generals to changing the plan of Guadaloupe, Fabela asserts, would prevent acceptance of the proposed provisional presidency plan. A provisional president could not carry out the desired reforms, as he would "be forced to act in accordance with obligations and rights defined by the Constitution, and could not dictate without being subjected to attacks. He would meet armed opposition if he attempted to apply necessary laws."

The statement concludes with the declaration that justice will be meted out to all Federal soldiers, and that Carranza is the only man with ability to carry out the Constitutionalist plan.

Villa Takes Same View.

Chihuahua, July 14.—Gen. Francisco Villa, in commenting on the proposed retirement of Gen. Huerta and the creation of a provisional presidency at Mexico City, said that such a course would not be acceptable either to Gen. Carranza or himself, no matter who the provisional president might be. Nothing but an entry under arms of the Constitutionalist forces could bring the revolution to a successful and logical conclusion, he said.

The victory of the Constitutionalist cause must be complete, Villa said, which would not be the case in the event any part of the Huerta government was incorporated into the next administration to be established in Mexico.

Courtesy to U. S.

Mexico City, July 14.—Foreign Minister Carbajal paid a visit to all the legations last evening, returning the ministers' visit of the morning. Special honor was accorded the Brazilian minister, upon whom Senor Carbajal called first. According to custom the Spanish minister, as dean of the corps, should have had this honor, and the action of the foreign minister is interpreted as a courtesy to the United States and Brazil.

No further steps have been taken by the British [illegible] Sir Lionel Carden, [illegible] the departure of British residents and the visit to the capital of Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock causes much speculation.

Omaha After Convention.

As soon as the Omaha delegation arrived in Duluth a campaign was launched to secure next year's convention for Omaha. The delegates declare that the Panama exposition next year will bring practically all the members of the association through that city and that this fact makes Omaha the logical city for the convention. The Atlanta delegates are working hard for the convention, also, and a big fight is expected.

The program was begun at 10 o'clock. Rev. Thomas J. MacLean, vicar of

J. J. FORBRICH,
Manager Tegler Building, Edmonton, the "Farthest North" Skyscraper.

Trinity Pro-Cathedral, Duluth, pronounced the benediction, and Whitney Wall, local official of the national association and chairman of the general committee, gave an address of welcome in behalf of the Duluth association. Mr. Wall's address, while being brief, was strictly to the point and put all the delegates into a happy frame of mind. Mayor W. I. Prince welcomed the delegates in behalf of the city of Duluth.

President Randall arrived at 9:30 a. m. from Chicago and made his official address shortly after reaching headquarters.

Manufacturers from all parts of the United States are arriving and will have exhibits of an elaborate nature in the Spalding lobby.

President J. E. Randall spoke in part as follows:

"The generous reception accorded the delegates by our esteemed fellow member, Mr. Whitney Wall, on behalf of the Duluth real estate men, and the cordial welcome tendered by his honor, Mayor Prince, on behalf of the city of Duluth, come as a most happy termination of our eventful journey to this beautiful city. It becomes my great pleasure to express, on behalf of the members of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers here assembled, and on behalf of those absent members, who have been disappointed in their intention to be with us, the sincerest appreciation of the good will of our worthy hosts, and of the genuine welcome received at their hands. It is small wonder that Duluth has succeeded in becoming one of the largest grain shipping ports of the world. A welcome, such as we have received, would make the most refractory shipper wish to return and again renew the friendships first formed.

"It is most fitting that our seventh annual convention should be held in this progressive city, where the snap and vigor of the northern climate is carried into the business of the municipality and which, I hope, will fill each of us with the strength which fathers the desire to put a shoulder to the wheel of the national association wagon and push in the direction from which the sun of success is shining.

A Little History.

"Our organization, which first spread its wings in Cleveland in the year 1910 with Mr. John C. Knight as president, has been developing in the crysalys stage since the first convention of the building managers in Chicago in 1908.

"It was found in most cities that there are many local questions which can only be answered through a nation-wide search. Many of us had exalted opinions and narrow views regarding the value of the experience we had gathered and were slow to part with any of it to those who might be making inquiry. The splendid results accomplished at Seattle, however, welded a binding link which made possible the wonderful gathering last year at Cincinnati.

"At the Cincinnati convention we found ourselves going deeper than ever before into matters vital to building operators. The usefulness of the central agency was compared with the desirability of individual management.

"Operating costs on a square foot basis were submitted.

"Profitable heights of buildings were discussed.

"The duties of a building manager were laid out.

"Electric plants and smoke abatement schemes were investigated and building codes were analyzed, but above all else there was a decidedly pronounced movement toward the furtherance of the idea of forming local associations, and we were most ably addressed on this subject by Mr. Hanks of Spokane.

Local Associations.

"In my judgment there is nothing which is so important to the development of the usefulness of the national association at this time as the formation of local associations. I wish to take this opportunity to compliment the committee on local associations, and its energetic chairman upon the valuable services performed during the past twelve months.

"As time passes, the local associations, through their secretaries or other officers, will discover the full value of meeting each other and exchanging experiences. There is nothing so educational as the opportunity to add the experience of others to that which you have acquired, and the man who is aware that he does not know everything about a particular subject will always be in serious danger of learning something regarding it.

"At this convention the committee for advancement of local organizations will have a splendid report to make regarding the new associations formed during the year.

"The need for local associations has been positively demonstrated, and where there were only two of them in 1908, there are now approximately twenty and others in the process of formation. The officers of these associations are the men who must necessarily gather the best information for the benefit of their members. They become the crucible in which ideas are brought together to be poured out in definite shape for your use and benefit.

"The number of local associations, and their importance in the cities in which they operate, make it possible to at last have that which will doubtless prove to be not only the real operating energy of our national association, but the balance wheel and safety valve which will keep the machine steady and in constant operation.

"It is my pleasure and privilege to announce to you that the first official conference of the officers of local associations in the history of our national association will be held at 4:30 p. m. on Wednesday, July 15, and a report of the work and recommendations of that conference will be submitted to you in the executive meeting on Friday, July 17.

Work of Committees.

"Splendid work has been done during the last year by your insurance committee and its members will have matters of vital interest to place before you.

"The membership committee has wisely refrained from any general canvass for new members. It has been the desire to keep strictly to owners and managers so that the name of our association will carry its full meaning. This committee has a most satisfactory report for your consideration and one which shows that a great deal of time and energy was expended in making so successful a campaign.

"The income tax committee did some strenuous work prior to the first passage of the new income tax law and during the uncertainty of its early interpretation. Your committee will tell us of some of its efforts and achievements in this direction and will show you that its recommendations carried great weight in the United States senate.

Outline of Convention.

"A. Hawley, chairman of the rental area basis committee, is to favor us with one of his delightfully thorough talks on the subject of his committee's work. It is time that we had a nationally accepted method of measuring floor space areas which are rented by the square foot. I have no doubt that this committee has solved the problem and will be able to present recommendations to you which may be definitely acted upon and which, if adopted by you, will doubtless be accepted in our courts of law as authority in all future disputes regarding the meaning of square foot areas in office buildings.

"The official organ of publicity committee will have a recommendation to make.

"Ralph Hawley, chairman of the committee on electrolysis, will have some interesting things to tell you regarding the researches made by his committee. Great pains have been taken to find out if electrolysis is really to blame for the hasty corrosion and pitting of steel structures, water piping, etc.

"Your treasurer, L. L. Banks of Pittsburg, will have a most thorough report to make and I believe some recommendations to submit. It has been a source of great satisfaction to me to have had the loyal assistance of this able gentleman in handling the business of the association.

"Your secretary, C. A. Patterson, has been untiring in his efforts to further the interests of the association. He has cheerfully sought and furnished information to all members who called on him for it. Some of the subjects on which he was consulted required the sacrifice of a great deal of time. He has kept us informed, through the medium of his publication as well as by letter, of the developments of legislation affecting our interests and has always freely and ungrudgingly given his time when occasion called for it. Mr. Patterson is almost entirely responsible for the preparation of the splendid program we have come to hear, and I wish to take this opportunity to thank both him and Mr. Banks for the great assistance they have so willingly given me in the discharge of my duties as your president, and to further ask the members here assembled to express to them the esteem in which we all hold them and the appreciation which we feel for the efficient and unselfish manner in which they have discharged their official duties, by a rising vote.

Benefits of Membership.

"During the past year I have been repeatedly asked: 'What are the benefits of membership in the National Association of Building Owners and Managers?' and although I am confident some of you can add a number of benefits which you have derived and which I may have overlooked, I submit the following as some which I can see and appreciate and which will be shown conclusively in the work of your committees:

"The first is the demonstration of the necessity of local associations for local interests.

"Second—Assistance in formation of local associations and information as to what local associations can accomplish.

"Third—Assistance in obtaining information on all matters pertaining to office buildings in any part of the United States.

"Fourth—Bringing local associations of widely separated cities into close touch with each other on matters of common interest so that facts developed in a number of cities may be brought together for use by the local association of any one city.

"Fifth—It creates a medium through which national problems can be approached.

"Sixth—It brings together the representative members in all cities of any state to work as a unit in gaining good legislation affecting property and in obstructing legislation which is undesirable.

"Seventh—It keeps in close contact with the latest improvements in office building construction, methods of accounts, taxation, insurance, etc.

"Eighth—As the local association is the concentration of individual interests for mutual protection and benefit locally, so the national association is the concentration of the interests of the local associations and individuals to the end that its influence may be most potent in all matters touching interests which are beyond the scope of the individual or of the local association.

"Ninth—Through the medium of a yearly convention the building owners and managers from all cities are brought together to form a co-operative working acquaintance for mutual advantage in the exchange of experiences.

"The representative attendance here is a splendid tribute to the growing usefulness of our national association. The management of office buildings has ceased to be the by-product of an attorney's office or real estate agency.

Need of Trained Men.

"Owing to the ever-increasing size of office buildings, the necessity for men trained especially for their management has arisen. Those of us who have made the different phases of the construction and operation of office buildings our life's study are valuable to the owners of such properties, not only in the things we have learned how to do, but in our ability to avoid expensive, dividend-consuming, superfluous details.

"Those of us who have been engaged in this work the longest cannot boast an experience of more than approximately twenty-five years, for prior to that time there were only the old types of masonry buildings which did not carry the expensive modern conveniences.

"Elevators were in the experimental stage and comparatively few in use.

"General lavatories were used where now individual office lavatories are a necessity and hot and cold water indispensable.

"The sanitary arrangements as regards toilet rooms were extremely poor. Now we must have the most approved sanitary devices in order to satisfy the city inspections.

"Electricity was in its infancy.

"The idea of using only filtered water throughout a building would have been considered preposterous.

"Artificial ventilating systems were almost unheard of except where operated by an individual tenant in his own premises.

"The generation of office building managers following us will have the advantage of the solid foundation built by the pioneer work which has been done in this field. Judging from the improvements in equipment and from the combinations of beauty and practical service in construction, there is plenty ahead to keep these gentlemen busily occupied in their search for efficient and economical methods of construction and operation. It is to these eager, earnest and persevering men that the National Association of Building Owners and Managers can be of greatest benefit.

"Efficiency can be acquired only through persistence and continuity of purpose. There are two things that lead to the acquisition of the knowledge which makes experts in any field of work. The first is that of specifying and the second is that of qualifying. To have specified makes qualifying easier.

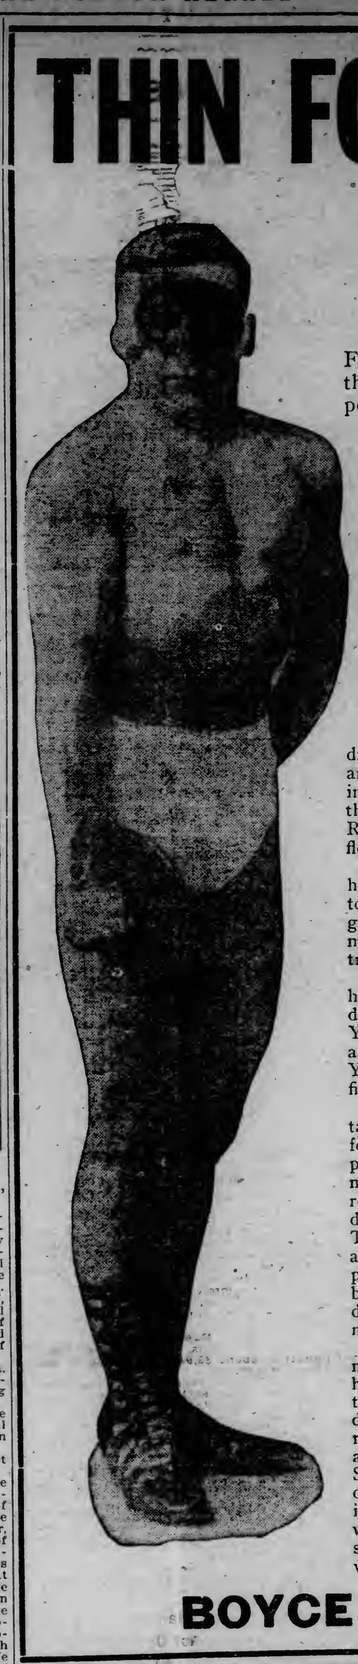

"Our attendance at the conventions of this national association, where specialists are brought together to exchange ideas, will serve to round out and give character to our qualifications, and it is for this reason alone that we find ourselves in this beautiful city of Duluth this 14th day of July, 1914."

THIN FOR YEARS---

"GAINS 22 POUNDS IN 23 DAYS"

"I was all run down to the very bottom," writes F. Gagnon. "I had to quit work I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds in 23 days."

"Sargol has put just 10 pounds on me in 14 days," states W. D. Roberts. "It has made me sleep well, enjoy what I ate and enabled me to work with interest and pleasure."

"I weighed 132 pounds when I commenced taking Sargol. After taking 20 days I weighed 144 pounds. Sargol is the most wonderful preparation for flesh building I have ever seen," declares D. Martin, and J. Meier adds: "For the past twenty years I have taken medicine every day for indigestion and got thinner every year. I took Sargol for forty days and feel better than I have felt in twenty years. My weight has increased from 150 to 170 pounds.

When hundreds of men and women—and there are hundreds, with more coming every day—living in every nook and corner of this broad land voluntarily testify to weight increases ranging all the way from 10 to 35 pounds given them by Sargol, you must admit, Mrs. and Mrs. and Miss Thin Reader that there must be something in this Sargol method of flesh building after all.

Hadn't you better look into it, just as thousands of others have done? Many thin folks say: "I'd give most anything to put on a little extra weight," but when someone suggests a way they exclaim, "Not a chance. Nothing will make me plump. I'm built to stay thin." Until you have tried Sargol, you do not and cannot know that this is true.

Sargol has put pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh on hundreds who doubted, and in spite of their doubts. You don't have to believe in Sargol to grow plump from its use. You just take it and watch weight pile up, hollows vanish and your figure round out to pleasing normal proportions. You weigh yourself when you begin and again when you finish and you let the scales tell the story.

Sargol is absolutely harmless. It is a tiny concentrated tablet. You take one with every meal. It mixes with the food you eat for the purpose of separating all of its flesh producing ingredients. It prepares these fat making elements in an easily assimilated form, which the blood can readily absorb and carry all over your body. Plump, well-developed persons don't need Sargol to produce this result. Their assimilative machinery performs its functions without aid. But thin folks' assimilative organs do not. This fatty portion of their food now goes to waste through their bodies like unburned coal through an open grate. A few days' test of Sargol in your case will surely prove whether or not this is true of you. Isn't it worth trying.

If you want a beautiful and well-rounded figure of symmetrical proportions, if you want to gain some solid pounds of healthy stay-there flesh, if you want to increase your weight to normal, weight what you should weigh, go straight to your druggist today and get a package of Sargol and use it as directed. Sargol will either increase your weight or it won't and the only way to know is to try it. A single package of Sargol easily enables you to make this test. Sixty days' use of Sargol, according to directions, is absolutely guaranteed to increase your weight to a satisfactory degree or your druggist will refund all the money you have paid him for it. Sargol is sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Duluth and vicinity by

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods, rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its regenerative, re-constructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Boyce Drug store and other leading druggists have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant harmless and inexpensive, and Boyce Drug store and other dealers sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily ad from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten, into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. Boyce drug store and other leading druggists sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

MEETINGS AT GRAND FORKS

State Retail Dealers Open Convention Week in That City.

Frank Gravel of Duluth Will Preside Over Banquet Wednesday.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The midsummer convention week started here today with the opening of the annual convention of the North Dakota Retail Dealers' association.

Tomorrow morning the annual meeting of the North Dakota Mutual Elevator association will commence, and Thursday morning the North Dakota Mutual Insurance association will launch its sessions.

This morning was devoted to the business session of the retailers, reports being made by George M. Pike of New Rockford, president of the association, and J. J. King, Tower City, secretary.

Both officials showed the association to be in a very satisfactory condition, with a good increase in the membership during the year.

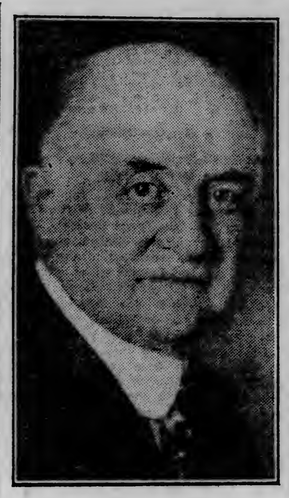

A social feature of the convention will be a banquet on Wednesday evening, at which Frank Gravel of Duluth will be toastmaster. Following the banquet the visitors will be entertained at a vaudeville performance, with local talent starring.

Elevator Bookkeeping.

The elevator agents have important questions for consideration, the most interesting of which is uniform bookkeeping. The North Dakota rail commission has caused to be made up a uniform set of books for elevators, and the elevator association will consider the advisability of adopting the suggestions that have been made.

Insurance Gathering.

At the gathering of the mutual fire insurance agents the question of establishing a state association will be perfected. The speakers include Insurance Commissioner W. C. Taylor of North Dakota, State Fire Marshal Runge, F. O. Allen, George Dickinson and C. H. Holbert.

FRANK GRAVEL, Duluthian, Who Will Be Toastmaster at Banquet.

LATE PEA CROP HURT.

Blight Has Done Considerable Damage to the Badger Crop.

Madison, Wis., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.—"From one-half to two-thirds of the great pea crop will be lost through the ravages of blight," said R. E. Vaughan, assistant in plant pathology at the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, upon his return from an inspection trip through the pea growing sections of the state.

"Due to the cool weather which held the disease in check, the blight made little headway against the early peas and a splendid pack was put up, but with the coming of hot weather the trouble is developing rapidly and playing havoc with the late peas. Some fields in the infested district are so full of the blight that they look as black as they would if burned over."

Now that the blight is so firmly established, Mr. Vaughan believes that there is little the growers can do except follow preventive measures that may lead to better crops next year. It is quite possible that for a few years, or until the hoped-for resistant variety can be developed, the growers will have to raise early peas almost entirely, for these mature during the cool days of June when the blight is not so severe. At present about all that can be done is to get the vines out of the way as ensilage and practice the rotation of crops. Care should be taken to select clean seed, and peas ought not to be grown on the same ground more than once in four years.

BATTLE ANNIVERSARY.

Celebration of Great Killdeer Indian Fight July 28.

Oakdale, N. D., July 14.—The fiftieth anniversary of the great Killdeer battle will be celebrated here July 28. This historical expedition will be in form of a big basket picnic, and a good program.

This battle is considered by the historian as the biggest battle ever fought between the white soldier and the Indian. There were from 10,000 to 15,000 Indians camping on the slopes of the Killdeer. These with their inferior weapons such as bow and arrow, flint locks and clubs were stormed by 2,200 Sully men with the Springfield and sixteen cannon. The Sully men were all well mounted and well drilled. Even then it was a hard task to force this camp out of their home over into the brakes beyond the mountains.

The next day after the fight the teepees were burned, hundreds of tons of meat were thrown on the fire, beautiful robes were added to the fuel and all the travois poles and teepee poles were consumed leaving about 3,000 dogs shot to death among the smoking ruins of the Indian home.

This historical expedition to the great battle grounds is made so that all the country around may for a few hours live in the past and thoughtfully consider the great work of the pioneer in our state and do reverence to their life of frontier hardships.

BADGER NURSERIES TO BE INSPECTED.

Madison, Wis., July 14. — (Special to The Herald.)—The state orchard and nursery inspection for 1914-1915 began during the first week of July, and according to James G. Sanders, inspector, College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, there will be more than 170 nurseries to be visited this season. The inspection usually lasts until Oct. 1.

License certificates are granted to all firms whose premises show absolute cleanliness and freedom from disease. All nurserymen who have not yet made applications are urged to do so at once in order that their places of business may be inspected at an early date.

In addition to the inspection of the stock growing in the nurseries of the state, trees and shrubs imported from Europe are looked over carefully to prevent the possible introduction of the dreaded "gipsy" and "brown-tail" moths and other dangerous insects which are doing considerable damage to fruit and shade trees in the Eastern counties.

SYRIANS SHOT IN FAMILY ROW.

Stanley, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of domestic trouble in the family of Had Aidwin, a Syrian, he has a bullet wound in the groin and Hamid Hassan is in jail. Hassan is a brother of Aidwin's wife. He resented the treatment given his sister and securing a gun went after his brother-in-law, with the intention of frightening the latter so he would treat the women more kindly. Aidwin showed fight and in the melee was shot.

SAY RAILROADERS DYNAMITED FISH.

Mott, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of persistent complaints three railroad men were arrested here on a charge of dynamiting fish. The people are indignant over the alleged violations, as consignments of fish have been sought from the state and government hatcheries under the promise of thorough protection of the streams against all forms of violations.

FARGOANS SANGUINE.

Hopeful of Raising Money to Finish Armory-Auditorium

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committees to raise the balance of the money required for the completion of the armory-auditorium started the campaign this morning, extremely confident of securing the money. The exterior is now completed except the roof, and the construction so far has exhausted the original sum that was secured for the structure. The building is greatly needed for the numerous conventions held in this city.

KICKS ON PARDON

Chippewa Chief Believes Spo Pee Should Not Be Freed.

Helena, Mont., July 14.—Little Bear, great chief of the Chippewas, Saturday, through an interpreter, declared that the great white father at Washington had made a mistake in pardoning Spo Pee, the Blackfoot Indian, found in a government hospital, for the insane, at Washington. Little Bear recalled the killing for which Spo Pee was found guilty and sentenced to hang, later being committed to the insane hospital thirty-four years ago. Two Indians, one of them Spo Pee, according to Little Bear, asked a white man for food, and when refused advanced upon him threatening to kill. The white man seized an ax, but as he held it aloft to strike, Spo Pee and his companion shot and killed him, carrying away his belongings, which they hid in their blankets. Little Chief branded false Spo Pee's story of the white man being killed in vengeance, because the soldiers killed Spo Pee's people.

Little Bear is returning from Yellowstone park where he went to see wild buffalo once again, before he died. Bear broke down and cried when he described his last sight of the bison.

TWO GIRLS DROWN NEAR NORTHFIELD.

Northfield, Minn., July 14.—Miss Belle Nordgaard, aged 20 years, and Miss Ernestine Weight, 20, were drowned in the Cannon river late Sunday. The Stivers girl came to the surface and was rescued by Clifford Koetner, who was passing in a row boat. The other two failed to come up. Their bodies were recovered later.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—William E. Lee of Long Prairie spent $3,344 in obtaining the Republican nomination for governor, according to his personal expense account filed with Secretary of State Schmahl Monday. This does not include the amount spent by his personal committee, of which W. O. Clure was chairman, but it does include a $2,000 donation by Mr. Lee to this committee.

Preus' Expenses $3,045.

J. A. O. Preus, nominee for state auditor, spent $3,045, according to his final statement.

H. H. Allen, secretary of the Prohibition party state committee, certified that the total expense of that organization has been $1,079.10.

MUST ENTER PRISON.

Otherwise It's Claimed Bickford's Pardon Is Not Operative.

Bismarck, N. D., July 14.—Legal authorities here contend that in spite of the complete pardon granted him by the state board of pardons at the semi-annual meeting held last month, G. L. Bickford, former state treasurer, found guilty over two years ago of embezzlement, will yet be committed to the penitentiary. It is claimed that the pardon cannot operate unless Bickford is really confined to prison, according to the sentence received from the trial court.

YOUNG GIRLS INJURED.

Sisters May Lose Foot Apiece as Result of Mower Injury.

Little Falls, Minn., July 14.—When Otto Boseman returned from town with two young daughters he unhitched his horses, intending to hitch them to a mower, and then went to a shed for some tools. The girls started to hitch the horses to the implement and had them attached to the mower when a third little girl picked up the reins, causing the horses to start suddenly.

The mower blade struck each of the other girls across one ankle and the injuries probably will make amputation necessary.

WELL CAVES AS BODY IS RECOVERED.

Prentice, Wis., July 14.—While Axle Wickins' body was being dug out of a well three miles from here early Monday the well caved in again, burying Henry Redell under thirty-five feet of dirt.

The well, which was eighty-three feet deep, caved in on Wickins four weeks ago and his body has just been reached and partly uncovered.

Death Releases Convict.

Stillwater, Minn., July 14.—Death has settled one item of business for the state pardon board. John H. Hanson, sentenced from Hennepin county in 1908 to serve twelve years for robbery, died at the prison hospital Saturday night. His application for pardon with the indorsement of Warden Wolfer and Dr. G. A. Newman, prison physician, had been sent to the board for action this week.

CLOQUET BARNS BURN.

Carrying Lighted Lantern Near Gasoline Causes Conflagration.

Cloquet, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big barn belonging to W. S. Lane was burned to the ground Saturday evening and also the barn of Dr. A. E. Johnson. The fire started about midnight. George Lane went into the barn to get some gasoline for his automobile. He was carrying a lantern and the atmosphere being close the gasoline tank exploded and set the barn afire. There were a number of horses in the barn at the time but these were saved. It had just been filled with hay and this was completely destroyed. The heavy rain fall at the time probably saved other buildings in that vicinity from catching as there was a terrific wind.

Lane's barn was insured but Dr. Johnson's was not.

LATE PEA CROP HURT.

Blight Has Done Considerable Damage to the Badger Crop.

Madison, Wis., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.—"From one-half to two-thirds of the great pea crop will be lost through the ravages of blight," said R. E. Vaughan, assistant in plant pathology at the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, upon his return from an inspection trip through the pea growing sections of the state.

"Due to the cool weather which held the disease in check, the blight made little headway against the early peas and a splendid pack was put up, but with the coming of hot weather the trouble is developing rapidly and playing havoc with the late peas. Some fields in the infested district are so full of the blight that they look as black as they would if burned over."

Now that the blight is so firmly established, Mr. Vaughan believes that there is little the growers can do except follow preventive measures that may lead to better crops next year. It is quite possible that for a few years, or until the hoped-for resistant variety can be developed, the growers will have to raise early peas almost entirely, for these mature during the cool days of June when the blight is not so severe. At present about all that can be done is to get the vines out of the way as ensilage and practice the rotation of crops. Care should be taken to select clean seed, and peas ought not to be grown on the same ground more than once in four years.

BATTLE ANNIVERSARY.

Celebration of Great Killdeer Indian Fight July 28.

Oakdale, N. D., July 14.—The fiftieth anniversary of the great Killdeer battle will be celebrated here July 28. This historical expedition will be in form of a big basket picnic, and a good program.

This battle is considered by the historian as the biggest battle ever fought between the white soldier and the Indian. There were from 10,000 to 15,000 Indians camping on the slopes of the Killdeer. These with their inferior weapons such as bow and arrow, flint locks and clubs were stormed by 2,200 Sully men with the Springfield and sixteen cannon. The Sully men were all well mounted and well drilled. Even then it was a hard task to force this camp out of their home over into the brakes beyond the mountains.

The next day after the fight the teepees were burned, hundreds of tons of meat were thrown on the fire, beautiful robes were added to the fuel and all the travois poles and teepee poles were consumed leaving about 3,000 dogs shot to death among the smoking ruins of the Indian home.

This historical expedition to the great battle grounds is made so that all the country around may for a few hours live in the past and thoughtfully consider the great work of the pioneer in our state and do reverence to their life of frontier hardships.

BADGER NURSERIES TO BE INSPECTED.

Madison, Wis., July 14. — (Special to The Herald.) The state orchard and nursery inspection for 1914-1915 began during the first week of July, and according to James G. Sanders, inspector, College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, there will be more than 170 nurseries to be visited this season. The inspection usually lasts until Oct. 1.

License certificates are granted to all firms whose premises show absolute cleanliness and freedom from nursery stock and shrubs imported from Europe are looked over carefully to prevent the possible introduction of the dreaded "gipsy" and "brown-tail" moths and other dangerous insects which are doing considerable damage to fruit and shade trees in the Eastern counties.

KICKS ON PARDON

Chippewa Chief Believes Spo Pee Should Not Be Freed.

Helena, Mont., July 14.—Little Bear, great chief of the Chippewas, Saturday, through an interpreter, declared that the great white father at Washington had made a mistake in pardoning Spo Pee, the Blackfoot Indian, found in a government hospital, for the insane, at Washington. Little Bear recalled the killing for which Spo Pee was found guilty and sentenced to hang, later being committed to the insane hospital thirty-four years ago. Two Indians, one of them Spo Pee, according to Little Bear, asked a white man for food, and when refused advanced upon him threatening to kill. The white man seized an ax, but as he held it aloft to strike, Spo Pee and his companion shot and killed him, carrying away his belongings, which they hid in their blankets. Little Chief branded false Spo Pee's story of the white man being killed in vengeance, because the soldiers killed Spo Pee's people.

Little Bear is returning from Yellowstone park where he went to see wild buffalo once again, before he died. Bear broke down and cried when he described his last sight of the bison.

The Stivers girl came to the surface and was rescued by Clifford Koetner, who was passing in a row boat. The other two failed to come up. Their bodies were recovered later.

MUST ENTER PRISON.

Otherwise It's Claimed Bickford's Pardon Is Not Operative.

Bismarck, N. D., July 14.—Legal authorities here contend that in spite of the complete pardon granted him by the state board of pardons at the semi-annual meeting held last month, G. L. Bickford, former state treasurer, found guilty over two years ago of embezzlement, will yet be committed to the penitentiary. It is claimed that the pardon cannot operate unless Bickford is really confined to prison, according to the sentence received from the trial court.

YOUNG GIRLS INJURED.

Sisters May Lose Foot Apiece as Result of Mower Injury.

Little Falls, Minn., July 14.—When Otto Boseman returned from town with two young daughters he unhitched his horses, intending to hitch them to a mower, and then went to a shed for some tools. The girls started to hitch the horses to the implement and had them attached to the mower when a third little girl picked up the reins, causing the horses to start suddenly.

The mower blade struck each of the other girls across one ankle and the injuries probably will make amputation necessary.

CLOQUET BARNS BURN.

Carrying Lighted Lantern Near Gasoline Causes Conflagration.

Cloquet, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big barn belonging to W. S. Lane was burned to the ground Saturday evening and also the barn of Dr. A. E. Johnson. The fire started about midnight. George Lane went into the barn to get some gasoline for his automobile. He was carrying a lantern and the atmosphere being close the gasoline tank exploded and set the barn afire. There were a number of horses in the barn at the time but these were saved. It had just been filled with hay and this was completely destroyed. The heavy rain fall at the time probably saved other buildings in that vicinity from catching as there was a terrific wind.

Lane's barn was insured but Dr. Johnson's was not.

Any one who desires to read the book can obtain it absolutely free by writing to Edward J. Woods, 899 P, Station E, New York City. Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

YESTERDAY James A. Ten Eyck was telling us that James H. Riley wanted to row him another sculling contest. James A. Ten Eyck is 62 years of age. He certainly don't look it—but he admits it. Riley is 66 years of age—and he continually scraps with Father Time regarding the proper age to quit athletics.

William W. Warner of Detroit, Michigan, is somewhere around the age of 66 years. Away back in 1868 he entered the University of Michigan and later rowed on one of the barge crews of that institution. Still later he went East and took up the sculling game and participated in many of the championship events.

According to tradition the veteran Warner once defeated James A. Ten Eyck and a man named Lewis in a double race at Toronto. Mr. Warner is still able to defeat some of the younger oarsmen of the Detroit Boat club. James A. Ten Eyck is still able to get out and row a very fair three miles. James H. Riley declares that he is the greatest oarsman in the world for his age. Why not make the contest Mr. Riley is so desirous of arranging, a three-cornered event?

"I defeated Riley about twenty-five years ago," said the elder Ten Eyck yesterday. "That was just before I went out of the racing game. About the time of the Jeffries-Johnson fight, when there was so much talk of the come-back stuff, old Riley got the notion into his head that he could come back. In his day he was one of the real ones. He challenged any man of his age in the world, and I accepted. I defeated him. Not satisfied with that beating, he still persisted, and I defeated him again. Now he wants to try it once more.

"Riley went to England and while over there had a new boat built. Riley was once a famous oarsman, as I stated. Since then he has become famous for his dinners at his roadhouse near Syracuse. Now he is once again hankering to become more or less famous in the rowing game. When Old Man Osler made that crack about people being down and out at a comparatively early age, he reckoned without some of us old rowing men."

THOUGH it is only but a rumor, rumors of vague and nebulous outlines have in the past expanded into concrete facts of wonder causing fame, and this may be one of them. The rumor runs that Murray, Merkle, Snodgrass and an infielder are to be traded to Cincinnati for Hoblitzell, Bates, Niehoff, a pitcher and the Cincinnati claim to Marsans.

If it is a trade between Cincinnati and New York, lookout for the Giants getting the decision. The chief use of Cincinnati in the past has been to assist the other seven clubs of the league by trades—and loss of games.

Thanks Should Be Made.

HERE is another rumor that one of these days may be set forth into a brilliant skyrocket of explosive truth. It is bruited about the welkin that the railroad agents at the Head of the Lakes are going to get together and vote the board of directors of the Duluth Baseball team a vote of thanks and one American beauty rose each for the lavish manner in which money has been expended this season in railroad fares.

Forgetting the training trip for the time being and the consignment of freaks that Darby O'Brien brought home with him, there has been constant travel upon the part of arriving and departing players.

Most of the men that came here with Darby have been released and in their places have come the squad of arriving players. Most every other day some new player is sent for. Withers is the latest player to come. Before his arrival came Ezells and Allen. The latter has departed. Boardman came and departed. A youth named Norman Blasel is due here one of these days. There may be others on the way. We have not been in communication with the baseball office since 10 o'clock.

The Iron Man Needed.

IN the American league the race has passed the uncertain first eighth and rounded the first quarter and settled into the even and driving pace of the half mile mark. The major portion of the uncertainties of the spring have been left behind. Every team has hit its stride and from this point to the wire the race is one that will test the gameness and endurance of every entrant.

Outside of the pitcher's box there is no comparison between the other seven teams and the Athletics; in the box there is scarcely any comparison between the other seven teams and the Chicago White Sox.

Walter Johnson can't win the pennant for Washington alone. Atlas held the world aloft and the feat has never been duplicated. Last year and the year previous the peerless pitcher of the Washington team came near to the titanic task of pitching the Nationals to the silken and proudly soaring oriflamme—this year the task before the mighty heaving of Johnson has mutliplied in manifold manner.

They say Jack Coombs is coming back. The wise ones say that they never come back. If ever in his success-strewn career Uncle Connie Mack needed a pitcher, the time is at hand and beckoning with leering insistence.

Bush has proved a disappointment and Carroll Brown has been released. Shawkey has not proven the pitcher that earlier indications builded belief for. Pennock is erratic. Bender and Plank are again the standbys, and age, relentless, grasping and insatiable is demanding its toll.

It would be one of the grim miracles of baseball, were Jack Coombs to come back and exhibit the form that stamped him as one of the greatest of all flingers. The kindly star that benignly smiled down over the smooth and unruffled head of Connie Mack throughout the years of golden accomplishment, would grin with sardonic mirth at the anguish of the other magnates, were such a thing to be brought about.

We Could Understand It Then.

TWO GENERATIONS OF OARSMEN---THE TEN EYCKS

JAMES A. TEN EYCK.

JAMES E. TEN EYCK.

James A. Ten Eyck, the father, and James E. Ten Eyck, the son, will leave with the Duluth crews for Kenora on Monday evening. The elder James is here simply in the role of visitor. He never interferes, never suggests. When young Jimmy wants the age-leveled advice of his father, he asks for it. The harmony is something impressive and something that is thoroughly typical of the discipline of a rowing camp. The sage advice of the elder Ten Eyck is helpful—because it is never tendered unless asked for.

ALL-NATIONS TEAM BEATS JAMESTOWN

Jamestown, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before a crowd of 2,000 enthusiastic fans, the All Nations defeated Jamestown for the third successive time yesterday by the score of 4 to 1. The game was a 14-inning pitchers' battle, the mighty Donaldson being opposed by Lyle, formerly of the Northern league. Both pitchers were in fine form, though Donaldson had considerably the better of the closing rounds. The game was runless till the fourteenth inning, when a combination of four hits and two errors gave the All Nations four runs and the game. Jamestown scored one in their half on an error and a single. Mendez featured at short with some scintillating fielding. Donaldson is credited with twenty-five strikeouts and Lyle ten. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
All Nations—	4	9	2
Jamestown—	1	4	3

Batteries—All Nations, Donaldson and Schaumburg; Jamestown, Lyle and Stovern.

ALL GAMES TO BE PLAYED OFF

Duluth and Winnipeg will play the series out, every game scheduled, if it doesn't pour. This statement was made by President Blume today. This is the final visit of the league leaders here this season, and as there are several postponed games to play off on the visit of the White Sox to the Peg, it is necessary that all of the present series be played here. Fans will therefore know that no matter if dark clouds hover over the ball park that the games will be played unless the rain comes down in torrents. The Dooks are going to try desperately to reduce the lead of the Peggers during the present visit to our municipal midst.

BY BRUCE.

In quest of the $5,000 Sir Thomas Lipton trophy emblematic of the championship of the Northwestern International Rowing association, one of the largest squads ever sent to any rowing regatta by the Duluth Boat club will leave over the Canadian Northern next Monday evening for Kenora, Ont., where the crews of Winnipeg, St. Paul, Kenora and Fort William will be met.

Duluth will have two bantam fours in the bantam four event, two fours in the senior four event, two eights in the senior eight event, and possibly two fours in the junior four event.

If it was the idea of bringing out competition for the magnificent Sir Thomas Lipton trophy in the donation of this rich piece of jewelry, it would seem that the object has been most fully accomplished.

For instance, Jimmy Ten Eyck will start two bantam fours with the idea of winning as many points as possible in the bantam event. The same object is true in the junior four event and the senior four event. The cup, as has been explained on this page previously, is competed for upon the basis of points, and Ten Eyck wants to secure as many firsts, seconds and thirds as possible.

Bantams Look Good.

In the past Ten Eyck has been an enigma in the matter of giving out dope on his crews. He believes in letting results speak with eloquent tongue and shining countenance. This season—so far at least—Jimmy does not precisely know just how fast his crews are. Not one satisfactory and knowledge-carrying time trial has been rowed as yet. It is hoped that the belated trial will be pulled off during the present week.

"I can honestly tell you that I don't know just how fast the bantams are, or any of the other crews, for that matter," said Ten Eyck today. "I have postponed the time trial from day to day because of the fact that the weather conditions have not been satisfactory. There has not been one day when wind and water combined to make a speed trial satisfactory, and therefore I remain in ignorance of the exact speed of the boys.

"In the matter of form the first bantam crew looks fully as good as the other crews we have turned out here. The form is good and the boys appear together—when it comes right down to the final analysis of speed, I can't just say with the conviction of absolute accuracy.

"Our best chances naturally would appear to be in the senior eight and senior four events. Here we have tried and proven material. We think we have one of the greatest senior fours and eights in the country. Naturally that remains to be proven over again this season. There is nothing so uncertain as a boat race.

"The junior eight has been coming along and the junior four, while new and lacking rowing experience, is also improving. Osman and Glass look fairly well in the doubles, but lack experience and practice.

We are going up there to make a game fight for the cup and we expect to make a great try in every event."

The Juniors Are Green.

Coming down to the final analysis of the dope, it can be stated that the juniors and bantams of the Duluth Boat club will be clearly outclassed in experience by the juniors and bantams of both the St. Paul and Winnipeg crews.

For three years Duluth has won the bantam four event. For two years Duluth has won the junior eight event. This means that St. Paul and Winnipeg have had three years in which to develop their bantam crews and two years in which to develop and put polish on their junior eights. This same fact is true in the case of the junior four.

The green and inexperienced and untried bantams of the local club will be pitted against the comparative veterans of the other two clubs. The same goes for the junior eight and the junior four events. A win for Duluth under the shadow of the attending circumstances will carry all the more credit.

St. Paul Looks Strong.

Some of the followers of rowing have carelessly formed the habit of discrediting the St. Paul club. Van Vleit, the Minnesota coach, has some

Quick on the Trigger With a Snap-Shot Eye

THE crack trapshooter has to be a man with steady nerves and muscles absolutely under control—always ready, at the sudden jerk of a string to swing his gun into place and bring down his clay pigeon. This means trained, not to the minute, but to the split-second. He takes no chances with his nerves.

We present the names of some of these crack shots who smoke Tuxedo. They like to smoke; but they take no chances on a tobacco that might "throw them off."

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

is purposely made to give you all the benefits of the highest grade smoke. It is made from the very finest tobacco Kentucky grows—ripe, mellow, sweet and mild old Burley, aged right up to perfection-day. Then treated by the original "Tuxedo Process," which takes out the sting, makes Tuxedo smoke cool and slow, and guarantees that it cannot bite your tongue.

Tuxedo has had many imitators; none has ever equalled it in sheer quality and smoking-value.

excellent material this season. In the junior eight are Kenneth Hare, the former Wisconsin and Duluth oarsman, Ira Baer, Connelly and Ellerbe, two of the best scullers in the West, and some of the other veterans of the Mississippi river organization. The point of weakness is not apparent in the paper lineup of the eight.

Winnipeg should have a corking eight. Against these two eights, Ten Eyck will send a green and untried eight, and figuring solely on the dope as it appears from a logical survey, it would seem that the odds are clearly against the local junior eight—and yet the members of this crew and Coach Ten Eyck are undaunted and filled with fight.

Condition has won for Duluth since the coming of Ten Eyck almost as much as the general class of his crews. In the matter of condition it is believed that the Duluth oarsmen will have it on the oarsmen of the other clubs. A strict disciplarian, Jimmy Ten Eyck has adopted and insisted upon the observance of the most rigid training rules. Work has been the high sounding keynote of the success of the Duluth crews, and in this regard the followers of the blue and white jerseyed lads are fervently hoping that the grand condition, the fighting spirit and the general Ten Eyck class of the comparative green youngsters of the bantam and junior division of the local club will overcome the far superior experience of the juniors and bantams of the St. Paul and Winnipeg crews.

One figures Winnipeg and St. Paul first. Kenora is bound to have a corking bantam and junior four this season. Fort William may send up another strong bantam contender, so that the field will be a hard one to defeat.

Taking No Chances.

Jimmy Ten Eyck is determined to take no chances in arriving at Kenora late. The local crews will arrive at the fresh water resort on Wednesday morning and will have the two days to become acquainted with the course in.

The trip will be made overland. The crews will change cars at Winnipeg taking the Canadian Pacific from there to Kenora. Arriving at Winnipeg on two days in which to become acquainted with the course.

As the national champions, as the crews that have swept the Northwestern regattas for the last two years, great interest will be attached to the performances of the Duluth crews. Every move of the Ten Eyck men will be closely watched—a champion is ever interesting. It was not always thus—back in the lean and drear days of the clubs the oarsmen of the Duluth Boat club were scarcely noticed as they took their trials or rowed up to the stake boats.

FARGO TEAM NEEDS MUCH BOLSTERING

Returns Home After Disastrous Trip Around Circuit.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a rather disastrous trip the Fargo-Moorhead baseball team returned home this morning for a lengthy series, starting today with Fort William. The team went away in second and returned in fifth position.

With the addition of a winning thrower and one good infielder the team has a chance to make a strong finish in the race. Just now Dumont and Maupin are the best heavers. Case is coming from the Minneapolis American association team and Beisel of Des Moines, who made a sensational record with Cogswell, an independent team, will be given a tryout. He is a portsider and as Fargo has not had a southpaw for several weeks he will be welcomed if he can show.

Murphy is doing the bulk of the work behind the bat and De Rose is the second string man, both very satisfactory. "Dinny" Sullivan, Weidel and Doyle are doing satisfactory work in the outer gardens. The hitting of the latter is picking up finely.

As a result of the right field of the Fargo grounds being so close to the home plate and so many homers being made by left hand stickers, there is a general clamor among even the Fargo fans to transfer all the games to the Moorhead grounds, which are considerably larger.

EASTERN BOXER IS IN DULUTH

Larry Williams of Philadelphia Wants Bout With Miske.

Gene Cahill is in Duluth today with Larry Williams in tow. Mr. Cahill is the manager and Williams does the fighting. The record of the Philadelphia fighter is an impressive one, for Williams hails from the city of brotherly love and is here for the purpose of taking the lake trip.

Battling Levinsky, George Ashe, Jim Smith, Buck Crouse and Jack McCarron are some of the top-notchers that the Williams youngster has fought. Battling Levinsky is credited with a decision over the rangy Philadelphia kid, and that is the only decision lost by the Williams one since he started fighting several years ago.

"We followed Billy Miske around the East in the endeavor to land a fight with him," said Cahill. "That is also one of the reasons why we are out West. But Miske seems to want none of the game of Williams. I think that Miske against Williams would make a great battle, or that Williams and Tommy Gibbons would make one of the greatest bouts that could be made in this section of the country. We would like to meet either of these boxers, and agree to fight before any club in this section of the Northwest."

Columbus, Ohio, July 14.—Infielder Reed of the Philadelphia Nationals has been purchased by the Columbus American association, according to an announcement made here by the Columbus management. Reed is expected to report here today. He will play at second base.

RACE IS POSTPONED.

Yacht Cup Defenders Struggle With Light Winds.

Newport, R. I., July 14.—The cup defenders sailed two-thirds of a race yesterday in the faintest of airs, quitting at the second mark because of the failure of the breeze. The Resolute and Vanitie turned the buoy with the former three minutes ahead and the Defiance, half a mile away, was beating up the mark when the regatta committee postponed further proceedings until Thursday.

At no time during the five hours in which the three yachts rolled about in the long ground swells, was the breeze over three miles an hour and the greater part of the time it was a mere breath, besides being extremely uncertain in direction. The stray whiffs from several points of the compass on the first leg brought the only excitement of the day, as it placed each of the three yachts in turn in the lead, only to completely change their positions in the next five minutes.

RADICAL CHANGE IN AMERICA'S HULL

Flying Boat Will Have Hollow Runners Instead of V-Shaped Bottom.

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 14.—The hull of the Wanamaker transatlantic flying boat, "America," is being turned into a gigantic "sea-sled." The experts in charge of the machine have unanimously decided that this is the best system to raise the craft with its heavy load from the surface of the water.

Two big hollow runners, with an air space between will take the place of the V-bottomed hull. This method has been found efficient in many speed crafts, and both Lieut. John C. Porte, who will pilot the "America" in her over-ocean flight, and Glenn H. Curtiss believe the solution of the problem that has delayed the start of the trip will be arrived at within a few days.

GERMAN PLAYERS COMING.

Will Compete in America for Davis Tennis Cup Trophy.

Berlin, July 14.—Oscar Kreutzer and Otto Froithelm, the German lawn tennis players, will leave for the United States this week to represent Germany in the preliminaries of the tournament for the Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis trophy.

The intervention of some prominent members of the German Lawn Tennis association, who offered to pay the expenses, brought about the change in the original decision not to send a German team.

Cloquet Team Gets Reception After Beating Hibbing Nine.

Cloquet, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cloquet baseball team members were given an ovation by the citizens and fans on their return from Hibbing yesterday morning. Hibbing has always had a strong team and Cloquet has been unable to win from them for several seasons. The two games played on Saturday and Sunday were close enough to furnish all kinds of excitement, resulting in a victory for each team. Hibbing won the game Saturday by a score of 5 to 4 and Sunday Cloquet won by a score of 5 to 4. The city band was out in full force to meet the ball team at the depot and gave them a grand homecoming.

B. H. BRADLEY KILLS HIMSELF IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 14.—B. H. Bradley, member of the family of wealthy implement manufacturers at Bradley, Ill., a suburb, died last night from a self-inflicted bullet wound. Bradley shot himself in the temple in a downtown hotel, destroying his sight. He was taken to a hospital, where during moments of consciousness, he said he had met financial reverses. Mr. Bradley lived at Onawa, Iowa, where he has a wife and two daughters.

MINE WORKERS PROTEST TO COX.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14.—John Moore, president of the Ohio United Mine Workers, has filed a protest with Governor Cox against alleged violations by the operators of an agreement entered into when the strike was called. He charged that the operators had discharged all the regular caretakers left in charge of the mines to keep them in good condition during the strike, and had put in subordinates, many of whom were non-union men. This act was said to be responsible for the disorder existing in Belmont county.

Governor Cox will make a thorough investigation before he acts on the request that state troops be sent to the scene of the trouble.

LONGSHOREMEN MAY GO ON BIG STRIKE.

Portland, Or., July 14.—Upon the result of a count of a referendum vote cast by forty-five unions along the Pacific coast from Juneau to San Diego, relative to action for a uniform wage scale, depends largely whether a general strike of longshoremen is to be called. The vote was taken in accordance with a resolution adopted recently at the Pacific coast district convention of the International Longshoremen's association at Vancouver, B. C., and the count was begun here yesterday by the executive committee. The result will be sent to Milwaukee, Wis., where the International Longshoremen's convention is now in session.

A uniform wage scale is favored. It is hoped the executive committee will enforce its demands by forcing a strike unless the wage scale is granted.

LARK O' THE LAKE PLANS

Three Celebrations Will Be Held in Duluth This Year.

Venetian Fete, Military Review and Decorated Automobile Parade.

The three Lark o' the Lake celebrations this year will be held July 27, Aug. 3-10.

The first meeting of the Lark o' the Lake committee of the Retail Merchants' association was held at the Commercial club last evening. Plans for the three affairs are well under way. It has been planned to hold a Venetian water fete on July 27, a patriotic celebration on Aug. 3 and a big automobile parade of two sections in which hundreds of decorated machines will take part, on the following Saturday, Aug. 10.

The water fete will be held at the Duluth Boat club main house. As usual, the grandstand and grounds will be thrown open to the public while members of the club will observe the sights from the club house and balcony which will be reserved for their use. The eighth annual water parade of the Duluth Boat club will be one of the features of the evening. One hundred dollars in prizes will be given away to competitors winning prizes for the best decorated craft. There will be a first prize of $15 and a second prize of $10 for the four classes of craft, canoes, rowboats, sailboats and launches.

The patriotic celebration which will be held on Aug. 3, will be a military pageant and will be entirely in the hands of the local militia and other military bodies. The three companies of the M. N. G., under the command of Col. F. E. Resche and Lieut. Col. H. V. Eva, will give a dress parade early in the evening at Ninth avenue east and Superior street. At 9 o'clock there will be a fireworks display at Twelfth avenue east and London road.

If plans for the big automobile parade are carried out, it will be in two sections and more than two miles long. The cars will be led by the Third Regiment band. Auto trucks will comprise the second section. Two hundred dollars will be given away in prizes.

TONOPAH I. W. W. LEADER IS FREED.

Tonopah, Nev., July 1.—John Pansner, an organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World who was arrested for the shooting of Thomas White, a member of the Western Federation of Miners, Saturday night in a labor disturbance, was released yesterday by Justice of the Peace Dunseath. The court held that there was no evidence that Pansner fired the shot that wounded White, and expressed the belief that assault charges would rest against the Federation miners who invaded the I. W. W. hall and tore down posters there. A half dozen warrants were issued for miners alleged to have taken part in the affair.

The district attorney at once filed an information against Pasner, charging him with an attempt to kill. Bench warrants issued in the district court for organizers of the Industrial Workers named Stevens and McGuicken, who were arrested when they began renewing the posters torn down Saturday night. They will be arraigned in the justice court.

The labor situation here is tense.

ARM CONVICTS FOR TARGET PRACTICE.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 14.—Members of the disciplinary battalion at the United States military prison engaged in target practice on the Fort Leavenworth rifle range yesterday. The practice is said to mark the first time in the history of the war department that prisoners have been armed. Several expert marksmen were discovered in the battalion.

THE PLUMBER GOES ON A STRIKE

Pure, mellow, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

That's why men are glad to hear about "Right-Cut," and to tell the glad news to their friends in turn.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

If your dealer does not sell it, send us 10c. in stamps for a pouch of "Right-Cut" Chewing Tobacco.

BUHL STREET WORK HALTED

Village Enjoined By Business Men From Carrying on Paving Work.

Temporary Injunction Issued, Returnable Before Judge Hughes Saturday.

Buhl, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extensive street paving and other public improvements the village is carrying on by day labor came to a sudden halt here today when the village officers were served with a temporary restraining order issued by Judge Hughes at Hibbing yesterday afternoon upon the petition of several well known local business and other men.

The order is returnable next Saturday at Hibbing before Judge Hughes when the village will seek to have the injunction dissolved while those back of the injunction will try to have it made permanent. The affair has created no little excitement and the workmen laid off are threatening a boycott against the merchants blamed for their being put out of jobs.

What Petitioners Claim.

The petitioners for the injunction are Dr. A. W. Shaw, Gust Cronberg, T. C. Corey, C. A. Benson, Sam Razelsky and Joseph Carlton. They allege in their petition for the injunction that the village council minutes do not show the estimated cost of the proposed expenditure for the paving as the law requires. About fifty men were laid off as soon as the restraining order was served on Recorder Demel and members of the council, President Doyle being absent. Soon after being laid off the workmen met and denounced the instigators of the layoff and went to the extent of putting up posters urging working men not to patronize them. There is great feeling over the affair here. Some say that disgruntled politicians are back of the move, one of the petitioners having been a defeated candidate for village officer, while others contend that the mining companies instigated it and used the petitioners to prevent the public from knowing who prompted the move. Nothing in the history of Buhl in years has created quite such a stir and sensational developments may be expected.

ON WESTERN MESABA.

United States Steel Officials Looking Over Canisteo District.

Hibbing, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vice President Kerr and other officials of the United States Steel corporation who are touring the Mesaba range on one of their regular trips, spent last night here, leaving today for Coleraine and other Western Mesaba points. Officials of the Oliver Iron Mining company and of the Missabe road accompany the party. So far as could be learned here, there is nothing significant in the visit, Mr. Kerr being in charge of the raw products of the company, and makes regular trips to the Lake Superior district.

Also Visit Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officials of the United States Steel corporation and the Minnesota corporation visited the mines in the Eveleth district yesterday. The party came by special train. It is customary for the Steel corporation officials to pay a visit to the ranges once a year.

Eveleth, Minn, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual school meeting will be held in this independent district July 18. The terms of two members, George Dormer and Dr. More, are to expire this year. Mr. Dormer will be a candidate for re-election. Dr. More is in Europe and will not return until after the meeting, but it is said that his name will be placed in nomination.

C. H. Williams, deputy city clerk, and Theodore Damberg, a merchant, have announced that they will be candidates for the board positions. They favor a higher minimum wage for teachers, more pay for janitors who have been long in the service; and the erection of an additional building. It is reported that other candidates may enter the field.

VIRGINIA ELKS' BIG CARNIVAL IS NOW ON

MISS SIDNA LEWIS.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Elks' carnival is now on in full blast at the foot of Cleveland avenue and will run the balance of the week. The Allen carnival shows, recently seen at Duluth at the Shriners' carnival, are the star feature. The most-popular-range-young-lady contest for a $200 ring is already attracting attention. One of the entrants is Miss Sidna Lewis of Chisholm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin F. Lewis of the Monroe location of Chisholm, an attractive young lady, sophomore in the Chisholm high school, whose friends will work hard to land her the coveted prize.

FIND VERMILION ROADS ARE GOOD

Twin City People Motor to Tower Section to Look Over Mine.

Tower, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. C. Houck and family of St. Paul, in their cars and F. B. Schulze and Alexander Cardle, with their families in another car, spent several days last week in this vicinity, havin traveled the entire distance in their machines to inspect the McComber mine in which they are heavily interested. They report the roads in the northern part of the state to be far ahead of those in the south, especially those in Pine county, and that the range roads from Virginia to Ely were the best they had traveled over.

They were greatly surprised and pleased with what they saw at the McComber mine which soon promises to be one of the large producing mines of the range. A diamond drill is now at work to determine the depth and extent of the ore deposit and the best location for a larger working shift.

The party reached Duluth in time for the annual stockholders' meeting of the Mutual Iron Mining company which, according to Mr. Houck, was very enthusiastic. One resolution that was adopted unanimously at this meeting shows the confidence that the directors and larger stockholders have in the McComber. An agreement was presented and promptly signed by those present to pay a certain amount each month into a guarantee fund to continue operations without making necessary the sale of much treasury stock at the present price, it being the firm conviction that a much higher price can be obtained later on. H. O. Johnson and party, including I. L. Ackley of Minneapolis, accompanied the St. Paul people from Virginia to McComber.

Ely, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. John Selskar died at 3 o'clock this morning of tuberculosis of the bowels. She was born in Austria 43 years ago and is survived by her husband. The funeral will be held from the Catholic church Thursday afternoon.

WOMAN RELEASED.

Convicted Blind-Pigger Given Chance to Raise Fine Money.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mary Lathi, who was convicted of running a blind pig, was unable to collect the remainder of her fine, having but $50 to settle an assessment of $57.70. Judge Carey allowed her freedom on the promise to pay the remainder of the fine later, and the $50 was turned over to the police.

The blind pig case against P. Tocini, which was heard by Judge Carey, was dismissed. An abundance of evidence was produced, and it appeared that the man was not guilty of selling beer. Nearly all of the cases have been cleaned up and the few remaining ones will be tried next week.

George Kriminovich, arrested on a charge of having committed a statutory offense, was arraigned before Municipal Judge Carey and was bound over to the next term of the district court. Being unable to furnish the required bail of $500, he will have to go to the county jail.

Hibbing and Winton Tied.

Winton, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—On a wet, muddy diamond, and amid showers of rain the Hibbing Hooligans and the Winton ball teams played a 4 to 4 tie, seven innings, here Sunday afternoon. Mire twirled for the Hibbing team, allowing the locals four hits. Johnson was on the mound for Winton but was mild, so was relieved in the third by Bradley, who held the visitors hitless during the remainder of the game, and struck out nine of their batsmen, and after the third inning not a Hibbing man reached first base. These two teams will again play here Aug. 2.

TWO DULUTH MEN FINED

Plead Guilty at Virginia to Having Moose Meat on Ely Forest Reserve.

Wardens Report Wholesale Slaughter of Game Animals on Reserve.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—That deer and moose are being wantonly slaughtered on the state forest reserve north of Ely and that arrests will be made in a few days that will cause one of the biggest sensations in the history of the enforcement of the game and fish laws of Minnesota, is the story brought to Virginia this morning by Game Warden Archie Boyd of Duluth and Game Warden George E. Wood of Hibbing, who have just returned from a 200-mile hike in the forest reserve country on which they arrested Fred Johnson, Wallaces Stephenson, Caesar Coppin and Henry Gruska, accused of violations of the game laws.

Duluthians Pay Fines.

Johnson and Stephenson are chefs employed at a lunch place in Duluth and were on an outing in the forest reserve country. They pleaded guilty to having moose meat in their possession on the forest reserve and were fined $50 and costs. Both paid their fines.

Caesar Coppins is accused of headlighting deer and will have a hearing before one of the range judges today. Henry Gruska, charged with having a yearling moose in his possession on the forest reserve, will also have a hearing today.

The wardens made three trips over the reserve and found the remains of several moose and deer where they had been wantonly slaughtered by tourists and trappers and only the loins and heads taken out. Several more arrests will be made in a short time.

They report moose and deer are numerous in the streams, where they have been driven by the flies and declare they are being slaughtered indiscriminately by poachers, pot hunters and tourists. The conditions are described by Game Warden Wood as the most flagrant in his experience on the range.

Deer Killer Fined.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Maki, a boarding house keeper on the Alger line was brought here yesterday by Game Warden August Tabor, charged with having deer meat in his possession. He pleaded guilty in justice court this morning before Justice Beckman, and was fined $50 and costs.

Deputy Tabor is close on the trail of other game law violators, who live on the Alger line and left the city again today.

FAIRBANKS MAN DROWNING VICTIM

Carl Lund Tries to Cross Bassett Lake and Forfeits Life.

Fairbanks, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carl Lund, aged 20, lost his life in Bassett lake Saturday evening during the big storm when he was trying to cross the lake in a boat. Friends tried to persuade Lund not to make the trip across the lake during the storm but he persisted as a friend who could swim went along, as Lund could not swim. The boat capsized in mid-lake and Lund sank. His companion hung around the place clinging to the boat in the hope Lund would come to the surface, but he did not, then the companion drifted about in the lake until from 9 to midnight when he landed on an island nearly exhausted. Searching parties sought Lund's body in vain the next day and the deputy coroner has been notified but further search has proved fruitless. The mayor of Fairbanks invites anyone knowing of Lund's relatives to notify him.

GETTING POINTERS ON ORE HANDLING

Northern Pacific Officials Look Over Mesaba and Vermilion Ranges.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sixteen railroad men, most of whom belong to the operating and engineering departments of the Northern Pacific's Minnesota districts, spent last night here on a tour of the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges, which began yesterday at Coleraine and will conclude tonight at Ely or Tower, where their special train took them from Virginia at 7 o'clock this morning. The Northern Pacific officials are here to look over the Duluth & Iron Range and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroads to observe the manner in which they are operated and particularly to note methods and equipment used in handling the ore traffic with a view to getting pointers regarding the handling of ore shipments from the new Cuyuna range, over which the Northern Pacific is handling an increasing tonnage.

Yesterday was spent in visiting several of the open pit mines and the entire party expected to go underground at Ely today. The special train is being personally conducted over the range by General Superintendent J. W. Kreitter of the D., M. & N.

The New Baby is World's Wonder

Every tiny infant makes life's perspective wider and brighter. And whatever there is to enhance its arrival and to ease and comfort the expectant mother should be given attention. Among the real helpful things is an external abdominal application known as "Mother's Friend." It is so well thought of by women that most drug stores throughout the United States carry "Mother's Friend" as one of their staple and reliable remedies. It is applied to the abdominal muscles to relieve the strain on ligaments and tendons.

In a little book are described more fully the many reasons why "Mother's Friend" has been a friend indeed to women for more than two generations. This book was prepared not only to aid the inexperienced but to enable so many women to have at hand the timely hints, suggestions and helps in concise and neatly printed form for ready reference. It should be in all homes. "Mother's Friend" may be had of almost any druggist but if you fail to find it write us direct and also write for book to Bradfield Regulator Co., 903 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Georgia.

Peternall is the owner of a small auto and when intoxicated zig zags on the streets. He paid a fine of $15.

It was his third appearance in court for escapades in his machine and he is proud of his record. He proclaims himself as the "best automobile engineer in the city," and refers to the court records to prove that he is the only Eveleth motorist ever fined for speeding.

LONGYEAR MINE STRIPPERS QUIT

Want More Pay and Matter Is Very Quickly Adjusted.

Hibbing, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a temporary labor flurry out at the Longyear mine stripping work yesterday afternoon when the men employed by Butler Bros., who have the stripping contract, quit. While the particulars are not known here, it is understood the men who were getting $1.50 per day demanded more money and failing in their demands quit. They returned to work this morning, so it is presumed the matter was adjusted, but on what basis cannot be learned here.

An Unfailing Way to Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Ugly hair growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.—Advertisement.

New Fund Created.

In order to provide for a more systematic method of accounting the city's materials, a resolution was adopted creating a fund which will be known as the supply fund. Materials, etc., not directly chargable to other provided funds will be charged to this fund.

The city clerk was authorized to pay for the new Wilcox motor truck which the city purchased a short time ago, the cost of which is $3,000.

The city entered into a contract last night for a fuel saving device for the city water and light plant, known as Smith's mechanical fuel saving device, guarantced to save the city from 10 to 20 per cent on the fuel burned. The price of the device not to exceed $300. If the machine saves 10 per cent of the coal consumed it will pay for itself in less than five months.

The appointing of a street commissioner to succeed Oscar Ecklund, resigned, was suggested last night, but after considering the matter it was decided to lay the matter over another week.

A STOMACH TONIC

There is a form of indigestion called "atonic" dyspepsia. Atonic means "lack of tone." It is probably the most common form of indigestion but not much heard about it because people are inclined to group all forms of dyspepsia as "stomach trouble" and the doctors let it go at that.

Lack of tone in the digestive organs means that the stomach is no longer able to do its work as nature intended. The nerves that control it are weak, the glands that supply the digestive fluids are not working properly. Gas on the stomach, sour risings in the throat and constipation result. The cause of the trouble is thin blood. Stomach, nerves and glands are all dependent on the blood and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and the first response from the stomach is a better appetite, freedom from distress after eating and an increase in ambition and energy generally. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a stomach tonic and see how your general health improves.

A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Every druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

WOODSMAN TAKES LIFE.

Believed to Have Thrown Self Before Train at Ray, Minn.

International Falls, Minn., July 14.—Joe King, a woodsman who has made his headquarters at Ray for several years, was ground to pieces Saturday night near Ray by the north-bound passenger train on the Canadian Northern railroad. The fact was not discovered until the enginemen of the south-bound train saw the remains strewn along the track. Deputy Coroner Swinnerton was notified of King's death and accompanied by Undertaker Green went out to investigate the affair. Dr. Swinnerton leans to the belief that King committed suicide by deliberately throwing himself in front of the train. The remains were brought here and buried yesterday afternoon at the expense of the county.

WILL TALK ON MEXICAN CONDITION.

Rev. J P Hauser of Mexico City, who is in the city visiting friends, gave an address yesterday noon in the shipping room of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company building, and was listened to by about 100 men, who evinced great interest in Mr. Hauser's exposition of inside affairs in Mexico.

This evening at 8:30 o'clock Mr. Hauser will speak at the Y. M. C. A. on "Conditions in Mexico." Both men and women are invited to the meeting, for which no admission will be charged. Mr. Hauser will endeavor to clear up the various ideas and beliefs regarding the 15,000,000 people of Mexico, which prevail in this country. He has worked with all classes of them and is familiar with their characteristics and make-up.

In February, 1913, during the ten days of shooting in Mexico City, Mr. Hauser had some thrilling experiences, and will tell about them.

TWO NERVOUS WOMEN

Made Well By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I had a severe case of nervous prostration, with palpitation of the heart, constipation, headaches, dizziness, noise in my ears, timid, nervous, restless feelings and sleeplessness.

"I read in the paper where a young woman had been cured of the same troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I threw away the medicines the doctor left me and began taking the Compound. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to sit up and in a short time I was able to do all my work. Your medicine has proved itself able to do all you say it will and I have recommended it in every household I have visited."—Mrs. MARY JOHNSTON, 210 Siegel Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Bad Case.

Ephrata, Pa.—"About a year ago I was down with nervous prostration. I was pale and weak and would have hysteric spells, sick headaches and a bad pain under my shoulder-blade. I was under the care of different doctors but did not improve. I was so weak I could hardly stand long enough to do my dishes.

TWO HARBORS' MAYOR NEARLY OUT OF JOB

Report Has It Towl Threatened to Resign, Then Changed Mind.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A report circulated yesterday afternoon that Mayor William Towl would tender his resignation to the council last night filled the council rooms with citizens. Before the meeting the councilmen got the mayor behind closed doors and persuaded him to reconsider his action and continue in the mayorship of the city. Therefore there were many disappointed visitors at the regular council meeting.

This morning Mayor Towl stated that he had absolutely nothing to say in connection with the matter, and refused to talk on the subject. According to the story circulated about yesterday, the mayor's reported threat was the result of some trouble which he had with Editor Withrow of the local Socialist paper. Mr. Withrow is delivering a series of addresses on the street corners, and Mayor Towl, who is not in favor of these curbstone speeches, endeavored to put a stop to them.

The council granted permission to the Yeomen order to hold a joint picnic in the city park Thursday.

C. O. Johnson made application to the city council for a license to sell intoxicating liquor, and the hearing was set for Aug. 3.

Justice Oscar Beckman submitted his quarterly report which showed collections amounting to $35. Justice Nels Westlund also submitted his quarterly report, showing collections of $12.

New Fund Created.

In order to provide for a more systematic method of accounting the city's materials, a resolution was adopted creating a fund which will be known as the supply fund. Materials, etc., not directly chargable to other provided funds will be charged to this fund.

The city clerk was authorized to pay for the new Wilcox motor truck which the city purchased a short time ago, the cost of which is $3,000.

The city entered into a contract last night for a fuel saving device for the city water and light plant, known as Smith's mechanical fuel saving device, guarantced to save the city from 10 to 20 per cent on the fuel burned. The price of the device not to exceed $300. If the machine saves 10 per cent of the coal consumed it will pay for itself in less than five months.

The appointing of a street commissioner to succeed Oscar Ecklund, resigned, was suggested last night, but after considering the matter it was decided to lay the matter over another week.

ELECTIONEER BY WIRELESS

St. Louis Building Managers "Approach" Delegates Fifty Miles Away.

Electioneering by wireless is the latest thing in political circles. This method just came into use last night and was originated in the fertile minds of the St. Louis delegation on its way to Duluth to attend the national convention of building owners and managers.

It happened thusly. The St. Louis delegates, who are making a big bid for next year's convention, came from Chicago on the steamer South American, and the delegates from Detroit, Mich., came in on the Tionesta. The boats were about fifty miles apart when the Missourians decided to feel out the Detroiters on the most desirable place for a convention next year. The wireless operator was consulted, and practically every delegate on the Tionesta was "approached" for a vote.

The Atlanta delegates are giving away a half carlot of peaches today to help cinch the 1915 meet, and little buttons inscribed "Atlanta next" are very much in evidence. Omaha and St. Louis are expected to spring something original in the way of electioneering before the meetings close here.

SAYS SOUTH SEEKS BUSINESS SUPREMACY

That the South is making a great struggle to capture from New England the great business prestige that the Northern states have maintained for more than a century, is the opinion of John T. Sloan, Jr., of New Haven, Conn., who is attending the building owners' and managers' convention here. Mr. Sloan's ancestors came over in the Mayflower and he represents three generations of real estate and building men in New England, and for that reason knows New England as he does his "abc's."

"New England capital is investing heavily in Southern property, and the new South is making gigantic strides in the business world. Her cities are metropolitan and development is taking place in all lines of business," he said.

Mr. Sloan is very familiar with the conditions that have caused the wrecking of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railways and knows Former President Charles S. Mellen personally, the latter having been a fellow townsman of Mr. Sloan's.

"I have perfect faith in Mr. Mellen's honesty and integrity," he said today, "and I believe that if he had had an opportunity he would have pulled the road through its difficulties.

"The New Haven road taps the best business centers of New England, and has wonderful opportunities. The looting of the road began a great many years ago, and I do not think Mr. Mellen is in any way responsible."

DOTY LIKELY TO BE PRESIDENT

Practically all the delegates at the convention of the building managers are of the belief that Charles E. Doty, vice president of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, will be raised to the position of president at the annual election Friday morning.

Although several names are mentioned for the presidency, the election is conceded to Mr. Doty by those in close touch with the affairs of the association. Among those prominently mentioned are John H. Hall of Cleveland and Whitney Wall of Duluth.

When asked as to his candidacy this morning Mr. Wall said that it is out of the question and conceded the election to Mr. Doty. However, friends of Mr. Wall are persistent in their efforts and are very anxious to name him the head of the organization as an appreciation of his work in arranging and preparing for the convention this year. Mr. Wall is a member of the executive committee.

A nominating committee will be appointed today and the report will be made at 10 o'clock Friday morning, when the annual election of officers will take place. J. E. Randell of Chicago is president and C. A. Patterson of Chicago is secretary. L. L. Banks of Pittsburg is treasurer.

CIVIC SPHERE FOR MANAGER

Head of Emery Estate in Cincinnati Makes Valuable Suggestions.

Discusses Building Manager's Possible Contribution to Growth.

One of the big addresses of the forenoon session was made by John H. Hall of Cincinnati, manager of the Emery estate, on "Downtown Development." The address in part follows:

"Beyond a doubt, the time has come when the trained building manager will have much to do with downtown development of our large cities, but without the capitalist to invest in such improvements, there would be no building manager. The money that the capitalist invests in real estate and buildings in our downtown districts is, as a rule, acquired in other lines of business, where profits are large. Is it not a fact that the first evidence of business activity and prosperity is the construction of proper and attractive housing for the transaction of business?

"Upon the readiness with which capital invests in downtown improvements, depends not only the outward signs of progress and development, but makes possible the profession of building management. Our organization encourages this form of investment, the development of business centers in cities, thereby creating high land values. These values necessitate the erection of immense buildings, sheltering hundreds of human beings, which has brought about the development of the expert building manager. Little by little, through experience and the economical management of his building, he has acquired skill in keeping a full house of satisfied tenants, at the same time showing a balance on the right side of the ledger. The forming of local associations and the national association, bringing together these skilled managers of the separate buildings, who are willing to give from the abundance of their experience and learn from the experience of others, has created the profession of building management, and the up-to-date professional building manager has arrived. Therefore, the capitalist with a desire to erect a large building in the downtown section, need no longer hesitate in making such an investment, because of doubt of finding a well qualified manager, capable of handling it with profit. The building manager's first contribution to downtown development is the encouragement of the investment of capital in buildings.

"The building manager plays an important part in the development of the character of the downtown section, by placing in his buildings the right kind of occupants. He can make or break a neighborhood in the choosing of his tenants. First-class, live, active merchants, with brilliantly lighted and well dressed show windows help to build up a neighborhood. We have had many experiences in having property injured by bad tenants coming into a block, hurting all of the property in the immediate section.

By carefully watching his tenants, and in the making of leases, the building manager, as the section improves, weed out those who are undesirable and harmful.

Help in Minor Details.

"The building manager can help the business section by seeing that his sidewalks are in good order, that the cellar doors on these walks are flush, so that there will be no obstruction in the walk. If the street needs paving, he can encourage the property holders not to oppose the improvement, for there is nothing that helps a business section like a well paved street, and good sidewalks free from obstructions. He can also start a campaign for prohibiting projecting signs. We did this in a block of stores. All projecting signs are dangerous.

"The Emerys were the first to erect, in the downtown section, the modern apartment building, in one case putting up a beautiful eight-story stone front flat building, in a neighborhood which had formerly been the fashionable downtown residence section of our city. The erecting and good management of this building helped materially to retard for many years, the running down of this neighborhood.

Civic Centers.

"Many of our large cities are planning civic centers, with a view of grouping all the public and semi-public buildings in one downtown section, thus centralizing all public business and transportation facilities, the buildings to be of uniform style of architecture, and the grounds around them to be beautified. This idea has developed the city planning commission. Here is a grand opportunity for our building managers to contribute from the abundance of their experience to the development of these civic centers, by interesting themselves personally and taking part in everything pertaining to the selection of the sites, and the planning of the buildings. They should, in fact, be represented on this planning commission, and where there is a local association, it should be most actively interested.

Traffic.

"Our building managers should concern themselves with transportation facilities in their cities, especially in the downtown districts. The location of the entrances to stations of underground and overhead transportation plays an important part in land values and rent to be obtained from buildings in the immediate neighborhood. The bringing in of the electric interurban to the centers of our cities and the location of the terminals in the downtown district is vital to its development and to real estate values and rents.

"The lighting of the downtown districts with boulevard lights has been taken up in a great many of our cities. Here is another chance for the building manager. In the downtown development, comfort stations are now being placed in the business sections. It is important that the building manager interest himself in the location of these stations.

As to Building Height.

"The question now before the authorities in many of our cities is limiting the height of buildings in the downtown section. I am glad to say that the local Building Owners' and Managers' association is taking an active part in a great many of our cities in endeavoring to decide this perplexing question. We see in the downtown section of our cities, tall buildings, buildings with towers, buildings with ornamental fronts, built not only for investment, but to house and advertise the owners. A building manager, engaged in time, can work with the architect and make these colossal piles attractive.

"The United States government has recognized the National Association of Building Owners and Managers as a factor in the planning of government buildings to be located in our cities, by requesting the appointment of a committee to inspect plans and make suggestions to the government architects.

"A building manager, alone, cannot contribute to downtown development. He must have the assistance of all the building managers in his city, and also of all the owners. Therefore building managers' associations should be formed in all our cities, where there are a number of large buildings.

"In a great many of our cities, the authorities are at work on some form of taxation for real estate, which will be fair to all. Here, again, our building manager can take part in the endeavor to unravel this question, for he knows that with high values and tax rates, especially in the downtown section, the return from his building is reduced.

"Insurance companies are constantly increasing fire rates, which increase eats into the revenue of our buildings. By the improved methods of modern construction and protection that the building managers are developing and applying from their experience and the experience of others, they should be able to reduce the insurance rates materially, not only for themselves, but for their neighbors.

A building manager can do a great deal in preventing legislation detrimental to the down town section, and can help along that which will benefit.

"My opinion and observation is that the owners are not properly educated up to the importance of our national and local associations. They are either too busily engaged with matters other than their buildings or they are absolutely lacking in the spirit of the times, which is co-operation and helpfulness."

Superior

"WILD MAN" SCARE OVER.

The "wild man" scare that has been working the sheriff's office overtime for several days has been solved.

According to Edward Kalmer, a dairyman living near South Superior, the disrobed man who would make dashes to the underbrush on the approach of people was a former workman on his farm who was washing his clothes on the banks of the Nemadji river. It is believed that the alleged "appearances" of this man at other times were principally a matter of imagination on the part of those who made the reports. The man was supposed to have been seen at several different places and each report was followed by the sending of a hunting party by the sheriff. The man is said to have dashed to cover when first seen by A. Hendrickson about a week ago. He was then nude and it is claimed he was washing his clothes on the river bank.

Charge "Blind-Pigging."

SPANKING LEADS TO POLICE COURT.

Mrs. Mary Horcike was in police court yesterday on a charge of assault preferred by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Kate Bolin. The assault, according to Mrs. Horcike, was incited by spankings given her children by their grandmother. Mrs. Horcike had gone to discuss the spankings with her mother-in-law and during the argument the assault is said to have taken place. The judge postponed the case until July 18.

DEPENDS ON ONE POINT

If Farrell Ballots Are Totally Void, Silberstein Wins Mayoralty.

Would Win By About Ten Votes—Case Through Soon.

In the event that the courts sustain his contention that all votes cast for mayor at the April, 1913, municipal election on ballots not conforming with the city charter provision for the preferential system of balloting for the office of city commissioner should be thrown out, Bernard Silberstein, merchant candidate who was declared defeated by the canvassing board, will prevail in his legal fight to unseat Mayor William I. Prince. This has been practically conceded by O. J. Larson and Neil E. Beaton, attorneys for Mayor Prince.

Mr. Silberstein is basing his contest upon the theory that all votes which were thrown out as illegal by the courts in the Farrell-Hicken-Murchison contest are also illegal as to the mayoralty count. J. B. Richards, attorney for Mr. Silberstein, bases his case in court on subdivision (b) of section 44 of the city charter which was adopted at a special election held on Dec. 3, 1912, and under which the municipal election of April, 1913, was held. This section reads as follows:

"If a ballot contain more than one vote for the same candidate, only the one of such votes highest in rank shall be counted. All ballots shall be void which do not contain first choice votes for as many candidates for commissioners as there are commissioners to be elected. If a ballot contain either first or second choice votes in excess of the number of offices to be filled, no vote in the column showing such excess shall be counted."

Former Contests.

In the contest waged through the courts by James A. Farrell against Commissioners W. A. Hicken and Roderick Murchison, the court held out 436 ballots because they failed to conform with the preferential system of balloting. This point was not raised as an issue in the McEwen-Prince contest, owing to the fact that at the time the recount was made in the mayoralty contest it was stipulated between Attorney Larson for Mayor Prince and the attorneys for the various other contestants that no ballots should be set aside or disputed on account of the fact that there may not have been votes for the four or the full amount of those candidates who were running for the office of commissioner, or on account of any irregularity affecting merely the vote of the other commissioners.

When the contest came for trial yesterday, Attorney Richards stated in court that he did not care to be bound in court by any stipulation which he might have made with Attorney Larson with reference to the recount. He stated that the stipulation or some such agreement had been entered into at the time of the recount merely for the purpose of expediting matters. The stipulation was not put up in writing and neither was it made in open court and according to strict legal practice Mr. Silberstein and his attorney cannot be bound by it.

Attorney Richards stated this morning that the insinuation which counsel for Mayor Prince had made with reference to the stipulation to the effect that he was trying to repudiate his agreement was unfounded. He stated that the agreement had been entered into for the purpose of saving time in the recount and that this purpose had been accomplished. He also stated that any stipulation which might have been entered into with reference to a recount would not bind a contestant on the trial of the issues in the contest for the reason that what was agreed upon at a recount is not admissable as evidence if objection is offered. On this point, Attorney Richards was sustained by the court.

Standing of Candidates.

With three ballots in dispute and not considering the 436 votes which are attacked by Mr. Silberstein in his contest, the relative standing of the candidates is conceded to be: Prince, 3,143; Silberstein, 3,137. This gives Mayor Prince a lead of eleven votes, which might be cut down to eight if the court allows the three disputed ballots to be counted for Mr. Silberstein.

If the contentions of Attorney Richards are sustained and the 436 ballots are thrown out by the court, the relative standing of the two candidates would be altered, as it is claimed that the proportion of the votes which Mayor Prince received was greater than that received by Mr. Silberstein.

The exact standing has not, as yet, been figured out by the attorneys representing the contestants. Last evening all but sixteen of the 436 rejected ballots in the commissionership contest were gone over and the count showed that Mr. Silberstein had received eighteen votes less than did Mayor Prince, which in the final analysis would place the former about six to nine votes ahead. It is believed that when all the votes are counted and the present lead of Mayor Prince is discounted, Mr. Silberstein will have a clear majority of approximately ten votes, providing his legal point prevails.

Yesterday afternoon Edward A. Silberstein, son of the contestant, took the witness stand and testified with reference to an inspection of the 436 ballots which was had before the regularly appointed inspectors in the commissionership contest shortly after the recount of the vote on commissioner was held.

This recount or inspection, the witness testified, was had only in the presence of the three inspectors, Attorney Richards, a representative from the city clerk's office and himself. It developed that none of the other mayoralty contestants or their representatives or Mayor Prince or his attorney were present at the time the ballots were inspected. Neither was there any testimony throwing light upon the question of whether the others interested in the mayoralty fight were apprised of the fact that an inspection of the ballots was to be made by Mr. Silberstein's representatives.

Inspectors on the Stand.

This morning, A. T. Banning, Jr., Victor Stearns and John E. Manthey, who acted as inspectors of ballots in the commissionership contest, were called to the stand by Attorney Richards. Each testified as to what occurred in the city clerk's office at the city hall on the day that the inspection of the ballots was had by Attorney Richards and E. A. Silberstein. Each stated that the ballots were not tampered with in any particular and that after inspection, they were returned to the envelopes from which they were taken.

It also developed from the testimony that just before the inspection was started, O. J. Larson, attorney for Mayor Prince, and William E. McEwen came into the room and after expressing some surprise as to the presence of the inspectors and the attorney for Mr. Silberstein in conference, were asked to withdraw unless they were willing to share the expenses of the inspectors, which the witnesses testified neither did. The inspectors were each paid $10 a day for a day's work.

Charles S. Palmer, city clerk, and Robert S. Taylor, an official reporter of the district court, were called as witnesses to testify as to the custody of the ballots at different times since the recount and as to the unlikelihood of any one tampering with them.

It is expected that the case will be submitted tomorrow on the arguments of the attorneys.

MARKET IS STILL WEAK

Wheat Slightly Easier on Heavy Receipts and Good Crop News.

Flaxseed Is Off on Light Trading—Crushers Are Indifferent.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 14.—The market was weak up to the close. July wheat closed ⅜c off; September 1¼c off, and December ¼c off. July durum closed 1½c off and September ¼c off.

Oats closed ⅝c off at 33¾c for on the track and to arrive. Rye closed unchanged at 57c for on the track or 56c for to arrive. Barley closed unchanged at from 38@50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 38¾c, and October at 36c.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 78¼c bid, and calls at 79¼c bid.

Wheat showed a sagging tendency again today with fractional declines recorded during the first three hours trading. Liverpool closed substantially lower as a result of liberal offerings of American wheat and expected heavy clearances this week. Under that condition the unfavorable reports from Russia were overlooked there for the time being.

Advices from over the American Northwest were again favorable all around. Experts now going over the three states agree that the outlook is good in all sections. The weather of late has not been conducive to the spread of black rust in South Dakota and the damage from that cause is thought have been small up to the present.

Winnipeg reported that the promise is for an average crop over the Canadian Northwest, though the drouth has gone to cut down the crop in many districts. There have been good rains over Alberta during the last couple of days and further precipitation is promised.

A weakening market factor now is the pressure of new fall wheat marketings and the certainty of their assuming enormous proportions in the near future. Today, for example, 1,155 cars of wheat were received at Chicago, compared with only 258 cars last year. The Kansas City cash market broke sharply today as a result of the large receipts there. It is reported that this is one of the prevailing low prices Kansas farmers are arranging to store wheat on a large scale. Graneries are being built on the farms and in districts to provide facilities, as it is realized that the public elevators at the leading points are certain to be soon filled up.

Wheat stocks at Duluth have shown an apparent increase of 82,000 bu during the last couple of days. From that, however, is to be deducted 350,000 bu spring wheat and 119,000 bu of durum, loaded on steamers but not yet reported out of store.

July wheat opened unchanged at 89¼c and weakened fractionally up to the closing hour. September opened unchanged at 80c and was also slightly off. The December option opened unchanged at 80⅞c and held there. July durum opened unchanged at 85½c and sold off ½c and September opened unchanged at 81¾c and weakened ⅛c. The volume of trading was comparatively light all around.

Flax Turns Weak.

Flaxseed turned weak as a result of favorable crop reports and better offerings. After a slight show of activity at the opening, trading became quiet with crushers showing little interest. Final prices showed declines of ⅞@¾c in the day.

The foreign markets were comparatively strong, Antwerp closing 1¼c up and Buenos Aires unchanged.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.62⅞ and closed ⅝c off at $1.62; September opened unchanged at $1.65 and closed ¾c off at $1.64¼ bid. October opened unchanged at $1.65¼ and closed ⅝c off at $1.64½ and the November option opened ⅛c off at $1.65 and closed ⅝c off at $1.64½ asked.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed at $1.41½ bid and October at $1.45½ bid.

Wheat is expected to figure more prominently in transatlantic traffic in the near future. Spot freight rates on wheat to Liverpool from New York are now 5 cents a bushel, and to London 3½ cents. The movement is still comparatively light, although 568,000 bu. passed through New York last week, of which 140,000 in the leading cargoes went to Hull and Manchester. The old wheat is being worked off rapidly and almost wholly through the hands of final distributors who have contracts to meet.

Crop experts estimate that the United States should export this crop year 225,000,000 bu. of wheat allowing 50,000,000 bu. as substitute for corn in domestic feeding until the corn crop is available. That is being done now in Southern Illinois where wheat is 10 cents cheaper than corn, in Central and Western Kansas where wheat is 20 cents cheaper than corn, and in some other sections.

United States will have fully 130,000,000 bu. more available for export this year than last year, assuming that the combined winter and spring wheat crops aggregate 930,000,000 bu. There were exported up to July 1 from last years' crop about 135,000,000 bu. compared with 142,000,000 bu. the previous year, and there have already been 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 bu. of new wheat sold for foreign consumption.

The government weather reports says there were high temperatures and deficient rainfall over the great agricultural districts. In the winter wheat belt, it was warm and a generally dry situation prevailed. The spring wheat region was warm and dry. In the corn belt it was generally favorable west of the Mississippi river, from Kansas and Western Missouri, northward as far as Minnesota. In the east portion there is very little black rust and if the weather remains favorable I think there is very little danger. It is clear with a cool north wind today. Wheat is in blossom and the crop needs eighteen days more favorable weather to mature. This territory is an important wheat country.

Chicago public and private elevator stocks—Wheat total 1,437,000 bu, increase, 906,000 bu, last year, 1,285,000 bu; corn, 2,524,000 bu, increase, 10,000 bu, last year, 6,416,000 bu; oats, 2,586,000 bu, decrease, 58,000 bu, last year, 9,796,000 bu.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool — Wheat, lower American cables and weakness in Winnipeg yesterday promoted further selling at the opening and values were ½ to ⅝d lower. Spot market was weak and cargoes more freely offered and cheaper offers of winters, with a slow demand for forward shipment. Inquiry to keep prices at lower level notwithstanding unfavorable reports from Russia and less favorable European crop prospects.

The movement of American new crop and the high grading with expectations of liberal clearances, together with private reports received here of the good promise for American spring wheat, are controlling factors at present. At 1:30 p. m. prices were ½ to ¾d lower.

"Corn—Lower American cables and better weather in Argentine caused selling at the opening with prices ¾d lower. Later, there was an advance of ¼d in July, with shorts covering on decreasing stocks and unfavorable grading of Plate arrivals. At 1:30 p. m. it was unchanged to ⅜d lower."

European visible wheat 64,616,000, against 61,808,000 bu last week, an increase of 2,808,000 bu.

Lewis wired Baker—"Sunday and Monday I drove over 100 miles by auto through the northeast section of South Dakota, where two-thirds of the wheat acreage lies. I found no black rust north of Aberdeen, but from that point south to Huron, it was present in nearly every field. It has done no damage yet, and is confined to the Jim valley from Aberdeen south and extends only a few miles east and west. Except for this factor, the prospect in the Jim River valley is the finest I have ever seen, and if no serious damage results from rust, the entire valley will average twenty bushels to the acre. Cutting of velvet chaff will start in ten days and blue stem the first of August. Around Watertown and in the hills north to Summit, the crop is just an average one, but from Webster to the state will make a new record in wheat production."

Summary of weather and crop conditions in the corn and wheat region for the week ending July 13, 1914. Washington, July 14, 1914.

Weather continued favorable for harvesting in northern portions of the winter wheat belt, favorable for growth and for preventing rust. Weather favorable for corn in all Northern and most of the Central states, but drought is beginning to injure prospects in Southern Iowa and in Oklahoma and is severe in Eastern Missouri and immediate Ohio valley, including Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia. Corn is doing well in most Eastern districts. Haying and oats harvesting is progressing satisfactorily but yields are short in many sections, especially the Ohio valley and southward. Tobacco is suffering greatly in Kentucky where much land is not planted, and in portions of surrounding states, but elsewhere it is generally satisfactory.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Steadied By Reports of Black Rust Damage.

Chicago, July 14.—South Dakota reports of heavy damage from black rust steadied the wheat market today in the face of bearish cables. The amount of territory affected by the plague seemed to have been considerably widened and it was said that in the districts where the rust prevailed the durum wheat was the only variety which had escaped harm. Opening prices, which were a shade to ¼@⅜c lower, were followed by a recovery to last night's level.

Absence of export demand counted later against the bulls. The close was nervous, ⅛@¾c to ⅝c under last night.

Predictions of rain weakened corn. Selling pressure, however was not heavy. After opening ½c off to ⅛c up, the market underwent a decline all around.

Afterward the market rallied owing to reports of severe damage in the South, but the effect on prices failed to last. The close was steady at a net decline of ⅞@¾c to 1@1¼c.

Oats sagged with corn. The July option, especially suffered from lack of support.

Enlarged receipts of hogs made provisions ease off. Lard held up better than pork or ribs.

Wheat—No. 2 red, 78@78¼c; No. 2 hard, 78¾@79¼c; No. 2 northern, 87@88c; No. 2 spring, 86@87c. Corn—No. 2 yellow, 70½@71c; No. 3 yellow, 70@70¼c. Oats—No. 3 white, 35½@37½c; standard, 38@38½c. No. 2 rye, new, 59@c; barley, 48@56c; timothy, $4.00@5.25. Clover, $11.00@13.00. Pork, $22.80. Lard, $10.27. Ribs, $11.75@12.12.

STOCKS MAKE RECOVERIES

Market Closes Strong After Day of Irregularity.

New York, July 14.—After much irregularity, the result in large part of bear selling, today's stock market made sharp recoveries in the later dealings, many of the leading issues recording material net gains. The close was strong.

General heaviness prevailed in today's early dealings. In no instances of importance was the slightest gain over the preceding day's closing quotations recorded, while most of the leaders opened lower. New Haven, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Norfolk & Western and New York Central declined material fractions. Canadian Pacific lost a point, falling under yesterday's low price, and Consolidated Gas lost as much. Partial recovery ensued before the end of the first half hour except in New Haven, where selling was resumed.

New Haven was again the feature, declining on heavy dealings to 54¼ against its previous low of 55½. New York, Westchester & Boston bonds, guaranteed by New Haven, added a point to their 10½ point loss of yesterday. Selling of New Haven had the marks of a bear raid, but was none the less effective. Many high-grade as well as obscure issues fell below yesterday's prices, but most of the leaders held firm. Canadian Pacific, Wabash preferred, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, and Missouri, Kansas & Texas made new low records. Bonds were irregular.

Support for New Haven produced a rally in which earlier losses were generally recovered. Canadian Pacific, Reading, Lehigh Valley and St. Paul were above yesterday's closing prices, while the Goulds and related issues were comparatively strong with gains of 1½ to over 2 points. The market weakened again, however, on selling of Baltimore & Ohio.

The list made steady recovery from the attack on Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central, and continued to harden. New Haven made up more than half its loss and some of the leaders were at best prices, notably Steel, Union Pacific and Amalgamated.

COPPERS ARE MORE ACTIVE

Trading in mining stocks became more active toward the close at Boston today. Business was, however, monopolized by a few issues in some of which small advances were recorded.

Alaska Gold closed 50 cents up at $27.13; Butte & Ballaklava unchanged at $2.75; Butte & Superior, 25 cents up at $36.50; Granby unchanged at $79; Greene-Cananea, 50 cents up at $29.25; North Butte unchanged at $24.50; Shattuck unchanged at $23, and Amalgamated Copper, 38 cents up at $69.88.

In the curb list there, South Lake closed at $5.50 bid.

Keating was the feature in the Duluth curb list, several blocks changing hands at $2. Calumet & Sonora sold at 70 cents and Alex-Scott at $5.13.

A large number of shareholders are in attendance at the annual meeting of the Butte-Alex Scott Mining company being held this afternoon. The financial report for the year presented by the president, N. F. Hugo, was regarded as satisfactory. It showed that including $60,000 received from the Anaconda Copper company in settlement for ore taken from the shaft, and the balance carried forward from last year the income aggregated $284,003.44. After paying three dividends amounting to $110,698, during the year, a cash balance of $49,383.85 remained to carry forward.

There had been shipped from Feb. 1 to July 1, 45,563 tons of ore, assaying 4.53 per cent in copper and small values in gold and silver. The net smelter proceeds from it amounted to $244,783.59. The shaft in the mine was reported to have been driven down to the 2,050-feet level.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following market comment from New York: "The interstate commerce commission's report on New Haven was the most active influence in the comparatively heavy selling of the general list during the afternoon. The weakness of Canadian Pacific on what was attributed to London and Berlin selling, was another disquieting factor, causing distrust of the report of improving conditions in Germany and Austria. These happenings in connection with weakness in several issues from purely local causes seemed to bring a complete revulsion of speculative sentiment yesterday. Meantime liquidation in securities has been pretty thorough and prices rule at a level which would seem to preclude a further decline of any very serious proportions."

At St. Louis lead closed dull at $3.75 nominal and spelter dull at $4.80.

BUYING POWER
FOUNDATION OF PULLING POWER

"Evidently the foundation of the pulling power of different classes of advertising lies in the buying power and condition of life of the readers and subscribers to the publication."—From Article in Judicious Advertising by F. W. Henderson.

The above quotation from one of the influential advertising trade publications expresses the judgment of publicity experts in many lines of advertising activity. In Duluth and its trading zone discriminating advertisers apply the quality test and find that it is met by The Duluth Herald. This paper has unusual pulling power because its circulation is confined to the people with real buying power—the permanent, earning element in the population.
